As for the lightning dragon, it was attacking Wilson, Mandy, Geoffrey, Sally, Nicole and Bladefeather. The lightning dragon was by far the deadliest of the five dragons for it could not only shock you horribly with lightning powers but it could shock you even if you touch it so physical contact was out of the question. Bladefeather learned that painful lesson the hard way when he flew towards the dragon and tried to claw it in the neck with his talons. The moment he touched the dragon, he got a horrible shock and was brought down onto the ground by the shock. Bladefeather cringed as electricity crackled through his feathers painfully. The others thought it'd be wise not to touch the dragon since all that did was get them hurt. Wilson drew his arm back and he threw his spinning blade weapon at the lightning dragon, hoping it would at least sever a wing or even its head off. The dragon just zapped the weapon with a lightning bolt and disintegrated it instantly. Wilson's response to that horrifying turnout was to put his tail between his legs and flee like a frightened puppy (well he was one once until he grew up). Mandy took off a grenade that she had on her belt and she threw it at the dragon. The dragon just disintegrated it with a lightning bolt as it had done to Wilson's weapon. Mandy cursed her bad luck and she ran for it before the dragon could zap her, as much as it pained her to run and hide since she hated doing that. Geoffrey aimed his crossbow at the dragon and began firing exploding darts at it. Because they were so small and coming in so rapidly, the dragon didn't have much chance to zap them all and ended up missing a lot of them. The darts hit the dragon's body and they all exploded as they hit it. But given the dragon's immortality, the darts didn't hurt it much or even kill it for that matter. They did however make the dragon cry out in pain and fire furious bolts of lighting at the Mobians. They all dodged the zaps and Sally drew out her bladed staff. She held it like a javelin and she threw it at the dragon, aiming for its heart. The dragon was in such a fury that it didn't notice the staff and the staff hit it directly in the chest. But you remember that this is an immortal dragon that they're up against so the attack, as well-aimed and accurate as it was, did not kill it. It did however leave the dragon screeching in pain and growling furiously at its opponents. The dragon flew down towards the ground, low enough for Sally to leap up and grab her staff and then yank it out of the dragon's chest, giving the squirrel her weapon back and leaving the dragon screeching in more pain for removing something from a wound can hurt very much. Bladefeather flew in and threw showers of daggers at the dragon, neither of them doing any good and the dragon tried to slice him in two with the sharp lightning bolt on the tip of its tail. Bladefeather dodged and just attacked some more.

The wind dragon was up against Tails, Cream, Cosmo, Ruben & Sora. The wind dragon was one deadly opponent for it could just blow everybody away with a single breath. The wind dragon could even start hurricanes if it wanted to. Tails and Cream both flew towards the wind dragon and they drew their arms back, ready to fist the dragon in its eyes but the dragon simply opened up its mouth and blew them away with a big gusty breath of wind. Tails and Cream were strong fliers but even they succumbed to the mighty winds of the wind dragon. The two were blown through the air but they weren't brought down to the ground for their respective flying appendages were keeping them airborne. Ruben tried to give a helping hand by squirting the dragon with water from directly underneath it but the dragon took the attack and it looked down at the ground and blew a gust of wind at Ruben, forcing him down on the ground and pinning him there. However since the wind dragon was distracted with Ruben, Tails and Cream had the perfect opportunity to sneak up behind it and attack. They both kicked it in the sides of its head, making the dragon groan loudly and then the two fliers punched the dragon in the eyes, earning a very loud roar of pain from the dragon. Because the dragon wasn't blowing on Ruben anymore, Ruben was able to get back up and attack again. Ruben aimed his hands at the ground and he fired jets of water out of them, sending himself shooting up into the air and flying up towards the wind dragon. Ruben landed on its head and he began unleashing his ninjitsu on it, hitting it in several places and making the dragon cry out furiously. The dragon however effortlessly shook Ruben off of itself, sending the water panther falling down towards the ground. Tails and Cream were all too quick to fly down and catch him though before he could become a nasty stain on the ground. Sora decided to try and stop the dragon by taking an orb off her belt and aiming it at the dragon. It was her grappling hook orb and she fired the hook at the dragon. She was hoping to skewer the dragon with the hook on her orb. The hook ended up wrapping itself around the wind dragon's neck and Sora pulled on the rope, trying to bring the dragon crashing down. But what chance did a twelve year old fox cub have of downing an enormous dragon? The dragon just pulled on the rope, yanking the orb out of Sora's hand and it bore down over the little superspy. Sora backed away, terrified of the enormous dragon that she was up against. The dragon opened its mouth and started blowing a gust of wind at Sora, pinning her down to the ground as it did so. Ruben decided to save Sora by leaping in and squirting the dragon's face, making it aim its wind away from Sora and blow somewhere else as its head was hit. Sora smiled gratefully at Ruben and she picked herself up. Cosmo picked up some large stones and she threw them at the wind dragon's head, hitting it in several different places, including its jaws and eyes. Big mistake for the dragon turned around and blew her away with a gust of wind from its jaws. Tails was livid to see the dragon do that to his girlfriend so he flew towards the dragon and he kicked it on the nose. The dragon fumed at Tails and snapped it jaws at him, making the fox back off quickly.

Sonic, Kai, Mushu & Matilda were fighting the fire and water dragons respectively and even they weren't faring too brilliantly in this battle. Sonic and Mushu were against the water dragon and try as much as they could, all that ended up happening was them getting drenched by the aqua-based dragon. The dragon showered Sonic with a wave of water and brought Mushu down with a squirt of water as he tried to jump onto it. Sonic picked himself up and he spin-dashed the dragon in the side of its face. Mushu picked himself up and he jumped onto the dragon's shoulder. He bit it on the neck as hard as he could with his sharp teeth but the dragon took the bite as if it wasn't much of a bite and it squirted Mushu off of its shoulder with a jet of water. Sonic spin-dashed the dragon in the face again but the dragon tail-whipped Sonic away before he could spin-dash him again. The attack brought Sonic down on the ground and the hedgehog winced in pain. Over to the fire dragon, it breathed fire at Matilda and Kai but the two kung-fu warriors dodged the attack and they somersaulted up into the air. They landed on the dragon...and ended up leaping back off of it with very hot feet. The fire dragon was quite literally, hot to the touch, making it the hardest one to fight for physically touching it just resulted in getting burnt. Matilda and Kai rubbed their feet better and they looked up at the fire dragon, wondering how to take it down given that they couldn't touch it without burning themselves. While they were wondering on that, Sonic ended up getting smacked down to the ground by the water dragon and he landed just beside Matilda and Kai. Sonic picked himself up and he grumbled in annoyance.

"Those dragons are really tough guys!" grunted Sonic "We're all getting whupped out here!"

"They are tough indeed Sonic." said Matilda gravely "I'm not sure if we can defeat them. The fire one in particular can't even be touched, it's so hot to the touch that just trying to attack it results in us burning ourselves!"

"So much for trying to subdue them then." muttered Sonic "How will we stop them now?"

"I don't know." said Matilda helplessly "I've never fought a dragon before, I don't know how to stop one!"

"Maybe WE don't hae to stop them." suggested Kai "Maybe we could get them to stop each other...after all, creatures with elemental powers have a nasty habit of fighting with each other if they're even so much as slightly provoked by another. "

"Wait a minute..." said Matilda, taking in what Kai had just said "You mean...trick them into fighting each other? That's a good idea master! We could get them to fight each other and that'll distract them long enough for us to get to their seal and stop them for good! It's bound to work, especially since dragons like fighting, especially each other!"

"Good thinking there sir." said Sonic with a thumbs up "And I'm just the hedgehog to trick these dragons into fighting each other..."

Sonic whizzed off towards the water dragon and he yelled up to it.

"Hey! Blue boy! Come and get me if you think you're fast enough!" taunted Sonic.

The water dragon just opened its jaws and squirted water at Sonic. Sonic ran out of the way though, leaving the water dragon to just soak a patch of ground where Sonic had once stood. The dragon flew after Sonic and squirted at hm again. However, the fire dragon was lumbering towards Sonic too and Sonic ran under the fire dragon as the water dragon squirted. This resulted in the water dragon drenching the fire dragon and earning a bloodcurdling roar of agony from it as its fires were quenched by the water dragon's power. The fire dragon simply reignited itself and it roared furiously at the water dragon. It lunged at the water dragon like a mad dog and it bit it furiously on the neck, pinning it down on the ground with its powerful front limbs and it sank its teeth as deeply into the water dragon's neck as it could. The water dragon tail-whipped the fire dragon on the head to make it let go and then it squirted water at the fire dragon, making it cry out in pain and putting its flames out again. The fire dragon reignited itself and it breathed fire at the water dragon, burning it ever so badly for the water dragon was quite sensitive to heat. The water dragon squealed a loud screech of pain as its skin was scorched by the dragon's fire. The screech attracted the attention of the other dragons and they began to wonder what was going on. They saw that the fire and water dragons were fighting each other and they ran over to join in (dragons like to fight after all). Soon all five dragons ended up fighting each other. The rock dragon fired boulders everywhere, the lightning dragon electrocuted everybody and the wind dragon tried its best to blow everybody away while the fire and water dragons fired fire and water at each other and the other dragons. Lord Sycorax's jaw dropped at the sight of this.

"No you idiots! Don't fight each other! Destroy the heroes!" he shrieked at the top of his voice.

But the fighting dragons took no notice of Lord Sycorax, they were too busy fighting each other. The Royal Fighters all saw that the dragons were preoccupied right now and they all gathered around Sonic, Kai, Matilda & Mushu.

"Hey, the dragons are fighting each other!" cried Tails "Did you trick them into doing that Sonic?"

"You bet I did." said Sonic smugly "Now let's get over to that seal thingy that they were imprisoned in and put them back into it!"

"I recommend using my warp ring Master Kai." said Sally, taking the warp ring out of her vest pocket and handing it to Kai "In order to use it, just visualize the location and flick the warp ring up. It should open a portal to wherever you want to go."

"Very well then child, I shall do that." said Kai, taking the warp ring off of her.

"WAIT JUST A COTTON-PICKING MINUTE HERE!" shouted Sonic at the top of his voice "Why didn't we just do that in the first place?! That could have saved us a lot of trouble!"

"Oh...sorry. I didn't think on that." said Sally with a rather solemn look on her face "It's amazing how when you're occupied, the most obvious of good ideas don't come to you until later. Oh well, doesn't matter, we're doing it now."

"Actually, only I am doing it." said Kai "You see, there's no need for us all to go to the seal. Only one of us is needed to go and it shall be me. I know how to work the seal after all."

"Oh OK." said Sonic "So, it'll just be a quick warp ring trip over to the dragon's seal, seal them back in and there we go right?"

"I am afraid it is not that simple Sonic." said Kai, shaking his head sadly "For you see, the seal has a terrible side-effect. In order to open it and seal the dragons back into their prison...someone must sacrifice their own life."

Everybody gasped in surprise to hear this amazing and yet saddening bit of news.

"Somebody...must sacrifice...their own life...just to seal the dragons back up?!" gasped Sonic.

"And...you're gonna be the one to do it right?" asked Tails.

"That is correct little child." said Kai, looking sadly at Tails as if the very thought was depressing to him.

"No!" wailed Matilda, throwing herself into Kai's arms and almost causing him to drop the warp ring "No you can't! Please don't sacrifice yourself master! I haven't learnt everything I need to learn yet! I haven't even mastered inner peace yet! I can't let you go yet!

Please don't leave us master!"

"I'm afraid I must my sweet princess." said Kai, hugging Matilda and looking into her eyes sadly "The world will cease to be if the dragons are allowed to roam free. They must be sealed away for the good of everybody. Besides, I'm old and I've lived my life. It is time I moved on now. And also, I believe you have learned enough Matilda. Now is the time for you to carry on...without my guidance. But remember that with my teachings and what I have taught you...I will never truly be gone. I will still be there for you Matilda."

"I understand master." said Matilda, tears trickling down her face and grabbing Kai's robe quite tightly as she hugged him "Master...sniff...I'm gonna miss you." she sobbed, crying into her master's robes while Kai patted her on the back.

"It has been an honour teaching you my child." said Kai softly "And it honours me to think that my teachings will live on through you and will lead you to great things in the future. I bid you farewell Matilda." he said, breaking up the hug and preparing to leave.

"Goodbye master." said Matilda, wiping some tears away "I will always remember you...and you'll always be in my heart."

"Thank you." said Kai, flicking up the warp ring over his shoulder "Goodbye everybody...and may you all continue to be strong and may you bring honour to us all."

The warp ring expanded to several times its size and opened up a portal leading to the dragon's seal. The Royal Fighters, feeling for Matilda, said a few goodbyes to Kai and even waved farewell to him. Bladefeather and Mushu bowed to the elderly master and Tai, shedding tears of his own, waved goodbye to Kai too. Kai shed a tear of his own as he stepped through the open warp ring. Sally held onto it so she'd be able to get it back after Kai left. He warped over from where they were now to the cave where the seal was located. He stood upon the seal and he began to recite the ancient spell that would seal the dragons back into the prison. Kai held his arms out and began to mutter some strange words under his breath. The circle in the centre of the prison began to spin around as Kai muttered away and huge beams of energy were building up as the circle spun, illuminating the cave with bright, dazzling glows and electrical energy crackled all around the kung-fu badger. Kai closed his eyes as the energy began to surround him and the lid of the prison opened up. The energy surrounding Kai pulled him into the seal and then the beams that had been building up from the spinning circle all flashed out of the cave and extended out to where the five dragons were. The beams all touched the dragons and stopped them dead in their tracks as if the beams had just suddenly frozen them with a simple touch. The Royal Fighters watched in amazement as the beams engulfed the dragons and then another incredible thing happened. The dragons all dissolved away into the beams like an ice-cube in a glass of cola. It was like the beams transformed the dragons so that they could be taken away by them. Lord Sycorax watched, open-mouthed in horror as the dragons dissolved into the beams and then the beams took them all back to the cave. The beams retracted away back into the cave and then back into the seal. The energy that had surrounded Kai disappeared along with the beams as the dragons were pulled back in and the seal closed back up, trapping the dragons back inside it for good. Kai had been disintegrated during the whole thing, leaving nothing of him behind. Kai was gone forever, his legacy being the only thing that will live on now. But at least the dragons were defeated and sealed away for good now. Back over to the Royal Fighters, they safely assumed that the deed had been done and the dragons had been sealed away now. Matilda ended up breaking down in tears and she put her hands over her weeping eyes. Bladefeather decided to comfort his fiancée by wrapping his arms around Matilda and hugging her tenderly. Matilda just hugged Bladefeather back and cried on his shoulder.

"Oh master!" wailed Matilda "I can't believe that he's gone forever! Oh I'm gonna miss him so much!"

"I understand my flower." said Bladefeather softly "At least Kai gave himself up for a good cause. His sacrifice will not be in vain for he stopped those abhorrent dragons."

"I know..." sobbed Matilda "But...I feel like he's left me too soon. I still feel like there's so much more he could teach me."

"Well precious, maybe now is the time for you to learn new lessons on your own." said Tai, patting his daughter on the back "After all, there are times where the student must learn without the teacher after all."

Matilda was still crying over Kai's death but she took in what her father said and began to feel that he was right. As hard as it was going to be for her, Matilda would have to carry on without Kai and maybe learn new lessons as she went along. As for Lord Sycorax, he was going metal with rage over what had happened. He had found five powerful dragons and they had all been sealed away just like that. What a blow to what was shaping up to be a new invincible Region of Rebellious Reptiles.

"NOOOOOOOOO! NO, NO, NO, NO, NO, NO, NOOOOOOOOOOOOO!" bellowed Sycorax in rage "HOW CAN THIS BE?! I FIND THE FIVE LEGENDARY DRAGONS AND THEY ALL GET SEALED AWAY AGAIN! NOOOOOOOOOOO!"

"Well you'd better believe it dad because your plan's gone belly-up." said Vector coldly, bashing his fists together "And now you are going back to prison where you belong!"

Lord Sycorax stopped ranting just long enough to register the fact that the heroes had suddenly surrounded him and Vector was walking up to him menacingly. Before he even had time to react, Vector drew his arm back and punched him directly in the face as hard as he could. Vector may not be as strong as hard hitters like Knuckles but he did pack quite a punch, so much in fact that Sycorax was knocked clean out. The egotistical maniacal crocodile was now lying on the ground on his back and completely unconscious. Romeo and Vladek decided to do the only remotely logical thing they could do now...surrender. Romeo and Vladek raised their arms up as a sign of surrender. Satisfied with this turn out, Sally stepped forward, her hands on her hips and a very stern scowl on her face.

"In the name of the Kingdom of Acorn and the Kingdom of Chun-Nan you three are under arrest for the heinous crimes of anarchy, destruction of an important landmark, attempted murder and for costing the life of one of Chun-Nan's finest warriors and the mentor of Princess Matilda." she said "No lenience shall be shown towards you, your sentences are life in prison...all three of you."

"Good one Sal." said Sonic "So we'll just be taking these jokers back home and leave Chun-Nan in peace right?"

"You all can go." said Sally "But I'm gonna stay a little longer. I want to get Chun-Nan's Royal Fighter communication resources set-up and...maybe even comfort Matilda a little." she added, looking sadly at the still weeping princess "I know she's got her dad and fiance with her but still..."

"We understand." said Sonic "It's awful nice of you though. So we'll see you later I guess?"

"Yes Sonic." said Sally "I'll come home once everything's set up here. See you soon."

She flicked the warp ring up into the air for Sonic and friends to go through and take Sycorax, Romeo and Vladek back home to New Mobotropolis. Vector, Knuckles & Shade picked up Sycorax altogether (he is a heavy croc after all) and they carried him through the warp ring. Romeo and Vladek just stepped through it with the others keeping an eye on them to make sure they didn't get away or try anything dodgy. Sonic waved goodbye to Sally before he parted through the warp ring and Sally waved goodbye too. As the Royal Fighters vanished through the warp ring, Sally grabbed it before it could close so she'd get it back and be able to use it to get home once everything was done in Chun-Nan. Sally put the warp ring away and she turned to Tai.

"So your honour, where shall we start?" she asked...

And that's it for this chapter. Poor Matilda...:(She's lost her master...she'll be fine don't worry. So what did you guys think? Leave a review and express your thoughts if you please. Feedback is very much appreciated here.

Tune into the spin-off series* Tales from Mobius *where Sally learns some interesting things about Matilda's past. You may have heard her story before but you've not heard the WHOLE story yet so don't miss it! :D

As for this one, get ready for the return of Shadow the Hedgehog and a certain albino echidna as we enter "Fintievus' Gambit"...

BIG SPECIAL thank you goes to my most dedicated and loyal reader, Kratos Pwns, for coming up with the idea. All credit goes to him for making this episode possible. Thank you very much for the idea pal. :D

Finitevus's Gambit Part 1

Story 155: Finitevus' Gambit Part 1

Sonic the Hedgehog and his friends had had it tough recently. They had been invited to a birthday party by Princess Matilda that ended up getting ruined by the Region of Rebellious Reptiles and the Spiders of Anarchy and then a streak of light had ended up showing up and taking all of the Reptiles and Spiders sans Lord Sycorax, Romeo the Chameleon and Vladek the Frill-Necked Lizard and then after that, the Royal Fighters had ended up fighting against dragons of all creatures, and not just any dragons but FIVE legendary dragons and the battle ended with Matilda's mentor, Master Kai Zen, sacrificing himself to seal the dragons away. It had been a tough time for Sonic and his friends but right now though the Royal Fighters weren't up to anything, they were having a relaxing time right now. They were all home in New Mobotropolis, save for Queen Sally Acorn who was still in Chun-Nan and over-seeing new developments in the country*, and taking it easy for nothing much was happening right now and they weren't needed for anything. Now I know what you're thinking, this doesn't sound very exciting does it? Well get ready for this is about to get more interesting. While the Royal Fighters were relaxing from their tough time in Chun-Nan, some one else was on the move and on a mission. And that somebody was Shadow the Hedgehog. Shadow had heard about some odd goings-on in an old laboratory and he was going over to investigate the so-called "odd goings-on". He had a feeling that Dr. Eggman was behind all of this since an old laboratory sounded like the kind of thing that Eggman would be interested in. Shadow was hoping that Eggman would be there since he had just recently heard from the Royal Fighters that Eggman was, to his disappointment, still alive and he was hoping to finish him off, this time for good. It really made Shadow furious to hear that Eggman was still alive and he was all too happy to finish him off for good. He skated through the forests, keeping an eye on the coordinates he had been given to the laboratory. He eventually came across the laboratory after a long while of skating through the forests and he skated towards it. He skated up onto the roof of the laboratory and bent down on one knee. The laboratory was old and run down so nobody would be working in it at this moment. The laboratory was huge and had various dome shapes around it. A large spire protruded proudly from the roof of the laboratory and its dull silver colour scheme was beginning to go brown with rust as the metal work began to deteriorate. It was clear this laboratory hadn't been used for a very long time. Was Dr. Eggman planning to refurbish this laboratory and use it for his own nefarious needs? Whatever Eggman was up to, Shadow would foil it. That is, if Eggman is even here at all. Shadow took a cautious look around and he pressed a button on his wrist-mounted communicator that he had been given by the R.F.S. so they could remain in contact.

"Hello Rouge? This is Shadow the Hedgehog." he said softly into the communicator "I've found the lab to which the "odd-goings on" are supposedly happening. I'm getting ready to infiltrate."

"That's very good honey." came the sexy voice of Rouge the Bat on the other side of the communicator "I really do bet that Eggman's behind all this. I mean an abandoned lab would easily be the kind of thing he's interested in wouldn't you agree?"

"You have no idea how strongly I believe this is Eggman's work." said Shadow grimly "If it is him then I'll make sure that he is put down for good! I'll call you if I need any help at all. I know I may not need it but it never hurts to have some aid."

"I agree Shadow. I'll call you later." said Rouge "Good luck in that laboratory."

"If Eggman's in there then my luck's just going to get better." hissed Shadow with a dry smile on his face.

Shadow switched off his communicator and he looked around for a way inside the lab. He searched all over the dome shaped roof he stood upon until finally he found a way inside. He saw a glass circular window further across the roof. Shadow slid down the domed slope of the roof and he managed to stop himself by the window. He punched the window and broke the glass instantly. Shadow crawled through the window and he jumped down onto a supporting beam that stretched across the ceiling. The room was completely dark save for one single spotlight shining onto the floor below. Shadow began to wonder what was going on. For a laboratory that had some "odd goings-on" in it, it seemed pretty empty and calm. The dark atmosphere of the room and the single shining light did not suggest much odd things were going on. Still, Shadow was here to investigate so he was going to do just that, investigate this scenario and see what the fuss was about. Shadow warped down to the spotlight and he stepped into it. The light shone over him as he stepped into it and Shadow looked around, wondering if he could make anything out at all. He couldn't see anything at all. It was just too dark for him to see.

"Hello? "Is anybody here?" asked Shadow, squinting into the darkness "Come out and show yourself if anybody's around here!"

That was when much to his surprise, more lights turned on and fully illuminated the room, causing Shadow to jump in alarm. Shadow braced himself for he thought something was going to happen. As soon as all the lights had turned on, Shadow looked ahead of himself and saw somebody that he was not expecting to see at all. Dr. Eggman wasn't here at all, it was the nefarious echidna scientist Dr. Finitevus, uncle of Knuckles the Echidna and just downright creepy and evil. He had some Egg-Pawns by his side and the sinister echidna had a face as dark as a thundercloud. The Egg-Pawns had their weapons primed and ready to shoot Shadow. Shadow stared at Finitevus, wondering who in the name of Mobius he was but he didn't show much signs of surprise. He just narrowed his eyes and smirked at Finitevus.

"A poor excuse for a trap if I ever saw one." he crowed, not seeing much danger whatsoever.

"Actually…" said Finitevus darkly, whipping something out from his cloak pocket and throwing it at the floor.

The thing he threw at the floor split into eight metallic parts and they hovered around Shadow. The eight metal pieces looked like corners of a cube and were made of a brilliant steel with a flashing blue light in the centre of each piece. The corners formed around Shadow as if they were becoming a cube of some kind and then suddenly, the pieces all emitted a blue square of transparent light that protruded from each piece, forming a cube of blue light all around Shadow as if the pieces were magically conjuring up windows of some kind. It was like making a holographic cube around Shadow but Shadow had a feeling that this whole thing wasn't just a light show, he had a feeling it was something more serious. Finitevus smirked at Shadow and he put his arm back under his cape, the magnificent cape now joining up in the middle and forming the unique star emblem on it now both his arms were down.

"THIS is the trap." he sneered.

Shadow drew his arm back and he punched at the blue square in front of him…and was thrown down onto the floor by the square reacting violently to his punch. When Shadow punched it, it glowed brightly and pushed on him with a great force as if an invisible hand had pushed him away. Shadow picked himself up and wondered what had happened. Finitevus walked up to Shadow and smirked evilly at him, his evil eyes narrowed down to dark slits of pure devilishness.

"This is simple holographic cage." Finitevus explained to the imprisoned Shadow "It can trap anything it's used on for the rather prodigious holographic technology used to make this perfect trap can expand to any size so I could even incase a building if I wanted to. It also has a rather strong defence system, if you try to break out at all it just throws you down on the floor. There is NO escaping this trap Shadow the Hedgehog."

"Oh yeah?! What's to stop me from warping out of here?!" growled Shadow furiously.

"It siphons any special power the trapped person has." crowed Finitevus "Magnanimous isn't it? You're stuck in there Shadow the Hedgehog and you cannot do anything about it."

"Why you…wait a minute, how do you know my name?" asked Shadow curiously "Have we met?"

"No but thanks to excessive research done after ten years in the void and joining forces with Dr. Eggman, I know who YOU are Shadow." gloated Finitevus, tapping his brainy head conceitedly "I know that you're a scientific experiment intended to be a weapon for a now extinct alien race. I know that Eggman used to have you under his control, I know that you're an ally of Sonic and friends… and I ALSO know you have a lot of Chaos Energy in you and have incredulous power. Power that I might have to seize for myself…" he added with a twisted grin as he pictured taking Shadow's power.

"You won't have my power whoever you are!" growled Shadow "Let me out of this thing so I can kill you!"

"Oh why would I do something so illogical?" snorted Finitevus "I value my life thank you very much and I'm all too happy to keep it. By the way, the name's Dr. Finitevus." he added with a glare.

"Whatever, you'll be sorry you imprisoned me Finitevus!" growled Shadow threateningly "When I get outta here, you will need to be scraped off the floor!"

"Highly unlikely given my aggrandized state of battle prowess." sneered Finitevus "Enough talk, we have a delivery to make. Dr. Eggman is expecting some supplies to be deliver to him via train and he's tasked ME with delivering the goods and defending them from any potential hijackers and infiltrators."

"Why does Eggman need deliveries?" asked Shadow curiously.

"Because he's sending out Egg-Pawns all over Mobius to any abandoned factory he can find and is ordering them to collect any useful supplies from those labs so that he may use them for his own good, as well as expand his underground base." explained Finitevus "This is why we're here. I did also intend to set a trap for the Royal Fighters at the same time and now you've stepped into it so we have more than just supplies to deliver to Eggman. You're coming with us and I will deliver YOU to Dr. Eggman personally…so that I may use his resources to take the power you possess, if he lets me that is..." he added with a sinister slither in his voice as he said this.

"What do you want my power for?!" demanded Shadow.

"So that I may become the most powerful threat on all of Mobius." declared Finitevus "I'll make the heroes pay for imprisoning my master and for defying his will and I will make Mobius a glorious, chaotic paradise for everyone to enjoy. Provided they wish to enjoy it…" he said in a menacing voice as he thought over the fact some people might dare to disagree with his view on the perfect world.

"I won't let that happen!" declared Shadow "I am Mobius's defender and I will protect it from you! You will not harm anyone and use my power for bad!"

"We'll see about that." purred Finitevus "Now then, Egg-Pawns, get Shadow loaded onto the train. We don't want to keep Eggman waiting do we?"

The Egg-Pawns obeyed and they all walked up to the holo-cage. They picked it up by the four bottom corners of the cube and they carried it off out of the lab with Dr. Finitevus in front. They left the laboratory and walked off to catch Dr. Eggman's train. And before you wonder, no this is not a train that runs on railway tracks. Dr. Eggman doesn't have time for those. Instead, Eggman had built a hover-train to deliver all his goods. It was much more efficient and convenient for the fat scientist who was now encased inside the body of E-123 Omega. Finitevus and the Egg-Pawns walked a good few metres until finally, they came across the hover-train, or "Egg-Train" as Eggman was (obviously) calling it. The Egg-Train was the size of a Japanese bullet train and the train itself had Eggman's face sculpted onto it. It had six carriages, all full of supplies from the various laboratories it had been going to and it had hovering pads in place of wheels. Its colour scheme was red and yellow with some black in there, proper making you feel that this was a piece of Eggman machinery. Finitevus and the Egg-Pawns boarded the train and poor Shadow was placed in the first carriage by some supplies that were tightly packed up in boxes. The Egg-Pawns left the carriage and boarded the train so that they could drive it away and be off to Eggman's base. Finitevus boarded another carriage so that he could do some tidying up in it for the second carriage was a bit messy. This gave Shadow the perfect moment to call for help. He pressed a button on his communicator and spoke into it.

"Rouge? It's Shadow. I've been captured and trapped inside a cube with force field walls." said Shadow quietly "I need some assistance, I can't break out."

"Oh dear…I'll be right there immediately." said Rouge "Where are you?"

"I'm sitting in the carriage of a holo-train near the lab I went to investigate." explained Shadow "I don't think I'll be there for long though, the train's getting ready to leave. I'll leave my communicator on so you can track its signal to my location."

"OK then Shadow, I'll be there as quick as I can." said Rouge "Hold on for me will you?"

"I will." said Shadow "Please hurry."

With that said, Shadow stopped talking but he left his communicator on so Rouge could use hers to track its signal to him. Shadow could do nothing but sit tight and hope that Rouge can find him before they get to Dr. Eggman. Otherwise he was going to end up on the dissection table and his power taken from him by Dr. Finitevus…

Meanwhile at Royal HQ, the young super spy Sora Prower was sitting at the computer monitors in the lab and she appeared to be up to something. On the computer monitor screens, there were satellite images of Mobius and Sora was looking hard at them. She was using satellite imagery to see if she could find any streaks of light going on at all. After the one in Chun-Nan, the Royal Fighters had decided to start researching more thoroughly on them. Most of them were making the most of the day though but Sora, who had her brother Tails the twin-tailed fox, Ruben the Water panther and Sonic the Hedgehog himself behind her, was seeing what she could find out using satellite imagery on the computer monitors. The satellites offered a great view of Mobius so Sora could study every landscape of the planet for anything that looked strange or out of the ordinary. Unfortunately, she couldn't seem to find anything. Everything looked completely normal, there didn't seem to be any streaks of light in the sky at all. Sora massaged her temple in annoyance and she sighed over her progress. She was dying to find out more about the streaks of light that had been appearing randomly for days now and everything was completely normal. What did a Royal Fighter have to do to find something out?!

"Ugh…why do the streaks of light NEVER show up when we want them to?" sighed Sora "Notice how one seems to appear when we least expect it but none show up when we start looking for one?"

"I noticed that too." said Tails with his fingers curled over his pursed lips "It's almost like the streak of light can pick and choose when it wants to come out and it knows not to come out when we're looking for it. Obviously that won't be the case but it'll be weird if it is true."

"I agree little brother." said Sora with a slow nod of the head "It will truly obfuscate me to think that a random streak of light has intelligence to some degree. But of course, it won't have intelligence of any kind because it's just some weird phenomenon, they don't have minds of any kind."

"I just think we're really bad at picking times to investigate these things." muttered Sonic, tapping his foot impatiently "It seems one's not gonna show up today so let's pack up and try again another day."

"In a minute Sonic, I'm going to have one last scan-over." said Sora "Then I'll call it a day."

"Hey when you've done that Sora, maybe you can give me some climbing lessons?" asked Ruben bashfully "I've been wanting to take some climbing lessons for a while now and I think a spy like you would be the…um…best person to teach me how to climb."

"Sure cute stuff, I'll do that." said Sora brightly "We'll go in the training room once I'm finished."

The simple name of "cute stuff" coming from Sora to Ruben was enough to make the water panther blush bright red. He was very happy that Sora had accepted his offer. He was growing quite fond of her and he wanted to spend some time with Sora. He'd just scored a lucky break by asking to be tutored by her. Tails picked up on Ruben's blushing and instantly assumed something.

"Hey Sonic, do you think Ruben's got the hots for Sora?" he whispered "He's blushing after Sora called him "cute stuff" and he seems rather happy to have her as a tutor."

"I've noticed Ruben seems to quite like your sister." said Sonic casually "In battle, the two have been taking turns at watching each other's back and saving the other's life. I think the two might start getting hitched if this goes on. And I'd be happy if that happened, Ruben's a great guy and Sora's an amazing spy, the two would be perfect together."

"I agree." said Tails "Also, it gives Ruben someone to love now Cosmo's with me. Ruben quite liked Cosmo too after all."

"You do realize that we're still in the room you two?" noted Sora sternly "We can hear what you two are saying behind our backs you know."

The conversation between Sonic and Tails had left Ruben blushing even more now. Sonic and Tails chuckled nervously at Sora and Sonic began rubbing the back of his head.

"Heh, sorry about that." said Sonic.

"What we mean to say is we're very happy that you're going to teach Ruben how to climb." said Tails meekly "It'll be very good for him."

"I agree." said Ruben "I can't forget the times I've gotten in trouble because of my poor climbing skills…"

The conversation was interrupted by the sudden appearance of an opening warp ring that made everybody jump in alarm. Was Dr. Finitevus invading Royal HQ? Likely since he had been in Royal HQ and thus, would be able to visualize the place and use his warp rings to get into it. Luckily though, that wasn't the case for the warp ring opening up didn't belong to Dr. Finitevus. It belonged to Queen Sally Acorn. She had finally finished her work in Chun-Nan and had decided to come back home. Sonic, Tails, Sora and Ruben all beamed happily at the return of Sally and Sally beamed at back at them, pleased to be home after working away in Chun-Nan for a bit.

"Hi Sally!" cried Sonic happily, rushing up to her and grasping her in a hug "How did it go over at Chun-Nan?"

"Hi Sonic, good to see you again." said Sally, returning the hug "As for Chun-Nan, it's going very well thank you. The communication equipment is setting up nicely and Matilda's home is under construction and coming along nicely. Chun-Nan's recovering well from what's happened to it recently. You might be surprised to hear this but Matilda even told me a story about her past while I was there. It was a very interesting story to hear I thought."

"Cool." said Sonic "I'm glad to hear all that. As for here, nothing much is happening. We're mostly sitting back and relaxing right now. Sora's looking up satellite imagery to see if there's any tears in the sky going on at all. Nothing's happening though, the skies are perfectly clear still."

"Oh I see." said Sally "I hope we find out more about those tears in the sky soon enough before they get any worse. I'm worried over what will happen if one shows up again. We might lose somebody if one shows up again."

"We won't lose anybody Sally, I promise you that." said Sonic "We'll find out what the deal behind the streak of light is and we'll find out how to stop it before anyone else gets taken and that's a promise."

"That might not be an easy promise to keep Sonic but I'm glad you're optimistic about all this." said Sally happily.

"Optimism is one of my best friends after all." said Sonic "Optimism often helps me get through a tough situation after all."

"Hey guys! There's something you've gotta see!" cried Sora.

Sonic and Sally were beside the computer and staring at the screen in one second flat. Tails and Ruben were joining Sonic and Sally in watching the computer monitors and looking at what had caught Sora's attention. Sora had been having one last look for any tears in the sky and had instead ended up spotting the Egg-Train hovering through some sandy plains and heading for goodness knows where. What really caught Sora's attention was the fact the train had Eggman's face on it, instantly telling her that it belonged to him. Whatever the train was for, it could not be up to any good. The Royal Fighters would have to deal with this and deal with it quickly. Sonic frowned at the screen as he watched the Egg-Train hovering quickly through the plains.

"Is that a train?" wondered Sonic "And it has Eggman's ugly mug on it. It MUST be his train or something."

"Exactly." said Sora "If it's Eggman's train then it must be up to something fishy. We have to get over and stop the train. I bet it's going to deliver something important to Eggman and we must not allow him to get his hands on whatever that train's delivering him."

"I agree Sora, we have to stop that train." declared Sally "We'll gather up all the Royal Fighters and get the hover-saucers so we can get to that train."

"Uh, wouldn't warping there be quicker?" asked Sonic "I mean we have a warp ring you know."

"I can't visualize that train for I don't know what it looks like inside so we can't just warp onto the train." noted Sally "The hover-saucers will have to do. Sora, where is the train?" she asked.

"According to where the satellites are looking…it's travelling through the Great Plains and heading towards the Northern Border of Megapolis." said Sora.

"Then we'll get going to the Great Plains then." said Sally "Come on team members, let's get the Royal Fighters together and stop that train."

Sonic was all too happy to oblige. He, Tails, Sora and Ruben all ran out of the lab with Sally leading them and they headed off to get the rest of the team and get going to stop the Egg-Train. Little did any of them know, they were about to get more than they bargained for once they boarded the train…

Meanwhile, Rouge the Bat was flying over the Great Plains herself. she was using her communicator to track Shadow's coordinates and she had ended up arriving at the Great Plains. She was ahead of the Egg-Train so with any luck, Shadow would come straight to her. Rouge had heard from Shadow he was on a train so she had brought with her something to stop the train. A simple little bomb. She wasn't going to throw it directly at the train though as she could easily hit the wrong carriage and kill Shadow by accident. She was planning to throw it at the ground and make the train stop dead in its tracks so she could get onboard and rescue Shadow. So in order for her plan to work, Rouge had been tracking Shadow's coordinates and flying in a different direction so she would end up ahead of the train. Rouge flew above the ground and she eyed her communicator. Shadow's signal was identified by a flashing bleep on the screen (the communicators have tracking devices on them too so if the person you're talking to needs help but can't state where he/she is, you'll be able to find him/her) and it was moving across the screen from the north-west direction. The train would be coming from the north-east towards her, just perfect for her plan. Rouge smiled a sexy smile to herself.

"Ha, ha…the train's coming my way." she purred "Now I'll teach those goons what happens to those who kidnap Shadow."

Rouge looked into the distance and she could see something moving over the horizon. Trials of dust were flying up into the air as the thing moved through the plains. Rouge speculated that it might be the Egg-Train coming and how right she was to do that for that's exactly what was coming. The Egg-Train was cruising through the plains and heading towards Rouge. Rouge could vaguely make out the iconic Eggman face sculpture on the front of it. She had a feeling that was the train Shadow was on. It couldn't be any other train. Rouge took the bomb into her hand and prepared to throw it.

"Get ready boys, this train's going to make a sudden stop…" said Rouge icily.

Over to the Egg-Train itself, Dr. Finitevus was standing at a nearby computer monitor mounted in the wall of the carriage interior and he was talking to Dr. Eggman. Shadow could only sit in his holographic cube prison and listen as Dr. Finitevus and Eggman conversed with each other. Finitevus seemed oddly enough to have no intentions of revealing to Eggman he had Shadow in his grasp. Finitevus just seemed to be informing him on the train's delivery.

"Greetings Dr. Eggman, you will be very happy to know that the Egg-Train is on its way back to your base as I'm speaking to you now." announced Dr. Finitevus "The supplies will be deliver to you momentarily."

"Excellent work Finitevus!" cackled Eggman delightedly "Oooooh I can hardly wait to see what my new laboratory will look with these new supplies from those old, unused laboratories spicing things up! It maybe a big case of "What's old is new again" but it'll benefit me most brilliantly for I'll have more resources and I maybe able to make my underground base bigger and better! You know what they say, the more the merrier!" he added with a chortle.

"Yes, indeed." muttered Finitevus in a bored manner of tone "I'm happy I could have been of assistance Eggman and I look forward to seeing how MY lab will look, provided you get one built for me in your base as you promised." he added with a stern growl in his voice.

"Oh fie, I haven't forgotten you at all Finitevus." said Eggman "You'll get what's been promised to you, don't worry about that."

"Good." said Finitevus "Now then, if you want to know how I wish for my laboratory to look, I shall give you the details…"

The conversation was brought to an abrupt halt by the sound of a huge explosion coming from further up ahead and the train breaking to a very acerbic halt that ended up throwing Finitevus onto his side. Finitevus cringed as his body sharply knocked against the floor and pain surged up his arm. The echidna scientist wasn't down for long though, he picked himself up and growled furiously. The train was under attack! How dare somebody attack him in his moment of glory! Eggman looked surprised at what had just happened and so did Shadow although Shadow also had a hopeful feeling in his stomach that it was somebody trying to rescue him.

"What was that?!" cried Eggman worriedly.

"I'll call you back…" said Finitevus in a soft, growling voice. He switched off the computer monitor and he barked into a nearby intercom.

"Egg-Pawns! Investigate that explosion now!" he ordered.

The Egg-Pawns that were guarding the second carriage obeyed and they ran outside to investigate the mysterious explosion that had forced them to stop. As the Egg-Pawns ran out to investigate, Finitevus stuck his head out the window. He could see the Egg-Pawns running over to where the bomb had hit and were instantly looking around for who could have done this. The train had stopped just inches away from where the bomb had hit. The Egg-Pawns stood around the blackened circle left behind by the bomb and they primed their weapons. They looked around for any signs of the bomb-attacker. Then suddenly, something flew out of nowhere and destroyed all the Egg-Pawns! It was Rouge using her powerful screw-kick attack. She moved so fast that the Egg-Pawns just didn't have time to react at all, they were destroyed in seconds by the bat. Finitevus gasped at what he saw and he deduced that help had come for Shadow. He knew how to deal with something like that though. Finitevus walked away from the window and he stomped on a floor panel with his heel. The panel bounced up into his hands and he lay down in the space the panel had been placed over. He put the panel on top of himself, leaving no evidence that it had been moved and making the floor look just like a floor. He was hiding in the floor so he could ambush Rouge for he knew she'd be coming to get Shadow. He had studied plenty on Rouge too and knew that of all people, she liked Shadow the most. As for Rouge, now she'd destroyed all the Egg-Pawns, she ran over to the train and looked through the window to the first carriage of the train. To her delight, Shadow was in the carriage and looking perfectly OK. No harm had come to him thank goodness. Rouge opened the door and let herself in. She beamed at the sight of Shadow.

"Shadow! There you are, I've found you!" she cried "Hang on honey, I'll get you out of that nasty trap you're in."

"Rouge look out!" cried Shadow frantically.

Too late. As Rouge stepped forward to help Shadow, the floor panel ended up being kicked off the floor and sent smacking into Rouge! The panel was so large and heavy that it ended up knocking Rouge down on the floor. Had it been any heavier, the bat would have been crushed instantly. Shadow gasped in horror as Finitevus climbed out of the floor and cackled at Rouge.

"I'll hand it to you, you're a sneaky and clever woman Rouge the Bat." purred Finitevus "But not entirely aware of ambushes. One would think a treasure hunter like you would be a bit more cautious."

Rouge pushed the panel off of herself and got back to her feet.

"Who are you and how do you know who I am and what I do?" demanded Rouge coldly.

"I am Dr. Finitevus and you are getting off this train!" cackled Finitevus.

He then suddenly jumped up into the air, grabbed onto an overhead railing and kicked Rouge squarely in the gut. Rouge was sent flying out of the carriage and onto the sandy ground outside with a heavy thump. Rouge took a moment to ease the pain in her back while Finitevus closed the door and ordered the train to get moving. The Egg-Pawns obliged to that order and they started up the Egg-Train immediately. The Egg-Train started to hover away but Rouge got back onto her feet just in time to fly towards it and grab onto a rail on the second carriage. Rouge held on tight as the train picked up speed and heavy gusts of wind started to blow in her face. Finitevus looked out of the window and to his annoyance, Rouge was clinging onto the second carriage and trying to edge her way towards the first carriage. Finitevus decided to deal with Rouge once and for all. He ran over to a red box with a sheet of glass over it that was bolted to the wall and he broke the glass. Behind the glass was a long barrelled emergency rifle that fired some powerful shots when in use. Finitevus took the rifle out of the box and he clocked it. He then ran back over to the door. Shadow was horrified to see this.

"No! Don't you dare hurt her!" yelled Shadow furiously.

Finitevus ignored the hedgehog and he opened up the door. The door slid open and Finitevus leaned out through out, holding onto a safety rail so he didn't fall out the train. Rouge was still holding onto the second carriage and she was trying her best to get to the first carriage. Rouge saw the rifle in Finitevus's hands and she gasped in horror.

"Didn't I tell you to get lost?" snarled Finitevus "Let me make my point a little clearer…"

He then pointed the rifle at the horrified Rouge and aimed at her head, ready to blast it clean off. But Rouge wasn't going to lose her head any time soon for Rouge jumped into the air and screw-kicked towards Finitevus. She made very sure that she was aiming at the right angle so she would kick him and land inside the train. Her aiming was perfect and she hit Finitevus squarely in the chest and sent him staggering backwards into the train. Rouge landed on the floor and closed the door behind her so that Finitevus couldn't kick her back out of the train. She lunged at the evil scientist in the black cloak and seized his rifle. She tried to wrestle it out of the mad doctor's grasp but Finitevus held on tightly. In an attempt to intimidate Rouge and make her let go, Finitevus pulled the trigger and started firing randomly around the interior. The sound of the shots made Rouge's very sensitive ears ache and the shots punched holes into the steel walls of the carriage but Rouge held on still. Finitevus wrestled the rifle towards Shadow and fired at the cage. The shots bounced harmlessly off the cube's barriers but the noise the ricochets made was enough to make Shadow cringe and clutch his ears. Rouge yanked on the rifle but Finitevus still wouldn't let go of it. Then Finitevus yanked on the rifle and being as he was much stronger than Rouge he wrestled it out of her grasp…a little too hard though and the rifle ended up flying into the window where it smashed straight through it and fell out of the train. It crashed to the ground and broke into pieces, rendering it completely useless now. Finitevus however didn't need a weapon, we already know he's one of the best fighters Sonic and friends have ever faced. Finitevus lunged at Rouge and clouted her across the face. Rouge retaliated with a kick to the jaw on Finitevus and she then grabbed the doctor into a headlock, bending him forward and wrapping her arm around his neck. Finitevus however pushed Rouge into the wall and slammed her there to make her let go. Then he twirled around and kicked Rouge across the interior where she banged straight into a nearby rail. Rouge winced in pain and Finitevus jumped towards her. Rouge dodged the evil echidna but Finitevus grabbed onto the rail to stop himself from crashing into it. He spun around the rail and walloped Rouge in the head. Rouge was thrown down onto the floor but she managed to pick herself up in time to dodge another attack from Finitevus. She grabbed his cape and tugged on it. She swung him into the rail and then into the wall. She then threw him into the other wall and pinned him against it. Finitevus seemed more delighted than hurt from all of that eerily enough. Delighted in how Rouge was giving him a good fight that is. This didn't make Rouge feel very comfortable at all.

"Alright girl, you want to get rough? You'll see just how rough I can be!" crooned Finitevus.

He kneed Rouge in the gut and made her let him go. Rouge stumbled backwards a bit and Finitevus ran around behind her. He grabbed her arms, forced them behind her back and then kicked her directly into the door. Rouge's head ended up going through the window, shattering it and leaving her with some cuts on her face. Rouge rested against the door and rubbed her face better. Finitevus however added insult to injury by slamming the open button. The door opened up and ended up trapping Rouge's head between the window frame and the door frame! Rouge gagged ever so loudly as her head was practically being crushed by the door. Rouge would have suffocated had she not been able to find the button by feeling around for it and pressing it to open the door. Rouge took her head out the broken window and she kicked a nearby rail on the wall. She broke the rail off the wall and she picked it up. She swung it at Finitevus but she missed as he ducked down low. She lunged at him with the rail but Finitevus grabbed her arm and made Rouge hit herself in the had with the rail. Finitevus then wrestled the rail out of Rouge's hands and walloped her around the face with it. Rouge stumbled backwards and found herself backing up against a pile of crates. These crates contained the stolen supplies that the train was meant to be delivering to Eggman. Rouge picked one, despite how heavy it was, and she kicked it towards Finitevus. Finitevus just drew his leg back and kicked the crate away from himself. The kick ended up breaking the entire bottom section off and sending all the supplies falling out as they were knocked against the lid. The crate now had no top and no bottom. Rouge picked up the crate and she hoisted it above her head. She brought it crashing down on Finitevus…wrong side up that is. Finitevus just jumped through the gap in the crate to avoid any damage. He landed back on the floor and gripped the crate. He swung it upwards and walloped Rouge in the chin with it. Rouge was thrown down onto the floor by that powerful hit. Shadow could only watch as his friend was pummelled mercilessly by the vicious doctor. Rouge picked herself up and tried to kick Dr. Finitevus but she missed as he dodged again. Finitevus then jumped up to the ceiling and grabbed onto a panel that was mounted up there. He swung it down and sent it smacking into Rouge. The panel swinging down alone was enough to seriously hurt Rouge but what made it more painful was that Finitevus grabbed onto the ceiling and kicked the panel of its hinges and into Rouge. The panel threw Rouge onto the floor and kept her pinned down for it was too heavy for her to move off. Finitevus jumped down from the ceiling and he kicked the panel off Rouge. He grabbed her by the ears and yanked her up onto her feet.

"That'll teach you to interfere with my business you little brat." snarled Finitevus, a cruel smile spread out on his lips "You're finished now and Shadow will be next…"

He then proceeded to throw Rouge into the prison cube Shadow was trapped in. Rouge hit the holographic barriers on the cube and of course, was thrown away by them as she hit them.

Meanwhile, Sonic and the Royal Fighters had arrived in the Great Plains at last. They were speeding through the plains in hover saucers and whipping up clouds of dust as the saucers sped on. Sonic, Tails, Knuckles, Amy, Cream, Cosmo and Sally were in one saucer, Wilson, Mandy, Ruben, Bunnie, Geoffrey, Shade and Nicole were in another and Sora, Vector, Espio and Charmy were taking up the rear in a third saucer. It had taken them a while but they had made it to the plains at last and as of this moment, they were hovering towards the Egg-Train. Sonic had spotted it and all three saucers headed towards it. They all caught up to the Egg-Train and the lined up in single file beside the train. Sally gave Sonic the warp ring.

"OK Sonic, jump onto the train and get a good look at the interior." ordered Sally "Then use the warp ring to get inside. We'll all follow you inside once it's open."

"Got it." said Sonic.

Sonic jumped out of the hover saucer and he landed on top of the roof of the first carriage. He held on tight and he looked through the broken window to have a good look at the interior so he could visualize it and use the warp ring to get inside. As he looked through the window, he got the shock of his life. Dr. Finitevus was on the train and he was battling Rouge and had Shadow trapped in a cube with holographic barriers for walls! Sonic gasped at what he was seeing and quickly rose back up away from the window so Finitevus wouldn't spot him. As he did though, Rouge ended up getting slammed against the door.

"Dr. Finitevus is on this train?!" gasped Sonic "And Shadow and Rouge are here too?! This day just got more interesting…"

"Sonic! What's going on up there?" Sally called over to him from her hover saucer.

"You will NOT believe this Queenie!" Sonic called back to her "Finitevus is on this train and he's got Shadow captive and is beating the crud outta Rouge!"

"Oh no!" gasped Sally in horror "That mad man will kill her! We have to help Rouge and save Shadow now! Warp us on that train now Sonic!"

Sonic obeyed and he jumped off the train and back into the hover saucer. He flicked the warp ring into the air. It landed in front of the hover saucers, to which they all stopped immediately, and opened up a portal to the inside of the carriage. The opening warp ring made Dr. Finitevus and Rouge stop fighting and stare at it in wonder. Rouge had no idea what was coming and what the warp ring was about but Finitevus instantly managed to guess who was going to come through the warp ring. Now the warp ring was open, Sonic curled into a ball and he spin-dashed directly through the warp ring. He ended up spin-dashing Finitevus directly in the gut and sending him hurling across the interior into the back of the carriage. Finitevus picked himself up and growled as he saw Sonic and all the Royal Fighters piling onto the train through the warp ring. Shadow and Rouge both beamed happily at the sight of their friends. Sonic cracked his knuckles and he scowled at Finitevus.

"You know Finny? You've gotta be about the ONLY guy I hate as much as Eggman!" he said crossly "I owe you a supersonic migraine for what you've done to us in the past!"

"Easy Sonic, remember he's very powerful." Sally reminded him "Tails, you get Shadow out of that thing." she said to Tails "Everybody else, attack Finitevus at once! Don't give him much room to fight back!" she ordered.

"Got it!" said all the Royal Fighters.

"Oooooh I'm so gonna enjoy this Uncle!" snarled Knuckles, bashing his fists together.

Tails ran over to get Shadow out of his prison while Knuckles charged up to Dr. Finitevus, bellowing at the top of his voice and preparing to punch him. Finitevus dodged the punch and he spun around behind Knuckles. He grabbed the echidna's dreadlocks and swung him around by them into a pole. Knuckles winced in pain and Finitevus banged him against it again. Shade ran in and pile-dived Finitevus in the back, making him let go of Knuckles. Shade then grabbed the pole, swung herself around and walloped Finitevus with her legs as she spun around the pole. Finitevus staggered backwards after the punch but he wasn't down yet. Wilson charged in and tried to slice him in two with his spinning blade weapon. Finitevus dodged the lunge and grabbed Wilson's wrists. He twisted them sharply and made the dog let go of his weapon. Finitevus snatched it and swung it at Wilson. Wilson ducked and Finitevus then tried to stab him with the weapon. Wilson merely caught the blade between his hands and kept it there. Mandy took the opportunity to help her husband by charging in and punching Finitevus in the head. Given her knuckle attachments were on, the punch was made all the more painful. Finitevus grunted in fury and Mandy punched at him again. Finitevus ducked to avoid the punch and he grabbed Mandy's belt. He unclipped the belt and whipped Mandy across the face with it, the buckle being the end that hit her. Mandy screamed in pain as she was hit by the belt. Wilson picked up his weapon and tried to attack Finitevus but the echidna jumped over him and landed behind him. He then wrapped the belt around Wilson's neck and began throttling him with it. Wilson however managed to save himself by scratching Finitevus above the eye with his spinning blade. Finitevus winced and gripped his temple. Wilson unwrapped the belt from around his neck and he chucked it back over to Mandy. Mandy clipped her belt back on and the married couple then both kicked Finitevus in the gut. Finitevus was sent hurling into the arms of Vector the Crocodile. Vector squeezed Finitevus in a bone-crushing bear hug. Finitevus grunted and gasped for breath but he couldn't get free. Vector then threw him into a wall. The impact left a nasty dent on the wall. Finitevus picked himself up and he summoned a warp ring. He jumped through it and vanished from sight. He reappeared behind Vector and he pounded him in the back, knocking him down onto the floor. Finitevus then grabbed Vector's arm and swung him into Espio and Charmy as they ran to help their boss. The Chaotix were now lying on the floor, dazed and confused. Sally and Nicole charged in next. Sally tried to whack Finitevus with her staff but Finitevus caught her arm and held it there. Nicole punched at Finitevus but Finitevus caught her arm as well. Finitevus then kneed Sally's hand and caused the staff to hurl up into the ceiling where it stuck thanks to the blade. Finitevus leaped up and grabbed the staff, pulling it down from the ceiling and he butted Nicole in the gut with it. Nicole doubled over in pain and Finitevus ran around behind Sally. He pressed the staff against Sally's neck and pinned her against his body. Sally however remembered some wise words Matilda had taught her. Sally swung her head backwards and butted Finitevus directly on the nose. Finitevus cried out in pain and he let go of Sally. Sally retrieved her staff and she whacked Finitevus across the head with it. She tripped him up with the staff and sent Finitevus falling down onto his back. Finitevus picked himself up and he stomped on a floor panel. The panel was brought up into his hands and he threw it at Sally and Nicole like a Frisbee. Sonic jumped in and spin-dashed the panel away from the girls before it could hit them. Sonic homing-attacked Finitevus and knocked him down onto his back. Finitevus was quickly back on his feet and he grabbed Sonic by the quills. He whirled him around the front and kicked him into Sally and Nicole. The girls just caught him and helped him find his feet. Ruben squirted himself into the air and he landed in front of Finitevus. He punched at him but the mad doctor dodged his attacks, reached around and grabbed Ruben's tail. He slammed Ruben against the wall and unclipped his aqua-collar. Ruben however stomped on his foot and kicked him in the shin to make him release him. Ruben whirled around and snatched his collar back. He clipped it back on and squirted him into the wall. Finitevus growled furiously and he seized a nearby crate. He kicked it at Ruben and the crate hit the water panther, knocking him down onto the floor. Sora was livid and she tried to help but Finitevus jumped up, grabbed a rail on the ceiling and dodged Sora's attack. He swung his legs and kicked Sora in the head, knocking her down on the floor. But he was quickly brought down on the floor himself for Bunnie shot at him with her arm cannon. Finitevus was knocked down onto the floor by the attack. Amy, Cream and Cosmo all ran towards Finitevus but the echidna sent them away with warp rings. They ended up reappearing above Sonic, Sally & Nicole and the girls knocked them down onto their stomachs. Geoffrey fired some darts at Finitevus but Finitevus picked up a crate to shield himself. However…the darts were exploding darts and they blew up, destroying the crate and throwing Finitevus backwards.

Meanwhile Tails was trying to get Shadow out of the cube but he couldn't find a way to do so. He looked at it but he couldn't see a way of breaking in. The metal pieces that formed the barriers were also shielded to he couldn't destroy them. Then was when Tails had an idea. Who said he had to break anything? He had a way to get Shadow out already!

"Hey Sally! I need your warp ring!" Tails called over to the squirrel.

Sally tossed it over to Tails and ran back to the fight. Tails caught it and he summoned it. The warp ring opened up underneath Shadow and he ended up falling through it and reappearing just above the floor. Shadow was free at last! Rouge beamed at the sight of Shadow now out of his prison.

"Very clever Tails." said Shadow "Now I can help stop Dr. Finitevus."

All in good timing too for Finitevus had now grabbed Bunnie and was aiming her arm gun at everybody, making her shoot unwillingly at her friends. Geoffrey tried to save his girlfriend but Finitevus threw her upwards and sent her spiralling into Geoffrey. Knuckles ran in for another punch but Finitevus blocked his punch and punched Knuckles back. Shade Blade-Rushed Finitevus and struck him in the back, making him kneel down in pain. Knuckles then uppercut Finitevus directly in the face and knocked him into Shade. Shade kicked Finitevus away and the albino echidna landed beside the previously kicked up floor-panel that he had thrown earlier. Finitevus picked up the panel and he threw it at Knuckles. Knuckles punched it away but Finitevus only did it to distract him. Finitevus picked up a crate and he rammed into Knuckles with it like it was a battering ram. Knuckles was slammed against the wall by the crate. Shade tried to help but Finitevus just threw the crate at her. Then suddenly, he was spin-dashed by a black and red blur. It was Shadow. He spin-dashed Finitevus again and then grabbed him by his cloak. He punched Finitevus in the face and then threw him into the wall. Sonic ran in and the two hedgehogs ended up spin-dashing Finitevus together. Finitevus slammed against the wall very hard and he gasped for breath. He growled at his opponents and he staggered onto his feet. Sonic stood before Finitevus and pointed at him.

"Give up doc. You're outnumbered and you're running out of breath." he said "Stand down and make this easy for yourself."

"Especially now I'm free!" yelled Shadow.

Finitevus eerily enough…smiled at his opponents.

"You have no idea what you're up against…" he purred "Time for my contingencies to commence…"

He then whipped out a remote from his cloak and pressed a button on it. As he pressed said button, he also pulled out a gas mask and put it over his mouth. Nozzles extended out of the ceiling and started to fill the room with sleeping gas. The Royal Fighters all choked and spluttered as the gas began to billow all over the room and seep into their lungs…

Footnotes:

* We've seen all that haven't we in Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 19: Rise of a Warrior Princess

Finitevus's Gambit Part 2

Story 156: Finitevus' Gambit Part 2

Oooooh my goodness…what the heck happened to us…?

These were the thoughts of Queen Sally Acorn, a royal turned fighter, as she slowly but surely began to ascend out of unconsciousness. Today had gotten pretty surprising and eventful for the R.F.S. First Sora Prower, the super sleuth sister of Miles "Tails" Prower, had spotted a train that clearly belong to Dr. Eggman on Mobius's satellite images, then the Royal Fighters had gone over to stop the train only to find out Shadow the Hedgehog was being held captive on it by Dr. Finitevus of all people and Rouge the Bat was trying to save him and then the Royal Fighters had boarded the train to save Shadow and stop Finitevus only for the sneaky doctor to unveil a contingency plan he had hidden in his cape. Said contingency plan involved dosing the whole team with sleeping gas while he himself had a gas mask on so he wouldn't inhale any of it. The past few hours had been nothing but total darkness for the whole team and now Sally Acorn was beginning to wake up. Her thoughts returned to her head, her consciousness began to wake up and her eyes began to open, slowly but steadily. Sally fully came to and the first thing she noticed was that there was a roof above her head. But this was not the roof of a building of any kind, it was much too low. Sally sat up and suddenly noticed that there were bars all around her. Bars?! Bars and a roof?! This meant only one thing… Sally was in a cage! Sally instantly fretted and she gripped the bars of the cage. The cage was very small and very cramped. She couldn't stand up in it, only sit in it. Sally tugged on the bars desperately but try as she might, there was no getting out of this cage.

"Oh no! I'm trapped in a cage!" shrieked Sally "Let me out! Let me out of here right now!"

"Don't bother yelling like that your highness." muttered the voice of Tails "There's no one here but us and we're all in cages too."

Sally looked around and surely enough, she saw ALL the Royal Fighters sitting around trapped in cages just as she was. The cages varied in sizes depending on who was in them with Tails & Sora, Cream the Rabbit, Cosmo the Seedrian and Charmy Bee in smaller cages and Vector the Crocodile in a larger cage. The cages were spread out all over the room. Sally was horrified to see this, her whole team was locked in cages just like she was! How could things get any worse?

"Royal Fighters! Oh no, you're all trapped too?" gasped Sally in despair.

"Yep, we are your majesty." said Mandy Mouse grumpily "I hate to say it but we're trapped like rats right now."

"I really don't like this!" whimpered Wilson the Dog, huddling up in his cage and shaking like mad "I hate being trapped! It's not good for my nerves!"

"I can't believe this is happened to us!" fumed Shade the Echidna "Finitevus gassed us all and now he's locked us all in cages and is probably planning to do goodness knows what to us!"

"Given how he's a scientist, I bet he's gonna use us as lab experiments." said Amy Rose worriedly.

"I don't wanna be a science experiment!" whimpered Cream the Rabbit "I don't wanna be trapped in this horrible cage either! I wanna get out!"

"Well we won't be staying trapped for long." declared Sally "Hold on everybody, I'll have us out in…"

She reached into her vest pocket and pulled out…absolutely nothing! Sally's blood ran colder than a polar ice cap. She rummaged around in her pockets and then she even took her vest off and shook it madly. Nothing fell out. Her pockets were empty and she had nothing in her vest. Sally thought she was going to slip back into unconsciousness again. She dropped her vest on the cage floor in horror.

"M-m-m-my warp ring!" she gasped hoarsely "I-I-I-I-It's gone!"

"Finitevus must have swiped it while we were knocked out." sighed Nicole the Lynx, who was in a cage next to Sally's cage "We can't get out with it now, he likely has it back on his arm or something."

"I would try and bust outta here but I can't even stand up in this stupid cage." whined Amy "I haven't got enough room to swing my hammer around, heck I haven't got room for my hammer period! I can't get us outta here."

"I've tried breaking the bars to my cage but given how cramped it is in here, I can't use my full strength." sighed Vector "I can't get us outta here!"

"And don't bother hopin' ah can sugah because Finitevus literally took mah robot arm off!" shrieked Bunnie Rabbot who surely enough, was missing her robotic left arm entirely "There's no getting' out from me ah'm afraid."

"I can't Blade-Rush us outta here because my blades are gone." said Shade grimly "Finitevus must have confiscated them too."

"My weapon's gone too." said Wilson sadly "I'll be of no good."

"Don't look at me, my utility belt's been confiscated." said Sora in despair "I can't use any of my gadgets to get us out I'm sorry to say."

"And I doubt the rest of us will be of any use." sighed Cosmo the Seedrian "The rest of us don't have weapons or useful powers to break out."

"And my staff didn't fall out of my vest when I looked for the warp ring." said Sally "It must have been taken too. I can't use that to get us out. I'm afraid we're stuck in here." she said in defeat "We're trapped and there's no getting out for any of us."

"It's a pity Shadow isn't with us." muttered Rouge the Bat, who was covered in bruises and cuts from her unfortunate encounter with Finitevus earlier "He could just warp out of his cage and then bust us out."

"Wait what? What do you mean?" asked Sally curiously.

"Haven't you noticed sweetheart? Shadow's not here." noted Rouge "And neither are Sonic and Knuckles."

Sally looked around the room and surely enough she noticed that not a single cage in the room housed Sonic, Shadow or Knuckles. Where were they? Why weren't they here? What was going to happen to them? Was Finitevus doing something with them. Sally instantly knew that it wasn't good.

"Well this is odd. We're all here but Sonic, Shadow and Knuckles are missing? Where the heck are they meant to be then?" asked Sally.

"Who knows?" said Tails, shrugging his shoulders "I bet Finitevus is planning something horrible for them! He might even kill them! We have to find them and fast before he harms them!"

"But how?" asked Cosmo glumly "We can't get out of our cages. We can't save them at all."

"If we ever get outta here, I'm gonna build a device that allows us to phase through solid matter." declared Tails "That'll really help us in the future."

"We can't lose hope everybody." said Nicole "We have to find a way out of our cages so we can find Sonic, Shadow & Knuckles and save them from Dr. Finitevus. I'm sure we'll think of something."

"I'm sure we will Nicole." said Sally "Until we come up with an idea though, I can't help but wonder where are we? I doubt we're in Eggman's base, he would have gloated to us already no doubt."

"I'm wondering the same thing luv." said Geoffrey St. John "Has Finitevus taken us somewhere completely different altogether? I can't for the life of me tell where we are."

"We'll find out once we break out." said Sally "Now everybody, think! We need to break out of our cages and fast! There's got to be a way out of here even if we have no weapons!"

Everybody thought for a moment for a way out of their cages. It was going to be tough to find a way out though for the situation seemed pretty darn hopeless right now. With no warp rings and no weapons…how could the Royal Fighters possibly escape…?

Oh man…how long have I been snoozing for…?

Those were the thoughts of Sonic the Hedgehog, swimming around his head like goldfish in a bowl. Sonic was beginning to come to after being unconscious for a while. Sonic could hardly believe that Finitevus had gotten the drop on him and his friends like that. They had the doctor cornered and beaten for sure and then he suddenly gases everybody including him and puts him and his team to sleep. After being out for a while, Sonic was finally beginning to come to. He opened his droopy eyes and he yawned loudly.

"Hoo boy…does it feel good to be waking up…" he slurred sleepily.

Sonic fully opened his eyes and blinked the sleep out of them. He looked up and saw…lights in the ceiling? Sonic stared at the lights, his eyes squinting a little due to how bright the lights were. He wasn't imagining things, there was a circle of glowing white lights looming in the ceiling above him. The Egg-Train didn't have any lights in the ceiling, what was going on here? Sonic could also see that the room was darkly lit, save for the lights in the ceiling above him. He certainly wasn't on the Egg-Train anymore, he was somewhere else entirely. Sonic tried to get up and look around only to find out that he couldn't move! Sonic pulled on his arms and legs. They would not budge. Sonic looked down at his arms and legs saw that he had clamps fastened tightly around his wrists and ankles. He was fastened to a steel bed that was sitting upright. Sonic instantly grew nervous and he struggled furiously. He was fastened to a bed and he had no idea where he was. This was not good at all! But things were about to get more shocking for Sonic looked around while struggling and much to his horror, Shadow the Hedgehog and Knuckles the Echidna were fastened to steel beds too! They were already awake and had been struggling vigorously. Try as they might, they couldn't get free at all. The three Mobians were all trapped and there seemed to be no way of escape. If even Knuckles couldn't break out of the clamps then what hope was there for Sonic?

"Knuckles! Shadow! What's going on? Where are we?" asked Sonic.

"I don't know." said Knuckles "Neither of us knows. All we do know is we're strapped down and Finitevus is the one who likely did this to us. When I break free though, I'm gonna kill him for this!"

"You and I both Knuckie." said Sonic "Hey Shadow, why don't you just warp out of your clamps? You can do that right?"

"I've tried to but it won't work." grumbled Shadow "These clamps obviously must be stopping me from using my power much like that holographic cube cage did!"

"Well that sucks, how can we get outta this one?" asked Sonic furiously.

"You cannot, that's how." purred a deep sinister voice that came from the shadows.

Sonic, Shadow & Knuckles all stared ahead of them as they heard the voice. Not long after the voice had been heard, something stepped into the light, revealing his presence to the three captive Mobians. It was Dr. Finitevus. he stood there, his cape closed up as his arms were by his side and his evil eyes twinkling diabolically. His mouth was curled into a cruel, sadistic smile that suggested something horrible was about to happen. Sonic clenched his teeth and fists and he pulled on his arms and legs but to no avail.

"Dr. Finitevus! You let us go right now or I'll stomp on you so hard that we can use you as a doormat!" snarled Sonic.

"Yeah Uncle, let us go now or you'll be sorry!" bellowed Knuckles.

"I do not harbour any interest or care in your pathetic threats my ridiculous Royal Fighters." snapped Dr. Finitevus "Besides, your threats fall short given your current condition. Hard for a captive to be threatening after all."

"Let me out of these clamps and I'll show you how threatening I can be!" growled Shadow.

"I'd rather you stayed put Shadow." said Finitevus coldly.

"Where are we Dr. Creepy-Von-Evil?!" demanded Sonic furiously "And where are my friends? You'd better not have hurt them!"

"Oh don't worry about your friends, they're OK for the moment." explained Finitevus "I just caged them all up until further notice. Don't expect a rescue from them for I confiscated any weapons they have AND the Super Warp Ring that I lost to them during our first encounter." he added with a cold tone of voice that rumbled around the room ominously.

"So my friends are as good as trapped? That's a bummer." muttered Sonic "I'm sure they'll get free somehow and when they do, they'll kick your sorry butt and free me, Knuckles & Shadow! You can bet on that!"

"There is no escaping the cages I have placed them in." crowed Finitevus "They're made of double-coated titanium alloy, even I wouldn't be able to break out of them."

"You would say that." snorted Sonic "Now then, where are we?"

"Where indeed?" purred Finitevus darkly, rubbing his bandaged hands together in the manner of a greedy person "That is the big question isn't it? And I have your answer…"

Finitevus snapped his fingers and then suddenly, as if by magic, the entire room was alit with bright lights from the ceiling shining all around. Sonic, Shadow & Knuckles could now properly see where they were. They were in a room with a pure silver colour to it. Everything was silver, the floor, the ceiling, the machinery, everything. There were rows of lights in the ceiling, dangling chains with sharp, curved hooks and lots of hi-tech machinery all around the room. There was even a table and next to the table was a trolley containing lots and lots of horrible dissection equipment, including a horde of scalpels and drills. There was a large machine with a glass container sitting atop it behind the beds Sonic, Shadow and Knuckles were fastened to and the machine had some pipes with helmets attached to them waiting to be used. This place was clearly a hi-tech laboratory but it didn't look like anything of Eggman's design at all.

"Whoa…who's lab is this then?" asked Sonic curiously.

"Nobody's." explained Finitevus "This particular laboratory was recently closed down and has been unused for about a week so everything here is still in prime condition and fit to use. Obviously a scientist such as myself would be all too happy to use a lab like this. After the whole ordeal with Enerjak, I warped myself and Dr. Eggman back to his headquarters and while he was busy making repairs to his casing, I sneaked off and went looking for unused labs to use for my own experiments. I am not complacent in the slightest to be sharing labs with Eggman, I'd much prefer to have my own. So in my search, I came across this one and began preparing it for use while also attending to Eggman's needs whenever he called me. Now the lab gets to see its first experiment for I am about to begin it now…"

"What kind of experiment?" asked Shadow curiously.

"An experiment to which you may not survive…" said Finitevus coldly.

"What?! You're insane! You can't do this to us!" cried Knuckles "You can't especially do this to me, your own flesh and blood! Finitevus, you truly are mad!"

"I know. I've been mad ever since I escaped the void…and I love it." said Finitevus in a very creepy tone of voice that made him sound very scary and freaky.

"The void really does leave a bad impact on some people doesn't it?" scoffed Sonic "So Finitevus, what experiment are you planning to perform on us?"

Finitevus said nothing. He instead just walked around behind the beds and he picked up the helmets that lay behind them. He put them on top of Sonic, Shadow and Knuckles's heads and fastened them on good and tight so they couldn't do something like shake them off or anything. Sonic cringed as the tightness of the helmet squeezed his head.

"This experiment will revolutionize Chaos Energy in all it's quantum and chaotic glory…" purred Finitevus sinisterly "For you see, I have a plan greater than you can ever imagine. I was so fascinated by the power Enerjak contained that I plan to harness that kind of power. And what better place to start then three of the best candidates on Mobius to siphon Chaos Energy from?"

"You're out of your mind! We don't have Chaos Energy save for Shadow!" snapped Sonic.

"Uh actually, we do." noted Knuckles "I'm a Guardian of the Master Emerald, I have unprecedented access to Chaos Energy, I'm chock full of the stuff. And need I remind you of my Chaos Super Form?"

"Oh…" said Sonic "And I use the Chaos Emeralds on a regular basis…I bet I'm full of Chaos Energy too…"

"All of you are full of Chaos Energy, head to toe." said Finitevus "I knew Knuckles would be and after Eggman told me all about you and Shadow Sonic, I KNEW you hedgehogs would be full of Chaos Energy too, especially since a Chaos Emerald was used to create Shadow from what I've learned. Although you Sonic are the most interesting specimen." he added, drumming his fingers on Sonic's bed "For I scanned you all while you were unconscious to see how much Chaos Energy you all contain and you have not only Chaos Energy, but Power Ring energy too. However did you come to get PowerRing energy?"

"As if I'm gonna tell you that!" snapped Sonic, not wanting to bring up his origin story anytime soon.

"Fair enough." said Finitevus dryly "I shan't press on for the answer to that question. Anyway, the machine that the helmets are connected to is a energy siphoning machine. It shall drain you all dry of your Chaos Energy once I activate it. However…it also drains your life force too. You will NOT survive the process, neither of you. That is guaranteed."

Sonic, Shadow and Knuckles gasped in horror.

"You sick little…let us go right now! You're not draining us dry of all life and energy!" screamed Sonic frantically.

"Uncle, please! Don't do this!" cried Knuckles "This isn't the man you once were! You would never perform killer experiments on anybody and you certainly wouldn't risk the life of your own nephew!"

"Oh I would." said Finitevus "I made my allegiance the day I became Imperator Ix's apprentice. The Finitevus you once knew was merely an act I put up to mask my true character. Now the mask has been removed and you see the true Finitevus before you."

"So you lied to me all throughout my childhood?!" shrieked Knuckles "You were NEVER the nice uncle I grew up with?! It was all a pretence?! I'm disgusted that I'm even related to you!" he snarled

"And I'm disgusted I'm related to you." snorted Finitevus, his face contorting with loathing "Enough of this nonsense though, it is time to begin the experiment…"

Finitevus wandered over to the Energy Sapping Machine and he began to prepare it for activation. Sonic, Shadow and Knuckles began desperately trying to break free as the machine was readied for activation. In a matter of moments, all their energy would be drained and they would be nothing but lifeless husks lying dead on the beds they were fastened to…

Meanwhile, Sally and the Royal Fighters had been thinking on hard on how they could escape their cages without any of their weapons or any warp rings whatsoever. Vector had tried chewing through the bars of his cage just to see if he could get through them but all he ended up doing was giving himself severe toothache and now he was sitting on the floor of his cage clenching his sore mouth and fuming furiously to himself. As Finitevus had stated, the cages were strong enough to even contain him, nobody would be getting out on mere strength alone. After watching Vector's failed attempt o chew his way out, Sally began to wonder would having their weapons make a difference in trying to get out of the cages? But then Finitevus wouldn't need to confiscate them if that was the case. Espio had remembered that he could simply pull his weapons from airspace so he summoned a kunai you his hands and tried all he could to get out with it. The kunai wasn't strong enough to cut through the bars unfortunately and it was much to big to pick the lock of his cage. Espio tried using one of his shurikens to pick the lock of the cage but even that was too big. When he twisted it to the side, it just wouldn't twist very far. Espio couldn't use his exploding shurikens to get out of the cage since he might blow himself up in the process. Everybody else had tried all they could from punching the bars to kicking the bars to just plain struggling but try as they might, they just couldn't break out of the cages. Sally thumped the floor in despair.

"Oh this is hopeless!" she whined "We can't get out of these cages no matter what we try! I'm afraid we're all done for everybody!"

"Sure seems like it." said Nicole in despair, looking like she was about ready to cry.

"Here we go again, the situation seems hopeless and her royal highness is the first to give up." sighed Mandy in annoyance "How typical."

"Don't be so rude to the queen Mandy!" snapped Wilson "Besides, I don't see you doing any better at getting out of the cages!"

"Well unlike Sally, I'm not giving up. I live by this oath: "Never give up, there's always light at the end of the tunnel, no matter how long it seems or how hard it is to get through"." said Mandy "We'll think of something, I know we will. We will get out of here."

"I admire your optimism Mandy but there's NOTHING we can do!" cried Sally "We can't break out, our weapons are gone and my warp ring's gone! How can we break out of these cages if we've got nothing that'll work?!"

"Um, excuse me everybody, I have an idea." said Cream softly.

"See? Even Cream's not giving up and she's what, the youngest of us all?" sneered Mandy "You need more optimism Sally. OK Creamy-girl, what's that idea of yours?" she asked enthusiastically.

"What if I get Cheese to squeeze through the bars and get out that way?" suggested Cream "Once he gets out, he can look for the keys to our cages. I'm sure he's small enough to get through."

"Well it's the only option we have left." said Sally "Cream, let's try your plan."

"OK Miss Acorn." said Cream sweetly "Cheese, please can you try and squeeze through the bars to my cage?"

Cheese nodded happily and he fluttered towards the bars. He poked his head through the bars and squeezed as hard as he could to get through them. He sucked in as much air as he could to try and make himself slimmer. It was a bit of a tight squeeze but Cheese was only just small enough and slim enough to get through the bars. With a small "Pop!", Cheese squeezed through the bars and chirped joyfully.

"Chao, Chao, Chao, Chao!" cheered Cheese happily.

"The little Chao's out of the cage!" cried Sora happily "Well done little guy!"

"Very good thinking Cream." said Tails approvingly.

"Thank you very much Mr. Tails." said Cream delightedly "Now Cheese, can you please see if there's any keys around? Our cages have keyholes so there must be a key for them."

"Chao." said Cheese agreeably.

He flew around the pretty bare room to see what he could find. Unfortunately, he couldn't find anything around. There were no keys lying around whatsoever and there was nothing that could substitute for a key at all. The room was bare save for all the cages and there was nowhere a key could possibly be stored. Cheese flew back over to Cream and he spoke sadly to her.

"Oh dear…Cheese can't find any keys." said Cream sadly "I'm afraid we're still stuck."

"No we're not." said Cosmo "Cheese can just try to find Dr. Finitevus and see if he has the keys to our cages."

"But Cheese won't have a chance against the blighter." sighed Geoffrey "Finitevus will beat him down easily. We can't let him go by himself to get the keys from Finitevus."

"Wait a minute! I've just had a brilliant idea!" declared Amy in a shrill voice of excitement.

She stuck her hand out of her cage and she summoned her Piko-Piko hammer to it.

"Cheese, use this to break me out!" ordered Amy.

"Um Miss Rose? I don't think Cheese will be able to lift that heavy hammer…" said Cream unsurely.

But despite this, Cheese had a go. He curled his hands around the hammer and tried as hard as he could to lift the hammer. Using all his might…he managed to pick it up off the floor! This amazed Cream greatly. She had no idea the Chao was so strong. Cheese strained with effort as he lifted the hammer off the ground. He then began to spin the hammer around as fast as he could, spinning himself around as he did so. Cheese spun around the hammer so much that he ended up becoming a twirling blue blur with a red and yellow outline as he spun around. Cheese edged towards Amy's cage and…he hit it and ended up leaving a big dent in the bars. The cage maybe strong but Amy's hammer would always be stronger. Cheese stopped spinning (and felt very dizzy after so much spinning) and he picked up the hammer for another hit. He spun around again and hit the dented bars. He ended up breaking them and freeing Amy at long last. Amy instantly jumped out of her cage and took her hammer from Cheese.

"Whoopee! I'm free!" cheered Amy "Although Cheese is the one to really thank for this. If he couldn't have gotten out then this plan wouldn't have worked."

"Chao." piped Cheese with pride.

"Now let's get the rest of you out…" said Amy, dashing over to Sally's cage and raising her hammer high above her head.

She bashed the cage as hard as she could and she broke Sally out of it. Now she'd broken Sally out of her cage, she proceeded to break everybody else out of their cages. It took Amy a good few minutes and a lot of hammering but she eventually did it. Everybody was free and now they could get out of the room and find their weapons and also find Sonic, Shadow & Knuckles. Sally took charge of course.

"OK then, first we find our weapons and then we go and find Sonic, Shadow & Knuckles." announced Sally "Rouge, is Shadow's communicator still displaying his coordinates?" she asked.

"Sure is." said Rouge, looking at her communicator "It seems to indicate that they're on a floor above us."

"Then we know where to go after we find our weapons." said Sally "Come on Royal Fighters, let's go!"

With that said, the team charged out of the room and began searching for their stolen weapons. The search didn't take them long luckily for they came across a room next door and they looked inside. The room was clearly meant for storage for there wasn't much space in the room and it was full of shelves. On the shelves were the stolen weapons. Sally's staff, Geoffrey's arm-mounted crossbow, Bunnie's robotic left arm, Shade's blades, Wilson's spinning blade, Mandy's knuckle attachments and Sora's utility belt. The Royal Fighters all retrieved their respective weapons from the closet instantly but poor Bunnie was left wondering how to put her arm back on since she had no tools with her and she couldn't just stick it back on as easily as that.

"Oh mah stars…how can ah get mah arm back on?" asked Bunnie "It can't just pop back on and there's no tools to stick it back on."

"I bet Finitevus has a welder of some kind." said Tails "When we get to him, I will see if I can find a tool to reattach Bunnie's arm while the rest of you keep him busy."

"Good plan Tails." said Cosmo supportively.

"Thanks angel." said Tails gratefully.

"Now then, let's find Sonic, Shadow and Knuckles before something happens to them." said Sally "Rouge, lead the way. You have the coordinates."

Rouge obeyed and she ran off ahead with the others following her. Sally prayed with all her might that the three were OK and that nothing bad was happening to them now…

It was a good thing that Sally and the Royal Fighters had managed to break out at this moment for Dr. Finitevus had gotten his little experiment ready to activate! He'd fully primed the machine and now he was getting ready to throw the switch and activate it. Sonic, Shadow & Knuckles were still trying to break free of their binds but to no avail. They just couldn't get free no matter how hard they tried. And now the experiment was ready to begin. This was the end for Sonic, Shadow & Knuckles. All three of them tensed themselves and prepared for the worst. Finitevus took a moment to admire their frightened faces and then he wandered back over to the machine.

"Prepare yourselves my glorious Chaos Candidates…your end begins now." purred Finitevus "I'll be sure to thank your corpses for the generous donation you're all giving me though."

"Charming I'm sure." snorted Sonic.

Finitevus ignored Sonic's comment and he curled his fingers around the switch. He pulled it down and activated the machine. The machine whirred into life with a horrible, wailing, whirring sound that pierced the captive's ears and then the helmets began to crackle with electricity. The electricity buzzed around the captive's heads and then suddenly, a sharp stinging pain surged through their skulls as the pipes the helmets were linked to the machine by started to drain them of their Chaos Energy. Horrible screams emitted from Sonic, Shadow and Knuckles's mouths as the helmets zapped their heads and started draining Chaos Energy from their bodies. They writhed around in agonizing pain and the Chaos Energy began to channel through the pipes like an electrical current into the machine. The energy was in liquid form and it began to fill up the glass capsule that sat atop the machine. Not only was Chaos Energy being drained but their very life force was being drained too as Finitevus said it would. Finitevus couldn't help but cackle maniacally at how perfectly his experiment was working. Soon he'd have the two biggest threats against villainy and his nephew dead and he'd be able to make himself ridiculously powerful (like he isn't already!) with Chaos Energy.

"Yes…Yes…YES!" cheered Finitevus "How glorious! When this experiment is over, I shall douse myself in Chaos Energy and I shall become the next Enerjak! Once I become Enerjak…all of Mobius will fall before me! Ah, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!"

As the experiment continued, Sonic and Knuckles were beginning to look pretty grotesque. Their bodies were beginning to shrivel up as if someone was sucking their blood dry and their skeleton shapes were beginning to become apparent as the flesh shrunk tighter and tighter around them. Shadow was taking a little longer to do this since he had more Chaos Energy in him than the others but it was beginning to happen. In a matter of moments, their bodies would be nothing more than shrivelled up skin clinging tightly around a pile of bones. But as it seemed the end was nigh for the three, the door burst open and in charged all the Royal Fighters. Dr. Finitevus stared in horror at the Royal Fighters.

"Royal Fighters?! How in the heck did you escape your cages?!" shrieked the crazy echidna.

"Never you mind!" yelled Sally "You let Sonic, Shadow and Knuckles go before…"

Her voice trialled off at the sight of the three captive Mobians getting completely drained of all energy, Chaos and Natural. It looked very gruesome and unpleasant, seeing the three getting drained and their bodies shrivelling up by the second. Sally was horrified at this.

"Oh my god! What are you doing to them?!" she screamed.

"Draining them of all energy, including Chaos Energy." explained Finitevus "When the experiment is finished, your friends will be no more and I will become the new identity of Enerjak, the Great Echidna God of the past!"

"You sick twisted monster! You won't resurrect Enerjak after all the terror he's done, especially to my country!" screamed Ruben the Water Panther.

He ran forward and he threw a wave of water at Finitevus. He knocked Finitevus away from the machine and he squirted so hard at Finitevus that he ended up pinning him against the wall. Now Finitevus was pinned against the wall, Tails flew over to the machine and he instantly pulled the switch back up. This caused the machine to stop what it was doing and reverse what it was doing. All the Chaos Energy it had been draining returned back to Sonic, Shadow and Knuckles's bodies. Their bodies stopped shrivelling up and they returned to normal. The machine stopped humming and the pain in their heads stopped. They both panted and gasped for breath, relieved that this horror was over.

"Oh thank god!" cried Sonic "Thanks Tails, this feels much better."

"Anytime." said Tails "Dr. Finitevus has truly gone off the deep end hasn't he? Trying to make himself the new Enerjak? How crazy can you get?"

"I think Finitevus lost all sanity when he went into the void." muttered Knuckles.

Now the experiment was over, Tails flew over to the trolley of tools that was lying nearby to find a tool to reattach Bunnie Rabbot's arm. While he did that, Sally deployed the blade in her staff and she used it to force the clamps around Sonic, Shadow and Knuckles's wrists and ankles to free them. The two hedgehogs and echidna jumped onto their feet and they all had a good stretch.

"Aah, that feels much better." said Sonic "Thanks guys."

"How did you break out of your cages?" asked Shadow.

"Cheese managed to squeeze out of Cream's cage and Amy gave him her hammer to use." explained Sally "Cheese used her hammer to break Amy out and then Amy broke all of us out."

"Wow, saved by a Chao?" laughed Knuckles "I never would have guessed that the littlest of guys could do such a big task. Now let's make Finitevus pay for trying to kill us like this and become the new Enerjak!"

Then suddenly, Ruben was sent hurling across the room and he landed at Sora's feet. The blue-furred vixen was quick to pick up Ruben and help him stand again. Finitevus had managed to break through his water jets and punch him away. He shook himself dry for he was dripping wet now and he squeezed his cape to rinse it. Now he was dry, he reached into his cape and pulled out a silver stick that was the size of a lightsaber hilt. His face contorted with rage.

"You ingrates! You've ruined a revolutionary moment in science and Chaos!" he snarled "Neither of you will leave this room alive!"

Finitevus pressed a button on the stick and out of it emitted a long streak of electrical energy, making it look like a whip made of electricity. Furious, Finitevus swung the whip at all the Mobians and nearly hit them all. The Royal Fighters dodged the whip quickly as it swung over them all. Finitevus drew it back and he swung it again. He hit Tails in the back and Tails received a horrible electrical shock that left him lying on the floor gasping for breath. Luckily, before he got whipped, he had managed to reattach Bunnie's arm after finding a welding tool on the trolley so Bunnie was in fighting condition once again. She deployed her arm cannon and aimed it at Dr. Finitevus. She shot at him but Finitevus whipped the shot, stopping it before it could get near him. Finitevus tried to whip Bunnie but he missed as Bunnie dodged. Sonic ran in and he spin-dashed towards Finitevus but the mad doctor whipped him away with his whip. The attack left Sonic feeling very sore and a little singed. Shadow put a stop to Finitevus's deadly weapon but warping in front of him and pile-diving him into the wall, causing him to drop the electro-whip. Shadow stomped on it and destroyed it instantly. Unfortunately…Finitevus had a spare! (Does he seriously look like the type of guy who doesn't have a spare weapon?) Finitevus pulled out a spare electro-whip and he whipped Shadow away from himself with it. Shadow was sent sprawling across the floor after that whip. Finitevus raised the whip and he prepared to let Shadow have it really badly but as he was about to whip Shadow, Knuckles charged in and socked him in the gut. Finitevus dropped the whip, which ended up turning itself off after it landed on the floor button-side down. Finitevus socked Knuckles in the face and he kicked him in the gut. Sonic spin-dashed Finitevus in the back and sent him hurling into the restraint bed. Finitevus had an idea though. Shadow came in with a Chaos Spear in hand. He tried to hit Finitevus but Finitevus ducked down under the restraint bed. Shadow stopped by the bed and looked under to see Finitevus there. Finitevus jumped up from under the bed and he pushed on it. The bed swung up and uppercut Shadow in the face, knocking him down onto his back. Finitevus then jumped onto the bed just as Bunnie tried to punch him. He kicked her down underneath the bed, jumped off of it and pushed it down. The bed swung down and clonked Bunnie on the head. Finitevus pushed it up further and further, hoping to crush Bunnie's head with it. Geoffrey was quick to save his girlfriend by seizing Finitevus by the cape and hauling him back. Finitevus just elbowed Geoffrey in the gut to make him let go and then he swung him over onto his back. He unclipped the arm-mounted crossbow from Geoffrey's arm and placed it on his own. He began shooting stun-darts at all the Royal Fighters furiously to make them back off and to hopefully hit one of them with it. Everybody managed to dodge the shots luckily and Shade stopped Finitevus by Blade-Rushing at him. The wave struck Finitevus's arm and knocked the crossbow off of it. Shade Blade-Rushed at Finitevus again but Finitevus used a warp ring to send the attack hurling back towards her. Shadow and Rouge double-teamed Finitevus with a pair of kicks and sent him crashing into the wall. Shadow threw Chaos Spears at him and Rouge screw-kicked him again. Finitevus growled furiously and he summoned a warp ring to his hand. He jumped through it and reappeared in the ceiling. Finitevus jumped down onto the floor and dared Shadow & Rouge to come towards him. The two Mobians did…and ended up falling through a warp ring that opened up in the floor beneath them. They reappeared above Tails, Sora & Cosmo, who were charging behind Finitevus, and they fell directly on top of them.

"When I'm through with all of you, I'll have ALL of your life forces drained!" declared Finitevus "All of you will litter the floor with your shrivelled up, lifeless corpses and I will have more energy than I know what to do with!"

"Not on my watch Dr. Crazy-Von-Evil!" yelled Sonic.

He spin-dashed Finitevus in the gut and sent him hurling into one of the restraint beds. Finitevus picked himself up but Sonic grabbed the trolley of tools and he kicked it into him. Sonic thought he would use Finitevus's reliance on the environment in battle to his advantage by trying it himself. The trolley smacked into Finitevus and made him grimace. Knuckles picked up the trolley and he walloped Finitevus with it, sending the tools spilling onto the floor and Finitevus was sent hurling into the wall. Big mistake for he ended up landing directly beside his electro-whip! Finitevus grabbed it quickly and he activated it. Wilson and Mandy charged towards Finitevus only for the evil scientist to whip them both away. Cream threw Cheese at Finitevus but Finitevus whipped Cheese down into the floor. He picked up a drill and he threw it at Cream. Cosmo leaped up and caught the drill in her hands (she can jump pretty well). She threw the drill back at Finitevus to which he just whipped it to pieces. Shade ran in and tried to cleave Finitevus in two but Finitevus grabbed her wrists and forced her to drop her blades. He put his whip away and picked up her blades. He Blade-Rushed Shade and sent her flying into Cosmo. Sally jumped in by pole-vaulting herself into the air with her staff and kicking Finitevus in the head. Finitevus dropped Shade's blades and Sally kicked them back over to Shade. Sally then ran over to Finitevus and tried to attack him again but Finitevus grabbed her by the wrists and threw her over into a restraint bed. Finitevus quickly strapped Sally to it and he stomped on a drill that was lying on the floor to bring it to his hands. He placed the drill over Sally's heart and prepared to activate it.

"Surrender yourselves and drop your weapons!" snarled Finitevus "Or this will be the last you'll ever see of your precious Queen Sally Acorn!"

"No! Please, don't kill her!" cried Sonic "Please, anything but that!"

"Sonic, don't give up! He'll kill us anyway!" screamed Sally "Please help me!"

"I'll give you one chance to surrender or Sally will find herself with a drill in her heart!" growled Finitevus "Stand down and drop your weapons or the queen dies! Last chance Royal Fighters!"

To show he was being serious, he turned the drill on and threatened to stick it into Sally's pounding chest. Sally could only sweat nervously and whimper. There was no escaping from this. Finitevus had her completely at his mercy and the Royal Fighters couldn't do anything to help her. But Finitevus seemed to have noticed something.

"Wait a minute…one of you is missing…where's the water panther?" he asked.

"Right here!" came the voice of Ruben.

Finitevus turned to his right and to his horror, he saw Ruben standing near his machine with his hands placed on it, ready to give it a good soaking.

"No! Get away from that! That's highly sophisticated machinery!" cried Finitevus.

"You let Sally go and I won't short-circuit your big toy!" demanded Ruben.

"You get away from that machine or I'll kill Sally!" growled Finitevus.

"That won't stop me from short-circuiting your machine!" snapped Ruben "You killing Sally will just make me do it all the more! It'll be good payback! So will you risk losing your precious machine? Or will you let Sally go like a good man?"

Finitevus growled furiously but he knew that Ruben was being deathly serious. Killing Sally wouldn't stop Ruben from ruining his machine so why kill Sally and lose his machine? Finitevus turned the drill off and he lowered his arm. Ruben smirked at Finitevus and he threw a jet of water at him, sending him flying away from Sally. Now Sally was safe, Sonic picked up her staff and used it to free her from the bed. Sally instantly hugged Sonic for that and then she hugged

Ruben.

"Oh thank god! I thought I was a goner!" cried Sally "Thank you so much for that Ruben!"

"Aw you're welcome honoured queen." said Ruben bashfully.

"That was good planning cute stuff." said Sora approvingly "And you deserve a kiss for that."

With that said, Sora kissed Ruben on the cheek as a way of saying "Well done". That kiss made Ruben's heart leap with joy and his face went redder than a can of Tizer. Tails and Cosmo watched with this awe, thinking about their romance and how Sora and Ruben seemed to be having a similar one to theirs.

"Wow…th-th-thank you." said Ruben graciously, putting his hand over his cheek.

"Anytime." said Sora brightly "Now then, if I were you I'd short-circuit that machine anyway. Don't let Finitevus have a chance to use it again."

"Good idea beautiful." said Ruben.

That comment made Sora blush scarlet with pleasure. She liked to think that she was pretty and liked it when people called her "beautiful" and such. Gave her hopes of becoming a beautiful woman when she grew older. Ruben aimed his hands at Finitevus's machine and he drenched the machine with one big wave of water. The water soaked the machine and began to short-circuit all of its interiors. The machine groaned as if it was in pain and it began to spark furiously. There was no using the machine for any energy draining now. Finitevus shook himself dry from when Ruben squirted him earlier and he gasped in horror at his now ruined machine, soaking wet and sparking violently. It looked like it was about to blow any minute now.

"NO! My machine!" cried Finitevus.

Sonic promptly spin-dashed him in the back and sent him hurling into a restraint bed. Finitevus growled and he picked himself up.

"This is over Finitevus!" yelled Sonic.

"My plans are FAR from over heathen! You have no idea, NO IDEA!" snarled Finitevus, taking out his electro whip and activating it.

He whipped at Sonic only to miss as Sonic dodged his attack. Finitevus recoiled and prepared to launch another attack but he soon realized he had made a big mistake. He was standing quite close to the machine and he hadn't moved. The machine, finally breaking down from the water short-circuiting it, self-destructed in a colossal explosion that blew Finitevus off his feet and sent him hurling into the air. The Royal Fighters all threw themselves down onto the floor to avoid the explosion. Finitevus screamed as he was thrown through the air by the explosion but he ended up grabbing onto a chain and hook to save himself crashing into a wall. Finitevus swung around on the chain until he finally stopped and he stared at his ruined experiment, now nothing more than a flaming wreck and a pile of debris. Finitevus couldn't believe that his beautiful experiment had been destroyed like this. All this planning and preparing the laboratory for nothing. Looks like it's back to the drawing board for Finitevus. The echidna's face contorted with rage and he glowered at the Royal Fighters, who had picked themselves up and were ready to bring him down.

"You will pay for this Royal Fighters! You. will. PAY!" roared Finitevus.

With that said, he summoned a warp ring to his hand and activated it. As reluctant as he was, he was a man of logic, not idiocy and logic dictated to him that retreat was a good option now so he was retreating. Finitevus jumped through the warp ring and he vanished from sight, leaving the Royal Fighters alone in the lab to do nothing except watch him escape. Knuckles fumed furiously.

"He got away again!" he growled "Some day soon, I will get that slimy little scum bucket I call my uncle! Mark me words I will get him!"

"Knuckles sweetie, clam down." said Shade softly, putting her arms around Knuckles's arm "Getting angry won't do any good. We will get Finitevus one day. For now, we just have to wait until he shows up again."

"I know hon." said Knuckles, putting an arm around his girlfriend "When we get him, I'll show no mercy on him, especially since he nearly killed me, Sonic & Shadow."

"Never mind Dr. Eggman, Dr. Finitevus is the guy I'll be hunting for now!" declared Shadow "Especially since he's working for Eggman!"

"Well Finitevus has gone now so we'll have to try our luck next time." said Sally "For now, let's just get home and have some rest from this hectic battle."

"It's gonna be a long walk home now Finitevus got that warp ring we stole from him back." sighed Tails.

"Maybe, but it'll be worth it to get home." said Sonic "And when we get back, maybe we can see how things have been going while we've been away."

"Before we do that Sonic I have a question for you." said Knuckles "Just how exactly DID you get Power Ring energy inside you anyway? Finitevus noted that you had Power Ring energy to go with your Chaos Energy."

"Well Knuckles that's a story that I trust all my friends enough to tell it." said Sonic "I told it to Tails and Cosmo already so I think it's time you ALL heard it…"

HUNT-Ed Part 1

Story 157: HUNT-ed Part 1: Hunters on the Run

"Ohmigosh, Ohmigosh, OH MY GOSH!" squealed the excited voice of Kiara the Cheetah as she rocketed up towards the only-just arrived Sonic the Hedgehog and Tails the Fox "Sonic the Hedgehog, you have no idea how excited I am to see you again! EEEEEEEEE!"

Kiara threw herself into Sonic and she squeezed him very tightly in ecstatic glee. Sonic took the hug for he'd received much worse from Amy Rose before and he smiled weakly.

"Good to see you too Kiara." he said.

"It's very nice to see you again Kiara." said Tails politely "We haven't seen each other since the Martian invasion."

"I know right?!" shrieked Kiara excitedly "That's why I'm so excited to see you two!"

It had been a couple of weeks since Dr. Finitevus carried out his deadly gambit and escaped the Royal Fighters after they ruined his beautiful plan and things had been going easy for the Royal Fighters. No tears in the sky had appeared again, no Eggman schemes had been carried out and no other villains were attacking or trying to doom the world. Sonic and his friends had made the most out of the two weeks and now Sonic and Tails had been asked to come to Megapolis for something. Sonic and Tails had just arrived and now they'd been ecstatically greeted by the beautiful and sporty Kiara the Cheetah, messenger woman and fellow member of the Megapolis Royal Fighters Team. She had recently been promoted from messenger woman to fighter and was the one to make up for the poor, crippled Thomas Tiger who hadn't been able to fight since the day Devion the Devatron Leader broke his back. Kiara had done well for a rookie and Thomas was beginning to think that the little cheetah was probably above the rookie rank now. But Kiara was young and she still had much to learn so she still had a bit to go yet. The Megapolis Royal Fighters had been having it easy too until now and they had sent for Sonic and Tails to come and see them. Now they were here, Kiara took them by the hands and led them towards the campwhich was not so far away.

"Come on boys, the camp's this way." said Kiara eagerly as she lead the boys by the hand to the camp "First we're gonna introduce a new recruit we have to you and then we'll let you know why we've called you here."

"That's cool." said Sonic "So why did you ask for me and Tails in particular?"

"Well you're the best in this business and Tails is renowned for his intelligence so we thought "Why not bring the hedgehog and his fox friend?"." explained Kiara "I hope we didn't interrupt anything important back at your home."

"Nah, things have been pretty easy Kiara." said Tails casually "We had a run in with the new enemy Dr. Finitevus two weeks ago but we've not had any trouble since then."

"It's been getting pretty boring in all honesty so I'm glad you've called us here." said Sonic "Maybe some excitement will happen."

"Maybe…" said Kiara, looking unsure for some reason "Anyway, I can't wait to introduce our new recruit, you'll LOVE him!" she squeaked excitedly.

"I'm sure we will." said Sonic "So when did this person first join you guys then?"

"Last week actually." said Kiara "He's still relatively new around here. Can you believe it though? I was running around the plains one day and I just found him, lying in a cave and starving half to death. I took pity on the poor guy and I took him to my camp so he could get better. He's only just recovered and gotten back on his feet bless him."

"Wow, poor guy." said Tails "I'm glad he's OK now though."

"Same here." said Kiara "He's a handsome looking guy, couldn't let a boy that good looking waste away so I had to save him. He's quite grateful to me for taking him in."

"I'll bet." said Sonic "So, how's your team been Kiara?"

"Not too bad." said Kiara casually "Nothing really exciting's happened lately until now and Thomas, while still crippled, hasn't lost his spirit at all. He's still a great leader even if he can't walk anymore."

"It's a pity his back got broken." said Sonic sympathetically "No fighter should be relieved of their ability to fight and protect their world."

"Hey, there's the camp." said Tails, pointing ahead of himself "We're here now."

Sonic looked ahead and saw the campsite of the Megapolis Royal Fighters. The camp had pretty much become home to the members of the team now since they spent so much time in it. The camp had some luxurious looking tents that had a lot of room for the soldiers, a nice pile of logs ready to make a fire later in the day and there were training facilities for the soldiers to keep in shape. The camp was pretty quiet though with only Thomas Tiger and a new recruit outside and chatting to one another. The new recruit was an unusual Mobian. He was a hybrid between a leopard and a lynx, meaning he had the head and brown fur of a lynx but the tail and spots of a leopard. He had black hair with a mullet at the back, hazel eyes, a white muzzle with black markings under his eyes, white gloves with a red triangle on them that reached to his elbows, grey chest fur with a red gem in the middle, a black vest top and matching black trousers and red knee-high boots with golden claws on the toe sections. He looked just right for the Royal Fighters Service. Thomas and the leo-lynx turned and saw Kiara coming towards them with Sonic & Tails behind her.

"Kiara, I guess Sonic & Tails managed to answer our call then?" he asked.

"They sure did, they're right here." said Kiara "And they're so happy to see us again."

"Top of the morning Field Marshal." said Sonic, shaking Thomas's hand "Nice to see you're doing well despite your…um…condition now."

"Thank you." said Thomas kindly "Nice to see you're doing well too."

"Cheers." said Sonic.

"So you're Sonic the Hedgehog eh?" said the leo-lynx, standing forward to greet him "Cool, I've been itching to meet you after all the legends I heard about you back in Chun-Nan."

"Well now I'm here in all my glory." said Sonic, shaking the leo-lynx's hand "So are you the new recruit Kiara's been telling me about?"

"I am indeed." said the leo-lynx with a smile "My name's Dinciis Weyl but everybody calls me by my nickname Dark Cat." he introduced.

"Dark Cat? Why do they call you that then?" asked Sonic.

"Back in Chun-Nan, I was described as being "darker than night and like a cat on the prowl"." explained Dark "So the nickname kinda stuck with me after that description. I like it though."

"It's nice to meet you Dark." said Tails, shaking Dark's hand "You look like you have potential to be a good Royal Fighter."

"Aw thanks little guy." said Dark appreciatively "I've only been here for a couple of days and just yesterday I recovered from my agonizing hunger and injuries so I've not had time to train or show what I can do yet."

"I'm just glad you're back on your feet handsome." said Kiara, hugging Dark "I can hardly wait to see what skills you have."

"Oh…um…thanks Kiara." said Dark with a blush.

"Heh, I think Kiara likes him…" snickered Tails under his breath.

"Seems like it." Sonic whispered back.

He then looked back at Dark and Kiara.

"So you said you're from Chun-Nan eh?" he said "Good country, I've been there many times. What was it like for you?"

"I…don't wanna talk about it." said Dark sadly "It's too horrible." he looked to one side and hugged himself as if he suddenly felt cold there "Suffice it to say I left there for my own good and ended up nearly starving to death because I couldn't find a place to stay."

"Aw, that's sad." said Tails "OK, we won't ask about your time in Chun-Nan. We know someone else who left Chun-Nan because of a bad event and he's on our team."

"Really?" said Dark "Who's he then and why did he leave?"

"Uh we'll tell you later, right now I'm interested in knowing why me and Tails have been brought here." said Sonic impatiently.

"Oh yes of course." said Thomas, suddenly remembering that he had brought Sonic & Tails here for a reason "So sorry about that, I just wanted you and our newest recruit to get acquainted. Ahem, the reason we have called you two here is because we have a problem that I think you two can help us with."

"Well solving problems is the hedgehog's speciality so what's the problem?" asked Sonic, eager to see what kind of excitement he might encounter since he was wanting some action today after a relatively vapid two weeks.

"Just yesterday my men spotted four strangers lurking around the Golden Caverns." explained Thomas "The Golden Caverns are caves that used to be home to piles of gold and rumour has it that there still is gold to be found in it. I've had guards there ever since the R.F.S. formed since the caves were likely to be desecrated by treasure hunters. Reason being that they're a popular tourist attraction and we wouldn't want to lose it should treasure hunters tear it up in hopes of finding anything in there."

"I see…so why do we need to come in?" asked Sonic.

"Because those particular four strangers we encountered yesterday are far too powerful for our guards." explained Thomas "They took them out as if they were nothing."

"Then why didn't you send Kiara to stop them?" asked Tails, noticing a little oddity in that statement.

"Because Thomas worries over me and thinks that four measly strangers are too dangerous for me." muttered Kiara "Honestly, I never get ANY freedom in this bloody team! I always have to be watched by somebody, even on the battlefield!"

"Kiara dear, we have already talked about this. Don't start." said Thomas sternly "You know that you're still inexperienced and you're still a rookie so you need supervision until I know you're mature enough to be trusted on your own."

"I'm the best sodding fighter in this team! And In case you've forgotten Field Marshal, I was the one who stopped Marik the Martian in the canyon and got him out of the way so we could stop that dormant Eggman weapon* and you STILL think I'm inexperienced?!" shouted Kiara furiously.

"Just being a good fighter does not make you experienced." noted Thomas "You need wisdom and control over your emotions in order to be a balanced and capable fighter."

"Whatever!" sighed Kiara furiously "As far as I'm concerned, I'm always gonna need supervision under your watch! Well guess what? I'm going over to the Golden Caverns and I will go WITHOUT someone breathing down my neck for once!"

"You will do as you are told Kiara and you will not go anywhere." said Thomas coldly.

"Heck yes I am!" shouted Kiara "And maybe when I come back with those strangers in hand, maybe you'll stop treating me as if I'm some stupid kid that needs babysitting all the time and give me the freedom I deserve!"

With that said, Kiara ran off in a huff, leaving Thomas to sit there in his wheelchair, stunned to all heck at what Kiara had just done.

Even Sonic & Tails were surprised at this and they could only watch as Kiara ran off to the Golden Caverns.

"Wow…is she usually like this?" asked Sonic.

"Not all the time but on occasions like this, Kiara gets too big for her boots and deliberately runs off on her own to do something." sighed Thomas "When she stopped Marik the Martian the other year, she promised me she wouldn't do that again."

"And now she's done so." said Tails "Although to be fair, you're being a bit hard on her Thomas. Kiara's proven to be a good fighter and all, I'm sure she can take care of herself."

"I know little boy but…I just worry over her so much." said Thomas grimly "She's so young and so impetuous that I can't help but worry about her. She might get seriously hurt or even killed given how reckless she is."

"Dude, if she beat Marik the Martian once then surely four strangers won't be a problem." noted Sonic "Marik was like no other, he could fend off me and my friends when he really got into it and from what I've heard, Kiara stopped him by herself. True she beat him by tiring him out apparently but still, don't worry so much about Kiara. Give her a chance and maybe she can prove that she can take care of herself."

Thomas took in Sonic's words and he sighed heavily after a long thought.

"I'd love to give her a chance…but with that attitude of hers, I don't think I can trust her on her own." said Thomas "She still has much to learn."

"Well maybe she'll learn something over time." said Sonic "So, do you want me and Tails to follow the angry cheetah then? You do want us to defend the Golden Caverns after all."

"Yes. You may go after her." said Thomas "Please, take Dark Cat with you. He hasn't had a chance to go on a mission since he's just recovered from his starvation and injuries. I'd like for him to have his first mission today."

"Sure thing sir." said Sonic "Hey Dark, you up for a little mission in the caverns?"

"Am I ever!" said Dark Cat eagerly, punching his fists together "I've been bored out of my mind just lying in bed and waiting to recover so I'm ecstatic about this!"

"Then let's get going." said Sonic "Do you think you can keep up with me?"

"Probably not." said Dark "I can run fast but not at supersonic speeds."

"Then allow me to carry you." said Sonic, taking Dark and Tails by the hands "Hold on tight you two, this is gonna be fast."

"Sonic, I've been with you for a year now, I think I'm used to this." chuckled Tails.

Sonic chuckled back and he zipped off, taking Dark and Tails with him and whipping up a huge cloud of dust as he ran off. Thomas was left alone in the camp to watch Sonic race off with Tails and Dark in hand. As Sonic left, Thomas could only look up at the sky and pray to the heavens.

"Please let them come back in one piece…" he prayed softly to himself…

Meanwhile, over at the GoldenCaverns themselves, four sinister Mobians were at work and these were Mobians that Sonic and Tails would be all too shocked to see again. The four Mobians…were the four Mobians that made up the nefarious treasure hunting Team Diamond! They were a team of treasure hunters working for the mysterious group H.U.N.T., Hidden and Unified Nations in Treasure-hunting. The organization had been terminated after they had been defeated and incarcerated at the hands of Sonic the Hedgehog and friends and after Sora Prower and Rouge the Bat had spilled the beans on them. H.U.N.T. had had all it's teams arrested and thrown in prison and the organization had been brought down for good. H.U.N.T. was no more. Unfortunately, Team Diamond had managed to break out of prison thanks to a very clever plan orchestrated by Owen Pounder and Alistair Drakken, two of Team Diamond's members, and now Team Diamond seemed keen to keep H.U.N.T.'s infamous image alive. After escaping prison, they had fled to Megapolis for the country was a good place to hide in, especially with the caverns and canyons that were around in Megapolis and they were lurking around the GoldenCaverns. They had heard much rumours about how the caverns were full of gold a long time ago and likely still have gold in them so they were digging for gold in the caverns. They had stolen many explosives, shovels and picks from the Megapolis Royal Fighters and they had been using them to dig in the caverns. As of now, they were resuming their work. Lennox Meers, the leader of Team Diamond, was shovelling away like a mad meerkat digging for grubs. He was keen to find something valuable since all of H.U.N.T.'s treasures had been seized after the organization's termination and they really needed to find some treasures if they had any hope of reforming H.U.N.T. Just beside him, the voluptuous Roxy the Raccoon was picking away at the walls with a pickaxe. Owen and Alistair were shovelling and picking along with Lennox and Roxy. They were hard at work and the pace they were working at was back-breaking. But they didn't show any signs of stopping or slowing down, they were all too keen to see what they could find.

"Found anything yet?" asked Lennox, looking over at Roxy.

"Nothing yet handsome." said Roxy, swinging the pickaxe at the wall again and cracking it a bit "Just a lot of rocks."

"You do know that the caverns still having gold in them is just a rumour?" noted Owen "We might not find anything down here!"

"Yes but we don't know if it's just speculation or truth if we don't try." Alistair pointed out "That's why we're giving this a go, to see what we can find down here."

"I don't see why we don't just simply find all the stolen goods that were confiscated from H.U.N.T. after we all got ratted out." muttered Owen.

"Oh why don't we do that bunny boy? Hmm, let me thing…because we DON'T KNOW WHERE IT IS!" snapped Roxy furiously "Honestly, someone as smart as you should have common sense!"

"Besides, the four of us can't get all that treasure back." added Lennox "We need a proper organization to do that. We need to reform H.U.N.T.

"I hope any treasure we find down here will be enough to convince any potential treasure hunters to join us." said Alistair "After all, it's too much effort to try and break out all our old members so it's best to start anew."

"Agreed." said Lennox "The old members might be able to break out too if they're lucky…"

"Besides, the four of us can't get all that treasure back." added Lennox "We need a proper organization to do that. We need to reform H.U.N.T. and get more members so we can properly form a heist and get that amount of treasure back. The four of us aren't enough."

"I hope any treasure we find down here will be enough to convince any potential treasure hunters to join us." said Alistair "After all, it's too much effort to try and break out all our old members so it's best to start anew."

"Agreed." said Lennox "The old members might be able to break out too if they're lucky…"

"Well given how narrow OUR escape was, I doubt the others will have the same kind of luck." said Roxy, swinging the pickaxe again "We were the best members of H.U.N.T., the best team the organization ever had and we NARROWLY managed to break out of that prison and escape. What hope do the other members have?"

"I'm not bothered about most of the other members anyway, especially those jackanapes on Team Ruby!" snorted Owen "Those guys were so obnoxious and they had no idea how to steal treasures properly! They just liked to blow things up all the time!"

"Team Ruby were amateurs and now they're in prison they'll never get a chance to improve." sighed Lennox "But enough on that, we have to look to the future. The future of Team Diamond…and the future of H.U.N.T. And hopefully it'll start in these caverns. If we don't have any treasure to show as an example of our work, any potential treasure hunters will be hard to win over so there'd better be some in these Golden Caverns."

"There'd better be or we will be breaking our backs for nothing." sighed Roxy, panting a little for swinging the axe constantly was hot, heavy work.

"Lennox, do you mind if I take a break and keep watch for a minute?" asked Alistair, taking one last pick as he said it. "It's a just in case, you know, in case anyone starts sticking their noses in where they're not wanted."

"Go on then." said Lennox "I expect you back here in ten minutes. Then another one of us will tack a break and keep watch for ten minutes and so on. It's fair if we each get a break and a turn to keep watch."

Team Diamond decided not to say another after that for there was nothing more that needed to be said. Alistair put down his pickaxe and he ran off outside to keep an eye out for any signs of trouble. The other three members continued digging and picking away, keen to find anything of value. Lennox and Owen kept shovelling away, sticking the blade of the shovel into the ground and scooping up the earth in the cave they were in and then throwing the dirt over their shoulders to make another dig. Roxy had now rested from her bout of hard work and raised the pickaxe, poised to make another swing. She swung the axe and walloped the spot she'd been picking at constantly for a good few minutes already. Nothing much happened. Roxy raised the axe again and she swung it. She struck the spot and…the wall seemed to crack quite heavily after that hit. Roxy stepped back in case the wall suddenly caved in on her. The crack spread up the wall a fair height and then suddenly it started to break open and chunks of rock began to rain down onto the ground with a chorus of heavy thuds. Team Diamond all stepped back as the crack in the wall split open and the rocks crumbled away from it. When the rocks finally stopped crumbling away, Team Diamond looked at the crack in the wall and their mouths gapped at what they were looking at. For there behind the crack in the wall…was a huge pile of golden nuggets (no, not the breakfast cereal you dummy, ACTUAL golden nuggets!). They were lying there in the wall, sparkling radiantly and illuminating the dark cave brilliantly with their heavenly sparkles. Lennox, Owen and Roxy were gobsmacked at this.

"Wow…actual golden nuggets!" shrieked Roxy excitedly.

"And hundreds of them!" blurted Owen "We've hit the jackpot!"

"Roxy…I love you." said Lennox, hugging the racoon graciously for the find.

Roxy wasn't flattered at all by this since she knew he was only saying that because she'd found lots of treasure. Love between her and Lennox would never be legitimate as far as she was concerned, especially since Lennox would abuse her often if he was in a bad mood. Nevertheless, Roxy took the compliment and she smiled at her good fortune.

"Thank you boys." said Roxy "Boy those nuggets are a step in the right direction. Treasure hunters everywhere will be killing themselves to get a hold of these! If we promise to share them out, we'll get people begging to join H.U.N.T. and help us unearth more treasure to keep for ourselves!"

"You said it hot stuff." said Owen "So how do we get all of them out of here? That crack's too narrow for any of us to get in."

"I won't risk a strategic explosion, we could destroy the nuggets too." said Lennox "We'll just pick at the wall until the crack's big enough for us to get through and get the nuggets out."

"Well then let's get picking!" cried Roxy enthusiastically.

But before anyone could so much as raise a pickaxe, Alistair charged back into the cave and he waved his arms around wildly, his wings flapping in and out as he did so. He looked like he'd just seen a meteor shower outside.

"Team Diamond! There's somebody coming towards the caves and it's coming in quickly!" cried Alistair.

"Coming in quickly…oh please don't tell me it's Sonic the Hedgehog!" whined Roxy.

"No, it is not Sonic." said Alistair "It is a cheetah. A FEMALE cheetah."

"A cheetah?" said Lennox in surprise "Hmm…I wonder who that cheetah might be then? Some Royal Fighter perhaps?"

"Whoever it is, we need to set up an ambush before that cheetah discovers us!" declared Owen "She's coming towards the caverns so she's probably gonna come down here!"

"I agree, Team Diamond take your positions." ordered Lennox "We'll make sure that cheetah doesn't find out what we're doing down here."

With that said, Team Diamond all took up positions that would be perfect for an ambush. Roxy ducked down behind the piles of tools that Team Diamond had for their digging, Owen stood by the entrance so he could make an instant grab for the intruder once she came in, Lennox stood in a corner and made himself as scarce as possible and Alistair hung upside from the ceiling and like a proper bat and he waited for the intruder to come in so he could drop down on her and nab her. The team were in position to launch the perfect ambush. The intruder wouldn't be prepared for this at all…

Outside, Kiara the Cheetah screeched to a halt just before the cavern entrances and she looked around. There didn't seem to be anybody about. It was just her, out here all alone outside the cavern entrances. Either the "four strangers" weren't here today or they were already inside. Regardless, Kiara would take them out and prove to Thomas that she doesn't need babysitting all the time. Kiara cracked her knuckles.

"OK Kiara-girl, this is your moment." she said "The moment where I stop being treated like a kid and start being treated like a REAL fighter. I'm not too pleased I had to disobey Thomas again but if he won't let me prove myself better and more capable then he gives me credit for then why shouldn't I disobey him? If he STILL thinks I need watching over…then I'll truly go berserk."

Kiara was about to charge into the cavern when she stopped herself and calmed down.

"No Kiara, you can't run in like that. Gotta be slow, steady and calm." said Kiara, taking a deep breath "You might run into trouble down there. Slow and steady wins the race as they say."

As you can see, Kiara can be quite clever when she calms down. If she was able to control herself a bit better than she could be one amazing Royal Fighter. Kiara walked into the cavern and started heading down deep inside, ready to catch the trespassers. As she headed down though, she began to feel a little worried. She had heard from Thomas that the four strangers had taken down the guards set up here as if they were nothing. Would she be able to take them on herself? Easily. She took down Marik by herself so why would four strangers be enough? They were likely just your generic thugs who are all talk but no battle. Kiara just hoped that they weren't aliens or anything since she was terrified of them and her horrible torture at the hands of Count Nyder during the Martian invasion had made her even more scared of aliens than before. The likelihood of the strangers being aliens was a million to one now though so Kiara shook off the very thought. Kiara went down further into the cavern until finally, she came to the digging site of Team Diamond. She walked through the entrance into the room and she immediately noticed the wall of golden nuggets. How amazing they looked to her, especially since she didn't think there was any gold still down there. The GoldenCaverns clearly harboured more treasure than anyone had realized.

"Wow…look at them nuggets…" gasped Kiara "So I guess people were right to speculate that the caverns still have gold in them after all…"

Then suddenly, before she would walk over and get a proper look at the gold nuggets, Owen lunged at her and grabbed her. Kiara squealed in alarm but she was quickly silence by Owen slapping a strip of duct tape around her mouth (Team Diamond brought some duct tape with them in case they needed it. They're known for their contingencies). Kiara squirmed in Owen's rock solid grip but the cheetah had no chance of escaping. Owen was much to strong for a puny cheetah like her. Owen then proceeded to pin the squirming Kiara down on the floor and he got out the roll of duct tape. He unrolled it and proceeded to wrap it around Kiara's body, trussing her up tightly with the strong, sticky tape. Kiara's entire torso was wrapped in tape and her arms were firmly fixed by her sides so she couldn't do anything with them. Owen added extra security by taping her ankles together. She squirmed furiously in her tape binds, desperate to break free. But of course, duct tape is ridiculously sticky and very tough, there was no breaking out of this one. Kiara screamed some muffled screams behind her gag, not that it'd do her any good since nobody would be able to hear her. Owen yanked Kiara onto her knees by her hair, earning a muffled cry from the cheetah and the other three members of Team Diamond emerged from their hiding places to see who they were up against. Kiara was still squirming and she had her eyes closed as she squirmed to she didn't even notice the other members yet. Roxy stared at her and she folded her arms.

"Well, well, who do we have here?" asked Roxy coldly "Some poor kid it seems to me."

"Aye, that it does Roxy." purred Alistair in his deep slithering voice "Yet she looks…familiar somehow."

"I've got that same weird vibe Alistair. Have we met her before?" wondered Owen "I'm sure I've seen this brat before."

Kiara stopped squirming and opened her eyes. She looked at Alistair and Owen she seemed to gasp a muffled gasp, her eyes widening as she gasped, at the sight of them. She clearly looked scared to be seeing them for some reason. Owen and Alistair had a feeling Kiara had met them before, meaning they HAD indeed met her before. Lennox stood before Kiara and he bent down on one knee to look her in the eye. Kiara stared at Lennox and her eyes narrowed down to angry slits of pure unadulterated rage. She looked furious to be seeing Lennox kneeling before her for some reason.

"Mmmmou!" she mumbled crossly behind her gag.

"You…" said Lennox in a cold voice "I remember you, you little brat. Kiara the Cheetah your name is, is it not?"

Kiara nodded "Yes" to let Lennox know he was right. Lennox scowled at her.

"Ooooh yes I remember you Kiara…your parents were members of H.U.N.T. once before but they betrayed us just so they could have a kid, said kid being you." snarled Lennox "We didn't like that so we executed them for their treason and to avoid you spilling on us, I ordered Owen to kill you. Somehow, he failed to carry out that task." he added, glaring a seething glare at the muscular rabbit.

"It's not MY fault cheetahs are so bloody fast sir!" protested Owen.

Kiara just tried to retort back at Lennox only she couldn't because of the tape on her mouth. Lennox wondered what she was trying to say so he ripped the tape off her mouth, leaving her with a very bad sting around her lips. Kiara fought the stinging pain around her lips and she glared at Lennox.

"You murdered my parents in cold blood!" screamed Kiara "You didn't execute them for treason at all! They were NEVER members of your stupid organization!"

"You are such an idiot Kiara." sighed Lennox "Would we have killed your parents if we didn't have a reason to?! We maybe ruthless but we don't kill without reason! And the reason we killed your parents is because they betrayed us!"

"No they did not!" Kiara retorted "How could you think two people as nice as my mom and dad were EVER part of your evil?! Stop lying about my parents like that! You even heard them tell you how wrong you are!"

"That's because they're denying the truth!" snapped Lennox, punching Kiara in the face as hard as he could "They're the lairs, not me! They would have lied to you just to make themselves out as good souls and to hide their shady backgrounds! They ARE traitors to H.U.N.T. and they deserved to be executed! Nobody betrays H.U.N.T. and lives!"

"You'll make up any stupid excuse won't you?!" snarled Kiara furiously "YOU are the liar, not my parents! They weren't treasure hunters! They were ordinary people and I loved them very much! And you selfish monsters took them away from me and now you make up excuses as to why you did it! How low can you demons sink?!"

Lennox decided not to argue anymore. It was obvious Kiara wasn't in a listening mood today. Why bother talk sense into someone as obstinate as her? Lennox glowered at Kiara and he slapped the tape back onto her mouth.

"Fine, don't believe us. Shows how blind to reality you are." snarled Lennox "Owen, take that filthy brat and throw her into the next cave." he ordered "And once she's in there, I want you to kill her."

"With pleasure…" said Owen darkly.

Kiara squirmed like a mad thing upon hearing those words. Owen picked Kiara up by the scruff of her neck and he carried her out of the cavern. As soon as Owen left, Lennox turned to Alistair.

"Alistair, keep watch again and see if anymore intruders plan on sneaking around here." he ordered "I have a feeling Kiara might have back up."

"With pleasure sir." said Alistair gleefully.

Alistair toddled on outside to keep watch again.

"So I guess it's just me and you to unearth those golden nuggets?" asked Roxy.

"Yes dear." said Lennox with a smile "Let's get picking."

So Lennox and Roxy picked up a pickaxe each and started picking away at the wall, breaking away bits of rock to widen the crack so they could get to the glorious golden nuggets. It was going to take awhile but it'd be worth it and once they got all the nuggets out. Oh how glorious it would be to show them off and win over some treasure hunters with them. H.U.N.T. would be reformed in no time at all…

Meanwhile, Sonic had finally arrived at the GoldenCaverns and he screeched to a halt. He let go of Tails and Dark Cat and the three looked out at the caverns. Sonic could see why they were called "The Golden Caverns". The caverns had a slight golden tinge to their colours.

"So these are the GoldenCaverns I guess?" said Sonic.

"I'd assume so." said Dark "I've not toured much of Megapolis so I don't know if they are or not."

"I can say we must have missed Kiara though, she's nowhere in sight." said Tails, looking around only to find no sign of Kiara.

"She must have gone in the cave already." deduced Sonic "Let's look for her."

"I'll be a good pick to search in the caves." volunteered Dark "I can see well in the dark. I have night vision like most felines do."

"Hmm…OK then." said Sonic "You can go look for Kiara Dark. Say, you know that she seems to fancy you…do you feel the same way towards Kiara?"

Dark blushed at that remark.

"Oh uh…heh, heh…I will admit Kiara's cute and all…and I do owe her for saving my life and giving me a chance to start anew with the R.F.S. so…I can easily say I like Kiara." said Dark bashfully.

"I thought so." said Sonic "I wonder if she'll be happy to see you here at all, what with her running off on her own to prove herself and all."

"I shouldn't think Kiara will be too hostile towards me, although I'm expecting a generic "Why are you here! I wanted to do this alone!" lecture from her if she sees me." sighed Dark "And I think you two should expect that too, it's gonna happen no doubt."

"We'll be prepared for that." said Tails "Now let's get in those caverns and help Kiara deal with the so-called "strangers" around here."

"Hold on a minute, I think someone's coming out of that cave." said Dark, pointing ahead at the main cave entrance.

Sonic and Tails peered at the cave entrance and they could see Owen walking out of the cave with Kiara, held firmly by the scruff of her neck with one hand and squirming furiously in her binds, desperate to get free. Sonic thought he was going to collapse at the sight of Owen. What made him feel even more like he was going to collapse was seeing Alistair come out of the cave to keep watch for intruders. Even Tails was horrified at the sight of them.

"No way!" cried Sonic "That's Owen and Alistair down there!"

"It can't be! They along with Lennox and Roxy were arrested and incarcerated!" shrieked Tails "How can they possibly be right there right now?!"

"They escaped I bet." muttered Sonic "The bad guy always escapes prison, they never stay there. Well, it's time to put them back in their cells!"

"Wait a minute, you know those two?" asked Dark.

"Unfortunately." muttered Tails "Those two are members of a treasure hunting organization called H.U.N.T. which recently got terminated thanks to my sister Sora and our friend Rouge the Bat ratting them out. They along with two others who are presumably in the caves form "Team Diamond" and they've done many horrible crimes. They kidnapped me and Amy and held us hostage once, tortured my sister, killed her comrade and have stolen many priceless treasures in their time. Looks like they got Kiara unfortunately, we have to save her!"

"I'll save Kiara." said Dark "You and Sonic take care of the bat and see if those other two members are in the cave."

"You got it Darky." said Sonic with a thumbs up "Let's do it to it Tails!"

With that said, Dark dashed off towards Owen, who had gone through another cave entrance that led down a different cave with Kiara in hand. While he did that, Sonic and Tails ran towards Alistair, ready to beat the stuffing out of the bat. Alistair saw them coming and he jumped in alarm with his hands to his head.

"Oh my goodness! It's Sonic the Hedgehog!" he shrieked, his voice nearly losing it's deepness due to how frightened he was "I'd best warn Lennox, Roxy and Owen!"

But before he could do anything, Sonic spin-dashed him into the wall next to the cave entrance and slammed him as hard as he could against it. Alistair gasped so loudly for breath that you'd think he would suddenly hack up his lungs or something. Sonic grabbed Alistair by the throat and started throttling him.

"OK Alistair, how did you and your cronies manage to break outta prison?!" demanded Sonic "And what are you traipsing around here for?"

"How we broke out and what we are doing here is none of your business worm!" snarled Alistair "All you should know is that you've made a BIG mistake traipsing around here! You will not leave this area alive!"

"Oh yeah?" snorted Sonic "What can you do like, flap your wings at me?"

Then suddenly, Sonic felt the cold steel of a gun barrel being pointed at his head. It was the barrel of a revolve, most notably, the revolver of Lennox Meers! Lennox had heard Alistair calling for help and he had run up out of the cave to see Alistair in trouble from Sonic. Now Lennox had Sonic on the ropes. Tails tried to help Sonic but Roxy, who had come out of the cave with Lennox, clubbed him on the head with her bat and knocked him out instantly before he could get near him. Tails collapsed on the ground and lay just a few inches away from Lennox. Sonic sighed to himself in annoyance.

"Well…crap." he muttered, letting go of Alistair and raising his hands.

He knew that trying anything with a gun barrel pressed directly at his head was suicide so he had to surrender whether he liked it or not. Lennox smirked at Sonic and he stroked the trigger with his finger, threatening to pull it.

"Good boy Sonic." purred Lennox "Roxy, get the tape!" he ordered.

Roxy obliged and she ran on back down into the cave to get the duct tape. Sonic just remained where he was for Lennox still had his gun pressed at his head.

"So Lennox, what are you gonna do to me and Tails then?" asked Sonic.

"Kill you." growled Lennox "But not in the way you're thinking. I'm not simply going to shoot you right now. That will be too quick and painless, you need something more brutal to pay for what you've done hedgehog. And you shall soon find out once Roxy comes back with the tape."

Right on cue, Roxy remerged from the cave and ran back to Lennox with the roll of duct tape in her hands. Lennox kept his gun pointed at Sonic as Roxy began to unroll the tape and edge towards him with it, grinning wickedly as she prepared to tape him up…

Down in the other cave, Owen had taken Kiara as far down as he dared and he sat her against the wall. Kiara began to whimper like a frightened child at Owen, the tape around her mouth inflating and deflating with every breath she took. She was frightened out of her wits here, even more so that when the Martians invaded. She was about to be killed by the very person who had been ordered to kill her after her parents were murdered. Owen cracked his knuckles nastily and flashed Kiara a killer smile. The cheetah was practically soiling herself right now.

"Right…how should I kill you Kiara?" asked Owen "Should I grab your head and smash your face against the wall until you die? Should I crush your head with my bear hands? Should I rip it off? Should I just simply snap your neck?"

Kiara shook her head furiously. She really didn't want to die at all. Owen just chuckled and clenched his fists.

"I'll just beat you to death…" he crooned "After all, I can do with the exercise…"

"MMMMO! MMMMMO!" squealed Kiara from behind her gag as Owen advanced on her menacingly.

"Leave her alone you overgrown Easter bunny!" yelled a familiar voice that Kiara was all too happy to be hearing right now.

Owen turned around and stared at the one who dared to tell him off like this. It was Dark Cat. He stood before Owen, his face a furious scowl and his teeth clenched.

"Who the hell are you?!" asked Owen.

"I'm Dark Cat and you are abusing my friend!" snarled Dark "Let her go or I'll be forced to use violent methods to make you comply!"

"Do you seriously believe I'm gonna listen to a scrawny little pussycat?" sneered Owen "I'll snap you in two easy as pie!"

"We'll see about that bunny boy." said Dark coldly.

He then surprised Owen by clenching his fists and out of his arms drew two long silver blades that were sharper than the average sword and shinier than gold coins. Kiara beamed happily, she'd longed to see Dark fight and now was her chance. Owen gaped at what he saw.

"H-h-how d-d-did y-y-you d-d-do that?!" he gibbered in fear.

"During my time in Chun-Nan, I got blessed with a little…ancient Chun-Nan chi-magic." said Dark, raising his blades "I can summon these blades outta my arms and make them disappear anytime I like. You don't look like you have a sword of your own to fight back with." he sneered, smirking confidently.

"Bah! I don't need a sword!" snorted Owen "I'll crush you with my bare hands!"

Owen thundered towards Dark like an angry rhinoceros, roaring furiously as he did so. Dark just calmly breathed and then jumped out of the way, leaving Owen to crash into a wall. Owen took the crash though and he threw a punch at Dark. Dark bent over backwards to dodge the punch and he slashed Owen across the face with his blade. Owen screamed in pain and he clutched his face. Dark sheathed his blades for he didn't really need them and he uppercut Owen in the face. Then he jumped up to Owen's height and kicked him in the chest. Owen was thrown down onto the ground and he winced in pain. Owen picked himself up and he punched at Dark again. Dark smacked Owen's fist away and he gut-kicked the rabbit. Owen doubled over in pain and Dark jumped up to the ceiling. He deployed his blades and sliced some rocks down from the ceiling. The rocks rained down onto the floor and some broke into little pieces. Dark sheathed his blades and started kicking all the rocks at Owen. The rocks hit Owen and made him stagger backwards. Then Dark, with a terrifying cat screech, ran towards Owen, jumped in the air and spiralled towards him, images of black claws surrounding him as he spun. This was his best attack, the Shadow Claw attack. He bombarded Owen with the attack and threw him across the room. Owen crashed into the wall and grimaced as pain swept over his body. Now the rabbit was down, Dark ran over to Dark and he lightly peeled the tape off of her mouth.

"Oh thank you so much Dark!" cried Kiara happily "I was about to be killed before you showed up! You saved my life!"

"Don't mention it Kiara." said Dark with a charming smile on his face "So what, are you now gonna start lecturing me on coming here when you wanted to go alone?"

"No! Of course not! I'm glad you came!" shrieked Kiara happily "I was an idiot to go alone! I almost got killed because of my stubbornness! I promise that as long as I live I'll NEVER disobey Thomas and go on my own ever again! Promise!"

Dark smiled upon hearing that.

"Well, you've improved already babe." he said "Guess all you needed was a near-death experience to teach you an important lesson."

"As horrible as it was, it seems that way." said Kiara "By the way, your fighting is incredible! You're awesome!"

"Aw…thanks." said Dark modestly "I did train a lot in martial arts back in Chun-Nan after all.

"I see." said Kiara "Now, can you get me out of this stupid tape please? It's making me itch and it's tugging nastily on my fur!"

"OK then. Sorry if this gets painful." said Dark, preparing to peel the tape off of Kiara.

"I don't care, just get me out of it!" snapped Kiara.

"Stand down or lose Sonic the Hedgehog and his friend!" snarled a terrible voice that made Dark nearly jump out of his fur.

Dark turned around and to his horror, he saw Lennox, Roxy and Alistair standing before him with a tapped up and gagged Sonic and Tails and Lennox had his revolvers pointed at their heads. The meerkat had a serious look of death on his face.

"Get away from the prisoner and stand down or Sonic and Tails will splatter the ground with their blood!" snarled Lennox "And maybe their brains too!"

He showed that he wasn't kidding by clocking his revolvers and curling his fingers around the triggers. He twitched them slightly, making his threat all the more serious. Dark just stood there, not knowing what to do. If he didn't do something, Sonic and Tails would be dead and then Lennox would probably kill him and Kiara too…

Footnotes:

 See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 10: Pain in Megapolis

* See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 17: Divide

Well Team Diamond seem to have the upperhand here! Can Dark Cat save Sonic and Tails? Or will he be forced to surrender too? Find out next time as the H.U.N.T. continues...

Special thanks to 1misteraaron, a fellow DeviantArt user, for letting me use his character Dark Cat in this story. Dark Cat belongs to 1misteraaron and was used with his permission. All credit goes to him for the creation of the character and letting me feature him in this story.

HUNT-Ed Part 2

Story 158: HUNT-ed Part 2: Hunting the Hunters

Things were looking a bit "sticky" for Sonic the Hedgehog and friends and that wasn't because of the fact he and his best friend Tails were wrapped up in duct tape. Sonic and Tails had come to Megapolis after receiving a call from the local Royal Fighter team there and their job was to deal with some strangers hanging our around the Golden Caverns, a popular tourist attraction in Megapolis. To Sonic's dismay, the strangers turned out to be the nefarious Team Diamond, mercenaries who worked for the now terminated H.U.N.T. They were plotting to reform H.U.N.T. by finding treasures and winning over many treasure-hunters with them. Right now, Team Diamond have Sonic and Tails tightly trussed up in tape and the leader, Lennox Meers, is holding them at gunpoint. The Megapolis Royal Fighter's newest recruit, Dark Cat the Leo-Lynx, stood there horrified at his captured friend and his brain whirled for a way to save them without risking their lives. What can he do in a situation like this? Dark had a feeling that Lennox would pull the triggers and shoot Sonic and Tails if he so much as looked at him funny so Dark needed a plan and he needed it fast. Beads of sweat trickled down his face and his heart began to pound like a war drum. He didn't know what to do. If he so much as moved or even attempted to run up to Lennox, he might be too late and Lennox would shoot Sonic and Tails. He did NOT want the deaths of Sonic and Tails on his hands so he didn't care risk anything yet he knew he couldn't surrender at the same time. He had to save them as well as his best friend and admirer, Kiara the Cheetah who was kneeling beside him and still taped up. Kiara looked worried and she looked up at Dark.

"Dark! Do something! Save them!" she screamed "We can't let those freaks kill Sonic & Tails!"

"Kiara, please." said Dark "I'm thinking on how to save them."

"Don't bother." snarled Lennox threateningly "If you even so much as THINK about trying to save these two, I'll shoot them!

"Sir please, let's not be too hasty." begged Dark desperately "We can settle this peacefully, we don't need to be so violent and harsh."

"Speak for yourself pussycat!" snapped Owen Pounder the Rabbit, Team Diamond's muscle "You just beat the crap out of me so you're one to talk about "settling things peacefully"!"

"You forced me to use violence." said Dark "I'm sure your hat wearing friend is more reasonable."

"The name is Lennox you spotty moron and I am anything BUT reasonable." said Lennox coldly "I will give you one last chance to surrender or I'll shoot the prisoners. Last chance, I'm not kidding!"

"No, don't kill them!" shrieked Kiara "Please, anything but that!"

"Yeah Lennox, please don't hurt them!" begged Dark.

"Then do as I ask!" shouted Lennox "My fingers are getting awfully itchy now…"

He twitched the triggers ever so gently on his revolvers, threatening to pull them and let Sonic and Tails have it. The taped up Mobians could only struggle and mumble frightened muffled mumbles behind their gags as death was preparing to give them the swish. Dark began to sweat even more. Sonic and Tails were staring death right in the face right now, what was he going to do?! He decided that it would be best to just surrender and hope Lennox keeps true to his word. Dark bent down onto his knees and he put his hands on his head.

"I surrender, just please for the love of god don't kill Sonic and Tails." said Dark.

"Dark, you can't surrender! Who will save us now?!" shrieked Kiara.

"I'm sorry love but I have no choice." said Dark grimly "Those guys aren't playing around you know, I can't let them take Sonic and Tails' lives. What will their Royal Fighter team think if they get killed?"

"The same can go to you heathen." said Lennox with a wicked smile on his cutesy little meerkat face "Roxy, tape him up."

"With pleasure." said Roxy the Raccoon, the Team Diamond beauty, unrolling the duct tape and advancing on Dark with it.

"WHAT?! I've surrendered!" screeched Dark Cat "You can't do this to me…glomph!"

He was quickly silenced as Roxy ripped off a piece of tape and slapped it onto his mouth. Roxy unrolled some more tape and then began wrapping it around Dark's body, trussing him up tightly as with Sonic, Tails and Kiara. Kiara could only watch as the one she fancied was now sharing her predicament. After Dark had finally been trussed up in tape, Roxy threw him beside Kiara and she put a new strip of tape over Kiara's mouth (bet her mouth's feeling really sore now after having tape put on and taken off so many times already). Lennox dumped Sonic and Tails beside the two felines and he smiled wickedly at his four captives.

"Now the riff-raff has been dealt with, time to execute you all." he said "Alistair, have you got that bomb ready?" he asked the sinister mask-wearing bat.

"Indeed I have Lennox." said Alistair Drakken, the Team Diamond spy, holding up a bomb that he had brought with him. The bomb was used for controlled explosions and demolition should such tactics be required for the job.

Sonic, Tails, Dark and Kiara stared in horror at the bomb. Was Lennox going to blow them up with it? Seemed logical enough, why would Lennox have a bomb if he wasn't going to blow someone up with it? Lennox took the bomb from Alistair and then he took the tape from Roxy. He knelt down on the floor and glowered at his prisoners, tapping buttons on the bomb and setting up a time for it to go off.

"Sonic the Hedgehog, you and your bratty friend Tails, that super spy Sora and the traitorous Rouge the Bat caused us to lose our organization." growled Lennox "Everybody in H.U.N.T. including the boss is in prison now and all because of you! So as you can see, I cannot let you live…"

Sonic muttered something from behind his gag that sounded like he was trying to say "I figured as such Mr. Obvious". Lennox continued.

"…In order to pay for terminating H.U.N.T., I am going to set off this bomb." he explained, placing the bomb on the floor and then ripping off a strip of duct tape "The bomb will either blow you to pieces or bring the ceiling down on you all. Or maybe do both at once. Either way, your fates will be nasty that's for sure."

As he said that he taped the bomb down onto the floor to prevent the captive Mobians from moving it at all. It was taped down just inches away from Sonic's feet. The meerkat smiled a demon's smile at Sonic.

"When you lot are dead, me and my team will take the golden nuggets we've found in the Golden Caverns next door and we will show them to any potential treasure hunters." he purred, grabbing Sonic by the face "They'll go mad over such a find and we'll offer them a place in H.U.N.T. in exchange for the nuggets. Once we get enough members, the organization will be back in business and we can continue our treasure-hunts as before and YOU won't be around to interfere with them Sonic! As for you Tails, I promise you that your sister will join you in the afterlife too…" he added with a cruel chuckle at the furious twin-tailed fox.

Tails mumbled some angry muffles at Lennox but the meerkat didn't take the slightest bit of notice. Lennox pushed a button on the bomb and got to his knees. The bomb was set to go off in ten minutes, reason being so Team Diamond could get well out of the cave in time to avoid the blast. By the time the bomb went off, they'd be in the main cave with the golden nuggets and they'd be unearthing them without a moment's hesitance. Lennox tipped his hat mockingly at Sonic, Tails, Dark and Kiara.

"Hats off to you four." he sneered "I hope the bomb goes off very violently. Well team, let's get back to unearthing those golden nuggets."

"Yes Lennox." said Roxy, Alistair and Owen.

So with that said, Team Diamond walked up out of the cave and left the prisoners to get blown to smithereens. As Team Diamond left the cave, the bomb ticked down to just nine minutes left until detonation. There was not much time left at all, Sonic, Tails, Dark and Kiara had to break free and get out of the cave before the bomb went off or they would end up with a very nasty death. Now Team Diamond were gone, there was nothing to stop the taped up Mobians from struggling and trying to get free. Sonic writhed and wriggled around like a butterfly trying to get out of its chrysalis but try as he might, he just couldn't get free. The tape was too sticky and much too tough for him to break free of. Duct tape is among some of the stickiest and toughest tapes in the world after all, even someone as strong as Knuckles would have trouble breaking out of it. Tails tried to break free but try as he might, he couldn't get free as well. Unlike Sonic though, he was beginning to panic. Sweat rained down his head as if he was in a tropical environment and he began to breathe very fast, the tape around his mouth inflating in and out as he panted. Kiara tried to break free but she couldn't get free either. She was beginning to panic too and she shook furiously as if she was in a freezing cold freezer. Dark tried to break free but even someone as strong as him couldn't break free either. Tails decided to try something. If they couldn't break free, they could at least try to stop the bomb from going off. Tails shuffled over to the bomb and he looked over at the buttons. To his dismay, the tape fastening the bomb to the floor was over some buttons. That wasn't helpful for the right button Tails needed to stop the bomb could be under the tape. Not to mention Tails' hands were hardly useful given they were taped behind his back. So if they couldn't stop the bomb, they could at least move it out of the cave. Tails kicked at the bomb, trying to shift it but the tape kept it down on the floor. Sonic shook his head at Tails and mumbled something that sounded like "No Tails, you might set it off if you damage it so don't kick it!" Tails had a feeling that Sonic was right on that (yes, he managed to understand Sonic believe it or not) so he didn't try again. He instead shifted around and tried picking at the tape with his hands. But his hands had been taped to tightly together so he could hardly manoeuvre his fingers and get them in the right angle to peel the tape off the bomb. He looked at the bomb to see how much time they had left. Only five minutes. Time was running out! The bomb was about to explode any moment now! Tails began to panic and he tried thinking on what to do next. Then suddenly Dark had an idea. He remember that he could draw blades out of his arms, if he could do that still, he could just cut himself free and free the others. Dark Cat shifted his arms around and willed for his arm blades to come out. They did and they sliced directly through the tape, freeing his arms and allowing him to move. Dark cut the tape from around his legs and he peeled the tape off from around his mouth. He took a big gasp of breath for he could now open his mouth again. It felt good to get some air back into his lungs now. Dark quickly saw to freeing the others. He freed Kiara first by cutting her tape up and peeling off the tape around her mouth. Kiara's first reaction was to hug Dark and then rush over to Tails. She decided to speed things up by freeing Tails while Dark freed Sonic. Kiara yanked on the tape and gently peeled it off so as not to tear off large clumps of fur from Tails. She managed to get all the tape off and Tails took off his tape gag. Dark cut Sonic free and Sonic took off his gag. He gasped for breath and took a big stretch.

"Gasp…oh man does it feel good to breathe again!" he cried "Thanks a lot Dark, you sure saved us there."

"Welcome." said Dark "I'm just glad I have the ability to draw blades out of my arms otherwise we WOULD be stuck wouldn't we?"

"How can you do that anyway?" asked Tails.

"During my time in Chun-Nan, I got blessed with some Ancient Chun-Nan chi-magic that isn't easy to come across, especially nowadays where chi-magic practically is non-existent now due to how rare it is." explained Dark.

"Cool." said Sonic "Now then, since we're all free…let's get that bomb outta here."

Sonic peeled the tape off of the bomb and he picked it up. Only a minute left until detonation now. He zoomed out of the cave and he ran a good distance outside away from the cave. Sonic skidded to a halt and he looked at the bomb. Fifty seconds left for detonation. Sonic waited until there was only ten seconds left on the bomb and then he threw it into the air as high as he could possibly throw it. The bomb hurled into the air like a thrown baseball and it reached one second til detonation before finally exploding. It didn't even have time to start falling back down onto the ground before it blew up. The explosion it made wasn't a massive explosion for it was only for controlled demolition but it was still a big explosion that could have easily wiped out Sonic, Tails, Dark and Kiara had Sonic not gotten rid of it. The good thing about the bomb exploding in the air was that it didn't do any damage to the plains or any of the surrounding scenery. Sonic smiled with relief, happy the danger was over now and he whizzed off back into the cave to tell his friends the good news. Sonic was back down the cave in the blink of an eye and he skidded to a halt just in front of his friends, who had been listening out for the bomb and waiting for Sonic to come back.

"Good news pals, the bomb's gone off and it hasn't done even a bit of damage." announced Sonic "We're all clear now."

"Good work Sonic." said Tails brightly.

"Yeah, good work dude." said Dark.

"Although we couldn't have done it if Dark didn't manage to break free and set us all free." said Kiara, wrapping her arms around Dark and nuzzling his shoulder with her cheek "You're the big hero of the day Dark."

"Aw shucks, you're too kind Kiara." said Dark modestly "But Sonic deserves credit for being fast enough to dispose of the bomb safely too."

"I know." said Kiara "Well done to you too Sonic."

"Thanks." said Sonic "Now then, let's focus on stopping Team Diamond and putting them where they belong, behind bars."

"And hopefully they'll STAY there." muttered Tails.

"You're darn right those freaks deserve to be behind bars!" yelled Kiara "And I'm gonna go straight over to them and give them a beating!"

She tried to storm off but Dark grabbed her by the tail and held the cheetah back.

"Kiara, take it easy." said Dark "We need a plan first."

"I have one already, beat the crap out of them!" snapped Kiara "And I'm not waiting a second longer to make them pay for what they've done to me and what they just tried to do to us so let go of my tail!"

"No, I'm not letting you rush in and get in trouble again." said Dark sternly.

"Yeah no offence Kiara but you didn't exactly do well against Team Diamond on your own did ya?" noted Sonic "We need to stick together and we need a plan first."

"We don't have time for one!" shouted Kiara, pulling on her tail and trying to get it free from Dark's hand "We need to stop them now so stop wasting time and let's get going!"

Dark finally decided he'd had enough of Kiara's impetuous behaviour so he snapped.

"KIARA THAT'S ENOUGH!" he bellowed at the top of his voice, grabbing the cheetah by the shoulders and practically screaming in her face "Team Diamond are no push-overs! They managed to capture us all without having to so much as throw a punch at us so if you want to stop them then I suggest you stop being so stubborn and listen to us for once in your life! It's no bloody wonder that Thomas Tiger keeps holding you back! You're so stubborn and hot-headed that you practically can't function without someone watching over you so if you want to prove yourself worthy of being able to handle the situation alone then stop being a hot-head, listen to others and USE YOUR COMMON SENSE FOR ONCE!" he thundered, making Kiara practically jump out of her fur in fright due to how loud he was shouting.

"Whoa Dark, calm down, let's not be too hard on her." said Tails, hoping to cool the situation down before things got out of hand "I think you're scaring her. I get that you're trying to get her to listen to reason but shouting at her isn't gonna help."

Dark was about to snap but he stopped himself. He looked back at Kiara, the cheetah looking very frightened after he'd shouted at her like this. She was literally trembling as if she'd just seen a ghost. The leo-lynx began to feel a little bad about himself now. He'd lost his cool and terrified poor Kiara. That was not what he wanted to do at all. He relaxed his expression and he breathed a heavy sigh.

"Oh Kiara I uh...I uh...I didn't mean to frighten you." he stammered "I'm sorry I lost my cool and shouted at you."

"It's OK Dark, you're just trying to knock some sense into me." said Kiara softly, her attitude now different thanks to that rant Dark had "I'm sorry for being so stubborn all the time. I'll try and not be so hot-headed in the future."

"That's great." said Sonic "Although I do have to ask, why do you seem so keen on beating up Team Diamond?" he asked "It sounds like you have a deep, personal vendetta against them. Did they do something bad to you?"

Kiara's face fell upon receiving this question. She hugged herself and looked down at her feet, her eyes full of sorrow as some sad memories came back to her.

"They didn't just do something bad to me...they took my parents away from me and emotionally scarred me for life." said Kiara sadly "You see, I was born to quite a wealthy family and me and my parents, names Simba the Cheetah and Nala the Cheetah, lived in a fancy estate in Spagonia. They were wonderful people and they made me the happiest girl in the world by raising me well and tending to my heart's every desire. I loved them so much that I would willingly die for them. But then, one day after my ninth birthday...they came. Team Diamond, who at the time was just Lennox, Owen and Alistair, that raccoon girl wasn't with them back then, broke into my mansion and they tied my parents to chairs. I heard them up in my room and I sneaked down to see what was happening. I peeked through a crack in the door and saw my parents tied to chairs with some electrical wires taped to them. Lennox was shouting at them and asking some weird questions like "Why did you betray H.U.N.T.? What did you tell the cops? Did you tell anybody about us? What are you hiding?". My parents denied everything and claimed innocence while also saying they had the wrong people. Lennox refused to believe them and he just tortured them. He shocked them, trying to get them to talk. Every deny they made, the shock got worse. But Lennox got carried away and...and...he..." she paused as her beautiful purple eyes began to well up with tears and her lips began to tremble. She swallowed and then continued.

"...he killed them. He tortured them to death!" she wailed "My parents were murdered by those brutes! That's why I'm so keen to beat them up, they killed my parents over something they never did!"

She then broke down into rainfalls of tears. She put her hands over her face and wept into them, wailing loud sobs of anguish. Dark was horrified to hear such a horrible thing had happened to such a determined but sweet girl like Kiara. The leo-lynx just wrapped his arms around Kiara and started stroking her hair for comfort. Kiara gripped Dark's vest top and wept into his shoulder.

"Aw babe...I'm so sorry to hear that." said Dark sadly "That...that's dreadful! Nobody at that age should lose their parents, especially to creeps like them!"

"You're telling me." said Sonic, feeling sorry for Kiara as well "That's just way past uncool that is! Accusing your parents of something they didn't do and then killing them?! Team Diamond are beyond saving they are!"

"That's just so disgusting that is! I thought torturing my sister and killing her comrade was bad enough but this?!" cried Tails "That's just horrible!"

"I know!" howled Kiara "My parents weren't treasure hunters and they certainly never worked for those freaks! They said so themselves and my parents would never lie about something like that! But Lennox just wouldn't believe them and he killed them in cold blood! That monster in meerkat's clothing should rot in prison for taking not just my parents, but my whole life away from me!" she wailed.

"We'll make sure it happens sweetie." said Dark "So what happened after they were killed? Did you tell on Team Diamond?"

"Yeah, not like it did any good." said Kiara "After my parents were killed, I gave myself away by accident and Lennox sent Owen to kill me since I'd witnessed everything. Of course, he failed since I can run fast and I escaped his grasp. I fled to my Uncle Kovu's house and let him know what had happened. He raised me after that dreadful day and looked after me well. We did tell on Team Diamond but because of how clever and sneaky they are, they were never caught. That just made me mad that those heathens were getting away with what they did to my parents. Over time, I became less happy and more like I am now. Most of my stubborn streak comes from me going through those horrors I went through. When I heard about the R.F.S., I thought maybe I could become a fighter and save the world from evil like Team Diamond, prevent anyone else from suffering what I went through and maybe even be the one to put Team Diamond behind bars. That's what drove me to becoming one of you guys, my desire to stop evil from claiming more innocent lives. And now here I am, face-to-face with Team Diamond again and itching to make them pay for what they did to me. The raccoon girl I have no beef with since she had nothing to do with my parent's deaths but she can rot with them just by being part of their team I say."

"Well Kiara, we'll make sure that happens." said Sonic "Me, Tails, Rouge and Sora got them in prison once, now me, Tails, you and Dark can get them back in. What do ya say?"

"I say let's do it!" said Kiara enthusiastically, punching her hand with her fist "But first, we need a plan like you said so true blue, what's the plan?"

"I've got one actually." said Tails with a cute little smile on his cutesy little foxy face.

"Let's here it little guy." said Dark eagerly.

Tails gathered Sonic, Kiara and Dark into a huddle and he began to explain his plan to them in hushed whispers...

Back in the Golden Caverns, Team Diamond were hard at work mining the golden nuggets they had found in the cave. The team all had pickaxes and they were picking away at the wall, swinging the axes and tearing down chunks of rock with every hit they landed on them. They had heard the bomb go off outside given how an explosion is rarely ever quiet and the team instantly deduced that Sonic, Tails, Kiara and Dark were all dead now. Lennox grinned evilly to himself and reminded himself to check the cave and see if their were any bodies or fallen rocks to fully make sure that the Royal Fighters had kicked the bucket, not that he was doubtful they were dead, just double-checking. Never hurts to double check after all. As the team mined away, Roxy couldn't help but ask something. She had been thinking about Kiara claiming her parents were innocent whereas Lennox claimed them to be traitors. She wasn't sure who to believe and she decided to find out a bit more about this. She stopped picking away and she looked over at Lennox. Lennox looked back at her and frowned at the raccoon.

"Roxy, we have work to do." said Lennox coldly "Please carry on with it."

"I'm sorry Lennox, I just...wanted to ask something." said Roxy nervously "Please promise that you won't lose your temper over this question though."

"I'm pretty sure the question you want to ask is hardly rage-provoking dear." muttered Lennox "So go on, spill it out then. What do you want to ask?"

"Well um...you know that...um...you say Kiara's parents were...uh...traitors to H.U.N.T. whereas...um...Kiara says they...gulp...aren't?" stammered Roxy, gulping between words for she was worried that Lennox would go mad over this.

"Yes...?" said Lennox, not seeming mad in the slightest.

"Well uh...um...ahem...forgive me for doubting someone as handsome and clever as you are but uh...is Kiara right on them being innocent?" squeaked Roxy, bracing herself for an inevitable smack.

Lennox surprisingly refrained from hitting Roxy, unusual given how he likes to hit Roxy sometimes. Instead, the meerkat kept his often hard-to-keep cool and calmly said:

"No my dear. Kiara is wrong. Simba the Cheetah and Nala the Cheetah, that's their names, were among some of H.U.N.T.'s earliest members." he explained "They were part of Team Emerald, a team we were close friends of. They were amazing treasure-hunters and they got us many riches and relics during their time with us. For some reason though...they just left and didn't even tell us why. Given they now have a kid, I assume they left us just so they could raise a child but they didn't have to betray us!" he snarled, clenching his fists "They could have asked for a simple memory-wipe and forget all about us! But they didn't, thus meaning they're traitors!"

"I see." said Roxy, grateful Lennox didn't smack her for this "So I guess you killed them before they could squeal on you or give away any important details about H.U.N.T. right?"

"Actually, we tried torturing them for that information." explained Lennox "I hated having to do that to two close friends of Team Diamond's but traitors have to be punished after all. We tortured Simba and Nala, demanding them to talk. We wanted to know why they left H.U.N.T., did they grass on us and if they gave away any important details at all. They just denied everything and acted like we were idiots and got the wrong people. I...got carried away and killed them though." he added with a guilty look on his face "But that was an accident, we didn't intend to kill them. We just wanted them to talk and tell us why they left H.U.N.T. Kiara obviously doesn't believe us when we say they're traitors to H.U.N.T. because Simba and Nala have manipulated her puny mind into thinking they're all innocent and such. That and we DID kill them so it'll be hard for her to believe us when we say they're traitors who worked for us once."

"Right...just a pity the brat's so blind to reality." sighed Roxy "So her parents were indeed traitors to H.U.N.T.? Thanks for clearing that up for me."

"Anytime Roxy." said Lennox, swinging the pickaxe and tearing down a chunk of rock as he hit it "Now then, get back to work and let's not have any more talk."

Roxy decided to do as she was told and continue working. She swung the pickaxe and chipped off some more rocks as she did so. But before Team Diamond could continue any work, they heard a terrifying roar from outside. It sounded an awful lot like a leopard's roar and it made the four treasure hunters jump out of their skins in shock. Roxy found herself clutching Lennox like a frightened teddy bear without really realizing it. Quite often when you're scared you do something without really noticing it.

"W-w-w-what w-w-was that?!" shrieked Roxy.

"I don't know but I might be able to concentrate better if you let go of me!" snapped Lennox.

Roxy did as she was told and she let go of Lennox, blushing with embarrassment over the fact she'd even done that.

"What was that?" asked Owen, throwing his pickaxe down on the floor "Sounded like something roaring."

"Not more Royal Fighters nosing around on our business!" fumed Lennox, putting down his axe and whipping out his revolvers "Team Diamond, let's take care of them as we did the others!"

With that said, Team Diamond all left their work behind and they rushed up out of the cave to see what the roar was all about. As soon as they reached the surface though, they got a bit of a surprise. For standing right before them and smiling an innocent, cutesy smile was Tails. He had his hands behind his back and he didn't seem worried for some reason. Lennox's jaw dropped down so far that he was amazed it wasn't touching the floor yet. Roxy was babbling like an idiot over this surprise, Owen just looked stunned and Alistair showed no real emotion over this. He just stood there and stared at Tails.

"Oh hello there." said Tails politely, the polite tone of his voice and words just for a laugh "I'm terribly sorry, am I disturbing you?"

"Wh…wha…how did…you…huh…gah…uh…
WWWWWHHHHHHHHHHHAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAATTT shrieked Lennox, his voice sounding very squeaky and hilarious as he emitted that "what?!" "HOW IN THE NAME OF ALL THINGS WEALTHY DID YOU MANAGE TO SURVIVE THE BOMB?!"

"As if I'm gonna tell you that you crazy meerkat." laughed Tails "All I can say now is that you and your team mates are all morons and should take up a better job than treasure hunting. I can imagine you'll make a good advertising icon for some car insurance website* Lennox."

Lennox fumed. He was so sick of people making that joke about him already. He pointed his revolvers at Tails and prepared to shoot him. Tails just smiled smugly at him. Riling Lennox was all part of his plan after all.

"Well if the bomb didn't kill you then my revolvers will!" he snarled "No wonder I often feel I should just shoot my victims and be done with it when I want someone dead!"

Tails then cupped his hands around his mouth and screamed "NOW GUYS!" at the top of his voice. What followed was a spin-dash to the back on all four members that threw them all down onto the ground. It was Sonic. While Tails had been distracting Team Diamond, Dark Cat had used his blades to keep himself above the cave entrance and he had Sonic and Kiara on his back. Now Tails had given the signal, Sonic had pounced on Team Diamond and knocked them all down. Dark and Kiara jumped down onto the ground and prepared to fight off the insidious treasure hunters. Lennox tried to grab his revolvers but Dark stepped in and chopped them in two with his blades, rendering them useless to anyone now.

"Sorry, no guns allowed." sneered Dark.

"So…you four managed to survive the bomb somehow!" growled Lennox "But how?! I heard it go off! You obviously didn't stop it!"

"Nah, we just broke free and got rid of the bomb." said Sonic "Now you cretins, surrender now or get pounded, simple as that!"

"As if we're gonna surrender heathen!" snarled Alistair "We've got treasures to unearth and you are slowing down our work! We will not allow you to live a second longer if you're not gonna let us work in peace so put em' up!" he growled, baring his razor sharp claws.

"Fine, don't say I didn't warn ya." said Sonic "So who wants to fight who then?" he asked his friends.

"Alistair's mine!" declared Tails "I've got a particular hatred of him in particular."

"I'm going after Lennox! He's the one who killed my parents after all!" yelled Kiara.

"And I sure would like to kick Owen's ass again." said Dark with a cocky tone of voice.

"So I get the girl then?" snickered Sonic "Fair enough. Royal Fighters, let's jail those treasure-hunters for good!"

"Team Diamond, slaughter them!" yelled Lennox.

The eight Mobians all charged at each other and began to do battle. Sonic ran towards Roxy, Dark ran towards Owen, Kiara ran towards Lennox and Tails and Alistair flew towards each other.

Lennox jumped into the air and tried to dropkick Kiara on the head but Kiara jumped out of his way and waited for Lennox to land on the ground. Lennox landed and Kiara elbowed him very hard in the back. Kiara then tripped Lennox up with a kick to the legs and due to how fast she moved, she was able to kick Lennox and send him flying before he could land on the ground. Lennox hurled across the battlefield and he rolled across the ground a few feet away from Kiara. Kiara rushed over to Lennox and just as the meerkat picked himself up, she roundhouse punched him in the face and then uppercut him in the chin. Lennox rubbed his face better and he gut-kicked Kiara. He then yanked on her hair and to add insult to injury, kicked her again as he yanked on her hair, making the yank even harder and more painful. Kiara screamed in pain and Lennox grabbed her in a chokehold. Kiara gagged and she tried to break free but Lennox had a tough grip on the cheetah.

"Kiara, you can deny your parent's ties with H.U.N.T. all you like but you MUST know this!" he said to her "I did not intend to kill them!

Their deaths were accidental! Honestly they were!"

"I've had enough of your lies you demon!" snarled Kiara "You would have killed my parents even if you made them talk! You fully intended to kill them and I'm gonna make you pay for it asshole!"

She then violently bit Lennox on the hand and made him let go of her. As soon as she break free, she punched Lennox in the face as hard as she could and then punched him directly on the nose. Every punch she threw was full of rage and contentment for the meerkat and she was intending to hurt him as much as she could. Lennox threw a punch at Kiara but the cheetah grabbed his arm and sharply twisted it to the side. Lennox cried out in pain and Kiara punched him in the eye. Lennox put his hand over his eye, which had swollen and turned purple in colour after the punch, and Kiara kicked him in the chest, knocking him down onto his back. Lennox took off his hat and he threw it into Kiara's face as she charged at him. Kiara smacked the hat off her face to which Lennox caught it and put it back on his head. He uppercut Kiara in the face and gave her a left hook to the jaw. He then stood on his hands and swung his laws at Kiara, walloping her in the head and knocking her down onto her side. Kiara picked herself up and kicked Lennox down onto his back, earning a grunt of pain from the meerkat.

Tails and Alistair had taken to the skies for this battle. Tails flew towards Alistair and tried to punch him in the face but Alistair dodged his attack. He flew behind Tails and rammed him in the back face-first. Tails yelped in pain, made all the more worse by the fact Alistair wore a very hard mask, and he swiped his tails at Alistair. Alistair just grabbed his tails and swung him down into the ground. Tails growled furiously and he flew up towards Alistair. Alistair just kick-slammed Tails in the head and sent him spiralling down to the ground. Alistair swooped down after Tails and he caught the fox before he could land on the ground. But this was no rescue, this was to launch another attack. Alistair threw Tails into the wall of the cave as hard as he could. Tails crashed into the wall and he grimaced in pain. Alistair then grabbed Tails by the neck and pinned him against the wall, choking the fox and making him gasp and splutter.

"Ack…let…me…go!" croaked Tails.

"Not a chance little boy." purred Alistair sinisterly "You have become a big nuisance for me and I intend to put you down like a rabid little dog. Not to mention I owe you much for that beat down you gave me back in the factory. When I deal with you…I think I'll slaughter your sister too." he added with a cruel chuckle.

"You…ack…stay away…from my sister!" gagged Tails.

He then kicked Alistair directly in the tender spot, making the bat scream a croaky, haunting scream of pain that made it sound like a demon was in agonizing pain. Tails then tail-whipped Alistair away from himself and sent him skidding across the ground painfully. Alistair picked himself up and flew out of the way just as Tails prepared to deck him. Alistair swooped down and grabbed Tails with his feet. Tails writhed around and tried to make Alistair let go of him. Alistair instead slammed Tails into the ground. Tails however grabbed his ankles and pulled him down before he could fly away. Tails jumped up to his feet and he kicked Alistair in the mask, making the bat groan in pain. Tails then roundhouse kicked Alistair in the face and knocked him down onto his side. The bat growled furiously and he and Tails charged towards each other again.

As for Dark and Owen, they had linked arms with each other and were pushing on each other's arms, trying to overpower the other. Owen was much stronger than Dark so he was beginning to win this little struggle but Dark still fought on, keen to overpower the enormous, muscular rabbit. Owen smiled wickedly at Dark and then suddenly, he lifted him directly off the ground. He threw Dark into the wall of the cave and thundered towards him, ready to punch the leo-lynx's daylights out. But Dark dodged his attack and he punched Owen in the face. He drew out his blades and scratched Owen across the cheeks with them, making the rabbit cry out in pain. Dark then back-flipped and kicked Owen in the face as he did so, sending the rabbit stumbling backwards. Dark then jumped into the air and tried to kick Owen but his attack was badly launched and he ended up in Owen's arms and getting a huge bear hug from the rabbit that just about suffocated him. Dark squirmed in Owen's iron grip and the rabbit ended up slamming him onto the floor and into the wall. After the slam into the wall, Dark flashed a hardcore scowl at the rabbit, baring his glistening white teeth.

"Alright rabbit features! You wanna play? Now we play for REAL!" he yelled, wrapping his arm around Owen's arm and forcing it behind his back.

Owen tried to break free but before he could do so, Dark kicked him into the wall. Owen swung around and clapped Dark around the face with a powerful backhand but the leo-lynx was still standing. Owen tried to punch him again but Dark grabbed him by the ears and yanked on them. Owen grunted and grimaced as his ears were yanked and Dark swung him around into the wall. He drew out a blade and slashed Owen across the back with it, earning a loud bellow of anguish from the former wrestler. Dark then added insult to injury by kicking Owen and sending him falling down into the cave where he and Dark had fought in earlier. Owen tumbled down into the cave like a rolling ball and Dark waited for him to hit the bottom. The moment he heard the thump, he charged down into the cave to finish off Owen.

As for Sonic & Roxy, Roxy whipped out her trademark bat and she swung it at Sonic whilst running up to him. The raccoon missed him by a mile for Sonic jumped into the air before the bat was even halfway towards him. Sonic landed hands-first on Roxy's head and he leap-frogged over her. Roxy straightened down her hair, which had become ruffled after Sonic had put his hands on it and she swung the bat at him again. Sonic dodged the blow and he kicked the bat out of Roxy's hands. Roxy yelped in pain and sucked on her throbbing hands to ease the pain on them. Sonic then kicked Roxy in the gut and made her double-over in pain. Roxy gasped in pain and she clutched her stomach. Sonic then proceeded to grab Roxy in a headlock and give her a very painful noogie-noogie just for larks.

"Ouch! Ow! Eek! Wah! Stop that you wretch!" screamed Roxy "You're messing up my hair!"

"To heck with your hair!" snapped Sonic "You can pay for your crimes along with all the other members of Team Diamond Roxy-girl!"

"To tell you the truth, I'm not sure if I even WANT to be on this stupid team anymore!" yelled Roxy, fighting the pain in her head as Sonic gave her a noogie.

Sonic stopping rubbing his knuckles on Roxy's scalp and he stared at her in amazement.

"Say what?" asked Sonic "You…don't want to be on Team Diamond anymore?"

"Can we talk about this in the caves?" asked Roxy "Don't want my team-mates to overhear."

"OK." said Sonic, wrapping his arm around Roxy's torso and rushing off with her.

He ran off so quickly that nobody even noticed that he'd left with Roxy, not that anybody would have noticed anyway given Kiara, Tails, Lennox and Alistair are in heated combat and Owen and Dark were down in a cave and fighting. Sonic rushed into the cave entrance that housed the golden nuggets and he looked over his shoulder to see if anybody was watching. No one was around so he decided to make use of the privacy he and Roxy had now.

"So Roxy, what made you say that then?" he asked.

Roxy looked down at the floor sadly as she spoke.

"I say that because…I honestly don't want to be part of Team Diamond anymore." she murmured "Honestly I don't."

She hugged herself as she began to reveal to Sonic who true thoughts on Team Diamond.

"When I joined the team, I was desperate for money in the pot." explained Roxy "Had I not been so poor, I would never have joined them in the first place. When I joined H.U.N.T., I thought that I'd enjoy being a treasure hunter. Instead though…I felt nothing but regret since day one of joining them. They're needlessly violent, ruthless, sadistic and I just can't stand it anymore. To remain part of the team, I've had to develop this faux "bad-girl" attitude and I pretended to enjoy what Team Diamond did just to fit in with them and keep alive. But it just isn't working out. That and I'm sick of getting beaten up by you Royal Fighters all the time and having to be on the run from the cops. This isn't a life I want to live anymore and I want to get out of it. But I can't just quit, if I want to I have to get my memory wiped and I don't want that to happen. I want to keep my memories and I'm not gonna risk having my memory wiped when I quit H.U.N.T. They may say that they just erase all memories of H.U.N.T. when you leave but I don't fully trust them on that, they might wipe my entire memories clean, not just memories of H.U.N.T. so I'm not risking a memory wipe. How can I improve myself if I end up forgetting who I am? And of course, if I just leave they'll hunt me down and kill me so I don't know what to do about my position. I want to leave Team Diamond, I REALLY do! Honestly I do!" the raccoon wailed at Sonic.

Sonic put a finger to his lips and pondered over Roxy's testimony. He wasn't fully sure if he trusted Roxy or believed what she said but the tone in her voice sounded pretty believable so Sonic decided to go easy on her.

"I see…" said Sonic "Are you telling me the truth? Or are you trying to manipulate me? Not that I don't believe you or anything, I just have trust issues with villains since they always seem to be lying when they say something like this."

"I'm not that person." Roxy insisted, sounding very upset that Sonic didn't seem to believe her "Please, I'm telling you the truth about EVERYTHING! I honestly, honestly, HONESTLY want to leave Team Diamond! Honest! Please believe me! Please!"

Sonic was taken aback at how serious Roxy seemed to be over all this. There was no way this was an act, Roxy was definitely telling the truth here. The tone in her voice was far too real to be a lie or anything, even if she was a former actress. Sonic looked at Roxy and noticed she seemed to be on the verge of tears. Studying her face, he could tell that Roxy was really on the verge of tears, her expression wasn't fake or put on in the slightest. Sonic decided to trust Roxy for he could see the desperation on her face and how upset she seemed about all this. He took Roxy's hand.

"OK Roxy, I believe you." said Sonic "Believe me when I say you are one of the smartest foes I've ever faced. Turning your back on Team Diamond is the smartest thing you can ever do. Since you want to improve your life and everything, why not join the Royal Fighters Service? We'd be willing to give you a second chance."

"Oh Sonic that's a wonderful offer…" said Roxy "But…I can't accept that. I doubt your friends will be as accepting as I am and I'm no fighter. You know how badly I can fight so I can't join your team. I'm sorry but I can't."

"Oh OK then, I understand." said Sonic "So what will you do when you quit Team Diamond?"

"Be a treasure-hunter still, but this time the peaceful way." answered Roxy "The way Rouge the Bat goes about it. No killing involved or anything, just going to places nobody looks in and unearthing valuables. Once I get enough riches, I'll get myself a new house and begin a fresh new life. I might even be able to return to my dream career…a career as an actress if I get enough treasure."

"That's a nice idea." said Sonic brightly "And by the way Roxy, my supersonic brain has just came up with a way for you to quit Team Diamond and keep them off your back. How about…I trick them into thinking you're dead? I could maybe tell them me and you were fighting in the cave and a rock fell on you and crushed you? That'll stop them hunting you down."

"Oh Sonic that's a wonderful idea!" squealed Roxy happily "Team Diamond won't bother looking for me if they think I'm dead! And you're gonna do that…for me?" she gasped, touched by this generosity.

"What can I say? I'm a firm believer in "second chances" after all." said Sonic casually.

Roxy's response was to hug Sonic gratefully for his kindness. She cried a few years of happiness over this.

"Oh Sonic…that's the nicest thing anyone's ever done for me." she wept happily.

"Don't mention it." said Sonic "I'm just glad you've got common sense unlike my other villains. Now wait here while I break the "news" out to Lennox." he ordered.

Roxy obeyed and she released Sonic from the hug. Sonic zipped off out of the cave and he rushed back over to the battle, which was still going on. Kiara had Lennox on the ropes right now, pinning him down and yanking on his ears whereas Tails and Alistair were evenly-matched. Dark and Owen had emerged from the cave they had fallen into and both were heavily bruised and battered with Owen looking worse than Dark since Dark was the better fighter of the two (martial arts beats wrestling any day). Sonic was glad to see everybody together and he yelled at the top of his voice.

"STOP THE FIGHT!"

Everybody surprisingly did what they were told and they stopped fighting. Now the fight had stopped, Sonic decided to carry out his idea to help Roxy leave Team Diamond without any worries to tie her down.

"Hey Lennox, I've got some bad news, for you that is." said Sonic "Me and Roxy started fighting in that cave and…well…a rock fell on her and…let's just say she's not gonna be hunting for treasures anymore."

Lennox glared at Sonic in horror, his tail standing up on end and his hat doing back flips in surprise.

"Roxy…my dear Roxy…is…dead?!" he gasped.

" 'Fraid so Lennox." said Sonic "Pity really, I was hoping to arrest all of Team Diamond."

"Well this isn't good!" sighed Owen "We're outnumbered now and with Sonic around, the three of us can't win this no matter how strong we are!"

"I agree." said Lennox "We need to fall back! Team Diamond! We're retreating!" he announced

"Oh you're bloody well not!" yelled Kiara, lunging at Lennox "You're going to prison where you all belong!"

Lennox's response was to whip out some smoke bombs that he had conveniently stored in his cape and he threw them into Kiara's face, blinding her momentarily and causing smoke to drift up into the air to stop the heroes from chasing them down. While the smoke blinded the heroes and had them in a coughing fit, Lennox, Owen and Alistair legged it as fast as they could. As they ran away, Lennox shed a small tear for Roxy. He did secretly love her after all and the fact she was "gone" was enough to make even him feel a bit teary eyed. The moment Team Diamond fled, the smoke cleared and Kiara instantly screamed in rage over their escape.

"NOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO!" she wailed "The freaks got away! Oh will they EVER get their comeuppance?!" she ranted, stamping her feet furiously.

"Hey Kiara! Chill. Breathe. Relax." said Dark, putting his hands on the cheetah's shoulders and calming her down a little "Least we beat them, that's what matters more. We saved the GoldenCaverns from them and got them running scared. We'll get them the next time they show up though, trust me on that."

Kiara breathed a heavy sigh and she looked over at Dark. She managed to crack a small smile over what he'd said.

"You're right." she said "There's always next time as they say. Thanks handsome."

"Anytime cutie." said Dark with a little chuckle.

As for Tails, he looked over at Sonic with a concerned look on his face.

"Roxy's not really dead is she?" asked Tails curiously.

"Nope." said Sonic "She's alive. This may sound unbelievable but… she wants to quit Team Diamond."

"No way!" cried Tails incredulously "You serious?"

"Dead serious." said Sonic "I read her facial features and body language as she talked to me. I couldn't find anything that suggested she was faking in the slightest, she meant everything she said. So in order to help her quit Team Diamond and keep them from tracking her down, I lied about her being dead. Now she's free from them, she's gonna improve herself and start life anew."

"Well that's good." said Kiara, happy to hear this "Shows she has some decency left in her. I hope she does well with her new life and that she becomes a much better person now."

"Same here." said Sonic "Although if she turns out to be lying, I'll be after her make no mistake on that. But…I don't think that'll be happening anytime soon so no worries."

"That's cool Sonic." said Tails "Although I'm still a bit sore over her tricking me and Amy into a trap set-up by Lola Gunn and Team Diamond themselves though…" he added grimly "Still, least she's redeeming herself."

"Yep." said Sonic brightly "Well then, mission accomplished and all that. The caves are safe and all that so I guess me and Tails will get going now. Hey Dark, Kiara, tell Thomas that we wish him well." he said, turning to the two felines.

"We will." said Dark "We'll be heading on back to campanyway. So I guess I'll see you around then."

"Bye you two, it's been awesome to meet you both again." said Kiara with a big grin on her face.

"Thanks Kiara. Stay cool." said Sonic with a wink "Bye for now you two. Keep on juicin'."

So with that said, Sonic and Tails left Dark and Kiara behind to just head off home to their camp. Sonic whizzed off at top speed and Tails flew after him, spinning his tails around as fast as he could as he flew after him. Unbeknownst to anybody, Roxy was watching the two leave from inside the cave and she smiled as she watched them go.

"Thank you Sonic…for everything." she said to herself "Now that I'm free, I'll make a start to redeeming myself. And what better place to start then in here with all those golden nuggets. To give the people of Megapolis something to marvel at though, I think I'll just take one. One's enough for me. That and I can't carry them all anyway. New life here I come…" she said as she turned back into the cave and headed back down to the golden nuggets so she could take one with her and leave already.

Back over to Dark and Kiara, they were just standing there watching Sonic and Tails leave. After the two had finally disappeared over the horizon, Dark looked at Kiara.

"So, shall we go back to campthen?" asked Dark.

"Not yet handsome, I wanna say a few things." said Kiara, putting her hands on the leo-lynx's broad, strong chest "First of all…thank you for everything today. Thank you for saving my life, for making me feel better after I revealed my tragic past…and thank you for teaching me some valuable lessons today."

"Aw shucks, you're welcome beautiful." said Dark modestly "After all, you saved my life and gave me a chance at starting anew so I'm returning the favour. I've gotta say as I've been part of this team… I've grown to love you Kiara."

Kiara gasped in pleasant surprise and then she wrapped her arms around Dark's shoulders.

"Oh my gosh…I've grown to love YOU too Dark!" squealed Kiara excitedly "I'm glad you feel the same way!"

She then planted a loving kiss on the leo-lynx's lips and closed her eyes. Dark closed his eyes and wrapped his arms around Kiara's body, pulling her close and embracing the cheetah lovingly. It was truly an adorable, lovely moment between the two and anyone watching would easily be touched by this lovely scene. As the two kissed, they began to stroke each other's hair and lightly feel the other's body. Unfortunately, this moment didn't last for up in the sky appeared…a streak of light! Dark and Kiara stopped kissing and they stared up at the streak of light that had just appeared in the sky above them. Kiara's first reaction was to gasp in horror and stare incredulously at the light.

"Oh my gosh! What is that?!" she squealed in fright.

"Dunno babe…but I don't think that's natural!" cried Dark.

Natural was not a fitting word for the streak of light at all, more like SUPER-natural. As the light loomed in the sky, it began to drag Dark and Kiara towards itself for unfortunately, they were too close to it! Dark and Kiara screamed in terror as they were pulled into the light. Roxy could hear them screaming and she ran outside to see what was happening. She arrived in time to see Dark and Kiara disappear into the streak of light and the light itself vanishing into nothingness after the two had been swallowed up by it. Roxy could do nothing except stand there, wide-eyed and open mouthed at what she had just witnessed. She had to tell somebody about this and she knew just who to contact. Trouble was…they probably wouldn't believe her so Roxy would have to find a way to get a hold of Sonic and let him know about all this…

Footnotes:

Compare the Meerkat. com reference FOR THE WIN!

Well that was unexpected...will Sonic and friends find and save Dark Cat and Kiara? Or are they...g-g-g-gone?! For good?! Tune in next time for Sonic investigates this disappearance, Bunnie and Geoffrey have their first date and an old enemy returns to get vengeance once again...

Meanwhile, tune into Tales from Mobius where Wilson the Dog and Mandy Mouse FINALLY have their honeymoon! :D

So how was this chapter guys? Was it good? Feel free to leave a review and say what you thought. Feedback is much appreciated. No flaming.

Intense Matters

Story 159: Intense Matters

Countdown to Crisis: 6

"Come on Ruben, you can do it." urged the Royal Fighter super spy Sora Prower, sister of Tails and an excellent spy on the battlefield.

"I don't think I can!" whimpered Ruben the Water Panther, former Chun-Nan resident and young martial artist.

"Ruben, you won't learn how to climb if you have an attitude like that so come on, think positive and try harder." said Sora sternly "Come on, I'm there for you, no need to worry."

"OK." said Ruben, beads of sweat raining down his head as he raised his hand and tried to grab onto another knob on the climbing wall.

Ruben had been wanting to learn how to climb since he was pretty bad at climbing and he had specifically requested his secret crush Sora to tutor him since a spy like her would be an expert on climbing. The two were in the work out room of Royal HQ and Ruben was, of course, partaking on the climbing wall. He had managed to get up a few segments, steadily and clumsily that is and now he was becoming a nervous wreck. Climbing scared him, which explained why he was so bad at it and even climbing up something like a climbing wall was enough to scare the living daylights out of the water panther. Sora was there though, urging him on and trying to motivate Ruben so he would be less scared when he climbed up the wall.

"Come on Ruben, one more segment and you can come down now." said Sora "Don't look down, just focus on getting up. That's the important thing about climbing."

"OK Sora, I'll do that." said Ruben, gulping nervously.

He wiped some sweat off his forehead and he kept his eyes fixed on the ceiling above him. He repeated Sora's words of wisdom in his head, don't look down, just look up. Ruben seemed to relax a little after telling himself that a few times and he forced himself up to another knob. The climbing wall was quite tall, about 30 meters, and full of knobs and handgrips for somebody to grab on when partaking the challenge. Ruben had climbed up about 10 meters and he didn't really want to go another inch but Sora wanted him to and being that Ruben had a secret crush on her, he was willing to impress his fair lady so he made himself move on. He gripped another knob and pulled himself up to a knob just further up. Almost there, he had just one more knob and then he could come down. Ruben's fingers just managed to curl over the knob…but his foot ended up slipping and he screamed out in terror as he now dangled by one arm on the knob he'd just gripped.

"Argh! Help! I'm gonna fall!" shrieked Ruben "Help me Sora!"

"Ruben! Don't panic, just relax and get back on the handgrips!" Sora called to him "NEVER panic while climbing, that will not do you any good!"

"Sorry." said Ruben, still keeping his eyes on the ceiling as he tried to get his feet pack on the handgrips underneath him.

He managed to find his footing and he steadied himself, gasping for breath as he began to pant with worry.

"Did it!" he gasped "Can I come down now? Please?"

"Sure Ruben." said Sora kindly "That's enough for one day."

Ruben sighed with relief and he climbed eagerly back down to the floor, eager to be down again. The moment he got down onto the floor, he sat down on it and dribbled some water over himself to calm himself down a bit for he was a bit worked up and needed to relax. Ruben even squirted some water in his mouth to give himself a nice soothing drink to calm his nerves. Sora knelt down beside Ruben, her face not suggesting she was about to give him a good report.

"I'm sorry to say Ruben that you're not off to a good start." she said gravely "You were quite clumsy and unfocused up that wall and you panicked when you nearly fell. At least you climbed a good height though." she added with a smile.

"I'm sorry about that Sora, it's just…I can't stand the thought of falling." said Ruben, feeling disappointed with himself "I have a fear of falling, that's why I've found it hard to learn how to climb. I just… fear the very thought of slipping and falling to my death. I'm so terrified about this that it's hard for me to focus on going up. Last time I tried to climb…I needed mother to help me down, I was petrified with fear so I couldn't get down myself." he said, his ears drooping back and his face falling in despair.

"I understand." said Sora sympathetically, patting Ruben on the back "I found it hard to learn how to climb too. It took me a while before I could climb efficiently. You'll get there eventually Ruben, just a little more practice and we'll get there in the end."

"I hope so." said Ruben "I don't wanna keep disappointing you Sora." he said, holding Sora's hand and looking at her with big puppy-dog eyes.

"Oh Ruben, I'm not disappointed." said Sora gently "I don't get disappointed, I give critiques in my most polite and well-meaning manner. I'm not disappointed with you at all, please don't feel like that."

Ruben was pretty pleased to hear that and he smiled at his secret crush.

"Aw…thank you Sora." said Ruben delightedly "That means a lot to me."

"You're welcome." said Sora "I heard from Mr. St. John that you have self-esteem issues so I'm trying to make sure I don't dampen your spirits in anyway."

"That's awful nice of you." said Ruben, blushing a little over Sora's kindness "You know, it's easy to see how you and Tails are related." he added "You have your brother's kindness and good personality."

Sora grinned from ear to ear just hearing that.

"Aww Ruben, you're so sweet!" she giggled, pinching his cheek and shaking his face a little "That's so nice of you to say! Just for that, you wanna join me for a drink in the rec room?" she asked.

"Do I ever!" cried Ruben happily "Let's go for it!"

Sora giggled at Ruben and the two left the training room to go to the rec room. As they ran off to the rec room, Sonic the Hedgehog passed them by in the corridor and waved them off as they headed to the rec room. Sora and Ruben paused for a moment and waved back to him before resuming their walk. As they walked off together, Sonic could hardly help but smile at the two.

"Aw, they look so cute together." said Sonic "Almost like a second Tails and Cosmo they are. I wonder if they'll become a couple at all?"

It sure was nice to think of the idea of Tails' sister ending up in a romance of her own like how her brother before her has ended up in a romance. And who better for Sora to be with than a boy as honourable, brave and dedicated as Ruben? Sonic would happily support the two all the way just as he supports Tails and Cosmo in their little romance too. For now though, Sonic would focus on a different type of romance…his own. He had been developing feelings for the royal-turned-fighter Queen Sally Acorn after she'd started becoming more like a Royal Fighter and a team player and now he was wanting to chance the idea of a relationship between himself and Sally, especially after the pep-talk they had before Operation: Double Trouble began and the good luck kiss Sally had given him before they left to foil the operation. Sonic had seriously been thinking that Sally might truly be the one for him and he decided if he was going to give love another chance then he may as well make the first move now. Sonic left Royal HQ and began looking around for Sally, hoping the squirrel queen was around for him. He wandered around the beautiful city of New Mobotropolis for a while, enjoying the sights and the peace and quiet until finally, he saw Sally chatting to a little kid who was a Mobian kitten with black fur and white markings around the eyes. The kitten was female and wore a green dress. She seemed rather inquisitive about the royal life and thus, Sally was telling her all about it.

"So your majesty, you say that being a queen's much more than just wearing a crown and waving at people?" piped the kitten in the sweetest little baby voice you've ever heard. Her voice was so adorable that even the most stone-faced of people would find their frowns turning upside-down over it.

"Oh indeed little girl." said Sally "There's a lot of responsibilities of being a queen and believe me, it can be quite tiring. Especially if you want to be with the Royal Fighters at the same time." she added, thinking over how much weight she truly carries on her shoulders with this double-life of hers.

"How do you handle your wesponsibities then Miss Acorn?" asked the kitten.

"I have some very kind and devoted staff members and the Council of Acorn to handle things whenever I'm away fighting with the Royal Fighters and I take some time off to do some work myself for they can't handle it all without me for too long." explained Sally "It's hard work but we manage in the end."

"Vewy intewesting Queen Sally." said the kitten with a happy smile "I hope you become a vewy good queen for us all."

"Aww, that's so sweet of you." chuckled Sally "Thank you."

The kitten just beamed and Sally patted her on the head. Now the kitten had finished talking with Sally, she decided to toddle off and go back to her parents, who weren't far away and had been keeping an eye on her as she talked to Sally. As soon as the kitten left, Sonic approached Sally and put a hand on her shoulder. Sally turned around and beamed happily at the sight of her handsome blue hero. She was always happy to see Sonic, especially since she was growing feelings for him and was hoping that she and Sonic would start a relationship sooner or later.

"Why hello there Sonic, what brings you here?" asked Sally brightly.

"Oh I was just catching some fresh air and I spotted you while I was walking." said Sonic, masking his true reasons for coming to her for the moment "I thought I'd pop over and say hi."

"That's nice of you." said Sally with a smile "How are the Royal Fighters doing at this moment?"

"Well Wilson and Mandy have left for their honeymoon already*, everybody's doing their own thing and Sora and Ruben seem to have a relationship building up between them." explained Sonic "Sora's been giving Ruben climbing lessons and the two are now off to the rec room together. It's cute really, seeing Tails' sister finding her true love like Tails found his. Hope things go well between them."

"I do too." said Sally "Love just makes the Royal Fighters stronger I think, Wilson and Mandy, Bunnie and Geoffrey and Tails and Cosmo setting some fine examples for a start."

"Yep." said Sonic "Speaking of Bunnie and Geoffrey, those two are having their first date today. Hope all goes well between them and that they have a nice time."

"I do too." said Sally "So what are you planning on doing today?" she asked, hoping that Sonic would be planning on doing something romantic for him and her, like a date.

"Well Sally, I uh…um…" said Sonic, trying to find the right words to say to the beautiful queen "I uh…was kinda…um…hoping…um…"

"Yes?" asked Sally, excitement bubbling in her stomach.

"I was hoping…that uh…" said Sonic, swallowing nervously and taking Sally's hands into his to try and help himself focus a bit more "I was hoping that…me and you could…could…"

Sally thought she was going to burst at this moment. Sonic was going to ask what she thought he was going ask! It was about time too since the two very nearly had a romantic moment before Operation: Double Trouble started so Sally was really looking forward to this. Unfortunately, romance would have to wait for Sonic heard a voice calling him from nowhere. Sonic looked around and saw a shadowed figure hiding behind a tree, hissing "psst!" at him and making signals with its hand that suggested it wanted him to come over and see it. Sally heard it too and wondered what was going on.

"Sonic, what was that?" she asked.

"Uh Sal, stay here, I'll check it out." said Sonic.

"As if." sniffed Sally "I've missed out on far too much before I changed my ways, I'm not one to start sitting out of things now. I'm coming too." she said sternly.

"OK." sighed Sonic, knowing that arguing with a queen is just the embodiment of time-wasting. You can't win with royalty and he knew that all too well after many arguments with the royals in the past.

Sonic and Sally ran over to the tree where the figure was hiding and they peered around it to see who was hiding there. To Sonic's utter amazement, it was Roxy the Raccoon! The dark belle of Team Diamond had recently betrayed them and left the team with Sonic providing her an excellent cover to prevent Team Diamond from hunting her down, said cover being a fake story about her being killed in a cave-in. Roxy was free to redeem herself and be a better person and yet she was here right now in New Mobotropolis. Sonic didn't understand since Roxy had refused his offer for her to join the Royal Fighters so he was curious to know Roxy's story.

"Roxy?! What are you doing here?" cried Sonic "I thought you didn't want to become one of us!"

"I don't, I'm not here for that." said Roxy patiently "I'm here to deliver you some horrible, HORRIBLE news!"

"Oh no…have Team Diamond realized they've been tricked and they're after you now?" gasped Sonic worriedly.

"Fortunately, no." said Roxy "It's nothing to do with those creeps. It's something much worse…"

"I'm very sorry to interrupt you Madame but who the heck are you?" asked Sally rather rudely, her arms folded in a manner that suggested she was highly suspicious about something.

"I could say the same to you sister." snorted Roxy "The name's Roxy and I'm a former member of Team Diamond, I'm sure Sonic here has told you about them?"

"I believe he has." said Sally as she thought about this for a minute "Team Diamond work for H.U.N.T., an organization that has been terminated and they once attempted to kill Sonic. So you've left them now? I'm very pleased to hear that." she said brightly.

"Thank you, I'm glad I left those creeps." said Roxy grimly "So who might you be then?"

"I'm Queen Sally Acorn, ruler of New Mobotropolis and the woman in charge of the Royal Fighters Service." explained Sally "So Roxy, you came here with bad news I believe you said?" she asked, raising an eyebrow of concern.

"I did." said Roxy "OK Sonic and Sally, prepare to be blown away for you will not believe this…Dark Cat and Kiara the Cheetah were taken away by a weird light that appeared in the sky and just vanished after they had been taken by it! Given they're Royal Fighters, I just HAD to let you know Sonic." she said, looking more at Sonic than Sally as she said that.

Sonic and Sally both gasped in unison and gave Roxy an incredulous stare that made them look like she'd just told them a horror story and had told it in frighteningly graphic detail to make it even worse and more scary for them to hear.

"Dark…and Kiara…were taken…be a weird light in the sky?!" gasped Sonic.

"What did this light look like?" asked Sally.

"It was a long streak that flashed a radiant golden glow and just appeared in the sky as if someone tore a piece of it away." said Roxy "Why? You seen one of them before?"

"We've seen quite a few before." said Sally, her expression as grave as a tombstone "Sonic himself got taken by one the other week and we've been aching to find out more about this streak of light. We wanna know what caused it and how to stop it. We fear…it's something apocalyptic."

"We have to get over to Megapolis and see what we can do." said Sonic "Sally, you and Roxy head off already, I'll get Tails and catch up to you."

"OK Sonic." said Sally "Roxy, you lead."

Roxy nodded and she ran off with Sally running after the raccoon. The moment the girls started to run off, Sonic zipped back into Royal HQ to fetch Tails. Maybe they could finally study the streak of light and learn more about it. And maybe once they learn more about it, they can try and find Dark and Kiara and bring them back to Mobius. One thing was for sure, the streak of light was getting out of hand and had to be stopped now before something catastrophic happened…

While all that was going on, a pair of Mobians were enjoying some peace and quiet together in the local park, sitting on a bench together and holding hands while sipping soda drinks and admiring the beautiful lake that glistened in the gleaming sunlight that shone over the magnificent city around them. The two Mobians were Bunnie Rabbot and Geoffrey St. John (he's out of uniform for this one since there's no missions to do). The two had announced their love for each other during the Devatron invasion and had been hoping to have their first date sometime soon. The relative calm that had befallen New Mobotropolis after the defeat of Dr. Finitevus had presented them a good opportunity to do just that, have their first date. They were going to start off simple and build up their romance later on. A simple day in the park was all they needed for a first date and right now, they were quite enjoying themselves. Everything was calm and peaceful and they were enjoying each other's company very much. This date was going just nicely and with any luck, it'd stay nice and they'd have no problems at all. After all the hell the Royal Fighters go through in their lives, it was just too much to ask for one nice day with nothing happening so Bunnie and Geoffrey were making the most of this day. As they sat on the bench and enjoyed the peace and quiet, Bunnie shifted up to Geoffrey so now their shoulders were touching one another. Geoffrey didn't mind this at all, he was all too happy to have a woman as beautiful as Bunnie up close to him.

"It sure is a nice day isn't it sugah?" said Bunnie with a smile.

"Sure is babe, couldn't get any nicer I think." said Geoffrey, looking up at the sky and admiring how pure and blue it was with not a cloud looming over them.

"Ah agree." said Bunnie "What could be better then just the two of us enjoying a nice sunny day in the park? Ah say nothin' indeed."

"Yep." said Geoffrey brightly "I thought that since it's been a while since we announced our love for one another it was about time we had a date."

"Ah thought the same thing too sugah." said Bunnie, putting her hands on Geoffrey's arm "Thinkin' back on ya'll confessin' yer love for me, it still amazes me how it took till the Devatron attack for ya'll to confess yer love for me." she added, her head leaning over onto Geoffrey's shoulder.

"Well at the time, I thought we were goners so I decided to let it out at last to give myself something to be happy about before we got executed." said Geoffrey, putting an arm around Bunnie and pulling her close "Luckily though, we've lived in time to develop our relationship and here we are now, sitting together and enjoying a lovely day."

"Ah'm glad we did survive to see this day." said Bunnie, her organic right arm around Geoffrey and her robotic left arm on his chest "Ah'm lovin' it so far."

"Me too luv." said Geoffrey "And the one thing I'm loving the most is having you beside me." he said, winking at his girlfriend.

"Aww Geoffrey…yer such a sweetie ya'll are!" giggled Bunnie "Maybe that's why ah like to call ya sugah, ya'll are as sweet as sugah."

"You could say that." chuckled Geoffrey modestly "Although I'm certainly not sweet to blighters like Eggman, Finitevus and the like."

"Neither am I but thankfully, they don't seem bothered about us today." said Bunnie cheerfully "Let's not think about the bad-guys hon, let's just think about us having a lovely time here in the park. That's all that matters now."

"You got that right baby." said Geoffrey, stroking Bunnie's back and making her feel very relaxed and content as a loving tingle surged up her spine from Geoffrey's gentle fingers smoothly brushing up and down her back.

"Oooooh, that feels mighty good sugah…" purred Bunnie, clearly enjoying feeling her boyfriend's fingers softly stroking her back "Thanks, this feels lovely."

"Anything for the most awesome and beautiful woman I ever met." Geoffrey purred back in a faux seductive tone of voice that made Bunnie giggle.

Bunnie batted her eyelids and then leaned forward to give Geoffrey a kiss on the lips. Geoffrey could see that Bunnie was wanting to kiss him so he decided that he'd let her. He put his hands on Bunnie's shoulders and the two kissed each other. They'd been aching to do that since they'd announced their love for each other and as they kissed, they both seemed to be thinking the same thing: it had been worth the wait. Unfortunately though this lovely moment wasn't going to last for as they kissed, something peeked out of the bushes and glowered at the kissing couple. Its eyes were full of hatred and it seemed to be stalking Bunnie and Geoffrey as if it had a beef against them in particular. It gritted its teeth and ducked back down in the bushes, almost as if preparing to pounce. It moved ever so quietly so as to not catch any attention. The careful movement of the creature was so good that none of the leaves rustled as it ducked back down into the bushes. Geoffrey and Bunnie did not hear a thing, they just continued kissing each other. The thing smiled and then it leapt out of the bushes like a tiger leaping for a deer. Bunnie and Geoffrey heard it instantly and Bunnie was quick to push Geoffrey out of the way, allowing her to take the pouncing creature for herself. The creature knocked Bunnie clean off the bench and onto the ground, wrestling with her and trying to bite her head off. The creature snapped its jaws at Bunnie, saliva streaming out of its jaws as it tried to bite her. Bunnie screamed and threw her legs up, throwing the thing off of her and onto the path near where they were. The creature let out a yelp of pain as its body came into sharp contact with the hard, stone, concrete path that people walked on to get around the park. Bunnie gasped and panted as she picked herself up, wondering who was the creature that had pounced on her. Geoffrey picked himself up and looked over Bunnie's shoulder to see who the attacker was. To their horror, it was none other than Bunnie's former friend Ravage Bloodfang! The wolf had returned and was after them both once again! Ravage hadn't been seen since the fiasco with the Sword of Elemental Power and now here he was, in the flesh once again and gripping his head in pain after landing on the hard walking path head first. Bunnie was so horrified that she staggered backwards and Geoffrey caught her to stop her from collapsing. Bunnie regained herself and she put her hands on her hips.

"Ravage!" she growled furiously "What in the heck are ya'll doin' here ya creepy ol' wolf?!"

"More importantly, how the heck did you find this place?" asked Geoffrey.

Ravage picked himself up and he glowered at Bunnie and Geoffrey. He kept his cool though and managed to crack a slimy smile at them.

"How did I find this place?" he purred "How simple, I just went to the Soleanna library and looked up where this city is. As for why I'm here, I'm here to get rid of two parasites that make my fur crawl, namely you two." he said darkly, pointed two clawed fingers at the rabbit and skunk.

"How did you know we would be here?" asked Bunnie "And why do ya'll wanna kill us? What have we done to ya'll lately? We haven't seen you since last year when me and Geoffrey took a day off in Adabat!"

"I knew you two would be here since I heard that the Royal Fighters take refuge in this city and you two are Royal Fighters so it made logical sense you'd be here." explained Ravage "As for why I want to kill you both…well I got bored of picking on Scott and his team all the time so I decided to pick on some one else for a change. Not to mention you two ruined my first attempt to try and raze Adabat so you both deserve a grisly punishment for it." he finished that sentence with a rather sinister growl and a flash of his teeth.

"Ravage, please stop bein' so vengeful!" cried Bunnie "Ah remember what ya'll used to be like when the Peace-Gatherers were around. Ya'll used to be kind, fun, playful, happy and loving. Why can't ya'll be like that anymore? That's the Ravage ah know and love and ah wish he could come back to me." she said rather sadly.

"Well Bunnie, sorry to burst your bubble but that Ravage is dead now." said Ravage, his voice dangerously soft and calm for a villain like him "He died when his country decided to punish him despite his good intentions and now I'm here to make the country pay for ousting me like that. I only wanted to fulfil the very goal of the Peace-Gatherers and how did they thank me? By banishing me and scarring me for life!" he yelled, taking off his mask to show off his hideous scars that were all over his face "So why should I show any love for Adabat if they don't want my good intentions?"

"You broke one of the rules you empty-headed canine!" snapped Geoffrey, priming his arm-mounted crossbow and itching to fire at Ravage "You tried to use the very weapon that Adabat forbid anyone to use! You're not allowed to play the wounded victim here!"

"I was going to use it for a good cause!" thundered Ravage, putting his mask back on "But did those morons listen to me? NO! My generosity and good nature was all for naught back then so I'm only giving what Adabat deserves from me. But this isn't about Adabat now, it's about you two." he said, his eyes fixed on Bunnie and Geoffrey "I've been aching to have a rematch with you two and now I'm here, I'll see to it that you end up in the cooking pot. You see, I'm quite famished right now and you two will make a fine meal for a hungry wolf like me…" he finished with a creepy lick of the chops as he imagined Bunnie and Geoffrey on the dinner table for him.

That just made Bunnie and Geoffrey cringe and Bunnie raised her fists determinedly.

"Ya'll will be eatin' one thing Ravage…defeat!" yelled Bunnie "Ah'm gonna see to it that ya'll get thrown in the New Mobotropolis Detention Centre!"

"We shall see dear child, we shall see indeed…" purred Ravage, getting down on all fours and preparing to pounce.

It was Bunnie and Geoffrey who made the first move though. They both ran forward and leaped onto Ravage, the wolf snarling at them as he sprang into action and leapt back at them…

Meanwhile, over in Megapolis, Roxy had led Sonic, Sally and Tails over to the spot Dark and Kiara were standing before the streak of light had taken them away. It had been quite a trek but they had got there in the end and now Roxy was pointing up at the sky and explaining everything she had witnessed earlier to the three Royal Fighters.

"So here we are." said Roxy "Dark and Kiara were standing right where I am now and the streak of light appeared…" she paused as she peered up at the sky and tried to mark exactly where it appeared with her finger "…about there." she said, pointing in a slight north-east direction from where she was standing "Just above them."

Tails, who had brought a scanning machine that was the size of a crate and had a radio dish on top of it, set the machine down and looked up at the sky where Roxy was pointing.

"I feel sorry for poor Dark and Kiara." said Tails as he saw to turning the machine on "That must have been horrible for them, just getting snatched away by a streak of light like that, and after a day of victory no less."

"They usually say "all's well that ends well" but it certainly didn't end well for Dark and Kiara." said Sonic, feeling just as sorry for them as Tails was feeling.

"Well we managed to bring you back when you were snatched up by a tear in the sky Sonic so we will save Dark and Kiara." said Sally "But unlike you where we had a keen idea where you might have ended up, we have NO idea where Dark and Kiara might have ended up."

"Yeah, something tells me it might not be Mobius Nega again." said Sonic, although at the same time, he hoped it was since Mobius Nega was a good place to end up in "We could be on a wild goose chase looking for those two."

"I hope they're OK." said Tails as he turned a dial on the machine "I dread to think what might happen to them if they've ended up on some unknown universe or alternate timeline. What if they're somewhere unpleasant?"

"That will not be good at all." said Sonic, shuddering at the thought of Dark and Kiara stranded in a bad timeline or something like that.

Tails nodded agreeably as he flicked a switch and fully got the machine on and ready. The machine whirred into life and the radio dish began pointing up at the sky, in particular aiming at where Roxy pointed since that was where the streak of light was meant to have appeared according to her. As Tails looked at the readings on his machine, Sally looked over to Roxy, curious to know more about the raccoon.

"So Roxy, what made you want to leave Team Diamond then?" she asked.

"Oh I just couldn't stand their overly violent ways anymore and I decided I no longer wished to be a part of that world." said Roxy, scowling bitterly over her time with Team Diamond "And also while I was with Team Diamond I just felt…trapped with them. Now I've left them, I feel free again." Roxy said, her face brightening up a little "I can hardly wait to see what my life's gonna be like now I'm gonna start anew."

"What will you do Roxy?" asked Sally.

"Hopefully restart my fallen acting career and this time, I'll be more careful with my money so I don't go bust again." Roxy suggested "If only I thought on doing that in the first place…"

"Well Roxy, we all make a bad decision at one point in our lives." said Sally softly "And it's the bad choices that lead us into making the good choices later on. That's how we learn after all, we make mistakes and we learn from them."

"I know." said Roxy with a smile "And now I've undone my mistake of joining H.U.N.T., I'll see to it that my life gets properly fixed. I managed to find some golden nuggets down in the caverns over there," she said while pointing to the Golden Caverns "So I'm gonna take one and get myself some money in the pot. Once that's done, it's a real life for me once again."

"That's a wonderful idea." said Sally approvingly "Although do you think you should take a golden nugget from the Golden Caverns? I mean, they might be there for a reason…"

As Sally and Roxy continued gossiping like a pair of girls who've known each other for life, Tails studied the readings on the screen of his machine to see what it was picking up and if he could make sense out of it. Sonic was sort of leaning over Tails' shoulder to see if he could see what Tails was picking up. The machine was scanning the air above them and the readings that showed up on the screen were a little bit odd. There were strange waves flickering about on the screen like ocean tides and Tails read the screen to try and see if he could understand what was going on. It was odd that the machine was picking anything up to him. Last time they'd done a scan after a streak of light had appeared, the scans picked nothing up and everything was normal as if it had never happened. And yet his machine was picking up something as if the streak of light had only just disappeared or was going to appear. This did not add up at all and Tails was making his brain ache trying to comprehend it.

"Yo Tails, what's going on there?" asked Sonic.

"The machine's picking up vague traces of supernatural material in the air, invisible to the naked eye but there all the same." explained Tails "But that doesn't make sense. When that streak of light took you away, everything was suddenly normal again as if it never happened. Now we're studying one that's taken Dark and Kiara away, there's traces of it left behind, not that anyone would have known given it's all invisible."

"I see…maybe we got lucky this time?" asked Sonic "Although I'm sure a lot of time's past since that one appeared so shouldn't it had vanished entirely, leaving no trace of its existence?"

"That's what I'm thinking." said Tails "I have a nasty theory on this though…what if…what if…" his face seemed to turn pale as he tried to blab out his theory "What if…the streak of light is getting…gulp… worse?"

"Getting worse? As in, appearing more often and because of this, it never has time to fully disappear?" suggested Sonic.

"Yes." said Tails "If it's appearing more often then that means the problem behind it is getting worse and worse. Maybe…in an apocalyptic sense of the word!" he gasped as a terrible thought crept over his head.

"Apocalyptic…you think this might be the "end of the world" thing that Silver and Blaze are worried about?" said Sonic nervously.

"It might just be." said Tails hoarsely.

That made Sonic fell very anxious indeed. But nothing would make him more anxious then what happened next. Tails' machine suddenly started whirring like crazy and the radio dish was nodding up and down like a nodding dog. The readings on the screen were going crazy too and Tails had a nasty idea on what it might mean, the streak of light was coming again!

"Oh my gosh! Everybody back now!" screamed Tails, gathering up the machine and running like hell.

Sonic, Sally and Roxy didn't wait to be asked twice. They ran off after Tails and just as they left the spot, a huge streak of light appeared once again in the sky, in the exact same spot it had appeared earlier. The surreal thing about it was it was BIGGER than it was the first time but only by a couple of inches. The four Mobians stared at the streak of light and Tails aimed the machine's radio dish at it, hoping to pick something up from it. A minute passed and the streak of light suddenly closed up like a sealed crack and it vanished completely, leaving no trace of it behind, not even the supernatural material it had left behind previously. Tails read the readings on the machine's screen and wondered what it might be about. Sonic, Sally and Roxy seemed rather surprised that the streak of light had appeared again. This could not be good at all.

"I-I-I-It appeared again!" gasped Roxy "And only an hour has passed since it first appeared!"

"This isn't good at all." said Sonic "The first one that appeared and took Scourge and Fiona away happened weeks ago and it wasn't until weeks later that one appeared again. Now this one appears and then re-appears again an hour later. It's definitely getting worse!"

"It certainly is." said Tails grimly "Although now the machine's not picking anything up anymore. Everything's normal again. But the fact that one has appeared in the same spot twice and with only an hour between them…it must be getting worse and the readings on my machine are nothing like anything I've seen before. I think this is a supernatural occurrence that isn't even of Mobius origin. I fear… that this is a circumstance beyond our control." the delivery of that last sentence dripped with horror as he spoke it.

Sonic, Sally and Roxy all shared the same horrified expression. The tears in the sky were getting worse and the worst part about it was that they had no idea what was causing it and it seemed like a circumstance beyond their control. What could they do to stop it? And would they be able to stop it before something catastrophic happened…?

Back over in New Mobotropolis, Bunnie and Geoffrey were in a heated battle with Ravage and the fight was pretty even-sided, albeit very intense and rough, so far. Ravage seemed to be fighting a little differently than he used to be for some reason, he was fighting more like a wild animal then the calculating warrior he was known for being in the past. It might be in relation to the fact he's starving and a starving animal will often go berserk and wild so Ravage's fighting was more akin to a ravenous wolf now (given he is a wolf, this is quite fitting). Regardless, Bunnie and Geoffrey gave it their all to make sure Ravage didn't win this battle. They had to, it was kill or be killed in this match and they knew it. Ravage lunged at Bunnie, his jaws opened wide and his eyes teeming with madness. Bunnie drew her robotic arm back and she deliver a terrific punch that threw Ravage backwards and sent him crashing into a nearby tree. Before Ravage could get back up, Bunnie deployed her arm cannon and blasted Ravage in the torso with it. Ravage roared in pain and he found himself struggling to get back up but he managed to do it in the end. Geoffrey was quick to attack by kicking him in the head and then grabbing him by the cloak. Ravage gagged and he tried to yank his cloak out of Geoffrey's grip but the skunk held on tight and pulled him back. He pulled Ravage down onto his back and then slammed him against the tree, earning a yelp of pain from the wolf. Ravage growled furiously at Geoffrey and he yanked his cloak out of the skunk's grip. Geoffrey aimed his crossbow at Ravage and prepared to shoot him but Ravage pounced on him and grabbed him by the arms, holding them back and keeping Geoffrey from aiming at him. Geoffrey pushed on Ravage as hard as he could but the wolf was pretty strong, too strong for him in fact. Geoffrey could feel himself being pushed down onto his knees by Ravage. But this match of strength was abruptly halted by Bunnie, who uppercut Ravage away from Geoffrey and sent him crashing into yet another tree. Ravage growled furiously and he ran towards Bunnie. The cyborg rabbit threw a punch at Ravage but the wolf dodged her punch, weaved his way around behind her and he punched her in the back of her head. Bunnie was thrown onto the ground by the punch and Ravage pinned her down with his clawed hands. Bunnie tried to get up but Ravage managed to hold her down, his jaws ready to snap around her neck and finish her off. He opened his jaws and prepared to bite Bunnie but Geoffrey fired a dart at Ravage and the dart struck him in the side of his face. The dart was just an ordinary dart for Geoffrey didn't have any stun-darts on him at the moment. Geoffrey loaded his crossbow with a flash bomb and he fired it at Ravage. The bomb hit him and blinded him with a bright dazzling light that could make even the biggest light worshipper moan that it's too bright. Ravage roared furiously and he covered his eyes, trying to make them feel better and regain his vision. Bunnie managed to throw Ravage off of herself now he was distracted and she seized him by the shoulders. She slammed Ravage onto the bench, surprisingly managing not to break it as she did so and then she punched him across the park. Ravage came down with a thud near the lake. Ravage stood up on all fours and he felt his way around, wondering where he was. His claws brushed over the water and he looked in the direction of the sound he'd made. He scooped some water into his hands and he threw it over his eyes to soothe them and make them feel better. Bunnie and Geoffrey charged towards Ravage but unfortunately for them, Ravage's eyes were beginning to recover and he could see properly now. He saw them both coming and threw an uppercut each at them. He walloped them both in the face and sent them crashing down onto their backs. Then Ravage grabbed Bunnie and Geoffrey, hoisted them up to his height and bashed them both together. The rabbit and skunk cried out as their bodies were roughly slammed against each other and Ravage then proceeded to throw them over the lake and onto the bank on the other side. It was a miracle the two didn't land in the water. Geoffrey and Bunnie picked themselves up and they prepared to fight some more.

"You know something Bunnie? I forever question how the bloke is so strong despite not looking as such." said Geoffrey, dusting himself off.

"Oh Ravage was quite a fitness freak when he was younger and ah'm willin' to bet he's still a fitness freak now." said Bunnie "He definitely keeps himself in shape well that's for sure. But luckily for us, his fightin' isn't that all up to snuff thanks to his feral side kickin' in. We should beat him much easier than before."

"Indeed and once he's behind bars, we can continue what was shaping up to be a lovely date." said Geoffrey, loading some darts into his crossbow.

Ravage ran around the lake and darted towards Bunnie and Geoffrey on all fours. His feral side truly was beginning to take him over now, he was acting more and more like a feral wolf by the second. Bunnie shot at Ravage but the wolf leapt over her blast and continued running towards her. Bunnie quickly changed over to her shield generator. She deployed a force-field that prevented Ravage from jumping onto her. He hit the barrier and was thrown down instantly. Ravage picked himself up and clawed at the barrier, hoping to break through it. But try as he might, he had no chance of breaking down a force field. Bunnie drew her arm backwards and then thrust it forward, causing the barrier to shoot forward and send Ravage flying backwards as it hit him. The force of the barrier made Ravage feel like he'd received a big punch from a giant all of the sudden. Ravage landed on his back and he skidded to a painful halt near the bench. Ravage picked himself up just as Bunnie and Geoffrey charged back towards him. Ravage lunged forward and he sprung into the air like a jack-in-the-box. He soared towards Bunnie and Geoffrey and he dropkicked them both in the head, knocking them down onto the grass. Bunnie picked herself up almost as quickly as she had been knocked down and she roundhouse punched Ravage in the face with her robotic arm. The punch left his skull mask cracked and about ready to break apart. Ravage uppercut Bunnie in the face and then slugged her in the stomach. Bunnie grabbed Ravage by the head and forced him forward, driving her knee into his stomach and brutally winding Ravage as the cold steel of her robotic legs connected sharply with his soft, fleshy body. Ravage doubled over in agony, allowing Bunnie to slam both fists down on his back and knock him down flat onto his stomach. Ravage gasped and grimaced as pain surged over his body and Bunnie looked down at him, her eyes colder than an iceberg.

"Ravage, if ya'll have any decency left in ya then you'll stand down and save yourself further punishment." said Bunnie, her voice soft but stern "Do ya'll want that? Ah don't think you do. Please Ravage, stop bein' so vengeful and evil and be a good guy again. Ah'm sure ya'll will make a very good Royal Fighter and if ya'll join us, you can fulfil the very purpose of our ol' group. What do ya say ol' friend?"

Ravage's response was to claw Bunnie across the face, leaving three bloody cuts across her cheek and one across her eye for as Ravage slashed, his index finger was higher up than his other three claws when he aimed at Bunnie's cheek. Bunnie screamed in anguish as her face stung furiously and the cuts began to stream with blood. Geoffrey was horrified to see his girlfriend hurt like this and he stormed up to Ravage, ready to pound him into the dirt. Ravage glowered at Bunnie, his eyes shrunken down to tiny pupils of insanity.

"I tried being good…and it rewarded me with just punishment!" snarled Ravage "I refuse to be punished again! I will eat you both alive and then I shall make Adabat suffer for all the strife it gave me!"

Bunnie could hardly believe Ravage had declined her offer and she shed a little tear of pain. That tear of hers contained two different pains, the pain in her cheek and the pain she felt of knowing her old friend was well and truly beyond saving. It broke her heart to think that Ravage couldn't be redeemed. Bunnie wiped some blood off her cheek and she clenched her fists.

"Ah'm sorry ya'll think that Ravage and ah'm also sorry that ya'll wish to be like this…so now ah'm gonna have to stop you before you go any further off the deep end." she said coldly.

Ravage was about to attack but Geoffrey, who had already started storming up towards him after he'd slashed Bunnie, threw a terrific punch at Ravage's jaw and sent his head sharply twisting to the right. The punch threw his head so hard that Ravage felt a muscle pull in his neck. He rubbed it better but Geoffrey gave him another pain to rub better, a knee to the gut. Geoffrey then kicked Ravage backwards and fired a dart at him. The dart struck Ravage in the shoulder but the thick material his capewas made of stopped the dart from doing too much harm to him. Bunnie ran in and uppercut Ravage with her robotic arm. Ravage stumbled backwards and he ran towards Bunnie and Geoffrey, ready to attack again.

Rather coincidentally, while this fight had been going on, Ruben and Sora had decided to come outside and enjoy the lovely day. They were heading off to the park for a little walk before lunch time but they'd soon end up getting more than they came for. As they walked towards the park, Ruben smelled the lovely fresh air.

"Aaaah, it's so lovely today." said Ruben "No wonder you decided to come out and enjoy it Sora."

"Well when it comes to the weather, you should make the most of the nice weather when you get it." said Sora "Makes it less dull when the bad weather comes around."

"Indeed, although I do rather enjoy it when it rains what with me being a water panther and all." said Ruben "The sun's always nice though."

"Yeah." said Sora brightly.

She then came to a stop for something had just caught her eye. Ruben could see that Sora had stopped and he began to wonder what had stopped the vixen dead in her tracks. It didn't take him long to figure out though for he looked in the direction Sora was looking in and he saw Ravage fighting off Bunnie and Geoffrey. Ruben knew who he was instantly since he had met Ravage during the whole fiasco with the Sword of Elemental Power the other month. He was horrified to see him here though.

"Oh my gosh! It's Ravage Bloodfang!" cried Ruben "What the heck's he doing here?!"

"Ravage What-fang?" asked Sora "You know this guy Ruben?"

"Long story, I'll explain later." said Ruben "Let's help Bunnie and Geoffrey stop him!"

"You've got it!" said Sora "I was hoping to have a nice walk in the park after all."

Ruben was on the scene faster then you could say "Olly, Olly Oxen free". He ran towards the fight scene and he threw a wave of water at Ravage. The wave hit Ravage and it sent him tumbling directly into the lake. Bunnie and Geoffrey were surprised, but delighted at the same time to see Ruben and Sora were here to help them. Ravage climbed out of the water and he growled furiously. He was soaking wet and his clothes were drenched so badly that they clung to his body, making it harder to move in them. Ravage shook himself dry but he couldn't get his clothes dry, meaning they were still drenched. Ravage growled furiously, not pleased to see yet another face he didn't like. Ruben just glowered at Ravage and he prepared to throw another wave of water at him. Bunnie just smirked at Ravage.

"Give up now ugly! Yer outnumbered and ya can't possibly beat us all!" she crowed "Surrender now before things get unpleasant for ya."

Ravage just snorted.

"I will NOT surrender! But I do know when I cannot win." said Ravage "I'll be back Bunnie and next time, you will be dead!"

Ravage then took to his heels and ran off as fast as he could. The Royal Fighters just watched as Ravage belted off at lightning speed. Wolves were known for being fast and Ravage was no exception. They wouldn't catch him now, they just had to let him go. Bunnie watched as Ravage disappeared into the distance and she sighed sadly. Geoffrey put his hands on her shoulders, understanding his girlfriend's dismay.

"I know babe, you wish that the bloke would come to his senses don't you?" he said softly.

"Oh Geoff, ya'll have no idea how much I want Ravage to be mah friend again." said Bunnie, feeling the cuts on her face which were just beginning to heal now "Ah loved him very much when ah was a kid and yet now, ah'm fightin' him as if we're life long enemies. Oh why can't he be good again?" she whined.

"He lost all decency when he decided to get revenge on Adabat for rightfully punishing him." said Geoffrey grimly "I don't think the blighter's got any hope for him now."

"Ah know…and that's why ah feel sorry for him." said Bunnie sadly "Sorry for him in the sense that he's so far gone now. Ah hope he comes to his senses one day, ah don't wanna keep fightin' him and bein' enemies with him."

"Well I'm sure we can get Ravage to see the light someday." said Ruben supportively "After all, one of the Martians turned traitor and helped us beat them and we got Shadow to redeem himself so I'm sure we can help Ravage. If not then…who knows what we'll have to do." he said sadly.

"Um excuse me, can you three tell me a bit more about this "Ravage" guy?" asked Sora "I've not heard of him before, who is he?"

"Well sugah, I'll tell ya'll everything." said Bunnie as she prepared to tell Sora the whole story.

"Wait a minute, I'm receiving a call from somebody." said Geoffrey.

His utility belt had a pouch in it that contained a mobile phone that was vibrating against his torso, suggesting somebody was trying to give him a call. Geoffrey took the phone out of its pouch and he put it to his ear.

"Hello there mate, this is Geoffrey St. John of the Mobotropolis Royal Fighter Team, how may I be of assistance?" asked Geoffrey.

"Oh Mr. St. John, thank god I managed to reach your team!" wailed the voice of Miranda Mongoose, leader of the Nekronopolis Royal Fighters. The mongoose sounded very upset though, she was crying as she spoke, suggesting something very bad had happened.

"Whoa, whoa luv, calm down, what's the matter?" asked Geoffrey.

"Kari has been kidnapped!" screeched Miranda "She's been taken away and we have no idea who's done it!"

Geoffrey nearly dropped the phone in shock upon hearing that. Kari the Rat was the mechanic of the Nekronopolis Royal Fighters and a good friend of Miranda's given how Miranda was the first person to accept her for being a rat. And she had been kidnapped?! Geoffrey had to tell Sonic about this, he just had to. Pity Sonic was away right now but when he arrived home, Geoffrey would let him know what he had just been told…

Footnotes:

We just witnessed their honeymoon in *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 20: Honeymoons and Rats

 It all happened in the DeviantArt exclusive chapter The Sword of Elemental Power

 See Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 4: Trouble in Ada bat

Talk about a bunch of hi-jinks! The tears in the sky are getting worse, Ravage ruins Bunnie and Geoffrey's first date and now Kari the Rat's been kidnapped?! Who's done this and why? Find out next time as the search for Kari the Rat begins and the prelude to "Endangered Species" opens up...

Reviews are welcome. :)

Oh and it's the third anniversary of Heroes of Mobius! Three years ago today I started writing this story and I'm still writing it now (I started writing a few chapters before I uploaded it). HAPPY ANNIVERSARY TO THIS STORY! :D

The Search for Kari the Rat

Story 160: The Search for Kari the Rat

Countdown to Crisis: 5

Endangered Species Prologue

It had all happened so suddenly.

Kari the Rat, member of the Nekronopolis Royal Fighters and junior mechanic had been enjoying a rather nice day with her good friends Miranda Mongoose and the chipmunk brothers Thunder & Bolt and then suddenly, out of nowhere, a group of rats snatched her up and took her away and all before she could even scream for help. She had been gagged, a piece of cloth tied tightly around her mouth to keep her quiet, and her hands had been tied behind her back while her legs had been tied together, all with thick rope that she couldn't possibly break out of. She had a blindfold on too, meaning that she was being taken somewhere secret and the kidnappers didn't want her to know the way or anything. She was draped like a sack of potatoes over the shoulder of a pretty strong, muscular rat and was now being carried into a building. This building was the headquarters of The Exterminators, a group of rats who were enslaving or exterminating mice everywhere depending on their moods. Wilson the Dog and Mandy Mouse had recently foiled one of the organization's three groups*, leaving two groups left to continue The Exterminator's horrible work. They were both gathered in the headquarters right now and the rat that had kidnapped Kari was taking her to see their leader. Kari tired listening out, trying to see if she could try and work out where she is. Sadly, she couldn't recognize many of the sounds she could hear in this place. She was in a place she had not been in before. Even if she couldn't see, she already knew she wasn't going to be happy here and that she had every right to be scared. She hoped that her team would save her. If not then any other Royal Fighter team would do. Thing is though, why was she being kidnapped and why was she brought here? After a long walk, the rat climbed up a flight of stairs and walked into a room, carrying Kari through the double doors and entering the room. This room was where the leader of The Exterminators resided. Said leader was a muscular, mask-wearing rat named Brawn. At this moment, he was meditating in the middle of the room and was quite deeply into it. He still heard the rat enter though and he could also hear the rat dumping Kari down on the floor behind him. Kari was forced on her knees and her blindfold was removed. Kari winced as it suddenly become bright again and she regained her vision which had been blurred by the blindfold. Kari gasped a muffled gasp as she saw where she was and who was in front of her. Brawn came out of his meditation, his back still turned, and he lowered his arms. He let out some ominous breaths that were amplified by his mask, making Kari shudder. She was frightened by this rat already and all he was doing was breathing.

"Why are you here?" boomed Brawn, his amplified voice like a booming ghoul from the pits of Hell.

The rat who had brought Kari to Brawn kicked Kari in the back.

"Answer him!" he snarled.

Kari couldn't answer him of course for she was still gagged. Even then, she was too terrified to speak. Brawn looked over his shoulder, ignoring Kari and focusing on the rat with his ugly, grey defective eye.

"I was asking you." he said coldly, glowering at the rat.

The rat shuddered, wondering why Brawn was asking him that question in particular. He swallowed nervously and he spoke.

"Th-th-this is another rat sir." he said "Sh-she's a Royal Fighter and she can join our cause as a fellow rat."

Brawn got slowly up to his feet and he turned around. Kari quivered as Brawn towered over her. He looked absolutely terrifying with his muscular posture and sinister mask that covered his muzzle. But Brawn wasn't even looking at her, he was glowering at the rat who had brought her to him. Kari hoped that Brawn wouldn't notice her full stop and then she could escape.

"And you brought her over here?" Brawn purred in a voice that suggested death was coming.

"Y-y-yes B-B-B-Brawn." stammered the rat "B-b-but y-y-you said th-that any rat w-w-we c-c-come across is to b-b-be b-b-brought t-t-to y-y-you and m-m-m-made to b-b-be another member of Th-Th-The Exterminators!"

"You captured a Roy al Fighter, now you will bring their attention to us." Brawn said, his voice surprisingly calm but still very sinister as he spoke.

"I-I-I'm s-s-sorry s-s-sir, th-th-that w-w-wasn't my intention…"

The pleading rat was silenced as Brawn grabbed him by the scalp and began squeezing his head with a strong enough to crush an rock. Brawn squeezed the rat's head so hard that his skull ended up cracking and the rat was killed instantly. His body collapsed in a sickening heap on the floor and Kari cringed just looking at it. Brawn then finally acknowledged Kari's existence, his eyes glowering at the bound and gagged rat.

"Now you're here child, I suppose I should make you comfortable." he boomed "After all, you will be one of us now."

Kari just stared at Brawn, breathing fast behind her gag and her eyes wide open in fright. She wanted to scream in fear at him but the gag made that impossible. She wanted to run but running wouldn't do much good given her feet were tied together and she likely wouldn't get away if she could run away anyway. All she could do was sit there on her knees, frozen in fear at the presence of Brawn. Brawn strode over to Kari and he observed her all over. The terrified rat let out a muffled whimper. Brawn put his hands behind his back and he circled around Kari, observing her top to bottom.

"You don't look like a Royal Fighter child…but you are very beautiful." Brawn purred, his voice making Kari's spine tingle "You will be quite welcome here."

He stopped circling Kari and he untied the gag from around her mouth. Kari quickly gasped for breath, relieved to feel the air in her mouth again, and she looked into Brawn's cold eyes, still terrified before him.

"P-p-p-please…I-I-I-let m-m-me go." she begged "I-I-I-I w-w-want t-t-to go home and b-b-back t-to my friends. They'll b-b-b-be w-w-worried sick about me."

"This will be your new home little girl and you will make some new friends here." Brawn announced "For this is home to me and my humble army of rats. You are a rat so you will enjoy it much here."

"B-b-but y-y-your m-m-man here k-k-kidnapped me sir." said Kari weakly "H-h-how is that m-meant to m-m-make me f-feel welcome? And I d-d-don't want t-t-to live here. I-I-I have a n-n-nice home in N-N-Nekronopolis. P-please let m-m-me go."

Brawn was anything but pleased to hear that. He bore over Kari like a towering demon and he bent down and looked the terrified rat in the eye. Kari shivered and nearly fell over onto her back as she bent backwards away from Brawn.

"I will not tolerate a rat who does not accept his or her place among The Exterminators." said Brawn coldly "We rats are meant to stick together and stave off the enemy we crusade against. You will join us or face death, simple as that."

"So n-n-now y-y-you're holding me a-a-against my will?!" shrieked Kari "Y-y-you're really t-t-trying to m-m-make m-me feel welcome a-aren't you?"

"I have a goal in mind and I need every last rat on Mobius to help me accomplish it." explained Brawn "So holding you against your will is perfectly necessary to keep you with us rats and have you contribute to our cause."

"W-w-what c-c-cause is that th-then?" asked Kari nervously, dreading to hear the answer.

"To enslave or exterminate every last mouse on Mobius." explained Brawn "The rodent rivalry has gone on for far too long so we rats intend to put a stop to it. The mice will serve us our perish, the choice is theirs and given how endangered they are…I don't think they're willing to die any moment soon."

Kari could hardly believe her ears. She was being forced to work for a bunch of rats who's primary goal is to enslave the mice of Mobius or kill them?! This made Kari feel sick and she was not going to be a part of this. Kari suddenly mustered up courage she didn't know she had and did one thing that any normal person wouldn't dare do to Brawn…stand up to him.

"That's sick! I won't be a part of this evil!" yelled Kari "I like the mice and I will not help you vile rats subjugate them like this! You can kill me for all I care, I won't join The Exterminators and contribute to this!"

Brawn took in Kari's lecture and surprisingly enough, he seemed eerily calm about it. He didn't react to Kari's lecture angrily or violently. He didn't even raise a finger. He just stared at her incredulously as if the very thought of a rat liking mice and refusing to join The Exterminators was a big shock to him. Kari suddenly felt nervous. Was Brawn waiting to strike at her? Had she dug herself a grave for standing up to him? A calm villain can often be very dangerous for you never know what their reaction will be. Brawn eventually moved after a minute and he grabbed Kari by the neck. Kari gagged loudly and Brawn hoisted her clean off her feet. Kari tried to gulp but Brawn holding her by the neck made even gulping a bit difficult.

"Then you can join the filthy mice in slavery you poor simpering child." said Brawn coldly "Now let us see if we have any rags that fit you."

With that said, Kari was taken away by Brawn and carried off to a room that contained all kinds of rags for the mice to wear. The idea behind making them wear rags was that it would make the mice feel pathetic, dominated and weak compared to the well-dressed rats who wore quite intimidating costumes to make them look superior. Kari knew she wasn't going to like what she was going to be dressed in but what could she do about it? She had very poor fighting skills and without a weapon, she was useless. She had no choice but to allow Brawn to do what he wished to her. She was being forced into slavery along with many innocent mice and all she could do was hope her friends would save her from this nightmare…

"I leave to investigate Dark and Kiara's disappearances and now I'm here investigating Kari's disappearance?" said Sonic the Hedgehog, supersonic hero of the world "Who's next to disappear around here?"

It didn't take long for Sonic to hear about Kari's disappearance at all. He along with Queen Sally and Miles "Tails" Prower had been to Megapolis to investigate the disappearances of Dark Cat and Kiara, both of whom had been taken by a tear in the sky. The resulting investigation ended up telling them that the tears in the sky were getting worse and worse and that something had to be done about it but the big problem for Sonic was how they could remotely stop something beyond their control and not even of Mobius origin. That burning question that sparked worry through him would have to wait though for when Sonic returned home, he was instantly informed of Kari's disappearance by the first Royal Fighter to receive the call, Geoffrey St. John. He and Bunnie had narrowly escaped death at the hands of the savage Ravage Bloodfang and after the battle, Geoffrey had received a call to say Kari had been kidnapped. Sonic was quick to wonder if this was a kidnapping or yet another tear in the sky that had taken Kari away so he was all too keen to investigate this surprising revelation. He had brought Tails and Sally with him again but it wasn't just them who were coming to Nekronopolis to try and find Kari. They had brought Team Chaotix with them too. Team Chaotix were a trio of detectives which consisted of Espio the Chameleon, the ninja master, Vector the Crocodile, the leader with the big heart and even bigger mouth and Charmy Bee…the idiot and stinger of the team. The Chaotix were pleased to hear that they had a case to solve, they hadn't had one for a while so this was their chance to be the detectives they were, made a change from joining in with the fighting for once. After arriving in Nekronopolis, Sonic was instantly greeted by a very heartbroken and upset Miranda Mongoose. She was practically crying her eyes out and losing her mind with panic over Kari's abduction, so much so that it took her a while to calm down. Thunder and Bolt were upset over this too, they didn't even crack one joke while Miranda spilled her grief out. Sonic had given Miranda a much needed hug to comfort her and calm her down and now the mongoose was clamed down, she sat down on a chair and regained herself while Vector stood beside her with a notepad and pencil in his hands. He wanted to make some notes so he knew what kind of case this would be. Everybody gathered around and waited for Miranda to tell them what they wanted to know. Sally knelt beside Miranda and held her hand, patting it softly to comfort her for the mongoose looked like she was ready to cry another rainfall.

"OK then Miranda, I need you to tell us everything you know about what's happened." said Sally gently "Try to remain calm so that you can tell us properly, it'll be hard to understand you if you keep snivelling."

"I…I know…it…it's just hard for me to…to…" stammered a still very upset Miranda, her hands trembling in Sally's as she held them.

"Miranda, come on, take it easy." said Sonic softly "We'll solve everything, you don't need to worry. We'll find Kari, I promise you."

Miranda could only smile at Sonic's generosity.

"It's no wonder you're so beloved among the Royal Fighters Sonic." snivelled Miranda, wiping her eyes dry "Your kindness just touches the heart, it really does."

"Anytime Miranda, I'm just doing what I do best." said Sonic with a wink "Now then, what exactly happened around here?"

"Well…we had come home from a mission involving saving a population of mice in Spagonia." explained Miranda "Me, Kari, Thunder and Bolt were told of a group of rats known as "The Exterminators", a group dedicated to subjugation of mice with the second option of killing them. We got the message from Wilson and Mandy themselves. They had encountered a team working for the group while on their honeymoon apparently."

"Oh dear." said Sally with concern "They were meant to be having a nice time and they ran into a team working for this so called group "The Exterminators"?"

"Considering Mandy's irrational hatred of rats, I bet that really sucked for her." muttered Sonic.

Vector was jotting all of this down in his notebook, thinking that this information would be of great use to him in this case.

"So what happened next then Miss Mongoose?" asked Vector "How did Kari get kidnapped?"

"I was going to tell you all that." said Miranda, trembling a little "After we had taken down the Spagonia team and gotten them all incarcerated, we returned back here to our camp. Kari went into her tent to build something new and…what happened next happened so suddenly that we hardly had any time to realize what had happened."

"Best we can tell ya is that we had some muffled screams and a struggle going on in the tent." said Thunder.

"We ran over to see if Kari was OK and then…moment we entered the tent she just vanished." said Bolt "Into thin air!"

Sonic sighed with relief, glad to hear that it wasn't a tear in the sky that had caused Kari's disappearance. There was no way a tear in the sky had taken Kari, there was no talk of seeing a strange streak of light in the sky and Kari getting sucked up into it. And yet Sonic couldn't help but wonder what had happened to Kari. She just vanished into thin air? How did that happen? Espio approached Miranda and decided to ask her something.

"You say you heard a struggle and muffled screams, is that what lead to the belief she was kidnapped?" asked Espio.

"Yes." said Miranda "And the very thought just sickens me. Why would want to kidnap a lovely, innocent girl like Kari? Why?! And who would want to do this in the first place?!"

She couldn't help but wail again, taking her hands out of Sally's hands and weeping into them. Vector went over all the notes he had taken whilst Miranda had been talking and he began to piece together a theory in his scaly head. Vector's brain often worked the best when he was doing detective work. He read the notes several times until his brain went tick and he had a theory to discuss.

"So you guys foil a group of rats…then Kari, who is a rat, goes missing shortly after you come back…" said Vector "I have an idea on who her kidnappers might be."

"Who?" blurted Miranda desperately.

"Isn't it obvious?" said Vector "Another group of them rats you talked about must have done it."

Espio looked over at Vector as if he was surprised to see that the crocodile had worked it out so quickly. Then again, Vector had been wrong (a lot) before in cases so he wasn't holding out any hopes that Vector had solved the case already.

"But, you just foiled a group of rats." Charmy said to Miranda "How could another group of rats kidnap Kari?"

"Wilson and Mandy told us that The Exterminators have three teams." explained Miranda "They foiled one in Adabat and we've just foiled one in Spagonia. The third team must still be on the loose, no Royal Fighter team's reported to anyone about capturing a group of rats yet."

"And I know we haven't captured any groups of rats since no rat has been near New Mobotropolis." said Sonic "The third group must still be on the loose indeed Miranda. But I thought they were subjugating mice, why would they kidnap one of their own?"

"I don't know." said Miranda worriedly "And that's the scary part. Have they mistaken her for a mouse and are enslaving her? It could easily happen since compared to most rats, Kari's quite pleasant looking and doesn't look ratty in the slightest."

"That's possible." said Vector "But…has Kari ever been mistaken for a mouse before?"

"I…don't think so…" said Miranda, more mumbling than speaking now.

"So I doubt that The Exterminators would confuse her for a mouse." said Vector "They must know she's a rat and they're kidnapping her for some reason."

"Well whatever the reason is, it's not on." said Sonic crossly "We're gonna find this group of rats and "exterminate" them! Then we'll save Kari and bring her back to your team Miranda."

"I hope you can Sonic." snivelled Miranda, feeling more tears welling up in her brown eyes "You must save Kari, you simply must! I love her, I love her like she's my own daughter! I can't bear the thought of her captive and suffering goodness knows what in the hands of those vile rats!"

"Miranda, the hedgehog has given his word to save Kari and he intends to keep it." Sonic insisted "You needn't worry Miranda, we WILL find her or my name isn't Sonic the Hedgehog!"

Miranda's first response was to hug Sonic graciously and smile widely at his kindness. It made her feel good to know that she could rely on someone to find Kari and bring her back home safe and sound

"Thank you so much." said Miranda gratefully "I don't know how I can thank you for this generosity Sonic."

"Don't mention it Miranda." said Sonic "Saving lives and bringing villains to justice is my life's work pretty much, if something's happened, I'm all too happy to be on the case."

"It's selflessness like that as to why I love you so much." purred Sally seductively, leaning near Sonic as she said it.

She couldn't help but giggle as Sonic blushed and half-chuckled in embarrassment at that little purr she did to him. Sonic fought the embarrassment off his face and he quickly regained himself.

"Ahem…OK then, let's get finding Kari!" declared Sonic.

"Hey Chaotix, you have any ideas where to start?" asked Tails "We can't search for Kari if we have no idea where to start."

"Well when you're a detective Tails, the most logical course of action to take is to investigate the place the person was last seen in, or in Miranda's case "heard" in, to look for clues." said Vector "So Chaotix, let's get investigating!"

"Whee! We're investigating!" cheered Charmy, whipping out a magnifying glass from goodness knows where (seriously, I don't know where he was keeping that thing!) and twirling it around in his hands "Detective Charmy Bee is on the case! Elementary my dear Chaotix!"

His next course of action was to fly around randomly and look through the magnifying glass to see if there was anything lying around.

"I like him already." laughed Thunder, leaning towards Bolt and more talking to him than anybody in particular.

"He could be our new best friend." agreed Bolt.

"Uh Charmy, if you're going to look for clues then look in Kari's tent." said Espio "That's where she last was before getting kidnapped."

"OK. Uh…which tent's Kari's?" asked Charmy as he stopped flying around and started scratching his head.

"It's that one there." said Miranda, pointing at a tent that still had its entrance laid open, revealing what as inside of it.

After Kari was kidnapped, Miranda had kept away from Kari's tent to make sure she didn't get in the way of any evidence lying around. It was very important not to disturb the crime scene when a crime happened, you had to leave it so that the detectives could make a proper investigation and not draw up any wrong conclusions. Charmy flew into the tent instantly and immediately started looking around with his magnifying glass for any clues left behind in the tent.

"Be careful not to break anything in there!" shrieked Miranda "It's delicate machinery and Kari will be very upset if anything's broken!"

"I'll make sure he doesn't break anything." said Espio, running off into the tent to keep Charmy in check.

Espio disappeared into the tent with Charmy and he began to search for clues along with him. Vector remained with the others give the tent was too small for him to fit in and he would take up too much room given his large size. It would be best to leave it to Charmy and Espio for they were small enough and could get around a lot easier. As the two searched for clues, Vector turned to Miranda and decided to ask her something.

"Say Miranda, how did you come to meet Kari and why do you two have such a close friendship?" he asked "I'm just curious that's all."

"Oh it stems from the fact that I was literally the first non-rat person at the time to actually give Kari a chance instead of judging by stereotypes." said Miranda "A month after the Royal Fighters Service had formed, I was making supper for myself and my late friend Kate the Eagle and we heard the sound of somebody crying so me and Kate investigated. To our surprise, it was a young girl sitting on a rock and crying to herself, that girl being Kari. Me and Kate approached her and Kari was quick to tell us to get lost, immediately assuming we were going to pour more grief on her. "Go away!" she said to us "You don't want to be near me! I'm just a nasty, evil, sneaky, conniving rat! You don't want to be near me!" We assured her that we meant her no harm and I asked her what was wrong. Kari told us her problems, she was a victim of stereotype and people were spiteful to her just for being a rat. The poor girl was on the verge of suicide too, saying to us that she was feeling so depressed that she considered killing herself!"

"Oh my gosh…that's horrible!" cried Vector.

"I know, and she's only nineteen too." said Miranda "She was seventeen when we met her, that's way too young an age to take your own life away. So me and Kate talked to Kari and assured her that we didn't believe in stereotyping and that we were willing to give her a chance. Kari was so touched that she hugged us both instantly and said "That was the nicest thing anyone's ever done for me!". So we accepted her in our team and Kari looks up to me as if I'm the mother she always wanted. And I see her as the daughter I've always wanted…"

She paused to stop herself from crying again. She choked back the tears and took a deep breath to calm down.

"So that's why me and Kari are so close." said Miranda "I literally saved her life. I'm her hero you could say."

Sonic, Sally and Tails had been listening to the story too and they were amazed as to how deep their friendship really was.

"Wow…that was beautiful." said Sonic.

"It's so lovely to hear how deep your friendship really is." said Sally, her hands over her heart in awe "I'm always happy to hear how strong the bonds of my fellow Royal Fighters are. Makes the point of being a unified effort all the more apparent."

"Thank you your majesty." said Miranda "Kari's probably the only Mobian I've been closer to than anybody else, even Kate."

"After hearing that story, it's easy to see why." said Tails "She was at her lowest point and you brought her back to the highest point, what more could somebody want from a friend like you?"

"Aww…that was nice of you to say." said Miranda, touched by Tails' kind words.

Tails just smiled modestly, always happy to speak from his heart. Then suddenly, Charmy rocketed out of the tent as if he'd just seen an ugly monster and was keen to get away from it. He had the magnifying glass still but in his other hand he had what appeared to be a clump of grey fur.

"Hey, hey! Vector! Is THIS a clue?" asked Charmy, showing him the clump of fur as if presenting a trophy to the Chaotix boss.

Vector took the clump of fur and he observed it. It was grey, dirty and very smelly. Vector had to hold his nose as he held it.

"Ugh…what a smelly clump of fur!" he choked "That's definitely rat fur, only they ever smell this bad!"

"Well that's not from Kari, her fur is white and she's probably the cleanest rat you've ever met." said Miranda "She hardly ever smells, if at all to be precise. Must be from one of the kidnappers."

"Wait, is there a way we can do a DNA test on that?" asked Tails "Maybe it could help us track down the specific type of rat we're looking for."

"Hey! Kari has a DNA scanner!" Bolt blurted suddenly "We could use that to scan that fur!"

"I'll go get it." said Thunder "Won't be long, I'll be quite short in fact."

He giggled at his bad joke as he ran off into Kari's tent to fetch the DNA scanner. He wasn't inside the tent for long, approximately a few seconds at most, and he was soon back outside with the DNA scanner. It was a small machine that looked more like a paper guillotine with a screen on it. Instead of a blade for shredding paper of course, it had a scanner that ran across the rail and would scan whatever was placed on the screen. Thunder ran back over to the others but he was running rather clumsily, trying to keep hold of the perceptibly heavy machine he was carrying in his hands and he ended up stumbling over his feet and falling flat onto his face. This caused the machine to fly up out of his hands and had Bolt not been on hand to catch the machine by diving for it as it headed towards the ground, the result would have been a broken machine that littered the ground. Bolt sighed with relief having saved the machine from total destruction and he picked himself up. He scowled at his brother who could only pick himself up and look guilty over nearly breaking Kari's machine.

"Thunder you clumsy fool! We need that!" yelled Bolt.

"Sorry bruv." he said "It's not my fault the darn thing's heavy to carry."

"Well be careful in the future for heaven's sake!" snapped Bolt "Kari's gonna be mad if she finds you breaking her stuff!"

"Please don't argue you two, we don't have time for that." sighed Miranda in annoyance.

Bolt understood Miranda's frustration and he decided it would be wise to do as he was told. He silenced himself and he handed the machine over to Miranda. Miranda had been shown how to work the machine by Kari herself the day she had invented it so Miranda turned it on without hesitating and Vector placed the clump of fur on the scanner, his face suggesting he was happy to have finally put it down due to the bad smell stinging his nostrils. The scanner slid slowly across the rail, a green bar following it across the screen as it scanned its chosen components. The bar slid slowly under the fur, slowly in the sense that it seemed to be analyzing every last inch of the clump down to the smallest bit of grit to the thinnest hair on it. After a minute, the scan had completed and in a small letterbox like screen beeped the results. Miranda looked at the results. It said "Grey Rat Fur, presumably from an unhygienic environment", obviously picking up how dirty and smelly the fur was. Miranda could only frown over the fact they were indeed right about Kari being kidnapped by rats.

"It IS rat fur!" gasped Miranda "Why those sneaky little…Kari was kidnapped by rats, we were right all along!"

"That only adds more questions to the table now." said Tails "Why the heck would rats kidnap Kari? I thought they were kidnapping mice?"

"Maybe they don't like the fact she's a nice rat and want to punish her the way they punish mice?" suggested Sonic "Although unfortunately, this DNA test doesn't tell us that it was a member of The Exterminators that did it. Any rat could have kidnapped Kari and that rat could be anywhere right now. And the fact it's "grey rat fur" doesn't help too much either, there's lots of grey rats out there."

"I agree, we're still at square one." said Sally "All we know is that Kari was kidnapped by a rat, most specifically a grey rat. That narrows our suspects list by a little bit and even then, her kidnappers could be working for somebody. This mystery is going to be a tough one, much like the mystery of the streak of light in the sky…"

"The what?" asked Miranda curiously.

"Never mind." said Sonic quickly, not wanting to distract Miranda and bring up an unrelated issue to what they were investigating now.

"I notice the machine says this fur belongs to a rat that presumably comes from an unhygienic environment." said Espio, peering over at the machine and reading the results "That must mean the rat lives somewhere dirty and smelly."

"Or the rat just got dirty from poor hygiene skills or from making a long trek here." noted Sally "That bit of information doesn't help one bit."

"Oh we're never gonna find Kari now!" wailed Miranda "We have no idea where she is and where to start looking! What do we do?"

"We'll think of something Miranda, make no mistake on that." said Sonic "Now if I was an evil rat who's totally unlike Kari, where would I have a hideout…"

His thoughts were interrupted by a call coming form a phone that Sally had kept in her vest for incase anybody needed to call her for emergencies or anything at all. Sally assumed it would be the Castle Acorn staff requiring her presence back at Castle Acorn. Sally took the phone out and answered it. To her surprise, it was not the staff of Castle Acorn calling her, making Sally intrigued to hear what this was about. Her phone against her ear, Sally chatted away to the callers and her face seemed to look grave as the conversation went on. Sally gave a nod of the head and she hung up after bidding goodbye to the caller. She put the phone away and she turned to Miranda.

"I'm very sorry Miranda, we have to go now." said Sally "Wilson and Mandy have cut their honeymoon short and are coming back home. Apparently Mandy's developed extreme anxieties after their experience with The Exterminators in Adabat and she couldn't relax and enjoy the holiday. We have to go home and wish them a welcome back, and maybe help Mandy come to grips with herself."

Sonic and Tails were gobsmacked to hear this. Poor Wilson and Mandy! They FINALLY got a chance to have their honeymoon and because of some horrible, mice-abducting group of rats they ended up cutting it short? Could the heroes EVER get a break around here? Sonic was well prepared to give out his sympathies to the married couple when they got home.

"I understand." said Miranda "I don't blame Mandy for being anxious about The Exterminators. She is a mouse after all and the rats are kidnapping mice."

"If it's OK, me and the boys will stay behind and keep investigating." said Vector "We'll fill ya in on any updates if you come back.

"That's perfectly fine Vector." said Sally brightly "See you later."

Team Chaotix waved goodbye to Sonic, Sally and Tails and the three Royal Fighters set off for home to greet Wilson and Mandy for they were returning after a short honeymoon. Unfortunately, this was not going to go as expected…things were about to go very, VERY bad once Wilson and Mandy returned home…

Meanwhile, Brawn was sitting in his throne and awaiting further updates from the only remaining team working for The Exterminators. He wasn't pleased at all that two of his groups had been beaten and incarcerated and he was determined for this group to accomplish his goals and to avoid capture at all costs. He had a chained up Kari the Rat beside his throne. Kari's hands were shackled together with very heavy, uncomfortable shackles that were so thick it was hard for her to so much as turn her wrists. The shackles were connected to a chain and the chain was nailed to the side of Brawn's throne. Kari was like Brawn's little pet, a poor simpering puppy dog chained beside its master as a sign of dominance and discipline. Kari had been stripped of her clothes too and been forced to wear rags as a symbol of her enslavement. The rags were hardly pleasing though. They consisted of a large piece of cloth that was tied around her breasts, forming a makeshift bikini for her and a ragged skirt that was filthy and had holes in it. She had been allowed to keep her slippers on though but not that it was anything to be happy about. Kari hated the way she was dressed now, so much of her body was uncovered now and she just felt embarrassed and vulnerable to be showing so much skin and fur. It was part of Brawn's twisted idea to ensure the slave's lowly place in the captivity of The Exterminators. As Brawn sat in his throne and awaited further updates, Kari slumped beside the throne and hugged herself, humiliated and ashamed that this had been allowed to happen to her and she prayed that this was all just a twisted nightmare she would finally wake up from. Even more, she hoped that the Royal Fighters would save her from this hellhole. For the moment, she'd have to put up with being a pathetic little servant rat for Brawn. One could tell that Kari was going to loathe every minute of it. The door opened up and somebody strode into the room to greet Brawn. It was the elephant with the club attached to his trunk that was often seen standing beside Brawn. Kari thought he looked terrifying, a towering powerhouse of muscle and thick skin that was formidable in appearance and had a powerful weapon hanging on the end of his trunk, making him look even scarier. Elephants were often associated with being graceful giants, but this elephant was anything but graceful. Even his walking wasn't graceful. He walked stiffly and heavily as if he was a tank with legs, striding heavily over to Brawn to request who he was going to point his gun barrel at next. The elephant knelt down before Brawn and reported.

"Brawn, I'm here to report that the squad you've sent to comb NewMobotropolis for mice has arrived at the city and the rats are waiting to intercept." the elephant boomed in a croaky, deep voice that indicated he grew up with a rough and tough demeanour that had only gotten worse with his age.

"Very good news Mace." said Brawn "You may give the order to attack. New Mobotropolis is the last city we've looked at and any mice from that city is more than welcome to join the slaves we currently have."

Kari's heart stopped with horror. They were attacking NewMobotropolis?! She knew all to well who they'd end up finding in New Mobotropolis and she couldn't bear the thought of that person getting kidnapped. She'd never see them coming.

"No! No please you can't! You can't attack NewMobotropolis!" she shrieked.

Brawn promptly punched Kari in the face and threw her down onto the floor as the punch made contact with her cheek. Kari was left lying on her side, wondering what on Mobius had just hit her. Mace, the elephant's apparent name, glared at Kari and then he turned his attention back to Brawn.

"Very well sir." said Mace "I'll tell them to move in. New Mobotropolis has very few mice unfortunately, five to be precise but one has just returned to the city and is now at home. The sixth mouse is with an orange dog and it's a purple-furred mouse with yellow eyes, a yellow tail and she dresses in green. We think it's this "Mandy" person Benedict spoke of before you executed him."

Brawn's eyes widened with delight as if he was happy to hear this.

"How fortuitous." he purred "Mandy lives in New Mo botropolis? She must be captured ind eed, above all the other mice in the city, make sure that the squad captures Mandy. I have some scores to settle with that feisty little imp…" he growled, his amplified voice dripping with hatred and his fists clenching furiously.

"Very well sir, she will be captured." said Mace "After all, it's thanks to her Benedict's group failed."

Mace then got back to his feet and he left the room to give the waiting squadron the order to kidnap the mice of NewMobotropolis, Mandy included. Kari could hardly contain herself and she got up onto her knees. She grabbed Brawn's arm and squeezed it very tightly. Her puny hands were insignificant against the mass of muscle Brawn's arms contained.

"Brawn please, you're making a mistake!" wailed Kari "You can't invade New Mobotropolis and kidnap Mandy! She's a Royal Fighter like me and I thought you wanted to avoid them! You're sealing your own fate if you do that!"

Brawn just ignored Kari and smacked her back onto the floor, the smack feeling more like a punch to Kari due to how puny she was compared to such an enormous rat.

"It does not matter if the Roy al Fighters get involved now." said Brawn coldly "They already have gotten involved with us so why should we mask our presence any longer? They still don't know where the heart of The Exterminators is so they'll nev er fully terminate us. And they'll nev er save you or Mandy my pathetic little servant girl…"

Kari felt her heart shatter in two as all hope of being rescued seemed to just evaporate into nothing like a puddle being soaked up by the sun. Kari could only sit by the throne and cry into her hands over this. How could she ever escape now if the Royal Fighters were never going to find her or even find Brawn and his group for that matter…?

Back in New Mobotropolis, Wilson the Dog and his wife Mandy Mouse had finally returned home, unaware of the impending danger that was waiting to strike for them. After a good day turned sour by their encounter with Benedict and his goons in Adabat, Mandy had been finding it hard to relax and settle from the events and Wilson decided it was very unfair to prolong the honeymoon if Mandy was unhappy so for her sake, they had decided to postpone it for now and continue with it again another day. Mandy was very upset to cut her honeymoon short but she knew that it was for a good reason and that it's impossible to have a nice honeymoon if you can't relax and settle. So earlier this morning, they had packed their bags and flown home to New Mobotropolis. It had been a long flight but they had made it at last and now they walked into their house, which was a nice two-story house with a triangular ceiling, round windows and a nice purple colour scheme with orange windowsills and an orange door. Nobody would mistake this house for anyone other than Wilson and Mandy's house that's for sure. The two walked inside the house and dumped their suitcases on the sofa. They were both quite tired and they didn't feel like unpacking right now so they slumped on the sofa and decided to have a rest for a bit. Wilson lay back on the sofa while Mandy sat beside him, her hand on his chest and her other hand on his shoulder.

"Home sweet home as they say." said Wilson dully "Although I wasn't anticipating coming home so soon."

"I'm sorry Wilson, I really am." said Mandy "But I just can't get those evil rats off my mind and thus…it's getting hard to settle. I'm really sorry we had to cancel our honeymoon."

"Mandy dear, please stop fretting." said Wilson, putting his arms around his wife and embracing her warmly "It's not your fault this is happening at all. It's Benedict's fault for spoiling our honeymoon with this bunch of rats and their kidnapping of the mice population in Adabat."

"Yeah, Bene-douche spoiled everything." Mandy growled softly "That sick, lustful, twisted, dirty rat! I swear to god if he was here right now I'd flatten his face into mush!"

"Well he's likely been arrested now since the Adabat group's been terminated and apparently, another group in Spagonia's been terminated." said Wilson "I got a call from Miranda Mongoose and her team earlier before we left, I wanted to save it for when we got home so I could make this welcome home feel sweeter."

"Well that's wonderful to hear." said Mandy, cheering up instantly "Just one more filthy team left and The Exterminators are exterminated. Then with those scornful rats all locked up, we can resume our honeymoon, this time with no worries."

"That's the spirit my girl." said Wilson "Until then though, I will go out of my way to make sure not one rat lays a hand on you Mandy. I'll even sacrifice myself if it means keeping them from you."

"That's lovely Wilson but we both know that I can take on those rats as well." said Mandy, tapping the dog's nose with a gentle finger "After all, I handled Benedict and saved you from those guards didn't I?"

"Uh, yes you did." said Wilson "Even if it was me who sent Benedict down the chute, you handled him well. Very well Mandy, we'll fight those rats together."

"Indeed." said Mandy "And then hopefully we can get the mice and rats to call off this stupid rivalry for good. The world will be much better if both mice and rats can get on."

"I agree." said Wilson, stroking Mandy's fur behind her head

"Rivalries are just pointless, they spoil everything."

"You bet they do." said Mandy grimly "Well enough on that, let's just have a nice nap together and then we'll unpack. It's been a long day and we could do with a rest."

"OK then sweetheart, we'll rest a minute. I could do with a nap in all honesty." said Wilson.

The two had a little kiss before lying back in the sofa, their arms around one another still, and closing their eyes to have a little nap to rest up from their long trip home. But their little nap ended up being shorter than they wanted for a knock on the door was heard and the couple sat up immediately.

"Oh, wonder who that is?" asked Mandy "Might be the mailman."

"I'll get it." said Wilson, hopping onto his feet and heaving his heavy bones over to the door.

He clearly wasn't happy at the fact they had a visitor just when they were hoping to relax a bit. Still, he couldn't ignore it so he opened the door and…the moment he opened the door he was sprayed with a sickly green gas that made him cough and splutter like a man with a bad chesty cough before he collapsed onto the floor, unconscious but alive. Mandy was horrified at this and she ran over to her husband.

"Wilson!" she shrieked, putting her hands on his chest to feel his heartbeat.

"Never mind him, he's alright." snarled the person who had sprayed him "And he's not the one we're after, it's you we want you purple-furred freak."

Mandy looked up and to her horror, she saw that the attacker was a rat dressed in military uniform and baring the symbol of The Exterminators. He was armed with a gun, presumably the weapon that contained the knockout spray. Her worst horror had come true, The Exterminators had found her and they were coming to kidnap her! Well Mandy was not going down without a fight. She raised her fists and dared the rats to attack her.

"Do your worst freaks!" she dared "You won't get me!"

The rat with the knockout spray raised his gun and sprayed green gas at Mandy. Mandy held her breath and she retreated away from the gas, desperate not to inhale any of it. One whiff of the gas and she'd be on the floor like Wilson. The rat with the gun ran into the house to get Mandy while another rat ran over to Wilson's body and dragged him over to the sofa. He lay Wilson on the sofa stomach first and tied his arms behind his back with some rope. He tied his ankles together too and then plastered some sticky tape over his mouth. He didn't want the dog waking up and screaming for help, nor trying to call for it so binding and gagging him would be the best way to ensure he stayed where he was and that he stayed quiet. Over to Mandy, the rat with the gun ran over to her but Mandy threw a well aimed kick to the groin at the rat and her foot connected sharply with his tender spot. The rat groaned in pain and dropped his gun, Mandy grabbing it and spraying him with the gas. The rat was knocked out instantly and Mandy smirked triumphantly at him. Unfortunately, her triumph was short-lived for she turned around to get the other rat…and ended up getting sprayed by knockout gas. The other rat had a gun on him too and sensing his pal needed help, he had whipped out the gun and pointed it at Mandy. Now Mandy was sprayed with green gas and her body was feeling limp.

"No!" she spluttered "I…won't…let you…kidnap…me…"

Resist as much as she might, she had no chance against the gas. Her body fell asleep and she collapsed onto the floor, completely unconscious and helpless before the rats that had come to take her. Two rats waiting outside darted into the house and they grabbed Mandy's unconscious body. They hoisted her up by the arms and legs and they carried her out of the house. The rat that had knocked Mandy out carried out his unconscious comrade who had knocked out Wilson. The rats left the house and the closed the door behind them, the only tell-tale signs of their presence left in the house being Wilson all tied up and gagged on the sofa, completely unconscious and in for a shock when he woke up. The rats had got Mandy and now she was in for a life of hell once she was delivered to Brawn like a parcel in the post…

Footnotes:

We just witnessed their honeymoon in *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 20: Honeymoons and Rats

* At the end of Part 2 of Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 20: Honeymoons and Rats , Wilson and Mandy decided to put the Royal Fighters Service on high alert and have the other teams track down The Exterminators

Oh...my...GOD! The Extermiantors have got Mandy! What's gonna happen to her now? Join me next time for "Endangered Species" begins and it's a story you do not want to miss...no seriously, you don't wanna miss this!

Endangered Species Part 1

Story 161: Endangered Species Part 1: Rodents on the Brink

Countdown to Crisis: 4

An eternity seemed to have passed as Mandy Mouse was in this unconscious slumber and yet in reality, the only amount of time that had even passed since Mandy's capture was an hour.

An hour was very precious time indeed, an hour could be used for many things in the day and that one hour had been used by The Exterminators to bring Mandy out of New Mobotropolis and into Central City, the very place that The Exterminators were located in. Obviously, Mandy had been asleep the whole way so she would have no idea of the way there at all. The Exterminators had delivered Mandy to Brawn and Brawn had locked Mandy up in a cell until she woke up. As for Mandy, after a long hour of unconsciousness, she began to wake up from the knockout gas. Knockout gas was quite lethal, especially if much of it was sprayed and Mandy had been give a big spray. The big spray she'd received had been enough to knock her out for a whole hour and at long last, she was beginning to wake up. Mandy groaned as her head beginning swimming with pain and flooding with thoughts that came back to her. As Mandy came out of unconsciousness she began to recall what had happened. She had come home from her honeymoon in Adabat a few days early due to anxieties over The Exterminators. She and Wilson arrived home and were going to rest for a minute when suddenly they were attacked by The Exterminators. Wilson had been knocked out, bound and gagged and dumped on the sofa out of the way while Mandy had tried to fight them off and instead ended up getting knocked out. Now she was waking up and she was beginning to take in her surroundings. As Mandy's eyes swept unfocused around the room she was in, she could see that it was dark, grey and uninviting. She was lying on a bench that was made of steel, very cold steel that is. It was freezing in the room, the walls made of cold steel and a draft seeping in through the door. Mandy shivered, she felt strangely colder than she should be feeling. She didn't really bother to figure out why though, she was still waking up. She could make out broken chains lying on the floor, the very sight of them making he wonder why they were broken in the first place. Had some person broken free of this cell? If so then it gave Mandy some hope of escape at least. If that person who broke the chains could break out then so could she. Mandy finally blinked the sleep out of her eyes and her field of vision cleared up. She could clearly see the cell she was in and she shivered ever so furiously in the nipping cold she was locked up in. Mandy sat up on the bench and looked out ahead of her. To her surprise, the door was open a crack but that wasn't half as surprising as what was in front of the door and her. Looming above her like a wrestler baring over his defeated opponent was the terrifying figure of Brawn the Rat. He breathed slowly, his mask resonating the breathing and making it sound scary. Brawn was so intimidating that even drawing breath could send shivers up someone's spine. Mandy cried out in surprise and she fell off the bench. She picked herself up and backed herself against the wall, staring directly into Brawn's hideous dead eye and his horrifying red eye. Her heart pounded and she could feel herself breathing very fast. It was difficult to scare Mandy but Brawn seemed to have found something that scared her, being locked in a room with him glaring at her as if waiting to take her to the pits of hell. Mandy's tough demeanour quickly returned though and her face narrowed into a frown.

"OK buster, I have no idea where I am and what the hell I'm doing here so you'd better start spilling!" growled Mandy "Why the hell have you freaks kidnapped me and…brrr…" she paused as the cold of the wall bit at her skin. She rubbed her arms and shivered a little "…why is it so cold in here? And why do I feel like I'm hardly…"

She looked down at her body and got the shock of her life. She was not in her Royal Fighter uniform, she had been stripped off her uniform and much like the imprisoned Kari the Rat, she had been dressed in very unappealing rags that barely complimented her beautiful, feminine figure. She was only wearing a dirty, ragged old brown bra that squeezed on her breasts. It was a bit too small for her but not like Brawn cared about sizes anyway. Around her waist hung a dirty brown skirt that had a lot of wear and tear in it and was the living definition of ragged. That explained why she felt colder than she should be feeling in this cell, she was barely wearing anything! Mandy put her hands to her face in horror and let out a loud, shrilling scream that echoed around the room and made Brawn's ears hurt. Mandy hardly ever screamed in terror but in this case, she could hardly help it.

"AAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHH screamed Mandy "WHAT THE HELL HAPPENED TO MY CLOTHES?! WHAT THE HELL AM I WEARING?!"

Mandy then stopped screaming and she glared at Brawn, her fists clenched and her ears drooped back against her head in rage.

"You dirty little creep! You undressed me while I was unconscious didn't you?!" she snarled "How dare you! How dare you take my clothes off and put me in these…these…horrible rags! I am so gonna kill you for this you godforsaken pervert!"

"Still your nerves Mandy, I was not the one who changed your attire at all." purred Brawn, his voice eerily calm and booming softly in Mandy's ears "I had my men see to that. I am a rat with decency after all."

Mandy could only stare at Brawn in disbelief.

"Have we…met?" she murmured "How the hell do you know my name?"

"Don't you remember me Mandy?" said Brawn softly, his voice a faux tone of disappointment as if Mandy's inability to recognize him physically hurt him "We were in High School together. I was Benedict's loyal lapdog and I was there when you punched him in the face and scolded him for bullying that wimp of a mutt you were friends with."

Mandy put her hands to her mouth in astonishment as her brain processes the information and went click like a computer mouse clicking on a desktop feature.

"Mildred?!" she gasped.

Brawn seemed to take offence at that name and he backhanded Mandy directly onto the floor in rage. Mandy was taken aback by how powerful his arm seemed to be. That backhand felt more like a punch it was that powerful. Mandy dreaded to think how powerful his punches must be if his backhands feel that strong. Mandy picked herself up and stood back against the wall like she had been doing before Brawn knocked her down on the floor. She rubbed the already apparent bruise her check had, a hideous splodge of purple that ruined her lovely face.

"You are not to refer to me by that scornful name anymore." said Brawn, his voice like impending danger "Mildred is dead, there is only Brawn now."

"Brawn? Puh, just when I thought Mildred was a silly name, you go and give yourself an even sillier name." scoffed Mandy "And to think I actually thought you were scary."

Brawn kept his cool surprisingly enough but his eyes were sill fixated on Mandy, the pupils shrunk back in fury as if Mandy was in for a grisly death any minute now.

"I'm saddened to see that your obstinate spunk has not been quelled Mandy." he said grimly as if he was disappointed at the fact Mandy was still tough enough to speak up to him "But we will see how a few days in this cell and gruelling hours of hard work will make you feel. You will brea k yet my dear."

"Yeah right, you'll not break this girl!" declared Mandy "So Mildred, why the hell are you here? Are you another member of this filthy organization of filthy rats that has a filthy motivation?"

"I am more than just "another member" you foolish girl." said Brawn coldly "I AM The Exterminators. I am their leader, and I am here to fulfil the rat's destiny!" he announced aloud as if he was making a grand speech to a nonexistent audience.

"What destiny?" Mandy spat venomously "Why the hell did you make this disgusting group and why the hell are you enslaving mice all over the world?!"

Brawn just grabbed Mandy by the neck and hoisted her up to his eye line, his hand like a pair of pliers around her neck. Mandy gagged and tried to break free from his grip.

"Let me…ack…go!" she croaked, her breath depleting as Brawn squeezed the air out of her windpipe.

"Allow me to start from the beginning." said Brawn smoothly, his voice booming down Mandy's ears "Remember back in High School when I was Benedict's loyal lapdog?"

"Of course…ack…I do!" choked Mandy "You…used Benedict as a shield! You were that cowardly that you…could never do the bullying…ack…yourself!"

Brawn promptly dropped Mandy onto the floor, the mouse coughing furiously and rubbing her neck better. The rat then continued as if Mandy had said nothing.

"Yes…I was a coward." Brawn continued "Cowardice plagued my life throughout my childhood. I was afraid of everything I came across. When I came to High School, my cowardice made life for me very difficult there. That was why I often clung to Benedict, he gave me something to tackle my fears for me. Then you came in and ruined all that by standing up to him."

"He was bullying Wilson and he kept hitting on me as if he has some sick, twisted idea I'll be his girlfriend!" shouted Mandy "I had every right to stand up to that sicko of a rat!"

"In my views, you had no right." retorted Brawn smoothly "Anyway, after you made Benedict a joke, I decided that if I couldn't rely on somebody to help me brave my fears…then I had to BECOME fear itself. So I began vigorously training and exercising myself until I became the rat I am now. My size is gargantuan as you can see, my very appearance strikes fear into the hearts of Mobians all over."

"Yeah right, you don't scare me!" scoffed Mandy "Dr. Eggman's scarier than you and he's nothing more than a nuisance nowadays!"

Brawn ignored Mandy, probably fortunate for her that he did since she might end up getting punched very hard if he didn't ignore her.

"As well as increasing my muscular structure, I even equipped myself with things that would make me come off as scary." Brawn continued "Hence why I now where this mask." he pointed to the mask that he wore over his muzzle "The mask makes my appearance infinitely more threatening, especially with how it amplifies my voice. Everybody fears me now, I have nothing to fear anymore since I AM fear incarnate."

"Whatever loser, now tell me what the fridge this stupid group's all about!" snapped Mandy "Why are you enslaving mice and holding onto the other option of killing them?"

Mandy should consider herself lucky that Brawn didn't take offence to being called "loser" otherwise she might have been spitting some teeth out right about now.

"To end the rodent rivalry my dear prisoner." said Brawn "Do you know how bad our petty rivalry has gotten?"

"I dread to think." said Mandy, shuddering over the very thought of what the answer could be.

"The rivalry has escalated…to the point where BOTH races are on the brink of extinction." explained Brawn.

"WHAT?!" shrieked Mandy, horrified to hear this revelation "The m-mice and r-r-rats are…on the brink of extinction?! My kind and your kind are an endangered species?!"

"Exactly." continued Brawn "Adabat boasts the only decent population of mice currently alive now. Everywhere else, mice numbers dwindle. Your city alone only has six mice, you included and some places are lucky to have over ten mice living in them whereas places like Spagonia or Empire City have NO mice left at all. As for the rats, there's only 1,000 of us left all over Mobius, the entire population residing here right now."

Mandy could only smirk over this.

"So there's more mice left than rats?" she sneered "Ha! I knew mice were better!"

Brawn finally lost his temper and he grabbed Mandy by the face. He slammed her against the wall as hard as he could and then threw her into the corner of the room. Mandy landed with a heavy crash against the walland she groaned in pain. She felt like she'd broken something and yet her bones were still intact, luckily for her. That blow could have been fatal if Brawn wanted it to be. Brawn stormed over to Mandy and bore over her, the mouse sandwiched between him and the corner. Mandy remained sat on the floor and pressed against the wall, fearing what Brawn might do next to her.

"True the mice have more numbers left." purred Brawn "But that might change thanks to us. A month ago, I riled together the entire rat population and formed The Exterminators, a group dedicated to subjugation of mice everywhere and to prove the rats the dominant species and fulfil our destiny to become the superior race of rodents. Some rats refused to join me so I enslaved any rat who refused to join us along with the captured mice. Our numbers dwindle thanks to the two teams being captured and Benedict having to be executed for his failure though, there's only 900 of us able to continue with our goals but of course, I'll just see to freeing the other two teams from captivity. So as you can see Mandy, my intentions are good. I intend to end the rivalry that drives us both to extinction. I'm helping the rats to survive and make a come back will putting the mice in their lowly place."

Mandy was disgusted to hear this. The only remotely pleasant thing Brawn had said was that Benedict was dead so she didn't have to worry about meeting him again while she was here.

"You…are…disgusting!" shouted Mandy "Your intentions are despicable! You're not trying to end the rivalry between mice and rats, you're just reinforcing it! If you TRULY wanted to end the stupid rivalry then you would make a speech that would open up their eyes and make them see the errors of their ways and have them form a truce! But no, that would be TOO logical and TOO nice for you disgusting rats to do! You rats are evil except for Kari and that's all you know how to do, be evil! And the fact you enslaved any rat that refused to join you makes you even worse! Any rat who refused to join you frankly had some sense and you go and enslave them too! It's no wonder you rats are on the brink of extinction, you're gonna end up contributing to it because that bit of idiocy!"

Brawn surprisingly kept his cool. Maybe he had had enough of punching Mandy and worried about accidentally killing her, which of course he doesn't want so he decided to just stop and keep his hands to himself.

"You are truly lost to me you insignificant little mouse." scoffed Brawn "I'm trying to end this forlorn rivalry and you dare to question my motives. I no longer wish to waste my time with you. You will remain here for an hour and then you shall be taken out for your first bit of work. Rest well since you will endure some very hard work indeed."

With that said, Brawn turned his back on Mandy and he left the cell, every step he took heavy and furious as if Mandy had just angered him greatly. He slammed the door behind him, making sure it didn't come off of its hinges as he slammed it. Mandy heard the horrible sound of a key turning in the lock as Brawn left. She was now trapped in the cell with no means of escape. Mandy was determined to escape though so she ran over to the door and tugged on it. Of course, it wouldn't open. Mandy then rammed her shoulder against the door and tried desperately to break it down. Sadly, Mandy wasn't strong enough to do that. In a battle with an enemy she was tough as nails. Against a cold steel cell door, she was as weak as wood. Mandy gave up her pitiful attempts to break the door down after a gruelling few minutes that just left her frustrated, angry and tired. Mandy stormed back over to the bench and sat on it, letting out a loud sigh of anger.

"That evil, disgusting, immoral, despicable rat!" she cursed to herself "How could he do this? How, HOW?! Well he'd better watch out! If I get my hands on Mildred I am SO gonna kill the asshole! Mark my words Mildred you are DEAD when I get outta here!"

She then proceeded to stand up and then punch the wall in fury.

Without her knuckle attachments to protect her fist, the punch ended up giving her a very sore fist. Mandy ignored the pain in her hand and she slumped back on the bench. Then suddenly, as if by magic, her tough demeanour vanished and she suddenly began to feel defeated and unhopeful. It was as if this cell had a curse on her and it began to take effect.

"Oh who am I kidding?" she sighed "I'm not getting out of here anytime soon. Nobody knows where I am, heck I don't even know where I am! I'm stuck here forever and there's nobody who can save me this time."

She then lay down on her belly and stared at the floor that stretched out underneath the bench she lay upon.

"I'm a prisoner of the rats and there's nothing I can do about it." she said grimly "I'm doomed to be a slave forever. And I'll never see my friends again. The blue dude himself won't be able to save me from this one. And most of all…I'll never see Wilson again."

She could feel the tears willing up inside her eyes as she began to think about her dear husband. How heartbroken he will be to find out she's gone, possibly forever, and he'll never see her again.

"Oh Wilson…what I wouldn't give to feel your strong arms around me again." said Mandy, snivelling a bit "I feel so vulnerable without you to make me feel safe. And now…sniff…I'm…I'm never gonna see you again!"

She couldn't hold them in anymore. Mandy burst into rainfalls of tears and she rested her head on her arms, crying into them and staining the fur on her arms with her tears. Never in her life had Mandy ever felt so defeated, so scared, so alone and so helpless. Brawn had truly broken her, Mandy had finally accepted defeat and she was wailing her heart out. Her sobs resonated around the room but there was nobody to hear them but herself. Crying never solved anybody's problems but of course, Mandy could hardly help it. The very thought of never seeing her husband again was just too much for her. What she wouldn't give for Wilson to show up and save her from this nightmare. But Mandy had to face it, she had no hope whatsoever. She was doomed to a life of slavery forever and Mandy would have to put up with it whether she liked it or not…

Back in New Mobotropolis, Sonic the Hedgehog, Queen Sally Acorn and Tails the Fox had returned from Nekronopolis and had returned home to New Mobotropolis. They had been investigating Kari's disappearance and had come to the conclusion she had been kidnapped by rats, presumably those working for The Exterminators. Unfortunately, news that Wilson and Mandy were coming home had forced them to leave Nekronopolis and come home so they could welcome the married couple home and try to comfort Mandy. Luckily, Team Chaotix were still available so they had stayed behind in Nekronopolis to help find Kari. It made Sonic feel good that he had so many friends he could depend on when there were problems galore and he couldn't be there for all of them. Team Chaotix were the best Mobians to be left to help find Kari while he was elsewhere. Sonic, Sally and Tails entered New Mobotropolis and headed for Wilson and Mandy's house, instantly recognizing the house when they saw it for its juxtaposition of orange and purple colours. It was pretty hard NOT to tell Wilson and Mandy lived there, the choice of colours pretty much said "Hey, Wilson and Mandy live here! Please notice!"

"While it's nice that Wilson and Mandy are home, it's a pity their honeymoon had to be cut short." said Sonic "They had to wait quite a while for it and they FINALLY got it this week only for some mice-napping rats to ruin that for them."

"I know, it's very sad that this happened." said Sally sadly, feeling for the couple "They deserved that honeymoon and because of The Exterminators, Mandy could hardly enjoy it and then they had to call it off. I hope Mandy's feeling better and she's OK with seeing us now."

"She'll be fine Miss Sally." said Tails "You know what Mandy's like, she's always ready to see her friends. She'll feel better instantly when she sees us."

"I sure hope so." said Sally "I don't like to think about my fellow Royal Fighters being upset and anxious."

"I bet once The Exterminators are no longer a thing, Mandy will be the happiest mouse in the world." said Sonic "I sure hope she and Wilson continue their honeymoon once she's better. They deserve to see it to the end."

"I'm sure they'll be very grateful to hear you say that." said Sally "I do have to wonder where your big heart came from Sonic, you really do have a big heart."

"Maybe it's something that runs in the family, I dunno." said Sonic "Mom and dad often think it's a trait of the family. Speaking of mom and dad, I'm hoping they can come over and see NewMobotropolis some day soon. If they can come over, I'd love for them to meet you and Tails."

"Aw that'll be splendid." said Sally "I'd like to meet them too."

"Same here." said Tails "Especially since technically, they're the ones we have to thank for your heroism and such."

"In a way…yes they are." said Sonic "If they didn't give birth to me and dad didn't save mom with a power ring, I wouldn't be here right now or at the very most, be the person I am now."

Sally and Tails both smiled at Sonic, sharing how grateful he was over his parents for bringing him into existence. It was scary to imagine what the world would have been like if Sonic had never been born. If he was never born than Eggman would have pretty much conquered the world already. True there had been times where the day had been saved without Sonic, mainly the Egg-Timer crisis and the Raiju Clan's take over but mostly it had been Sonic who had saved the day and allowed Mobius to carry on being happy and free. Tails and Sally brushed aside those thoughts as they reached the doorstep and Sonic knocked on the door.

"Oh Wilson and Mandy! It's the blue dude himself and he's got Tails and Sally with him! May we come in?" asked Sonic.

There was no answer. Silence was always ominous in a case like this, ominous in the sense if there's only silence then something can't be right. Sonic was puzzled. Maybe they had fallen asleep and hadn't woken up yet? Or had something happened and thus, they couldn't answer due to what had happened to them. He rapped on the door again.

"Wilson! Mandy! It's Sonic the Hedgehog, is anybody home?" called Sonic.

Still no answer. Sonic began to feel very nervous.

"Something's up." said Sonic "They're not answering."

"Maybe they haven't arrived back home yet?" suggested Sally.

"I'm afraid you're wrong your majesty." said Tails "Wilson's home but he's tied up and gagged on the sofa! I can't see Mandy anywhere though."

Tails had taken a moment to look through the window to see if they were in at all and all he could see was a bound and gagged Wilson on the sofa, now awake from being knocked out and struggling furiously in his binds while feebly crying for help behind his gag. Sonic and Sally were horrified. Had The Exterminators ambushed Wilson and Mandy and taken Mandy while leaving Wilson bound and gagged so he couldn't follow them? They knew Wilson would hopefully have the answers so they opened the door and let themselves in. Sonic whizzed over to the sofa and he quickly untied Wilson. After he was untied, Wilson quickly peeled the tape off of his mouth and gasped for breath.

"Oh god does that feel better!" he gasped "And thank goodness you three are here! I thought I was gonna be stuck like that for a long time!"

"What happened Wilson?" asked Tails "And where's Mandy?"

"Me and Mandy arrived home at approximately four o'clock this afternoon and we were just settling down until somebody knocked on the door." explained Wilson "I opened the door and then I was sprayed by knockout gas, the person spraying me being a very ugly looking rat in uniform that bore the logo of The Exterminators."

Sonic looked over at the clock that hung above the fireplace. It was now five past five. Tails decided to check all over the house to see if Mandy was in any of the rooms at all or if she was definitely gone so he left the living room and instantly began looking around any rooms on ground level and upstairs. As he left, Sonic turned back to Wilson.

"You've been out for quite a while." said Sonic "It's five past five now."

"It is?!" cried Wilson "Oh my gosh, I've been out for a whole freaking hour! That's a long time to be knocked out!"

"And a long time for the kidnappers to get away with Mandy." said Sally grimly "She doesn't seem to be anywhere around."

"She isn't." said Tails, coming back down the stairs that led to the bedrooms and running back into the living room "I've checked every room in the house while you were talking, she's definitely not here. The Exterminators…gulp…have got her!"

Wilson looked like he had a spear embedded into his chest. He felt like he wanted to pass out again only he couldn't because he was too shocked to even do that. Wilson was so shocked to hear that Mandy was gone that he didn't even feel the tears welling up in his eyes.

"No…oh no! They've got her! They've got my wife!" shrieked Wilson "Oh my god, they're gonna do terrible things to her! They'll enslave her or kill her, I just know it!"

Wilson could hardly keep himself from crying over the very thought of Mandy in the captivity of The Exterminators. And right about this moment, Mandy was also crying over the thought of never seeing Wilson again, almost like the two sensed each other's pain and both cried for each other. As Wilson cried into his hands, Sally gave him a comforting hug while Sonic sat beside him and patted him on the back.

"Don't cry Wilson, we'll get Mandy back." said Sonic "There's no way I'm letting THIS case go unanswered! Nobody kidnaps one of my friends and gets away with it, especially since she's married to another one of my friends!"

Wilson took his face out of his hands and looked at Sonic.

"But what can we do?" asked Wilson "We have no idea where Mandy is, she could be anywhere and I have no idea where to start!"

"We'll find her Wilson even if I have to do laps around the planet in order to do so." Sonic swore "I am not letting those rats take Mandy's freedom away. We're getting her back and I won't rest until she's back in your arms buddy! What do you say?"

Those words seemed to have given Wilson new hope for he instantly brightened up and seemed to share Sonic's determination to save Mandy.

"I say let's find my wife and rescue her!" declared Wilson "And while we're at it, we're gonna bring down The Exterminators for good! They have kidnapped their last mouse today!"

"That's the spirit Wilson!" said Sonic happily "So shall we get going?"

"Are you kidding, of course we shall!" said Wilson determinedly "This is my wife we're talking about! She's been captured and she needs rescuing pronto! Let's got for it!"

"As much as I'd like to come, I think it'll be wise for me to stay here and keep an eye on the city." said Sally "I'll keep an eye on things while you're gone Sonic. You know, in case Eggman or anyone tries to attack the city while you're away."

"Fair enough." said Sonic "Me and Wilson will just join up with Team Chaotix and Team Nekronopolis so we can save Mandy and Kari both at the same time."

"Kari's been kidnapped too?!" blurted Wilson.

"I'll explain later Wilson." said Sonic "So Sally, wish us luck out there."

"Good luck you two." said Sally "You'll both need it. Save Mandy, save Kari, bring them both home and stop The Exterminators for good."

"We will your queenly-ness." said Sonic, giving Sally a farewell embrace "Hope all goes well for you while I'm gone."

"Thank you." said Sally, returning the embrace and then giving Sonic a peck on the cheek for good luck.

Now the farewells were over, Sonic and Wilson instantly ran out of the door and Sonic carried Wilson in his arms as he sped off to Nekronopolis to let Team Chaotix and Team Nekronopolis know that Mandy had been kidnapped and they were going to save her and Kari at the same time. Sally and Tails watched as the two left, hoping they would return home with Mandy safe and sound and with good news to deliver. Little did Sally and Tails realize was that they were in for an adventure of their own for lurking in the shadows was a familiar white hedgehog in icy blue robes, its cold blue eyes fixed on Sally in particular…*

Back in the liar of The Exterminators, poor Mandy was still sobbing her eyes out to herself. She hadn't stopped crying for quite a while, she was that upset and scared right now and just thinking about Wilson made her cry even harder whenever she tried to stop herself. It would be a miracle if Mandy even had any tears left to cry if she carried on going. She had been so upset the past few minutes that she even forgot that it was cold in the cell. All Mandy was focused on now was herself, her thoughts and her tears. She soon had something else to focus on now though for a loud knock at the door snapped her out of her crying marathon and she lifted her head out of her arms. Sniffling loudly, she suddenly turned sour as if her crying never happened and she snapped.

"GO AWAY!" she screamed "I'm not in the mood for seeing you hideous rats right now!"

To Mandy's surprise, it was a familiar voice that replied to her instead of a voice she wasn't familiar with. To an even bigger surprise, it was a familiar voice that she knew from the Royal Fighters.

"Mandy, it's me, Kari." said the voice of Kari the Rat "You don't need to worry about any ugly rats at all."

"KARI?!" shrieked Mandy "Oh my gosh! They got YOU too?!"

"Yes, they got me too. Horrible isn't it?" Kari's voice replied back "I'm a slave just like you are now and I've been sent to give you some food to give you strength for your work, which will begin soon."

The mention of food suddenly made Mandy feel hungry. At this time, she would be having dinner at home with Wilson right about now and now Mandy wasn't crying anymore, she had time to realize what the rest of her body was feeling and her stomach was practically growling like a tiger now. Mandy rubbed her stomach and hoped she'd been given some decent tuck to gobble.

"Well in that case, you may come in." said Mandy "May as well have some pleasant company before I start slaving away for those rats."

The cell door opened and in walked Kari, carrying a silver plate with a domed lid over it, presumably to keep whatever was on the plate fresh and warm. Kari closed the door behind her and she walked over to Mandy, carrying the plate with both hands and looking sadly at her.

"I can't believe this has happened to you Mandy, you've been captured too." said Kari "You were the last mouse I would be expecting The Exterminators to kidnap."

"I bet I was." sighed Mandy "I took down one of their groups with Wilson and Team Adabat, who'd have thought I'd end up being slave of theirs anyway?"

"Who indeed?" sighed Kari "Although this does give me hope that Sonic and his team will come looking for me and you. Your disappearance will be more than enough to make Sonic and the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters come looking for us, you're quite a popular member of the team."

"Yeah, I'd say kidnapping me will be their downfall." said Mandy with a twinge of hope tingling in her starving gut "So what's for dinner then?"

Kari held out the plate and she took the lid off to present what was under it to Mandy. To Mandy's displeasure it was the one food she hated more than anything in the world…cheese. There was also a cup of water for her to drink too. It was a curious truth that mice actually do NOT like cheese, it was just something made up for cartoons and fiction. Mandy was not like the mice from the cartoons though, she outright HATED cheese. So much in fact that she wouldn't so much as taste a crumb if she was offered. Mandy's face contorted with disgust and she stuck her tongue out.

"UGH! Get that swill away from me!" she yelled furiously "I hate cheese!"

Kari looked stunned.

"You…hate…cheese?" she gulped.

"You bet I do!" snapped Mandy "Cheese is poison! Eww! It's the most disgusting thing I've ever eaten!"

"Well I'm very sorry Mandy but this is all you're getting." said Kari "Brawn doesn't let the slaves eat anything else. Either eat this or starve and if you want to escape from this place as much as I do, I don't think you want to starve."

"Fine, fine, just give it here!" snapped Mandy, snatching the cheese from the plate.

As much as she REALLY didn't want to do this, she had to. She couldn't escape if she starved to death so like it or not, Mandy had to eat the cheese. Not to mention she was starving anyway so Mandy would happily wolf down what she could anyway just to get the hunger out of her stomach. Mandy closed her eyes and she literally shoved the cheese into her mouth. She chewed it as fast as she could and quickly swallowed it, desperate not to let the taste linger in her mouth for it truly made her want to gag. The moment she swallowed she snatched up the water and slurped it down as if she was thirstier than a camel. Mandy finished the cup and put it back on the plate, relived to have gotten that over with.

"Gasp…I hope I never have to eat that swill again!" she gagged "What I wouldn't give to be wolfing down a gorgeous plate of waffles and banoffee ice cream now, THAT'S real food!"

"Well until we get out of here Mandy, that's all you'll be eating from now on." said Kari sadly "I'm very sorry."

"Don't be, it's that jerk Brawn who should be sorry." muttered Mandy "He's forcing me to live this life of slavery and bad food. When I get out of here though I'll make him choke on the next piece of cheese he tries to make me eat!"

"I highly doubt that Mandy." said Kari, sitting down on the bench beside the mouse "Brawn is very powerful, his punches feel formidable. I mean look at you!" she gasped, pointing to the bruise Mandy had on her cheek "He did that with just one punch didn't he?!"

Mandy felt the bruise, which was still hurting a little.

"He only backhanded me actually." said Mandy "I dread to think how bad his punches are."

"Believe me, it's very unpleasant." said Kari "He actually punched me for begging him not to send rats to New Mobotropolis."

"All the more reason for us to make him pay." growled Mandy "Why would anyone want to lay a finger on you? You're probably one of the last people who would got out of their way to hurt somebody so why would somebody want to hurt you?"

"Somebody like Brawn I guess." said Kari dully "After all, he wants the slaves to know their place around here."

"Well I know my place already and it's not around here." Mandy declared "Somehow, I'm gonna get outta here and when I do, I'm gonna find out where this place is, get back to NewMobotropolis and then report it to my team back home. Then they'll come here and exterminate The Exterminators once and for all!"

Even though Mandy knew the situation was hopeless she didn't want Kari to think she had given up and that the rats had gotten to her. Plus, she wanted Kari to have some hope as well so if she was determined and hopeful than Kari would be as well. Kari smiled at Mandy, pleased to see her tough demeanour hadn't lessened in the slightest here.

"I'm glad you've still got your optimism." said Kari "Makes me hopeful we'll get out of here and back home."

"Glad to hear that." said Mandy brightly "So Kari...how did you get caught?"

"Some rats were hiding in my tent and they got me the moment I walked in." said Kari, still unsure how they accomplished that "No idea how though, they can't possibly have known where I live and such. Brawn wanted me to join The Exterminators but I refused so he enslaved me and made me wear these disgusting rags." she spat, looking down at her rags "I feel so humiliated and vulnerable in these things. I can't wait to get back into my old clothes."

"Same here." said Mandy, scowling at her rags "As for me, I just got gassed by rats who somehow knew where to find me. They gassed Wilson too but they tied him up and left him on the sofa to stop him from coming after them I think. I hope somebody's freed him right now so he can try and find us. I bet right now, Sonic and the entire team's looking for us, your team included."

"I bet, Miranda's not going to let my kidnapping go unanswered." said Kari "She loves me quite a lot. Loves me…like a daughter even. Just as I love her like she's my mother. She's not gonna sit out of this one, she and the chipmunk brothers are gonna be looking for me now. And I bet your team will be looking for you as if it's the last thing they'll ever do."

"Yeah, a girl couldn't ask for a better team of friends." said Mandy happily "So just out of interest…how many mice have been enslaved and how many reluctant rats have been enslaved?"

"According to Brawn…there are 100 mice here and 50 rats, forty-nine plus me." explained Kari.

"And Brawn said there's 1,000 rats left on Mobius…" Mandy mused as she began to do the maths in her head "So…there's only 900 rats running free now. As for mice, there's 1,000 in Adabat, which we saved already, and there's 100 mice here…so there's 1,100 mice left on Mobius?"

"Afraid so." said Kari "Mice and rat numbers are dwindling now and I have a feeling Brawn will just make them dwindle even further."

"And all because of our stupid, stupid rivalry!" cursed Mandy "Oh how I wish mice and rats weren't enemies! Just how did this stupid "rodent rivalry" begin anyway?!"

"I wish I knew." said Kari "I'm not sure anybody knows anymore. I'm sure there's a way to put this rivalry to rest though."

"I'm already forming a speech in my head." said Mandy "I just hope it tempts the mice and rats to play nice and call off the rivalry much like how me and Wilson managed to stop racism at our school."

"I look forward to hearing it if you ever get the chance to say it." said Kari with a smile "I'm sure you'll get mice and rats to call off the rivalry once they see how bad it's gotten."

"Both races are endangered now, they're gonna have to wake up and realize their rivalry will be the end of them both soon." said Mandy "I don't want the mice to go extinct."

"Same with the rats, I don't want them to go extinct either." said Kari "They can't get a better reputation otherwise."

"As long as this heinous group still functions, the rats won't get a better reputation!" scoffed Mandy "It's guys like Brawn that made me hate rats in the first place but now…I kinda regret it." she said solemnly "Now I know both mice and rats are lingering on the brink now, I feel bad about ever being part of this rivalry. It's torn mice and rats everywhere apart and now both races are declining. I do hope that my speech will convince them to make peace with each other and allow our numbers to climb back up again."

"I hope so too." said Kari "It's not pleasing at all to think of your race being endangered."

Then suddenly, loud footsteps were heard outside the cell door and in stomped the formidable, gargantuan figure of Mace the Elephant, Brawn's right hand pachyderm. Mandy stared at the elephant in horror, completely taken aback by the huge, brutal appearance of Mace and wondering why an elephant was in rat territory. Did he work for them? Mace stood by the door, a pair of shackles clenched in his hand and the mace at the end of his trunk hanging there, waiting to be swung at somebody. His eyes fixed on the two girls sitting on the bench and staring at him in fear.

"Time's up Mandy, it's time for work." growled Mace, his voice like an earthquake.

"Who's that guy?" asked Mandy, too frightened by the appearance of Mace to so much as move.

"His name's Mace and he's Brawn's right hand man." explained Kari "He's the only thing that looks scarier than Brawn in this place!"

"I said it's time for work you purple-furred freak!" snarled Mace "On your feet now before I squash you!"

"Fat chance buster, I doubt Brawn will let you squish me and let me have the easy way outta this." sniffed Mandy, getting up to her feet and strolling over to Mace in an uppity manner as if she was no longer scared of him "He wants me to suffer so I doubt you have permission to kill me."

"Ooooh, a smart-arse eh?" growled Mace furiously, clamping the shackles on Mandy's wrists roughly just to make her wince in pain "We'll have to see how smart you are once you've done a gruelling seven hours of work in this place!"

"Whatever." scoffed Mandy "Let's just get on with it already."

It mystified Kari as to how Mandy could still remain tough and lippy even in a situation like this. Not even Mace seemed to make Mandy hesitate to talk back to him, she was still brave enough to smack-talk her captors. Kari had to admire that in Mandy and she began wishing she was as tough as she was. Mace glowered at Mandy, wondering how long she'd last in The Exterminators captivity before she broke like a twig, and then grabbed her by the ear. Holding her pain, Mandy was dragged out of the room by her ear and she tried her best not to let Mace know it hurt her. She was not going to show pain to this horrible elephant or anybody else for that matter. Kari toddled off after them, hoping that Mandy would be able to make it through the horrible, hard work she was in for as she was dragged down the corridors and to the work room. It was quite a long corridor but Mace, Mandy and Kari eventually arrived at the work room. Mace opened the door and shoved Mandy into it, the mouse tempted to punch him in the eye for that. Kari was shoved inside too.

"You're both on the crank." said Mace flatly "Now get on with it, we don't have all day."

He slammed the door behind them and locked it, trapping Mandy and Kari in the work room. Mandy and Kari both observed their surroundings and saw that this was called the work room for a reason. The room was enormous, spanning a great distance all around and there was a lot of machinery pumping, whirring, whizzing and functioning at high speeds. There were a lot of boxes containing coal too. For a modern facility, there seemed to be some old fashioned machinery in there. There was a boiler that ran on coal and fire and there was a crank that needed to be turned to get a machine operational. Mandy watched with dismay as mice, all dressed in rags and ranging in fur colours, size, gender and function skills began to do what looked like very hard work. Some mice were shovelling coal into a boiler to get it working, some mice were sweeping the monstrously long chimneys that belched out smoke into the atmosphere like giant cigarettes, some mice were forced to carry heavy logs tied to their shoulders all around the room a certain number of times (and given the weight of the logs and the size of the room, that could take a while to just do one lap), some mice were cleaning up mess that the rats would deliberately make just to give them something to do, some mice were turning a crank that needed to be turned to get a bizarre looking machine working and some mice were doing a gruelling exercise involving standing in a line and carrying a piece of coal from a large pile across the line to the other end to move the pile to the other end of the line and then back again when the pile was fully moved to the other end of the line. Many a human historian would recognize some of these as punishments from the era of Queen Victoria, long since forgotten and no longer used as humanity evolved and became more civilized in their lines of work, culture and life. Here on Mobius, these punishments were unfolding in front of Mandy and Kari's eyes and Mandy felt like she wanted to faint. This was a living nightmare and she was determined to save the mice from it.

"This…this is awful!" she cried "This is hell incarnate! And…I'm being subjugated to this! I wish this was a nightmare I could just wake up from already!"

She pinched herself on the arm feebly, hoping that would "wake her up" at last. But she was already awake and this was no nightmare, it was a terrifying reality and Mandy couldn't escape from it so easily.

"I wish that was the case too." said Kari gloomily "And we're unlucky Mandy, we have to turn the crank. That's one of the hardest bits of work."

"Why?" asked Mandy "Turning a crank's dead easy, we can do it."

"It's not like that." said Kari sadly "We have to turn it consistently until the masters say we can stop. And it's a lot harder to turn than it looks."

Mandy had nothing to say about that. Her dismayed face was all that she needed to express her disgust over this slave work.

"In that case I'll make Brawn's death even MORE painful than I already plan to." she said coldly, storming off towards the machine that had the crank.

Kari just followed, sharing Mandy's distaste for this horror she was forced to partake in. Their slave work had begun and it was going to continue for a very long time. Any normal person would be too happy to get out of this but getting out was not all that easy. Mandy took note of the hundreds of rat guards on duty, waiting to kill any mouse who so much as looked at them funny. No rat slaves were around though. They must still be in their cells or doing work in another room. Mandy already hated this place and she was more determined than ever to escape. Trouble was…would she be able to?

Over in Nekronopolis, Team Chaotix and Team Nekronopolis were rather startled at the sight of Sonic rushing towards them like a heat seeker missile aiming at its target and carrying Wilson in his arms. Not much had progressed since Sonic, Sally and Tails had left. No more clues had been found and there was no trial that led to where Kari had been taken. They were still at square one so far. The sight of Sonic coming towards them was surprising but it made them feel much happier now that he was back. They began to wonder why he was carrying Wilson with him, did Wilson want to join the case now? Sonic screeched to a halt and he put Wilson down before the two teams.

"He-hey Sonic! Wasn't expecting to see you again so soon!" chuckled Vector the Crocodile "Is Mandy better already?"

"Nope, she's worse off than we thought." said Sonic grimly, his face already telling Vector he wasn't in for good news.

"She's been kidnapped!" cried Wilson "The Exterminators ambushed me and her in our home and they got her!"

A chorus of gasps rung around the campsite, the loudest ones coming from Team Chaotix for they knew Mandy quite well. They had once joined her and Wilson for a mission in Robotropolis that saw Eggman's communications tower destroyed, long before the city itself was destroyed for good by Shadow the Hedgehog. To hear Mandy had been kidnapped much like Kari had was just horrifying for them.

"No! They got Miss Mandy too?!" cried Vector.

"That does it, we NEED to find those rats and pound them into the dirt!" growled Espio the Chameleon "They're going too far now!"

"I'm gonna sting every last one of them for that!" declared Charmy

Bee "Nobody kidnaps a good friend of Sonic's! Or indeed a good friend of ours too!"

"Especially since she and Wilson are married." said Espio, taking note of the fact out of respect for Wilson "No husband should be separated from their wife, they should be united forever."

"I agree." said Miranda Mongoose "Sonic, Wilson, we will help find Mandy. And maybe we will find Kari too."

"That's the idea." said Sonic "This is a double search party, we're gonna find Mandy AND Kari and we will save them both! After that, it's bye-bye for The Exterminators! They will never kidnap another mouse or rat ever again!"

Everybody agreed with Sonic, this was the last time The Exterminators were ever going to kidnap anybody. They were going to save Mandy and Kari and put an end to this terror the rats had inflicted on the world. Unfortunately, they had the obstacle of finding out where the rats were in the first place and they also had something else to deal with. Unknown to them, a little camera that had been hidden in Kari's tent as a way of keeping an eye on the Royal Fighter team she belonged to was watching them. Brawn had sent one out to keep an eye on the Royal Fighters since he worried they would come looking for him and ruin everything. The camera had flown all the way to Nekronopolis and hidden in Kari's tent. It was a small disc with a lens and it could attach to anything. As it spied on the Royal Fighters, Brawn heard and saw everything the camera picked up. He was watching from the comfort of his own room and he was not pleased to see that the Royal Fighters were indeed planning to rescue Mandy and Kari. His fists clenched in fury, he switched off the screen and muttered to himself.

"So the team that Kari belonged to is planning on tracking her and Mandy down?" he mused to himself "Well then, I shall put a stop to that. I'll send Mace out to arrange…a funeral for them. I'll make sure that orange dog " Wilson " gets it the worst since he is Mandy's husband now. A dead husband will make Mandy succumb to me for definite. And the blue hedgehog…I'll make his demise painful too."

Brawn cackled to himself as he pictured Mace going out into Nekronopolis to kill the Royal Fighters and prevent them from ever finding Mandy and Kari. Their demise would be enough to break their hearts and make them give up hope altogether.

Footnotes:

That's a story for another time…join Tales from Mobius for Arc 21: A Bitter Snowstorm where we see an old enemy return and secrets about the Acorn family revealed!

This can't be good...Mandy Mouse, a rat prisoner! Wilson the Dog, a heartbroken husband! Brawn the Rat, a rat with a goal! What will happen next? Join in next time as "Endangered Species" continues and the secret behind the rodent rivalry is finally revealed!

Also be sure to tune into* Tales from Mobius *for a brand new arc which sees Sally Acorn up against a certain ice witch that Amy knows and loathes...

Endangered Species Part 2

Story 162: Endangered Species Part 2: Mice In Slavery

Countdown to Crisis: 3

Slavery is often a subject that no living being ever wants to even so much as think about being subjected to. The very thought of being forced to work against your will while wearing horrible ragged clothing that barely compliment your appearance and working for no pay and possibly little or bad food.

And yet right of this moment, the feisty, rough and tough tomboy of the Royal Fighters Service Mandy Mouse was being subjected to the horrors of slavery. She had been kidnapped by the insidious group known only as The Exterminators, a group of rats who's primary purpose is to enslave mice and, if they have to, kill them as well. Mandy had already run into a group that worked for The Exterminators during her honeymoon with her husband Wilson the Dog in Adabat* and now, as if a personal insult against all her efforts in Adabat, she ended up getting kidnapped by the third and final group in the organization anyway, and this group being led by their leader Brawn the Rat no less! Mandy was familiar with Brawn much like how she had been familiar with Benedict from the Adabat team. Both Brawn and Benedict were rats she knew from high school, one a whimpering coward now turned muscular powerhouse who's very appearance reeked of fear and one a creepy rat who had an unhealthy lust for her that just made Mandy sick. To her delight, she wouldn't see Benedict here for Brawn had mentioned executing him for failing to her earlier. Two familiar rats in The Exterminators made Mandy feel like her high school years were coming back to get her for some sick, twisted, cruel reason other than to just mock her very existence perhaps. And right now, she was doing hard work for the very rat who used to be a coward and rely on Benedict all the time for protection. Said work being a gruelling seven hours on the crank. Kari the Rat was sharing this work with her, turning her own crank on another section of the machine they were working on just ahead of her. The crank was an old punishment that many a historian would instantly label as originating from the Victorian period of mankind's history. It merely involved turning a crank on a machine for a length of time. Easy at first but back-breaking as you carried on turning the same crank over and over and all in the same direction no less. What made this pure torture for Mandy is that the crank was set it a certain pressure and unluckily for her, it was a high pressure meaning that the crank was pretty hard to turn right now. Mandy was strong but not THAT strong. She had only been turning the crank for five minutes and already her arms felt like they were going to just break without warning. She had to do this for seven hours and the worst part was she wasn't allowed to stop. It sickened Mandy to think how anybody could be so heartless and make any Mobian of any kind do this kind of work. Mandy liked to imagine Dr. Eggman doing this instead of her, he at the very least deserved this. But given he was now encased in the armour of E-123 Omega, chances are it wouldn't be such a gruelling experience for him. Eggman would probably do it all in a jiffy with Omega's huge robotic arms so sadly, even imagining Eggman doing this didn't make Mandy feel any better. Instead, she imagined Benedict doing this. If he was still alive, she would've forced him to do this instead of her. Knowing how puny and weak Benedict is, he wouldn't last a minute on this torture, let alone five. The image alone made Mandy crack a smile to herself but it only ended up reminding her it was her doing this and not Benedict so Mandy decided to just focus on the work and be done with it. Mandy wiped sweat off her head as she gave the crank another hard turn. Every turn felt heavier and heavier to her. It was as if the crank didn't like being turned and was just trying harder and harder to make sure Mandy couldn't turn it. Kari seemed to be faring much worse then Mandy though, she had only been doing this for five minutes and already looked like she was going to collapse from exhaustion. She was much weaker than Mandy. Kari couldn't even throw a good punch so what good was she on an exercise as torturous is this? Mandy and Kari both turned the crank again, already losing count of how many times they'd turned it already and Mandy panted.

"This…puff…is inhumane!" she gasped "No…Urrrggghhh…" she paused as she turned the crank again, this turn feeling the hardest so far "…no Mobian alive should…pant…ever have to do this torture!"

"Just…you wait…nnnnugh!" grunted Kari as her aching arms strained to push the crank around again "They'll…make us do worse tomorrow! This is just…a warm up!"

"A warm up?!" shrieked Mandy as if she'd just heard the silliest thing in the world "You call THIS a warm up?! Turning this bloody thing for seven freaking hours?! THIS IS A WARM UP?!"

"Oy! Shut up!" snarled one of the hideous guards that was on duty. He was keeping an eye on Mandy and Kari and was told to give them a beating if they so much as raised a finger at him.

"You keep out of this buster!" snapped Mandy "Slaves still have a freedom of speech regardless of their "lowly" position here!"

"Mandy just shut up and do the work!" hissed Kari "Do you want to get into trouble?!"

"Don't care what those stupid rats do to me." scoffed Mandy "It'll just give me more excuses to beat the crap outta them."

"Well incase you haven't noticed, you're very vulnerable here and with nobody to save us and nobody knowing where we are, it'll be very unwise to provoke the guards since they might possibly kill you just for talking back to them! If you want to get out alive as much as I do then don't tempt the guards to put you down!" snapped Kari, clearly losing her patience with Mandy.

"Wow, you really can snap at someone after all." said Mandy, taken aback at the fact Kari, one of the most mild-mannered and polite people in the R.F.S. actually snapped at her "I'm impressed. Maybe you're tougher than you let on."

"Eh, I wish I was." said Kari miserably "I wouldn't be in this godforsaken hellhole if I was…"

She forced her exhausted arms to turn the crank once again, ever strain in her muscles feeling like a cry of pain, begging her to stop and give them a rest. Regardless of what her muscles felt, Kari forced them to continue. She felt so tired that she began to wonder if her heart would get tired of beating and just stop abruptly. Mandy wasn't as tied as Kari but she was getting there. Her arms were killing her and she just wanted to lie down and catch her breath for a minute. If she did then the guards might have an excuse to use her as a punching bag. Mandy just forced herself to continue.

Oh Wilson , I wish you'd just run in here and whisk me away like a knight in shining armour! her thoughts moaned in her brain You'd sort those rats out in an instant!

As Mandy and Kari continued to work, another rat guard who carried a long whip with him strode by the two hard-working women and decided to see how their progress was going. He watched them, satisfied to see they were working hard and yet he decided to have a bit of fun with them just as he had many other slaves that worked all over the room doing their slave labour for The Exterminators. The guard stretched out his whip and he eyed Mandy's bum as she worked away on the crank. A tempting target, too tempting to resist for a guard with a whip. The guard drew the whip back and lashed it across Mandy's bum, a horrible cracking sound following the smack on Mandy's bum the whip made. Mandy instantly reared up and clutched her now very sore buttocks.

"OUCH!" she screamed.

Kari stopped what she was doing and turned around, wondering what was wrong. What she saw was Mandy wincing in pain and rubbing her bum better. She looked like it seriously hurt. Whips are very painful after all. The guard just sniggered at her, clearly enjoying himself here. Sadism was a common trait amongst members of The Exterminators. The Martians would have been proud to see this.

"Work harder you freak and I won't have to whip ya!" he snickered mockingly.

"Maybe if you didn't decide to slap my butt for no reason I'd still be working now!" snapped Mandy "How am I supposed to work if you morons are whipping me?!"

"Don't talk to us like that!" snapped the guard "Now get on with your work or I'll whip yer butt again your purple-furred cretin!"

The guard had made a terrible mistake by calling Mandy a purple-furred cretin. As we all know, Mandy had been a victim of racist bullying because of her fur colour back when she was a child. She and Wilson put a stop to it at last and Mandy hadn't had one single negative comment on her fur colour since. To hear her fur-colour being insulted again felt like a stab to her, a knife thrown into her heart by her childhood bullies. Mandy turned around, her fists clenched and her face contorting with rage. She almost looked rabid, the crazed look in her eyes and her clenched teeth being the things that helped to sell the rabid look.

"What…did…you…just…call…me?!" snarled Mandy, her voice a whisper of danger mixed with a hint of threat.

"I said get back to work you purple-furred cretin!" repeated the guard "Don't make me have to whip you again!"

"Don't you DARE insult my fur colour you ugly little rat!" growled Mandy, her fur standing up on end like an angry cat "If you do, you'll live to regret it!"

"Mandy please calm down!" whispered Kari pathetically "Don't give them the satisfaction of seeing you cross!"

Mandy ignored Kari and continued staring at the guard. The guard seemed like he hadn't had enough of bullying Mandy yet so he carried on.

"What are you gonna do toots, bitch-slap me?" sniffed the guard "Please, you women don't threaten me. Women are weak, I thought you were supposed to know that already!" he sneered as if wanting to push more buttons on Mandy for no reason other then just to annoy her.

That did it, Mandy snapped and pounced on the guard like a wild bull. If there's one thing that flips Mandy's lid more than anything else it was expecting her to be weak because she's a girl. That and sexism in general just doesn't fly over her head that easily.

"I'LL SHOW YOU JUST HOW "WEAK" I AM!" she thundered in a voice that was so furious it was amazing she didn't end up losing it after that.

The guard screamed a shrilling, girly scream as Mandy tackled him to the floor and started to punch him as furiously as she could. Despite the fact her hands were shackled, it didn't stop her throwing a good punch on the guard. Mandy began to beat his face into mush, each punch she threw feeling like being hammered and the punches doing significant damaged to his face. Mandy punched him at least ten times and already his cheeks were swollen up as if somebody puffed up a balloon in his mouth, his nose rained with blood and some of his teeth and come out. Mandy even punched him in the eye, turning his eye into a hideous, swollen purple bulb that stuck out on one side of his nose. Mandy then yanked the guard up onto his feet and slammed him as hard as she could against the machine, making sure that it really hurt. The guard feebly tried to fight back but he had no chance against Mandy's rage. When he threw a punch, Mandy just grabbed his fist, forced it open and sank her teeth into his hand as if hoping to bite it off. The guard wailed in pain as Mandy bit his hand, her teeth sinking so far in that she felt the bone that lay under the flesh. To add insult to injury, Mandy grabbed the guard by his head and slammed it repeatedly against the machine as if trying to break his skull open like a coconut on the beach. Kari just watched, frozen in horror at what she was witnessing. Mandy was bad-tempered and rowdy but never in her life did she think she could go berserk like this. No wonder she was a Royal Fighter! She could even send Eggman to the hospital if she wanted to! Mandy stopped slamming the guard against the machine, his head now a bruised, bleeding, swollen mess that barely resembled a head and she growled at him.

"Take. It. Back!" she spat the words out venomously at the guard.

"Pppp…no." the guard blubbered, his lips barely able to move properly given how badly damaged his face was.

Mandy slammed him against the machine again.

"I SAID TAKE IT BACK!" she roared, practically losing her sanity at the guard now.

"Mandy please, that's enough!" screamed Kari "You're gonna kill him if you keep doing that! If you kill that guy, they'll kill you in revenge!"

Mandy did not seem to have heard. She slammed the guard against the machine again, the guard just blubbering feebly as if he couldn't speak properly anymore. It was a miracle he wasn't dead yet and yet Mandy seemed awfully keen to go in for the kill. She wrapped the chain of her shackles around the guard's throat and began throttling him with them as if trying to squeeze his head off. Fortunately for the guard, the other guard who had told her to shut up earlier had seen the carnage and he rocketed down the walkway he had been standing upon to try and get Mandy to stop, yelling into a communicator for Mace the Elephant to come and stop the madness before it went out of hand. It was like walking into a cage with a lion and trying feebly to tame the beast despite how wild it was. Mandy was so focused on that guard that she didn't see the other guard coming. If she did, she might have been able to dodge the electric prod that was thrust into her back by the guard. The prod stabbed into Mandy's back and gave her a horrific electrical shock that made her scream in pain and let go of the barely-alive guard she'd just beaten the stuffing out of. The other guard kept it up for a minute and then finally stopped, Mandy collapsing onto the floor in defeat, gasping for breath and fighting to stay awake. Kari just looked at Mandy, shaking her head sadly over Mandy's rage. She wanted to get back up but her limbs refused to move. Deep in her heart, Mandy knew that it would be best to just admit defeat already. Still, it was totally worthy losing the battle if it meant she'd beaten the guard half to death. The other guard helped the beaten guard up, the beaten guard struggling to speak properly and spitting out blood with ever blubber he had. The other guard patted him softly on the back, feeling very sorry for him.

"Just look what you've done you wild, savage monster!" snarled the other guard "You should be ashamed of yourself, beating this poor guard like that! Look at his face! I bet he'll be permanently damaged for life now! What do you have to say for yourself you beast of a mouse?!"

Mandy ignored him. It wasn't worth talking back to somebody with an electro prod. She didn't want another electrical shock. Then suddenly, the door opened and in thundered Mace, looking quite furious indeed at what he had just heard over the communicator the other guard had spoken into. Mace stomped up to Mandy and glowered down at her, Mandy refusing to look at him as she lay there.

"What is going on in here then?!" boomed Mace, his voice like an earthquake "Something about a mad mouse attack?"

"Sir, this guard was just doing his duty and that wild animal attacked him!" shrieked the guard "Just look what she's done!"

Mace could barely keep his eyes off of the beaten guard. His eyes had swollen up, his cheeks had swollen up, his nose was fractured and dislocated, he had barely any teeth left in his jaws, his face was a little misshapen and his right hand had an ugly bite wound in it that just wouldn't stop bleeding. Mace had seen many horrible things in his life but this took the biscuit. He stared down at Mandy and glared at him, the mouse refusing to look up at him.

"Mandy Mouse, how dare you attack one of our guards like this!" he boomed furiously "What do you have to say for this scornful behaviour!"

"That rat of a guard insulted me!" retorted Mandy "And he whipped me for no reason! I had every right to stand up to him!"

"You're a slave for The Exterminators now you heathen and if you want to survive here, I suggest you know your place and keep your filthy hands to your self!" snapped Mace "For that behaviour, you can go back to your cell and stay there until tomorrow! You also will not be getting any dinner too!"

"Don't care, I hate cheese anyway." snapped Mandy, still keeping her eyes fixed on the floor she was lying on "And my cell's gonna be better then this stupid work anyway."

Mace just grabbed Mandy by the scruff of her neck and hoisted her up off the floor. Mandy ignored the pain and allowed herself to be carried away by the gargantuan-sized elephant with the club at the end of his trunk. Mandy was in big trouble now but it was worth it for her, worth teaching the guard a lesson for daring to be racist and sexist to her both at once. That and it was a rat working for The Exterminators so that made it even better for her. A bittersweet triumph but a triumph nonetheless. As Mandy was taken away, Kari just watched her be taken away and she just sighed sadly for her friend.

"Oh Mandy…why couldn't you just stop?" she murmured, feeling afraid for her now.

It was obvious what was going to happen next. Mace was going to report everything that had happened and Brawn would likely order Mandy to be executed. Mandy would be…exterminated. The Exterminators had yet to kill any mice yet so Mandy would be the first they killed if they executed her. Kari could only worry for Mandy now and hope Brawn would be lenient. But it seemed fortune would favour the brave mouse for as the guard helped the beaten guard away to a medical room, Kari noticed something lying on the floor. It was a bunch of keys. The guard must have dropped them when Mandy started beating him up. Kari picked up the keys and looked at them. She had seen some guards unlocking the cells with those kind of keys. She had in her hands the keys to the cell doors! Kari would be able to free Mandy from her cell and help her escape! Kari looked around to make sure nobody was watching and she stuffed the keys down her ragged old makeshift bra. With that done, she sneaked out of the work room as quiet as…well, a mouse, before somebody could lock it and trap her inside.

"If me and Mandy are going to escape, it has to be now." Kari deduced to herself "Mandy won't last a minute longer here, they'll kill her for nearly killing that guard. We have to act now or Mandy won't get a chance."

With that said, Kari ran for it down the corridors, hoping to find the cells and get Mandy out before anything could happen to her. She was Mandy's only chance of escape now, especially since she had gotten to know the place already and knew the escape routes. Trouble was…would they succeed?

Meanwhile up in Brawn's quarters, he was still watching his spy camera spying on the Royal Fighters. He had sent it there to see if anybody was going to start looking for Kari and to his displeasure Sonic the Hedgehog, Wilson the Dog and Teams Chaotix and Nekronopolis were planning to search for Kari and Mandy and rescue them from his clutches. This is why he had been hesitant to get involved with the Royal Fighters Service, he know what they were and what they did and he could hardly afford to have them sticking their noses into his business and ruining his beautiful plans. Brawn had called for Mace to come and meet him but he had been forced to wait for Mace had to be called over to stop Mandy from beating the guard to death so Brawn waited for Mace to deal with that task first. He was quite good at being patient though so he could wait for as long as he needed. After a good few peaceful minutes of watching camera footage, Brawn heard the doors open in the far side of the room and in walked Mace the Elephant, his right hand man and heavy bruiser, perhaps heavier than Brawn himself given he had a mace at the end of his trunk. Mace strode up to Brawn like a tank returning to base from a long hard day of blasting the enemy and he knelt down on one knee. Brawn kept his back turned as if he didn't need to turn around and see Mace for whatever reason.

"Master, I regret to inform you that a terrible occurrence has happened." explained Mace.

"Speak." the single word boomed out of Brawn's masked muzzle as if he'd just talked through a megaphone.

"Mandy Mouse attacked one of your guards my liege." explained Mace "She…beat him half to death. His face is disfigured, bruised and bloody and he has a horrible bite wound in his right hand. The girl's a monster sir, what should we do with her?"

Brawn didn't seem surprised to hear this.

"I expected Mandy to do something like this." he said in a tone that suggested this news barely surprised him "The girl has been known to be provoked easily and has severe tempe r problems. I should know since she punched the late Benedict the Rat in the face over a very slight provocation."

"We must do something about her!" cried Mace "I mean what if she kills a guard next time? And what if the other mice start copying her? They'll start looking up to Mandy and then they'll destroy you and your group for good! Mandy must be dealt with!"

"She will be, do not worry." assured Brawn "I nev er let incidents like that go unnoticed, I deal with them when they happen."

"So what do you recommend sir?" asked Mace.

Brawn turned his head and looked over his left shoulder, his piercing red eye glowering at his pachyderm henchman.

"Execution." purred Brawn "Tell the guards to take Mandy to the execution room. She is to be chained up and placed in a water vat. Then the electric cables will be placed in the water and… you know what happens next."

"Understood sir, let me just say you made the right decision." said Mace, his face curling into a smile that should be the smile of a satisfied customer but instead, looked strangely forced.

"I am a rat of good mind, I always make the right decision." boomed Brawn "And because of this, I am recruiting you for a very important job."

"What's that then sir?" asked Mace.

Brawn stepped to the side and showed Mace the screen that had the Royal Fighters the spy camera was watching from within Kari's tent in the Nekronopolis camp. Mace stared in surprise. He knew too well who Sonic was. After all, was there anyone on Mobius who DIDN'T recognize Sonic?

"Sonic the Hedgehog?!" he gasped "Th-the hero of Mobius h-himself?!"

"Yes, he and some Royal Fighters are planning to rescue Mandy and Kari." explained Brawn "So to prevent that from happening, I want you to go out and kill them."

"I shall do that immediately sir." said Mace with a bow.

"And to make sure you succeed, I will be using the camera that I have placed in this very camp to monitor your progress and make sure you do kill them." said Brawn "The place is Nekronopolis, you cannot miss it."

"I know how to get to Nekronopolis." said Mace brightly "I'll be over there as quick as I can."

"Excellent. Do not fail me Mace." said Brawn coldly.

"Yes sir." said Mace loyally.

With that said, Mace got up to his feet and he began to leave the room. Brawn kept his attention focused on the screen as he watched the Royal Fighters some more. Mace left the room and once he closed the door behind him, his attitude seemed to change.

"I won't be ordering Mandy's execution." he said grimly "The girl was quite right to beat up one of your filthy henchmen. And as for Sonic, I think I'll deliver him straight to your door…once I can figure out how to get rid of your camera."

Mace put his thick skinned but quite brainy head to work. He wanted to bring Sonic and friends to Brawn personally but with Brawn watching him, he knew he couldn't. He'd have to find the camera and then destroy it so that he could do what he liked without Brawn spying on him. Maybe once he found it, he could arrange an "accident" involving him stepping on it or destroying it accidentally. Maybe even more convincingly enough, he could get one of the Royal Fighters to do it for him. Either way, he had a plan and once the camera was destroyed, he'd drop the act and bring Sonic straight to Brawn and Brawn's evil could be put to rest at last. He had enslaved his last mouse today and would never get the chance to kill any. It seemed that Mandy had more hope than just Kari after all…

Over to poor old Mandy Mouse, she had been thrown back into her cell and locked up in it before Mace left to see Brawn. Mandy had said nothing at all to Brawn and right about now, she was just sitting hunched up against the wall and crying into her hands. She was feeling a wide variety of emotions right now. Sadness: sad over the fact she was going to put up with this for the rest of her life. Regret: regret over caving into the guard and beating him up so badly since it would give the rats an excuse to kill her. Worry: worry over the fact the rats might take offence to this and have her blatantly executed just for beating up the guard. Mandy was very scared, very upset and very alone right now, it was enough to make anybody breakdown and sob their heart out. As Mandy cried, she began reprimanding herself between snivels.

"Mandy you big, big, big, BIG idiot!" she wailed "Look what you've done now! You lost your temper and beat up a guard, quite brutally in fact! When Brawn hears about this he's gonna…gonna…have me exterminated!"

She began to sob some more, the tears flowing non-stop down her face. She knew she was dead and she knew that she had no hope. Once Mace or even Brawn strode into the cell, she was dead. She'd likely have her neck broken or her head crushed by either one of them. Brawn might even arrange a slow but grisly death for Mandy just to make her suffer more. Mandy was finished and she knew it. The rats would execute her and she'd never be able to reunite with Wilson ever again. It made Mandy sob even louder as she pictured Wilson finding out she was dead and howling like a wolf over her. Wilson would die of a broken heart if he ever found out she was dead. What was worse is this is how Mandy would go. Spending her last precious moments locked in a cell with nothing to do but feel sorry for herself until somebody came into kill her.

"Oh why did I do something so stupid?!" wailed Mandy "Before I had a chance of getting out of here, now I may as well carve my own gravestone! If only I could control this stupid temper of mine! Now… I'm gonna die and it's all my own stupid fault!"

She rested her head back into her hands and cried some more. Her hands were so wet from the crying one would think that she'd been dipping them into a swimming pool for no reason. It was astounding how Mandy had been a wild beast one minute and the next minute she was a crying shame of a mouse. Emotions were a tricky thing to understand but Mandy wasn't really bothered about working out what emotions meant right now. She was bothered about how she was going to die since the situation was so grim for her right now she pretty much gave up hope of ever making it out alive. She would forever regret it though. Mandy's sobs were silenced by the horrible sound of a key turning in a lock. Mandy instantly grew frightened.

"This is it! My death is coming!" she whimpered.

Mandy swallowed nervously and awaited her doom. It never came for the one who had unlocked the door and opened it was the one person she was hoping to see, Kari the Rat! Kari had found her cell and using the keys she'd picked up earlier, had found the one for Mandy's cell and unlocked it. Mandy's tears evaporated like a puddle being soaked up by the sun and she was on her feet in a millisecond.

"Kari?!" she cried happily "H-how did…?"

"Your beating of the guard did something good Mandy." said Kari "He dropped his keys to the cells and I swiped them while no one was looking." she said with a smug face on, proudly showing the keys to Mandy as if she'd accomplished the mission impossible.

"Oh Kari, how lucky are we?" cried Mandy, hugging the rat gratefully for getting her out of the cell "Now you've freed me, we can get outta here before I get executed!"

"Wait, how do you know you're gonna get executed?" asked Kari "Have you been told that?"

"No, but it's obvious that's what will happen isn't it?" said Mandy "I broke a guard's face, I think it's obvious Brawn's gonna have me executed. We can't wait for blue dude or any of the Royal Fighters to pull a miracle and save us, we have to escape now!"

"I know, that's what I was planning too!" cried Kari "And thankfully, we have a lucky chance at this. The guards are all on duty, watching over the slaves in the work room so we might be able to escape scot-free. We should still remain vigilant though."

"I know, there's always a chance things can go wrong." said Mandy

"Oh and Kari…I just wanna say that…I'm sorry I didn't listen to you." she said gloomily "If I listened to you, we wouldn't be in this mess."

"Oh Mandy, it's quite alright." said Kari, hugging Mandy "I understand uncontrollable tempers, I understand how easily annoyed people can get. And I understand your attitude against insulting of fur colours and genders too, I hate those myself too. It's just wrong."

"Aww…thanks Kari." said Mandy, appreciating her friend's understanding nature "Now then…do those keys open my shackles? I can do without them too."

Kari looked at Mandy's shackles and then looked at the keys she had. She saw a key that looked like it might fit into the lock on Mandy's shackles. She inserted the key into the lock, the key neatly fitting into it and turning just nicely. The shackles opened and Mandy rubbed her wrists better. They had been quite tight on her wrists and they hurt a little bit.

"Thanks." said Mandy "Now then, which way out?"

"I think, that way." said Kari, pointing to her left "Come on, we haven't a moment to lose."

"Wait a minute…" said Mandy quickly "What if there's security cameras around? We might get spotted. I doubt that Brawn would make a place with no security cameras around."

"It doesn't really matter at this point." said Kari with a shrug "You're not gonna last a minute longer so we have to get out now. We won't get another chance. If we get spotted then we'll just have another excuse to escape. The keener we are to escape, the more chance we'll have of succeeding."

Mandy wasn't sure she agreed with Kari but she knew that the rat was right, she had to get out and she had to get out now. If she stayed a minute longer then she might get executed and Mandy could think of a million places she'd rather breathe her last breath in then the headquarters of The Exterminators. Mandy nodded gravely and she urged Kari to lead the way. Kari instantly took off, running as quick as she could down the corridor. Mandy followed Kari, relying on the young rat to find the way out since Kari knew the place better than Mandy. After all, Kari had been there longer than Mandy and she had had a tour of the place. Kari wasn't entirely sure on the way out mostly but she had a rough guess based on the tour she'd had so Kari would likelier find the way out than Mandy ever could, even if Mandy searched every corridor. Unfortunately, Mandy and Kari only ran down the corridor for a few meters and then suddenly they ended up hearing the sound of footsteps coming from further up the corridor.

"Eek! Guards! Hide!" cried Kari.

In any normal case, Mandy was all too happy to beat up the guards but now they had to get away and stirring up trouble was the last thing they needed to be doing. Not to mention Mandy and Kari would have no chance against armed guards. Kari had seen many of the guards armed with guns and other weapons and Mandy didn't forget the guard who electrocuted her in the back, a repeat of that was not an option. Kari dived to the nearest door to them and she tried to open it. To her dismay it was locked. Not a problem considering she had the keys to all the cells in the corridor. Kari didn't care if this cell was occupied, they needed to hide and fast. Kari quickly unlocked the door and she opened it, allowing herself and Mandy to enter the cell and hide from the guards. The slipped through the door and closed it, keeping down so the guards wouldn't see them through the window. Mandy peeked up and watched as two ugly rats with brown fur and the usual guard uniforms strode past the cell, their senses not picking up a thing wrong as they walked past. They both had machine guns on them. Mandy sighed with relief. She and Kari would have had no chance against the guns. Mandy watched the guards walk away.

"Whew, we evaded them. Let's go Kari." said Mandy.

But to her confusion, Kari was staring ahead of herself in horror, her back pressed firmly against the wall and her eyes full of fright. It was as if she was staring at a phantom that had just come out of the floor and started wailing at her. Mandy looked in Kari's direction and she gasped in surprise herself. The cell they were in was a massive cell, much bigger than her own and in it was a bunch of grubby, dirty, hideous, snarling, drooling rats! One-hundred of them too! These were the rats that had been forced to work for The Exterminators because they dared to say no to them and they looked starving and wild, all of them. Mandy and Kari had just walked into a death trap pretty much and the two girls could only stare, petrified with fear at what they had stumbled into…

Meanwhile in Nekronopolis, Sonic, Wilson, Team Chaotix and Team Nekronopolis had set off to find Mandy and Kari. Vector had the magnifying glass instead of Charmy this time and he was looking at the ground constantly if they could find some kind of trial that the rats unknowingly left behind that would help them find the kidnapped rodents. Unbeknownst to them, Brawn's camera was following them, scuttling across the ground as silently as possible. It was so tiny that it was no wonder nobody could hear it at all. Brawn was watching their every step and they had no idea. Vector peered through the magnifying glass and paused as he scanned the ground for any possibly clue. A footprint would do nicely, especially if there was a trial of them leading to somewhere. But unfortunately, Vector couldn't see anything that looked helpful lying around at all. There wasn't even a footprint. Vector sighed to himself in annoyance.

"No trails, no clues or anything." he grumbled "How the heck are we gonna find Mandy and Kari if there's no way of finding out where The Exterminators took them?"

"No idea." said Sonic grumpily, clearly sharing Vector's disdain "I'm amazed they managed to get away without leaving any footprints around. They must be very tidy at their jobs."

"More's the pity for us." muttered Wilson "We're never gonna find my wife at this rate!"

"If only Kari had an arm-band tracking beacon like I have." said Miranda Mongoose gloomily "We'd find her easily then. The beacon would take us right to The Exterminators."

"As is, we don't have such luck on our side." sighed Sonic "It'll take a miracle to find those girls now."

"I think it'll take more than a miracle, it'll take a zillion miracles!" wailed Thunder.

"Maybe even more!" added Bolt despairingly.

"Yeah…maybe." sighed Sonic "But I'm not gonna back down. I'll find and rescue Mandy and Kari even if I have to tear the world apart to do so!"

"Hey Sonic, what's that coming over the hill?" asked Wilson, poking Sonic in the shoulder and pointing ahead of him "Is it a monster?"

Sonic looked in Wilson's direction and he saw something charging in the distance, running down a rather steep hill that protruded like an ulcer in the plain earth that stretched around for miles all around. A cloud of dust whipped up as the thing came thundering across the plains and heading towards the Royal Fighters. It was, who else, Mace the Elephant, stampeding across the plains like how an elephant would normally stampede when provoked and frightened into running away. Mace saw the Royal Fighters and he thundered towards them, his feet like earthquakes as he cleared the distance between him and his prey. Sonic instantly sensed that Mace meant danger and he spin-dashed towards the charging pachyderm. Mace saw Sonic coming and he skidded to a halt. He then swung his trunk to one side and walloped Sonic away with the mace at the end of it. One would look and wonder how Mace was able to lift such a heavy mace with merely his trunk given how heavy it was. As much as he didn't want to hurt Sonic, he had to make this look believable or Brawn would accuse him of treachery. Sonic hurled across the plains and he came down with a heavy thud in front of the Royal Fighters. Mace stood before them, his appearance brooding and intimidating to them all.

"EEK! It's an elephant!" shrieked Wilson "And a very mean looking elephant too!"

"That's silly, what's an elephant doing in the middle of nowhere?" asked Charmy, clearly puzzled at the sight of Mace.

"Doesn't matter, it wants to have a fight it seems." said Sonic, picking himself up "OK you walking tank with legs, who are you and what's the big deal?"

"I am Mace the Elephant and I have been ordered to kill you all by The Exterminators." boomed Mace "My master doesn't want you trying to save his slaves."

"Wait what, how do you know that?!" cried Miranda in terror, horrified at the fact Mace knew what they were doing.

"Never you mind you nosy little brat." snapped Mace "Prepare to be crushed you puny Royal Fighters!"

"If you're with The Exterminators then you can tell us where they are!" yelled Sonic "That is, once we've beaten you to a pulp!"

Sonic curled up into a ball and he spin-dashed Mace directly in the gut but somehow, Mace didn't double over in pain. He barely even flinched! Elephants are tough, it is difficult for even the strongest of animals to hurt them. Mace was probably one of the few Mobians alive that was unaffected by a spin-dash from Sonic. Mace swung his trunk and slammed the ground with his mace, hoping to hit Sonic but missing as Sonic zipped out of his way. Wilson, Team Chaotix and Team Nekronopolis charged towards Mace, keen to get into the battle and beat him down into the dirt. Mace seemed to welcome the challenge, all too happy to beat his enemies to death even though he was only keeping up a pretence for Brawn. Miranda whipped out her electro-prod and she tried to zap Mace with it but Mace just grabbed the weapon and yanked it out of Miranda's hands. He broke it in two and threw it down onto the ground, the weapon now useless to Miranda and nothing more than a broken toy. Thunder and Bolt had better luck, they threw lightning bolts at Mace and they struck the elephant in the back. Mace let out a trumpet of pain from his trunk as lighting seared his back and the two chipmunks jumped up onto his shoulders. They tugged on his ears, trying to bring him down onto the ground. Their diminutive size was of no use against Mace unfortunately.

"Uh…this is not making much of a difference is it?" asked Bolt sheepishly.

Mace just shook the chipmunks off, sending them crashing down onto the ground in a heap. Vector then jumped on Mace from behind and grabbed the elephant in a headlock, wrestling him down onto his knees. The sad thing is, an elephant will always overpower a crocodile, even ones as strong as Vector. Mace broke out of Vector's grasp and he walloped him across the plains with a roundhouse punch. To Vector's fortune, Mace was holding back. He could punch MUCH harder if he wanted to. Espio jumped in and began to unleash his ninjutsu on Mace. He roundhouse kicked him in the face, elbowed him in the gut, kicked him in the legs and then uppercut him in the chin. The blows did little damage but Mace felt them, stumbling backwards as he was hit and Espio unleashed a ninja-kick on Mace's forehead, knocking him straight down onto the ground. Charmy added insult to injury with a kick to the eye that made Mace scream in pain. He clutched his eye and stood back up, only to get spin-dashed in the back by Sonic. Mace lay on the ground, grimacing in pain and Sonic stood over him.

"OK trunky, why the heck are you working for a bunch of rats?!" demanded Sonic "I mean, aren't elephants scared of mice and rats or something? Besides, you're an elephant, what have YOU got against mice?"

"It's nothing to do with mice or rats!" retorted Mace "It's purely so I can stay out of poverty!"

Before Sonic could wonder what he meant, Mace tried to stand back up. Sonic jumped off of Mace and spin-dashed him down onto his side just as he stood back up. Mace was back on his feet instantly and he swung his mace at Sonic, missing him purposefully as Sonic narrowly dodged him. As he fought, he kept his eyes open for the possible security camera that Brawn was using to make sure he succeeded. Once it was destroyed, he could then come clean and help Sonic and friends bring down The Exterminators…he just hoped he didn't end up killing them in the end…

Back with Mandy and Kari, the two girls were staring at the rather sinister, hungry looking rats that occupied the room they had just run into. Kari was backed against the wall whereas Mandy stood defensively in front of her, her fists raised threateningly.

"Stay away from us rats or you'll feel my fists of fury!" snarled Mandy.

The rats ignored her warning and they just advanced on her and Kari all the more, their movements creepy looking and almost unnatural as if they had forgotten how to walk properly. Slavery hadn't done them well at all, they were nothing more than feral beings now. As the rats advanced on Mandy and Kari, Mandy grew increasingly nervous. Sweat rained down her head and she tried to think of a better threat to give the rats.

"I'm warning you, one more step and you're all toast!" yelled Mandy.

Kari however had a more civil method of stopping them.

"Wait! Please, don't hurt us." she begged "We're lowly slaves just like you all are, we're just trying to escape. If you let us go and don't kill us then we'll help you escape too."

The rats suddenly had a change of attitude as if Kari's words had an automatic effect on them. The rats suddenly turned all nice, their feral behaviour diminishing and their grins looking more friendly than hungry. One rat who wore a monocle, a top hat that had a hole punched through the top of the crown section and bits of the brim torn out of it and a ragged old smart outfit, stood forward and bowed down to Mandy and Kari as if he was presenting himself to the queen. Mandy was astonished. Kari was one amazing girl if she could somehow get all one-hundred rats to change their attitude towards them! Or was it simply because she promised them freedom? Mandy was kind of pleased Kari did that since she wanted the enslaved rats to be free from this oppression too. Plus, her hatred of rats had been declining after the whole revelation behind the mice and rats being endangered so Mandy would have promised them the same thing had she thought of it. The monocle rat straightened himself up and smiled at the girls.

"Oh joyous day! Somebody is promising us freedom at last!" he cried happily, his voice very aristocratic "After days and days of this torture, I was beginning to think we were NEVER going to be free again!"

"You sure look like you've been here for a while sir." said Mandy, sympathizing with him even though she'd only been here for an hour at the most and had only done five minutes work before being taken back to her cell "Look at yourself! You look…dreadful! I'm sorry if that offends you."

"Oh my dear sweet child, don't you fret about me." said the monocle rat "I am not that easy to offend, you're quite alright with me."

"Huh, finally! A decent rat other than Kari!" chuckled Mandy "I'd been hoping to meet another nice rat and now here you are. So what's your name sir?"

"Indeed my dear, I am Raleigh Stilton." introduced the monocle rat "One of many rats whom has been imprisoned just because we don't share Brawn's prejudice against mice. And you are?"

"Mandy, Mandy Mouse." said Mandy, shaking Raleigh's rather filthy, unwashed hand. Slaves were not permitted with cleaning facilities for reasons only a cruel person would understand since it's for cruelty more than anything. Thus, the slaves got very filthy and the smell that they emitted was enough to make somebody sick.

"I'm Kari." said Kari, hoping Raleigh had noticed her as well "Pleased to meet you."

"The pleasure's all mine my child." said Raleigh happily "So, you're slaves of The Exterminators too? Such a pity, how could Brawn imprison to lovely women such as yourselves?"

"How could Brawn imprison a rat as pleasant and polite as yourself?" Mandy asked back "Honestly, with manners like yours, who'd want to treat you like this?!"

"Like I said Mandy my dear, Brawn didn't like the fact that I along with all the other rats in this cell didn't share his prejudice against mice so he imprisoned us." said Raleigh with a sad face on "He's trying to MAKE us hate the poor, poor mice of Mobius by making us work and telling us that "It's the mice's fault this is happening to us". I myself am a rat of profound logic so I will not buy this nonsense from him."

"I'm glad you don't." said Mandy "After all I've been through, I now no longer wish to be a part of this stupid rivalry our races have had over the years. Speaking of which, do any of you rats know how it started?"

"Mandy, I don't think we have time for that…" hissed Kari nervously.

"No, no, no my child, it's quite alright." said Raleigh "The guards rarely check up on us, they're unlikely to come by this cell anytime soon. They don't give us much attention, expecting us to be wild, feral and mindless by now. Of course, we almost did until you promised to rescue us all. Anyways Mandy, I have the answer to your question." he said, turning back to Mandy.

"Really?" gasped Mandy excitedly "Then how did mice and rats come to hate each other then?"

"Given how I've been hoping to stop this rivalry too, I studied vigorously on the subject and found out this." he began to explain "The mice and rats have been enemies since the day Mobius first existed. The rivalry exists purely out of a feeling of superiority, a feeling of being the better race and wanting to prove who the better race is. Two races with much in common and yet such different ways of life and ways that they don't understand. The rivalry has evolved along with the planet, getting worse and worse as time went on. The rivalry has gotten so bad that…both races are in danger of becoming extinct. Do you know how many of us rats and how many mice are left Mandy?"

"I do, Brawn told me himself." muttered Mandy "There's only 1,000 of you rats left, 900 of them keeping up this stupid rivalry and 100 of you forced to serve them For my kind, there's 100 more mice left than rats. While I'm glad there's more mice left, I kinda feel sorry for you rats." she said sympathetically, her hand over her heart as if to say it truly broke her heart to hear both races were endangered "I may have grown up hating rats but I NEVER wanted them to go extinct. I just wished they'd be more like me and the mice that's all. To hear that mice and rats are literally wiping each other out…it's just awful!"

"The feeling is mutual child." said Raleigh, putting a hand on Mandy's shoulder sadly "I had been hoping to change the ways of rat life before I got enslaved. I did a successful campaign too. As you can see, 99 rats already supported my cause in the first few weeks I started it! But then Brawn came in to try and undermine all that…I sure hope that after all of this, more rats will change their ways and call off this forlorn rivalry. If the mice and rats don't learn to get along…then both races will go extinct."

His head lowered and his eyes fell to the ground as despair swept over him. Mandy shared his expression. She didn't want the mice and rats to go extinct and she was determined to prevent that. She looked at all the other rats, feeling very sorry for them as they shard Raleigh's despair. They looked very sorry for themselves as if they were disgusted that their own kind was continuing this rivalry and enslaving mice and rats all over like this. Hopefully once the rivalry was called off, the rats could build a better name for themselves and gain a better reputation.

"Well once me and Kari escape and get the Royal Fighters to stop The Exterminators for good, I'll help you gain some supporters Raleigh." said Mandy determinedly "I've been forming a speech in my head since I've been here and hopefully, the speech I have planned will sway some opinions."

"I look forward to hearing it my dear." said Raleigh brightly "So, when are we going to escape?"

"Me and Kari are going to escape first Raleigh." said Mandy "You lot just hold on until we return with the Royal Fighters. When the Royal Fighters get here, we'll rescue all the slaves, arrest Brawn and eliminate The Exterminators for good, I promise."

"I can trust a mouse to keep her word." said Raleigh, his face as joyous looking as ever "Mice seldom ever deceive or lie to anyone after all."

"Indeed." said Mandy "Goodbye Raleigh, we'll be back soon."

"Goodbye my child, and good luck." said Raleigh, tipping off his at to Mandy. The 99 rats with him all smiled and waved goodbye as if Mandy was a good friend of theirs and they were wishing her the best of luck.

Mandy winked at Raleigh, pleased to have had a lengthy conversation with a pleasant rat other than Kari for a change and she and Kari left the cell. They closed the door behind them and Kari reluctantly locked it as they left. They couldn't leave it unlocked or the rats would notice the slave rats' cell door had been unlocked. They had to leave things as they had left them. Mandy and Kari ran off down the corridor, once again looking for a way out of the building.

"Well Raleigh was nice." said Mandy cheerfully "Let's hope more rats start acting like him when this is over."

"I hope so too." said Kari "Then maybe rats can stop having a bad reputation and people other than the Royal Fighters can start trusting me. Not that I'm ungrateful they trust me that is…"

"I understand Kari." said Mandy "Now then, which way…?"

Favour had decided it had had enough of giving Mandy and Kari fortune. As they darted around a corner they ended up crashing into somebody. And that somebody was none other than Brawn the Rat himself! He had heard the sound of running feet outside his quarters and he had decided to investigate to see what was going on. To his amazement, it was Mandy and Kari and they both stared up in horror at Brawn, unable to believe their bad luck.

"How droll, Mandy and Kari come crashing straight into me. " he boomed "And just when I began to wonder if Mandy had been executed yet. Well then, I guess I shall have to do it myself…"

He reached out with his enormous hands and they closed around Mandy and Kari's necks as he hoisted them up off their feet and carried them off somewhere. They had been caught red-handed and as punishment for trying to escape, they were going to get one sentence…execution.

Footnotes:

See Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 20: Honeymoons and Rats for that is where this whole thing began…

Holy deep fried dodos! Mandy and Kari are in trouble now and Sonic and friends are up against Mace! But why is Mace wanting to rebel against Brawn and help Sonic? Will Mandy and Kari be saved? And will the rodent rivalry finally end? Find out next time as Endangered Species comes to an exciting end...

Remember to tune into* Tales from Mobius for more of Arc 21: A Bitter Snowstorm *and find out if the Royal Fighters back home can capture Blizzard the Ice Witch!

Endangered Species Part 3

Story 163: Endangered Species Part 3: Mice in Rebellion

Countdown to Crisis: 2

"Whoa! Watch where you're swinging that thing you crazy elephant!" yelped Sonic the Hedgehog, ducking down to dodge the swinging mace that was aimed directly at him "You could hurt somebody!"

Mace the Elephant, the one swinging the mace at Sonic, ignored him and he swung his mace again. Sonic the Hedgehog and fellow Royal Fighter Wilson the Dog, Team Chaotix and Team Nekronopolis were engaged in battle with the heavyweight, muscular elephant that had been sent by Brawn the Rat to kill them all. Mace, who's name derives from the fact he carries a mace at the end of his trunk, didn't want to do such a thing and actually wanted the Royal Fighters to help him bring down The Exterminators but because he was being watched by Brawn's hidden camera to make sure he succeeded in killing the Royal Fighters, he had to put up a fight until he found the camera and destroyed it. Once he did that, he could reveal what his true intentions were and get Sonic and friends to terminate The Exterminators and rescue all the enslaved mice and rats, particularly Mandy Mouse and Kari the Rat. For now, he had to fight on but because he didn't want to kill them, he purposefully held back and even made sure that his mace attack was avoidable so he wouldn't break their skulls or anything. In other words, if Mace was fighting for real then some bones would be broken already. Sonic spin-dashed Mace and sent him hurling directly into Vector the Crocodile. Vector jumped up and just as Mace was about to hit him, he slammed both fists down on the elephant's head and brought him crashing down onto the ground. Mace was surprised that Vector was so strong. He always did like it when he was against somebody who could throw a punch like he could. Mace picked himself up only to get zapped in the ankles by Thunder and Bolt. Mace was brought down onto his knees by the attack but he was back on his feet in no time and he swung his mace at Thunder and Bolt, slower than he would normally swing of course for he wasn't planning to kill them. Thunder and Bolt dodged the mace and they threw lightning bolts at Mace again, the elephant trumpeting in pain as the lightning seared his tough skin. Wilson ran in and he pointed his spinning blade weapon at Mace's throat.

"Alright you thick-skinned cretin, where's my wife?!" growled Wilson "Where is Mandy?!"

"Find out yourself wimp." scoffed Mace, slugging Wilson in the gut and then throwing him across the battlefield as far as he could.

He purposefully aimed at Vector though so that Wilson would have a less painful landing and Vector would most likely catch him anyway, which is exactly what ended up happening. Vector caught Wilson and he put him down so the dog could stand back up and continue fighting.

"I don't think he's gonna tell you where Mandy is." said Vector "We'll just have to beat the info out of him."

"I'll be all too happy to do that." said Wilson with a very obvious tone of anger in his voice, an uncharacteristic tone of voice for him to use most of the time.

Wilson threw the spinning blade at Mace and the double-bladed weapon ended up skimming him across the face as Mace tried to dodge it. His tough skin allowed him to deal with the pain more than the average person would have but it was still enough to make him wince. A good enough distraction for Sonic was able to land a well-aimed stomp kick to the face that brought him down onto his back. Mace tried to stand back up but Sonic jumped onto his head and he put his hands over the elephant's eyes. Mace tried to make Sonic let go of him but Sonic held on tightly, holding on for dear life as Mace tried to shake him off. While he was blinded, Espio and Charmy both leaped in and kicked Mace in the gut together. Espio then went for a sharp prod to the shoulder blade that made Mace cringe in agony and for a moment, he summed stunned. Charmy added insult to injury by stinging him on the trunk. The stinger wasn't as effective as it would have been on an ordinary person but the sting still made Mace bellow in pain. Charmy's stinger was a painful sting after all. Sonic then leaped off of Mace's head, uncovering his eyes and he stomp-kicked him from behind, throwing him down onto the ground.

"Hey, I should use the stomp-kick more often!" chuckled Sonic "It's quite effective."

Charmy seemed to agree for he was grinning rather excitedly about it. Mace grumbled furiously and he picked himself up.

"No wonder…you guys are the heroes of Mobius." grunted Mace "You're all quite tough."

"Indeed we are you walking vacuum cleaner." sneered Sonic "That's why killing us, or at least trying to is a big mistake. Oh and you might wanna look out, there's a mad mongoose heading your way."

Mace was dumbfounded and before he could even wonder what Sonic meant, Miranda flew in from nowhere and she dropkicked Mace directly in the forehead. The kick sent Mace stumbling backwards and he fell onto his back. As he did though, he felt something go crunch against his skin. Mace had clearly squished something as he landed. He picked himself up and turned around to see what he had landed on. He saw a crushed piece of metal with spindly legs and a broken lens. Mace smiled to himself. It was Brawn's hidden camera! He had destroyed it at last! Now he could come clean! Sonic spin-dashed Mace in the back but the elephant took the blow and he stood back up.

"OK trunky, you up for some more?" crowed Sonic "Come on, I haven't finished with you yet!"

"Well I have." said Mace plainly "Because I'm not here to battle with you, but to recruit you all instead."

Sonic looked like he had just seen the silliest looking thing in his life.

"Say WHAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAT?!" he cried out in surprise "You were just trying to kill us a moment ago and now you want to recruit us?! WHAT?!"

"He's trying to trick us!" declared Wilson "Well I'm not falling for it!"

"It's no trick Wilson." said Mace "I speak the truth here. You see, Brawn had smuggled a hidden camera into the camp that belonged to Kari the Rat's team and he was using it to spy on me and make sure I did what I had been told. Now the camera's destroyed, I don't have to keep up the pretence."

As if to further prove himself, he even pointed at the wrecked spy camera that lay smashed on the ground, unusable for anybody now. The Royal Fighters all looked at the destroyed camera and Miranda seemed a little disturbed over the fact Brawn had managed to sneak one into her campwithout her realizing it.

"You mean that The Exterminators were spying on us?!" cried Miranda.

"Guess that's how Mace knew where to find us." murmured Espio.

"Who wants to bet that those rats wanted to make sure we weren't planning on saving Mandy and Kari?" Wilson deduced "And this so-called "Brawn" sent Mace here to prevent us from saving the girls."

"Looks like he's gonna regret it though since Mace-y here wants to help us." said Sonic with a smirk on his face "Speaking of you Mace…why are you working for The Exterminators if you suddenly want to recruit us?"

"Believe me, had I know how evil they were in the first place, I would never have joined them in the first place." muttered Mace, his face a furious scowl all full of wrinkles from his leathery skin "You see, I was born and raised with a family of poverty. My family were so dreadfully poor that it was a miracle we were ever able to eat anything. We resorted to stealing in order to get out daily bread and for a while it worked. But sadly, it wasn't enough to get us out of poverty. We were still poor and life just grew tougher and tougher for us. Given I was a child, I was given the most of any food we ever managed to steal. This in turn has led me to becoming the most fit and able of my family. I was determined to put an end to our poor lives so I tried to find work but jobs are very hard to come by nowadays. Then came the day I met him…Brawn the Rat. He told me he had big ambitions and that he would pay me handsomely if I worked for him. Desperate for money, I accepted without even so much as asking what the job was. I soon lived to regret it when I found out though. Enslaving mice and torturing them to make the rats feel superior was NOT my idea of work. I instantly wanted to leave but then I thought that I could stay a while and win Brawn's trust then strike him down when he least expected it. And of course, I did get paid well by Brawn so my family now has some decent money to keep them going. It just sickens me that I've earned it through such despicable ways. I was more and more determined to leave The Exterminators as I went on and now I find you Royal Fighters planning to rescue Mandy and Kari and that's when I realized I had the best opportunity ever. I can bring you all to The Exterminators and have you bring them down for good and I can just act like I had nothing to do with it. But then once The Exterminators are defeated…how will I keep my family out of poverty now?"

Sonic took in Mace's story and he thought for a moment about this. Mace was a poor man who had ended up working for a villain, not intending to be doing something evil and was just wanting to get his family out of poverty? Sonic couldn't help but pity poor Mace. Poverty was awful and it could do horrible things to you. Sonic however knew exactly what to do.

"Say Mace, it's really sad to hear about all this and I'm sorry you've had to go through all that." said Sonic sympathetically "But I know just the thing. If you join the Royal Fighters Service, we will pay you all wondrously and your family never need to live as poor folk again. Not to mention, we'd be all too happy to have a guy as big and strong as you on our side."

Mace looked stunned to hear this.

"You…you'll take me in as a Royal Fighter?" he gasped.

"If you want to join us then yes, we will." said Sonic with a smile on his face "You'll be a great Royal Fighter! Not to mention, I'd love to see you squash Eggman with that mace of yours." he said with a wink.

"Funny thing is, I was holding back during my battle with you guys so I wouldn't kill you all!" chuckled Mace "When I fight for real, I'm MUCH worse!"

Sonic just laughed at that little statement, almost imagining what Mace fighting for real would be like.

"I can imagine." said Wilson with a slight chuckle "Now then, PLEASE can you take us to where those evil rats have taken my wife? I just want Mandy safe and back in my arms again."

"Wilson, you needn't have said anything, I was just going to do that." said Mace "But there's more than Mandy and Kari to save over there. There's 100 mice and 100 rats all enslaved there and we must rescue them all as well. We can't just leave them to suffer at Brawn's hands."

"Wait what? There's rat slaves too?!" gasped Sonic "Is Brawn insane in the brain or something?!"

"Enslaving his own kind too? What the hell's up with him?!" gasped Wilson.

"The rats who are enslaved are ones who opposed the rivalry and wanted nothing to do with The Exterminators. Brawn's trying to make them hate the mice by enslaving them and thus, they'll join them willingly." said Mace furiously "I'm disgusted I even work for that monster. What I wouldn't give to kill him already!"

"So mice AND rats are being enslaved by this crazy group of exterminating rats?" said Sonic "Wow…and I thought that all rats save Kari were bad. Maybe there's some hope for the rats after all if 100 of them opposed Brawn's ambitions…"

"Indeed." said Mace "Now then, we must hurry. Before I was sent to kill you all, Brawn told me to order Mandy's execution to which I obviously didn't. He might find out that Mandy's execution hasn't been ordered yet and will have her killed so we need to get a move on!"

"Lead the way Mace!" cried Sonic.

Mace nodded and he ran off as fast as he could, running on all fours for her ran faster that way. Sonic and the others all ran after Mace and followed him as he led them off to Central City and most importantly…the headquarters of The Exterminators. Wilson just prayed that Mandy would still be alive by the time they got there and that he would be in time to save his beloved wife…

The Royal Fighters would have to get a move on though for the execution was being set-up at this very minute! Mandy Mouse and Kari the Rat had tried to escape from The Exterminators after Kari ended up stealing a guard's keys which had been dropped while Mandy beat up said guard and all their escape ended up doing was telling them how the mice and rats became enemies and why and then they ended up accidentally running to Brawn during their escape. Brawn had seized them both instantly and had taken them both to be executed. The execution was taking place in an isolated room that was full of pipelines, dangling chains with hooks on the end of them, buzzing generators and walkways that led to some of the upper floors of the building. Mandy and Kari had both been fastened in shackles that were then raised up and draped over a hook above their heads. Their arms were raised above their heads by the shackles and they couldn't get the shackles off the hook. They were stuck. That wasn't it though, they were also standing in a cold steel basin that made their feet shiver and the basin was being filled with cold water. A hosepipe was draped over the side of the basin and squirting out cold water into the basin, soaking Mandy and Kari's feet as the basin filled up. Mandy could hardly understand this, how was this a method of execution? All Brawn was doing was getting their feet wet. Then again, Brawn certainly wasn't stupid, he obviously knew what he was doing. Mandy and Kari tugged on their shackles and tried desperately to get free. Alas, their attempts were just in vain. They had no chance of escape. Mandy grunted furiously as she tried to break free.

"Hurgh, dugh…let us go!" yelled Mandy "You can't chain us up like wild animals like this!"

"Uh Mandy, he already has done." said Kari timidly, her struggling ceasing after she decided it was just pointless to keep trying.

"Thanks for pointing out the obvious Mrs. Rhetorical." snapped Mandy, shooting a cold glare at the terrified rat that was chained up beside her. She turned back to Brawn and yelled at him again. "You let us go right now Brawn or you'll be sorry!"

Brawn, who was watching the basin fill up with water, turned the tap off and the hose pipe stopped trickling water into the basin. The basin was close to overflowing with water. It came up past Mandy and Kari's ankles by a few centimetres. Brawn strolled over to Mandy, his evil eyes focused squarely on her as if he was trying to turn her into stone or something. His hands were behind his back but he could quickly draw them out and punch Mandy if he wished.

"You are the one who will be sorry Mandy, sorry that you and Kari dared to try and escape from me. " he boomed menacingly "Attempted escaping of my headquarters results in immediate death."

"Who cares? You would have executed me anyway!" snapped Mandy "I beat one of your guards half to death, I was already due for an execution no doubt. Speaking of which, how is that sexist piece of crap now?"

"In intensive care." replied Brawn, his voice like a megaphone in Mandy's ears "We do not know if he'll live as a cripple or die from his injuries. Behaviour like that will not be tolerated from you so you will pay for that as well as trying to escape."

"That jerk deserved that beating! He disrupted me while I was working and he was patronizing towards me! I gave him what he asked for!" screeched Mandy furiously.

"Mandy, for god's sake just shut up already!" hissed Kari "Being all tough and mighty isn't going to get you out of this and all you're doing is making Brawn mad!"

"At ease Kari, Mandy is not making me mad, she is merely amusing me. " purred Brawn, his expression more relaxed than agitated eerily enough "You never cease to amuse me Mandy. Amuse me on how you're so headstrong even when the situation is hopeless. You really have, what many might say, a lion heart. Such a heart is truly commendable ind eed."

"More than what can be said about you wuss-bag!" snarled Mandy.

"That name has no way of insulting me Mandy, I am not cowardly anymore in case you've forgotten." said Brawn coldly "I AM fear itself, people fear me and I strike fear into the heart of anybody I meet. Cowardice has no hold on me anymore."

"I don't care what garbage you spew at me, you'll always be that coward Mildred I once knew from High School regardless of how you look!" yelled Mandy bravely.

"Mandy, are you TRYING to annoy him?!" shouted Kari crossly.

"We're gonna die anyway Kari so I'm just throwing some last insults at him so I can die a happy mouse!" retorted Mandy.

"You will not be dying a happy mouse at all Mandy for I shall have the final laugh in this forlorn conversation." sneered Brawn, a smirk curling up from behind his mask "I have had enough of your tough talk Mandy, it is time to finish you and Kari off."

"So…how will we die?" asked Mandy, gulping nervously as she knew the worst was coming for her now.

"The most painful way possible." purred Brawn, a gloating tone evident in his amplified voice "Notice how you both stand in a basin of wa ter? Well the water will be your doom. It is harmless as it is now. But we all know what happens when electricity gets into contact with water don't we?"

Mandy and Kari both felt the air escape their lungs as they gasped in horror.

"You're going to electrocute us?!" shrieked Kari in terror "No, please, you can't! I'd rather have a much less painful death! Please use something less painful!"

"There is no satisfaction in a death that isn't painful." said Brawn with an icy stare in his eyes "You tried to escape, your deaths must be painful so you pay for it better. Not to mention, Mandy deserves a death like that for beating one of my poor guards up really badly."

He then jammed his face into Mandy's, so much in fact that his breathing sounded even louder in Mandy's ears and Mandy could even feel it coming through the mask.

"Any last words?" the three words boomed one by one out of his mask as Brawn spoke them.

Mandy scowled back at Brawn, determined not to let the rat intimidate her.

"Yes actually." she said "You kill me and Kari, you will be making the biggest mistake of your life. The Royal Fighters will discover this and they'll make sure you pay for our deaths. I PROMISE you that."

Kari was quite surprised that Mandy delivered all that without raising her voice and managing to sound really calm, collected and cool about it all. Mandy truly was an amazing woman in more ways then one. Brawn took in Mandy's words and he just remained stoic as if her words had no meaning to him.

"The Royal Fighters will never find us and your deaths will nev er be discovered." he crowed "You will simply just disappear and everybody will forget about you."

With that said, Brawn strolled off and he headed towards a working machine. Mandy instantly knew what he was going to do, he was going to tear a wire out of the machine and dunk it in the water that they stood in. The moment the wire went into the water, they would be fried instantly. Mandy and Kari both looked worriedly at each other as the end began closing in on them.

"Mandy…I'm afraid we're finished." said Kari, her lovely innocent face streaming with tears of fear "I can't believe we're going to die here! What…what's Miranda going to think when she…finds out?"

"She'll be devastated." said Mandy sadly, shedding some tears of her own "As for Wilson…I don't think he'll live without me. Poor dog will be devastated to no end when he finds out about us."

"I bet he will." wailed Kari "I never thought I'd be dying like this. At least I'm with a great friend like you as I die Mandy."

Mandy smiled sadly at Kari, touched to hear that from her.

"Thanks." said Mandy appreciatively "As for you. Kari…you're the best rat I've ever met." she said back to Kari, every bit of that sentence coming from her very heart as she said.

Kari just smiled sweetly at Mandy, touched by her kind words.

"Aww…that's the nicest thing anyone's ever said to me." said Kari happily "Thank you Mandy."

"Thought I'd let you have something nice to hear before we die." said Mandy, a weak smile on her face which was streaming with tears along with Kari.

Kari could only beam appreciatively at Mandy, really pleased at the fact she had a friend who was not only a mouse but a mouse who accepted her despite being a rat. Seemed fate was giving her one last thing to appreciate before finally seeing her off. As for Mandy, she really had grown close to Kari during her time in this hell hole. It was almost like Kari was another sister for her. With Marion gone, Kari was the closest thing to a sister Mandy had ever met. It made her happy that of all people she could die along with, Kari was that person. The two rodents lost their smiles for Brawn returned to them, carrying a huge wire that sparked furiously as if it was desperately trying to connect back to some circuitry and continue its electrical course along with the other wires inside. Brawn made a face that could have looked like he was smirking at Mandy but given the mask he wore, it was hard to tell what expression his mouth was making. Mandy and Kari just shivered at the sight of the sparking wire that was going to be the thing to take their lives away.

"Goodbye Mandy and Kari." boomed Brawn, raising his arm and preparing to throw the wire into the water.

Mandy and Kari closed their eyes and waited for the final blow to come to them, their eyes still streaming with tears as they closed them. Brawn aimed for the basin and prepared to throw the wire into it, the electricity crackling inside it furiously. Fate may seemed to have had enough of favouring Mandy and Kari when they ran into Brawn. But it seemed that fate had seen how scared Mandy and Kari looked and decided to take pity on them. Favour returned to Mandy and Kari's side once again for suddenly, something burst through the door of the room, said something yelling aloud "Oh YEAH!" as it did so. The thing was of course, Sonic the Hedgehog himself, spin-dashing through the door and heading towards Brawn. Before Brawn could even so much as turn an eye, he was hit squarely in the back and sent hurling to the side away from Mandy and Kari. Brawn hurled across the room like a thrown stone and he crashed into a huge cabinet that ended up tipping forward and coming down with a thunderous smash on top of him, supposedly crushing him underneath its massive weight. Mandy and Kari opened their eyes, amazed to see they were still alive. They didn't take long to figure out how they were still alive for Sonic stood before them, grinning triumphantly at what he'd done.

"Hey ladies, not to late to save the two of you am I?" asked Sonic.

"Blue dude! Oh my god, it's really you!" cheered Mandy.

"Pinch me, I must be dreaming!" cried Kari "Sonic's found us at last!"

"Indeed I have and I'm not alone." said Sonic, pointing to the broken door with his thumb "I've brought company."

Right on cue as he finished the word "company", Team Chaotix, Team Nekronopolis and Wilson all ran into the room as quickly as they could. Mace was not with them at the moment, he was freeing the captives at this very moment. Mandy and Kari's faces exploded with joy at the sight of the other Mobians rushing into greet them. Wilson drew out his spinning blade weapon and he threw it at the shackles holding Mandy and Kari's hands aloft. The blade cut through the chains and the girls lowered their arms without hesitating. They leaped out of the basin and Mandy's first instinct was to run towards Wilson while Kari ran towards Miranda, Thunder and Bolt. Kari threw herself into Miranda's arms and the mongoose embraced the rat as if she was a mother reunited with her long lost daughter at last. Kari and Miranda both cried happy tears over this, neither one wanting to let go for the moment. Thunder and Bolt joined in the hug, smiling over the return of their fellow comrade.

"Oh Kari I've been so worried about you!" cried Miranda "Thank god we found you at last!"

"Miranda, Thunder, Bolt! I've missed you all so much!" cried Kari "It's so good to be back with you all again!"

"It certainly is!" cheered Thunder "Our team just wasn't the same without you Kari."

"We're all back together again! Hooray!" Bolt yelled happily.

As for Mandy, she and Wilson ran towards each other with open arms and tears of joy trickling down their faces. Mandy threw her arms around Wilson and Wilson grasped his wife into a tight embrace that neither one wanted to end. Wilson twirled Mandy around a couple of times, earning a giggle of pleasure from the mouse and they both kissed each other on the lips as if it was the first kiss they'd had in years.

"Oh Wilson, oh my god you found us at last!" Mandy exclaimed joyfully "Thank god, I thought I was never going to see you again!"

"Thank god indeed Mandy! I thought I'd lost you forever!" Wilson cried joyfully "Now we're back together, I'm NEVER going to lose you again!"

He and Mandy kissed each other again, this one a very deep, passionate and loving kiss that made them both feel very happy, content and reunited at last. They had truly missed each other and just being back with each other was enough to have them crying happily and kissing each other like there was no tomorrow. Sonic just watched the reunions with awe. He loved bringing friends and loved ones back together, it made his heart swell with pride to watch.

"Aww…that's so sweet." said Sonic "This is what I love about the hero business, getting to see joy like this."

Wilson and Mandy finally broke up their kiss after a minute and Mandy asked the most obvious question she could possibly ask.

"How ever did you find us?" she asked.

"Well we had help from an elephant named Mace." explained Wilson "He led us right to you. I'm so happy he did though, you back in my arms has been the best thing that's happened today."

Mandy looked stunned to hear this.

"Mace?! Mace brought you here?!" she explained "Does that mean…"

Her sentence was rudely interrupted by the heavy sound of metal being lifted up and then slamming down against the floor. Brawn had miraculously survived being crushed by the cabinet and he picked himself up. Wilson clutched Mandy tightly to himself and Team Nekronopolis stood defensively in front of Kari. Brawn stared at the Royal Fighters in horror. It was the first expression of horror he had ever emoted since his turn to valour.

"What?!" he blurted, completely flabbergasted at this "How did you…? I sent Mace out to kill you all!"

"Well Mace got the warm and fuzzies and decided to switch sides." sneered Sonic "He led us right to you and is right now releasing all of the slaves while we kick your ugly butt into the next continent!"

"You kidnapped my wife, kidnapped a fellow Royal Fighter and imprisoned mice and rats for your own cruel purposes!" snarled Wilson "I am going to make mincemeat out of you for all this!"

"No Wilson, you stay out of this." said Mandy "I will deal with Brawn."

"No Mandy, you can't take him on by yourself!" cried Wilson "I'm not going to let that monster take you away from me again!"

"Wilson please, I can handle him." said Mandy reassuringly "Besides, he's only Mildred, that coward from High School. He'll be no problem."

Wilson instantly burst out laughing at this.

"Brawn is Mildred?! That wuss from High School?! And I thought he was to be taken seriously for a minute!" he laughed.

Brawn had had enough. He thundered towards Wilson like a charging rhinoceros, his head lowered and aimed at Wilson. Mandy however tipped the basin of water over and spilt water all over the floor. This caused Brawn to slip on the water and fall down onto his back. Brawn winced in pain as he came down with a heavy crash on his back. While he was down, Mandy jumped onto his gut and she grabbed the mask from around his mouth.

"Before we fight, you can take off that stupid, STUPID mask!" growled Mandy "Maybe you won't feel so intimidating without it!"

She then proceeded to rip the mask clean off of Brawn's mouth. She soon ended up wishing she'd kept it on though. Mandy stared at Brawn and she gasped in horror at what she was seeing. She leaped up to her feet and she put her hands over her mouth in astonishment. Brawn's mouth was completely metal and crammed with metallic teeth, all sharp and triangular like the jaws of a shark! The mask had not just been there to look scary, he had something to hide behind it the whole time and now his secret was out! Brawn clenched his metal teeth furiously. Mandy began to think that he suddenly looked less scary with the mask on. The others seemed to agree with her. Brawn looked scarier without his mask all of the sudden.

"Oh…my…GOD! What the hell did you do to your mouth?!" gasped Mandy.

"My desire to look intimidating was quite extreme." explained Brawn, his voice still amplified even without the mask on "I even altered my appearance using stolen technology from Dr. Eggman to roboticize various parts of my body. It was mostly internal works though. I am 50% cybernetic inside while most of my outer appearance is still organic. I do wish to keep some of my humanity after all. I even had my vocal chords roboticized so I would have this constant booming voice to intimidate and strike fear into my opponents. The only visible signs of my cybernetic work is my mouth and I shall bite your limbs off for removing my mask!"

"I don't care if you fully roboticized yourself! You're still going down Brawn and I will beat you as badly as I beat that guard!" yelled Mandy determinedly.

"We shall see about that Mandy…" growled Brawn menacingly.

"We shall indeed Mildred." scoffed Mandy "You kidnapped me and a whole lot of other mice, subjected us to hell and then attempted to kill me and Kari! You will not live to enslave another mouse Mildred!"

Brawn had had enough of Mandy calling him Mildred. He rose his fists and he attempted to bring them crashing down onto Mandy's head but the mouse dodged the attack. Brawn's fists slammed onto the floor quite heavily and left some cracks in it. Small cracks but cracks all the same. Sonic, Wilson, Team Chaotix and Team Nekronopolis just watched as the fight began to unfurl before them. Mandy vs. Brawn, may the best rodent win. Mandy threw a punch at Brawn's face, making sure she avoided his metal mouth but the punch didn't really do much harm to the rat. Brawn backhanded Mandy across the room, the mouse flying into the machine he'd torn a wire out of to dump in the basin of water earlier. Mandy grimaced and winced as her body slammed roughly against the hard machine. She picked herself up and dodged just as Brawn charged at her. Brawn smashed into the machine but due to his cybernetics enhancing his body strength, he took the blow well as if it was nothing and he ended up denting the machine. His internal cybernetics made him stronger and more resilient then he should realistically be. Mandy gulped at the sight of the dented machine. Had she signed her death warrant taking on Brawn by herself? No, Mandy would defeat Brawn or die trying. Mandy picked up the basin that she and Kari had been standing in and she threw it at Brawn like a Frisbee. The basin walloped him in the head and the blow was actually enough to bring Brawn down onto his back. Mandy ran over to the machine that Brawn had taken a wire out of and she ripped out another wire. She pressed it against Brawn's back as he stood up and he got a very nasty electric shock, made even worse by his cybernetics. But Mandy made the mistake of thinking he might pass out now and she took it away. Had she left it a few seconds longer, Brawn might have passed out from the shock. Brawn turned around and backhanded Mandy onto the floor. He then picked Mandy up and slammed her against the machine. The mouse cried out in pain and Brawn threw her down onto the floor. Wilson wanted to scream and cry for his wife but he knew that Mandy was tough and that she would come out on top sooner or later. Brawn stood over Mandy, the mouse grunting and trying to get back up.

"Had enough yet you little brat?" purred Brawn smugly.

"I'm just getting warmed up loser!" grunted Mandy.

She then drew her legs back and kangaroo kicked him in the groin. Brawn groaned an amplified groan of pain and he bent down, clutching his tender spot. This gave Mandy the opportunity to uppercut him in the face and then punch him in the eye, the dead eye that is. Brawn threw a punch at Mandy but Mandy ducked and she roundhouse kicked him in the arm, throwing his balance off and making him stagger. Mandy then jumped into the air and dropkicked Brawn in the head, making him stagger backwards and then collapse onto a table that sat nearby. The table was old and rickety and it broke under Brawn's immense weight. This proved to be a blessing though for Brawn ended up having something to use as a weapon. He picked the table up, the legs falling off of it, and he threw it at Mandy. Mandy dodged the flying table but she wasn't in time to dodge a club to the right leg from a table leg Brawn had picked up. Mandy screamed in pain as she was smacked in the leg and she clutched in, wincing tensely as if willing the pain to go away. Brawn then grabbed Mandy by the neck and he punched her onto the floor. The punch sent Mandy's head spinning, the mouse wondering which way was up. Her face was bruised and her leg was swelling up with a painful bruise on her thigh. It was painful to stand on and Mandy could barely get back up.

"Mandy! Get up!" cried Kari.

"You can't let Brawn beat you!" yelled Wilson.

Mandy tried with all her might but she just couldn't get back up. She was in too much pain and Brawn was too strong for her. Brawn picked Mandy up and he held the beaten mouse above his head. Mandy squirmed furiously but Brawn held her tight.

"Ah yes! I was wondering what would brea k first!" cried Brawn delightedly "Your spirit…"

"No Brawn! Put me down, let go of me!" cried Mandy "Don't you dare, don't you dare!"

She had a horrible idea of what Brawn was going to do. As he stuck his knee out as if preparing to break something over it, Mandy knew that she was right on what Brawn was planning. He was going to break her spine! Slam her helpless body down onto his knee and fracture her spine! Sonic was met with horrible memories of Devion crippling HIS back when he and the Devatrons invaded Mobius. Sonic had managed to heal but poor Mandy wouldn't have a chance. He had to act fast.

"…or your body!" boomed Brawn, ready to slam Mandy down onto his knee.

But before he could do that, Sonic spin-dashed Brawn in the gut and made him drop Mandy. Sonic caught her in his arms before she could land on the floor and Brawn hurled backwards into the wall. Mandy gasped with relief.

"Oh thank you blue dude! I thought I was gonna be permanently disabled for a moment!" she shrieked.

"Good thing I stepped in at the right moment." said Sonic "Now then, I think we should take Brawn down together, you can't stop him yourself."

"I know." said Mandy "So let's…"

But before anything else could happen, something thundered into the room, its footsteps like an earthquake as it stampeded inside. It was Mace! He had freed all the captives and helped them take down, tie up and subdue all the guards and now he was here to stop Brawn. He had a feeling his strength would be needed for this one so he joined in the battle. He ran towards Brawn and walloped him into the machine with his mace. Brawn picked himself up after that blow which ended up sending him flying into the machine and breaking more of it and he glowered at Mace. He remembered that Sonic had told him Mace had switched sides, henceforth how he had managed to find Mandy and Kari. Now he could see for himself Mace had double-crossed him. He would have to deal with him for this.

"Mace…you dared to betray me. I will punish you for this…" he snarled.

"YOU are the one who deserves to be punished!" roared Mace "Your evil has gone on long enough and I'm ashamed I was ever a part of it!"

He ran towards Brawn and threw a punch at him. Brawn stepped to the side and he backhanded Mace across the face. He then roundhouse punched him twice in the jaw but Mace then grabbed Brawn by his vest and slammed him back first into the machine, picking him up one-handed with ease as if he weighed nothing. Mandy punched the air, cheering for Mace and happy to see him on the good side. Mace then slammed Brawn onto the floor and kicked him across it. Brawn picked himself up, clenching his metal teeth as Mace picked up the broken table Brawn had thrown at Mandy earlier. Mace slammed Brawn with it, the rotting wood splintering to pieces as it slammed against his tough body. Mace had a good chunk left of the table that he used to wallop Brawn's head with. Brawn staggered but he remained standing somehow and then Mace swung his trunk mace at Brawn. Brawn dodged the attack and the swinging mace missing its target caused Mace to overbalance, giving Brawn the perfect opportunity to run into him and grab him in a bear-hug. Mace however forced Brawn's arms off of himself and the two ended up with their hands gripping another and their arms fighting against each other, trying to push the other down onto the floor. Wilson decided to run and get some payback on Brawn for the kidnapping of his wife. He scampered on all fours towards Brawn and did one of the biggest dog stereotypes ever…he bit him on the bum! He sank his powerful teeth into Brawn's bottom and the rat screamed in pain. His bum was a sensitive area and hadn't got any internal cybernetics in it, meaning it was a weak spot for him just like his groin. Mace then ended up pulling Brawn forwards, throwing himself down onto his back and kicking Brawn into the wall face first. Brawn groaned an agonizing, ghoulish groan of pain but more pain was to come for him. Mace picked up Brawn and he tossed him into the air. Brawn screamed as he hurled through the air. Another scream came out of his lungs a split second after though for he ended up hitting something. Something sharp…something dangling on a chain…something that impaled him through the chest. He had landed on a hook! Mace had actually been aiming for the hook when he threw him and Brawn had landed smack on the hook. It impaled him in the chest and Brawn was left gasping and wincing as he fought for breath. His breath escaped him and his limbs fell limp, suggesting there was no life left in them. Brawn was finally dead. Here he dangled, impaled on a hook and hanging from a chain like a slaughtered pig in a butcher's shop. Kari felt sick and she instantly turned away from the sickening scene before her, Miranda hugging her comfortingly. Mandy cringed and Wilson put his arms around her to comfort her. Sonic just spin-dashed the chain and let Brawn's dead body fall to the floor with a thunk so that it didn't look so sickening anymore. Mace just glared at his body without a single expression on his face.

"It's done. He's finished. Good riddance." he muttered.

"I agree." said Mandy grimly, keeping her eyes off the hideous sight before her. She then looked at Mace and said "Thank you for joining our side."

"Aw you're welcome Mandy." said Mace cheerfully "I couldn't stand working for those rats anymore so I decided to rebel against them."

"And now Brawn's gone, he's going to join the R.F.S." said Sonic with a wink.

"Oh really? Cool!" cheered Mandy "Mace will be an excellent Royal Fighter! Oooh, I can just imagine him against Eggman now!" she added, grinning excitedly.

"Before that though we need to get the slaves out of here." said Espio "I think there's plenty of mice and rats down there begging for freedom."

"Hold on Es." said Mandy, holding up a hand dismissively "I need to make a speech first. A speech that will hopefully end this stupid rivalry between mine and Kari's races…"

With that said, Mandy limped out of the room and found herself on a platform that overlooked much of the working room. All the mice were standing in rows as if they were an audience waiting to see a performance on the stage. With them were the enslaved rats and they had all the members of The Exterminators bound up and defeated beside them, all 899 of them (Brawn's dead so there's only 899 left). The mice and rats all seemed to cheer at the sight of the Royal Fighters looking over them from the platform that loomed above them. They knew that they were the ones who had saved them and they were ecstatic to see them again. The crowd fell silent when Mandy held up a hand to signal for them to silence. The crowd held its breath and Mandy then spoke. The speech she had been formulating since she got here finally got the chance to be spoken.

"My fellow mice and rats, I am happy to announce that the oppressive leader of this organization is dead at last, his tyranny is no more and all you slaves may go free now." Mandy announced "But that is not the ONLY thing that's dying today. During my time in this hellhole I have come to realize that mice and rats are both endangered now and we're on the brink of extinction, BOTH of us! And who's to blame for this? We all are. We mice dared to be enemies with the rats and the rats dared to be enemies with the mice. Our rivalry has been going on since the dawn of time and it has gone on for TOO long. The rivalry is killing mice and rats everywhere and if we don't put an end to it…I'm afraid we'll all die out. So I, Mandy Mouse, member of the Royal Fighters Service, stand before you all with a solution to our problem. Mice and rats shouldn't be enemies, we should all be friends. We maybe different to each other but difference doesn't mean it's wrong. I've realized how wrong I was to hate rats and some rats out there realize it's wrong to hate mice. If we're to survive for the next generation, we mice and rats have to make peace with each other. We can learn to get along just nicely and the similarities between our races should be enough to convince either race that we can get along. If we make peace between our races, our numbers can escalate again and mice and rats will no longer be endangered. I say we should put an end to the rivalry and start anew…as Rodent Buddies. Please let this Rodent Rivalry end and let a Rodent Alliance rise up in its stead. That way, we will survive and our races won't die out."

The crowd fell silent as they took in the speech. The Exterminators members looked at each other and they decided on something.

"That speech is well-constructed and shows how bad we all are." said one guard.

"I'm with you on this one mouse-girl, we should be allies, not enemies." said another.

"From this day on, The Exterminators are now disbanded and all rats shall make peace with the mice." said a third guard.

"I second that!" cried a mouse slave.

"The Rodent Rivalry led to this so it's only logical we call it off." said another mouse.

"Mandy my dear, your speech is full of wisdom and heart." said Raleigh Stilton, the leader of the rat slaves "And I say we should go with the speech and end this rivalry!"

It seemed that the crowd had come to an agreement and with that, the crowd all roared back at Mandy "WE WILL MAKE PEACE AND END THE RIVALRY!" Mandy cheered happily, pleased her speech had been so moving and powerful that everybody had decided to call off the rivalry. The Rodent Rivalry was over, mice and rats all over could now live peacefully with each other. Two endangered species could soon climb back up out of the endangered category and their numbers could thrive once again. Mandy had put an end to a rivalry and made peace between two races. This was truly the best moment of her life. Wilson hugged Mandy in congratulations.

"Well done Mandy!" he exclaimed excitedly "You did it!"

"Now mice and rats and be friends and we don't have to hate each other anymore!" cried Kari ecstatically.

"I've gotta say Mandy, that was amazing." said Sonic "You sure you just made that up yourself?"

"I did indeed blue dude." said Mandy with a giggle "I'm amazed that it worked so well. So now this nightmare can end for good and mice and rats can live in peace. Maybe the rats can now build a better reputation for themselves…"

"I hope so." said Kari "It'll be nice to be accepted by the public again."

"Indeed." said Wilson "Now then…"

He then suddenly scooped Mandy up into his arms, lifting her up off the floor bridal style and holding her close to his body. Mandy wrapped her arms around Wilson's neck and shoulders and giggled.

"Wilson please, I can walk." she said.

"Nah Mandy, you deserve a rest." said Wilson "You've been through quite a lot and your leg's a little banged up. I insist I carry you home my darling wife."

"Aw…so sweet as always." giggled Mandy "OK gorgeous, you can carry me but don't think I'm letting you do this more often!" she added jokingly.

"I know precious, I know." laughed Wilson.

"Still though…I'm so glad to be in your arms again Wilson." said Mandy sweetly "I've missed you so much while I've been in here."

"I've missed you too Mandy." said Wilson "Having you back in my arms is the best thing that's happened today. When we get home, you can get out of those horrible rags and we'll have a lovely evening together, just the two of us."

"That's lovely Wilson." said Mandy with a smile "I can't wait to get home now. Before we go though, your little Mandy wants a little kiss…" she purred slyly, edging her lips towards Wilson's.

Wilson giggled and then he and Mandy locked lips with each other, deeply embracing and having a lovely tender moment between them. It sure did look very romantic with Wilson carrying Mandy in his arms bridal style and the two just kissing each other as if they hadn't kissed in ages. The crowd down below all awed in unison, finding the whole scene very cute and adorable. The Royal Fighters awed at this too, including Mace. Wilson and Mandy had been separated, but fate saw them back together and now they were together again, Wilson and Mandy were going to make sure that they never separated ever again…

Awwww...so adorable!

Well, that's the end of Endangered Species! Pity really, I was enjoying it. :(Oh well, when one good story ends, another begins. Join me next time for the countdown to crisis concludes with a "Sonic Date". The romantic couple? Sonic and Sally of course! Bet you can't wait for that...

So all my readers, yes, ALL my readers. How was Endangered Species as a whole? Feel free to tell me what you thought and leave a review or two on this chapter! :D

Quills and Acorns

Story 164: Quills and Acorns

Countdown to Crisis: 1

A whole week had passed since the whole affair with The Exterminators and already it felt like an eternity away for MandyMouse.

She had been kidnapped by The Exterminators and forced to suffer the worst day of her life. She had been forced to wear rags, forced to be a slave for Brawn the Rat, the leader of The Exterminators and a childhood enemy of Mandy's and found out that mice and rats were both endangered species and in desperate need of help. Mandy had managed to stave off the rivalry and potentially safe both races but there was still a bit to go. There were members of The Exterminators who had been arrested and weren't willing to call off the rivalry. Prison would keep them from doing anything to any mouse around though and Mandy rather coldly stated they could stay in prison for eternity unless they called off the rivalry. To her pleasure, they had agreed to disband the group after hearing that Brawn was now dead and the ones who hadn't been arrested had joined the truce. As for the mice in Adabat which had been prisoners of The Exterminators until Mandy, her husband Wilson the Dog and Team Adabat rescued them*, they were a bit unsure about the truce. They weren't willing to trust the rats still after what they did to them but they weren't going to be jerks about it. They would see how the rats go and then consider joining the truce. Mandy had hoped that her speech would have been widely accepted but to her disappointment, some mice and rats needed more encouragement. She was just happy the 100 mice and 100 rats that shared captivity with her were all too happy to call off the rivalry. It was a good start and it would hopefully get better over time. As of now, Mandy was having a lovely moment on the sofa with Wilson. Wilson lay on the sofa with Mandy lying on top of him. Mandy was no longer in the rags she had been forced to wear a week ago. She was wearing a green crop-top that exposed her belly (much to Wilson's delight) and a skimpy pair of shorts that showed off plenty of her curvaceous thighs. A belt was wrapped around her waist and it kept her shorts up. She wore nothing on her feet. Mandy loved to be barefoot on a normal day. Wilson was in casual wear too, wearing a black vest top, some blue jeans and a belt that kept them up. He had no shoes on for he was lying on the sofa and Mandy was quite strict about shoes on the sofa. They both closed their eyes and relaxed, enjoying each other's company. Wilson was stroking Mandy's belly softly with his fingers. He loved Mandy's slim, flat, sexy belly and was always happy to stroke it for her, especially since Mandy enjoyed it. Mandy had her head on Wilson's chest and she was listening to his heartbeat. She loved the sound of his heartbeat, it made her feel relaxed and at peace when she heard it. Because they had been separated, Wilson and Mandy had been making the most of every moment they had together now and they couldn't be happier now.

"Aaaah…this is the life isn't it?" asked Mandy "Just me and you enjoying each other's company and relaxing together. Pure bliss."

"Indeed my beautiful Mandy." purred Wilson "I couldn't think of anything better."

Mandy smiled brightly and she turned over onto her belly, facing Wilson and allowing the dog to now stroke her back. Mandy felt a tingle of joy as Wilson's fingers brushed down her back gently.

"Oooooh…that feels good." she sighed "You give me some lovely back-tickles you do."

"Thanks." said Wilson "Anything for the most beautiful woman I've ever met."

Mandy giggled and she gently stroked Wilson's face. Wilson loved it when Mandy did that, her fingers felt so wonderful gently stroking his face like that. Nobody had nicer hands than Mandy did.

"It's no wonder I missed you like crazy when I was in Brawn's captivity." said Mandy softly "You couldn't make me feel relaxed and content and without you by my side I just felt…vulnerable. Back in your arms, I feel like the happiest girl in the world, safe and content as any wife should feel with her husband."

"Indeed. You needn't ever worry about Brawn and his group anymore, they're gone now and the rodent rivalry is over." said Wilson "All that matters now is that you're back where you belong and that there's nothing to worry about anymore."

"Indeed my handsome hound dog." purred Mandy, leaning her head towards Wilson's and getting ready to kiss him "And this past week's just been wonderful, being with you and forgetting all about the horrors I was subjected to. I'm still thankful that you and the blue dude himself came to rescue me. I did try myself but still, I can't thank you enough for saving me from that horror."

"Mandy, you're more welcome than you can ever realize." said Wilson "You mean everything to me and I couldn't live my life if you weren't in it. You make my life worth living and I will never let you be taken out of it."

"Awwww…so charming and so flattering. I've always loved that about you." said Mandy, her face the embodiment of awe.

She then planted a loving kiss on her husband's lips. As far as Mandy as concerned, she would never tire of this and neither would Wilson. As they kissed, they began to stroke each other softly, adding more to the pleasure they were getting out of kissing and cuddling each other. Anyone would truly find this scene utterly adorable, even the most stone-faced of people. As they kissed and cuddled, they were unaware that someone was watching them. And that someone was Sonic the Hedgehog. He was passing by and had decided to look in through the window to see if Wilson and Mandy were in at all. He saw that they were in and he could see them making out with each other. Sonic was going to check up on them but seeing them kissing each other, he thought it'd be best to leave them in peace since they seemed so content right now. It'd be rude to disturb such a lovely moment between the couple. Yet Sonic couldn't help but adore the sight before him. He looked away from the window so people wouldn't think he was being nosy and he walked off.

"Aww…they're so cute together." said Sonic brightly "No wonder they got married. I can't ever picture them not being married now. And yet, seeing them getting so romantic with each other makes me kinda wish I wasn't so reluctant to try at love."

Sonic had tried dating Amy before and the dates hadn't really gone very well…not very well at all so Sonic had been distancing himself from relationships and indeed, love as a whole. Yet, Queen Sally Acorn joining the Royal Fighters as both a royal AND a fighter seemed to change all that. He had found himself growing feelings for her and Sally had even suggested he could give love a chance. Over time he found himself more and more infatuated towards Sally and he thought now would be a good time to give love a chance. He was going to take Sally on a date and see how things went. He hoped that things went well otherwise he would be very reluctant to try love again.

"Now then…I wonder where Sally is?" mused Sonic "I hope she's still in the castle so I can ask her out. I'm sure she will be."

With that said, Sonic headed off towards Castle Acorn. Just as he ran off, Amy Rose passed by and she saw Sonic running off towards Castle Acorn. She had been hoping to ask Sonic if he was free for a date at all but she had been too late. He had run off. Amy wondered what was going on.

"Hmm, Sonic's running to Castle Acorn." she mused "I wonder what he's up to? I'll follow him so I can ask him is he free for a date tonight once he's done in the castle."

So Amy decided to run off after Sonic and see what was going on. She would live to regret it though for Sonic would be free for a date tonight and Amy wasn't the lucky girl he'd be taking out…

"Do you, Mace the Elephant, swear on the blood of your species and the will of the good people of New Mobotropolis that you will serve faithfully as a Royal Fighter and help contribute in anyway to the downfall of any enemy that seeks to take our peace, happiness and freedom away?" asked Queen Sally Acorn as she held a huge sword just above Mace's shoulders.

"I swear." replied Mace, the elephant down on one knee before Sally as she did the process.

"Then rise up Mace the Elephant." said Sally, lightly touching Mace's shoulders with her sword as if she was giving him a knighthood.

After Sonic, Wilson, Team Chaotix and Mace returned home with Mandy and Team Nekronopolis returned to their home with Kari, Sonic had briefed Sally in on the entire adventure they had had, including Mace and his dilemma with his family and life of poverty. Sally had taken pity on Mace and was all too happy to accept him as a Royal Fighter. She too was impressed by how powerful and strong he looked and thought that Mace would make a very good Royal Fighter. It had taken a week to finally get Mace accepted because there were duties Sally had to deal with that took some time off her hands, especially when it came to cleaning up after what Blizzard had done and Mace had been helping out with the mice and rats getting back home safely. Now both were free so Sally could finally get Mace all signed up for the R.F.S. Mace was all too happy to have been accepted into the group and was looking forward to working for good people which would more than make up for working for Brawn and The Exterminators. Mace got up to his feet, now towering over Sally, and he shook hands with her.

"You have no idea how thrilled I am to be accepted your majesty." said Mace happily "After being part of The Exterminators, the first thing I began wishing for was that I had picked a job with good people in it. Now I'm one of you. This is more than enough to make up for what I did for Brawn and his goons."

"Indeed so Mace." said Sally "I can't thank you enough for helping Sonic save Mandy and Kari. I hate to think of my fellow Royal Fighters captured and held against their will. The Royal Fighters should remain united and should never be separated."

"So true." said Mace "And I was all too happy to bring Mandy and Kari back to the R.F.S. They did not deserve their captivity at all. After all the good they've done along with the other Royal Fighters, they deserve their freedom."

"I couldn't have said that better myself." said Sally brightly "Now then, as a reward for your heroism, take this bag of gold and split it out evenly with your family." she added, handing Mace an enormous sack of Mobiums that seemed very heavy for her to carry due to how much money was in it "This should get them out of poverty for a while until their lives can be balanced and they can live in civilized society full time."

Mace took the bag of money, which weighed nothing to him, and he looked inside. There were more Mobiums than he could possibly count in the bag. There was enough money in the bag to keep the family financially independent for a month or two! Mace would make sure this bag of money didn't go to waste that was for sure. Mace stared at Sally and then smiled as if this was the nicest thing that's ever happened to him.

"Why your majesty…I don't know what to say." he said.

"You're welcome Mace." said Sally cheerfully "Heroism is to be rewarded, that's my motto."

"A very good one indeed." said Mace "I'll go home and deliver this to my family immediately. If you ever want to find me, I live in a small village in Mazuri. It's a country that's blazing hot, has big plains and deserts and is full of Mobians like me, you can't miss it."

"I'm fully aware where Mazuri is Mace." said Sally "I have an Atlas in the library and I spend a lot of time reading it and memorizing where all the countries are."

"That's good." said Mace "Well, I'll see you later then. I also wish to do some catching up with my family as well as deliver this money so I'll be gone awhile. Maybe a couple of days at best."

"OK then Mace, see you later." said Sally.

Mace slung the money over his shoulder and he walked off out of the throne room. The moment Mace left, Sally sat back down on the throne and thought to herself on a few things. She had recently discovered that her father, the late King Max, wasn't the man she thought he was. Blizzard had looked in his journal and read an entry which detailed how anxious he was about her escape and how he assumed Blizzard would get her cult to exact revenge on the Kingdom of Acorn for how she had been treated. Thus, he had taken some guards with him and hoped to arrest the entire cult to prevent such a coup de tat. The result ended up with them being killed and now Blizzard knows about this, her desire to conquer the kingdom was more extreme and personal than ever before. It pained Sally to think that her glorious kingdom had single-handedly wrecked the life of a dangerous enemy who wouldn't even BE an enemy to begin with if none of this had ever happened. Blizzard had said it herself that she would have just gone home to Holoska and forget about the Kingdom of Acorn. Then King Max came alone and ruined all that by killing her cult and driving her insane. Sally was running a corrupted kingdom and she was all too determined to fix its twisted image. She had started with burning the journal. A four days ago, she had taken King Max's journal and tossed it onto the fireplace, eliminating any evidence that Blizzard could make against the Kingdom of Acorn and prove her point on King Max's actions. Now people would assume she was pointing fingers for no reason and Sally's popularity wouldn't be in jeopardy. It would take a bit more than that though. Sally would have to rule like a good queen and make sure she never did anything bad like her father did. It was going to be stressful and tough but Sally was determined not to let herself or her kingdom down. She was going to give it its good image back and she wasn't going to let anything tie her down.

"I'll make this kingdom worth ruling again." Sally said to herself "That is a promise. Nobody will know what you did dad and this kingdom will still be beloved and honourable. Our image will never be tarnished again…"

Her thoughts were soon disturbed for she heard a knock at the door. Sally snapped back into reality and she cleared her throat.

"Ahem…come in." she said quickly.

She assumed it was Nicole or a fellow Royal Fighter wishing to see her right now. She got the pleasure of her life when the door opened for Sonic the Hedgehog walked into the room, wearing his usual trademark smile and looking as optimistic and carefree as always. Sally admired that about Sonic. How somebody with burdens heavier than even hers can be so optimistic and cheerful for so long truly mystified her and yet made him so admirable at the same time. No wonder she had been falling in love with him over time. Sally leaped up to her feet in joy and she ran over to Sonic. Sonic and Sally embraced each other, happy to be seeing each other after being apart for a while due to recent events and picking up the pieces of said events. It was the first time in a week that the two had been able to see each other properly. Unbeknownst to the couple, Amy was outside and watching them through the window, poking around the corner to make sure nobody could see her. Amy's immediate reaction upon seeing the embracing couple was a screwed-up face of bewilderment.

"Wow, Sonic's allowed to just hug the queen like that? Is he really that big a hero he's allowed to embrace royalty?" she said to herself "One would think you couldn't do that. And what's the deal? It's not like they're in love or anything."

Amy shook it off and continued to watch, curious to see what was going to happen in the throne room with Sonic and Sally. The embracing obviously meant they were pleased to see each other and Amy always loved it when people were friendly towards each other. It made her feel good to see good friendships between people. Sonic and Sally stopped hugging each other and Sonic began speaking first.

"Hey Sal, how's it going?" asked Sonic.

"It's going beautifully thank you." said Sally brightly "I've just made Mace a Royal Fighter. He's officially on our team now and I'm really happy about that. He's just gone back home to deliver a sack of money I gave him as a reward for helping to save Mandy and Kari, we won't be seeing him for a few days."

"That's nice." said Sonic "I really do say that the poor guy deserves our sympathies. Poverty really does suck for anyone who has to live a life of it and poor Mace ended up having to do something bad just to get some money for his family. Well, he's doing something good for money now and I bet he's going to love life with us."

"I bet he is too." said Sally "So Sonic, what brings you here then?"

"Well I just wanted to see how my beautiful queen was doing so I thought I'd pop over and say "hi"." said Sonic "And I also wanted to ask you something too."

"Oh really?" said Sally, the tone of surprise in her voice as evident as it could be "What may I ask would you like to ask me then?"

Now came the moment Sonic had been looking forward to yet wondering if he'd be able to bring himself to finally ask the big question that any boy who loves a girl could ask. Sonic swallowed nervously and he held Sally's hands as he tried to bring himself to ask the question. He came close before, he would succeed this time.

"Sally…um…I would be really happy if you would…uh…" Sonic stammered as he tried to make his lips form those words.

"Wait, is this something you wanted to ask me before Roxy came in and informed us of Dark and Kiara's disappearance?" asked Sally slyly, somehow guessing what Sonic might be wanting to ask her.

"Uh…yes actually." said Sonic, sweat-dropping nervously and chuckling shyly.

"In that case, I think I know what you want to ask me." said Sally "You want to know if I want to go on a date with you don't you?"

"Why yes, yes I do." said Sonic, pleased that Sally had managed to guess so now he didn't need to ask the question "That was exactly what I was going to ask. Are you free to go on a date with me tonight?"

"I am indeed my handsome hero." said Sally seductively "I've been looking forward to the day you'd finally ask."

"Well Sally, I can't say much else other than "I'm glad you want to go on a date with me"." said Sonic happily "How does tonight sound?"

"Tonight sounds wonderful." said Sally "Where shall we have this date?"

"I think the park sounds nice." said Sonic "We'll get a takeout meal from Chuck's Diner, take it to the park to eat and then just enjoy the night."

"That sounds like a wonderful idea." said Sally, embracing Sonic again "I can't wait for our date tonight."

"I look forward to it too Sally." said Sonic, stroking Sally's hair and grinning happily over the fact Sally had accepted his offer. He was now the happiest hedgehog in the world at this moment.

Amy could only stare in horror through the window at Sonic and Sally. She had overheard everything and she was completely destroyed to hear that Sonic was not in fact going to date her, instead he was going to date Sally. Amy had been hoping to date Sonic again after two interrupted outings but all hopes of another date had been shattered in a matter of moments. Sonic loved somebody else and was going on a date with somebody else. Amy was frozen in shock, unable to move for a moment. Deep inside, she could feel her heart breaking in two like a glass falling off the table and onto the floor. She collapsed down onto her knees and she felt tears coming to her eyes. Her whole world felt like a broken mirror, shattered and crumbling to pieces as it came down with a slam onto the floor. It seemed like everything just stopped for a minute until finally, Amy breathed again. She began to breathe slowly and then start mumbling unintelligible babble to herself. Then she regained herself, her eyes streaming with tears, as she commiserated over this development.

"Sonic…wants to go…out with…Sally?!" she squeaked "He…he doesn't love me after all…oh I should have known Sonic wouldn't love me! He made it clear since day one he wasn't interested in me! I really shouldn't have been so annoying and fan-girly towards him! Oh how I want Sonic for my own and now all my hopes and dreams are shattered before my eyes!"

Amy looked back through the window and she fixed her eyes onto Sonic and Sally, the two still embracing each other. Amy seriously felt like breaking through the window and beating Sally to a bloody pulp right now.

"Look at that smug Queen Sally, hugging my Sonic like he's her own!" she grumbled "Oooooh I could just march in there and… and…"

Amy then suddenly began to realize something. As she watched Sonic and Sally hugging each other and smiling happily, she began to feel something else. Something she had never felt before. Appreciation and acceptance for others. She was finding herself beginning to accept this turnout. It felt weird for her to feel this way but at the same time, Amy knew that accepting the turnout would be better than letting it bother her. Her expression relaxed and her nerves calmed down. Her tone of voice seemed to relax too.

"Oh what am I saying?" she sighed to herself "What am I saying? They look SO wonderful together! How could I possibly break up such a lovely couple? That would be so selfish of me!"

Amy stopped looking out of the window and she slumped against the wall on the grass beneath her feet.

"I couldn't bear the thought of being selfish." Amy said to herself "Being selfish is horrible and Sonic certainly wouldn't love me if I just threw a hissy fit over the fact he's dating Sally and not me. I can't break them up, even if I do wish Sonic was going out with me instead. Besides, if I truly love Sonic as much as I claim I do…I would LET him choose the girl he wants. That's the right thing to do. If Sonic wants Sally then I should be a good friend and let him. If I can't be Sonic's girlfriend then I'll happily be his friend. Also I wish for Sonic to be happy, and Sally's going to make him VERY happy indeed. So bottom line, I won't be a brat over this."

She stood up again and looked through the window. She saw Sonic and Sally waving bye to each other and Sonic walking out of the throne room while Sally walked back over to the throne and sat on it, clearly delighted over the fact Sonic was wishing to date her. Amy just smiled, knowing exactly how Sally felt right now.

"Oh Sally, I know exactly how happy you're feeling now." she sighed "All the more reason why I can't possibly keep her and Sonic from dating. I got the joy of dating Sonic so why shouldn't Sally? And you know what…I think I'll even HELP make this date perfect for them!"

Amy had to resist the urge to go gaga over the idea in fear of getting spotted and having to explain herself.

"Oh yes, oh yes, oh yes! It's the perfect idea!" she squeaked excitedly through clenched teeth, her smile as big as her head nearly "I'll drop a suggestion or two, without them knowing it's me of course, and if they take them, it'll be the best date ever! And I'll be the one to see it in all its romantic glory! Oh yes, I can't wait until tonight!"

The excitement that pulsed through Amy's bloodstream was enough to make her go mental. Amy could just picture the date now and she was very excited on how it would go. Her ideas to make the date even grander would be worth the watch. Tonight was going to be a night to remember and Amy could hardly wait…

As time began to tick away and the night of a lifetime was growing ever closer, Sonic sat in his living room and started reading some comic books of his to pass the time. Sonic found comic books to be the only real books he'd ever sit down and read for a minute. He particularly enjoyed this particular comic he was reading because it was a comic about him and the Royal Fighters, this time called "Freedom Fighters" since the makers of the comic thought it sounded better. The comic itself was merely titled "Sonic the Hedgehog" and had a very catchy tagline "The World's Most Way Past Cool Comic!". It certainly was in Sonic's eyes. While not entirely based on his real life and having some slight differences, Sonic felt this comic did him a lot of justice and it always amused him to see how the makers portrayed him. To his pleasure, they always got him right. Sonic was now on the 225th issue of the comic and he had just gotten to the end of it. The comic had ended on a very intense cliff hanger and he could hardly wait to start the next one. He put the comic down and he picked up the next issue he had on him.

"Man these writers now how to keep them coming don't they?" he said to himself "What an ending to that issue! I just hope that the real Eggman never tries something like that…"

He opened up the next issue and was ready to start reading until he heard the sound of a letter coming through his letter box. Sonic put the comic down and he walked over to his front door.

"Oooh, I got a letter. Shouldn't be surprised given the amount of fan mail I receive on a regular basis." said Sonic, picking up the letter "Wonder who it's from?"

Sonic looked at the letter and to his surprise, there was no name on it. It's clear the sender wished to remain anonymous. Sonic shrugged. Sometimes fans went under pseudonyms, pen names or didn't put a name on letters they sent to him so this wasn't suspicious at all. Sonic opened the letter and he read it. To his surprise, the letter came with another piece of paper attached to it. The letter said:

Dear Sonic the Hedgehog,

I am someone you know and I am sending you this letter to tell you this. I am someone who is an expert on how to have the perfect date. If you are having a date with someone then here's something that never fails. This letter comes with a sheet of dancing instructions. A dance is something that all women love and if you give your date a good dance, you are guaranteed to have a good night. Trust me, a dance never fails. Hope this advice makes your date a date to remember!

Signed Roy Same

P.S. There's something on your doorstep that is essen tial to a date.

Sonic could only stare incredulously at the letter. Who was Roy Same? He claimed to be "someone he knew" but Sonic couldn't remember anybody named Roy Same, let alone meeting somebody with that name! Regardless, he seemed to be wanting to give Sonic advice on how to be a good date and given he was going to have a date with Sally tonight, he may as well take this advice. He looked at the dancing instructions on the back of the letter. They gave him many instructions on various tango steps and how to dance well. He wouldn't learn them all so soon but maybe Sally would know how to dance and give him some more ideas so he wouldn't mess up. Sonic also took note of the "P.S." note at the bottom of the letter. Had Roy Same left something on the doorstep for him to give to Sally or something? Only one way to find out. Sonic opened the door and to his surprise, he saw a huge bouquet of roses sitting on his doorstep. The roses had a wonderful scent that made Sonic's nose dance with joy as the pleasant aroma drifted up into his nostrils and the wrapping they were contained in was very nice, being a nice mixture of pink and red to go with the roses. There was a tag on the roses saying "To a very special person, a person I love so much. That person is you my wonderful…" and there was a blank space where you could presumably write a name in the space. Sonic picked up the bouquet, still taken aback by it coming out of nowhere. Still though, it was awfully nice of Roy Same to just leave the bouquet on the doorstep for him to give to Sally. He could hardly wait to see Sally's face when he presented it to her. He would tell a bit of a lie, say that he brought the roses himself and that the dancing was his idea. Sonic smiled to himself.

"Well this "Roy Same" guy sure is giving me some helpful ideas on how to make a good date." said Sonic "I hope Sally likes this. And I hope we dance OK…" he added, looking at the dance instructions he had in his other hand "I'll just try and follow these as best as I can. I will say though something seems familiar around here. The pink and red wrapping of the bouquet and the fact the flowers are roses…is Roy Same trying to hint at something here?"

He began wondering if Roy Same was thinking of Amy Rose and was thinking on helping him have a date with her. While he wasn't dating Amy, least his efforts wouldn't go to waste for Sally would enjoy them too. Sonic shrugged and he closed his door behind him. Unbeknownst to him, Amy had been watching from around the corner of his house and she giggled to herself, pleased to see her beautiful plan was working.

"Sonic bought the letter and has taken my little ideas for the date! Yes!" cheered Amy "This is SO gonna be awesomely romantic! I will say, it was amazing how I just re-arranged the letters in my name to make up that alias for the letter. Good thing Sonic isn't super bright otherwise he'd have caught on. I hope all goes well now I've contributed to the date of a lifetime…"

She began to fawn dreamily as she pictured the big event that she was dying to see tonight. The roses and the dancing would certainly liven things up and Amy still had some more little things to make this a date to remember…

Meanwhile in Castle Acorn, Sally had relayed the news to her best friend Nicole the Lynx. Given how going on a date with Sonic was such a big deal, she just HAD to let her best friend know about it more than anyone else. Needless to say, Nicole was ecstatic over this.

"Oh my gosh, you're going on a date with Sonic?!" squealed Nicole happily, grasping Sally in a big bear hug excitedly "Oh Sally I'm so happy to hear that!"

"Thanks Nicole." said Sally weakly as Nicole squeezed her tightly.

Nicole let go of Sally and she started immediately throwing suggestions for the date.

"Oh Sally, this will be the best night of your life I bet!" she piped "We should pick out a nice dress for you, have you wear plenty of make-up for that will make your beauty shine and…"

"Nicole, please, please! It's not a serious date!" laughed Sally uneasily "Me and Sonic are just starting off small for the first date! We're just having dinner at Uncle Chuck's and having a nice evening in the park! No need to dress smartly or fancily or anything."

"Oh OK then." said Nicole "I do have to say that starting off small is a good way to go about a first date. And I do hope that you and Sonic have a good time tonight Sally."

"We will Nicole." said Sally reassuringly "And maybe I'll finally confess to Sonic that I love him."

Nicole grinned from ear to ear upon hearing that.

"Aww…you love Sonic? That's even better!" she cried with glee "This date's going to be one to remember I bet!"

"Yeah it will…but what if Sonic doesn't love me in return?" asked Sally nervously "I can't bear to think that I admit my love for him and then he says to me "Thanks Sally but I don't love you" or something like that…"

"Sally, don't you dare think that!" said Nicole sternly, putting her hands on her friend's shoulders "Sonic was the one who asked for this date in the first place right? So if he was the one to ask, he must surely love you just like you love him. And besides, who wouldn't love somebody as kind, brave, selfless and caring as you?"

Sally could hardly help blushing at that remark. No wonder Nicole was her best friend, she knew how to comfort her when she was having doubts.

"You're right. Thanks Nicole." said Sally gratefully.

"Anything for the best friend in the world." said Nicole, hugging Sally kindly "And you know what Sally? I hope I find the right man for me someday too."

"I'm sure you will Nicole." said Sally supportively "And he maybe somebody who lives close to us in this very city."

"Maybe." said Nicole "We'll just have to see what…"

Her attention was diverted by the sound of someone knocking on the door. Sally hurried over to the door and she opened it. To her surprise, there was nobody there except for a letter lying on the doorstep. Sally picked up the letter and she opened it. She read the letter and was a little surprised at what the letter said. Nicole approached Sally, wondering what the letter was saying.

"Sally? What is it?" she asked.

"I dunno." said Sally "Some guy named "Roy Same" is giving me some dating advice in this letter. Suggesting that a fancy restaurant would be a good place to eat on a good date. That's kinda weird, it's like he somehow knew I was going on a date tonight…"

"Well maybe he's one of those people who likes to give dating advice." suggested Nicole "Maybe it's just a coincidence he gave you a letter like that on a day you're having a date. I suggest following the advice, might make the date even better."

Sally looked at the letter again and began to think Nicole could be right. Even though they were starting small, a fancy restaurant didn't sound like a bad idea at all. After all, this was a date and quality food would make it even better. And she knew just the place to go to.

"You know Nicole, I think I'll go with this letter's idea." said Sally "Me and Sonic will eat at a fancy restaurant tonight instead of Uncle Chuck's. And I know just the place for that…"

Unbeknownst to Sally, Amy was listening outside a nearby window and she was pleased to hear that Sally was taking her letter's advice. Now that Sonic and Sally had gotten her letters and were going to follow the advice on them, all she could do was wait for tonight to come and see what happens…

Tonight finally came and Sonic arrived at Castle Acorn. His stomach was in corkscrews right about now and he was amazed that despite how nervous he felt, he was still able to go through with this. It really seemed strange to Sonic that he was nervous about going on a date yet potentially life-threatening situations were just a walk in the park for him. If he was feeling this nervous already then he didn't want to imagine what he'd be feeling like on the day he ever got married! But Sonic didn't need to think about that yet. He was just having a date with Sally Acorn and that's all there was to it. Sonic hid the bouquet behind his back and he knocked on the grand door that loomed above him. He waited patiently for a minute until the door opened and there stood Queen Sally Acorn. A rather pleasant scent hung around her. Sally had been putting on plenty of perfume just for the sake of smelling nice and Sonic had to admit, she smelt like lavender and petunias. A very beautiful combo indeed. Sally smiled a beautiful smile at Sonic. Seeing Sally smile instantly made Sonic feel more comfortable and less nervous. Amazing what a simple smile from the girl you love can do.

"Hello handsome, are we ready for our date?" purred Sally, her voice making Sonic feel warm and fuzzy all of the sudden.

"Why yes we are my beautiful queen." said Sonic "Before we start though, I have something for you."

He then presented the bouquet to Sally. Sally gasped at the sight of the beautiful, blossomed red roses all bunched together in the pink and red wrapping that Sonic held out for her. Sally took the bouquet and sniffed it eagerly.

"Oh Sonic, this is wonderful! Thank you so much!" he cried "These will look wonderful in the throne room."

"You're welcome Sal." said Sonic with a dashing grin on his cheeky face "And to think I got those just out of the kindness of my heart for you. So, shall we get our evening meal then?"

"Of course." said Sally, putting her arm around Sonic's arm "But there's been…a change of plan. We're not going to Uncle Chuck's diner for dinner. I thought of something a bit more…fancy."

"Oh." said Sonic, surprised to hear this. Did Roy Same visit Sally and give her some ideas for this date? This was going to be interesting. "Where are we eating then?" he asked curiously.

"We are eating at Chez Antoine's." said Sally "Said to be the best place in New Mobotropolis for a romantic dinner. After that, we will go to the park and enjoy the night."

"Oh we will indeed Sally." said Sonic, walking off with Sally by his side "Especially since I've got something to spice this date up. How do you feel about a little dancing?" he said, his grin ever more charming as he smiled at Sally.

"Dancing? Why I love a bit of dancing." said Sally happily "Didn't think you were one to dance though."

"Well one could say something came over me in the day." said Sonic, mostly telling the truth from a certain standpoint given Roy Same's letter "I hope you enjoy it."

"With the Hero of Mobius as my dancing partner, I will relish every minute of our dance." purred Sally happily.

That gave Sonic some hope that the dance would turn out alright. Sonic and Sally walked off down the path and started heading for Chez Antoine's. It would be a first for Sonic since he'd never eaten there before. He was sure it was a good restaurant and that he and Sally would have a lovely meal there. As they walked away, they were under the watchful eye of the excitable and dippy Amy Rose unbeknownst to the two. She was hiding in a bush nearby the castle. Amy had a smile on her face that was so wide you'd think she was trying to impersonate The Joker. The excitement she was feeling right now was so much she was amazed she hadn't burst yet.

"Eee hee hee! This is going so well so far!" she giggled "Sally likes the roses and she's taking Sonic to the fancy restaurant I recommended to her in the letter I gave her! I love it when a plan comes together. Now I'll leave them to have their meal in peace while I wait for them to come to the park where I'll set up some other surprises I have in store for the two…"

With that said, Amy sneaked out of the bush and she ran off to the park, giggling like a little school girl who's done something naughty to the teacher.

An hour had passed since Sonic and Sally had left for dinner and now finally, it was time for them to go to the park. While at the restaurant, they both had a beautiful dinner of steak (served medium) and chips with organic peas on the side smothered in gravy. They had enjoyed their meal but the most enjoyable thing about the meal had been just sitting together talking to one another. They had chatted about many things including how much they longed for a free Mobius and how lovely life could be when there was no evil plans to foil. Sonic even lamented on how for once, he was on a date and things seemed to be going well. Made him wonder if Amy was cursed or something since last two dates he'd tried with her, they hadn't gone well. First time Eggman blew up the restaurant they had gone to and then kidnapped him, second time they had to be interrupted because of a jailbreak that Ginger had started. Here now, everything was going swimmingly and Sonic couldn't be happier. He just hoped Amy wouldn't know about this, she'd die of jealousy if that was the case. After their dinner had been finished, Sonic and Sally had paid the bill and now they had left Chez Antoine's to go to the park. They were walking arm-in-arm as before and they were really enjoying each other's company. As they walked, Sonic began to feel happy inside. Happy that he had decided to give love a chance after all. He had been a fool to try and avoid it and now here he was, really enjoying himself and having a lovely time with the one girl who he considered more worth hanging out with than Amy. In fact, he felt more comfortable with Sally than Amy since Sally wasn't as clingy, obsessive and overly excitable. Thus, Sonic had been able to enjoy this date without being embarrassed by Amy's behaviour. As Sonic looked at Sally, he began to wonder if she was the right girl for him after all. It certainly was looking that way so far. After a few minutes of walking, Sonic and Sally had arrived at the park. There was a little pond that sparkled in the shining moonlight that hung up above, shedding the only real light around in the dark sky of the night. The moon was crescent shaped and yet still looked wonderful. Sally looked up at the moon and sighed dreamily.

"It's so beautiful tonight." she said "I really think we picked a good night to have this date."

"I certainly agree on that Sally." said Sonic "Although the most beautiful thing of the night is standing right beside me right now." he added slyly.

Sally blushed at that comment, flattered to hear Sonic say that.

"Heh, heh. How does one as reckless and fast-moving as you manage to say something so romantic one has to wonder." she giggled teasingly.

"Guess I'm better at stuff like this when I'm not moving at the speed of sound." chuckled Sonic with a shrug.

"Heh, I have a feeling that there's a new side to you when you're not moving so fast." said Sally jokingly "Is Slow Sonic a lot more down to earth than Fast Sonic?"

Sonic could hardly keep himself from laughing at that.

"I guess he is." he chuckled "So Sally, shall we dance?"

"Yes, let's." said Sally "But none of us brought any music to dance to."

"No need for that, we can just imagine the music." suggested Sonic "Make up our own little tunes as we dance. Our heads will be the radios in this case."

"I think that sounds like a nice idea." said Sally.

Before they could start dancing though, a swarm of fireflies suddenly came out of nowhere and illuminated the park all around the dating couple. The fireflies danced around the night sky, shining light everywhere and making the already beautiful night look even more beautiful. Their lovely lights gave off a bright, loving glow that made Sonic and Sally feel warm and at peace. The fireflies were Amy's idea. She was watching from behind a bush and had brought three jars full of them. She had been busy trying to catch most of them this afternoon and her hard work was paying off. Even Amy was dazzled by the fireflies as they danced around, shining their beautiful lights and setting a warm atmosphere for the dating couple. Sonic and Sally stared in wonder at the fireflies, marvelled by their beauty.

"Wow…look at them. The fireflies are really beautiful tonight." said Sally, pointing at them "Don't they look wonderful Sonic?"

"They sure do Sal." said Sonic "Their glowing lights are amazing. Sets the mood brilliantly I think."

"I wonder if they knew what we were up to and are just helping create the atmosphere for us." joked Sally "Well then, shall we dance?"

"Indeed we shall…wait, look what we've got here." said Sonic suddenly, looking to his right.

There was a bright yellow flower lying on the ground nearby and Sonic picked it up. Amy had put it there in hopes that one of them would see it and maybe present it as a gift. Amy watched excitedly as Sonic observed the flower and he sniffed it. She could hardly wait to see what he'd do with it. Sonic smiled at the flower's pleasant smell and then he looked over at Sally.

"This is nice." said Sonic "And I know just where to put it."

With that said, he put it in Sally's hair just above her left ear. Sally beamed happily at this and Sonic stepped back to admire her.

"It suits you." said Sonic "You're my blossoming flower Sally."

"Aww, you're too kind Sonic." giggled Sally flatteringly "What made you think of putting the flower in my hair then?"

"I've seen many guys do that to girls so I thought I'd give it a shot." said Sonic casually "Now then, shall we dance?"

"Be my guest true blue." said Sally, positioning Sonic's right hand on her waist and taking his left hand into hers while her right hand rested on his shoulder.

Amy fought to keep herself contained as the dancing was about to begin. This was the moment she had been waiting for. She just hoped Sonic had studied the instructions enough to do the dancing right. Or at the most, get some moves right. Sonic smiled nervously as he and Sally started to do a gentle bit of waltzing. In their heads, they were imagining some romantic tunes of different melodies that helped them get into the rhythm. The two waltzed around for a bit, Sonic finding himself getting into the rhythm a little, but then Sonic accidentally stepped on Sally's foot. Sally resisted the urge to cry "ow!" but her face winced so Sonic instantly knew he'd done something wrong.

"Oh my gosh! I'm sorry, I'm not much of a dancer…" he quickly exclaimed.

"It's OK Sonic, first time's always the hardest." said Sally kindly "Besides, I've had worse pain before."

"OK." said Sonic sheepishly.

The two continued to waltz, the fireflies dancing around them and illuminating them as they danced. Amy watched as Sonic and Sally slowly waltzed and Sally even did a pirouette. She raised her leg and spun around on her foot, looking like a graceful ballet dancer as she did so. Sonic liked that so he tried it to…resulting in him falling over and Sally catching him before he could land down on his back. Laughing half embarrassedly, Sonic stood back up and he and Sally tried some tango steps. Sonic found himself fumbling a little and nearly stepping on Sally's feet again but he managed to steady himself and keep that from happening. Then Sonic tried something that many dancers did with their partners. He tipped Sally back a little, making sure he didn't drop her, and Sally giggled a little. She had been mostly expecting Sonic to do that. Sonic raised her back up and then he lifted her up slightly. While not really a dance move, Sonic wanted to do this anyway: he twirled around with Sally hoisted up off her feet. Sally laughed with joy as Sonic did that. Amy starred open-mouthed with awe as Sonic did that. As much as she wished that was her he was doing this to, it was really wonderful to watch. Sonic put Sally back down and the two now stood in front of each other, Sonic's arms around Sally's waist and Sally's hands on Sonic's shoulders and their eyes half-closed as they stared lovingly into each other's eyes. Their smiles were so wide that it was a miracle they could still fit on their faces.

"This has been the most wonderful night of my life." said Sally softly "Thank you so much for such a wonderful date Sonic."

"Anything for the most beautiful woman in New Mobotropolis." said Sonic, slipping his fingers under Sally's vest and stroking her back.

Sally sighed contently, enjoying the feeling that tingled up her spine as Sonic stroked her back.

"You're such a charmer when you want to be." purred Sally "So, have you always thought that about me?" she asked curiously.

"Well I've always thought you were beautiful." said Sonic "Even before the day I saved you I thought you were beautiful. And now as I spend more and more time with you, I truly realize how beautiful you really are. And also seeing that awesome personality of yours for myself just makes you more beautiful."

Sally was blushing so much that it was amazing her entire face hadn't gone red yet.

"Th…thank you." she giggled "I'm so glad to hear that. And you know what Sonic?"

"What?" asked Sonic, taking his hands from Sally's back and stroking her lovely, auburn hair. It felt lovely between his fingers as he stroked it.

"Ever since the day Eggman kidnapped me on his first day here and you rescued me from him…I've been amazed by your heroism, selflessness and courage." said Sally, stroking Sonic's quills softly "I knew from the day you saved me that you were a good person, even if you loved arguing with my parents. As time went by, I found myself more and more drawn to you and I began to wish that I could join you. After the Devatrons invaded, I began to consider becoming more active in the battlefield, especially at the moment me and Nicole had to defend you from Devion while you were comatose. Then after the Black Arms, I decided it truly was time for me to change and now here I am, a Royal Fighter who is both Royal AND a fighter. But you know what? If you hadn't been there to inspire me like you have done, I would still be sitting cooped up in my castle right now. I can't thank you enough for inspiring me so much to be more like my fellow Royal Fighters and to be a queen who can do more than just rule a kingdom. You truly have made me a much stronger person than ever before Sonic and I hope you realize how grateful I am for that."

"Sally, I'm just honoured that the ruler of my home city was inspired to become a fighter by me and my friends. The fact I've helped you get to this stage is the most honourable thing I think I've ever done." said Sonic, lightly running his fingers down Sally's face.

Amy was just awed at all the lovely stuff Sonic and Sally were saying to each other. No wonder they seemed so perfect for each other, Sonic had been a big inspiration for Sally and Sally becoming stronger was appealing to Sonic. She was definitely pleased she didn't break them up now. As for Sally, she smiled at what Sonic said and she put both her hands on Sonic's shoulders again.

"I'm glad you think that my honourable hero." said Sally "Oh Sonic…"

She pulled Sonic a little closer and she whispered into his ear the three words Sonic was hoping to hear from her: "I love you."

Sonic nearly fainted with surprise over hearing Sally say that to him. Sonic stared at Sally with a big smile on his face. Amy didn't hear what Sally had said but judging from Sonic's reaction, she guessed Sally might have said "I love you" to him.

"W-wow…th-thanks Sally." said Sonic "You know what? I love you too."

Sally smiled with pleasure and the two leaned their heads forward. Sally wrapped her arms tightly around Sonic's shoulders and neck and Sonic wrapped his arms tightly around Sally's waist, forming a loving embrace that made them both feel at harmony with each other. Then came the moment Amy had been waiting for. Their lips locked, their eyes closed and they deeply kissed each other. As they kissed, a wonderful sensation tingled between them and they felt very lovely indeed. As they kissed, Sally strokes Sonic's quills and Sonic strokes Sally's back. They were kissing quite passionately as if they were really enjoying this and wanted it to last as long as possible. Sonic even tilted Sally back a little while they kissed. Amy watched the whole scene before her with tears in her eyes. She so wished that was her in Sonic's arms instead of Sally but the sheer cuteness of the scene she witnessed made her not care much. Sonic and Sally were just too cute together for her to care about Sonic not kissing her.

"Aww…look at them!" she piped to herself "They're so cute! I'm glad I didn't interfere with them after all. Oh I can hardly wait to tell Cream and Cosmo about this."

She watched as Sonic and Sally kissed for a few more seconds and then finally, they stopped kissing and were back staring lovingly into each other's eyes.

"That was wonderful Sonic." purred Sally.

"I liked that too." said Sonic "Why not have another?"

Sally nodded approvingly and they kissed again. Amy sighed with glee as they kissed again and she leaned her head out of the bush slightly. But as she put her hands down on the bush branches in front of her, they suddenly gave way and she tumbled forwards out of the bush! Amy was now lying on her stomach half in and half out of the bush. The rustling noise the bush made startled Sonic and Sally and they both broke up their embrace to see what it was. They were well surprised to see Amy half out of a nearby bush and looking like a child that's been caught raiding the fridge. Amy looked at them both nervously.

"Uh…hi you two?" she said sheepishly.

"Amy?!" blurted Sonic "What the…what the heck are you doing here?!"

"Have you been spying on us this whole time?!" shrieked Sally "Amy, how could you! Me and Sonic were having our first date together and we were NOT expecting to have you spying on us!"

"I'm sorry, I'm sorry!" shrieked Amy frantically "I'm really, really sorry! It's just…I kinda found out that you and Sonic were going to date and I wanted to help make it perfect for you two. I was only watching to make sure my hard work went as planned."

"You wanted to help make our date perfect?" gasped Sonic.

"So…it was YOU who sent me that letter about the "fancy restaurant"!" Sally deduced "You're Roy Same?"

That answered Sonic's earlier thoughts on whether Sally had gotten a letter from "Roy Same" too. He was surprised to see that Amy had been the one who sent the letters and "Roy Same" was just an alias she went under.

"I am indeed." said Amy guiltily "I kinda made an anagram of my name to keep myself anonymous so you wouldn't suspect me."

"Well as nice of you it was to help make our date really good, I do have to ask why did you do it?" asked Sonic "I mean, you have an obsession over me. Shouldn't you be trying to club Sally's head in a blind rage?"

"Sonic! I could NEVER harm my friends, even if one of them is smooching you instead of me!" protested Amy "And besides, I've come to this conclusion. If I truly love you…I would allow you to choose who your heart belongs to. So because of that, I refused to break you two up or throw a tantrum over it. Besides, I think you two look cute together so I just HAD to make your date perfect. And watching the events unfold, my contributions really worked. Please don't be mad at me Sonic, I just wanted to be a good friend even if your heart belongs to another."

Sonic and Sally were dumbfounded. Amy was obsessed with Sonic and yet she was willing to accept their love for each other? Was this an alien Amy Rose or had Amy just matured more than they had given her credit for? One thing was for sure, they were impressed and proud of Amy for being so mature and accepting to them. Sonic put a hand on Amy's shoulder.

"Amy, that's just way past cool of you." said Sonic "I'm proud of you for being so grown-up about the whole thing. And thanks for your contributions, the dancing and the fireflies were really cool."

"Aw, you're welcome Sonic." said Amy gratefully.

"And besides Amy, I may love Sally, but I've still got a place in my heart for you too." said Sonic reassuringly "You will always be a good friend to me and I'm glad to have a friend like you, especially since you're so mature now."

Amy felt like melting away into the ground with joy as Sonic said that to her. Sally smiled at Sonic.

"That was very well said Sonic." she said "That big heart of yours is also what makes me love you so much."

"Thanks Sal." said Sonic "So Amy, would it be OK if you leave me and Sally to enjoy the rest of our night now?"

"Oh sure." said Amy "I think I've intruded on your business for long enough anyway. Have a lovely night." she said cheerily.

"Thank you." said Sonic and Sally together.

Amy waved goodbye and she headed off for home, her heart all a flutter over the fact Sonic still had a place in his heart for her. Maybe being just a friend was all she needed to be in Sonic's life after all. All Amy knew was that she didn't need to obsess over Sonic anymore. Friend-love was all she would need from now on. And yet there was always the chance Sonic and Sally could separate and thus, give Amy another chance with him. For now, she just wanted Sonic to be happy and Sally made him very happy so she would allow their relationship to blossom as it should do. A wonderful relationship had begun and Amy had been a part of it. What more could she possibly ask for? Back over to Sonic and Sally, they both embraced again.

"Now where we were?" purred Sonic.

"I believe we were about to have another kiss." Sally purred back.

Sonic raised his eyebrows up and down in the charming manner that a man usually raises his eyebrows and he and Sally entered another deep, passionate kiss that spelled true love between them. As they kissed and embraced the night away, the only thing that they were thinking now was this simple fact:

Love had been worth trying and experiencing for both of them and it was just going to get more and more wonderful as their love grew and grew over time. This was a love that was greater than anything on Mobius…

Happy Valentine's Day readers! :D

Footnotes:

See Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 20: Honeymoons and Rats for that is where this whole thing began…

* We just saw the end of that in *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 21: A Bitter Snowstorm

 Yes, Sonic is reading an issue of Archie Comics' Sonic the Hedgehog. You surprised?

Awwwwwwwww...so romantic! :D The gushy levels are over 9000! Awww...what a cute beginning to a wonderful relationship!

Amy fanbrat: Waaah! Sonic should be with Amy, not Sally! How dare you pair Sonic up with Sally! This story sucks balls now! Waaah!

Get lost you stupid fanbrat! So how was this chapter folks? And PLEASE for the love of god don't post any nasty comments if you're a Sally hater, a Sonally hater or the like! I happily support Sonally and I wish for Sonic to be paired up with Sally in this story so get used to it!

So how was this chapter then folks? Was it good? Did you like it? Feel free to express your thoughts in the reviews section. And may you all have a very Happy Valentine's Day...:)

Oh and don't forget to check into* Tales from Mobius *. Silver and Blaze are the stars of the next arc. ;)

Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses: The Prelude

Story 165: Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses: The Prelude

Time Rifts.

Nobody knew for certain what they were or what their proper name even was. They had been referred to by many different names. Some called them "tears in the sky", some called them "streaks of light". Some even referred to them as "eyes of the universe" and thought that they were being watched by them and given their nature of sucking people up, some even referred to them as "illuminated jaws" and theorized that they swallowed up what they could and once somebody had been sucked up by them, that was the end of them. Completely gone. Never to be seen again. Whatever people thought they were, nobody knew what they ACTUALLY were. Time rifts were rips in the timeline, a tear in the space time continuum, an anomaly that spelt doom for anybody who saw it. Once they opened up, they sucked up what they could and then just disappeared for the moment. One a time rift opened up, you could bet that this wasn't the last you had seen of it. All over the multi-verse, time rifts had been opening up far and wide and causing havoc on whatever worlds they opened up on. They didn't just open up on Mobius Prime, they were opening up everywhere in the multi-verse, even planets that weren't another version of Mobius. Even Earth and all the alternate versions of Earth were getting time rifts! End of the world theories may grow far and wide and get ridiculous and silly but the time rifts were the coming apocalypse, the Day of Reckoning, the Judgement Day that so many people feared all over the multi-verse and the sinister thing was…nobody knew how to stop it. What was causing the time rifts? Why were they happening? Was it possible to stop them? Nobody knew and time was running out for the multi-verse. The time rifts had been going on for a while now. On some worlds, they had been happening for years, some worlds they only just started happening and on worlds like Mobius Prime, they had been happening for months. They were getting worse and sooner or later…the end of all things would finally commence for everybody in every time zone, dimension, world and universe and nobody would be able to stop this terror from happening…

Mobius Prime was nearing its final curtain call on this very day. A pity really considering that today was waking up to a beautiful sunny morning and the skies were looking as clear and beautiful as ever.

Two individuals were closer to the morning that one might imagine. Closer in the sense that they were sleeping under a tree in the park of New Mobotropolis. These two were the world famous Sonic the Hedgehog and the ruler of New Mobotropolis, Queen Sally Acorn. Sonic and Sally had had their first date last night and to say it was the best night of their lives would have been an understatement. They had enjoyed every minute of the date last night and had been all too happy to admit their love for each other. Love had been an interesting experience for Sonic and he was pleased to have finally found it in Sally. She was definitely more loveable than Amy Rose that much was certain. Their date had been so romantic and wonderful that Sonic and Sally had ended up falling asleep under a tree and had spent the night lying on the grass and in each other's arms. In their sleep though, they felt like they were in their beds at home. Now the sun was rising and the night skies were broken up into light, turning the night into morning. The light began to shine over Sonic, disturbing him from his peaceful slumber. Sonic stretched and yawned as he woke up and he scratched his back. It had become a little itchy from lying against a tree all night. Sonic looked around and he realized that he was not in fact in his own bed at home, he was still in the park he and Sally had had their date in. Sonic chuckled more to himself than anything.

"Wow, we got so romantic that we fell asleep in the park!" he laughed "Ha, ha…funny what love can do to ya isn't it?"

He then looked down at Sally, who was still snoozing peacefully beside him, her arm on his torso and her head resting against his shoulder. Sonic smiled with awe at his girlfriend. How beautiful and cute she looked when she was sleeping. Pity he had to wake her up now since it was that time again. Sonic gently shook Sally.

"Good morning Queenie." he said "It's time to wake up."

Sally mumbled sleepily as Sonic shook her. It seemed she didn't want to wake up right about now but Sonic kept up the shaking. Sally eventually opened her eyes and she gave out a big yawn. She rubbed her eyes, which were full of sleep, and she looked up at Sonic.

"Why good morning handsome." she said "I wasn't expecting to see you so soon."

"Well Sally, I think the fact we fell asleep together under a tree in the park might have something to do with that." snickered Sonic.

Sally had no idea what Sonic was on about but she quickly found out for she took a look at her surroundings and realized that she wasn't in Castle Acorn but in the park she and Sonic had their date at. Sally laughed, almost sounding embarrassed in an amused way at the fact they had fallen asleep here and had spent the whole night under a tree.

"Oh my goodness, we really did overdo it didn't we?" she giggled "Fancy that, we slept here in the park all night! Ha, ha, ha… goodness me this is one amusing turnout."

"Certainly is." chuckled Sonic "Least we were together as we slept. And you know what, I can still remember last night as if it had only just ended five minutes ago."

"Me too. What a wonderful night it was." purred Sally "Made all the better by the fact I spent it with you Sonic the Hedgehog."

And with that, Sally gave Sonic his first kiss of the day to which Sonic gratefully accepted. Sally sure knew how to give a lovely kiss, that was certain. Her lips felt very lovely on his own as they kissed. If Sonic wanted, he could keep this up forever. Their kiss went on for a minute before they broke it up and Sally lifted her head up a little.

"I think we should head back before anyone notices this." she said with an amused smile on her face.

"Yeah, don't want folks getting the wrong idea do we?" chuckled Sonic.

Deciding not to hang about for any longer, Sonic and Sally got up onto their feet and they walked away from the tree, hand in hand of course. As they left the park, they admired the scenery all around them and drank in the beauty of the morning as they observed what was going on. Mornings in New Mobotropolis somehow managed to look beautiful no matter how many times Sonic woke up to them. Maybe it was simply because New Mobotropolis was such a beautiful city of true magnificence and the morning skies complimented its true beauty so flawlessly as they shone over the city. It was a view Sonic was always happy to wake up to and it was a view that made him proud to live in NewMobotropolis. It was a beautiful city even before it became New Mobotropolis and it was still beautiful now. What more could a hedgehog ask for when it came to a place to call home? As Sonic and Sally walked off to the two most important buildings in New Mobotropolis, Castle Acorn and Royal HQ, Sonic looked over at Sally and decided to ask something. The events of last night continued to dance in his mind and he was keen to ask Sally about it.

"So, what did you enjoy the most of our date last night?" asked Sonic.

"Our first kiss of course." purred Sally seductively "When we kissed, I felt like I was reaching for the stars. I will say it's amazing how well you can kiss Sonic, one would think you were a natural at it."

"I've never kissed all that much so I guess it was just pure luck I delivered a good one." said Sonic modestly "For me, I enjoyed our little meal and Amy's little contributions to the date, as well as how maturely she handled the fact I was seeing another girl. I seriously expected her to start baying for your blood when she found out about us." an unsettled expression fell on his face as he said that.

"I was kinda expecting that too." said Sally "So you can imagine I was about ready to do leaps and corkscrews when I found out Amy was actually contributing to our date and not throwing a tantrum over you with me. I will say if she dared to attack me I would have locked her in a cell in the Detention Centre and thrown away the key!"

"Well Amy's cool with us so we won't need to do that." said Sonic "Although one has to wonder if the real Amy's not here and instead got replaced by a clone or something…"

"Stop it Sonic, you know the real Amy's with us." chuckled Sally, playfully shoving Sonic slightly "She's no clone at all."

"Come on Sal, you know that humour is one of my biggest trademarks." laughed Sonic.

"I do know that and your humour is truly what makes you so loveable." said Sally "Even if you can be overly snarky for your own good sometimes."

"Eh, I tease and mock a lot but obviously, I only ever intend to hurt my enemies." said Sonic "Mostly Eggman." he added with a wink that accompanied his cheeky smile.

Sally chuckled at the joke. They say a woman appreciates a man who can make her laugh and Sally was no exception to the rule.

"Oh Sonic, I'm so gonna enjoy our relationship together." said Sally delightedly "Makes me glad that you decided to have a chance at us together."

"I'm glad I tried it too." said Sonic "Although I fear that this might get in the way of my heroism and all. Will I have to ease up on the hero thing if we're to make this work?"

"Not at all Sonic." said Sally, stopping for a minute and standing before Sonic with her hands on his face "Remember, I'm fighting alongside the Royal Fighters now. I will be able to join you in your heroism. Also I don't EVER want you to stop your heroism. That's what I fell for after all. Your heroism makes you who you are Sonic and I would never forgive myself if I made you stop. I will worry for you don't get me wrong but I will NEVER want you to stop what makes you who you are."

"Wow…when you put it that way…that sounds great." said Sonic brightly, putting his hands on Sally's waist "Thanks Sally."

"Just returning the favour Sonic." said Sally brightly "You've done so much for me and my loyal heroic Royal Fighters so it's time I did something for you."

The two had another kiss over that, Sonic doing it as a sign of appreciation more than anything. They kept this one brief though and they carried onto Royal HQ and Castle Acorn without wasting another minute. As they arrived at the two buildings though, they could see that all the Royal Fighters were already gathered outside of Royal HQ and they seemed to be up to something. Intrigued, Sonic and Sally ran up to the Royal Fighters and they could see that the twin-tailed child prodigy himself, Tails the Fox, was showing off some new inventions of his. He had been supplying the Royal Fighters with new weapons, giving Sally wristbands that could emit energy blades and Cosmo the Seedrian and Cream the Rabbit throwing discs with deployable blades*. Now he was giving Wilson the Dog and Mandy Mouse some new weapons. He had been waiting to give them to them but after the hell Mandy had been through with The Exterminators, Tails had decided to let Mandy recover before giving her a new weapon. As you already know, a week had passed since The Exterminators had been defeated and Mandy seemed well rested and recuperated so Tails decided now would be a good time to introduce to Wilson and Mandy his new weapons for them. Sonic and Sally watched with delight as Tails presented a pair of metal knuckle attachments to Mandy. They looked very tough, made of the strongest steel around and that they could pack quite a punch. They fitted around her knuckles perfectly and to Mandy's surprise, they were more comfortable than she fought they would feel. She looked very pleased with them.

"These look super cool Tails!" she cried with joy "Much cooler looking than my ordinary ones that's for sure."

"Glad you like them Mandy." said Tails happily "And here's the exciting part. These knuckle attachments form an invisible force field around your hands that will make your punches stronger than usual. It ONLY activates when you throw a punch so don't worry about it being there if you like want to touch something or shake hands with someone. For the purpose of testing the durable strength of the steel knuckle attachments, I brought this block of titanium for you to punch," he paused for a minute as he lifted up the heavy rectangular block of titanium that was lying beside him "Feel free to punch away Mandy. I can't wait to see how powerful your punches will be with my new invention adding strength to them."

Mandy seemed keen to test her new toys out so she took up a boxing like position and prepared to throw a punch at the block. Mandy drew her arm back and she punched the block as hard as she possibly dared. There was a terrific clang sound as her fist made violent contact with the block and the power enhanced punch ended up denting the block so furiously it looked like a man doubling over in pain after being punched in the gut. Everybody was amazed at the power Mandy now wielded thanks to these new knuckle attachments and Mandy herself seemed bewildered she could even punch that hard now.

"Oh mah stars!" exclaimed the beautiful but powerful Bunnie Rabbot "She can punch as hard as ah can now! And she doesn't even have cybernetics!"

"That invention of Tails's is pretty amazing luv." said Geoffrey St. John, Bunnie's boyfriend "Mandy can now punch things much harder than herself. Boy I'd love to see her throw a punch like that on Dr. Eggman."

"Oh Geoffrey, believe me, Eggman's the FIRST guy I'm gonna punch with these things on!" laughed Mandy, very pleased with her new weapons "If only I had something like this when I fought Brawn the Rat, I would have floored him otherwise. Oh well, there's always other enemies to use these on." she added with an ecstatic smile on her pretty face.

"I have a feeling you just got tougher all of the sudden my love." said Wilson gleefully "So Tails, what new weapon have you got for me?"

"Well Wilson, seeing how potent you are with that spinning blade weapon, I decided to make you this." said Tails, showing Wilson a silver coloured arm gauntlet that had a pole on a rotating pin, suggesting it was obviously meant to spin around. Some hazard symbols were tattooed on the gauntlet and they had every right to be there for this weapon could be very dangerous. "This is a spinning blade gauntlet. It fits onto your arm like so," he paused as he clipped the gauntlet around Wilson's right arm "and this is how it's supposed to work. Clench your fist and the pole will spin and then thrust your arm forward. I advise everybody to stand back though for we wouldn't want Wilson to accidentally chop you all to pieces would we?"

Everybody stepped well-back as Wilson followed Tails' instructions. He clenched his fist, the pole on the gauntlet now spinning around at a terrific speed. Wilson then thrust his arm forwards. The pole ejected from the gauntlet as he did that and twin blades deployed from it. It sliced neatly through the air and Sonic and Sally watched as the twin-bladed pole boomeranged back towards Wilson. Wilson held up his arm with the top of the gauntlet facing outwards and the pole reattached itself to the gauntlet, sheathing its blades upon re-entry of course so as not to accidentally cut him. Wilson was amazed at what had just happened and he wolf-whistled at his new weapon.

"With this I can send a spinning blade in one direction while I fight with my normal one." he said "This is ingenious Tails."

"Thank you." said Tails modestly "And the best thing is, it's programmed to attack any enemy within its radius and it doesn't come back to you until it's hit every single one of them. So while that blade is attacking other enemies, you can use your own spinning blade to fight off some others, very useful for if we're hopelessly outnumbered and all."

"Well Tails, me and Mandy greatly appreciate our new weapons." said Wilson brightly.

"We do indeed kiddo. Thanks." said Mandy gratefully.

"You're welcome." said Tails cheerfully "Nice to see all my new weapons work. Speaking of which, I wonder where Sally is? I'd like for you two to see the weapons I made for her."

"I'm right here honey." said Sally, deciding now was a good time to make her presence known at last.

The Royal Fighters all looked over to see Sonic and Sally standing there and watching them as if they had just decided to stand back and watch the show. They all seemed happy to see the two there at last though and they greeted Sonic and Sally enthusiastically.

"Good morning Sonic and Sally." said Tails "So I guess you liked the new weapons I have Wilson and Mandy?"

"We sure did Tails, they really cool." said Sonic with a thumbs up sign "Wilson and Mandy will do great with them I bet!"

"They will indeed." said Tails with a big grin of pleasure on his face.

"So how are the two lovebirds this morning?" asked Amy Rose sweetly "Did your date go well at all? Did you do anything else after I left?"

"I have a feeling they enjoyed themselves because Sally didn't return home last night." said Nicole the Lynx "Did you and Sonic sleep together at his house or something?"

Sonic and Sally both blushed bright red at those remarks, not expecting the two girls to suddenly start making their love for each other public, especially as they had been hoping to do that themselves. The Royal Fighters all gasped in pleasant surprise at this.

"Sonic and Sally went on a date last night?" gasped Ruben the Water Panther "Aw, how wonderful to hear!"

"I hope Amy doesn't mind this." sniggered Sora Prower.

"Well Mr. Sonic and Miss Sally, that's wonderful to hear!" said a very happy and excited Cream the Rabbit "Did you have a lovely date last night? Did you kiss each other?"

"I bet it was very romantic." said Cosmo the Seedrian dreamily "Just like any moment with me and Tails."

Sonic was so close to dying of embarrassment right now.

"Uh guys, can we not make such a fanfare about this?" said Sonic sheepishly, rubbing the back of his head nervously "You're kinda embarrassing us. Amy, I was hoping that me and Sally would make our love known ourselves when you're done making a big scene about it." he said with a glare of steel at Amy.

"Sorry Sonic." mumbled Amy guiltily, looking very ashamed of herself for doing this.

"Please Sonic, they would have found out soon enough anyway and I'm glad they're so happy for the two of us together." said Sally defensively "Ease up on poor Amy."

"OK then." said Sonic, quickly thinking of something to change the subject "So Sally, Tails made you some new weapons did he?"

"He did indeed." said Sally "I'll show you them next time we go into battle if you please."

"Sounds cool." said Sonic "I wonder what your new weapons are?"

"Let me just say…you'll be impressed." said Sally, tapping Sonic's nose playfully.

Sonic liked the sound of that. His girlfriend had probably just become more awesome with whatever new weapon Tails had made for her. He suddenly ended up having something else to think about though and it was something he wasn't expecting to suddenly be thinking about right now. The Royal Fighters all heard something coming towards them and they looked to the wall around NewMobotropolis where they could see two flying things coming towards them. Sonic put his hand over his eyes to shield them from the sunlight and see if he could make out what it was that was coming towards them. As the thing came closer he could soon make out who it was. It was none other than the future couple themselves, Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat! Silver was in flight and was carrying Blaze with him (the cat trying to ignore the height of course). Sonic's face lit up like a flashlight with excitement.

"Bless my sneakers! It's Silver and Blaze!" cried Sonic excitedly "I wonder what they're here for? I bet it's good news."

"I wonder if they're here to tell us how wonderful the future is now."

said Sally "They did think the Martian invasion had doomed Mobius and now we prevented it, their future must have changed now."

Sonic nodded agreeably. He did have to wonder why Silver and Blaze were flying through the air though. Didn't Silver usually have a warp ring to use when he wanted to time travel? Silver and Blaze flew over the ring wall and they spotted Castle Acorn standing proudly on the hill that rose it above the city. Silver headed down to the ground and he put Blaze down before the Royal Fighters before joining her on the ground beside her. His body stopped glowing and his psychokinesis switched off for the moment. They were met with a wondrous greeting almost immediately. That alone made the two feel better after all they had just been through a moment ago. Sonic came forward and he knuckle-punched Silver in greeting.

"Silver my futuristic do-gooder! So good to see you again!" exclaimed Sonic delightedly.

"It's great to see you too Sonic." said Silver with pleasure "Me and Blaze are very happy to see you all again."

"How have things been going with you all?" asked Blaze inquisitively "Have things clamed down since the Martians?"

"We've had some rough moments and a new enemy pop up from time to time but we're OK." said Sally, shaking Blaze's hand "Just recently Sonic saved Mandy from a crazy bunch of mice-hating rats and I helped to protect New Mobotropolis from an Ice Witch named Blizzard."

"Funny you should mention that scum in witch's clothing." muttered Blaze bitterly "Me and Silver ran into her after we were brought here by a time rift and she tried to use me for her spell! We escaped her with our lives though don't worry, she won't be bothering anybody for the moment."

"I like the sound of that." said Amy in a very cold, almost sadistically gleeful tone of voice, suggesting that the very thought of Blizzard suffering badly made her happy "I bet you burnt her to a crisp didn't you Blaze?"

"Oh I let her have more than just a flicker of flames that's for sure." said Blaze with a slight scowl on her face as if the very thought of Blizzard made her cringe "But that's not important right now. We have come to warn you of something terrible that we've just encountered."

"Wait a minute, before you tell us, how's your timeline?" asked Sonic "Is Mobius OK in the future now the Martians have been stopped?"

"Far from it I'm afraid." said Silver, his face grave and sullen as if he'd just found out somebody was dying of a tumour in their brain "The Martians were NOT the cause of Mobius's end at all, nothing changed for me and Blaze at all. The only thing that changed was Count Drago not being in the invasion when they invaded Mobius. That's it. The future is still a wreck and Mobius is still on life support."

Sonic's mouth ran dry at the sound of that.

"Oh no…" he gasped "Stopping the Martians didn't work?! Well at least that tells us we would have won anyway even if you two hadn't stuck your noses in but if it wasn't the Martians then who DID doom Mobius in the future?"

"We're still trying to work that out." sighed Silver sadly "But we've found no more clues since then. We're still at square one. But that's not important now, what's important is that me and Blaze were brought to Mobius by a time rift and we felt it best to warn you of it since a time rift spells doom for anybody."

"What's a time rift?" asked Tails cautiously.

"Rips in the timeline, a strange anomaly that appears from time to time and disrupts the space time continuum." explained Silver "The cause of them is unknown but what time travellers like me DO know is that they're deadly and can spell the end of the world for anybody who sees one. They look like multi-coloured streaks of light and they suck up anything in their path."

The Royal Fighters all let out a chorus of horrified shrieks that let Silver and Blaze know that this truly shocked them and yet their shrieks were shrieks in the sense of they knew what they were on about, suggesting this wasn't the first time this had happened.

"So that's what the weird streak of light in the sky is all about!" declared Sonic "They're time rift thingies and they spell doom for us all?!"

"They do indeed." said Blaze grimly "You seem awfully familiar with them though, has one already happened here?"

"More than one!" blustered Sally in terror "One appeared during the Devatron invasion and snatched Scourge and Fiona away according to what Sonic told me they had told him! And one appeared and took Sonic to Mobius Nega and then another one appeared in Chun-Nan and took away some evil reptiles and spiders and then another one took the Megapolis Royal Fighters Dark Cat the Leo-Lynx and Kiara the Cheetah away! This has been a regular occurrence now so what does that mean?!"

Silver and Blaze looked very disturbed to hear this and it pained Silver to bring them the horrible truth.

"It means the end of the world is coming." said Silver "And there's nothing we can do to stop it…"

Sonic was so horrified to hear this that he nearly passed out in shock…

Over on Angel Island, Knuckles the Echidna and his gorgeous girlfriend and co-guardian Shade the Echidna were having a relaxing morning to themselves. They were sitting side by side by the emerald shrine and they had their arms around each other and their heads resting against one another's. Shade must be in a casual mood today for instead of her Nocturnus outfit, she was dressed in a pink vest top and a pair of tight fitting skinny jeans that complimented her figure wonderfully and she wore some beige coloured shoes with grey soles on her feet. She still had her trademark hair band on. That seemed to be the one item she could never be without. Shade had grown tired of wearing her Nocturnus outfit all the time so she had decided to dress in casual clothes for a change. Tails had made her a little device that allowed her to put on her suit whenever it was mission time so Shade would be able to make a quick change should she need to. Shade quite liked her casual wear though and was all too happy to be wearing those clothes as she relaxed with her handsome boyfriend. Knuckles and Shade were both enjoying the peace and quiet as well as each other's company. This is where being a Master Emerald guardian has its perks, you're at peace with the world and it can be quite wonderful to just sit there and enjoy the view. The echidnas hadn't had any trouble since the Royal Fighter's last encounter with Dr. Finitevus and Finitevus hadn't shown up again so it seemed they could kick back for the time being. The Royal Fighters hadn't needed them for anything recently either so that added to their time of relaxation. They knew it couldn't last but they didn't care for the moment. They cared about one thing: enjoying the peace while they can. Three weeks had gone without a hitch for Knuckles and Shade so they'd had plenty of time to make the most of it and they hoped it'd continue for a while longer. Shade nuzzled her head against Knuckles's shoulder and smiled a content smile at her handsome echidna.

"Oh Knuckles, it's so beautiful on a slow day like this. I wish it could always last…" she whispered softly.

"I wish it could too babe." said Knuckles, putting his arm around Shade's waist and pulling her a tad closer to him "As is, nothing lasts forever so we make the most of what we have when we have it. When it comes to being a guardian, this is my favourite part of the job. Peace and quiet are golden to me when guardian the emerald and I always like to think my reward for guardian such a valuable emerald is the beautiful scenery all around us."

"That's a good way to put it handsome for if we didn't protect the Master Emerald, Angel Island would be down on the ground and vulnerable to attack." said Shade "If only my stupid father and your wicked uncle could see that…"

"Ix and Finitevus can think what delusional thing they ever want to." scoffed Knuckles "Shows we know better than them. But Ix is gone and Finitevus isn't interested in AngelIsland anymore so we don't need to worry about them."

"I agree." said Shade "And speaking of Ix…I still continue to be grateful to you for helping me escape his wrath." she said warmly "If it wasn't for you, I'd still be suffering his ruthless treatment and living a horrible life as his mindless servant. You truly saved me that day."

"Aw think nothing of it Shade." said Knuckles, putting a hand on her shoulder and looking her in the eyes "Anyone being oppressed deserves to be freed from their oppressors I say. And besides, I couldn't let a girl as gorgeous as you continue to be treated badly could I?"

Shade smiled with appreciation to hear Knuckles say that. It was no wonder she fell in love with him over time. He was such a wonderful boy to her that Shade could hardly help but love him.

"I'm grateful for your compliment." said Shade "And you know Knuckles, you are the one thing in the world that's more precious to me than guarding the Master Emerald."

"You took the words out of my mouth hon…I could say the same to you." said Knuckles, rubbing his nose against Shade's playfully.

The little nose rub quickly became a loving kiss though. When you're in love, somehow any moment can turn into a kiss, not that Knuckles or Shade minded. They kept the kiss up for a moment before breaking up and looking back into each other's eyes.

"I bet my dad would be thrilled to see us together like this…if he was still alive that is." said Knuckles.

"Locke would have been very proud Knuckles." Shade assured him as she tenderly ran her fingers down his dreadlocks, something that Knuckles could never get enough from due to how nice it felt "I know he would. Especially considering how well we guard the Master Emerald together."

"Oh yes indeed." said Knuckles, smiling over the very thought of Locke being happy to see his son partnered up with Shade.

Knuckles put his arms around Shade's waist and Shade wrapped her arms around Knuckles's shoulders. In their eyes, they just couldn't get enough of making love to each other. Their eyes closed and they leaned forward for another kiss but just as their lips were about to lock, a terrible sound echoed through the sky and the echidnas were up on their feet in one second. Knuckles raised his fists and Shade took up a battle ready stance.

"What was that?" asked Knuckles.

"Whatever it was, it picked the wrong day to mess with the guardians!" growled Shade.

They didn't have to spend too much time working out what it was though for the answer him the sooner then they could imagine. Straight above them appeared another time rift! It opened up in the sky like a pair of lips that had remained closed for years and had finally decided to open up but the eerie thing about the time rift was it wasn't like any normal time rift they had encountered before. This time rift was beyond enormous! It was the width of five football pitches and it yawned wide open above AngelIsland. Knuckles and Shade stared incredulously at this enormous streak of light that shone thousands of different colours simultaneously. They had not seen one this big before and they knew it meant something terrible indeed.

"A streak of light!" cried Knuckles in disbelief "And it's bigger than the ones that have appeared before!"

"We have to get away from here now!" shrieked Shade "There's not telling what…"

She was cut off mid-sentence as the time rift began its terrifying vacuum phase. As it loomed above Angel Island, it began to suck up whatever it possibly could. The Master Emerald's power managed to keep Angel Island where it was but unfortunately the same couldn't be said for Knuckles and Shade. They felt themselves being tugged towards the time rift as if somebody had aimed a giant vacuum cleaner at them in hopes of sucking them up like specks of dust. Knuckles and Shade both clung onto the emerald shrine as hard as they could but their efforts were fruitless. They had no chance of avoiding being sucked up by a time rift this big, especially as the pull was beyond anything they'd felt before, even stronger than when Dr. Eggman made his entire city fly and used it to steal the Master Emerald. Knuckles and Shade were whisked away from the shrine and dragged screaming into the terrifying anomaly that apparently spelt the end of the world for Mobius. As they vanished into the shining streak of light in the sky, the time rift remained open for a minute more, not sucking up anything important, and then it closed up, disappearing entirely from view. But it wasn't long until it would show up again, this time much bigger and much, MUCH worse than before…

Back over at New Mobotropolis, Sonic still seemed to be having a tough time accepting Mobius was doomed. All his hard work saving the world from crazy Dr. Eggman schemes, alien invasions and big monsters like Perfect Chaos and yet the world's coming to an end?! It couldn't be! His hard work couldn't just go to waste like this, it just couldn't!

"No…no! Mobius can't end, it just can't!" exclaimed Sonic "There MUST be a way to stop these time rifts or whatever they are!"

He grabbed Silver by his chest fur and began shaking him as if hoping to make his head fall off.

"You're an expert on these things, you must know how to prevent them from dooming us all!" he shrieked.

"I'm sorry Sonic but I don't know how to stop the time rifts." said Silver sadly "I don't even know WHAT is causing them so how can we stop something if we don't know the cause?"

"Then we'll FIND out the cause!" declared Sonic, letting go of Silver "We must go out searching for the cause of these things before zero hour comes for us!"

"That'll be futile Sonic, we have NO idea where to start and we can't possibly know where to start looking for such a cause." muttered Blaze disapprovingly "This is a problem that we will never be able to sort out. I'm sorry Sonic but it's over, for all of us. There's nothing we can do."

"To heck with that!" snapped Sonic "I've been working too long and too hard to save the world from evil in all shapes and sizes, I refuse to just sit back and accept this is Mobius's fate, to be ripped apart by these time rifts! I'm gonna find out how to stop it and if I have to do it alone then so be it!"

"Sonic please, you can't do this!" begged Sally "We don't know how to stop these things or even where to find the cause of them, however do you expect to just suddenly stop the time rifts?"

"I'll think of something." said Sonic "You know, I wonder if the Chaos Emeralds could help us…"

"Sadly, I doubt even Chaos Emeralds will be of much use in this situation." said Silver with a shake of his head "Not sure what we'd even be able to do with them that could stop the time rifts. A Chaos Control won't solve anything just like that, they'll still happen. While I don't think the time rifts doomed Mobius and ruined the future, it doesn't really matter now since they're hitting worlds and timelines of all kinds. Mobius is doomed anyway and me and Blaze will never save the future now…"

He stared down at his feet as he began to picture the planet being torn apart and just disappearing from existence altogether. What a way to go that would be. Sonic looked like he had just been given a bomb for his birthday.

"I can't believe this, we've been through a lot of hard times all of us and now a silly streak of light that spells doom for us all has you thinking it's over?!" exclaimed Sonic "What happened to you all?!"

"Sonic, in our previous bouts we got to know the enemy and we eventually learned to counter them." noted Sally "The time rifts are beyond what we can comprehend and we don't know what's causing them. We know nothing about them except the fact they're dangerous, that's it. This is something beyond anything we've ever fought! We can't possibly stop the time rifts!"

Sonic just glared at Sally as if he was ashamed his own girlfriend had just said that to him. Mandy had once said that the royals were always the first to give up and now Sally was reinforcing that statement by clearly giving up.

"Well then, guess I'm the only one who actually cares about trying to save this damn planet." he muttered coldly, storming off in a huff past Sally and blatantly bumping her aside.

Sally didn't fall over luckily but she was a little hurt that Sonic had done that so blatantly. She watched helplessly as Sonic stalked off in a temper and just left all his friends behind to just wonder what to do. Sally wanted to go after Sonic and stop him.

"Sonic! Please wait!" Sally cried out feebly.

"Let him go." said Nicole, holding Sally back hastily "If Sonic wants to try and stop what we can't stop then let him. Mobius maybe doomed but let's let Sonic keep hold of whatever hope he has OK?"

"OK." said Sally dejectedly "Although I think Sonic has the right idea. We shouldn't just sit around and wait for Mobius to disappear, we should try and stop those time rifts! I'm not going to let my planet die after all we've done to save it from disaster, I say we should try and prevent the coming apocalypse! I know it's futile but then again, we've managed to come out on top of situations that seemed futile before so I don't see why know should be any different. Royal Fighters, are you with me?" she asked hopefully.

The Royal Fighters looked at each other and they all knew what the answer to that question was.

"YES!" they all screamed in unison.

"Excellent! Are you with us too?" Sally asked Silver and Blaze.

"Well…I guess we could try." said Silver "After all, if we just let Mobius end then me and Blaze will never find out what's doomed our future for there won't be a future anymore, not even one that's clinging onto its last ledge of life!"

"I may think this is hopeless…but it's worth a shot." said Blaze "I'm definitely in too."

"Very good." said Sally brightly.

"Very good." said Sally brightly "Now let's catch up to Sonic and let him know we're in too."

With that said, the Royal Fighters all ran off after Sonic, hoping to catch up with him and let him know that they were willing to try and stop the time rifts. But they suddenly found out that Sonic hadn't left the city and that he was standing dead in his tracks, staring directly ahead of himself. He looked stunned as if something had just come out of the ground unexpectedly. The Royal Fighters stopped behind Sonic and they stared in astonishment at what they were met with. Standing directly before Sonic and getting ready to cause mayhem were Drs. Eggman and Finitevus! They had decided to spring an unexpected surprise attack on them and now they were here in Sonic's home territory and ready for a fight. Eggman hadn't been seen since the fiasco with Enerjak and Dr. Finitevus hadn't been seen since his failed attempt to drain Sonic, Shadow and Knuckles dry of their energy and yet they both were here right now. It seemed they had been fed up of not doing anything and thus, were now doing something. Finitevus flashed a dark smile that reeked of the devil at the heroes before them.

"Hello Royal Fighters. How lovely of you all to be around as we take this city apart." purred Finitevus menacingly "Don't worry though…I won't break any of your bones if I can help it."

"I on the other hand won't hesitate to do so!" cackled Dr. Eggman, his voice booming from inside the Omega armour that was literally keeping him alive after his near death experience with the crash of the Egg Carrier "I'll tear each of you apart if I have to!"

"Eggman, Finitevus, now is NOT a good time!" cried Sonic "We've got a world to save and we can do without you two getting in our way if that's OK!"

"You're not going anywhere without challenging us!" declared Dr. Eggman, pointing a metallic claw at Sonic "Fight us or die with your city, simple as that!"

"I say we just finish them off whether they want to fight or not."

muttered Dr. Finitevus "The result will be the same anyway."

"Look you two, we don't have time for this!" yelled Sonic desperately "Back off now or you'll regret it!"

"Hey Sonic, who are those two?" asked Silver curiously "I don't believe I've read anything about them."

"The weirdo in the cape is Dr. Finitevus, Knuckles's brain-dead crazy uncle." explained Sonic "And the hulking robot there is a life-support machine for Dr. Eggman. He literally rests inside that machine."

"You mean Dr. Eggman's in that robot?!" exclaimed Blaze "What happened to him?!"

"Long story." said Sonic "Right now, we've gotta stop those time rifts remember?"

"Time rifts? What time rifts?" asked a very puzzled Dr. Finitevus, his eyebrow raised in interest.

"I'll explain." said Silver, stepping forward to address the two doctors "Eggman, you know who me and Blaze are so I needn't introduce us to you. Finitevus on the other hand will need the exposition. I am Silver the Hedgehog and this is Blaze the Cat." he said as he introduced himself and Blaze "We come from the future and we were brought here by a time rift. We've warned Sonic about it and now we're trying to stop it before it dooms the whole world."

Eggman's life support machine jerked back as if it was about to malfunction out of the blue. Finitevus however seemed eerily fascinated by this.

"Wh-wh-what d-do you mean?" asked Eggman nervously "What's a time rift?"

"It's a multi-coloured steak of light that appears in the sky and sucks up what it can." explained Blaze "One brought us here and Sonic tells us that Mobius has been receiving time rifts on a regular basis. We fear the end of the world is coming and we hope to stop the time rifts. If you two villains want to live then I suggest you cease your evil ambitions and help us put an end to this ticking doomsday clock." she said sternly, pointing sharply at the two evil doctors.

"Count me in!" Dr. Eggman said almost immediately "I'm not letting Mobius die! I can't conquer it otherwise!"

"I suppose we could team up for now." sighed Dr. Finitevus "After all, I will never get the satisfaction of destroying you all if something that's not my doing does it for us."

Blaze smiled at this.

"Good, now we're allies for the moment and if you think of back-stabbing us then so help me I'll barbecue you both!" she snarled threateningly.

"Please my jumpy little fire cat, why would I want to backstab you all when it's a matter of life and death here?" snorted Dr. Eggman "The truce will stay up UNTIL this problem is sorted. Once that's done, we're enemies again."

"Whatever, we know the status quo by now fat-head." sighed Sonic "So can we get going now?!"

"Maybe you two could give us an idea on where to start." suggested Tails "You're both scientists, analyze the whole thing and see if you can work out how we could stop the time rifts."

Eggman and Finitevus both looked at Tails as if he was crazy and then they looked at each other. They racked their brains for the moment and began to think.

"Hmm…how to stop a rift in the timeline…" mused Finitevus "This is an interesting problem to solve…"

"Being as I've seen one in action," mused Dr. Eggman, thinking back to the day Sonic was taken by one "I might have a better idea on this than you Finitevus. Now then, let's see…"

Their little science problem was brought to an abrupt halt by a horrible sound that made the earth shudder and everybody fall over in alarm. Sonic and his friends all stared up at the sky after the rumbling had ceased and they got the shock of their lives. An enormous time rift suddenly ripped open in the sky above New Mobotropolis but this time rift was unlike anything they had seen before. This time rift was so big that it literally covered the entire sky over NewMobotropolis, leaving no patch of blue or a single cloud in the space it occupied! The time rifts had been getting worse and yet even know, it could easily get worse than this! For Sonic and friends, this was the worst one yet! Dr. Finitevus couldn't believe his eyes as he stared at the illuminated streak of multi-coloured lights in the sky, shining ominously above them with the colours dancing around like the Northern Lights on Earth.

"This…cannot be!" he gasped "It's unlike anything…I've ever seen before!"

"It's a time rift!" screamed Sonic in terror "We've gotta juice and fast before we're all sucked into it!"

"Everybody run!" exclaimed Sally frantically "If it's this big then it's bound to suck us up any minute now! Run, run, RUN!"

Running would do no good for anybody now. The time rift had already begun its sinister act of sucking up anything within its radius. The time rift began tugging on everybody with a force that felt like thousands of invisible hands wrapping around their bodies and pulling them towards the yawning mouth of the horrifying light staring down above them. The Royal Fighters threw themselves down onto the ground and clung onto it as hard as they possibly could. They were desperate to avoid being sucked up the light. Last thing they could do with was being whisked off to another world while they tried to stop this impending crisis. Many citizens of New Mobotropolis weren't so lucky though. They were immediately whisked up and those close to their homes clung onto them for dear life only to lose the struggle and be sucked up too. Some citizens had been lucky enough to get into their homes and hide there but soon not even houses would do them any good the next time a time rift appeared. Two of those citizens were Scourge the Hedgehog and Fiona Fox. They had been allowed out of their cells for some fresh air for a minute only to get sucked up into the time rift. This wouldn't be like when they ended up on Mobius Nega though and scourge and Fiona cried out as they were sucked up into the rift. Dr.

Finitevus opened up a warp ring and tried to jump through it but not even somebody as strong as he could get away from the time rift. He ended up clinging onto the warp ring as if his life depended on it and he tried to pull himself into the warp ring. As is though, his strength wasn't enough and he ended up losing the struggle. Finitevus gave in to his strained muscles and he was pulled up into the time rift like a speck of dust being sucked into a vacuum cleaner. His screams were silenced the moment he disappeared into the streak of light. Dr. Eggman kicked his life-support machine's rockets into gear and tried as hard as he could to fly out of range. The rockets roared with effort as they strained to get him away from this powerful force of an anomaly that tried to swallow him up. His suit was strong but unfortunately, not strong enough. Eggman ended up being dragged into the time rift, screaming at the top of his lungs from inside his life-support machine as he disappeared into the time rift. Sonic began wishing now two of his deadliest enemies had been sucked up the time rift would just close up now and not bother with the heroes but much to his displeasure, the time rift still persisted. It was almost like it was deliberately trying to suck them all up. Sonic was determined to win this fight though, he wasn't letting the time rift suck him up again as it did the first time. His hands throbbed as he held on tight to the ground and his face went red with effort. The other Royal Fighters were holding on tightly too but they began to find themselves faltering in this tough struggle to avoid being sucked up. Cream and Cosmo were the first to give up. Their grips on the ground released and they were sucked straight up into the time rift. Following them shortly afterwards were Tails, Sora and Ruben, then Amy, then Geoffrey and Bunnie, then Wilson and Mandy, then Vector, Charmy and Espio and then Nicole. Even Silver and Blaze ended up giving up and getting sucked up into the time rift. Sonic and Sally were the only ones left but they wouldn't be around for much longer. Before the time rift pulled them in, Sonic looked over at Sally. The queen was clearly getting ready to let go now for her strength was failing fast.

"Sally!" Sonic called to her "No matter what happens now, we will stop the time rifts! This will not be the end of Mobius!"

"I hope it won't!" Sally cried, her voice straining along with her body as she held on for one more minute "And if it is the end…at least we'll have tried to prevent it!"

Sonic nodded and he closed his eyes, accepting that he was going to get sucked up no matter what he did. His strength gave way and he and Sally ended up being dragged into the streak of light that ominously waited for them to join the others in its depths. Sonic and Sally glanced at each other one last time as they disappeared into the pool of light that awaited them. Sonic reached out helplessly as Sally disappeared into the light and then he felt himself going limp all over as the overwhelming cascade of lights whooshed past him in a dizzying display that would give a weak-willed person a seizure. Sonic's eyes rolled into the back of his head and he passed out, spiralling around as the time rift closed up being him, trapping him in a pool of glowing lights that would eject him onto some other world in some other universe. Another universe that was also doomed from this supernatural scare…

Footnotes:

 See Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 21: A Bitter Snowstorm

* It all happened in Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 22: Impending Crisis, the very prologue to this saga

See *The Terror of Enerjak

OH NOES! THIS IS IT PEOPLE, THE CRISIS ON INFINITE MOBIUSES HAS TRULY BEGUN! WHAT THE HECK'S GONNA HAPPEN NOW?!

Will Sonic and friends save the day again or is this...truly...the...END?! 0_0 Find out next time for Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses continues in Part 1 with Hedgehogs on New Worlds...

Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses Part 1

Story 166: Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses Part 1: Hedgehogs on New Worlds

For a brief moment in time, Sonic the Hedgehog's world had become a spiralling world of flashing colours and a hurling sense of vertigo. A time rift had opened up above Mobius and this time rift had been the biggest one that Sonic had ever seen up to now. The time rift had sucked him and all his friends up into it like one giant mouth sucking up its drink through a straw. Now Sonic and his friends, all unconscious but very much alive thanks to the surreal and overwhelming sensation of the time rift, were spiralling through the multi-coloured anomaly in time and space like fish caught in a whirlpool. The funny thing about this time rift though is that it didn't suck Sonic and friends up and spit them ALL out in the same place. This time rift was like no other time rift they had seen before in not just the sense of how unbelievably enormous it was, but in the sense it had time rifts within itself. It was like Sonic and friends had entered some illuminated corridor that had doorways to other worlds. The time rift seemed to have some kind of mind of its own for it ended up throwing Sonic and each of his friends randomly through a set of mini time rifts that were all around like hives of bees. Some of the Mobians were together as they were thrown into the mini time rifts. Sally Acorn and her best friend Nicole the Lynx were thrown through one together, Tails the Fox and his girlfriend Cosmo the Seedrian were thrown through one together, Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat, future dwellers dedicated to preventing the end of the world, were thrown through a mini time rift together, Wilson the Dog, his wife Mandy Mouse and the honourable Ruben the Water Panther were thrown into a mini time rift together, Knuckles the Echidna, Shade the Echidna, Amy Rose, Cream the Rabbit and Sora Prower were all thrown into one together and finally, Bunnie Rabbot, Geoffrey St. John and Team Chaotix (Vector the Crocodile, Espio the Chameleon and Charmy Bee) were thrown through a mini time rift together. Unbeknownst to anybody, even Shadow the Hedgehog and Rouge the Bat had been sucked up by a time rift and brought to this weird corridor of time rifts too. To their bad luck, they were thrown through a mini time rift along with Dr. Eggman and Dr. Finitevus. More on them later for this is Sonic's story for now. Sonic was tossed through a mini time rift like a football through a window and unfortunately for him, so were his evil brother Scourge the Hedgehog and the Royal Fighter traitor Fiona Fox. The three Mobians were all sent spinning into the time rift like spiders being washed down a sink and for a moment there was only falling…falling…falling…

Despite coming out of the time rift and landing with a terrible thump onto solid, rock ground, Sonic hadn't registered the thump until a while later. Half an hour to be precise. He had exited the time rift after a while of spinning through it and had landed goodness knows where. He was still unconscious from the horrible sensation that the time rift had given him and he lay there, sleeping peacefully for a while until finally his eyes opened and his body began to kick back into gear. Sonic clutched his head, which began doing leaps and corkscrews in agony from how much it was paining.

"Uh…it feels like my brain's doing a spin-dash in my skull…" he whined, wincing from the agonizing pain his head was feeling. If it ached any longer his head would explode.

Sonic didn't feel like getting up for a minute so he remained lying down on whatever it was he was lying on and waited for his head to start feeling better. As far as he was concerned, he was sure not even aspirin would ease this headache. He massaged his scalp as he relayed the events of thirty minutes ago, although to him the whole thing felt like five minutes ago.

"OK…Silver and Blaze came to us, warned us about the time rifts, tell us that it spells doom on us, then one shows up and sucks us all in." he murmured "And now I bet I'm in the middle of wherever the fridge I am. Given those time rifts, I could be anywhere right now. I hope my friends are alright…especially Sally." he said worriedly, not liking the idea of his girlfriend in serious danger, especially since they'd only just gotten together.

Due to how unpredictable the time rifts were, Sonic had no hope of finding out where his friends were and he certainly knew it was futile to hope that he and his friends all ended up on the same world. As nice as it would be for him and all his friends to be here together, it was very unlikely and as Sonic knew, there was no telling with time rifts what goes on in them. Whether the group was together or separated, Sonic had no idea. All he knew was a crisis had begun and he was goodness knows where. Speaking of where…where exactly was he? Sonic had eased enough of the pain in his skull to stand up and observe his new surroundings, each of his senses alert and on the look out for any sense of danger around. On a new world and in unfamiliar territory like this, you can never be too careful. Alertness was always paramount in moments like this. Sonic looked all around him and saw that much to his dismay, there wasn't all that much on display for him. He was standing on a slap of rock that was flat on top like a platform and the rock was balanced on a huge stony tower that seemed to be balancing the rock platform like a spinning plate on a stick in a circus act. There was dense fog all around and Sonic looked down only to find the ground wasn't visible due to the fog. That is…if there even WAS any ground at the bottom of this rock tower he was on. Sonic begin to wonder for one fur shivering moment that he was literally nowhere and this rock he was on was the only thing around. But some of the fog seemed to drift aside for a moment and Sonic could make out the shape of another rock in the distance. Like the one he was one, it was balancing on top of a huge pointy rock that protruded from the ground like a giant spike. Sonic jumped off of the rock he was on in one graceful leap and he landed onto the other rock. He looked around again only to see the same dense fog all around and he began to wonder if he had even moved onto a different place. It took a glance over his shoulder and seeing the rock he had been on just a big leap behind him to reassure him he had moved on. Sonic scanned his foggy environment and he managed to make out another rock nearby. Sonic was about to leap but he stopped and thought for a moment. Was this some kind of game or some kind of trap? Or was this just how this strange world looked? Was it just nothing but fog and rocks after all? Only one way to find out and that way was move on. Squaring his shoulders, Sonic leaped onto the other rock. He was met with yet more fog that just seemed to expand endlessly like it was openly mocking him and tormenting him for no reason other than sadistic pleasure. Sonic certainly felt like that was the case.

"What is this place? "The planet of fog and rocks"?" snorted Sonic "I'll be shocked if anybody even lives on this planet! Wish that stupid time rift brought me somewhere a bit more lively…"

"HELP!"

That sudden scream nearly made Sonic jump off of the rock in fright. He looked around and listened to see if he could hear the scream again. He could hear it, a single shrilling cry of "HELP!" coming from not far away. The voice sounded a bit like Amy Rose, giving Sonic hope that his friends were on this world as well as him. It was so audible that Sonic began to wonder if the person crying help was merely meters away and yet he couldn't see anybody around.

"Hello?" Sonic called out "Is there anybody around at all?"

"HELP ME! PLEASE!" the voice screamed back "I'M GONNA FALL!"

The voice was clear enough for Sonic to decipher its location. Sonic turned to the north-west direction and he saw a towering rock platform nearby. This one stood a little taller than the one he was on and he could see a vague shape frantically swinging its legs back and forth as if hoping to gain traction on this rocky surface it was clinging onto the edge of for dear life. The shape looked a little like Amy Rose but Sonic could see some differences in the shape that told him this was not his Amy Rose. Could it be another Amy Rose that he knew too well? Sonic decided to find out, especially since he could clearly see that whoever this Amy was, she was in danger and was going to fall if he didn't do anything about it. Sonic spin-dashed up to the rock and he landed on it. Now he was on it, he peered over to see somebody that looked like Amy Rose gripping onto the edge of the rock, desperate not to fall for it seemed like there was an endless plummet at the bottom. Sonic could see that he was right, it wasn't Amy Rose from his Mobius, but in fact Amy Nega from Mobius Nega. She looked a lot better since the last time he had been on Mobius Nega, suggesting she'd had a nice steady recovery from the torture she'd received under Scourge and Fiona's tyrannical take-over of the planet before fate decided to throw him into Mobius Nega and get him to bring Scourge and Fiona back. But she wouldn't be well for long if Sonic did help her. Amy Nega looked up helplessly and her face brightened at the sight of Sonic standing there before her looking down at her.

"Sonic Prime! Oh thank god it's you!" she cheered "Please help me, I'm gonna fall if I hang around any longer!"

"Hold on Amy Nega, I'll get ya up!" cried Sonic "Don't move or anything, I'll pull you up!"

Amy Nega did as she was told and she didn't move. Sonic got down onto his knees and he grabbed Amy Nega by the wrists. He made sure his hands were gripping on tightly before doing anything else. Using all the strength he had in his body, he pulled the black-clad hedgehog up onto the rock. Now Amy Nega had been pulled onto the rock and was out of harm's way, Sonic sat down and rubbed his arms while Amy Nega hugged him gratefully.

"Oh thank you Sonic! I thought I was a goner for a moment!" she wailed fearfully.

"You would have been had I not ended up here." said Sonic, taking the hug well since this was a familiar face hugging him "So Amy Nega, how's it been going for you since we last met?"

"Like clockwork." said Amy Nega brightly, letting Sonic go "Mobius Nega has been peaceful and prosperous once again, nothing terrible's happened and everything's going smoothly. We're finally at peace it seems. But then suddenly this giant streak of light appears above Mobotropolis Nega and then sucks up everybody, me included! I don't know if anybody I know has ended up on this strange world or anything or if I'm alone. I've only just been awake believe it or not. I was lying unconscious on this rock for a moment and when I woke up, I rolled onto my side and nearly fell off the rock! I managed to grab onto the side before I could plummet luckily but I couldn't pull myself up, I was too weak to do so. And then you showed up and saved me! Say, how did you end up in this weird world?"

"Same way you did Ames." said Sonic "Giant streak of light in the sky. According to a friend of mine, they're called time rifts and they're apparently apocalyptic. My world's had plenty of them so Mobius Prime's probably on the brink of destruction now!"

Amy Nega put her hands over her mouth in shock.

"That's terrible!" she shrieked "If Mobius Prime dies then the whole multi-verse will collapse onto itself!"

"You serious?" asked Sonic incredulously.

"POSITIVE!" Amy Nega blurted frantically "According to a theory Tails Nega deducted, the multi-verse can't exist without the prime universe! If Mobius Prime is wiped out by these time rift thingies then all the other Mobiuses in the multi-verse will be gone too! The alternate Mobiuses depend squarely on Mobius Prime for existence! If it's wiped out, the other worlds are wiped out too!"

Sonic could hardly believe his ears. If Mobius, HIS Mobius, ended then that would mean the end of all other Mobiuses in the multi-verse? Now Sonic HAD to stop this madness before it got any worse! This was more than just the end of the world now, this was the end of a big multitude of worlds! If Sonic could stop the time rifts and fix everything then he truly would become a hero bigger than he could ever imagine. Not just Hero of Mobius, but Hero of several different Mobiuses. Sonic looked at Amy Nega and he put his hands on her shoulders.

"This is pretty big Amy Nega…and I'm gonna do whatever I can to stop this." said Sonic "I will save the multi-verse. I can't promise that since it's very likely I'll fail…but I WILL try."

"I know you will my heroic little Prime Zoner." said Amy Nega happily "You saved my world twice already, now save all other Mobiuses!"

"I'll do what I can." said Sonic "Although I have no idea where to start! I don't know what's causing the time rifts and where to start looking for such a cause. I'm gonna be on a wild goose chase here!"

"Well I can't help you much I'm afraid." said Amy Nega glumly "I have no idea on this either. I bet Tails Nega would have some kind of idea…"

"I can't believe I'm saying this but I wish Eggman was here to work this out!" cried Sonic, cringing as if forcing his lips to spew out those words physically hurt him "He's a scientist, I bet he'd work out what's causing these time rifts!"

"Well then we'd better hope he's here." murmured Amy Nega "You mean YOUR Eggman I hope, not Eggman Nega."

"Eggman Nega's in the void and the void's time-locked to stop anyone opening it again, there's no way he'll end up here." noted Sonic "So yeah, I mean my Eggman. Now then, is there anything else around here other than…"

He was rudely cut off by a spin-dash to the back that sent him hurling off the rock and plummeting down onto another rock that was nearby.

He was rudely cut off by a spin-dash to the back that sent him hurling off the rock and plummeting down onto another rock platform that was nearby but lower down from the one he and Amy Nega were on. It was also very wide too, spanning the width of a basketball court. Amy Nega cried out for Sonic as the blue hedgehog came down with a thud onto the rock platform. Sonic picked himself up and began wondering what had hit him. It didn't take him long to find out though for his assailant landed down onto the rock with him and stood before him, his arms folded and a devil's smile on its face. It was none other than Sonic's evil brother himself, Scourge the Hedgehog. Scourge glowered smugly at Sonic and Sonic glowered furiously at him.

"Scourge! So you're here too!" grumbled Sonic "Just my luck. So let me guess, that streak of light got you too?"

"It certainly did blue." said Scourge "One moment me and Fiona were allowed outside for a minute of fresh air and then suddenly a streak of light appears in the sky and we get sucked in! I hope the cops that were guarding us aren't here too or I will be mad…"

"Fiona got sucked up too? Where is she then?" asked Sonic.

"Taking care of Amy's bratty Mobius Nega counterpart." said Scourge smoothly, pointing up to the rock Sonic had been on a moment ago.

Sonic looked up to where Scourge was pointing and he saw that, just like he'd said, Fiona was taking care of Amy Nega. The vixen kicked the hedgehog in the back of her legs and brought her down onto her knees and then grabbed her into a chokehold. Amy Nega gagged loudly and she tried to break free of the hold but Fiona was too strong for her.

"Let me…go!" croaked Amy Nega.

"No chance sunshine, me and my baby have scores to settle with you." purred Fiona dryly, pressing her arm even harder against Amy Nega's throat, the poor hedgehog gasping for breath as her air supply threatened to run out.

"Amy!" cried Sonic "Scourge, tell Fiona to let her go right now!"

"Why should I? She was a bothersome pest for us when we were on Mobius Nega so therefore, she should suffer." snorted Scourge "Just like YOU should as well you blue twerp!"

"Scourge, please listen for a moment, we don't have time for this!" exclaimed Sonic frantically "Those streaks of light are going to doom the entire multi-verse and if we don't find out what's causing them then we'll all die along with every different version of Mobius out there!"

"Don't play the fool with me Sonic." snarled Scourge "How can a stupid little light in the sky doom us all? We're settling this here and now and if you want to be a wuss and chicken out then be my guest. I'll only chase you down until I catch you!"

"Scourge for once in your worthless life, listen to me!" screamed Sonic "We're wasting time here! We…"

But Scourge wasn't listening. He didn't care about what Sonic had to say anymore. He foolishly believed that the time rifts weren't deadly in the slightest and now he just wanted to destroy Sonic once and for all. He whizzed towards Sonic but Sonic held his hands up and grabbed him. The two linked hands with one another and they pushed on each other as if they were in a sumo match. The two hedgehogs pushed onto each other and tried their best to take the other down. Sonic decided to distract Scourge by using his usual sense of humour to focus his attention away from the struggle for a moment.

"You might know everything I'm going to do, but that's not going to help you since I know everything YOU'RE going to do! STRANGE isn't it?" he snickered.

"That's the lamest thing you have ever said Sonic!" growled Scourge in annoyance.

"Better than what tosh comes out YOUR mouth loser!" laughed Sonic.

With that said he kicked Scourge in the shin and made the green hedgehog kneel down for a minute. Furious, Scourge punched at Sonic but Sonic smacked the punch away and then jabbed him in the side of his head, a vulnerable point for anybody to be hit in. Now Scourge was down, Sonic spin-dashed back up to the rock Amy Nega and Fiona were on and he spin-dashed Fiona away from the pink hedgehog. Fiona was thrown onto her back but luckily, Sonic didn't spin-dash her hard enough to knock her off of the rock completely. Fiona picked herself up and she ran towards Sonic. She threw a kick at him but Sonic blocked the blow and sent her leg jerking to one side, throwing her off balance and bringing her down onto her side. Since Scourge wasn't listening to him, Sonic decided to try his luck with Fiona.

"Fiona, I know you really hate my guts right now but you must listen to me, this is important." said Sonic "You know that streak of light that took you and Scourge to Mobius Nega and now one's brought us here?"

"Yes?" said Fiona, wondering where this was going.

"Well a friend of mine named Silver the Hedgehog told me what they are." said Sonic "They're called time rifts and according to Silver, they spell doom on us all. Mobius Prime has been getting plenty of them and according to Silver, that means Mobius Prime is coming to an end. There's already evidence of that, notice how the time rift that took us here was bigger than usual?"

Fiona thought back for a moment. Sonic WAS right on that, the time rift that had sucked her and Scourge up and brought them here was definitely bigger than the first one she and Scourge had seen. Fiona thought on this and began to find herself believing Sonic on this. As reluctant as she was, she decided to trust Sonic for the moment.

"As much as it pains me to say it…but I believe you." said Fiona "Especially if that silver freak was the one who told you it. He is a time traveller so I can believe what he says. And as you pointed out, that time rift or whatever it's called was bigger than the one me and Scourge were taken to Mobius Nega by so that must mean something. And given I don't want our world to end, I'll happily form a truce until this is over."

"Glad you see it my way Fiona." said Sonic "Let's hope we can convince Scourge to play nice too."

As he said Scourge's name, the green hedgehog spin-dashed his way onto the rock platform and he landed just before Sonic, his face contorting with rage and suggesting he was about ready to kill right now.

"You coward! Fight me like you have done before!" roared Scourge "Give me a REAL battle you chicken-hearted pin cushion!"

"Scourge baby, hold on a second!" exclaimed Fiona, grabbing Scourge's arm and holding him back "Sonic's just told me that those streak of lights in the sky are called time rifts and apparently they're going to doom the world!"

"You don't seriously believe that crap for a minute do ya?" snapped Scourge "Don't tell me you're getting infected by stupid Fiona!"

"Scourge, please, I don't think Sonic's kidding for a minute." said Fiona sternly "He sounded deathly serious when he told me this and to top it off, he told me the information he gave me came from Silver. You remember him right?"

"I do, psychic powered time-traveller with a bad hair style who whacked me with a tree during our battle." muttered Scourge "Also hung out with a purple-furred fire cat with a bad fashion sense. So he knows what that light in the sky is and he says it'll doom us all?"

"Yep." said Fiona "Given he's a time traveller, we can definitely believe what he says if it's related to time and all. Also Sonic pointed out that the time rift that brought us here was much bigger than the first one we were taken away by. That definitely can't be a good sign."

"You got that right." said Scourge, thinking about all of this and analyzing what he'd just been told "That time rift was bigger than usual that's for sure…and if it spells doom for us all then…our world will be no more!"

"If you think THAT'S bad, wait till you hear this!" exclaimed Amy Nega "If Mobius Prime ends, then the entire multi-verse will end! We have to stop those time rifts and fast! We maybe enemies and all but will you help us stop those rifts?"

"Totally!" said Scourge agreeably "How can I become ruler of Mobius if there IS no Mobius! And I can't just pick another Mobius because that'll be gone too! I maybe bad, but never in my life would I want the world to end! That's going too far in my books! So Sonic, we're allies for the time being but I'm warning ya, once we stop the time rifts…"

"Yeah, yeah, I know." said Sonic, shaking Scourge's hand "I know you well enough to know what you're gonna say bro. I've gotta say though, it's like Perfect Chaos all over again. World's in jeopardy and you decide to help us."

"Like I said, I can't rule a world if it's destroyed." said Scourge "So then blue, any ideas where to start?"

"I wish I had any." muttered Sonic "But…"

Suddenly, a loud tearing sound was heard. It sounded like a giant sheet of paper being torn in two only much louder and more ominous. Scourge and Fiona clutched each other fearfully, wondering what it was and Sonic and Amy Nega looked around to see where the noise was coming from. Then, it happened. A streak of light spread down the air in front of them and opened up like a bleeding cut. It was another time rift. This one wasn't too big, suggesting that the time rifts weren't a big problem on this particular world. It was only the size of a giraffe from its hoof to the top of its head. It wasn't as colourful too, being mostly a mixture of red and orange with some yellow mixed in it. Scourge stood forward and surprisingly enough, he couldn't feel anything pulling him towards it. In fact, nobody could feel it pulling them towards it. Was this a weaker time rift and it didn't suck people up, just appeared out of nowhere like this one? Or was this something different? Scourge seemed to have some kind of idea.

"Hey look! Another time rift!" he cried "Maybe if we go through this one, we'll find the cause of these things!"

"Scourge don't!" cried Fiona.

"Don't go in there, it could be dangerous!" yelled Sonic.

But Scourge didn't listen. He leaped off of the rock and straight into the time rift. Sighing loudly, Sonic decided to go after him and make sure he didn't end up in any trouble. Amy Nega and Fiona had no choice but to follow them too. No point staying on a world that's nothing but fog and rock, they may as well see what awaited them on the other side of this time rift. The Mobians all disappeared through the time rift and as they entered it, it closed behind them. The scary thing was, the moment the Mobians had disappeared, a giant pair of icy blue eyes appeared in the sky and booming, thunderous laughter seemed to echo through the fog covered world they had just been on.

"Foolish mortal insects…they will never stop me. " boomed the eyes which flashed as they spoke "I will rewrite the multi-verse and they cannot stop me now I'm beginning to break through the barriers left by that fool Malacos…they are only going to end themselves at this rate…"

The laughter that followed this speech was ominous, thundering and like an earthquake all around and then the eyes seemed to disappear with the laughter fading away shortly afterwards…

The time rift opened up in the sky of another world and out of it poured Sonic, Scourge, Fiona and Amy Nega. The rift had opened up pretty high though so they had quite a bit of a drop. They all plummeted like falling raindrops towards the ground but here's the funny thing about their landing. They landed on the ground…with a big splash. And this wasn't just your usual splash of water either, it was a splash of a yellowy liquid that seemed to expand for miles all around this world. It could have been a lot worse though had it been solid ground and not a yellow liquid substance like they had landed in. Now they had landed, Sonic picked himself up and found himself covered in the yellow liquid they'd landed in. It didn't just run off like water would, suggesting it wasn't water. Sonic eyed it suspiciously.

"Ugh…what is this stuff?" he said in disgust.

Scourge sat up in the liquid and he licked a bit off of his fingers. To his surprise, the taste was very familiar to him. He spat in surprise.

"CUSTARD?!" he blurted "This stuff is custard?!"

"You mean to tell me we're on a world covered in custard?!" gasped Fiona as if this was some kind of crazy dream they had entered "How on Mobius did such a place get formed when the multi-verse did?!"

"I can easily say this is one world that won't be missed when the multi-verse ends." muttered Amy Nega, wiping as much custard off of herself as possible "Who'd want to live in this place?!"

"I dunno, Custard-creatures I guess." said Sonic, shrugging.

"Well I'm not staying on this planet any longer!" muttered Scourge, wiping off some custard and getting to his feet "I hate custard! It's disgusting! I got served enough of that while I've been in prison! I'm outta here!"

He started to stomp off, his feet going splodge through the custard as he did so but no sooner had he taken four big heavy steps, he ended up suddenly falling through the custard, making a very comical splash that sent custard flying everywhere. It was like falling into a swimming pool only it was custard instead of water. Sonic and Amy Nega instantly shrieked with laughter at this whereas Fiona came close to laughing but forced herself to keep it in since Scourge would kill her if he caught her laughing at him. Fiona then ran over to where Scourge had fallen and dunked her hands in the custard, hoping to find Scourge before he drowned in the stuff.

"Scourge! Scourge! You OK down there?" asked Fiona, fumbling around furiously "Where are you?"

"Bblblb'm blblbown blblblere!" gurgled a bubbling sound from under the custard. Scourge seemed to still be able to hear despite being underneath a bunch of custard.

Fiona resisted the urge to face palm herself for she'd end up getting custard on her face. When you're under liquid of any kind, you do NOT talk! Any idiot would know that! Open your mouth and then suddenly the liquid gets in it and assures you a quick drown! But Scourge wouldn't be drowning in custard after all for shortly after he'd said that he rose to the surface, gasping for breath and gagging as if he'd just been given a poisoned stew.

"Gah! Yuck! Phtooey!" he spat madly "This stuff's so damn vile! I can't believe there's people who eat this stuff and actually LIKE it!"

"Well at least you made it back up without drowning hot stuff." muttered Fiona "You didn't happen to find us a way outta here down there did ya?"

"Nope, but I did find something else." said Scourge.

He dunked his hands back down into the custard and pulled something up from underneath it. Sonic, Amy Nega and Fiona all stared in disbelief at whatever it was Scourge had found. Scourge wiped custard off of the thing he now held in his hands and the Mobians could see that it was out of the ordinary, no mistake about that. It almost looked like something belonging to a wizard. It was a long sceptre that had a clock on top of it. The clock was stylized a little like an old grandfather clock that somebody's grandparent may have owned in their lives and the hands were spinning around the face of the clock like crazy. Sonic almost had a hard time believing that this thing was real. It looked so much like something out of a children's book. He rubbed his eyes and stared again. There was no mistake. Scourge was actually holding some kind of clock sceptre or whatever it was he had in his hands. Sonic immediately began wondering what it was. It couldn't be of Mobian origin since it looked so out of the ordinary. Was it connected in anyway to the time rifts? The clock on the sceptre was a big indicator of this since clocks are associated with time and are used as a way of telling the time. If it was connected to the time rifts then what should they do with it? Destroy it and hope that it stops the time rifts appearing? Or use it and see if it actually has the power to stop the time rifts? Sonic had no idea. Fiona stood forward and looked at the sceptre.

"What in the world is this baby?" asked Fiona, putting her hands on the sceptre.

"Dunno, but given the clock on it, I'm guessing it's just some big guy's fancy clock or something." said Scourge "Do you think this can stop the time rift thingies at all? I mean, it's got a clock on it and clocks tell time and all…"

"Coincidence, I was wondering the same thing Scourge." said Sonic "Although I'm not sure what to do about it. Should we destroy it or should we see how it works? Either one might stop the time rifts."

"Or how about we do nothing with it in case we make everything worse?" said Amy Nega sternly, her hands on her hips in the manner of a stern mother "We don't know what that is or what it can do so let's not play with something we don't know about shall we?"

"Phooey! If we don't try it out, we won't know what it is and what it does." scoffed Scourge "We should try this thing out. I bet it's got some kind of weird magical power in it. Maybe open a portal out of this stupid custard covered world!"

"So try it out Scourge, see what happens." urged Fiona "I want to get out of this world too. Custard is revolting and I can do without being surrounded by it!" she added, sticking her tongue out in disgust.

"OK then." said Scourge, holding the sceptre up "How do you work this thing? Do you wave it like a wand and say "Abracadabra" or summet?"

"Put that thing down before you do some damage you crazy maniac!" screeched Amy Nega.

Scourge ignored her and he started waving the sceptre around. He circled the air with it and then he thrust it forward in the hope that it would do something. Nothing happened. He shook the sceptre and thrust it forward again. Nothing happened. Scourge held the clock to his face and he shook the sceptre. He tapped on the clock's face. The hands were spinning but that was about the only thing even remotely close to doing something as far as the sceptre was concerned. Scourge fumed.

"Hey, is this thing working or what?" he said crossly, thumping on it as if hopping that would make it do something.

"Or maybe it just doesn't do anything." said Sonic with a shrug "After all, sceptres don't always do something. They can just be decorations or whatnot, they don't have to do something."

Then suddenly, another time rift opened up just above them. The Mobians all jumped back in alarm. The time rift was as big as the other one that had taken them to this custard covered world but it was a mixture of blue and purple inside and not as illuminated. Scourge looked at the clock sceptre suspiciously. The hands on the face were spinning but it didn't seem to be doing anything else.

"Did I do that?" asked Scourge.

"Wouldn't be surprised if you did." said Fiona "You're the one waving that thing around. It couldn't be anything else."

"Or maybe that time rift just coincidentally showed up as he was waving it around." noted Sonic "Either way, let's see where this one takes us. Maybe it'll take us to somebody who knows what that sceptre is and if it can do anything."

"I second that!" cried Scourge, eagerly jumping through the time rift

"Goodbye Custard Mobius!"

Scourge's voice died away as he disappeared into the time rift. Sonic, Fiona and Amy Nega didn't hesitate to follow him. They wanted to get out of this world too since they were getting nowhere and custard wasn't their idea of a world. They jumped through the time rift and as they went through it, it disappeared. Yet again as they went through the time rift, a pair of icy blue eyes watched them from up in the sky and they seemed to be happy about what had just happened. The eyes disappeared, presumably following the Mobians to where the time rift was taking them next. It was a matter of who got there first…

The time rift opened up again but this time, on ground level so Sonic, Scourge, Fiona and Amy Nega didn't fall out of the sky for a change. Instead, they just stepped out of the time rift as if they were just walking through an ordinary door. After stepping out of the time rift, they found themselves standing on solid ground, which was good enough for them. They looked around just to see what this world they were now on was like. They were on a huge platform that seemed to float in the middle of nowhere. The platform had a ring of flickering blue flames that spanned all the way around the platform and they blazed away like crazy. There seemed to be no sky or even a horizon for that matter. Everything was just a black and blue mesh of swirling and swimming colours that interchanged from black being prominent to blue being prominent in a manner similar to a fancy set of lights. There was nothing else around. Just this one platform and the mesh of colours that surrounded the scenery. Sonic pulled a face.

"Puh, this is almost as featureless as the world of fog and rocks we were on before the custard world!" he complained "Why do we keep ending up on some pretty vapid looking worlds?"

"Dunno, just our dumb luck I guess." sighed Scourge "I was hoping for something a bit more…chaotic and hellish really."

"Trust you to say that." muttered Amy Nega bitterly, her gaze away from Scourge as if she was worried making eye contact with him would give her a serious head-trauma.

"Ah, ah, ah, we're allies Amy Nega so no being nasty towards Scourge if you please." said Fiona coldly.

"I wasn't being nasty, I was just fuming at his evil thoughts." snapped Amy Nega "We maybe allies but it doesn't mean I have to like what he likes now."

"Girls, don't argue, now's not the time." said Sonic hastily "Scourge, I don't like this place, it's freaking me out. Use that thing to get us outta here."

"Wait, not yet." said Scourge "There might be somebody who lives here and knows how to work that thing. Let's investigate first."

"Oh yeah right, that's a brilliant idea." scoffed Sonic sarcastically "Let's investigate the whole platform shall we? Oh look, it's a giant platform with flames all around it! How wonderful! Let's see what else there is. Oh wait, there isn't anything else you moron! THIS IS THE ONLY THING HERE!" he screamed in frustration "There's nothing around here but the platform we're on! We won't find anything here!"

"Geez, didn't have to be a sarcastic little prick about it did ya?" sniffed Scourge crossly "Besides, that's my job! Oh well, if you want out of here then let's see where the clock sceptre will take us next."

He raised the sceptre and began to twirl it around but as he did so, a terrible, booming, growly voice that sounded like a demon echoed through the entire area and made everybody jump out of their fur in alarm. Scourge nearly dropped the sceptre and he clutched it tightly to himself as if hoping it would save him from impending danger. Sonic and Fiona swore that they had never seen Scourge look so frightened before.

"Do not meddle with the time sceptre foolish mortals! This will be your ONLY warning!" thundered the voice menacingly.

"Warning?!" screeched Scourge.

"Any attempts to meddle with the sceptre will result in you mortal fools getting a terrible, gruesome death!" boomed the voice.

What followed that warning was the arrival of the sinister icy blue eyes that had been spying on the Mobians on the last two worlds they had been on. The eyes glowered down at Scourge, fixed entirely on the sceptre as if they had some kind of vendetta against it and were hoping to destroy it for good. Scourge decided not to let the eyes intimidate him as much as the voice did and he pointed the sceptre at them.

"You dare address the awesome Scourge the Hedgehog in threatening tones?!" he snarled furiously "I am so gonna beat the tar outta ya for that you stupid glowing eyes!"

"You are nothing more than an insect waiting to be crushed green one!" sneered the eyes "You cannot stop a god such as myself! And you will drop that sceptre or I will make you drop it for me!"

"You seriously think I'm intimidated by a stupid growling voice and flashing eyes?!" scoffed Scourge "Please, I've seen worse in my life. I've even taken on a giant water creature with a brain in a fin on its head! You don't scare me! And if you want me to drop this sceptre then you must be afraid of it or something!"

He waved the sceptre around as if hoping it would scare the eyes away.

"That's it! Cower before the awesome might of Scourge the Hedgehog!" crowed Scourge delightedly.

Sonic just sighed in annoyance and he looked over at Fiona.

"You sure he's the right guy for ya?" he snorted.

"Sometimes that ego of his just makes me sigh." sighed Fiona in agreement "Even I have to admit he's in over his head right now."

"Shut up back there you two!" barked Scourge "Can't you see I'm trying to scare off these stupid glowing eyes that are threatening us?!"

"I do not fear the time sceptre, especially as it is in your inferior hands mortal." crooned the voice darkly, the platform rumbling under the Mobian's feet "You will drop it so that I may destroy it before Malacos can find it! I went to the trouble of hiding it on that yellow liquidated world so that he would nev er find it and now you've unearthed it, he can find it and use it against me!"

"Huh? What? Who's Malacos?" asked Sonic inquisitively "And who the heck are YOU Mr. Creepy Von Booming Voice?"

"I am the Eraser, the God of Existence." announced the eyes "Every existence in the multi-verse, in AL L of creation depends solely on me for existence and I am not pleased with how everything in the multi-verse looks. I will erase it all and reshape it to how I see fit! Only Malacos stands in my way and now I've disposed of his time sceptre, I can commence with my goals without him proving much of a problem for me! He continues to try and stop me but without his sceptre, it is useless for him! He cannot stop me and now I will stop you fools from using the sceptre to try and stop my beautiful time rift portals from erasing everything around!"

"Time rift portals?!" piped Sonic in alarm "So it's YOU who's behind the time rifts! And you want to reshape the multi-verse?! WHY?!"

"As I said, the multi-verse has a repulsive image." boomed the Eraser "Such disgusting animals crawling around like insects and giving the multi-verse a repulsive image! Being as I am the God of Existence, I demand that your existences cease but unfortunately, the other Gods of Existence that exist alongside me demanded that I not interfere with the multi-verse! They like it the way it is! I decided to show them I was boss by erasing them from existence! Only one is immune to my power, the God of Time himself, Malacos! He foolishly tries to stop me from recreating the multi-verse but as it is, I am winning the battle with him! He'll fall to me eventually and then I shall recreate the multi-verse into an image that it should have!"

"And what image is that you creepy little cuss-face?" asked Fiona cautiously.

"No point telling you, you'll all be erased from existence!" cackled the Eraser "Malacos is protecting you all so far, hence why my time rifts don't erase you, only relocate you to another world. The sceptre also wields protection for you all too. But once I beat him and the sceptre is destroyed, you'll all disappear at the mere snap of my fingers!"

"I'm not disappearing any time soon!"yelled Sonic bravely "We're gonna give this sceptre to Malacos and then he'll kick your butt with it! And then maybe I'll help him to defeat you too!"

"You dare to challenge the Eraser?!" roared the Eraser furiously "I shall smite you all for this! I may not be able to make you disappear, but I will snatch that sceptre from your worthless hands!"

The eyes then suddenly disappeared and what remerged in their place was a tall, dark figure dressed in icy blue robes and wearing a hood that concealed any feature on its face except the malevolent, glowing blue eyes of pure coldness that glowered at the Mobians. Two spikes protruded from the back of its shoulders and its hands looked as if they were made of ice. It didn't seem to have any feet and it levitated above the ground. This was The Eraser's true form and now he was going to battle the Mobians hand to hand. When in battle with the so-called "Malacos" he would be much bigger than this. Sonic, Scourge, Fiona and Amy Nega all stood their ground and they prepared to do battle with this mysterious god that stood before them. His robes flapped around in a wind that the heroes and villains couldn't feel yet seemed to surround him.

"Come on guys! We can take this clown!" Sonic yelled determinedly "We're not letting him erase all of existence! Let's do it to it!"

Scourge was the first to attack. He zoomed forward and he swung the sceptre at The Eraser. He managed to whack him in the head with it, the hands on the clock's face spinning around like crazy as it hit him. The Eraser took the blow and he grabbed the sceptre. Scourge held on tight and he wrestled with the demonic entity that threatened to end all things just so he could do it all over again.

"Hey Eraser! If you want to destroy this thing, how come you merely hid it on another world?" asked Scourge "Why didn't you just destroy it?!"

"I was hoping to use it for my own once I had beaten Malacos in battle." boomed The Eraser, his eyes narrowing down to cold slits that resembled icicles to some degree "But now you've found out, by complete accident that is, so now I must destroy it before Malacos can get it back! I may nev er get it away from him again!"

"Well God of the Dumbos, I've got news for ya!" yelled Scourge "I'm not letting ya erase us all from existence, namely ME! This sceptre's mine and I say Malacos can have it back so he can kick your big godly ass!"

The Eraser just slugged Scourge in the gut and made him let go of the time sceptre. The Eraser cackled delightedly, pleased to have the powerful weapon in his hands again but before he could so much as think about breaking it, Scourge spin-dashed him in the gut and made him drop it. Scourge grabbed the sceptre and then he smacked The Eraser with the sceptre. The Eraser took the blow but he did stagger backwards, wincing for a minute. Sonic spin-dashed him in the back and knocked him down onto his stomach. This gave Scourge the opportunity to whack The Eraser on the head with the sceptre. The Eraser groaned a ghoulish groan of pain and he jumped up onto his feet. He threw a terrific punch at Scourge that sent him hurling into the air. Scourge spiralled through the air but surprisingly enough, he still had hold of the time sceptre. The Eraser flew over to where Scourge was going to land and he caught him in his hands. He tossed Scourge towards the flames on the edges of the platform after snatching the sceptre from him. Scourge landed in front of the flames but luckily, didn't land in them so he avoided a nasty burning. Fiona and Amy Nega both ran up to The Eraser but he smacked them both away with the time sceptre, sending the two girls hurling across the platform. Scourge picked himself up and he spin-dashed The Eraser in the back. The Eraser didn't falter or stagger from the blow and he whacked Scourge onto the ground with the time sceptre. Sonic however had another idea. He ran towards The Eraser and instead of spin-dashing him, he ran around him as fast as he could. He began to run around and around in a circle at top speed until he became nothing more than a cobalt ring circling The Eraser and going around and around continuously. The Eraser had no idea what was going on but he remained vigilant just to see what would happen. Then it happened. Sonic was doing his Sonic Tornado move and the tornado was beginning to build up all around The Eraser. The Erased was whisked off of his feet and he spun around and around as the tornado carried him into the air. The sceptre was thrown out of his hands and Fiona was on hand to catch it quickly before it could be lost or anything. The Eraser was brought up to the top of the funnel of wind Sonic was creating and he was thrown clean out of it like juice in a blender that's had the lid taken off while it was still blending. The Eraser was thrown quite far, so far in fact that he seemed to disappear in the distance. Sonic knew that he wouldn't be gone for long though, they had to get out of here before he came back for them.

"He's gone now, Fiona use the time sceptre to get us outta here!" cried Sonic frantically.

"I can't! I don't know how!" cried Fiona desperately "I don't even think that sceptre got us outta the previous world!"

"I second that." said Amy Nega "I think The Eraser used a time rift to bring us here on purpose so he could confront us. The sceptre I don't think had anything to do with the time rift that brought us here."

"Well that sucks! And I doubt he's gonna create another time rift to let us leave here!" moaned Sonic in despair "How the heck will we escape from here?!"

"Pray really hard that the time sceptre can get us outta here, we just need to work out how?" suggested Fiona helplessly.

"Yeah, that's not very helpful Fiona." muttered Sonic, taking the sceptre from Fiona "Although there's not much else we can do right now. Let's just try this thing and see if it can work."

Sonic held the time sceptre up right and began wishing it could make a portal or something. But the sceptre didn't do anything except spin its clock hands around as if trying to hypnotize Sonic. Sonic shook the sceptre and began banging it by the tip on the floor.

"For god's sake DO SOMETHING!" cried Sonic helplessly.

Then suddenly, just as he'd feared, The Erased emerged from nowhere and he had his hands opened, ready to snatch Sonic up and rip him apart. Sonic yelped in surprise and he held the time sceptre in front of his face. It was as if he was hoping by some crazy miracle it would actually shield him from the dangerous god that planned to erase everything. The Eraser lunged at Sonic, his claws bared and his eyes burning with rage but Scourge pile-dived him down onto the ground. Sonic added insult to injury by smacking him on the head with the sceptre. The Eraser got up from the floor and he backhanded Scourge into Fiona and Amy Nega.

"FOOLS! I'LL PEEL THE FLESH OFF YOUR BONES FOR DARING TO GET IN MY WAY!" bellowed The Eraser "And I will start with you, you blue coloured cretin!" he growled, advancing towards Sonic with a menacing look in his eyes, "You're one to talk." scoffed Sonic, noticing the irony of his statement for The Eraser was blue himself.

The Eraser clawed furiously at Sonic, the blue hedgehog ducking backwards to avoid his attack. The Eraser clawed at Sonic a second time but Sonic blocked the attack with the time sceptre. He whacked The Eraser across the head with it but The Eraser didn't fall back. The Eraser instead punched Sonic in the face and sent him staggering towards the edge of the platform. The Eraser lunged at Sonic but Sonic stepped to the side and avoided his charge. He kicked The Eraser in his head but The Eraser retaliated sharply with a backhand that send him flying into Scourge. Sonic knocked him down onto the floor but he still had the time sceptre in his hands. Sonic picked himself up and he held the sceptre up as The Eraser ran towards him.

"Hey sceptre, if you can do something, now would be a good time to do it!" cried Sonic desperately.

The words "Now would be a good time" seemed to have some magic effect on the sceptre for the time sceptre actually ended up doing something at last! The time sceptre glowed brightly and the hands began spinning so fast that they became nothing more than a blur circling the face of the clock on the sceptre. The Eraser stopped dead in his tracks and he backed off as the sceptre began to activate its power.

"NOOOO!" he thundered fearfully "You've tapped into its power! Malacos will find it for sure!"

"Well in that case, you'd better run for it before he shows up!" sneered Sonic "Cause you're going to be sorry when he gets hold of you!"

"This isn't over yet mortal!" declared The Eraser "I'll be back and I'll erase you all once and for all!"

With that said, The Eraser began to disappear. He dematerialized into thin air and he fled the world that Sonic, Scourge, Fiona and Amy Nega were occupying for the moment. He wasn't fleeing because he thought that Malacos would beat him, he had other plans and he was going to rely on the element of surprise in order to get that sceptre away from Malacos. As for Sonic, he stood there watching the sceptre glowing brilliantly and then to his amazement, a beam of light shot out of the clock's face and it seemed to open up a portal in mid-air. Scourge, Fiona and Amy Nega watched, marvelled by the amazing thing this sceptre was doing. They weren't quite sure what Sonic had done to activate it but it was amazing nonetheless. Sonic stared at the opened portal that the sceptre had formed and he watched with even greater amazement as something stepped through the portal. It was a figure dressed in black robes and wearing a bronze coloured helmet with a great protruding pair of horns. Its eyes were golden and its face was a lighter shade of black compared to its robes. Sonic began to wonder if this was another villain he'd summoned given the rather dark appearance of the figure but the figure merely held his hand out and the time sceptre wrenched itself free from Sonic's hands and drifted over to the figure.

"I thank you dearly for returning this to me." said the figure, bowing down gratefully to Sonic "I feared I had lost it for good when The Eraser stole it from me."

"Well you could say that my bro Scourge kinda fell over it while we were zone hopping." said Sonic with a slight chuckle "So let me guess…you must be Malacos right?"

"I am indeed my boy." said Malacos with a warm, friendly smile on his face "I am Malacos, the God of Time. I keep time in check, it is my duty to make sure time goes as smoothly as it should and that any anomaly that threatens time itself is erased immediately. I have been in a battle with The Eraser, a battle that has been going on for a centaury now."

"A centaury?!" shrieked Fiona in alarm "It's been going on for THAT long?!"

"How long's a centaury again?" asked Scourge curiously.

"Yes my dear mortals, it has indeed gone on for that long." said Malacos gravely, shaking his head sadly "At first I was able to hold back The Eraser and keep him from erasing everything in sight. You see, I have placed a time lock over the multi-verse to keep you safe from his erasing abilities. Unfortunately, as our fight continues, I grow weaker and my time lock is breaking down. A God of Time is not as strong as a God of Existence and it is power-draining to fight The Eraser while keeping the time lock up. His time rifts are able to seep through the cracks but the time lock manages to keep them from erasing anybody they suck up. You see, that is what they are meant to do, suck you up and erase you for good. The time lock has prevented this from happening and instead you end up on another world but as I grow weaker, the time lock will grow weaker too until eventually, it'll collapse and The Eraser can erase you all at the snap of his fingers and I mean that in a very literal sense of the word. Just a snap," he snapped his fingers as he said this "and you'll be gone."

Sonic shuddered uncomfortably.

"No…we can't let that happen Malacos!" cried Sonic "We have to stop him! Heck, we'll help you stop him if we can! What do you think to that?"

"I am inclined to all the help I can get at this point in time." said Malacos agreeably "You mortals may assist me in taking down The Eraser and finishing him off for good. But you four will not be enough, we will need more of you."

"And there's definitely more!" cried Sonic excitedly "I have many brave friends who will do whatever they can to save the world! Can you help me find them?"

"Even better my blue friend, I will give you the power necessary to BRING your friends to us." said Malacos, handing him the sceptre "My time sceptre can open up completely harmless time portals that will lead your friends to us. All you have to do is think of their names and appearances and the time sceptre will find them. No matter what zone, no matter what time, it will know exactly who you're looking for."

"Sweet!" Sonic shouted out with glee "Let's get to it then!"

"Don't mess this up blue, we wouldn't want your friends to have a nasty accident would we?" purred Scourge teasingly.

"Lay off Scourge, I know what I'm doing." said Sonic, holding the sceptre up and thinking as hard as he could.

Only his friends were on his mind at this moment and the time sceptre glowed brightly, the hands spinning around as it searched for all of Sonic's friends. Sonic thought of each name and each appearance of his friends, as well as being specific on which zone he wanted (E.g. Sally Acorn Prime, Tails Prime, Knuckles Prime etc.) The sceptre threw beams of light all around as Sonic activated its power. Portals opened up from those beams and Sonic thought harder and harder to make sure that nothing went wrong. He had one shot at this and it had to work or the multi-verse was doomed forever.

My friends…we need you. We need you all. he thought We have to take on this threat together…

Was that a good first part or what?! And don't think that this is going to be over any time soon! We need to know where Sonic's friends are and how things are going with them! And Tails and Cosmo are the first ones to have their story told after Sonic next time. Join me as Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses continues in Part 2 where Tails and Cosmo encounter things that are "The Same As It Never Was"...

Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses Part 2

Story 167: Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses Part 2: The Same As It Never Was Author's Note: This episode is a loving tribute to the 2003 TMNT cartoon episode of the same name. All respect goes to Michael Ryan, the writer of the episode "The Same As It Never Was" and no copyright infringement is needed OR intended.

Man I'm so gonna hurl.

Those words were the first words that came to the head of the young child genius and inventor Miles "Tails" Prower as he finally woke up from being unconscious for quite a while. His head was banging so much that Tails wondered if his brain was going to erupt and his stomach was churning ever so horribly. He had to put his hand over his mouth and fight back the urge to throw up, swallowing whatever he felt in the back of his throat and gasping for breath, hoping the fresh air would make his stomach feel better.

Tails had been out for a long time after the time rift had taken him away along with Sonic the Hedgehog and the others. The time rift had opened up and dumped him here, wherever "here" was that is, and roughly forty minutes had passed since then. Now he was finally waking up and needless to say, he felt terrible. He put a hand over his stomach and massaged it tenderly to try and ease off the sick feeling he was getting right now. He massaged his temples as he relayed what had happened just to keep up to date and make sure he hadn't missed anything.

"OK so a moment ago, a giant time rift opens up above the city and sucks us all in like a giant vacuum cleaner and now it's spat me out here…I hope Sonic and the others, especially my beloved Cosmo, are OK." he said worriedly "Oh I hope I'm not here on my own!"

Tails hugged himself fearfully as the nasty thought of him being in the middle of nowhere on his own crept into his mind. But then Tails thought of something. He shouldn't be worried about being on a world on his own without seeing what it was like first. Maybe he was on a nice friendly world and he would get on just nicely there until he found a way back to Mobius Prime. Maybe he was still on Mobius Prime, who knew? Tails calmed himself down and he sighed a soothing sigh to relax his nerves.

"OK then, before you get into a panic Tails, let's see where we are shall we?" he whispered to himself.

He nodded as if answering his own question and he got up to his feet, relieved that he didn't feel sick anymore. Tails looked around and to his horror, he saw a sight of complete and absolute chaos. His jaw dropped open and his eyes widened to the point of taking up his whole face. He had landed inside of what looked like the throne room of Castle Acorn only it was a complete wreck. The ceiling had caved in, chunks of debris littered the floor and piles upon piles of brick, mortar and wood loomed where the doors were, the doors themselves presumably buried behind the pile of mullock. The floor was laden with cracks and the throne to which the king or queen would have sat in lay in splinters on the floor, any trace of its majestic structure truly gone forever with the remains the only remaining evidence of its existence. Every window in the room was broken, the panes AND the glass itself lying in pieces on the floor, prompting Tails to watch his step. He even checked himself to see if he had landed on any glass and frantically brushed at his fur with his fingers to see if any bits of glass were in his fur. He had no glass in him. Tails turned his attention back to the carnage around him. Through the hole left in the ceiling after it had caved in, he could see a dark, musky grey sky that loomed over the castle like a witch's curse and an illuminated ball of light that was the moon shone eerily through the mist as if trying to be seen through it despite the density. The dull skies made Castle Acorn look vapid and dreary in appearance, hardly any light to illuminate the place and just giving Tails a very uncomfortable feeling as if he had just stumbled into a horror movie. It was a horror all right, but sadly not a movie. It was all real. Tails fell into despair.

"What happened here?" he asked himself "Why is Castle Acorn a wreck?"

He then had a terrible thought. What about the rest of New Mobotropolis? Was that a wreck too or was Castle Acorn the only building around that was wrecked? Tails had to check it out and fast. He hurried over to a window and he stared out of it. The sight of Castle Acorn in despair was terrible enough for the little fox cub but what he saw outside would mentally scar him for life. His mouth opened so wide that he was amazed his jaw bone hadn't dislocated yet and his eyes streamed with tears of shock and dismay. Outside of Castle Acorn lay a scene of total havoc and destruction. Every house in New Mobotropolis lay on the ground in pieces, nothing left of them that resembled their original structure and fires blazed away in random places all around the city. It looked like a war zone. There were skeletons all around, suggesting that many people had died in this carnage and Tails swore that he even saw a corpse or two that was just rotting away, the flesh rotting and peeling away from the bones that gave the body of the poor victims their shape. Flies danced around the rotting corpses and judging by how much of the flesh had rotted away, Tails guessed the rotting corpses were at least weeks old. How old the already rotted corpses were was beyond him but he guessed that they had been there for weeks, maybe a month or two and that the rotting corpses were people who had just recently died. The gruesome thing about this was that some of the skeletons lay under the pile of debris that the houses had been reduced too and some had sharp bits of wood or sharp bladed weapons in them, suggesting they'd been impaled or stabbed to death in the carnage. As for the wreckage that was New Mobotropolis, Tails could see where his house stood back on Mobius Prime and like the others, it had been wrecked too. He had a sick image of himself under the pile of rubble and chunks that the house had been reduced too. Tails could literally bare it no longer. He turned away from the window and put a hand over his heart to make sure it wasn't going crazy with horror right now. His eyes still streamed with tears. This was the most sickening thing he had seen in his entire life, and he was only eight years old no less. No kid Tails' age should ever have to witness a sight as sickening as this and yet he was here right now, seeing it all and crying over it.

"NO!" he cried out in anguish "No, no, no, no, no! This…this can't be! This…this is horrible! What the heck happened to New Mobotropolis?! Why is everything destroyed or dead?!"

"Ugh…Tails? Is that you?" said a familiar voice from not far away from him.

Tails' head snapped around to the side and he saw probably the most enlightening thing in the entire room. There, sitting in the corner of the room with some chunks of wood lying on top of her was his adorable girlfriend Cosmo the Seedrian. Tails sighed with relief at the fact Cosmo was here. Just Cosmo being here instantly made him feel better. Tails wiped away his tears, ran over to Cosmo and he pushed the wood off of her. Cosmo grabbed onto his shoulders and she pulled herself up onto her feet. She grasped Tails in a tight hug and rested her head against his chest.

"Oh thank goodness you're here with me!" she cried with delight "I was worried that would be alone on this dark world!"

"I worried about that too." said Tails, stroking Cosmo's leafy hair to comfort her "Thank goodness we weren't separated. So how long have you been awake?"

"I only just woke up." replied Cosmo, trailing her fingers up and down Tails' back just for the pleasure of feeling his fur in her fingers "I looked around after waking up and saw nothing but piles of debris and wreckage and a dark grey sky through the hole in the ceiling. Then I heard you crying and spotted you. Why were you crying?"

"It's a nightmare world outside Cosmo!" wailed Tails, the tears coming back to his eyes again "Everything's a mess! The houses are all destroyed, there's dead bodies everywhere and it just looks terrible!"

"Really?" asked Cosmo, spooked by Tails' statement.

"Yes Cosmo." said Tails "Just look for yourself."

He led Cosmo over to the window he'd looked out earlier and showed her what he had seen. He had his hands on Cosmo's shoulders so he could quickly be on hand to comfort her. Cosmo put her hands to her mouth in horror at the grisly scene that waited her outside of Castle Acorn. The sight of death and destruction instantly made Cosmo break down in rainfalls of tears not only because it was like seeing her home city destroyed, but because it made her think about the Martians destroying Greengate and rendering her the last of her species*. Cosmo turned away from the scene outside and she squeezed Tails tightly, crying into his fur like a weeping willow.

"Oh Tails, it's horrible out there!" she howled "How could that horrible time rift bring us to a world like this?!"

"I don't know Cosmo." said Tails, wrapping his arms around Cosmo and stroking her back and hair to comfort her (he's so sweet isn't he?) while also crying alongside her "Maybe we were unlucky and we were dropped off here. I hope the others are on better worlds than this."

"I just hope they're alright!" wailed Cosmo "I can't bear to think of them in danger! Especially if any of them are here with us!"

"As much as I hate to say it…I hope that nobody else has been sent here." said Tails sadly "Just us suffering the hell of this world is enough, please spare everybody else the horror I say."

"I agree." said Cosmo, wiping her eyes dry and looking her boyfriend in the eyes "Speaking of this world and all, I wonder which version of Mobius this is? Sonic ended up on a "Mobius Nega" before so is this planet called "Mobius something" too?"

"Perhaps." said Tails "Mobius Hell maybe. I wonder what caused this carnage? Who's responsible for wrecking everything? Why is everything so dark and full of death?"

"I don't know and I REALLY don't want to find out." said Cosmo "Please Tails, I want to leave this world! Please get us out of here!"

"Oh Cosmo, I wish I could." said Tails, putting his hands on his girlfriend's face and stroking her cheeks with his thumbs "But I can't. I don't have any tools or machinery right now, I can't build anything to get us out of here. I'm so sorry Cosmo but we're gonna have to find help if we want to leave here."

"I can't believe I'm saying this but I hope another time rift appears and takes us out of here!" exclaimed Cosmo "Anywhere will be better than here!"

"Well it's too much to hope another time rift will appear and take us out of here." said Tails solemnly "So for now, we'll have to find our own way out of this world. Maybe there's somebody who can help us. It's gonna be tough Cosmo but we'll have to go outside and start searching."

"OK my loveable little fox." said Cosmo "But please, carry me out. I don't want to walk among so much death and destruction."

Tails was all too happy to abide to Cosmo's wishes. He scooped her up bridal style and he flew off into the air outside of Castle Acorn. As Tails flew up into the sky, Cosmo did her best to make sure she didn't look down at the terrible scene that was below them. Tails unfortunately couldn't look away. He had to keep his eyes open and look all around to make sure that he knew where he was going and to see what was around. As the two left New Mobotropolis behind, Tails flew out over the fields surrounding the city, dismayed to see that there was nothing left of the fields. The grass had withered and died out a long time ago, leaving barren wasteland all around that stretched on for miles around. There were more skeletons and rotting corpses all around the wasteland, the sheer number of them making Tails cringe. How many people had died here in New Mobotropolis alone? What had killed them all? Tails didn't really want to know, this scene was too horrible enough as it was, knowing the cause of it all would just make it worse. Tails tried hard not to look down and instead just looked ahead of him. He could at least see where he was going and recognize the way then.

A few minutes of flying later, Tails and Cosmo arrived over what Tails assumed was Empire City. Like New Mobotropolis though, the city was an enormous mess. Buildings had crumbled down, spilling girders, beams, steelwork and glass all over the roads and pavements. The roads were littered with waste, rubble and rubbish and had potholes everywhere, making a simple drive in a car impossible. Tails even saw a crane that had fallen on top of a building, crushing it beneath its weight and the arm of the crane sticking up a slight angle with its cable and hook wedged into another building nearby and making a slope that somebody could slide down if they had something for that kind of thing. Hover cars, trucks and even construction vehicles lay all around the city, their frameworks and structures all crumpled up like sweet wrappers and some of them spilled oil over the roads, adding more mess to the already messed up roads all around. There were even military vehicles lying around, broken and beyond repairing or ever seeing another battle ever again. Tails sighed sadly as he eyed the smoking, charred remains of what had been a hover tank, its gun barrel bent and buckled and the turret laden with holes. Fire hydrants lay crumbled and broken on their sides, any water that they housed now all gone and leaving a empty hole where they had stood. Some sky scrapers in the city had either been blown in half or knocked down completely. Tails saw half of the once proud Empire State Building lying forlornly on its side as the other half remained standing, a pitiful reminder of what it had been before the destruction had begun. Tails wanted to get out of here and fast. Empire City looked too dreadful for him to hang around. But as he flew over the city he saw something and he stopped. Cosmo opened her eyes, wondering why Tails had stopped for a moment. Tails had spotted what looked like a cream-furred rabbit in a black outfit running through the streets. Tails was curious to see what it was up to and even more so, who this rabbit was. Tails flew down towards the rabbit, making sure to keep a good distance behind it so that the rabbit wouldn't spot him and Cosmo. Cosmo held on tight as Tails flew behind the rabbit, making sure he was well behind and that the rabbit didn't know he was there. With any luck, the echoing sound of her footsteps would drown out any noise he was making and given it seemed to be in a hurry, it wouldn't bother about him.

"Tails, it's not nice to follow people." hissed Cosmo "That poor rabbit might think you're stalking it."

"I know Cosmo but I just want to see who it is and where it's going." whispered Tails "Maybe it can help us."

He watched as the rabbit disappeared around a corner and headed off down another junction. Tails followed it and flew on as the rabbit ran down another pavement and then ducked down into an alley way. Tails followed it with a sharp swerve down the alley way and he watched as the rabbit ran up to a sewer lid that was nearby and it opened up the lid. It climbed down into the sewers and it put the lid back over the hole. Tails landed onto the ground and he put Cosmo down. They both stood around the sewer lid and wondered what the rabbit could possibly want to be down a sewer for. Given how much of a wreck the world was in at the moment, maybe hiding in the sewers wasn't such a bad idea, even if they were smelly as all heck. Tails was about to lift up the sewer lid and follow the rabbit that had gone down into the sewers but just as he slipped his fingers under the lid, a light shone over him and Cosmo and the two jumped out of their skins in shock. The light was crimson red and it came out of the eye of a robot that had come by the alley way and found them. To Tails and Cosmo's utter disbelief, it was a Devatron soldier! There was no mistake on that! They were face to face with a Devatron, an enemy they thought they had finally defeated long ago! The Devatron looked just like the ones that Tails and Cosmo along with Sonic and all the other Royal Fighters had been up against on their Mobius, a humanoid robot with a pair of horns on the side of tits head, a muzzle-like structures in place of a mouth with sharp fangs protruding from the sides, twin cannons on its backs, spiked shoulders, three clawed hands with two clawed thumbs, a V-shaped visor with a singular holographic eye and reptilian pupil, three clawed feet and it was coated in an invulnerable chrome armour that glistened in the moonlight that shone above. Tails and Cosmo thought for a moment this was imagination and they closed their eyes, hoping to make the Devatron go away. But it didn't, it was still there when they opened their eyes. The Devatron was as real as this hell hole of a world was! Tails instantly assumed that he and Cosmo had found out what had ruined this world. It must have been the Devatrons and unlike Mobius Prime, they had conquered this Mobius. Of all things that had an alternate counterpart though, did it HAVE to be the Devatrons?! The Devatron stomped into the alley way, its glowing visor fixed on Tails and Cosmo and the light that came from it shining over them. Tails and Cosmo backed up against the wall at the end of the alley way and Tails grasped Cosmo into a tight hug as he pressed himself back first against the wall, his terrified eyes fixed on the Devatron.

"Mobian scum!" barked the Devatron viciously "I'll have you both terminated! Devion the Dreaded will not tolerate Mobian filth staining his glorious kingdom!"

"No, please, you can't!" begged Tails desperately "You can't harm us! We're harmless! We're unarmed! Please don't kill us!"

"Please, we beg of you, spare our lives!" sobbed Cosmo "Please!"

"I have been given orders to exterminate every last Mobian I find!" snarled the Devatron "This is Devion's world now and he will not rest until the populace has been exterminated! You insects will not be allowed to thrive anymore!"

It deployed its arm cannon and it aimed directly at Tails and Cosmo, most specifically their heads. Tails hugged Cosmo even tighter and he stared fearfully at the Devatron.

"Don't! Please don't!" whimpered Tails.

But as the Devatron prepared to attack, the sewer lid was suddenly kicked out of its hole and sent crashing into the Devatron. The Devatron backed away as the lid walloped it but it wasn't hurt by the attack. Tails and Cosmo watched as the rabbit they had been following earlier leaped out of the sewer hole, somersaulted into the air and then drop-kicked the Devatron onto its back. Tails and Cosmo now had the chance to see what this rabbit looked like. To their surprise, it looked an awful lot like Cream the Rabbit but this rabbit was much older than Cream was. She looked closer to sixteen, having a very slender, curvy figure that was complimented by a black leather bra with shoulder straps that showed off her slim, flat belly, black fingerless gloves with spikes on them and black leather trousers that were held up by a black belt with a silver buckle. She also wore black boots with steel toecaps. She had very curvaceous legs that somehow spelled grace and deadliness both at once. She had long flowing hair too, very different from the two bumps behind Cream's head. Tails couldn't help but wonder if this was like seeing a future version of Cream the Rabbit. Maybe Mobius Prime's Cream the Rabbit would look like this when she was older. The rabbit whipped something off of her belt and she thrust it into the Devatron's neck. It was a taser and while electricity doesn't hurt a Devatron, this taser was an EMP generator built into the shape of a taser. So when she activated it, the taser activated an EMP shock that brought the Devatron into unconsciousness. The Devatron lay there, limp and unmoving, on the ground. The rabbit put the taser back onto her belt and she looked over at Tails and Cosmo. Her face looked strangely bitter though.

"You two OK?" she muttered.

"We are now thanks to you ma'am." said Tails appreciatively "Thank you so much for saving our lives miss!"

"Yes, we're very grateful to you for saving us from that Devatron."

"Don't be because you two are coming with me and I don't think my man Miles is gonna like the sight of you." said the rabbit coldly.

She then grabbed Tails and Cosmo by the scruff of their necks and she carried them down into the sewers. Tails and Cosmo were both very worried now. Had they just leaped out of the frying pan into the fire? What was the rabbit going to do to them? They'd soon find out for the rabbit was taking them somewhere and that somewhere was underground in the sewers…

Sooner or later, Tails and Cosmo had been taken to an underground lair that had been formed in an old sewer tunnel by the rabbit. The room was quite small but it had a homey feel to it with a fresh, crisp carpet that was red and gold in colour and covered much of the floor. There was a fridge in the corner that was covered in dirt and grease stains, a couple of sofas and some sleeping bags that lay on the floor. There was a table with an old rusty desk lamp that provided the only light available in the whole room. It was surprisingly bright for such a rusty old lamp so it was all the lamp needed. The table seemed to have some old sheets of paper that were used for planning stages and the like. The room was occupied by two other people. One of those people caught Tails' attention instantly. There was a male fox in a long black leather coat with two tails like him. In fact, this fox looked EXACTLY like an older version of himself! He was much taller than Tails currently was and his face was a nasty, bitter scowl that seemed to indicate the childhood innocence he once had had long since died out, presumably thanks to the Devatrons conquering the world. His right eye was a mess of pink and red with a blue dot that barely resembled a pupil or even an iris and under his right eye spread a nasty scar that suggested a horrible fight had been part of his life at some point. The fox really didn't like the look of Tails immediately as the rabbit carried him and Cosmo into the room. The other Mobian in the room was like no other. It was a Mobian wolf with white hair and three whiskers on the side of its face. It had a big bushy tail much like a fox's and it wore a long black coat with glowing red lining and symbols on it. It also wore gloves with a symbol on them that glowed along with the red linings on its coat. It wore knee high boots that were chunky and had red lining on them that glowed and crimson soles. The wolf's eyes were green and across its torso was some kind of decoration it wore over its white chest fur. The wolf certainly looked like a stern, serious figure and Tails was immediately intimidated by the icy stare the wolf shot at him. After the rabbit had taken Tails and Cosmo here, she had told them what had happened and now the wolf ordered the rabbit and fox to tie them up and gag them. Tails and Cosmo were placed down onto chairs and their hands were tied around the backrest of the chair while their ankles were tied together too. A strip of duct tape was plastered over their mouths each, preventing them from speaking. Tails and Cosmo struggled in their binds and mumbled muffled whimpers behind their gags. The fox had a device in his hand that looked like some futuristic tennis racket only there was no netting in it, only a transparent screen and the handle had some buttons around it.

"Alright then you two scrubs, let's see what you are." said the fox coldly "I bet you're clones or some kind of Devatron agent sent out to terminate us! I mean how can you," he pointed at Tails "possibly look like me when I was ten years younger?! And how can you," he pointed at Cosmo "Look like my deceased lover Cosmo when she was ten years younger too?"

Tails tried to reply but of course he couldn't because his mouth was taped shut. The fox narrowed his eyes at him and held up the device he had in his hand.

"Well this scanner will let us know everything." said the fox "And believe me, if you two are dodgy in anyway, we will NOT hesitate to kill you both. Alter, permission to go with the scan?" he asked, turning to the wolf who just stood by with his hands behind his back and his face flat and emotionless.

"Proceed Miles." ordered the wolf who's name was apparently Alter.

The fox, Miles, switched on the scanner and her placed it against Tails' body, running it up and down every square inch of his body as if he was using a metal detector to look for buried treasure and was hoping to find it in him. The scanner whirred as it analyzed Tails' body and after Miles had done with him, he moved over to Cosmo and ran the scanner over her body. Cosmo whimpered and winced as the device was slowly traced over her, scanning very inch of her body for even the slightest anomaly. After that, Miles read the scanner's findings and to his surprise, there was nothing indicating they were fakes, robotic duplicates, androids in disguise or anything of the sort. They were perfectly normal Mobians! Miles scratched his head.

"Well honey? What are the results?" asked the rabbit curiously.

"Incredulously enough my beloved Carrie…the scanners register them as clean." said Miles, his brows furrowed in confusion "They're not fake or anything. They're Mobians like we are."

"But that's impossible!" cried Carrie "They look like younger versions of you and the late Cosmo the Seedrian! They can't possibly be real!"

"Carrie dear, my scanners never lie." said Miles sharply "They are real alright. Question is though…what are they?"

"I have some idea." said Alter, taking interest in the turn out of this whole thing "Let me ask the two something."

He strode over to Tails and Cosmo, his hands still behind his back and his cold gaze fixed on them. Tails and Cosmo looked at him worriedly, wondering if they were in for the chop or something.

"Are you two from another dimension?" asked Alter "If you nod yes and you're telling the truth, then I'll release you two."

Tails and Cosmo both nodded yes for the tape on their mouths made it impossible for them to say yes. Miles used the scanner to read their nods and surely enough, it came out positive. They were telling the truth. Alter gave off a slight smile that somehow failed to indicate if he was pleased to hear this.

"Well that explains it all." said Alter dryly "They're alternate, and younger, versions of Miles and Cosmo. Which zone do you both come from and why are you here?"

As he asked this, he removed their gags and untied them from the chairs. Remaining sitting but rubbing their wrists and mouths better, Tails and Cosmo explained everything to Alter.

"We're from Mobius Prime." said Tails "We were brought here by a streak of colourful light that appeared up in the sky and we're trying to get back home."

"We're very sorry about this." said Cosmo "Honest we are."

Alter, Miles and Carrie all let out a chorus of amazed gasps at this revelation.

"Prime Zoners?" said Alter, curling his finger over his lips "Now that is something. We've never had Prime Zoners here before. Not that it matters much anyway."

"Please can you tell us where we are Mr. Um…" said Cosmo politely.

"Of course." said Alter "The name's Alter the Wolf, and these are Miles and Carrie." he said, pointing to the two as he addressed their names "You are now currently inhabiting the world of Mobius Beta, the third most prominent version of Mobius after Mobius Prime and Mobius Nega."

"If you're wondering why I look like you in ten years time kid, Mobius Beta is ten years ahead of Mobius Prime." explained Miles "So everybody on Mobius Prime is ten years younger than we are."

"That explains why you and Carrie look like me and Cream only older." mused Tails "So tell me guys, what happened to this world? Are the Devatrons responsible for the death and destruction out there?"

"The answer is yes…AND no." said Carrie grimly "Boss, you tell them everything."

"Don't call me boss Carrie!" sighed Alter in annoyance.

He cleared his throat and looked back at Tails and Cosmo, the two dreading to hear what Alter was going to tell them. The wolf looked almost sad that he'd be explaining this to a couple of kids but he knew that they had to learn since they were here and probably might be for a while.

"Mobius Beta used to be peaceful and wondrous." explained Alter "That was how it used to be three years ago. Then the Devatrons invaded and attempted to conquer the world. Many of us banded together to form a group of Freedom Fighters and we all tried our best to combat this threat. Sadly though, the Devatrons proved tougher than we imagined and many Freedom Fighters lost their lives in the war. Once we learned more about them though, we began to make a comeback and I ended up proving to be a good threat to the Devatrons thanks to my ice powers. You see, I can create ice from the thinnest of air and just freezing the Devatrons seemed like the ticket to winning this war. Alas though, that wasn't the case. The Devatrons upgraded themselves with a suit of armour that allows them to heat up rapidly the moment any ice comes into contact with them. Freezing them is no longer an option. The Freedom Fighters were determined to beat him though and although I prefer best to be alone, I decided to join the Freedom Fighters since alone I had no chance. We put up our best efforts but then the big tragedy came."

"What is it?" asked Cosmo worriedly.

"Out of nowhere, this weird multi-coloured light appeared in the sky and although it didn't seem to do any harm…toxic fumes spilled out of it and began contaminating the entire city above our heads." Alter continued, his face turning even graver now "Radiation spread everywhere after that light in the sky opened up and needless to say…it got ugly."

"Many of us got poisoned by radiation." said Carrie glumly "Including my good friend Venroxas the Rabbit." she added, her face falling as she thought back to that terrible day.

"I lost the love of my life, which is your Mobius Beta counterpart Cosmo." said Miles, looking at Cosmo as he said this "She was poisoned by the radiation too."

Cosmo looked like she was going to drop dead upon hearing that. Tails just cringed, hardly daring to imagine what it would have been like if it had been his Cosmo that had been killed by the radiation poisoning.

"So the Devatrons pretty much won because many Freedom Fighters were poisoned by radiation?" asked Tails.

"Correct." said Alter, his voice barely above a mutter "Me, Miles and Carrie were lucky enough to escape with our lives. The rest…well the dead bodies all around will tell you the rest. We're literally the only Freedom Fighters left. The Devatrons were amused by the radiation that mysteriously came out of nowhere and they ended up studying it and making nuclear weapons for themselves. Needless to say they put them to great effect, bombing cities and poisoning everything around. Miles invented some antidotes for me, him and Carrie so that we wouldn't be poisoned but sadly, all we're doing is just delaying the inevitable. There's no winning this battle now. The Devatrons have won. Mobius Beta has few survivors and we're the only heroes left. Even our own version of Sonic the Hedgehog fell victim to the Devatrons. I still cling onto the false sense of hope that we might win somehow since I'm not one to give up. It maybe hopeless but there's always a chance we might win."

"I hope we can win." said Carrie sadly "I don't want to keep living if this is what the world's going to be like."

Tails and Cosmo could only nod agreeably. Who in their right sane mind would want to live in a world like this indeed? Everything's a wreck and the atmosphere is likely poisoned by nuclear radiation. Mobius Beta is pretty much uninhabitable now! And it was all thanks to the Devatrons and a time rift that this had happened. Tails began to wonder something else about this planet now.

"How many Mobians are there left alive?" asked Tails.

"1,000." muttered Alter "Most of the populace was either poisoned or converted into Devatrons. We three are the only Freedom Fighters left, the other 997 Mobians are weak, helpless and powerless and are no good against the Devatrons. If we don't stop the Devatrons now then…we'll go extinct and Mobius Beta will be nothing but a chrome paradise for those demons in metal coating."

"Well have you got a plan for how to defeat them?" asked Cosmo "Surely you've come up with a way to stop the Devatrons! Please tell me you have!"

"We have come up with a plan little Cosmo." said Miles proudly "We were getting ready to put it into action once Carrie had returned from her scouting mission. And then you two came in so now you can provide additional support."

"Oh really? What is it?" asked a very eager Cosmo.

Miles strode over to the table and he picked up what looked like a small hand grenade only it didn't have a pull-stick to activate it, it had a button on top that would likely be used as the trigger for the device. He showed it to Tails and Cosmo.

"At one point during the war, we managed to steal a dead Devatron and we took it back here to see if we could find a way to get through its armour." explained Miles "I ended up making up a toxin that is able to weaken the structure of the Devatron's armour and make them vulnerable. It doesn't destroy the armour completely but it makes it easier to penetrate. It hasn't been tested yet though so now's a good time to see if it works."

"AWESOME!" cheered Tails happily "That reminds me of how we beat the Devatrons on my Mobius! We visited another race that had been developing a virus that ate through their armour and it destroyed them all! Looks like a virus will beat them on this Mobius!"

"Indeed kid. Pity to heck that I took so long to develop it." muttered Miles as if feeling it was his fault that Mobius Beta was still under oppression "I wish I'd finished the toxin earlier, we could have stopped the Devatrons already and so many lives wouldn't have been lost."

"Miles, it isn't your fault." said Tails comfortingly "It took me and my friends a while to defeat the Devatrons, we didn't stop them immediately and we lost a lot of lives too. We even…nearly lost Sonic too." he added, thinking back to when Devion had shot Sonic in the back and put him into a coma.

"Alright kid." said Miles, stroking Tails' head in thanks "You got a good point there. If you're wondering about this world's Sonic…he was poisoned too just like Cosmo. But I assure you that I will avenge his death with this toxin and make sure his death wasn't in vain. And since you're here, you can honour his memory further by joining us in our final battle with the Devatrons." said Miles "What do you say?"

"I say let's save the world and stop those Devatrons!" said Tails, punching the air excitedly "Me and my friends stopped them on my Mobius so I'm gonna help stop them here!"

"If Tails is in then I'm in two." said Cosmo supportively "I'm not allowing the Devatrons to ruin this world and take away your freedom like this."

"I'm happy to hear it." said Alter, his mouth a tiny curl that vaguely resembled a smile "Let's get ourselves armed and ready then. We're gonna need a lot of weaponry…"

An hour later…

The Devatrons were stationed in a huge fortress that they had built directly on top of Central City which they had razed to the ground during their time on Mobius Beta and the fortress was a sign of their oppression and conquest. It was a huge tower of chrome and steel that glistened in the dreary moonlight and the design and architecture gave the fortress a very intimidating appearance. The base was large and cube like with lots of gun-turrets all around just to keep intruders away. The tower itself was about fifty feet high and sat proudly atop the base like a sword in a stone. There was a huge spire that protruded proudly from the roof of the tower and in the centre of the tower there was a V-shaped window that resembled the Devatron visor. The window even glowed as eerily as their visors did. There were spikes around the base of the spire as if the tower had some kind of crown to support its majestic appeal to the Devatrons. Fleets of Devatron ships flew around the air surrounding the fortress and armies of Devatron soldiers patrolled the grounds. There was no chance of getting in the building without being shot at or spotted by the Devatrons. Inside the magnificent fortress was Devion the Dreaded himself, leader of the Devatron race and an utterly merciless, ruthless conqueror who's only love in the world is his own race and conquest. Devion looked no different from his Prime counterpart aside from wearing a huge black cloak that was red on the inside with a collar at the back of the neck that gave him an eerily vampiric appearance. He had taken this cloak from somebody he had killed during his conquest of the universe. Devion was pleased with his progress on Mobius Beta. The planet had been conquered pretty much in the span of three years. He had conquered other worlds in a much longer amount of time. He had to owe most of his conquest to the fortuitous appearance of the time rift that disposed the nuclear radiation and gave him a new weapon to use. He had bombed and poisoned all of Mobius with some places worse effected than others and Central City in particular had had it VERY bad. So bad in fact that only the Devatrons could inhabit the space around it for it was too polluted, radiated and poisonous for any Mobian to occupy unless they had a gas mask of some kind. It was the perfect place for the Devatrons set up this fortress. The Mobians couldn't possibly beat them now. As Devion sat by in his elegant throne and watched the Devatron ships outside the V-shaped window, he purred contently to himself.

"This planet put up a valiant battle to try and stop me but ultimately, they have fallen to the superior might of the Devatron race." he crooned softly "The Freedom Fighters have diminished to a measly trio and the world barely has a leg to stand on. My army continues to grow and the Mobian population continues to fall. In a matter of time, the whole world shall be mine and the Mobian population shall be nothing but Devatrons."

He tapped the arms of his throne happily. Happiness was an emotion that Devion expressed in ways different to what one would normally consider "Happiness". His idea of happiness was a conquered world and a fresh new army of Devatrons. He may no express happiness in a way that would be considered "happy" but it didn't mean that Devion couldn't ever be happy. As he watched the flying ships and the marching armies, his circuits tingled with glee and his visor narrowed down to a thin V-shaped slit.

"It never ceases to amaze me just what I have accomplished in my time." he purred to himself "The Devatrons have twenty-four worlds under their control and soon it shall be twenty-five. Mobius Beta will make a fine addition to my collection indeed. The universe dared to wrong the Devatrons and now it is paying oh so gloriously for it. I bet the universe regrets the day it ever messed with Devion the Dreaded…"

His thoughts were interrupted by a strange sound. It sounded like rumbling but to Devion's surprise, it was coming from underneath the floor. Devion's throne turned around and Devion stared at where the noise was coming from. The floor shuddered as if something was making it cringe. Devion dismissed it as a minor earth tremor but as he watched the floor, he could hear the rumbling getting louder and began to wonder if it really was an earth tremor after all. His question was soon answered for a huge drill began to break its way through the floor! Devion nearly jumped out of his throne in alarm. He had seen many surprise attacks from the Freedom Fighters before but never before had he seen anything like this. Directly beneath was a new tactic of breaking and entering for the Freedom Fighters, they had never done this before. Devion watched as the whining cone-shaped drill rose up from the floor and what followed it was a huge metal fuselage with tank treads and an opening canopy door. The whole thing was a hi-tech digging machine and it had broken into the fortress from directly underneath. Nobody would have seen that coming so the Devatrons hadn't expected it. Devion glared at the machine as if disgusted by its presence and what disgusted him even more was what was driving the machine. The door opened up and out from the machine emerged Alter, Miles and Carrie along with Tails and Cosmo. Alter had no weapons on him for his ice powers were all he needed. Miles had equipped himself with two wrist-mounted laser shooters and of course, the toxin that would weaken the Devatrons and render them easier to kill. Carrie had two pistols with huge cartridges that suggested a large amount of firepower was in her hands right now.

Tails had armed himself with some exploding dummy rings and Cosmo of course, had her flower blade weapon as well as some dummy ring bombs. The Mobians looked ready for action that was for sure. After arming themselves, Miles had come up with the plan of using the digging machine to tunnel into the fortress for he knew the Devatrons wouldn't expect it for they hadn't ever tried it before. Now they were here, ready to finish off Devion and bring peace back to the world. Devion's visor narrowed into a furious slit of anger. He obviously wasn't pleased to see the Mobians here. What did he have to do to break them and get them to cease their futile efforts to defeat him already?! Devion stood up from his throne and despite how furious he was, he remained calm and collected.

"So…the Freedom Fighters have come to throw away their worthless lives at long last." he sneered confidently "Good…I was beginning to wonder when you'd finally decide to let me put you all out of your misery."

"We're not here to let you take our lives away!" yelled Alter "We're here to destroy you! And we have just the weapon to do it! Miles, NOW!"

Miles pressed the button on the grenade and he threw it at Devion. Devion unfortunately saw it coming and he grabbed it the moment it came near him. He tossed the grenade away and it landed with a clatter by the window where it exploded into a grey ball of gas that would do no harm to anybody. Miles gasped in horror at this.

"NOOO!" he shrieked.

"Is this seriously the last bout of resistance this pitiful planet has to offer for me?" snorted Devion "A mere gas-bomb? Utterly pathetic. I'm astonished I haven't finished you three off already."

"It was no gas-bomb Devion and did you really think I would only bring ONE of them?" crowed Miles "I've got plenty more and you'll have to guess where they are."

Miles was lying. He only had one spare for he had only had the time to make two of these toxin grenades and the spare one was in the last place Devion would expect him to hide it…in Alter's coat. Alter had the spare grenade but unlike Miles he wasn't going to waste it so recklessly. Alter was going to wait for the right moment to throw it at him. Miles was just building up this lie to provide a distraction for Devion. Devion would assume he had more toxin grenades and he'd also assume the spares were in the machine, meaning Alter would far less likely be targeted. Devion glowered sinisterly at Alter and he threw off his cape.

"Very well, I shall have to get rid of those bombs before you can use them." said Devion coldly, reaching out behind him and drawing out his sword "If it is as you say, "more than just a gas bomb" than it must not be allowed to be used on us."

"Freedom Fighters, ATTACK!" yelled Alter, throwing the first attack by summoning shards of ice from nowhere and throwing them at Devion like a bunch of darts.

Devion spun his sword around in a neat circle and he shattered the icicles as they hit the sword. Alter was merely distracting him though so Miles and Carrie could get in on the action with Tails and Cosmo providing additional support. Miles fired away with his wrist lasers but the lasers just bounced harmlessly off of Devion's armour as if they were merely ping-pong balls against a brick wall. Carrie let fly a round of laser blasts that also did no damage to Devion but the rapid fire allowed the lasers to provide some level of distraction for Devion given the constant flashing of her guns blinding him a little. Devion however was used to being shot at so this wasn't something beyond his handling. Devion charged through the laser blasts and he swung his sword at Miles and Carrie. Miles and Carrie jumped back to avoid the sword and they blasted at his head. He took the blasts and swung again. Miles and Carrie avoided the attack again and they stepped back to let Tails and Cosmo have their turn at him. They threw dummy rings at Devion as furiously as they could. The dummy rings exploded the moment they hit Devion's body but they did no damage to him whatsoever. Devion put his sword away and he deployed his arm cannons. He fired furiously at Tails and Cosmo, making them run away before they could get hit by the shoots. They had three rings left between them and they decided to keep hold of them for the time being. Maybe wait until Alter had thrown the grenade at him before throwing the dummy rings again. Cosmo whipped out her flower blade and she threw it at Devion. The bladed disc that Tails had built specially for her soared through the air and it scratched Devion across the visor. Devion winced in pain and he clutched his visor in pain. Cosmo remembered all to tell that the visor was a weak spot for the Devatrons so she of course had aimed at it. The disc returned to Cosmo's hand after it had hit its target. Now Devion was distracted, Miles and Carrie both jumped in and they kicked him across the room. Devion crashed into his throne and the furious Devatron leader picked himself up as the Mobians charged towards him. Devion grabbed the arms of his throne and proceeded to tear the entire throne out of its socket and lift it above his head! He tossed the throne at the Freedom Fighters but they were quick to jump out of the way before it could hit them. The throne bounced off the floor for a bit and then rolled over to the digging machine, crashing into it and denting it slightly. Alter aimed his hands up at the ceiling and doing so caused showers of crystals to appear from nowhere and rain down onto Devion. The upgrades to his systems prevented the crystals from freezing him though but they distracted him well enough to let Tails fly behind Devion and kick him in the head. Devion swung around and elbowed Tails in the face, the spike on his elbow actually leaving a nasty gash across his cheek as he did it. Tails plummeted down onto the floor and he clutched his cheek in pain, staining his glove red with blood as he felt the gash. It would take a while to heal that would. Devion drew his sword out and he prepared to execute Tails but Miles jumped in and shot Devion in the face. Devion back away, clutching his face and Miles grabbed his wrists, hoping to make him drop the sword.

"You took away my best friend and my girlfriend!" he snarled "I won't let you take away my alternate counterpart too!"

"Bringing alternate counterparts to this world for help will get you nowhere." sneered Devion "Especially as the other twin-tailed fox looks like an even more pathetic version of you Miles."

He then pecked Miles in the middle of his face, leaving a spot of blood that streamed down the bridge of his nose and Miles winced in pain. If Devion had hit him in the forehead, he could have killed him. Miles clutched his face with one hand while shooting at Devion with the other. Devion just walked towards him as if nothing was happening and he raised his sword. Aiming at Miles' shoulder, he brought the sword swinging down. Miles was too slow to react and Devion struck him. His sword cleaved through his arm and severed it completely. Miles let out a blood curdling scream of agony as his arm was taken clean off and it landed forlornly on the floor, lifeless and of no use to him anymore. Blood poured out of his shoulder and Miles winced in terrible pain. He was down on his knees and grimacing. Devion added the final blow to him by raising his sword and bringing it straight down onto his head like an axe through wood. Miles' eyes shot open and his mouth hung down as the sword sliced into his cranium. He felt like a block of wood that had been set up for the axe to chop. Devion raised his sword and watched as the lifeless body of Miles collapsed onto the floor, blood streaming out of the neat split in his head. He looked a terrible mess indeed, missing an arm and now having a split in his head. Devion was pleased with his handiwork. Tails had watched the whole thing and he felt sick with horror. That was the grisliest thing he had ever seen in his life and the image would never leave his head.

"NOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO!" he screamed in horror "MILES!"

Watching Miles die had been like watching himself die so this death would effect him more than anybody else in the room. His eyes rained with tears and for a moment he was in shock. He couldn't move. It was a miracle he was even still breathing! Cosmo saw Miles' dead body and felt shocked too. It was almost like seeing Tails dead before her eyes with the only thing reminding her that it wasn't her Tails being the fact he was with her, paralyzed with shock and wailing uncontrollably. Alter and Carrie were horrified at this horrible scene too and Carrie went berserk with rage.

"YOU KILLED HIM! YOU MONSTER, I'M GONNA KILLYOU FOR THIS!" she bellowed.

She began shooting at Devion like a crazed gunwoman and she seemed determined to bring him down but alas, her efforts just weren't good enough. The shots didn't harm Devion and Devion began walking up to her as if the shoots weren't even happening. Because Carrie was so blinded by horror and shock, she wasn't aiming properly and thus, was missing his visor. Carrie backed away from Devion as Devion advanced on her and she kept shooting at him. Unfortunately for her, her cartridges ran out and her guns clicked uselessly as they ran out of ammo. The rabbit instantly grew worried and Devion swung his sword at him. Determined not to fall at Devion's blade, Carrie rolled out of the way, allowing the sword to sweep above her. Carrie whipped out the EMP taser she had used earlier and tried to use it on Devion but Devion swatted her hand away with his hand, causing her to drop the taser. Carrie ran for it but Devion deployed his arm cannon and he shot her in the back, bringing the bodacious bunny down onto the floor in pain. He ran towards Carrie but Alter, determined not to lose her too, ran in and dropkicked him in the head. Devion was thrown down onto the floor by the kick and Alter placed his hands on Devion. He began to cover the Devatron with a sheet of ice. He knew it wouldn't stop him but it would at least distract him enough to help Carrie to safety. He ran over to Carrie and helped her up to her feet. Devion broke through the ice and as Alter carried Carrie away, he threw his sword at the rabbit. The sword hit Carrie in the back and continued through until it emerged from out her stomach! Carrie gasped out in pain as the last supply of air in her lungs escaped her and she collapsed onto the floor with the sword through her torso. Alter felt sick with anger. He'd lost two of the last Freedom Fighters around in one fell swoop and now it was just him and Cosmo left. Alter pulled the sword out of Carrie's body, the blade bathed in blood, and he ran towards Devion with it.

"That's it Devion, you're gonna die for this!" he bellowed, swinging the sword at Devion.

Devion however held up his arm and blocked the blow. He then slugged Alter in the gut and snatched his sword from him. He raised the sword, ready to kill Alter with it and render the Freedom Fighters extinct but Alter had something to save himself. He made a wall of ice raise up from under Devion's feet and it sent the Devatron flying up into the air. Alter made the wall sink down into the floor and he held his hands out. He activated his signature move, something called Cryo Blitz. This move was simply shards if ice shooting out of his palms like bullets from a gun. The icicles hit Devion but he withstood the attack despite the multitude of icicles slicing past his body. He raised his sword and charged towards Alter. Alter covered both his hands in ice and he threw them both up into Devion's chin in a terrific uppercut. Devion's head snapped backwards and he fell onto his back. Before he could get up, Alter used another move of his, Crystal Impaler. He punched the ground and shards of ice protruded from the floor around Devion. Had he not been invulnerable, he would have been skewered already. Devion jumped out of the ice shards and he headed down towards Alter. Alter just jumped up and punched him down onto the floor. Devion picked himself up and he sheathed his sword. He lunged at Alter, clawing him across the chest and then upper cutting him in the face. Alter stumbled backwards and he decided now would be a good time to throw the grenade. He fished it out of his pocket but before he could press the button and activate it, Devion grabbed his wrist and made him drop it. He then kicked it away from Alter. Big mistake though for it ended up rolling towards Tails and Cosmo. As Alter and Devion continued fighting, Cosmo spotted the grenade and she picked it up.

"Tails look! Alter dropped the toxin grenade and it's come our way!" she said happily "We can use it on Devion now and end this nightmare!"

Tails didn't seem to hear her. He was still petrified with shock and was still staring at Miles' dead body, Carrie's not far away and in his field of vision so he was staring at that too. Cosmo put her hands on Tails' head and she turned it towards her's so he was looking at her now

"Tails, listen to me! Snap out of it!" she cried "We have to stop Devion, we can't let Miles and Carrie's deaths be in vain! We have the weapon that can end all of this! Please snap out of it!"

Tails still didn't seem to hear her. It was almost as if he couldn't see her either. Cosmo could see that Tails was still petrified and that he wasn't waking up anytime soon. She guessed it was up to her to stop Devion then. Cosmo left Tails to continue grieving while she ran over towards Devion. He and Alter were in hand-to-hand combat and they seemed evenly matched so far. Devion slugged Alter in the gut and then conked him on the head. The wolf, while momentarily dazed, still managed to stay conscious despite that blow and he uppercut Devion in the face. He spun around and then kicked him in the gut, making Devion double-over. Alter then covered his hands with ice and he punched Devion backwards. Devion deployed his arm cannons and he shot at Alter. Alter dodged the shots and he fired icicle shards back at Devion. Devion merely blasted them to pieces and he ran towards Alter. He kicked him in the side and sent him spiralling across the room into a wall. Alter, his face a hideous scowl of rage, ran towards Devion but the Devatron whipped out his sword and slashed him across the side, bringing Alter down onto the floor in pain. He gritted his teeth and tried to hold in his pain but the pain was too great for him. Devion stood over the wolf and he prepared to finish him off but Cosmo stepped in and threw the grenade at him. Unfortunately, she had forgotten to press the button, meaning the grenade just pinged harmlessly off of his armour without doing any damage whatsoever. Cosmo slapped herself over her gaff and she threw her flower blade at Devion to distract him while she picked the grenade back up. The blade hit Devion but did no harm and Devion advanced towards Cosmo. Cosmo picked up the grenade but before she could throw it, Devion pointed the sword at her heart.

"Put. that. DOWN!" barked Devion.

Cosmo instantly did as she was told, purposefully throwing it over her shoulder so Tails could use it. She sat there on her knees as Devion's sword prodded her chest and the grenade rolled over to Tails. Tails seemed to register it for the first time since his shock and he even rose his head and looked up. He got a shock that was even bigger than the shock he'd just had when he saw that Cosmo was on her knees before Devion and awaiting execution. Devion pushed Cosmo down onto her back with his foot and he aimed the sword at her. He immediately got flashbacks from the Metal Sonic world he had experienced when Metal Sonic had hijacked Eggman's Egg Timer machine and used it to reshape the world. Cosmo had died in that reality and Tails had undone the damage, bringing her back alive. But now Cosmo was at the mercy of Devion and was about to be killed for real!

"You remind me very much of that plant-like alien girl Miles seemed to have a strong attachment to." mused Devion "And she fell to the radiation poisoning. It'll give me great pleasure to kill another version of her. It'll be like killing her all over again."

"Tails, please, HELP!" whimpered Cosmo, turning her head away and closing her eyes tightly as Devion prepared to kill her.

Tails FINALLY snapped out of his shock and was up on his feet in seconds.

"NO!" cried Tails in anguish "Cosmo! I won't lose you too!"

He picked up the grenade and he pressed the button on it. He threw it at Devion and since Devion was about ready to kill Cosmo, he wasn't ready for the attack. The grenade hit him smack in the face and a pillow of grey smoke clouded his body and blinded him for a moment. The smoke drifted away after a moment and Devion cackled with laughter.

"Was that supposed to hurt?" he snorted "It was only a gas-bomb. You haven't harmed me at all. Gas won't effect me."

"It wasn't a gas-bomb." said Tails, smirking triumphantly "It was a toxin grenade. The toxin was made by Miles and it was designed to weaken your armour so that we can destroy you for good!"

"WHAT?!" blustered Devion, his visor wide open in disbelief "You speak the words of a fool little boy!"

"We'll see about that." said Tails, taking off the last three dummy rings and throwing them at Devion.

The rings hit Devion and exploded in unison as they struck him. Cosmo did the same, throwing the last three dummy rings she had on her at Devion. The rings hit Devion and something different happened as all six dummy rings bombarded him. His armour was blown to pieces by the explosions and shards of metal sprinkled the floors as he was blown apart. Devion's entire face and torso were destroyed, leaving only the innards of his body left. Devion was horrified at the fact his armour had been breached and he staggered in alarm.

"M-m-my body! You've ruined it!" he roared furiously "This cannot be!"

"Oh it is Devion." crowed Tails "And now you can die and pay for all you've done!"

He flew up into the air and he kicked Devion in the head. Because the explosions had done so much damage to his body, Devion's head jerked backwards and…snapped clean off of the neck! Devion's head rolled back off of the body and it landed with a clatter on the floor. Devion's lifeless, headless body collapsed onto the floor, the circuitry spilling out and becoming a messy tangle around the body. The insidious Devatron leader was dead at last. Tails smirked darkly at Devion, pleased to have defeated him again. He was surprised how much easier it had been on this Mobius than on his Mobius, even if they had lost Miles and Carrie in the skirmish. Tails sighed with relief and he turned to Alter, who was straining to get back onto his feet, the gash in his side still hurting.

"It's done. He's dead." said Tails "The grenade worked."

"That's…great." grunted Alter "Pity…Miles…didn't make…anymore. That…was the only…spare we had."

"Well since Devion's dead, we can safely assume that the Devatrons won't function so well without him." said Tails "And I'm sure you can make more of those grenades."

"I'm…not a scientist." spluttered Alter "I…can't make…anymore. But…I'm sure…somebody else…can."

"I'm sure too." said Cosmo "There will be plenty of scientists out there to make the toxin and get rid of the rest of the Devatrons."

"Indeed." said Alter, settling down again for it was getting hard to stay standing due to the pain in his side "And you two…thank you… for helping to defeat him."

"Anytime Alter." said Tails with a smile on his face "I just hope Mobius Beta returns to its former glory. It's horrible here and it sickens me that this is the world you're going to live in."

"With Devion gone…and a weapon to help…us defeat the Devatrons…Mobius Beta will return… to its former glory." said Alter reassuringly "We…will win."

"I hope so." said Cosmo, hugging Alter comfortingly "I really hope things go well for you and Mobius Beta recovers from this horror. And my heart goes out for poor Miles and Carrie too. May they rest in peace."

Alter smiled weakly, appreciating the hug and the little rest in peace speech for Miles and Carrie. Then suddenly, a white portal opened up from nowhere and illuminated the dully lit room with a great white glow. Tails and Cosmo stared at the portal, wondering what it was. Another time rift? It couldn't be, it wasn't in the sky, it was in the room and it was pure white. They looked at it.

"What is it?" asked Cosmo.

"I think…it's some kind of portal." said Tails unsurely "Should…we go in?"

"Maybe it'll take us home!" said Cosmo hopefully "Maybe somebody's trying to return us to Mobius Prime!"

"Only one way to find out." said Tails "Let's go into it and see what happens."

He turned around and looked at Alter.

"Goodbye Alter and may your future improve over this." said Tails.

"God speed Tails." said Alter "And I hope you return to your Mobius safe and sound."

Tails smiled sadly at Alter and he and Cosmo waved goodbye. Holding hands, they walked through the portal and the portal closed up behind them, vanishing into thin air and leaving Alter alone in the room. He wasn't alone for long though. Devatron soldiers had come up to the room to see if Devion was OK and to their horror, they saw Devion lying dead on the floor and Alter the Wolf, down on one knee and clearly looking injured. The Devatrons formed a circle around Alter, boxing him in and they pointed their arm cannons at him. Alter just glowered back at the Devatrons but he knew that it was over for him. He was injured, weak and helpless. He had no way out of this and nobody could help him. Alter closed his eyes and waited for the shots that would finish him off to come…

Footnotes:

We all remember Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 16: The Final Frontier don't we?

* In case you're wondering, the toxic fumes came from the radiation left behind after the destruction of Eggman's nuclear missile in Story 150 and as you remember, a time rift sucked it all up at the end. Just a head's up in case it's not very clear or you're not sure about it.

Well Mobius Beta isn't having a happy ending is it?! Oh well, Tails and Cosmo will never know, they're never going to see it again. Well I hope you enjoyed this wonderfully dark chapter of Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses and prepare for next time for Sally and Nicole are taking the spotlight and they're in a "World of A.I." Don't miss it!

Alter the Wolf belongs to a DeviantArt user named MarekSterling and was used with his permission. All credit for the character goes strictly to him NOT ME.

Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses Part 3

Story 168: Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses Part 3: World of A.I.

"Attention fugitive, this is the police! You are under arrest! Cease fleeing and come with us nice and easy!" barked the electronic voice of a robotic police officer as he perused his target with relentless force.

"Attention police, this is the fugitive. I ain't goin' with ya and you'll have to catch me if you want me to comply you miserable excuse for a police force!" sneered the fugitive, rocketing down the streets as he was perused by the police with relentless force.

It was not often that the world of Mobius 3000 has a wanted fugitive on the run from the police but in a case like this, this was what many would call a "rare occurrence". Mobius 3000 was one of millions of alternate realities in the multi-verse and this was a world like no other. It was ahead of every single Mobius in the multi-verse, meaning there was no world in the multi-verse who's timeline surpasses Mobius 3000 and it had a lot to display for its very advanced age. Mobius 3000 was the most modern, hi-tech, futuristic world in all of the multi-verse. Every where was a city, even underwater and up in the sky(!) and each city had sleek, hi-tech buildings full of features and ranging in various designs and architecture. The cities all had facilities that were just out of the ordinary. Computers were installed all around and they worked like no computer's ever worked before. They were highly durable, full of features and very intelligent and sophisticated. Nearly everything was made of metal, the only signs of organic life being the Mobians themselves and yet they seemed keen on making machines out of themselves for over the years, some Mobians gave away their humanity, flesh and blood just to be a robot and have the capability to live as long as they possibly could. This was a world that was definitely being taken over by the machines. The technology was so highly advanced and sophisticated that it was hardly surprising. As for what the technology could do, it could make whatever you wished. There were machines that made food out of artificial materials and whatever else you could use, there were machines that made drinks at the simple push of a button, there were machines that disposed of waste and recycled it into something else and there were even machines that could make whatever toy and furniture you need. It is impossible to know how the machines are capable of doing this, it is that hi-tech and extravagant. Mobius 3000 was commonly known as the most impressive version of Mobius in all the multi-verse by many a time-traveller and it was easy to see why. Crime in this world was a thing of the past too thanks to the well-designed and crafted Robocops that patrolled the streets daily. You couldn't so much as blink without the cops knowing what you're doing. Their hi-tech sensors, extremely accurate aim and meticulous level of thinking and processing as well as well-built armour and weaponry made them the most invincible cops in the history of any world in the multi-verse. No criminal dared to take these cops on and once you see what they look like, you can see why. The Robocops were formidable looking machines with a humanoid appearance, a visor with a red slit for eyes, interchangeable hands that could form any weapon they wished be it a gun, a cannon, a blade or a club and they carried a limitless supply of laser cuffs to restrain whatever enemy they were hunting. They were brutal looking too like the kind of machine that could easily take over the world if it wanted to. The Robocops had a frightening disregard for collateral damage and humility for they would gladly hurt anyone in their way if it meant getting their target. Even if you were just passing by, those machines could suddenly come stampeding down the street and send you flying across the road for no reason. Anyone but the target was regarded as "in the way" in their minds and this had led to many criticisms from the Mobian populace. Sadly, the manufacturer of the Robocops dismissed their claims as "whining" and just told them to keep out of the cop's way. Sentimentality and humanity were dying in this world and soon only machines would be around.

As of this moment, a platoon of Robocops were chasing their most formidable fugitive yet. This was no Mobian, it was actually a robot built in the design of the Mobian. It was a failed experiment though for he still had his humanity inside of him and the person who had made this robot demanded it to be terminated, branding it a "crime against science" due to the fact it was a robot with humanity in it, something that Mobius 3000 did not tolerate at all. They saw humanity as a weakness and that it must be eliminated immediately. The fugitive robot thought otherwise and was keen to keep his life, hence his fleeing the cops and trying to stay alive. The robot looked like a Mobian hedgehog. One would say he was based on Sonic the Hedgehog in terms of anatomy and design. He was coloured black and gold and he had a gem in his chest that glowed from green to red along with his eyes whenever he was in battle. His body was round with a jet pack in the back and he had large steel quills that were in a different design to the Metal Sonic model, especially in terms of number for he had five quills and not three. He had one hand and the other arm was a cannon that could fire powerful blasts. He had a pointed nose and a mouth that emoted and moved exactly like a Mobian mouth. The robot wasn't given a name, but the humanity inside of him gave him the ability to name himself. After coming across a shard of metal on the ground, he picked himself the name "Shard". Shard was determined to prove to the world that robots shouldn't just be mindless servants and tools of Mobian-kind to do their bidding, they should be people too and he was proof that they can. Sadly, any Mobian that saw Shard instantly tried to get him arrested since there was a price of 100 Million Mobiums on his head and that was if he was brought to them alive and intact! So Shard spent his life on the run while also trying to oppose the manufacturer of the Robocops and all other machines in the world. Right now, he was fleeing for his life once again as Robocops chased him down and showered him with laser blasts. Shard had been clever enough to steal some force field generators and equip them onto himself during his time as a fugitive and he activated the force field to stop the cop's shots from damaging him.

"When are you morons gonna learn that you can't hurt me?!" he snorted, turning around and blasting back at the Robocops.

You know that I said his design was influenced by Sonic? So was his personality. He was quite literally this world's equivalent to Sonic the Hedgehog. Shard's blasts tore through the Robocops as if they were paper models and the hi-tech police robots were brought down onto the ground in bits and pieces. Any Mobians watching glared at Shard and ran towards him, hoping to help the Robocops. Shard just flew out of their way, leaving a comical mass collision between them all and he sped off down the street as fast as his jets would let him.

"Gee, the Mobians are as mindless as the machines these days!" he sighed "They seriously want to turn me in just to get a crap load of money? Where's their humanity?! Do they not care that humanity is dying because of that stupid General Rakutan*?! Nah of course they don't, I'm the only blasted thing on this stupid world that has a heart and soul these days! Man Mobius 3000 sucks! Well one day, I'll make these idiots see how blind they are and that machines can be people too and the people shouldn't act like mindless machines. One day…"

He snapped out of his thoughts as he was bombarded with more laser shots from another platoon of Robocops that had managed to find him. They all had Gatling gun hands and were determined to bring Shard down. They didn't care if they destroyed him or not, their priority was just to arrest him. Their orders didn't specify they bring him in dead or alive, either one would do for them. Shard deployed his force field and he flew off down an alleyway. The Robocops stampeded after them, crashing through cars and knocking over any of the hi-tech dustbins that would get rid of garbage and produce new material to use. Had Shard of the Robocops stopped for a minute, they would realize that they weren't the only ones in this alleyway but of course, they didn't stop and just carried on as normal. This alleyway was occupied by two Mobians, not of Mobius 3000 origin though. Brought straight from the Prime Zone by a time rift and dumped into this machine savvy world were Queen Sally Acorn and Nicole the Lynx. A time rift had opened up in Mobius Prime and sucked up Sonic and his friends. They had been dumped in various different places around the multi-verse and this was were Sally and Nicole had ended up. They had been lying in this alleyway for over an hour and the pounding metal footsteps of the Robocops rushing down the alleyway after Shard ended up waking them up. Sally opened her eyes and place a hand over her head as she sat up and shook off the effects of the time rift.

"Ugh…that was unpleasant…" she slurred groggily "I wonder where…I am…"

Nicole say up beside Sally and she had a hand over her stomach.

"Oooh I think my breakfast is gonna escape from me…" she croaked as she fought to keep herself from being sick.

Sally turned her head and was delighted to see at least Nicole had ended up with her. Nicole or Sonic were by far the first Mobians Sally would want to be stuck on another world with given how close she was to both of them. Sally helped Nicole onto her feet and Nicole spluttered a sickly cough.

"That was the worst thing I've ever experienced!" she whispered hoarsely "I hope it never happens again!"

"With any luck Nicole, we'll never get sucked into a time rift like that again." muttered Sally as she got her bearings back together at last "I hope the others are OK. Especially Sonic…I don't want to lose him so soon after confessing my love for him." she said worriedly, hugging herself as she feared over Sonic's current state.

"I'm sure Sonic's fine." said Nicole, the sick feeling beginning to fade so she felt a lot fresher now "Don't worry Sally, he'll be OK. As for us…well, I wonder where we are?"

"Well let's find out Nicole." said Sally, ushering Nicole along the alley way eagerly for she wanted to get out of it "Hopefully we can find a way to get back to Mobius Prime and see if we can figure out how to stop the time rifts."

"I hope so too." said Nicole "Although I do have to wonder what was that racket that woke us up? It sounded like a platoon of soldiers only with heavy footsteps. Are we in military grounds or something?"

"Well this doesn't look very military-ish don't you think?" said Sally as she stepped out of the alley way and got a glimpse of the wonders that befell her outside.

Nicole followed Sally out the alley way and her mouth dropped open in astonishment as she saw just exactly where they were. A grand metropolis stood proudly upon the ground they walked upon and it seemed to stretch endlessly for miles around (as I said earlier, every where's a city). They had seen many grand cities in their lives but Sally and Nicole had never seen anything like THIS before. The buildings looked super, gleaming brilliantly in the sunlight like knives in a drawer and the skyscrapers stretched so high that one would think they were trying to penetrate the earth's atmosphere like a syringe needle through an arm. Their designs were beyond anything they had seen before and there was so much uniqueness and creativity behind their construction that Sally and Nicole knew they'd never forget it. They could see machines performing their daily tasks and robots patrolling every inch of the street, all varying in design, programming and functions. They had to admit they looked a lot more appealing than any machine Eggman had ever made in his life time. They could see many computer screens around the city and many interesting looking vehicles that seemed to have some kind of sentience too them for they could express emotion and personality. The hover cars were prime examples of this feature. When a hover car was happy, its bumper would seemed to turn up into a smile and its headlights would flash brightly and when it was sad, the bumper would turn down into a sad expression and the headlights would glow dully. One thing that anybody who owned one of these cars knew was that you don't want to know what it's like when it's angry. There were domed structures that seemed to house any biological material such as plants and chemicals. You wanted trees? Those buildings were where you could find them these days for forests didn't exist anymore. Also any medicine would be made in those buildings and the primary source of the plants in these bio-domes were to make the medicines. Sally and Nicole were lost for words. Completely awestruck by this amazing world they were in. It was beyond their wildest dreams and they both knew this was a city they'd never forget. Being the computer whizzes they were, this world applied to them in terms of technology and science. Sally and Nicole started strolling down the street and drinking in the fantastic scenery.

"Would…you look…at this?!" gasped Sally.

"It's a hi-tech version of our own world!" squealed Nicole excitedly "Oh my gosh, there's so many computers and hi-tech stuff around here I think I'm gonna geek out!"

"I bet you are." laughed Sally "Computers has always been one of your strong points and interests. I must say, of all worlds we could have ended up on…I think this was a good place for the time rift to take us."

"I'll say it is!" exclaimed Nicole, fighting to keep herself from bouncing up and down in excitement.

"I wonder what this world is?" mused Sally "I'd call it "Mobius Hi-Tech" or something. And given how highly advanced our technology is…I wonder if our Mobius will end up like this some day."

"It's a possibility." said Nicole "Although I wouldn't want to lose our lovely forests. This world doesn't seem to have anything of nature except for what's in those domed buildings there." she said, pointing at some bio-domes that were nearby."

"Yeah, I wouldn't want the world to be just one giant machine." said Sally "Let's keep the beautiful nature as well."

As they walked and talked, they passed by some stalls, all made of steel and more hi-tech looking than an ordinary market stall that Sally and Nicole were used to. There were Mobians in each stall, all selling different kinds of equipment and machinery. Sally and Nicole looked at the market as they walked by and were pretty amazed at what was on offer. There were pieces for whatever machine you could find, spare parts, computer drives, power tools, weapons and even computers in all their glory. There was one computer stall that was selling a big flat computer with a wide screen and the screen was alight with a lightning bolt symbol on it.

"Stormbreaker! Get your Stormbreaker here!" cried the stall owner who was an otter in a rather bizarre looking outfit that couldn't make up its mind what time period it was from. It seemed like a fight between the Victorian and modern era with a slight hint of the Middle Ages too. Bizarre isn't it?

"The best computer in the history of the world! Only 300,000 Mobiums! We give free demos to help decide if you want to buy this magnificent computer!" he hollered as loud as he could as if trying to get everybody in the street to hear him.

Nicole seemed to like this idea. She stared at the Stormbreaker computer as if mesmerized by it and she ran over to the stall. Sally decided to let Nicole go nuts since she loved computers and this was something for her to enjoy while they were here. May as well enjoy what's on offer until they can get back to Mobius Prime. The otter beamed proudly at the fact he'd managed to attract a potential customer.

"Why hello my dear, would you like to purchase the Stormbreaker?" he said kindly "Best computer ever made, you'll never see anything like it ever again. Only 300,000 Mobiums."

"I don't have any money on me." said Nicole sadly "But I'd like to try the free demo please. Maybe if I like what this computer does, I'll try and save some money to purchase one in the future."

"Go right ahead love." said the otter, handing Nicole a Stormbreaker computer and keyboard "Enjoy yourself but don't spend too long on there, some other people would like a demo too. Your time limit is ten minutes."

Nicole nodded understandingly and instantly set to work on this amazing computer she'd been given. Resting the computer and keyboard on the stall counter, she hit the enter key and the screen whizzed into life, the lightning bolt logo disappearing into nothing but pixels and an option came up asking Nicole which programme she'd like to try. Nicole saw an icon on the computer that said "Algorithm puzzles and code breaking". Sounded like her kind of programme. The computer didn't have a mouse to use but that was because it didn't need one. The screen was a touch screen so Nicole just had to prod at the icon and it would respond to her. Nicole touched the icon on the screen and the Stormbreaker whizzed furiously as the programme activated. Then something amazing happened. A holographic image of various different codes and algorithms emitted from a little projector built into the screen and Nicole sound herself surrounded by symbols and numbers of all kinds. Sally was astonished by what she was seeing. Nicole had certainly been given an amazing computer to try out. Excitedly, Nicole instantly started working out the codes and trying to break them. Her excellent brain worked at the speed of a race car and she began sorting out puzzles and breaking codes as if they were child's play. The otter stared in amazement as Nicole began to work through the programme.

Nobody had ever performed so fluently on a computer like this before. He'd certainly attracted an amazing customer. Just a pity she couldn't buy one from him.

"This Stormbreaker is amazing!" squealed Nicole ecstatically "Oh I wish I could afford one! Ah well, this demo's totally worth it!"

She pointed at another symbol and moved it across to solve another puzzle while Sally watched, pleased to see Nicole enjoying herself…

Little did the lynx realize was that the Stormbreaker had a feature installed in it that even the stall owner had no idea about. The Stormbreaker was linked to the manufacturer of the computer and indeed every single machine that was made in the world. Therefore, unknowingly, when the Stormbreaker was switched on, it would produce and automatic link to the manufacturer and display a visual through the viewpoint of the Stormbreaker. The manufacturer would then be allowed to see what the computer was looking at, making him the ultimate spy. Every piece of technology on Mobius 3000 worked like this and that was because the manufacturer had sinister plans abound and his technology was merely the tip of the iceberg. The manufacturer in question was not somebody you'd ever expect. The manufacturer, the one who made all of Mobius 3000's amazing technology including the Stormbreaker was a machine himself. Not just a machine though but a machine with a Mobian's mind running it as a sort of artificial intelligence. His name was General Rakutan. He used to be a Mobian crocodile who served in the army before Mobius 3000 became so hi-tech and futuristic. He had opposed the idea of a machine dominated world before but an accident during a raid on a laboratory had ended up trapping his mind in the body of a robot. As he accustomed to this new life, he found himself enjoying being a robot and was determined to make the world nothing but a big machine. Going under the name "The Manufacturer", he had been secretly building all of Mobius 3000's facilities and technology and had distributed it to development companies everywhere, letting them take the credit for his work. Rakutan after all wanted to remain anonymous and thus when donating his inventions, he had told the people who received them through notes and phone calls that they were not to try and find out who he was and that they were the ones to take the credit for the inventions. All the inventions which had ended up making Mobius 3000 so glamorous and machine heavy were merely so that he could spy on the populace all over and commence with his sinister plans. Said plans being to make everybody on Mobius 3000 a machine or a computer.

The general himself was a very intimidating looking machine. His head had a mouthpiece resembling the muzzle of a gas mask vaguely and he had three spikes on each side of his head, the top spikes being curved and pointing upwards. He had reptilian like eyes that burned a fierce orange and could make people freeze in fear when he gazed at the. His shoulder pads were curved at the tips and he had powerful arms with three clawed fingers and a clawed thumb on each hand. His legs were powerful and packed a lot of strength in them. His feet had three razor sharp talons on each foot and on his hips he carried two very sharp swords that he could wield with deadly effect. Behind his back grew two long tentacles with blades at the end of them. He could retract them or extend them with ease and they were useful for if anybody tried to attack him from behind. They were his favoured weapons in combat. General Rakutan sat in his marvellous metal seat as he watched Nicole breaking codes at the speed of light from the viewpoint of the stall owner's Stormbreaker computer. The general's eyes glistened with glee as he watched Nicole perform so amazingly and admirably.

"Impressive…" he purred, his voice a gravely, hoarse whisper "That woman is beyond anything I've ever seen. Her computer skills are incredible. She's working away on the Stormbreaker's code breaking programme as if it's nothing. One would think this was just child's play for her. She'll be a fine computer she will…"

You see, General Rakutan had this rather weird idea behind his converting the populace. He was rather biased towards the male oriented crowd and wanted them to be superior to women. So he would convert the men into machines and make the women computers to be slaves to the machines and populace. Women in his eyes are just slaves for men, nothing more (what a creep…). Rakutan pressed a button on his chair arm and he waited as a beeping noise signalled for somebody to come and meet him. A moment later, a robot in the shape of a Mobian Mole with sharp claws for digging and red eyes trotted into the room nervously. He looked to be afraid of the general and you really couldn't blame him considering how scary he was. The robo-mole approached the general worriedly.

"Y-y-you c-called sir?" he whimpered.

"Stop snivelling you moron! I've made it very clear that you are not to act scared in my presence!" barked Rakutan furiously.

The robo-mole changed his personality instantly.

"Sir, yes sir!" he cried out, saluting the general like any army person like him would expect his comrades to do.

"Very good Mordred." said Rakutan coldly "Now then, I want you to find me this woman and bring her to me at once." he ordered, pointing at Nicole on the screen.

Mordred studied the screen closely for a minute and he grinned to himself.

"Oooooh, she's might pretty." he said "I'll enjoy kidnapping her for you general."

"I know you will." said Rakutan "That woman is a computer genius as you can see. She'll be a fine computer A.I. to slave away for my machine armies. Do NOT return to me empty-handed or you will no longer have ANY hands." he snarled.

"Sir, yes sir!" cried Mordred obediently.

With that said, he ran out of the room to do his task, quite eagerly I must add. Rakutan watched Mordred leave the room and he turned back to the large screen that displayed the viewpoint of everything his inventions could see. Every building, every computer, every robot and every vehicle was a viewpoint for him. He quite literally saw everything that went on in the world. Rakutan cackled ominously to himself.

"I'm amazed how beautifully my plans are working…" he crowed to himself "And all because the Mobian populace is slowly but surely beginning to embrace my vision of a perfect world without them knowing about it. By the time they realize what's going on…it'll be too late."

The room was filled by the dark, eerie sound of the general's laughter…

Back at the computer stall, Nicole was just about ready to try out another programme after having gotten bored of the code cracking game but the stall owner pulled the Stormbreaker away from her and put it back on the shelf.

"Sorry love, time's up." he said "Although I must say you were amazing on that programme! How did you learn how to do that?"

"Well I grew up with a family who loved computers and I just…have a natural talent for computers." said Nicole casually "I grew up around computers pretty much. By the age of five I was able to use one with ease and by age seven, I was able to crack simple codes with ease. By the time I was a teenager, I was able to hack into other computers as if it was nothing and I only continue to improve as I get older. What you've seen right now is the peak of my talents."

"It's true you know." said Sally, stepping forward and putting a hand on Nicole's shoulder "When me and Nicole first me, she astounded me on how much she knew about computers and how they work. I asked her to fix one of mine that had broken and in half an hour, she'd fixed it and even managed to improve the settings. It takes my breath away what she can do."

Nicole beamed with pride, glad to hear this from her best friend.

"I see." said the otter with interest "Well I'll reserve one of these Stormbreakers just for you, Nicole I believe. Once you get enough money for it, it's all yours."

"Oh thank you so much." said Nicole gratefully "But no thanks. I'm quite happy with my own computer at home."

Secretly, Nicole wanted a Stormbreaker but she knew she couldn't afford one and they weren't going to stay here forever so reserving one for her would do no good, she wouldn't be around to receive it. Best to just politely decline the offer and forget all about it. The otter seemed rather surprised that Nicole had turned down the offer to have a Stormbreaker reserved just for her but before he could say anything, the Mobians around suddenly started diving for cover as if a massive explosion had just gone off and they needed to find whatever shelter they could. Sally and Nicole wondered what was going on but they soon found out for out of the blue, Shard flew down the road with a bunch of Robocops after him. Curious, Sally and Nicole followed them to see what was going on. They ran after the cops as they continued to shoot at Shard in the vain hope of being able to bring him down. Shard still had his force-field up though so to the cops, it was like shooting peas at a brick wall. They just couldn't penetrate his shield and get him at all. Shard turned around and blasted at the cops. His shots tore through the Robocops as if they were made of paper and the dead bodies collapsed onto the ground like dead flies. Shard chuckled, clearly enjoying himself as he blasted the Robocops to smithereens. His shots had been powerful enough to wipe out most of the platoon already. There were only three Robocops left. Shard led them down an alleyway and the Robocops foolishly followed him. They weren't that intelligent when it came to pursuing targets. All they cared about was getting the target, regardless of if the target had some kind of plan to catch them off guard. Strategy was not part of their programming and Shard knew it. So as he sped down the alleyway, he flew up onto the roof of a building and waited as the Robocops ran into the alleyway after him and began looking around for him. Shard just pointed his cannon arm down at the ground and he blasted the Robocops each in the head, finishing them off and wiping out the last of the platoon.

"BOOM! Headshot!" he cheered excitedly "Oh yeah! Shard One-Robocops ZERO! Ah, ha, ha, ha!"

He flew down into the alleyway and he began dancing about excitedly. Sally and Nicole, having caught up to him, peered into the alleyway and watched as Shard did his little victory jig. Sally was instantly drawn to this robot for it reminded her so much of her beloved Sonic. Guess this was the next best thing for her while she was on this planet.

"Sally, who is that?" asked Nicole "And why does he look so much like Sonic?"

"I'm guessing he's some kind of Metal Sonic only with a different design going off." mused Sally "He seems like he's a good guy though, he doesn't seem like a villain but with Metal Sonic, you can't be too careful so be careful."

Sally and Nicole walked into the alleyway and Sally cleared her throat.

"Ahem…hello there sir." she said.

Shard freaked out instantly and he pointed his arm cannon at the two.

"Won't you stupid cops leave me alone for one freaking minute?!" he shrieked "Geez! And I can do without more Mobians trying to sell me out to General Rakutan too!"

"Whoa, whoa, whoa! Put the cannon away! We're not cops and we won't hurt you!" screeched Sally "Don't shoot us please!"

"We promise we won't hurt you." said Nicole "Promise."

"That's what they all say and then suddenly they try to scrap me and get the reward placed on my head!" snarled Shard "Now back off you two before I shoot you!"

"Listen! We WON'T hurt you!" screamed Sally furiously "We don't even know who you are so why would we have any reason to hurt you?!"

Shard took in what Sally had said and realized that she had a logical point. Why would these two strangers want to hurt him if they had no idea who he was? Shard lowered his cannon arm. The gem in his chest and his eyes turned green as he exited from battle mode.

"Sorry ladies, I'm a bit edgy because of the fact every damn thing in the world's out to get me." said Shard "So who are you two then?"

"My name's Queen Sally Acorn and this is my lady-in-waiting Nicole the Lynx." said Sally "We're from Mobius Prime and we were brought here by…"

"Mobius Prime?! Prime Zoners?!" blurted Shard suddenly "Oh sweet! I've always wanted to meet a Prime Zoner! Especially since it's because of Mobius Prime that everything in the multi-verse exists! Looks like things are looking up for me after all!"

"O…K…" said Nicole unsurely, not understanding why Shard seemed so excited "So who might you be then sir?"

"Well for starters, it's not "sir"." said Shard snarkily "I'm not a knight or anything. I my beautiful Nicole, am Shard the Metal Sonic! The absolute best and most kickass robot ever invented! And all because I was inspired by the greatest hero of Mobius 3000's history, Sonic the Hedgehog! Oh yeah!" he emphasized this with a heroic pose and a big grin that added to his enthusiasm and ego.

"Oh he's definitely based on Sonic alright." chuckled Sally "He even has his reckless charms…"

"So Shard, where are we and why are those robots after you?" asked Nicole, pointing at the dead Robocops that littered the alleyway.

Shard took Nicole's hand into his only hand.

"Why my dear, you have asked some excellent questions and I have some excellent answers for them." purred Shard seductively, making Nicole blush "You are in the world of Mobius 3000, a world that sadly is becoming nothing but a giant machine thanks to General Rakutan. You see, General Rakutan is a robot who is the manufacturer of EVERY bleeding machine in the world. Everything you see is his invention from the Stormbreaker computers to the hover cars with emotions to even the hi-tech buildings. And that's not all, he kidnaps Mobians and makes them into robots by uploading their minds into the robot's mind. If you're male, he makes you a robot. If you're female, he makes you a computer. Funny enough when this happens, people don't give it a second thought and just see the robots and computers as a new invention and don't care about the missing people. They're just so tech-happy! I've been trying to stop this mad man for years now but sadly, my attempts are futile. He has the entire world against me, I'm just one guy. I can barely get close to him and I can't run forever. A robot needs a new power supply after all and the gem in my chest needs a power up every now and then. I keep going and it'll just give out on me." he sighed, tapping at the gem as if he felt cursed to have it in him "And the sad thing is, nobody will believe me about Rakutan. They even doubt that he's a real person and the manufacturing companies say that THEY made the inventions when Rakutan actually did. I guess I'm the only person who cares about this world and wants freedom for everybody, not the world to be one giant obedient machine for Rakutan."

Sally and Nicole were flabbergasted at what they were hearing. Nicole now suddenly felt dirty having played on the Stormbreaker earlier. How dare this evil robot fool her into playing one of his toys?! She'd make the general pay for this!

"I can't believe this…" said Nicole "This world is only gloriously hi-tech and advanced because of this "Rakutan" guy and he's doing it just to make the world his own? How could he?!"

"I know cute stuff, how could he?" spat Shard.

"Wait Shard, how do you know about all of what you've told us anyway?" asked Sally.

"Duh! I'm a Rakutan invention too!" snapped Shard "BUT, and this is a big, BIG but, something went wrong with me and I suddenly gained sentience and the ability to think for myself. I'm glad I did, no way will I be content working for Rakutan! He had been hoping to make a robotic Mobian with the abilities and power of one too and using Sonic as an inspiration, I was built. But as I said, something went wrong and I not only look like Sonic, I pretty much AM Sonic both in looks and personality. Just paint me blue and I pretty much am the new Sonic the Hedgehog. Given I'm an invention of Rakutan's, I know everything about him and I don't like what he's up to so I'm trying to stop the asshole. And since you two seem to agree with me on Rakutan…would you like to help me?" he asked hopefully.

Sally and Nicole saw no reason why they shouldn't try. A world that's being taken over was definitely worth their time and since they were stuck here until another time rift appeared, they may as well try and save Mobius 3000 from General Rakutan. It didn't hurt to have a go at all. Sally held out a hand for Shard to shake.

"Shard, I am all too happy to help you." she said "I am sick and tired of these world conquerors trying to take over the world, especially back on my Mobius. I've been trying to stop Dr. Eggman from conquering the world for a year along with my fellow Royal Fighters, I see no reason why I shouldn't try to stop General Rakutan."

"I'm in too." said Nicole "Nobody uses science and machines for their own selfish needs like this!"

"Suh-weet!" cheered Shard, shaking Sally's hand so furiously the squirrel worried that the robot would wrench it free off her wrist "I'm so happy to hear this! Thank you, thank you, thank you!"

"Yes, yes, very good." said Sally shakily as Shard stopping shaking her hand "So Shard, do you know where the general lives?"

"Course." sniffed Shard "I was made by him wasn't I? Rakutan lives in a giant tower with a vague pyramid shape going on in its design. Bit similar to the Transamerica Pyramid from another city in the world. You can't miss it really."

"So if you know where he lives, why haven't you stormed his base and attacked him?" asked Sally.

"Considering that the entire world's after me and I literally can't go ANYWHERE without being noticed, it's a bit pointless to try isn't it?" noted Shard "But with you two helping me, there's a chance I could get in unnoticed if you like play the role of the distraction or something…"

Then suddenly, a pair of metal hands emerged from the earth just behind Nicole's feet and they closed around her ankles! Nicole screamed in terror as she felt the hands around her ankles and she tried to run but the hands held on tight to her.

"AAAAAAAAAIIIIIIIIIIIIIIIIIIIIIEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEE! Something's got me! Help!" she squealed.

Sally and Shard ran over to help Nicole but it was much too late to help the poor lynx now. The hands pulled her straight down into the ground and Nicole disappeared down a long tunnel in the earth along with the hands. Sally could only watch as Nicole was taken away and instantly grew worried for her friend. Shard grew worried too considering he had taken an instant liking to Nicole and he instantly knew what had happened.

"Nicole!" wailed Sally "Oh no, Rakutan's got her I bet!"

"He has!" exclaimed Shard "This is exactly what happens when he goes around kidnapping people! A pair of hands come out of the ground and just snatch the person down into the earth to take him to his base so they can be converted! We have to save Nicole before this can happen!"

"I agree! Nicole's not going to become a computer on my watch!" declared Sally "Come on Shard, let's follow this tunnel and see where it ends up!"

Shard looked dumbfounded. He then changed his expression to a more exasperated one and he face palmed himself.

"Man…why didn't I think of that?" he muttered to himself "Could have broken into Rakutan's base already if I thought of doing that…"

Sally just smiled dryly at Shard. He definitely was like Sonic in more ways than one. He even had his tendency to not think that well. Sally crawled down into the tunnel left behind by the kidnapper, surprised to see that she could fit down it well and Shard followed behind her. As the two followed the tunnel through to the end, they prayed that they were in time to save Nicole…

As for poor Nicole, she was more terrified than she ever had been in all her life. The hands, which belonged to Mordred the Robo-Mole as you probably guessed already, had taken her all the way back to the general's headquarters and Rakutan had quickly taken her to the conversion room before she'd even had time to register her surroundings. The moment she was taken into the room, Rakutan had strapped her to a restraint bed and placed a helmet on her head that was weird up to a handheld computer device that looked a little bit like a hi-tech calculator only the keys had nothing on them and this device was not just a simple maths tool. It would be able to teach people anything they wanted once the person's mind was uploaded into it. As Nicole fought to break free of her restraints, she took heed of her surroundings. She was in a room that was full of restraint beds and prison capsules for any victim that was unfortunate enough to be captured by Rakutan or Mordred. There were lots of tools on display on the various work desks and tables that were around and a lot of machinery filled the room. It was quite fitting for a robot like Rakutan. Nicole looked to her right hand side and she saw Rakutan glowering ominously at him with his orange eyes, glowing darkly like lit candles. The lynx was instantly intimidated by his appearance. He was scarier than even everything Eggman had come up with. Maybe even scarier than the Devatrons. Nicole struggled furiously in her restraints but try as she might, her efforts were futile. There were thick clamps wrapped around her wrists, ankles and waist. They firmly held her to the bed and there was no way out of them. Nicole doubted even Sonic would be able to break out of this.

"LET ME GO!" screeched Nicole frantically "You're not turning me into a computer! No way! Let me go right this second or you'll be sorry!"

"You foolish little woman, I am NEVER sorry for what I do." purred Rakutan sinisterly "I have been keeping this up for over a decade now and still nobody has managed to work out what I am up to. I am slowly but surely taking over the world and nobody realizes this. It's the perfect crime and now I am going to add you to my glorious vision of the perfect world."

"You can't do this!" protested Nicole "You're taking away freedom and sentience and making them all just cogs in your big machine! You're despicable Rakutan and I have every right to say that from what Shard's just told me!"

"Yes, I am fully aware of what that impudent imp Shard has been telling you and your friend "Sally Acorn"." said the general impatiently "I was listening to the entire conversation the whole time."

"Y-you were?!" gasped Nicole "H-how?!"

"I have microphones and recorders installed all over every city in the world that has received my glorious treatment." boasted Rakutan "There is no conversation that I will not hear. I quite literally hear everything and I also see everything too given I have a visual link to every device of mine that has been installed in the world. Nothing happens without me knowing about it."

"You got that right general." said Mordred, acting like he was fawning over the general just to make him happy "You see Nicole, Rakutan is the greatest genius ever. His big plan was to make the world entirely mechanical without people finding out about it. He began making inventions and facilities and distributing them in secret all over the world and making the world think they were being made by actual companies that make technology and stuff. It's thanks to him we have these glorious hi-tech cities out there and he even invented me! How cool is that?!"

"It's disgusting!" spat Nicole furiously "You're tainting the world! Your technology is impressive yes but you can't make the world just one big machine for you to command! You can't just make the world a giant mechanical paradise! Organic life has every right to live on the planet too! You converting them into machines just violates that right and shows how despicable you are! Rakutan, you're EVIL!" she screamed.

"Evil is a matter of perspective you little fool." said Rakutan coldly, pointing a clawed finger at Nicole and threatening to drive it into her eye "In my eyes, I am NOT evil, I am a saviour. You see, the organic life form is weak and flawed whereas a mechanical life form has no weaknesses and can easily be repaired and fixed should things go wrong. Organic life dies eventually, mechanical life just gets rebuilt and repaired. I am making Mobius 3000 a better place by eradicating the weakness that is organic life and repopulating it with the superiority of technology and science. People are already embracing my vision without really realizing it and any who don't just end up being forced to accept it via conversion anyway. Soon the entire world will be converted and I, General Rakutan, will be the ruler of Mobius 3000! The world will serve my beck and call and nobody will dare oppose me! We will be living in a perfect world and everybody will enjoy it!"

"I won't." said Nicole bitterly "I'll loathe every minute of my time on this planet."

"We'll see about that." said Rakutan, prodding Nicole in the stomach and making her wince in pain "Mordred, begin the conversion!"

"With pleasure general!" said Mordred happily.

As much as Rakutan scared him, he loved converting the Mobians. He considered it very enjoyable for himself as much as it was enjoyable for Rakutan. Mordred skipped over to a control panel delightedly and he pulled the lever that activated the mind transfer process. It was a painful process that extracted the mind from the body, isolating it completely and then storing it into the handheld computer device. The body would be nothing but an empty shell once this was over and what was worse was the process was irreversible. Nicole would be permanently like this unless she was saved in time. Some alterations to the extracted mind would erase all personality, emotions and feelings from the transferred mind so Nicole would literally be just a computer programme, nothing more. She would be able to do nothing but slave away for the person who owned her, just as Rakutan envisioned when he began his big stratagem for the world. The helmet crackled into life as Mordred pulled the lever and Nicole felt her body being jolted with bolts of electricity that coursed through down her head and through her body. Nicole screamed a blood-curdling scream as the process began. Her brain felt like it was on fire as her mind was being extracted painfully from her head and into the computer. The process would be other in a short while but Nicole was fully conscious so every minute was pure agony for her. Rakutan cackled, clearly enjoying this moment as he always did when this happened. Mordred was enjoying this too, skipping about with joy and laughing like a demented clown as Nicole writhed in her restraints and screeched in anguish. But the general and Mordred's joy was cut short by a door blasting open and in ran Sally and Shard. The tunnel that Mordred had left behind had taken them directly inside the base and given Rakutan didn't have guards (Why would he need them? Nobody opposes him or even knows he exists!) on display, it had been a matter of finding the right room. Sally put her hands to her mouth in horror as she saw what was happening to Nicole.

"Oh no! Nicole!" she wailed.

"Sally…ugh…help meaaaaaarrrrrrgggggghhhh!" howled Nicole, electricity making her body feel like it was burning everywhere.

"General Rakutan! Let her go this minute before I spin-dash you into pieces!" bellowed Shard "Consider this a friendly warning!"

"Shard, I have been working very hard to keep you away from me and to get you scrapped!" snarled Rakutan, his tentacles extending from his back and getting ready to fight "Now you're here, I guess I get the honour of scrapping you myself!"

"No, I get the honour of scrapping YOU general!" yelled Shard "And I've got a little friend to help me with that! Sally, get Nicole outta there while I take on this tin can!"

Sally did not wait to be asked twice. She clipped on her metal wristbands and activated the energy blades that they contained. She ran towards Nicole with her blades ready to slice through whatever dared get in her way. Rakutan ignored Sally and ran off to fight Shard, leaving Mordred to take on Sally. Mordred's metal claws extended to twice their normal length and he activated some kind of electrical force field around his lower arms. He and Sally lunged at each other and they both clashed like expert sword fighters. Blade met metal hand but neither weapon seemed to win this battle. Sally retracted her arm and she lunged at Mordred, hoping to penetrate the mole in the chest. Mordred blocked the blow with ease and he clawed at Sally. Sally jumped backwards and she slashed at Mordred with her blade. Mordred blocked the blow again with his other claw.

"Please let me save my friend!" pleaded Sally "She doesn't deserve to be a computer programme! You can't let your master do this to her!"

"Says who?" sneered Mordred, holding his arms in an X-shape and blocking a double-strike from Sally's arm blades "I'm Rakutan's servant bot and I happen to like his vision for the world so I'll happily help him achieve that goal! True he scares the crud outta me but it's totally worth it! I have so much fun kidnapping and converting these people and your friend Nicole is welcome to join the victims we've converted in the past!"

"Monster! I won't let you!" Sally blasted, swinging her blades and hoping to catch Mordred in the legs but the mole blocked her blows once again with his arms.

"Too bleeding bad toots." snorted Mordred.

Then he shut the force field off of his left arm and he switched of the force field. He grabbed Sally by the neck and then let her have it with a terrible electrical shock. Sally screamed in pain as she was tasered by the robo-mole and Mordred kept it up, hoping to knock Sally out. But Mordred would soon wish he hadn't done that for Sally fought the pain long enough to bring her arm up and slice Mordred's arm off. The electrical surge died away and Mordred's arm dropped down onto the floor, lifeless and useless to him. Sally dropped down onto the floor, barely conscious after the awful shock she'd received. Mordred however was clutching his arm in excruciating pain and screaming loudly.

"ARRRRRRRGGGGGGGGGGGGHHHHHH! YOU CUT OFF MY ARM YOU STUPID SON OF A…"

His ranting was quickly silenced by Sally forcing herself onto her knees and ramming her blade through Mordred's chest. The robo-mole's optics stopped flashing and his body went dead. Mordred collapsed onto the floor, dead and defeated but unfortunately, Sally had used the last of her energy just to defeat him. The squirrel fell into unconsciousness, succumbing to the effects of electric shock. With Sally unconsciousness and Shard occupied, poor Nicole was left to fall victim to the mind transfer, completely helpless and at the machine's mercy.

Over to Shard and Rakutan, the general's extended metal tentacles shot out at Shard and they tried to slice him to pieces but Shard dodged the attack and he blasted at him with his arm cannon. The shot just bounced off of Rakutan as if it was nothing. Rakutan was a well built machine after all. Shard wasn't too pleased to see that his best weapon didn't work so he resorted to his second best weapon. He spin-dashed General Rakutan in the gut and sent him hurling across the room. Rakutan spun himself around in mid-air and he landed feet first in the wall. He sprang off the wall with his powerful legs and hurled across the room directly into Shard. He brought Shard crashing down onto the floor but as they skidded across it, Shard dug his legs into Rakutan's gut and flipped him over onto his back. Rakutan picked himself up and his tentacles swung at Shard, hoping to ensnare him so he could rip him apart. Shard dodged the tentacles and he blasted Rakutan in the face with his arm cannon. Rakutan clutched his face in pain and Shard spin-dashed him before Rakutan could recover. Rakutan growled furiously and he reached out with one of his tentacles. He grabbed the dead body of Mordred and he hammered Shard with it before Shard could react. Mordred's tough build violently clashed with Shard's body and sent the robot spiralling across the room. Shard landed on his side and he groaned in pain, Rakutan lifted Mordred's body up and he slammed it on top of Shard. Rakutan raised Mordred's body up above his head, poised to make another slam but Shard jumped to his feet and he blasted Rakutan's tentacle, destroying it and causing him to drop Mordred's body onto the floor. Growling in rage, Rakutan retracted his tentacles and he whipped out his twin swords. He held his arms out and then proceeded to do something that made Shard hesitate. He spun his hands around a complete 360 degrees and his hands began to spin around at a terrifying speed, the swords in his hands nothing more than silver blurs circling around in front of him. He edged towards Shard, hoping to cleave him in two with his twin swords. Shard backed off, his eyes fixed on the spinning blades in terror. Shard flew up into the air out of Rakutan's way and he landed behind him. Rakutan whirled around only to get blasted by Shard in the head. Rakutan's hands stopped spinning and he shook off the pain in his face. Shard ran up to Rakutan and he punched him in the face, driving the knuckles of his metal fist as hard as he could into the cheek structure of Rakutan's face. Rakutan's head twisted violently to the left as he was punched but he retaliated by butting Shard in the face with the hilt of his sword. He added extra to his attack by slashing Shard across the face with the sword. Shard cried out in pain as a long gash was drawn across his face. It would take some fixing to get that better. Rakutan spun his hands around again and edged the twirling blades towards Shard. Shard threw himself onto the floor and shot him directly in the pelvis section. Rakutan groaned in pain and Shard aimed his cannon at his head but Rakutan swatted his arm away. Shard ended up accidentally shooting towards the machine that was uploading Nicole's mind into the computer the shot skimmed across some wires, fraying them slightly and one wire was fried completely by the shot. They didn't seem to be slowing down the process though. Shard growled crossly and he kneed Rakutan in the gut, adding a shoot from his cannon arm to the gut to further hurt him. Rakutan backed away from the shot and Shard spin-dashed upwards into his chin, throwing his head backwards so violently that Rakutan was whisked off his feet and onto his back. Shard jumped onto Rakutan and he grabbed him by the throat. He aimed his cannon at his head, hoping to blast it clean off his shoulders but Rakutan grabbed Shard and pushed him off of himself. He jumped onto his feet and lashed out with one of his clawed feet. His talons plunged into the sides of Shard's face and he threw Shard into the wall with a swift kick. Shard groaned as his body slammed hard against the wall and he fell down onto the floor. Rakutan began to spin his hands around again and he advanced on Shard, his swords whirling ominously and edging closer towards him. Shard picked himself up and tried to shoot but his power gem core suddenly gave out on him and he couldn't fire anymore.

"Oh not now!" whined Shard as his gem and eyes turned from red to green "Any time but now!"

He just had enough time to leap out of the way as Rakutan's spinning swords nearly snagged him. Rakutan stopped spinning his swords and he extended his remaining tentacle out from behind him. He entwined Shard with the tentacle, wrapping it around his ankle and hoisting him clean off the ground by his leg. Shard stared helplessly at Rakutan as he raised his sword, poised to make a stab. As this happened, Sally came to and she looked to her left to see Shard ready to be executed by the evil general. Straining to get up, Sally pushed herself onto her feet and she re-activated her energy blades. Rakutan didn't notice her, he was focused entirely on Shard.

"Now Shard, this ends here!" crowed Rakutan "You will be destroyed and I shall commence with my goals. This time, WITHOUT your interference!"

Sally reacted faster than she had ever reacted before. She sprang onto her feet and she pounded towards Rakutan, crying a furious war cry that made even Shard jumped in surprise. Rakutan turned around just as Sally jumped at him and swing her energy blades at him. She landed on the floor just beside Rakutan and at first, the general stood there as if nothing had happened. And then…his head suddenly dropped off of his neck and landed with a clatter on the floor! Sally had just chopped it off in one fell swoop of the blade. Rakutan dropped Shard onto the floor and his headless body just keeled over like a fallen statue. He was dead, defeated at last and unable to terrorize the world anymore. Shard punched the air with joy.

"Oh YEAH! You killed him Sally! You rock! WHOO!" he cheered excitedly.

"I…I can't believe I just did that!" gasped Sally "I reacted faster than I could even process what was happening! I really am amazing aren't I?"

"You sure are!" cried Shard enthusiastically, clapping Sally on the back "You're one fine queen you are! I bet your subjects are might proud of ya!"

"They are indeed…"

Sally was suddenly cut off by a sudden realization that sprang into her mind.

"Oh no…NICOLE!" she blurted.

Shard suddenly realized that they hadn't saved Nicole yet and he and Sally raced over to the restrained lynx. Unfortunately for them though, they were too late. The process had finished. Nicole's body had been stripped completely of all life and her mind was now trapped inside the handheld computer the head helmet was attached to. Sally cut the restraints to pieces with her energy blades and knelt beside Nicole's body. She shook it furiously, hoping to wake her up as Shard took the helmet off. Nicole didn't respond. There was no life in her to wake up. Her body was empty, devoid of any life at all. Sally instantly burst into tears over this. Her best friend was gone forever and she had been too late to save her. Sally hugged Nicole's body sadly and wailed into her fur. Shard just watched, sharing Sally's grief. He had thought Nicole was very pretty and to lose her so suddenly was a big loss for him. Sally sobbed and wailed as she tried to accept the fact Nicole was gone forever.

"Oh Nicole! I'm so sorry!" howled Sally "I'm sorry I didn't save you! I'm so, so sorry!"

Her wailing did nothing to revive the lifeless body she was hugging, Nicole still didn't move. Sally wasn't grieving for much longer though for the handheld computer suddenly whirred into life and a hologram of Nicole emitted from the device. It looked exactly like her organic form only it was now a hologram. Strangely enough though, Nicole's personality was still with her. She was feeling sad for Sally as she watched her friend grieve over her and despite the fact she no longer had a heart, she could still feel the pain that Sally was going through and felt hurt for her. The general's process hadn't fully worked after all and it had been thanks to Shard's shot frying an important wire that didn't separate her personality from her mind so Nicole was still herself.

"Sally, please don't cry. I'm still here." Nicole said, her voice now ringing with a vocoder monotone in the background of every word she said.

Sally's head shot up from Nicole's body and she looked over her shoulder to see a hologram of Nicole smiling sadly at her. Sally instantly grabbed the handheld device and she stared hard at the hologram as if hoping something would happen. She was still crying though but her sobs were replaced by stunned silence and just tears streaming down her face. Shard stared at Nicole along with Sally, unable to believe what he was seeing.

"N-N-Nicole!" stammered Sally "Y-Y-You're…"

"Yes Sally, I am a computer now." said Nicole, looking down sadly at the handheld device her image was projected over "But I am not gone, don't worry. I still look like Nicole and I still feel and sound like Nicole. My personality is still here too. I'm not gone forever Sally."

"But…but you're trapped in this computer!" wailed Sally "You're nothing but a tool now! Your body is empty of all life and your mind is trapped in here forever! Oh Nicole, you didn't deserve this! I'm so sorry I didn't save you! Please can you forgive me?!"

"Sally, please don't beat yourself up." said Nicole softly "You tried everything you could. It's not your fault you couldn't save me. But don't worry Sally, if you keep hold of this device, I will never be gone. I will always be with you Sally. Trust me, you haven't lost me at all. I'm merely…different now. So please don't grieve over me, I'm still here and I'm still there to tend to your needs."

Sally wiped her tears away and took in what Nicole had said. It would be a great shame to not have Nicole in all her physical glory… but she would never truly lose her if she kept the device. Not to mention Nicole could maybe be of some use like this. Maybe some good could come out of it. Sally smiled sadly back at Nicole.

"You're right." said Sally "This is all that's left of you now and I promise with all my heart that I will NEVER lose it. Nicole, I will take very good care of you and try what I can to make this new life comfortable for you."

"Thank you Sally." said Nicole sweetly "You're such a wonderful friend to me."

"And you are too." said Sally kindly.

Shard smiled with awe, touched by the amount of heart these two friends were displaying between each other. As bittersweet as this turnout was, it was more sweet than bitter at least. Then suddenly, a huge white portal opened up behind Shard and the poor robot leaped about a foot in the air in fright.

"YIKES! What was that?!" gasped Shard.

"Nicole, what is this?" asked Sally, holding the handheld device at the portal so Nicole could see it.

The holographic image of Nicole the Lynx studied the portal for a minute and she thought about it. With the computer she was now trapped in, she seemed to have improved analyzing skills and she managed to work out what it was.

"It's some kind of portal." she said "But it's not a time rift. This one has a much more pleasant presence to it."

"Let's check it out." said Sally "Maybe it'll take us home."

"Hey can I come?" asked Shard "I'd like to see the Prime Zone after all."

"I don't see why not." said Sally with a warm smile "I'd also like you to meet the person you're based on, Sonic the Hedgehog himself. You'll like him I bet."

"Also he and Sally are dating." Nicole snickered teasingly, earning a playful glare from Sally.

"That sounds swell!" said Shard "Let's get going then!"

With that said, Sally and Shard walked through the portal with Sally carrying Nicole in her hand. As they vanished through the portal, the three could only wonder where it would take them. Wherever it took them though, it would not be Mobius Prime. But they would be seeing Sonic the Hedgehog at least…

Footnotes:

Pronounced rah-KU-tan

Thought The Same As It Never Was was shocking? THIS is shocking! Nicole's a computer now! Bet you SatAM fans are happy now... :P

So that's it for this part. I hope you like it and join me next time for Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat are next and they're up against robot pirates and fighting alongside some "radical heroes" in Part 4 of Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses...

Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses Part 4

Story 169: Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses Part 4: A Radical Encounter

"Yaaargh! Get tharr prisoners loaded onto tharr Metal Marauder ye swabs!" barked the fierce, metallic voice of Captain Metal as his robotical pirate crew began to bundle bound and gagged Mobians into small, tiny cages and carry them on board a metal ship that waited in the ocean for them "Tharr tide will not stay down fer long!"

"Aye, aye sir!" his robotic crew said in unison, acknowledging the captain's orders as any good pirate should do.

The world of Solbius was yet another dimension co-existing amongst millions upon millions of other dimensions in the ever expanding world of the multi-verse. Solbius was named after a mythical creature that exists only in this reality named "Solbius", the God of the Sun. A fitting name for the planet since the weather was rarely anything other than sunshine. Rainfall was considered a rare occurrence in this world and the weather would either be hot and sunny or moderately warm. Rarely did the weather ever turn cold on Solbius. Solbius wasn't a dry world though despite the amount of sunshine it had, quite the contrary. It was actually the wettest world in its Solar System. Solbius was 90% water and 10% land, most of the land being just small islands dotted around the vast oceans that managed to hold a reasonable amount of life on it. Some islands had invented floating cities and lived on the water in them. The biggest island on Solbius was Sol Island, the first island to house life on the planet. SolIsland had the most beautiful beaches you would ever lie on in this world and also housed the biggest civilization on land with a big town that had all the usual facilities you need. SolIsland was the size of the Earth country known as Scotland without England and Wales attached to it which explains how it's got so much on it. No other island matched its size. The smallest islands on Solbius were barely bigger than the Earth island of Tenerife. The closest island to matching Sol Island's size was an island that was the size of the Earth country known as Wales and (ironically enough) named "Whale Island" given the island's obsession with whales. Sadly though, despite how wonderful and popular a place SolIsland is to live, it is a popular target amongst pirates. You see, the vast amount of oceans on Solbius made piracy very popular and many people turned to piracy just because of the many advantages provided on a world like this. With so much water and so little land, you're hard to get. But here's the sinister thing about the pirates on this world. They weren't just pirates…they were robot pirates. The pirates used to be just normal organic Mobians but then somebody had built a roboticizer and turned the pirates into robots. And that somebody was the pirate captain leading the current kidnapping operation.

His name was Captain Metal. He held a unique spot in the world of piracy because he wasn't a pirate turned into a robot pirate, he was a robot pirate from the start. Or more specifically, he was a robot who had been made into the appearance of a pirate and the striking thing was, he had a familiar appearance to him at the same time. Captain Metal had a round head with a huge silver eye patch over the left part of his black visor, leaving him with one singular glowing red eye that burned like fire in the pool of black on the right side of his face. His muzzle was designed to make him look like he had a skull mouth which was held there by bolts on his cheeks. He wore a black hat with an admiral-esque appearance to it and was trimmed with gold atop the fins on top of the hat. The hat had large screws sticking out of the sides, presumably to hold it there. His body had the appearance of wearing a coat with a belt wrapped around the waist with the sides black and gold and the chest and torso section coloured white with golden buttons and around his waist hung a long skirt-like section that just further enhanced the coat-like appearance of his torso. His shoulders were flat and golden and tipped with spikes, heavily resembling epaulettes. His left arm was a huge round golden drum with a large hand tipped with razor sharp claws that could shred an opponent instantly if he swiped them at you. His right arm looked like somebody had bolted a pistol to the upper section of his arm in place of the lower section and the pistol had a cutlass blade attached under it as a sort of bayonet. It was a serious looking weapon and packed a lot of firepower. His legs were designed to look like brown pirate boots and around his neck and shoulders draped a ragged blue cape that blew in the wind that trailed it out behind him. The way he was proportioned would instantly make Sonic think of his old enemy, Metal Sonic, if he was to see him. You see, Captain Metal used to be a Metal Sonic but after running into pirates, they had altered his appearance to give him this pirate like appearance he now currently had. And he seemed to thrive in it.

Captain Metal had his own metallic ship known as "The Metal Marauder" which was waiting to be loaded in the sea. The Metal Marauder looked like a hi-tech galleon with a hull made entirely of metal and sails with patterns on them that made it look very hi-tech. There were a lot of sails on it so it could easily travel very fast when the wind packed up and if the sails failed, it had back-up supplies to still make the ship move. It carried a flag that was a skull with crossed spanners instead of crossed bones (they're robots, they don't have bones). It was loaded with weaponry too, the sides all full of cannons and some surprise weapons were concealed in various places on the ship. It was easily the most modern looking ship that was sailing the seas of Solbius. The moment the Metal Marauder showed up, you were dead meat for it meant Captain Metal and his robot pirates were coming to get you. Captain Metal had roboticized all the pirates that had made him who he was and now they serve him faithfully as if their very lives depend on it (which they do). Captain Metal longed to roboticize the whole of Solbius so he had broken the pirate radiation of hunting for treasure and instead, had been kidnapping as many people as he could possibly get his hands on. Or in his case, his hand since he only has one hand. Once he kidnapped people, he would take them to Pirate Island, an island that had once been desolate and devoid of ANY life at all until they discovered it and populated it. Once they arrived at Pirate Island, Captain Metal would roboticize the hapless victims and make them robot pirates. In his twisted vision, one captain can NEVER have too many crew members. One could say he'd never run out of crew-members given how many people he'd already roboticized. He'd been carrying this out for a whole year since he came into function and he showed no signs of stopping anytime soon. He and his crew were on Sol Beach, the most popular beach on Sol Island, and had instantly started kidnapping all the beach goers around. The poor Mobians had no choice but to comply as robot pirates grabbed them, tied them up and gagged them and then stuffed them into cages much to small for them to stand up in and then get taken aboard the Metal Marauder. A female white cat in a pink bikini and swimming trunks knelt down before Captain Metal and started begging for mercy, hoping to get through to him and get him to stop his evil for good.

"Oh please sir, leave us alone!" whimpered the cat "We just want to enjoy the lovely weather and have fun! We don't want to be stuffed in cages and taken away! Please leave us alone!"

"If I had a heart, ye'd be breakin' it lassie." snorted Captain Metal, his singular red eye glowering at the cat as if offended by her presence "Now sit tight as we get ye aboard before I cut out yer heart and throw it into tharr ocean!"

The cat did as she was told and allowed a robot pirate to tie her hands tightly behind her back and a gag to be tied around her mouth. Captain Metal seized the cat by the strap of her bikini and shoved her into a cage. The door fell down with a clang, shutting her in and locking the moment it closed. The cat burst into tears as two robot pirates carried her onto the Metal Marauder. Captain Metal watched the whole operation go off without a hitch. He was pleased to see how well things were going. He loved a good kidnapping mission. The whole beach was being combed for Mobians and so far, they'd caged half the people on the beach and the other half were being tied up and prepared for loading. A robot pirate that had one hand and a claw on the other arm, a peg leg and a head that made him look like he had a metal beard and a head scarf limped towards Captain Metal. He had a cane in his hand and he had a sort of smile on his face with a tooth missing. He was red and bronze with some white around the thigh and pelvis section, which were designed to look like shorts. His name was Swash. He had an accomplice with him. He was a huge golden robot with a body shaped like a giant metal barrel and had a metal piece around his torso that resembled a giant belt. He had one hand like Swash did but his other arm had an enormous metal hook that looked deadly serious. If he swung that at somebody, he would do some damage. He wore a metal hat that of course, evoked the pirate design. His name was Buckle. He and Swash were Captain Metal's right hand men and were the first pirates he had roboticized when his tyranny began.

"Arrgh Cap'n, we be havin' a fine time so farrr." said Swash, his voice a heavy gravel voice with a very heavy pirate accent "Them pesky kids haven't shown up yet and nobody be tryin' ta resist us so farrr."

"Yeah, this might be one of our best operations yet." agreed Buckle, his voice a more dopey sounding voice that suggested he was pretty stupid. He wasn't as accented as Swash either.

"Mayhap indeed." purred Captain Metal ominously "We haven't had a raid this fine in tharr longest time. Guess Team Radical be elsewhere for tharr time being. I be hopin' so since I am not in tharr mood for dealin' with the brats at this moment."

"The feelin' be mutual Cap'n." nodded Swash in agreement "I be losin' track of how many times I have given ye scallywags a good zap with me cane!"

"Yeah, can't we just raid and plunder in peace for once?" moaned Buckle "It was all fine and dandy until the little buggers showed up!"

"Team Radical be of no concern now since they be not here rrrright now lads." barked Captain Metal "Get on with tharr capturing and caging of ye landlubbers!"

"Aye, aye sir!" cried both Swash and Buckle.

Disobeying the captain's orders was never an option for these two. They were so fanatically loyal to Captain Metal that no matter what he told them to do, they'd do it immediately. I wouldn't be too surprised if Captain Metal told them to cut their own heads off and they willingly obeyed his order. Swash and Buckle ran off to help carry another cage onto the Metal Marauder but before anything else could happen, a time rift ripped open in the sky, a tearing sound echoing through the island like an earthquake and the pirates all stopped dead in their tracks to look up at the time rift. Captain Metal knew all to well what it was for he had been brought to Solbius by a time rift when he was Metal Sonic. Had it come here to snatch him back to his Mobius? Captain Metal watched closely as the time rift loomed over the beach. But nothing was sucked up into it. Instead, two bodies fell out of the time rift and landed with a thump on the sand like garbage being disposed of and then the time rift closed, leaving no hint of its existence at all. Captain Metal scratched his head in wonder. He'd not seen that happen before. Oh well, the time rift had just given him two more bodies to add to his Mobians to roboticize list. Captain Metal ran over to the two bodies and examined them. One was a silver hedgehog with an unusual quill style, knee high boots and gloves with a teal symbol on them. The other was a lavender cat in a purple coat and high heeled shoes. They were of course, Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat, future dwellers from Mobius Prime's future and victims of the impending crisis that was threatening the multi-verse right now. Both of them were unconscious but alive, unfortunate for them for they were in Captain Metal's hands now. Swash and Buckle ran over to Captain Metal and examined the unconscious Silver and Blaze, wondering who they were and where they came from.

"Shiver me timbers Cap'n!" cried Swash "These landlubbers fell out of tharr sky!"

"Be they "air lubbers" instead?" chuckled Buckle.

"Nay lads, they be brought here by tharr same thing that brought me to this world." explained Captain Metal "Did ye see that light in ye sky and how they feel out of it? That's how I came to inhabit this world. Now it seems these two are here to inhabit it too. Well they be free to do so…as robot pirates. Bind and gag them and put them in a cage each!" he barked furiously "NOW!"

"Aye, aye sir!" cried Swash and Buckle, running off to get a cage each for Silver and Blaze.

Two more robot pirates, both of them with two hands that made them adequate for tying people up, ran over to Silver and Blaze with ropes and cloths in their hands. One robot grabbed Silver and tightly tied his hands behind his back. He then tied the cloth around Silver's mouth, gagging him and making speaking impossible should he wake up. He draped Silver over his shoulder and ran off towards Swash and Buckle as they came off the Metal Marauder with a cage each in their hands. Silver was stuffed into one instantly, remaining unconscious throughout the whole thing. The other robot pirate tied Blaze's hands behind her back and wrapped a cloth around her mouth. If Blaze woke up, she'd just burn through them easily but once she was in a cage, there'd be no escape for her since the cages were heatproof, a little contingency for incase Captain Metal had come across a fire powered being. The robot pirate draped the tied up Blaze on his shoulder and carried her over to Buckle, who had a cage ready for her but before he could put Blaze in it, something twirled through the air and hit it in the head, making it drop Blaze onto the sand and rub its head in pain. Captain Metal turned to see who had attacked his crew mate. The attack had been a simple throwing of a nunchaku into the robot's head and Captain Metal recognized the attacker instantly. Four Mobians stood on the beach in battle ready stances, ready to lay the smack down on the insidious pirate leader. One was a racoon who had brown fur and black fur around his green eyes. He had black rings around his tail and he wore a green headband, a green open vest, yellow gloves a blue belt and green knee high boots with a white stripe on them. His face contorted with loathing, suggesting he didn't like the robot pirates at all. His name as Radical "Rad" the Raccoon. Beside him stood a smaller female racoon with orange fur, brown and beige fur around her blue eyes, brown rings around her tail and her hair was styled to look like boomerangs. She wore a green shirt that exposed her chest and arms, black shorts, green and orange shoes and yellow gloves. She was Rad's sister and her name was Marine. She was impetuous and capricious and spoke with a heavily exaggerated Australian accent. Standing on Rad's other side was a beautiful female polar bear who clearly looked like she was ready to hit the gym. She was slender-bodied and curvaceous and had fiery red hair with matching red eyes. Her fur was white and she wore a blue sports top that exposed her slim, flat belly, blue jogging trousers, red fingerless gloves and red shoes with rough soles that looked more like they were for walking in the snow in than sand. Her name was Crystal and she was Rad's girlfriend. She looked tough, maybe even as tough as Mandy Mouse. Standing beside Marine was a small green parrot with green feathers and blue tail feathers. He wore spectacles that looked comically large for his face and he had brown eyes. He wore a red bow tie, white gloves and yellow and white shoes. His name was Gadget and he looked like the brainy type of character. Somebody Tails the Fox could get on with just fine. Rad pointed sharply at Captain Metal.

"Captain Metal! You're trespassing on Sol Beach and kidnapping innocents! That's two strikes! Strike three, my nunchakus against your head!" yelled Rad.

"Fire on the poop deck! It be Team Radical!" growled Captain Metal furiously "Ye just had to come in and ruin everything didn't ye lad?! Well ye will be wishin' ye hadn't come here…Swash, Buckle! Join me in keepin' tharr brats busy! The rest of you, get the last of tharr prisoners onboard and get tharr ship ready to leave!"

"You're not getting away that easily Captain Scrap-Metal!" snarled Crystal, cracking her fists "You're going down and those poor people will be released from their cages!"

"Oy bruv, should we attack?" asked Marine "I'm itchin' to give the blighter a good royal thrashing I am!"

"Well itch no more." chuckled Rad "Team Radical, ATTACK!"

Crystal was the first to lunge at Captain Metal. She ran across the sand with the speed and grace of an Olympic Sprinter and she threw a terrific roundhouse punch that sent the captain's head spinning around in a mad craze as if somebody had decided to turn him into a spinning top for a moment. Captain Metal recovered and he uppercut Crystal in the face. Crystal felt like she'd been smacked by a baseball bat but the tough polar bear was used to pain. That was what all the gym training was for. She simply rubbed her face better as if the punch wasn't that big a deal and she aimed a powerful kick at Captain Metal's shoulder, hoping to at least break his arm off. Captain Metal's arm held firm and he swiped his cutlass at Crystal's belly, missing by centimetres as the polar bear jumped back to avoid it. Crystal clenched her fists and slammed them both down onto Captain Metal's head, making him crouch down as he was forced down by the attack. Captain Metal recovered and he backhanded Crystal onto the sand. He tried to stab her but Crystal rolled out of the way and leaped back onto her feet, ready for another round. As for Rad, Marine and Gadget, they didn't have much trouble with Swash and Buckle given they were relatively poor fighters. Buckle swung his hook hand at Rad, hoping to impale him through the head with it but Rad dodged and he whacked Buckle with his nunchakus. Buckle stumbled as if he was about to trip and Marine helped him with that by getting down on all fours and waiting for Buckle to trip over her. Buckle cried out as the back of his legs brushed against Marine and he tumbled over her back onto the sand. Buckle picked himself up but Rad wrapped his nunchaku around his hook hand and tugged on it, pulling Buckle forward. He swung Buckle around and unwrapped the nunchaku, sending Buckle hurling into the ocean. Swash however snuck up on Rad and jabbed him in the back with his cane. The cane concealed a taser in the base and Rad was brutally electrocuted by the attack. He fell down onto his knees and Swash raised the cane, ready to bonk him on the head with it. Gadget flew up behind Swash and gripped the cane, yanking it out of Swash's hands and bonking him on the head with it as he swung it down onto Swash's head. Swash clawed furiously at Gadget but Gadget kept out of his reach with the cane in his hands. Then he aimed it at Swash's chest and jabbed him in it, electrocuting Swash and knocking him out. Gadget chuckled, pleased with himself for knocking Swash out. Buckle had dragged himself out of the ocean and he ran towards Rad, Marine and Gadget. Rad was quick to react, jumping up and dropkicking him in the face. Buckle however remained standing and he backhanded Rad onto the sand. Marine tried to help but Buckle grabbed her by the head and threw her at Gadget. The two came crashing down onto the sand in a heap. Buckle wasn't victorious for long though. Rad grabbed Swash's cane and electrocuted him with it, knocking him out too. Now Swash and Buckle were dealt with, the three ran over to help Crystal with Captain Metal. Crystal was kicked into Rad just as he got near to the captain and the two fell over onto the sand. Marine and Gadget charged towards Captain Metal but the fierce robot swung his cutlass at them, making them back off hastily. Captain Metal noticed that Swash and Buckle were knocked out and he decided now would be a good time to flee for it. Besides, he'd kept them busy for long enough. His crew had loaded the last of the prisoners onto the ship. He could get out of here and come back for more next time. Captain Metal turned around and bolted off towards the Metal Marauder, not realizing that nobody had remembered to pick Blaze up after she had been dropped earlier. The crew had been in such a hurry they had forgotten about her. Swash and Buckle came to after being knocked out and they ran after Captain Metal, sensing it was now retreat time. The three boarded the Metal Marauder and the ship deployed its sails, the wind blasting through them like invisible hands pushing through the sails and the ship began to sail away. Team Radical were much too late to catch it and it was very windy, meaning the Metal Marauder was sailing away very quickly. Rad cursed violently as the Metal Marauder escaped their grasp.

"Damn it! Got away again!" he groaned "I'm gonna catch that stupid robot one day and I'm gonna make him pay for what he's done in the past year!"

"Calm down Raddy, getting mad isn't going to help anything." said Crystal softly, putting her hands on Rad's shoulders and lightly massaging him "We'll catch him one day. And we still can catch him you know. We just have to take the Ocean Tornado and sail after him."

"Good idea Crystal." said Rad "We'll get back home and load up my sister's ship and get sailing after that metal moron. Come on team, let's go!"

"Oy bruv! Hold on a minute ya hoppy little kangaroo!" cried Marine "The pirates forgot somebody! Look!"

She had noticed the tied up and gagged Blaze lying on her side on the sand, still unconscious after the time rift's effects. Rad put a hand to his cheek in alarm.

"Oh my gosh! There's a tied up cat lying there!" he cried "Poor thing, Captain Metal must have tried to kidnap her as well as everybody else on the beach. Least we saved one person. Marine, get her untied and take that gag off so she can breathe."

Marine obeyed and she untied Blaze's hands. She took the gag off and turned Blaze over onto her back to make her more comfortable. Rad, Crystal and Gadget stood around Blaze and they observed her. Marine listened to Blaze's chest. She could faintly hear Blaze's breathing and her heart softly beating.

"A heartbeat, she's still alive." she said "Thank bloomin' goodness."

Rad knelt down by Blaze's side and lightly touched her cheek.

"She's beautiful…" he mused "Who'd want to kidnap someone like her?"

"Captain Metal of course." said Crystal "And judging from the cat's appearance, she seems very wealthy. She must come from a rich family. Bet those pirates would have been interested in her money."

"They're robots my dear Crystal, why ever would they be interested in financial materials such as money?" noted Gadget, his eloquent voice matching his intelligent nature "They only want to make people into robots, not raid anybody."

"They're robot PIRATES." noted Marine "They're still interested in treasure too. Last time we fought Captain Metal, we stopped him from raiding a mansion on Whale Island."

"Well whatever their reason for wanting this woman, they didn't succeed." said Rad "She's safe with us and we should get her out of here before the pirates come back for her."

"Let's take her on the Ocean Tornado with us." suggested Crystal "She can rest and recuperate while we're chasing down Captain Metal and maybe when she wakes up, she can tell us who she is and where she's from."

"I dunno love, I think it's a bit risky to bring somebody a pirate just tried to kidnap with us." said Rad doubtfully.

"Well we cannot just leave the poor woman here alone and isolated." said Gadget "We should bring her with us so we can help her get better and keep an eye on her."

"Come on bruv, let us bring that little Shelia with us! Pleeeeeeeease!" begged Marine "I'll take good care of her if ya want!"

Rad sighed.

"OK then, she's coming with us." said Rad "We'll get back home and load the Ocean Tornado and put the cat in the bedrooms in the cabin where she can rest. If she wakes up, we'll explain what's going on and what's happening."

"Sounds OK to me Raddy." said Crystal "Let's get going before Captain Metal gets back to Pirate Island."

With that aid, Rad and Crystal picked Blaze up by her arms and legs and they gently carried her off the beach and headed into town to where Rad and Marine lived. It was amazing Blaze was still sleeping despite everything that had happened. She'd wake up eventually though and Team Radical were hoping it'd be soon. They were keen to learn more about this stranger and where she had come from…

Later that day, Blaze finally woke up after being out for a long time. As she woke up, she moaned softly and her head started screaming in protest as a thudding pain streamed all around. She felt like her brain was going to explode. Blaze massaged her head, her eyes still closed and she winced tensely.

"Hrrum…ugh…it feels like my head's on fire…" she whispered to herself "Oh Silver…what happened…"

She stopped mumbling and she turned over onto her back. She had been lying on her side. Blaze stopped massaging her head as the pain eased away and she opened her eyes slowly. To her surprise, she could see a ceiling above her head. To her even bigger surprise, Blaze felt a duvet over her body. Her hands traced over the duvet and she realized she could feel a pillow behind her head and a mattress under her. All of them were very comfortable. Blaze sat up in an instant, forgetting that she had been feeling groggy and achy a moment ago and looked all around. She was lying in a bed and she could see she was in some kind of bedroom. The room looked quite cosy. There was a red rug on the floor and the walls were a nice, clam shade of green that added to the room's cosy atmosphere. There was a porthole, instantly telling Blaze she was on a ship and she could hear the sound of the sea outside as the ship cruised through the water. Where on Mobius was she? Who had brought her here and why? Had she been kidnapped? Was she being taken somewhere? Blaze had no idea and she wasn't too sure she wanted to find out. She tried to climb out of bed but her body wouldn't obey her. It was still tired and achy from the time rift throwing her down onto the beach. Blaze lay back and sighed.

"Great, I'm not fit to move." she muttered "So now I'm trapped here for a moment. I swear whoever's taken me on this ship better have a reason for kidnapping me or I'm gonna…"

Her thoughts were interrupted by the sound of a door handle turning and the door opened. Blaze sat up as Rad walked into the room and saw that she was awake. He looked surprised. Blaze stared at Rad. There was no way this boy could possibly be a kidnapper. He looked young and innocent, not the kidnapping kind at all. Maybe she wasn't a prisoner after all. Rad walked over to Blaze as if hoping to tend to her needs.

"Oh my, you're awake." he said "I'm so glad to see that, I was worried that you weren't going to wake up. You slept through the entire loading procedure and we've been sailing for twenty minutes already. Thank goodness you're alive."

"Um…thank you?" said Blaze cautiously "Little boy, who are you and where am I? Also, why have you brought me here?" she asked, her eyes cold and furious.

"Please don't look at me like that miss, I'm a good guy, honest." said Rad quickly "Me and my friends found you tied up and gagged on the beach and we brought you here so the robot pirates couldn't get you. We just wanted to help you get better that's all."

Blaze looked at Rad suspiciously but she relaxed her nerves. Looks like Rad wasn't a kidnapper after all, thank goodness. Blaze lay back a little, her back resting against the pillow and she clasped her hands together.

"I see, well thank you for your hospitality." said Blaze gratefully "It was very kind of you. So where am I?"

"You're on the Ocean Tornado miss." said Rad "It's a ship that belongs to my little sister Marine the Raccoon. She's currently up on deck steering the ship as we're sailing. I just came down here to check on you. Do you need anything at all? Any medicine or drinks or anything?"

"No thank you young man, I'm quite alright." said Blaze truthfully since her body was beginning to ache less anyway "Even if that time rift did a number on me as it brought me here…speaking of here, please can you tell me what world this is?"

"Sure can." said Rad kindly "This is Solbius, the sunniest world in the Sol-Ar Dimension. It's a place where good weather is always around and bad weather is extremely rare. It's also quite wet too with only islands to live on but it's a good world to live on. Are you new here or something?"

"I am little boy." said Blaze "You see, I'm from Mobius. Mobius PRIME that is. I'm not from this world."

"Just like Captain Metal came from another world too…" mused Rad "So miss, what's your name and how did you get here?"

"My name is Blaze the Cat." introduced Blaze "And I was brought here by a time rift, a multi-coloured light that appears in the sky and sucks up or drops off people. They're apocalyptic though and Mobius Prime is close to ending due to how many time rifts it has had. We're hoping to prevent that from happening."

"That's terrible!" cried Rad "Oh Blaze, I hope you can save your world! And speaking of lights in the sky…something like that happened last year so does that mean Solbius is going to end too?" he asked, his green eyes wide with fear.

"Depends. How many time rifts has this world had?" asked Blaze.

Rad thought for a moment about the question he'd been given.

"Hmm…I don't know for sure…but the only recorded incident as far as I remember was last year when Captain Metal was brought to our world." he murmured "Yeah, I think we've only had one so far but given you was brought here by a time rift, I guess Solbius has only had two so far."

"Good, means Solbius will have much longer to live than Mobius Prime." muttered Blaze "You've been lucky so far. Onto another thing now, who's Captain Metal?" she asked, noting how Rad had been using the name a couple of times during their conversation.

"Captain Metal is our worst enemy and he's the scourge of Solbius." explained Rad gravely "He used to be a robot named "Metal Sonic" and he was brought here by a time rift, the first one we had. What world he came from I don't know. My friend Gadget's father took him in to fix him up and maybe use him in our ongoing crusade against the world of pirates. Metal Sonic came back…minus Gadget's father I'm afraid. He attacked Sol Island and me, Crystal, Marine and Gadget had to fight him off. We were brutally injured that day but we managed to get him to fly off. Big mistake for us since he ended up in the hands of some pirates. They liked the idea of a robot pirate so they scavenged a lot of metal and rebuilt Metal Sonic into a robot pirate which he calls himself "Captain Metal". Captain Metal then built a machine known as a "roboticizer". He says it's based on an invention his master from his world made. Who his master was before he came here is anyone's guess. Anyway, Captain Metal roboticized all the pirates of Solbius and made them his own crew. They all built a ship for themselves called "The Metal Marauder" and now they go around plundering and searching for treasures but their primary goal is kidnapping Mobians and roboticizing them to make more pirates for themselves. Captain Metal's been at it for a year now and already a quarter of the population has fallen victim to his insidious plans. There's only me, Crystal, Gadget and Marine to fight him and…we're just not enough. If we don't stop Captain Metal… then the whole world will be one big pirate crew."

Blaze could only stare incredulously at the young raccoon as he told the story to her.

"That…that's horrible!" she gasped "Oh Rad I'm so sorry to hear this! I'll help you stop this "Captain Metal" if you wish. Since I'm here now, I may as well help you stop him."

"You sure on that?" asked Rad unsurely "I mean, can you fight at all?"

"Rad, when we find Captain Metal, I'm going to show you why they call me "Blaze"." said Blaze with a wink "So, is this why we're on a ship? Are you and your friends sailing after Captain Metal?"

"We are." said Rad "He got away from us back on Sol Island and we're hoping to catch him. I hope we haven't lost him…"

"I hope so too." said Blaze "Given how he tried to kidnap me while I was unconscious. He's gonna pay for that!"

Blaze had remembered how Rad said he'd found her tied up and gagged and he said he'd brought her here so the robot pirates couldn't get her. That must mean Captain Metal and his crew had tried to kidnap her while she was unconscious. So if they tried to kidnap her then…Blaze suddenly realized something.

"Silver!" she cried out "Oh my gosh! Where is he?!"

"Pardon?" asked Rad.

"Silver's my boyfriend." explained Blaze "He's a silver hedgehog with yellow eyes and five quills above his eyes. Have you seen him?"

"No." said Rad, shaking his head "You were alone when we found you. Silver must have landed somewhere else or maybe the pirates got him. I dunno."

"Oh I hope he's alright." said Blaze worriedly "He's so insecure when he's alone…"

Her worries were interrupted by an Aussie accented voice barking over the intercom in the ceiling. It was Marine, calling to Rad from up on deck.

"Oy! Bruv! Get yer butt up on deck immediately! We found the barky that belongs to Captain Metal!" she said.

"Yes! We found him!" cheered Rad "Come on Blaze, let's get up on deck!"

"Gladly." said Blaze, keen to give Captain Metal a piece of her mind for being so evil and for trying to kidnap her earlier.

Rad and Blaze both left the bedroom and Blaze followed the young adventurer as he led her down a corridor and up a flight of stairs that took them to a steel door that opened up and allowed them to walk out onto the deck of the Ocean Tornado. The Ocean Tornado was a big vessel that was truly striking to anybody who saw it sailing on the seas. It had a large turquoise sail that spread over the top decks, providing excellent shelter should it rain. It had an eagle-shaped decoration that proudly sat on the bow of the boat. It looked marvellous with its large pointed beak, long wings and colour patterns all around to make it look grand. The steering wheel for the ship sat on a platform that stood on a pole at the back of the ship. On either side of the vessel were large paddles that propelled the ship through the water as they spun. The colours were a mixture of light brown, blue, red, yellow and black and were arranged in patterns that made the Ocean Tornado truly striking to the eye. The ship's armament consisted of lots of cannons on the sides that were itching to fire at any enemy ship they came across. Blaze had to admit, this was one impressive looking ship. She looked around the decks and saw Rad run up to a polar bear and a parrot who were looking out to sea. The polar bear had a telescope and was looking through it. Blaze wondered if they were Rad's friends he'd mentioned earlier. As for Marine, she noticed that Blaze was awake and she climbed down from the steering platform to greet her eagerly. Blaze was startled by the sudden appearance of Marine as she started bouncing up and down with excitement.

"Hey Shelia, yer awake!" she cried out excitedly "Say, who are you and where do ya come from? Are ya rich? Are ya royalty? Come on, tell me! Oh, the name's Marine by the way and oi'm the captain of this here dingy we're sailing on right now! I call it the Ocean Tornado! Ripper innit?! I built it meself let me tell you! Well actually, Gadget built it and I oversaw development but the boat was my idea! Do ya like it? Is it awesome? Do you like sailing? You don't get sea sick do ya? If so, should I get you a bucket to spew in? Better not barf on the floor or oi'll 'ave ya! Sya, you met me bruv Rad the Raccoon yet? He's very cool, he's my role model, I look up to him. Ya met Crystal and Gadget yet? They're over there. Crystal's the polar bear and Gadget's the parrot. Me bruv loves Crystal. I hope they get married and have kids in the future. Wonder if I'll get married? As for Gadget, he's very smart and he's cute as far as birds go and…"

Blaze fought hard to keep herself from going mental over the sheer amount of dialogue coming from this overly verbose little girl. Rad should have warned her that Marine was like this. Blaze turned off from Marine's insane babbling and she shot a glance at Rad, who was beside Crystal and about ready to talk to him.

"Hey Rad! Does your sister have an off button somewhere?! I'd like for her to shut up please!" she called over to him, Marine still warbling mindlessly in the background.

"Ah ignore her, Marine's just an excitable little cutie." said Rad casually "You'll get used to her."

He turned to Crystal who seemed to be watching quite intently through the telescope she had in her hands.

"So babe, what's going on?" asked Rad.

"Something weird handsome." said Crystal, not taking her eye out of the telescope "The Metal Marauder's not moving. It's just…sitting there. It's like Captain Metal WANTS us to come near."

"I strongly advise against a frontal assault." said Gadget "Captain Metal is clearly goading us into a very unsubtle trap that is so obvious even Marine would notice it."

"No Gadget, I don't think that's the case." said Crystal, peering closely through the telescope to see what she could make out "There's a weird teal glow on the ship and…it looks like robot pirates are getting thrown overboard."

"Did you say "teal glow"?" asked Blaze.

"I did." said Crystal, not looking to see who had spoken "Why?"

"That must be my boyfriend Silver." said Blaze, running up the bow and standing behind Crystal "Those robot pirates must have got him. Bring this ship closer to that metal ship in the distance so we can help him!"

Crystal only just realized that she had been hearing an unfamiliar voice and she turned around to see that Blaze was awake and standing behind her.

"Oh, you're awake." she laughed "Ha, ha, nice to see you awake miss."

"Thank you." said Blaze "Your friend Rad the Raccoon has briefed me in on everything and I'm going to help you destroy your enemy Captain Metal for good. Am I right to assume you're Rad's friends."

"That guess is completely accurate madam." said Gadget politely "My name's Gadget and this is Crystal. It's a pleasure to meet you."

"Thank you Gadget." said Blaze "I'm Blaze and when we reach Captain Metal's ship, I'll show you why they call me that."

"Sounds cool." said Crystal "Looks like we have another potential fighter with us. Well Blaze, I look forward to seeing what you can do."

Blaze smiled graciously. Team Radical were all so nice and friendly. Just her luck to end up in their hands. Pity Silver hadn't been so fortuitous. Seeing as the Metal Marauder was in sight, Marine ran back up to the steering platform and steered the Ocean Tornado as it cruised on towards the standing metal ship. It took them five minutes to reach it and another five to line up beside the insidious metal galleon. As they got aside the Metal Marauder, Blaze was happy to see that Silver was indeed on the ship and he was in the middle of a fight with Captain Metal and his crew. Of course, he was winning this fight. Team Radical watched as Silver grabbed some robot pirates with a psychokinetic hold and he tossed them like rag dolls across the deck. Captain Metal himself was hiding behind barrels of ammunition and just taking the occasional shot at Silver. It didn't work for Silver just caught the blast and threw it into a robot pirate. Swash and Buckle both ran towards Silver and Swash aimed his cane at him. Silver stopped him with his psychokinesis and he threw him into Buckle. To say Silver was ticked was an understatement. He was pretty much on a rampage on this ship.

"How dare you tie me up and put me in a cage you metal miscreants!" he screamed "You're all gonna pay for imprisoning me!"

Rad's jaw dropped as Silver froze a robot pirate with a wave of his hand then proceeded to throw it into the water.

"Is this your boyfriend then?" asked Rad "Silver the Hedgehog?"

"It is indeed." said Blaze happily "And it looks like he has this in the bag. I knew he would."

"You sure know how to pick a boy Blaze." said Crystal with admiration "He's really cool! Look at him! He's taking them down with a wave of his hands!"

"I never knew psychic powers were real…" mused Gadget "This is an amazing sight to behold."

"You bet it is!" cried Marine, jumping down from the steering platform and joining the others "That silver dude's right ripper he is! He's taking them down as if they're nothing!"

Blaze was pleased to hear that Team Radical were taking an instant liking to Silver. She was also pleased that Silver seemed to have this fight covered. No need for her to step in. But then Silver's luck ran out. Captain Metal had loaded his gun with trails of rope with heavy metal balls tied to each end and he fired the rope at Silver. The rope twisted around Silver's body, the balls helping with that and Silver found himself tightly trussed up all around his torso. The metal balls dragged him down onto the floor and he strained to get back up. He was about to use his psychokinesis to free himself but Swash jabbed him in the back and electrocuted him, making Silver cease what he was doing and gasp for breath. The shock had weakened him and when he was weak, he couldn't use his powers. He was trapped now. Captain Metal strode up to Silver and he pointed his bayonet at his head.

"Ye are a very troublesome landlubber matey!" growled Captain Metal "And for that, ye will not be granted the great honour of joining me crew! Instead, ye shall be sent to Davy Jones's locker!"

"Sorry, I don't speak "pirate-junk", you'll have to clarify what you mean." snorted Silver.

Captain Metal just sighed and he raised his arm, aiming the bayonet at Silver's neck. He would take his head off in one quick swish of his sword and Silver would be done for. Blaze reacted without even realizing it. She set herself on fire and she spiralled towards Captain Metal, landing a powerful blow squarely into his back and sending him hurling into the side banister. Captain Metal nearly fell overboard. He picked himself up and his singular glowing red eye shrunk down into a tiny dot of surprise at what he saw. Blaze stood before him, fire emitting from her hands and her face contorted with rage. Silver looked up at Blaze, delighted to see her alive and well. He'd been hoping she was OK since he'd woken up on this ship.

"Don't…EVER…try to kill Silver!" she snarled.

"You! Ye were with tharr silver brat when ye both fell out of tharr light in the sky together and landed on Sol Beach!" declared Captain Metal "I had a nasty feeling I had forgotten something when we left! Well lassie, if ye have come here to challenge me then ye have made tharr biggest mistake of yer life. Mayhap I deliver ye to Davy Jones's locker?"

"You're the one who's going to be delivered to a grave Captain Scum-heap!" roared Blaze "I've been told ALL about your evil plans and I'm here to help Team Radical put a stop to it! You will not leave to kidnap another innocent today you metal monster!"

"Nay lassie, ye are the one who will never see the light of day again." purred Captain Metal coldly.

He raised his arm and he blasted Blaze directly in the torso. Blaze screamed in pain as the shot whisked her off her feet and slammed her against the side banister. Blaze clutched her stomach in pain and forced herself onto her feet, just in time to see Captain Metal charging towards her. Blaze rolled out of the way as the vicious robot swung his sword at her, striking the banister and tearing a great chunk off of it in the process. Blaze set her hands alight and she punched Captain Metal in the face. Captain Metal was surprised to feel so much power behind that punch. Even Crystal's punches didn't hurt that much. Captain Metal slugged Blaze in the gut with his fist and then slammed the pistol handle-shaped elbow of his right arm on the back of her head. Blaze was thrown flat onto the floor and she gripped her head in pain. Captain Metal tried to stab her with his sword but Blaze rolled onto her side and threw fire into his face. Captain Metal backed away from the fire, giving Blaze the chance to stand back up. She set her left foot alight and threw a roundhouse kick that could break jaws at Captain Metal's muzzle, aiming for the bolt in hopes of breaking it off. The kick dented Captain Metal's cheek and sent his head spinning around. Blaze then jumped up and kicked Captain Metal across the deck. He crashed into the mast at the very front that proudly held up the many sails the ship had. Swash and Buckle decided to help their captain so they crept up behind Blaze. Blaze didn't notice them. She advanced on Captain Metal, her eyes burning and her hands alight. Buckle raised his right arm and aimed for Blaze's head. One hard knock and Blaze would be out cold. But the knock never came for Blaze heard Buckle coming and she spun around on her heel, throwing fire at him and propelling him through the air and crashing down directly on top of Swash. Blaze smirked. Nobody ever got the drop on her so easily. Captain Metal however ended up becoming one of the few that did. He aimed his cannon arm at Blaze's turned back and he fired at her. The shot struck Blaze and threw her across the deck. She landed by Swash and Buckle's sprawled bodies, her back stinging wildly with pain. Silver watched and prayed that Blaze was OK. Blaze staggered back onto her feet and summoned fire to her hands again. The furious fire cat stampeded towards Captain Metal and threw a punch at him. Captain Metal stood to the side and he raised his arm. He swung his sword at Blaze, the cat leaning back to dodge the attack, and the two circled each other for a moment. Blaze threw a punch at Captain Metal, that nearly took his head off. Then she pounced on Captain Metal but the former Metal Sonic model threw himself on his back and swung his legs up into Blaze's body, throwing her over himself and onto her face. The two picked themselves up and charged towards each other, their arms drawn back for a punch. They both threw their punches…and both of them landed a blow on each other. Blaze and Captain Metal staggered backwards and they both rubbed their faces from the punches.

"Very impressive me dear." said Captain Metal "Ye would make a fine pirate lassie for me crew ye would. Mayhap ye be secondary captain alongside me and be me Queen of the Seven Seas. Oh yes…ye'd make a fine second in command indeed."

"I will not be joining your disgusting crew!" retorted Blaze "You will burn and your crew will get their humanity back! You stole it from them, and I'm gonna give it back to them!"

The two leaped into the air and hurled towards one another. They both collided in mid-air and were brought tumbling down onto the ground, wrestling with each other until they both got back onto their feet and continued fighting.

As for Team Radical, they leaped onto the Metal Marauder and Rad and Crystal set to untying Silver. It was a fiddly job thanks to the ropes but they managed it in the end. Silver brushed the ropes off of himself and stood back up.

"Thanks guys." he said "So I guess you're this world's heroes?"

"We are." said Rad proudly "No time to explain now, we have to help Blaze defeat Captain Metal."

"Why, she seems fine on her own Raddy." said Crystal, watching as Blaze punched Captain Metal in the gut and made him double over.

"Maybe so but Metal's crew will jump into help him." noted Rad "You saw how Buckle attempted to bonk her on the head. We'll keep the rabble off her back while she defeats Captain Metal."

"In all honesty, I'd happily help Blaze defeat Metal myself." murmured Silver "Oh well, we'll keep Metal's crew from interfering. You ready guys?"

"Totally!" piped Marine.

Silver smiled and he braced himself as Swash and Buckle got up to their feet and any remaining robot pirates prepared to attack him and Team Radical. Silver froze them all with his psychokinesis and sent them hurling into the wall at the back of the ship. Swash and Buckle picked themselves up only for Team Radical to jump onto them and pound them onto the floor of the ship. Rad swung his nunchakus, Crystal threw punches, Gadget flew around to distract them and Marine helped as best as she could. Silver just made things harder for Swash and Buckle by stopping them from moving so the team could beat them up easier. The other pirates tried to help but Silver would also stop them dead in their tracks so Team Radical were free to let Swash and Buckle have it.

Blaze watched this, pleased to see there would be no interruptions from Metal's crew. She could solely focus on defeating Captain Metal. She leaped towards Captain Metal, her foot pointing at him like a javelin and she delivered a powerful fiery kick to the face. Captain Metal stumbled briefly before regaining himself. He backhanded Blaze across the face and threw her down onto her side. Blaze stood back up, jumped into the air and she dropkicked Metal straight on top of his head. The kick dented the fins of his metal hat. Captain Metal growled furiously and he kneed Blaze in the gut. Blaze gasped as she felt the wind in her get knocked out of her as if somebody had taken a sledgehammer to her stomach. She fell onto her knees and coughed, tightly gripping her stomach as she tried to regain her breath. Captain Metal kicked her and sent her rolling across the floor. Blaze grabbed a nearby barrel of ammunition and used it to pull herself back onto her feet. Then she kicked it at Captain Metal. The barrel hurled through the air as if it weighed nothing but Captain Metal just smacked it away before it could hit him. Blaze seized her chance and she lunged at Captain Metal like a leaping tiger. She grabbed the screws that stuck out of the sides of Captain Metal's hat. She then somersaulted directly over Captain Metal while holding onto the screws. She landed behind him, hoisted Captain Metal off of his feet by the screws and slammed him down onto the floor as hard as she could. This was why having something sticking out of the side of your head was never a good idea. Captain Metal picked himself up, furious as hell at Blaze for daring to grab the screws on his head like that. He aimed his gun arm at Blaze but Blaze cart-wheeled away from Captain Metal and summoned fire to her hands. She threw fire at Captain Metal but Captain Metal fired his cannon at the same time. Their attacks both struck each other but they were evenly matched. Blaze's fire and Captain Metal's laser couldn't overpower one another. Blaze sweated with effort, desperate to win this struggle. Captain Metal growled furiously, willing his laser to win the battle. But in the end, neither one won for the laser and fire attacks built up and up until they both imploded violently and blasted the two fighters off their feet. Blaze hit the floor hard whereas Captain Metal hit the floor hard but took the fall better than Blaze did. He picked himself up whereas Blaze was on her knees and straining to get up. He decided now would be a good time to get Blaze while she was still weak. He advanced on Blaze and aimed his gun arm at her head. Blaze gasped in alarm as she found herself staring directly at Captain Metal's gun arm. She quickly grabbed it and aimed it up at the sky before he could fire. Then balancing on the ball of her left foot, Blaze threw an upwards kick that struck Captain Metal in the chin. It was a miracle Blaze didn't take his head off. Captain Metal stumbled precariously, nearly falling over. Blaze grabbed his hand and yanked him towards her just so she could punch him in the forehead. Captain Metal fell onto his back and Blaze grabbed him by the throat. She wasn't trying to strangle him, she was trying to yank his head off. Captain Metal however aimed his fist at the side of Blaze's head and he punched her clean off of himself. He stood back up and blasted at Blaze again. Blaze shielded herself with a spiral of fire she summoned and she threw the spiral at Captain Metal. Captain Metal blocked the blow and he raised his gun arm. He swung it at Blaze and slashed her across the face with the bayonet he had under his arm. Blaze screeched in anguish as a large, red slash spread across her face and began to sting like crazy. Blaze put her hand over it and winced tensely. She soon had something else to worry about for Captain Metal pointed the blade of his bayonet at Blaze's chest. Blaze cried out in fright and she pressed her back firmly against the wall. She was trapped and at the mercy of Captain Metal. She began to sweat nervously. Captain Metal narrowed his eye at her.

"Ye have fought very valiantly lassie but I'm afraid the end be comin' for you. Arrgh!" crowed Captain Metal "However, I be prepared to reward your bravery and skills with a chance of escaping death. If ye stand down and allow me to roboticize ye, then ye will have tharr great honour of ruling this crew alongside me. Me and you could be kind and queen of the seas together and nobody will dare stand up to us! What do ye say landlubber?"

"I'd rather DIE than be queen of the seas and ruling alongside YOU, you filthy, scandalous, evil creep!" snarled Blaze.

"That can be arranged!" roared Captain Metal, pressing harder on Blaze's chest "Ye shall be sent to Davy Jones's locker along with all other pirates who have perished in their time on tharr seas! Any last words before I finish ye off?"

Blaze just closed her eyes and turned her head away as if embracing death and allowing herself to welcome it. Shrugging, Captain Metal drew his arm back and aimed straight at Blaze's heart with his blade. One swift strike and it would be over. But Blaze merely tricked Captain Metal until thinking she was accepting death. As Captain Metal prepared to stab her, Blaze lunged forward and throw tornadoes of fire at the insidious pirate captain, roaring fiercely at the top of her voice. Captain Metal wailed and groaned as flames swirled all around him. Blaze kept it up, hoping to eventually melt Captain Metal. But Captain Metal was made of strong stuff. It would take a while for him to melt and Blaze could sense it. So she thrust her hands forward and sent Captain Metal hurling towards Silver. Silver caught him with his psychokinesis and he threw him down onto the floor as hard as he could. Blaze ran towards Captain Metal and she stomped as hard as she could on his head. The stomp left a heavy dent on Captain Metal's face and his eye stopped glowing and went out. It seemed that he was dead at last. Silver prodded him with his foot. Captain Metal didn't move. Blaze kicked him onto his back. He still didn't move. Blaze smiled happily.

"I think I've finished him off." she said delightedly "Captain Metal is no more."

"YES!" cheered Rad "He's dead at last! Oh happy day! He can't terrorize us anymore!"

"Strewth!" blustered Marine "The blighter's been blighted! Blaze, you're amazing!"

"Oh Blaze, how can we ever repay you?" asked Crystal.

"No need." said Blaze brightly "I was just happy to help. This may not be my world…but all worlds deserve their freedom I say."

"I agree." said Silver, putting his arms around Blaze's waist "And by the way Blaze, it's so good to see you're alright."

"Thanks Silver, it's good to have you back." said Blaze softly, putting her arms around Silver's shoulders "I was so worried for you when I realized you weren't with me."

"I worried about you too." said Silver "Well we're back together and now we can tackle the time rifts together. I hope the others are OK though…"

"I'm sure Sonic and his friends are fine." said Blaze "They've survived worse before. So then, what now?" she wondered aloud.

"We'll free the captive Mobians and get Metal's crew on the Ocean Tornado." Rad decided "And once that's done, we'll pull away and sink this ship. It can take Captain Metal to his grave."

"That is a great idea." said Blaze brightly "Let's get started."

It took a long time but at long last, Silver, Blaze and Team Radical had rescued all the beach-goers that Captain Metal had kidnapped earlier and helped get them on the Ocean Tornado. Captain Metal's crew were all disabled by Silver and they were taken onto the Ocean Tornado so that they could be taken home and be de-roboticized. Gadget had been working on one for a while and he was eager to test it out. Now the Ocean Tornado was loaded, it pulled away from the Metal Marauder. Marine steered it to the starboard side and widely circled around so that it was a fair distance away from the Metal Marauder. Now it could fire at the ship without the force of its fire damaging the Ocean Tornado as well. Rad, Crystal and Gadget loaded the cannons and they fired them at the Metal Marauder. The cannons struck the ship and blew giant holes in it. The Metal Marauder began to take on water and it titled to one side. It was sinking and in a matter of minutes, it would be completely underwater. Pleased to see it sink, Marine steered the Ocean Tornado around and headed off back to shore. She was bursting with joy over today's turnout. Captain Metal was dead and his piracy was over. How happy everybody would be to hear this when the news was delivered. However, as the Metal Marauder began to submerge, Captain Metal's red eye suddenly lit up again and his body twitched as if coming back alive…

A while later, the Ocean Tornado arrived back at Sol Island and upon reaching land, the beach-goers instantly darted back onto the sand, happy to be back on it so they could continue enjoying themselves as they had been doing before Captain Metal arrived to ruin everything. Silver, Blaze and Team Radical were the last to disembark from the ship. They all strode onto the sandy beach before them, pleased to see so many happy faces and pleased that the day had been saved again. Rad and Crystal put their arms around each other.

"Oh Raddy, we've done it at last." sighed Crystal "I thought I'd never see the day when Captain Metal finally fell to us."

"I didn't think so to either beautiful." said Rad, stroking Crystal's cheek "Although it was thanks to Silver and Blaze we won that battle."

"Uh, I only kept the crew at bay." said Silver sheepishly "Blaze is the real hero of the day, she stopped Captain Metal not me."

"But keeping the crew away from her gravely contributed to the success of our crusade." noted Gadget "If you didn't help us keep the crew away, Blaze may have been overpowered and defeated and then we would all be awaiting roboticization so you are deserving of praise too my friend."

"Strewth, I think so too." said Marine "Yer both heroes just like we are!"

"I guess you're right." said Silver casually "And it was definitely our pleasure to help out."

"Indeed." said Blaze "And also…I must thank you four for stopping Captain Metal from kidnapping me while I was unconscious and helping to reunite me with Silver."

"Shucks, you're welcome Blaze." said Rad cheerfully "We're Team Radical, we're radical heroes and we give villains a radical beat down! And you certainly gave Metal a radical beat down and finished him off. You have no idea how grateful we are for that."

"The pleasure's all mine." said Blaze with a warm smile "So, have you got a de-roboticizer for the robot pirates at all? You told me they were roboticized Mobians."

"They are indeed." said Gadget "Which is why I've been building a de-roboticizer to rid the pirates of their metal cages. I just pray that it works…"

"Only one way to find out mate." said Marine with a wink "Let's test yer little de-roboticizer do-hickey shall we?"

"Don't see why not." said Gadget "Let's test it."

But before anything else could happen, a sudden white portal opened up out of nowhere, startling everybody and making them leap backwards in alarm.

"STREWTH!" squealed Marine, jumping into Rad's arms like a frightened kitten.

Silver and Blaze stared at the portal, taken aback by its appearance and wondering what it was. Rad and Crystal were nervous whereas Gadget seemed interested in it given his love for science and all.

"Is that…a time rift?" asked Rad nervously.

"I don't think so." said Silver "This one isn't up in the sky. And it's white. Time rifts are multi-coloured."

"Is this…a portal back home?" mused Blaze "If so, we should check it out. I hope it'll take us back home."

"With any luck, it might lead us to the cause of the time rifts." suggested Silver "You ready to go through it Blaze?" he asked, holding her hand.

"With you Silver, I'm always ready." said Blaze.

"Hey, can we come with you?" asked Rad "I'd like to help stop these time-rift things too."

"But Rad, the robot pirates need de-roboticizing." noted Crystal "We can't just leave without de-roboticizing them first."

"Silver disabled them, they aren't going anywhere." said Gadget "We can leave them for a while and test it when we get back."

"OK then." said Crystal "Let's go. I for one am curious on what the hell a "time rift" is."

"We'll explain everything when we get through it Crystal." said Blaze "Come on, let's go."

Silver, Blaze and Team Radical all walked straight through the white portal and the portal vanished the moment they stepped through it. It would certainly take them to the cause of the time rifts and it would surprise them on what the cause was…

Well that was one radical adventure wasn't it?! And I have to say this: BLAZE ROCKS!

Oh and pay attention to Captain Metal's final scene. That means something, he's not dead yet. He'll be back...

So how was this episode? Hope you all enjoyed it. :D

BIG MEGA thank you goes to mastergamer20 of DeviantArt fame for letting me use Rad the Raccoon, Crystal the Polar Bear and Gadget the Parrot in this story. :D

Join me next time for Shadow and Rouge take the spotlight and have an Intergalactic Chase Down...

Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses Part 5

Story 170: Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses Part 5: Intergalactic Chase Down

Prologue: Twenty minutes ago…

Completely unaware of the oncoming crisis that would effect not just Mobius Prime, but the entire multi verse as a whole, Shadow the Hedgehog was standing on a cliff and overlooking the ever expanding sea of blue that lapped at the foot of the cliff as if hoping to one day scale the cliff and sweep over the land above. Shadow hadn't been doing much since the whole ordeal with Dr. Finitevus back a few weeks ago. He'd been travelling the world like a vagabond and seeing what there was he could do and if any lives needed saving at all. Everything had been pretty peaceful. Dr. Eggman hadn't attacked recently, Dr. Finitevus hadn't shown his face since his defeat last time and no other villain on Mobius was around to cause trouble. Shadow was having it easy which was more than can be said for Sonic the Hedgehog and friends. Shadow closed his eyes and inhaled softly through his nose, enjoying the peace of his surroundings and feeling content and at harmony with the world. The breeze blew gently through his fur and the lapping waves crashed softly against the cliffs. In more furious weather, they'd be much louder. This was a good place to stand and relax if you're in that kind of mood and Shadow certainly had to agree on that. Shadow had no worries, no anxieties at this moment, just complete relaxation and peace and the world of his own thoughts to explore. He opened his eyes again.

"This world is so beautiful." he murmured under his breath "No wonder I chose to defend it. And to think those abhorrent Black Arms wanted me to destroy it…"

He quickly forced the grisly image of Black Doom and his insidious offspring out of his mind. No way would they spoil his peace.

"As much as I enjoy fighting, I will have to say that it feels good to relax for a change." he mused again "Especially with a scene like this. Even somebody like me can appreciate a good view."

His eyes swept over the beautiful scenery that he was observing. Mobius truly was beautiful. Made Shadow feel very glad that he had ever been sent to it, even if it had been because Black Doom feared losing him to his enemies. Nevertheless, Shadow was still pleased to have landed on Mobius and the more time he spent on there, the more he grew to love it and be proud to call it home. As Shadow drank in the beauty, somebody flew down from the skies and landed behind him, quite softly so that it wouldn't stir him so suddenly. Yet despite the noise of the wind and the soft landing of the person, Shadow still managed to hear the landing and without turning around, he guessed who it was.

"Can't leave me alone for one minute can ya Rouge?" he snickered teasingly.

He was right too. Rouge the Bat had landed behind him and was now approaching him. She had a secret crush on Shadow and really liked him so she would often look for him and see how he was in between looking for treasures. Rouge smiled coyly at Shadow's joke.

"I can hardly help it Shadow." purred Rouge "One might say that in one way, I'm attracted to you. So how's it going dark boy?"

Shadow turned to face Rouge. Even though he wasn't one to have romantic feelings for anybody, he had to admit that Rouge was beautiful and her presence was always welcome as far as he was concerned. He liked Rouge, especially since she had been the one to wake him up from the capsule and also had once tried to turn him away from Eggman. Also when he had been caught by Dr. Finitevus, she had bravely encountered the mad doctor to try and save him. It was a mystery to Shadow why Rouge seemed so fond of him but he appreciated it. Rouge just made him all the more welcome on Mobius. Shadow smiled at Rouge.

"It's going well Rouge." he said "Nothing much has gone on so I'm just here to enjoy the peace and quiet up on this cliff. You have to admit, the view's quite stunning up here."

"It's a lovely view indeed." said Rouge "Even somebody like me could sit down and enjoy it for a moment."

"You're welcome to join me if you want." said Shadow kindly.

"Why Shadow, I don't know what to say." purred Rouge jokingly "Thank you."

Shadow just smirked a little.

"It's nice to see you all better after what Finitevus did to you." he said "Did it take you long to recover?"

"I was sitting around for quite a while but it didn't take too long." said Rouge "I'm glad it didn't too, I hate sitting around doing nothing, especially when I've got jewels to find. Those treasures won't find themselves if I'm not looking for them."

"You seem to enjoy treasure hunting don't you?" said Shadow.

"I grew up in a jewellery shop so that's where my love for jewels and gems come from." said Rouge "And I love looking for new treasures to find. I've come across some pretty amazing things in my life time believe me."

"I can imagine." said Shadow "Although in my opinion, there's one treasure that's greater than anything in the world and you don't have to hunt for it. And that is life."

"Life's one big treasure. My late dad used to say that." said Rouge "And he's too right on that. Nothing in the world's more valuable than life itself."

"Agreed." said Shadow, watching another wave lap up at the shore of the cliff "Pity people like Dr. Eggman like to waste it away with their evil ways. Such a sad waste of life…"

"Tell me about it." agreed Rouge "There's much better ways of living then through evil, fear and hatred. Well, guess we'll just have to accept that some people don't value life as much as we do."

Shadow nodded. It mystified him as to how anybody could enjoy being evil. Despite being created to be a villain himself he got to see the world through positive eyes and began to feel that evil had no necessity in life. And he would do whatever it took to make sure evil would never plague the world again. But Shadow would soon have a different task in mind. Completely out of the blue, a loud tearing sound boomed across the cliff tops and Shadow and Rouge leapt back in case the cliff suddenly collapsed. They looked up at the sky, the tearing noise getting louder as they looked up. Their eyes widened as a huge time rift yawned open above the cliff tops. It was like some kind of eye opening up and staring down at them ominously. The time rift spanned the entire width of the cliff tops and it swirled with colours. Anyone who got epileptic seizures from bright lights would instantly get one looking at the time rift given how fast the colours swirled and how aluminous they were. Shadow and Rouge stepped back. They hadn't seen a time rift yet but Shadow managed to guess what it was since he had had to travel to Mobius Nega to get Sonic back after a time rift had brought him there.

"It's a streak of light!" cried Shadow "I remember how Tails told me one of those took Sonic to another world and I had to find him with Chaos Control!"

"That thing's bad right?" asked Rouge nervously.

"It'll suck us up into another world if we don't get away from it." said Shadow "Let's move now!"

Rouge was all too happy to obey that order. She flapped her wings and took to the air. Big mistake though. When you're in the air, it is far easier for something to pull you back than when you're on the ground. Rouge felt herself being pulled towards the time rift. She flapped her wings furiously and tried as desperately as she could to get away from the time rift. But her efforts were futile. She was pulled towards the time rift, completely helpless and powerless to get away from it. Shadow jumped up and grabbed Rouge by the ankle. He dug his heels into the ground and pulled as hard as he could, desperate not to lose her to the time rift. But Shadow's efforts were as futile as Rouge's. It was like fighting with a giant vacuum cleaner. Dust will always lose to the vacuum cleaner and that's what it was like for Shadow and Rouge. The two were pulled up into the air by the time rift, screaming in terror as they were sucked up into the pool of colour that awaited them up above. The time rift swallowed them up and closed the moment they entered. Then it disappeared but it wasn't long until it showed up again. This was Judgement Day for Mobius Prime and once Mobius Prime fell…the entire multi-verse would fall with it…

Present Time…

Shadow and Rouge came to twenty minutes later after being sucked into the time rift. After being sucked up by the time rift, they had been dumped onto a random dimension and they had just been lying there unconscious for twenty minutes. Rouge lay beside Shadow on her back while Shadow lay on his front, his head near the bat's feet. One would think they were a random couple who had just collapsed onto the pavement after frolicking about too much due to ingesting too much alcohol. The only thing defeating that image was the fact there were no bottles lying beside them. Shadow pushed himself onto his knees and he rubbed his head better. Due to being the ultimate life form, the time rift didn't knock him out for as long as it did the other. He recovered much quicker than the average Mobian did. As he rubbed himself better, he shook Rouge lightly helped her to wake up. Rouge sat up, stretching as much as she possibly could and she eased the pain in her head by massaging her temples. She still had her eyes closed for the moment so she didn't see anything around.

"Ugh…feels like I flew into a lamppost." murmured Rouge "But we definitely didn't do that, I remember that for sure."

"Indeed." said Shadow "We got sucked up by a light in the sky. I wonder if Sonic felt like how we felt when he got sucked up into the light?"

"I wonder if Sonic himself has been sucked up by another light or something." said Rouge, opening her eyes and looking at Shadow "Somehow, I doubt we were the only ones who've been sucked up by that thing."

"I can see why." murmured Shadow "When something happens to us, Sonic seems to get involved too." he thought as memories of Finitevus and the Egg Train came back to him.

"So I wouldn't be too surprised if that was the case here." said Rouge coyly "So Shadow, where do you think we…are?"

She trailed off a bit as she turned her eyes away from Shadow and let them observe her surroundings. Shadow turned his attention to what was around to and despite what he could see right now, he wasn't quite sure he believed his own eyes. He and Rouge were on a platform that seemed to have a chunk of road on it and there was a street light that sat on one corner of the road. It was blinking a florescent blue colour, the kind of blue a police siren would have. There didn't seem to be anything else around for miles, just endless blue sky. It was a pretty featureless world and Shadow and Rouge weren't too pleased to be on such a vapid looking world. They knew one thing though, this was not Mobius Prime at least. They were definitely on a different looking world. Shadow folded his arms and sighed.

"What do they call this place? World of Nothing?" he snorted.

"Couldn't we have ended up somewhere a bit more…adventurous?" muttered Rouge "Why did we have to end up here?"

"Guess the light in the sky just picked a world at random and chose here." murmured Shadow "If I had a Chaos Emerald on me, I'd just warp back home. As is, we're stuck here for the time being so we'd best work out what to do."

"I sure hope there's something that'll come by, I mean we're stuck on a platform and there's nowhere to go." said Rouge "We're in the middle of nowhere! We're gonna starve out here!"

"Did you forget that you can fly?" said Shadow with a sneer on his face.

"Oh yeah, that's a brilliant idea." sniffed Rouge "Where am I gonna fly too? There's nothing here! And what if I tire our before we find any land? We're gonna fall and it likely will be an endless plummet!"

"You're right." thought Shadow "And my teleportation range is limited. I don't know this world so I can't warp anywhere I don't know and I can only warp so far. We're stuck here it seems. I guess we'll just have to hope a light in the sky appears and brings us outta here."

"I hope so." said Rogue, scowling furiously "I'm not willing to die of boredom here after all I've been through in my life…"

However just as things began to look glum for Shadow and Rouge, they could hear the sound of humming coming from their right hand side. They both turned around and squinted at the distance as the humming sound seemed to grow louder and louder. There was something in the distance and it was coming towards the platform. Shadow could make out a faint torpedo shape that had a torpedo shaped engine on each side and they were blazing away as they effortlessly pushed the shape through the endless sky. It was some kind of ship and not a ship that Shadow and Rouge had ever seen before. It was coloured a fiery red and the engines were trimmed with orange underneath. It had mauve coloured windows that stood out brilliantly from the red colours of the ship. The ship pulled up beside the platform, performing a neat, flawless turn as it drew level with the platform and the roaring engines quickly died down into silence. The docking ramp of the ship lowered and it touched the edge of the platform. Out of the ship climbed its pilot. Shadow and Rouge stared at the pilot in wonder as he stepped out of the ship and onto the platform. He was one formidable looking creature. He wore a golden helmet with four spikes on the back, two pointing up and two pointing down. There was red trimmed around the edges of the helmet and above the eyes rested a gold piece that protruded from the brow section of the helmet. He had a gold chest plate that was solid and gleaming and the chest plate was accompanied by shoulder pads with spikes protruding from underneath, heavily resembling epaulettes. He wore a grey shirt with a black patch covering the chest and stomach area. He wore a golden belt that contained small pods that likely weren't just there for decoration. The buckle of the belt was round and gleaming. He wore grey trousers and knee high boots that were also gold in colour and had gold plating on the top of the foot section. From behind his shoulders draped a crimson cape that flowed gracefully behind him. The most disturbing feature about this creature to Shadow and Rouge was his face. His face looked exactly like a long gone enemy of Mobius's, Marik the Martian. He had the same red skin and the same flaming orange eyes but he couldn't possibly be Marik. He was much taller than Marik and somehow, his face didn't carry the same amount of evil Marik's did. He just looked more like a grumpy cop than anything. This was an alternate version of Marik the Martian and he didn't look too pleased with Shadow and Rouge's presence on the platform. Shadow and Rouge stood their ground, ready for what might happen should this creature strike.

"Alright, let's hear the excuse, what the heck are you two trespassers doing here?" snarled the Martian.

"Trespassers?" asked Shadow curiously.

"This young man is the Inter-Dimensional Lockdown Zone and ONLY occupants of this zone are allowed to roam freely here!" barked the Martian "I am Warden Marvo the Martian, warden of the Inter-Dimensional Lockdown Prison and you two scrubs are under arrest for trespassing in this forbidden zone!"

"Wait, you can't do that! We didn't mean to come here! Honest!" cried Rouge.

"That's what they all say." said Marvo with an irritated sigh "You trespassers always have an excuse. You two are coming with me and you will spend a very long time in prison for your trespassing!"

"Look Marvo, we came here by accident!" shouted Shadow furiously "We were brought here by a streak of colourful light that appeared in the sky! It ripped open above our heads and sucked us up. Next thing we know, we wake up here! Please believe us!"

Marvo seemed to consider this story for a moment. He curled his finger around his upper lip and thought about this. He'd heard this before and to hear it again just sent wheels in his head turning.

"Funny, I've had two other trespassers gave me the same crazy story." he murmured "I just locked them up in prison a moment ago."

"Who are they?" asked Rouge.

"As if I'm telling you that!" snapped Marvo "I bet you two are here to break them out! Well it isn't going to work! I do not buy your story for a minute and if you think you can free the two trespassers who I locked away a moment ago then you have another thing coming!"

"I'm telling you, it's the truth!" yelled Shadow furiously "A light in the sky brought us here and we just want to get out of this zone and back to our Mobius! We're not here for any reason at all!"

"Oh and I suppose when you get back home, you'll bring more people to trespass in this place and take over the Inter-Dimensional Lockdown Zone? I don't think so!" snarled Marvo "You two are going nowhere except a dingy cell in the Lockdown Prison! Now come quietly or I WILL use force on you both!"

"So you're just going to arrest us for accidentally being brought here?" exclaimed Rouge "Puh, some cop you are. Shouldn't you at least let the accused prove their innocence first?

"I'm not soft like all the other cops in the multi-verse are!" growled Marvo "I know a guilty person when I see one and if you're guilty, you're mine!"

"I don't think so!" shouted Shadow, throwing a terrific uppercut to the warden's chin.

Marvo's head snapped backwards violently and he fell against the nearby engine of his parked ship. He rubbed his chin, amazed at how much power Shadow had in him. He clearly wasn't any normal person he'd encountered before. He must be very powerful and in the warden's eyes, great power had to be detained quickly. Shadow jumped over Marvo and onto his ship. Marvo scowled at him. The blighter was going to pinch his ship! How dare he! No way would somebody as feared and respected as him let Shadow get away with it! Shadow was about to board the ship until Marvo ran onto the docking ramp and slugged him in the back, earning a grunt of pain from the black hedgehog. He then elbowed Shadow on the head and knocked him down onto his knees. Rouge ran in, hoping to help Shadow but Marvo grabbed Rouge by the face and threw her into Shadow. The two sprawled across the floor of the ship and the warden took off a pod from his belt. He threw it into the ship and closed the docking ramp, trapping them inside the ship as the pod hit the flew and exploded like a water balloon. Instead of water though, it threw clouds of sleeping gas all over the ship and Shadow and Rouge coughed as the gas seeped through their mouths and into their lungs. The two tried to fight off the gas but this gas was very powerful, taking effect almost immediately. Shadow and Rouge felt light-headed and then their muscles seemed to just not want to function despite their brains ordering them to move. The gas swept over their bodies and eventually, they succumbed to the effects, collapsing onto the floor and passing out. Marvo opened up the docking ramp to see if the gas had taken effect yet. He was pleased to see Shadow and Rouge knocked out on the floor. He stood by for the moment, letting the gas drift out of the ship and into the atmosphere so it wouldn't take effect on him too. The gas cleared away and the warden boarded his ship. He picked up Shadow and Rouge's bodies and he sat them down on a chair each. A metal bar swung shut over them like a bar on a rollercoaster swinging down over your lap to keep you in. The bar had shackles on them for their hands to which the warden fastened them in. Shadow and Rouge were going nowhere even when they eventually woke up. Smirking, he entered the cockpit of his ship and sat down at the controls.

"OK, this patrol is over and I may return to my beautiful prison." he said to himself "Wasn't expecting some more Prime Zoners to lock up but here I am about to return home with two more. I hope they don't cause too much trouble while they're there…"

He started up his ship and he flew off away from the platform. He was heading off home back to Lockdown Prison and he could hardly wait to get Shadow and Rouge acquainted with all the other inmates. He enjoyed his job and arresting trespassers like these were what he loved the most…

No sooner had the warden arrested Shadow and Rouge, the two had been taken to the Inter-Dimensional Lockdown Zone prison. The prison itself was a huge facility, spanning the length of three tennis courts and matching the height of a five-storey building. It could easily house a lot of prisoners and that was exactly the point of the Lockdown Prison, to house many people since the multi-verse had many a criminal that liked to trespass in the zone for whatever reason they wanted to. As Shadow and Rouge were escorted to their cell they couldn't help but notice the sheer amount of prisoners that were locked up in the zone. There rows of cells all containing up to five or six inmates and they all ranged in height, size and appearance. They all came from different zones from all over the multi-verse, all of them related to Mobius in somewhere so in turn, the inmates were all Mobian. There must be at least over a thousand inmates all crammed up in this enormous prison. There may even be more than that given how some maybe out on the exercise yard at this moment. Shadow and Rouge were helpless to fight off their escort, who was a Martian in a futuristic police uniform. Their hands were bound behind their backs by lasers cuffs that wrapped tightly around their wrists. Shadow and Rouge knew they couldn't break out of them, laser cuffs were impossible to break. Any attempt at doing so just made the lasers stretch as far as they would allow and that was it. They also had a control collar each around their necks, inhibiting their abilities and making them weaker. The Inter-Dimensional Lockdown Zone had been inspired by the Prime Zone to invent this device and it did considerably good work for the policemen who worked in the zone. Control collars made keeping the inmates under control a lot easier and even subduing them was no problem thanks to the collars. Shadow felt only contempt for Marvo as the guard led him and Rouge to their cell. The collar made him feel weak and powerless for he couldn't spin-dash or use any of his Chaos Powers. He couldn't even warp away like he could. Rouge wasn't losing as much considering she had no special powers but the control collar inhibited her flying abilities and would make her slower and weaker a little. She'd still be able to fight, but not as well as usual. The guard reached the end of the corridor and he opened up a cell door on his left. This was to be Shadow and Rouge's new home from now on. He undid their laser cuffs and he shoved Shadow and Rouge into the cell. The door slid down form the ceiling and closed shut behind them, sealing them inside the dingy cell and trapping them. The door was made of diamond glass, making breaking out impossible, even if Shadow didn't have a control collar on. Chaos Blasting the door open wasn't an option for Shadow would grievously injure, maybe even kill Rouge in the process so if he got the collar off, he wouldn't try using Chaos Blast to break through the door. As the guard left, Shadow and Rouge both slumped against the wall and sighed loudly.

"Well this is a fine mess we've gotten into isn't it?" moaned Rouge.

"I feel insulted." growled Shadow, tugging on the collar as if hoping to break it off "I beat Black Doom and his hideous Black Arms army, I helped Sonic and Scourge take down Perfect Chaos and I even teamed up with Sonic, Silver and Blaze to defeat Tyrahko and yet I get subdued pathetically easily and locked up in some cell in a prison in a zone I don't even live on! Can it possibly be any more humiliating?!"

"The feeling is mutual Shadow the Hedgehog." purred a deep, sinister voice that made Shadow and Rouge jump into the air as if needles had come out of the ground and jabbed them in the bottom.

Shadow and Rouge had been so busy complaining about their current predicament that they failed to realize that they had cellmates. They both looked ahead of themselves and saw that there were two more people in this cell. And they couldn't possibly have imagined that their cellmates were none other than Dr. Eggman and Dr. Finitevus! The two evil doctors had been captured and locked up too although their first intention upon arriving here was to break out and they had been plotting their escape until Shadow and Rouge got thrown into the cell too. Finitevus had a control collar on him and his arms and legs were absent of any warp rings. They had presumably been taken off of him to stop him escaping. Eggman, being inside of Omega, couldn't have a control collar fitted on him so instead, the cops just disabled his Omega life support suit. The only thing the suit could do now was keep him alive. He couldn't move, he couldn't use his weapons, nothing. Just sit there and do nothing like a bored little kid. Finitevus folded his arms and he smirked at the hedgehog and bat, earning glowers of contempt in return from them.

"Greetings you two." sneered Finitevus "What a pleasure it is to meet you again."

"You!" snarled Shadow "Boy am I glad to see you here! I owe you a broken neck for what you did last time!"

"And I owe you a beating in return for the one you have me!" growled Rouge.

The bat then noticed Dr. Eggman sitting behind Finitevus but given she had yet to witness Eggman in his current state, she had no idea it was him and immediately assumed it was Omega, back from the dead and ready for revenge after it had been destroyed by Mandy Mouse last year.

"You got Omega back online?" she gasped "How on Mobius did you do that? I bet Eggman isn't going to be pleased that you stole his tech and built it for yourself."

"Finitevus didn't steal Omega." said Dr. Eggman "I AM Omega. What you see before you is what has become of me! After those pesky Royal Fighters crashed my ship, I ended up on the brink of death! Katherine, my lovely little servant bot, rebuilt Omega and adjusted him to work as a life support machine for me so now I am forced to live inside this robot of mass destruction. Not that I care since I'm much stronger than ever before!"

Shadow and Rouge were dumbfounded. Their jaws dropped so far it was a miracle they hadn't come off of their hinges.

"Y-y-you're…on…life support?" gasped Rouge "Whatever did Sonic and friends do to you?"

"He said they crashed his ship." said Shadow "I remember that, I was there when it happened. Tails tricked his Krudzu Hybrid Hydra thingy into cutting the power to the ship and it ended up crashing. I thought that was the end of Eggman that day…but then the Royal Fighters tell me he's still alive. They didn't tell me he had become like this though…" he said, gesturing towards Eggman's life support suit.

"I bet it's surprising to you both." said Eggman "But what's more surprising is that me and Finitevus got caught and thrown in this stinking cell!" he added in fury, willing his arms to raise up and shake but the suit wouldn't obey him due to it being disabled.

"How did you two get captured anyway?" asked Shadow "Finitevus, you're insane in terms of fighting prowess and Eggman, you're inside Omega! That was one of your strongest robots ever! How could you two possibly be subdued by that stupid warden?!"

"I could ask you the same Shadow." snorted Finitevus rudely.

"Me and Finitevus were taken away by the so-called "time rift" that keeps appearing in the sky and snatching people away." explained Eggman "Then we woke up here. Some guy named "Warden Marvo the Martian" found us and he and a squadron of cops were quick to try and arrest us. We put up a magnificent fight…but eventually they subdued us. The warden managed to sneak a control collar on Finitevus and I was disabled with an EMP shock. We were then taken away and brought to this stupid prison. They disabled my suit so I can't break out and Finitevus had all his warp rings swiped from him! Have no fear though, we've been working on an escape plan."

"I should hope you have." said Rouge "I'm not staying in this place and I'm certainly not keeping this collar on." she added, tugging bitterly at the collar as if it was bugging her.

"Before we move onto the plan though, do you know anything about this zone?" asked Shadow.

"I do." said Finitevus "A few hours ago, I sneaked away into one of the computer rooms that this prison has. I maybe weaker thanks to this collar but I'm still as slippery and sneaky as I can be. Anyway, I looked up information about the Inter-Dimensional Lockdown Zone while I was there. Apparently, this is a zone that is home to the Multi-Verse Police Force. Their job is to keep the multi-verse under control and make sure that time travellers and zone travellers are not damaging the fabric of time and existence. If you are guilty of those crimes, they come and arrest you without hesitating. Only the cops themselves are allowed to inhabit this zone. Trespassing, which is what we're accused of, results in an instant arrest. The Lockdown Zone does a pretty good job of arresting people I must say. According to the files I read, there are eight thousand, six hundred and forty three prisoners here, us included. You two have now made that eight thousand, six hundred and forty five."

"Well I'll be blowed…that many?!" gasped Rouge "Boy, you don't wanna mess with these cops in that case! They're good at their jobs aren't they?"

"Very, which is unfortunate for us." muttered Finitevus "We can do without being stuck in here, especially since Mobius Prime is coming to an end."

"What do you mean?" asked Shadow.

"Silver the Hedgehog told us that the lights in the sky are called "time rifts" and that they mean the end of the world." explained Eggman "I won't let Mobius end like this! I can't conquer it otherwise!"

Shadow and Rouge hadn't thought they would hear anything more gob smacking than Eggman being encased in a life support suit but they were wrong.

"Mobius is coming to an end?!" shrieked Shadow "And it's because of those time rifts?!"

"No…no it can't! We can't let that happen!" wailed Rouge "We have to save Mobius! We've gotta get outta here now before the world falls apart!"

"Indeed we have my child." said Finitevus dryly "If Mobius Prime ends…then everything else will. The multi-verse depends on a prime universe to exist. That is the most common theory and one that nobody dares to prove correct or incorrect in case of catastrophe. If the prime universe is gone then the multi-verse has nothing to support it. It's like a broken table. It won't stand on two legs instead of four as we all know."

"So if Mobius Prime ends…this zone will end too and take us with it!" gasped Shadow "All the more reason to break out of here! So what's this plan of yours that you mentioned earlier doctors?"

"Oh we have a plan believe me on that." said Dr. Eggman "During our short time here, Finitevus took to analyzing the prison's surroundings and finding out where everything is. I have to admire that complex brain of his, he's so meticulous!" the tone in the doctor's voice was a strange one to come out of him. He sounded almost impressed and admired by Finitevus's intelligence. Very strange considering how egotistical he usually is.

"Thank you doctor." said Finitevus, not really all that flattered by Eggman "I found out where tools are kept in this prison and after snooping around the computer rooms and finding out what I needed to know about this zone, I swiped a toolbox and took it back to my cell under my cloak so nobody would notice. And before you two arrived, I had been using said toolbox to try and reactivate Eggman's life support suit. Once he's back online, he can break down the door and provide a great distraction. He may even have the strength to rip off our control collars and bring us back to our former glory."

"Well he'd better be gentle with me!" blustered Rouge, gripping her throat worriedly.

"I won't pull too hard." purred Eggman, his voice dripping with dark humour.

"I must say, security is lousy if you managed to get into a computer room and steal a toolbox without being noticed." sneered Shadow, a dry smile spreading across his lips.

"Yes, security doesn't seem very strong." said Finitevus gleefully "I bet I could have retrieved my warp rings without being noticed too. Speaking of which, I know where they're being kept so when we break out, I'll go and find them."

"So Finitevus, I think now would be a good time to finish fixing Eggman." said Shadow "We have a multi-verse to save now. Time is of essence."

"Don't tell me something I already know…" muttered Finitevus in annoyance.

He strode back round to behind Dr. Eggman, who had a panel in the back of his suit opened up for Dr. Finitevus to do his work. Finitevus had been mostly re-wiring some wires and tightening a few pieces inside while also trying to get the suit fully functional again. The cops had made a very messy job of disabling Omega, something that even Finitevus was disgusted at. Being a scientist and all, it upset him to see tech like this being abused. At least he was on hand to fix it now. Finitevus picked out a loose wire and he reconnected it into a circular disc-shaped object.

"Now if I connect this wire to the circuit chamber and then reroute the power to the fusion core…" he murmured between tinkers.

Naturally, Shadow and Rouge had no idea what Finitevus was saying. Techno-babble was a foreign language to them but to Eggman, it was a language he was fluent in so he knew what Finitevus was on about easily. He understood every word the albino echidna uttered as he worked away on the amazing machine that housed Dr. Eggman and kept him alive and was pleased that he knew what he was doing. Finitevus was by far the best person to be fixing him right now since Katherine wasn't here. It crossed Eggman's mind briefly as to what Katherine might be thinking now he's gone. He imagined she'd be quite worried about him and probably initiate a global search for him. Katherine was insanely loyal to Eggman after all. Maybe TOO loyal at times…it did sort of creep Eggman out on how loyal Katherine was. Had he unintentionally made a robot that had a crush on him? It was a creepy yet humorous thought he had to admit. His thoughts were interrupted as he felt Finitevus drilling something into his back. He was merely putting screw back where it should be, nothing to worry about. Finitevus picked up a couple more tools and did a few minutes more work on Dr. Eggman until finally, something began to happen. The head section of the suit started to twitch slightly and the optics that allowed Eggman a clear range of vision began to light up. The head then began to turn around a full 360 degrees. Finitevus watched, pleased with his work as Eggman test the suit. The head certainly seemed to be working but what about the rest of the body? He soon got the answer to that question for Eggman then suddenly began to slowly rise up off the floor and onto his feet, whirring noises emitting from the swivelling joints in the suit's ankle, knee and hip joints. Eggman then moved his arms, the enormous limbs rising up above his head as he commanded and then lowering back down. Finitevus had done it! Eggman was back online at last!

Breakout was ascertain at this point in time. The cops would have no idea what hit them. Eggman grinned to himself from inside the suit.

"Finitevus, you amaze me." he said "You've gotten my glorious life-support mech working again! Now to show those scrawny cops what happens when they dare to arrest Dr. Ivo Eggman!"

"Save some for me, I would like to soften my knuckles on their stupid little faces." said Finitevus, his face a twisted grin of the devil himself.

Eggman chortled and then he swivelled his entire upper section around so he was facing Dr. Finitevus. He gripped Finitevus's control collar with a huge metal finger and thumb and he proceeded to squeeze on the collar so hard that it bent and buckled under the strain. It then eventually snapped in two as Eggman's metal claws penetrated it. Finitevus could feel his strength returning as the collar fell off. What a wonderful feeling it was for him. He then gripped Shadow and Rouge's collars and proceeded to break them too, being sure not to hurt them since he needed them intact right about now. The collars broke away and Shadow and Rouge felt a surge of relief as their strength began to return to them. They also felt much better without the horrible collar clamped around their necks. Eggman pointed at Shadow and Rouge.

"You two, behind me now." he ordered "I need all the space I can get if I'm to break down that door."

Shadow and Rouge moved behind him as ordered. It was like hiding behind a giant metal shield, a shield that also had arms, legs and tremendous firepower stored in it. But Eggman wasn't going to use his firepower to break the door down. He thought he'd save it for the cops. Instead, he ran towards the door, his feet making heavy clanking noises as he ran, and he punched at the thick, Diamond Glass as hard as the suit would allow him. His enormous metal hand smashed into the glass and ploughed straight through it as if it were brittle. Splinters of sharp glass littered the floor outside of their cell as the door crumbled like a sandcastle being kicked down by a beachgoer. The moment the glass door was broken, alarms started screaming all over the prison, the noise startling every single prisoner in the building. It was clear what the alarm's message was: BREAKOUT! BREAKOUT! RED ALERT! RED ALERT! The cops would be on the scene in no time to try and detain the hopeful escapees. As the alarms wailed, red lights began to flash all over the cell corridors, bathing the cells in a luminous crimson glow. Now they were free, Shadow, Rouge, Eggman and Finitevus ran for it. Eggman took off on with his back mounted jet engines and Finitevus jumped onto his back, hitching a ride on the doctor. Shadow skated off on his jet shoes and Rouge flew after him as he followed the doctors.

"You two get out of here, we're going to get Finitevus's warp rings back!" barked Eggman "I'll give you an escape route!"

"Got it!" Shadow called to him.

The prisoners all watched with envy as the four escaping Prime-Zoners left the cell corridors, wishing with all their hearts that it was they who were escaping instead of them. One could make the assumption that they would start plotting their own escape at some point later in life. As Eggman whooshed down the corridor, he aimed one of his arms ahead and fired a missile at the end of the corridor. The missile struck the wall and blew a giant hole in it as if somebody had punched through it with a giant fist. Shadow and Rouge jumped through the hole in the wall while Eggman and Finitevus veered to the left and flew off down another corridor. Shadow and Rouge were now outside the prison, relieved to be in the daylight again despite their brief time in captivity. There were lots of cops out on patrol and the alarms wailing from inside the prison had whipped them up into a frenzy. They were gobsmacked to see Shadow and Rouge standing before them and they all aimed their guns at the two. Marvo the Martian was among the cops and his face contorted with fury.

"You two! How the heck did you manage to escape your cell?!" he snarled.

"As if I'm gonna tell you that." said Shadow with a gloating smile on his face "Now then, you can stand down and let us go or sacrifice your lives needlessly. Pick your option."

"Nobody has ever escaped from Lockdown Prison and lived!" declared Marvo "Any escapees were shot down and killed before they got within a hundred yards from this place! You two won't even get a foot from this place!"

"So I guess you're gonna kill us then just for escaping?" sighed Rouge, not at all amused by this and sounding almost bored by it as if this happened on a regular occasion.

"Any attempt at escaping results in a death penalty." said Marvo coldly "And you two definitely deserve such a penalty! Guards, kill them both!" he bellowed.

The guards obeyed and they opened fire on Shadow and Rouge. Shadow warped out of the way and left the shots to sweep over the empty space he had been standing a moment ago. Rouge had flown out of the way the moment the guards fired. Shadow reappeared behind Marvo and he roundhouse kicked the warden in the back, sending him hurling into the guards like a bowling ball ploughing through the skittles. The guards were knocked down like dominoes as the warden and the guards closest to him all collided into them. Shadow could hardly help but chuckle at this comical scene that unfolded before his eyes. To many people, it would look like something out of a cartoon albeit happening for real instead of being animated. Now the guards were taken out, he skated off and headed towards a hover bike that was parked nearby. The hover bikes were for the guards to use but Shadow didn't care about that. He was going to take one and nobody was going to stop him from doing so. He needed to get away from this prison before the warden could try and recapture him and Rouge. Rouge flew after Shadow as fast as she could. By the time the two had reached the hover bike, Marvo had picked himself up and he snatched a fallen guard's rifle. He aimed it at Shadow and Rouge and opened fire. Laser blasts spat out of the barrel of the rifle and chopped away at the ground behind Shadow's heels. Shadow swiped his arm behind himself and sent Chaos Spears hurling towards Marvo. The spears struck him and one spear even knocked the rifle out of his hands. Marvo growled in fury and he thundered after the two fleeing Mobians. Shadow and Rouge hopped onto the hover bike with Rouge sitting in the driver's seat and Shadow sitting just behind her. The idea for this was Rouge would drive and Shadow could fend off any possible pursuers that might chase them down. The hover bike that the two had picked was silver in colour with foot rests that had pedals on them that presumably made it go. It also had two large engines, one on each side that suggested great power was stored within them. It made a great vehicle for chasing down anyone the cops were trying to arrest. Rouge started up the hover bike and it hovered up off the ground with a loud hum. Gripping the handle bars tightly, Rouge floored the accelerator pedal and the hover bike rocketed away form its parking spot and soared off into the endless sky of the Lockdown Zone. Roaring furiously, Marvo climbed onto his own hover bike and he rocketed off after Shadow and Rouge. His hover bike was much larger than Shadow and Rouge's and was a fluorescent golden colour that sparkled like actual gold. His bike had the formation of lying down on it as you ride it. As the bike sped off through the sky, his cape billowed out behind him like a waving flag. Marvo's face was a twisted, hideous scowl of hatred. He was not going to let Shadow and Rouge get away so easily. His reputation was glorious, a whole thousand decades worth of keeping prisoners under lock and key with no escape attempts being successful with generation after generation getting the honour of doing such a task. Letting Shadow and Rouge escape would stain his reputation forever and likely make the Lockdown cops not so feared and respectful. He didn't want all the other inmates to suddenly be inspired by Shadow and Rouge to escape and actually get away with it. The prison would be in chaos and his job would be moot.

The warden's hover bike roared loudly as it perused Shadow and Rouge, the engines blazing furiously as they pushed the chassis of the bike through the sky. Rouge kept her eyes fixed ahead of herself and left Shadow to fend off the warden. That was the reason why he was facing backwards after all. Shadow waited for Marvo to close in on him before he threw some Chaos Spears at him. Marvo weaved his bike around and dodged the spears. They just skimmed past the bike, narrowly missing it by inches. Shadow threw some more Chaos Spears but the warden ducked down and dodged them again. Rouge swung the bike around to the side violently as she nearly hit a platform with a lamppost on similar to the one she and Shadow had woken up on earlier. She missed it narrowly and she sped off further through the sky. The warden nearly crashed into the platform but he rose the bike up and over the platform, letting it pass underneath him as he sailed over it and he continued the chase. Shadow and Rouge had left him behind a little after that manoeuvre but the warden soon caught up with them again. Marvo turned a knob on his bike's control panel and deployed a pair of guns that were concealed in each side of the bike. They began to pepper Rouge's bike with shots but the hover bike resisted the shots. It wouldn't resist them for long though, the bikes were built to resist most gunfire but not gunfire from a gun on another police bike. If Marvo kept shooting and hitting then Rouge and Shadow would have nothing to fly on. Rouge swerved the bike around through the sky to avoid the shots but Marvo kept up his relentless pursuit. He was like a demented fighter pilot trying desperately to shoot down his enemy over No Man's Land during WorldWar I. He shot furiously and refused to give up. Shadow threw Chaos Spears at Marvo but Marvo aimed the guns and blasted the spears away, preventing them from getting near to him. Now the guns were aimed away, Shadow threw another Chaos Spear at Marvo and the spear hit the front of the bike, making it buck slightly and nearly throw Marvo off of it. Marvo regained control and twisted the throttle on the bike's handle. With a burst of flames from the bike, he picked up speed and continued rocketing after Shadow and Rouge. He aimed his bike's guns at Shadow and Rouge again but Shadow threw Chaos Spears at them and destroyed them both. Growling furiously, Marvo kicked the bike into another gear and picked up more speed. Shadow watched as Marvo manoeuvred his bike to the side and pulled up beside Rouge's bike. Rouge shot a nasty glare over at Marvo, the very expression telling him "Get lost you annoying idiot!", an order that Marvo was not going to obey. Marvo turned the handlebars to the side and his bike began to turn slightly. He ended up bumping Rouge's bike, making Rouge jerk to the side suddenly and Shadow nearly fell off. Marvo pulled away and then closed in for another bump. Shadow just drew his arm back and punched Marvo in the head before his bike could make contact. Marvo's head was thrown to the side violently but he managed to keep himself on the bike thanks to a very good grip on the handles. Marvo regained himself and he bumped against Rouge's bike again. Rouge cried out as she nearly fell off the bike. Furious, she jumped off the driver's seat and screw-kicked Marvo's bike, throwing it to the side and nearly causing the warden to fall off. He held on tightly and focused his muscles on keeping his body upright and on the bike. Rouge flew back onto her bike and pulled away from the warden, turning to the side and leaving him behind. Marvo turned and followed. They were heading towards an asteroid field that could easily be the death of them all. Rouge pulled up and the bike sailed over the asteroids. Marvo followed but the moment his bike was level behind Rouge's, Rouge dipped down and the bike soared down under the asteroids, narrowly missing a huge one that loomed ahead of them. Marvo wasn't tempted to follow them in fear of miscalculating and crashing. He instead stayed above the asteroids and waited for Shadow and Rouge to come back up. He then watched as they turned the bike around under the asteroids and flew off. Marvo stopped his bike and slowly descended below the asteroids. Now he was going slowly, he felt safer plunging down into the asteroid field. The moment he was underneath the asteroids, he floored the pedals and raced off after Shadow and Rouge, the two Mobians getting far ahead and losing him. The bikes soared off under the asteroid field until finally, they came to the end of it and flew off, leaving it behind so it would be of no danger to them anymore. Rouge turned to the left and headed towards some floating platforms that contained a lot of signs and lampposts. Rouge did have to ask herself what the heck these platforms were for. Stops on a long journey perhaps? With bikes as fast as the ones she and the warden were driving, they wouldn't be needed for they cleared a long distance in a matter of seconds. Rouge kept flying the bike close to the signs in hopes of causing the warden to crash into one of them but Marvo knew what she was up to. Thus, he flew up and out of the sign's way. Rouge cursed quietly, not pleased to see her plan had failed. Then suddenly, something came rocketing out of nowhere and Marvo cried out in shock as he narrowly dodged being hit by the thing. It was Dr. Eggman, flying through the sky and carrying Finitevus on his back. Finitevus had retrieved his warp rings and now he and Eggman were aiding Shadow and Rouge in getting away from Marvo. Rouge waved at them.

"Hey doctors! So glad you could catch up to us!" she called to them.

"Anytime Rouge!" Eggman called back "The cops were no trouble for us once we got Finitevus's warp rings back!"

"Now you have them back, use them to warp us back to Mobius Prime!" yelled Shadow furiously "We need to leave this zone and we need to leave now!"

"I daren't use my warp rings while we're moving so fast!" cried Finitevus "We could miscalculate and miss them entirely, I could accidentally lose them or Marvo might follow us through! Also, it's hard to concentrate on visualizing the place we want to be in while we're in a chase like this!"

"Then we lose the warden and find a safe place to stop so you can use your warp rings!" Shadow suggested.

"Good plan!" agreed Eggman.

Eggman then deployed a rocket launcher from Omega's shoulder and he fired a rocket at Marvo. Marvo saw the rocket coming and he threw a pod from his belt at it. He then steered the bike down and flew under as the rocket missed him and hit his pod. The explosion that ensued was terrific but it didn't effect Marvo in anyway. With a crazed look in his eyes, Marvo snarled in rage.

"You're not getting away from me you four Prime-Zoners!" he roared.

The warden would soon end up eating those words for as the two bikes raced past another couple of platforms with signs on them, a white portal opened up just several yards in front of Shadow, Rouge and the two doctors. Rouge only just saw the portal coming as they neared it. Taken by surprise, she didn't have time to slow down or avoid it. She floored the breaks and prayed the bike would stop and avoid it in time but the bike was going too fast. It shot straight into the portal and vanished from view. Dr. Eggman followed it, wondering where the portal might take them. The moment he entered the portal, it closed up behind him, leaving Marvo alone on his hover bike. To Marvo's horror, the portal had concealed a sign and since the portal had closed up, the sign was now visible. Marvo floored the breaks but he couldn't stop in time. He ended up crashing straight into the sign, his bike buckling and breaking in the impact and flattening him against the sign. The bike fell away and plummeted down into an endless plummet through the endless sky all around. Marvo, still stuck in the sign, remained where he was and he pulled his face free from the sign. Furious at the fact the Prime-Zoners had evaded him and become the first prisoners to ever escape the Lockdown Zone, he bellowed a thunderous roar of rage, his anger echoing for miles around. This was the worst day of his life and he would make these four pay for what they'd done…that is, if he ever came across them again…

Well Shadow, Rouge, Eggman and Finitevus have escaped the cops of the Lockdown Zone! Where will they end up though? Read on and find out.

Next time, Wilson, Mandy and Ruben have a "Special Encounter"...

Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses Part 6

Story 171: Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses Part 6: A Special Encounter

Ugh I feel like I just fell out of the sky…

Royal Fighter tomboy and no-nonsense tough woman MandyMouse immediately began thinking that as she finally came to and began to slowly sit up. She felt terrible but it would soon wear off and she'd feel alright again.

The time rift had sucked up the whole of the New Mobotropolis Royal Fighters and thrown them across the multi-verse, various members ending up on various different worlds that ranged in shape, size, appearance and feature. Mandy had been dumped onto this world and had been out for half an hour before finally waking up from the terrible experience. The purple-furred mouse hoped dearly that it would never happen again, the time rift was too horrible to experience a second time. She could easily imagine what Sonic felt like when he had gotten sucked up by the one that had dumped him on Mobius Nega. Had he been dumped there again by the time rift that had just sucked her and the others up now? Mandy had no idea. One thing she did know was that she wasn't on Mobius Prime anymore. As Mandy rubbed her eyes better and had a good stretch, she tuned her senses to focus on what was around her and where she was. Her vision had cleared up luckily so Mandy was able to get a proper look around. Her jaw dropped at what she was looking at. Mandy knew she would be on a different world but never did she imagine she'd be on a world THIS different! She was sitting on an enormous chequered sphere that seemed to be trying to pass off as a planet only it was far too small to be a planet. It was more like an oversized football only with a chequered design on it that made it look like a spherical, purple chess board. There was an endless sky all around that seemed to swim through different colours ranging from bright colours to dull colours and the patterns were almost smoke-like in appearance. There were other spheres floating around that looked smiliar to the one Mandy was sitting upon and strange yellow track-like structures snaked and looped all around this weird scene before her. Mandy had no idea how to describe it. Was it a surreal dimension of colourful proportions? Was it Wonderland? Was it something indescribable? Mandy didn't know but all she did know was that it was a weird, yet somewhat wonderful looking place. The colours gave it a somewhat nice feel and Mandy had to admit, it was pretty cool looking to some degree.

"Wow…" she breathed out the single word in a single gasp of admiration "This is amazing…what kind of world is this?"

The fact that she received no reply made Mandy feel suddenly alone and isolated. She got up to her feet and started looking around the chequered sphere she stood on.

"Am I alone here or did any of the others land here with me?" she asked herself "Oh I hope my Wilson is here too. I can't bear to think of him alone and afraid on some other universe…"

Her ears drooped back in worry and she gripped her tail as she began to fret over her husband's well-being. If there was anything in the world that scared Mandy at all, it was losing her husband. Wilson was the most precious thing in her life since her sister was dead* and she sure as heck didn't want to lose Wilson too. She prayed with all her heart that he was on this world too. Much to the mouse's over-whelming relief and delight, she spotted Wilson lying on his side just a few paces away from her. Mandy ran over to Wilson and knelt by his side. The dog seemed to be sleeping, a quite natural looking sleep as if he'd merely fallen asleep rather than been knocked out by the time rift and then dumped here like garbage. He snored quietly and a stream of drool trickled from the side of his lip. Mandy smiled weakly. She knew Wilson was a very good sleeper when he wanted to be so this was a sign he was alright. She shook her husband's body slightly.

"Wilson? Honey? Please wake up." she said.

Wilson murmured sleepily as he slowly began to come around.

"Huuuuurm…I love you too my ravishing rodent…" he slurred sleepily.

Mandy blushed with pleasure. She loved it when Wilson called her that. It made her feel wonderful when he called her that. Wilson slowly sat up, his eyes still firmly closed and he stretched as far as he could, making loud grunting noises as he did so. It was as if he was trying to make his bones come out of his body. He then rubbed his eyes and smacked his lips.

"Hey Mandy…can we have pancakes for breakfast this morning?" he mumbled again, wiping the drool from his mouth and opening his eyes.

He was pleased to see that upon opening his eyes, he saw Mandy kneeling next to him and he hugged her happily.

"Oh Mandy thank goodness!" he cried "After we got sucked up by that time rift, I began fearing we'd be separated! Thank goodness we're not!"

"Thank goodness indeed." said Mandy, hugging him back and grinning from ear to ear with relief "I couldn't bear to be on another world without you. I'd feel so lost and alone otherwise."

"Another…world?" blurted Wilson as if Mandy had told him a stupid joke.

He then released his wife and looked around to see where he was. He soon realized that Mandy was being quite literal when she said they were on another world. The time rift had brought him and her to a surreal place that didn't seem to make much sense and looked strange yet wonderful at the same time with its mix of colours and chequered spheres dotted all around like wishful balls wanting to be planets. Wilson gaped and he stared at Mandy, his hands gripping her shoulders tightly.

"Am I still asleep?" he asked.

"I've got that feeling too." murmured Mandy "But I think we're awake. I wonder where this is and what kind of place it is?"

"There's something special about it that's for sure." said Wilson "In the strange kind of way…wonder if anybody else is here too or if it's just us?"

He soon found the answer to that question for a little Mobian came out of nowhere and plodded sleepily up to them. It was Ruben the Water Panther, the honourable yet low self-esteemed young Royal Fighter who's power came purely from a purple collar he wore around his neck. Ruben had just woken up and he was walking towards Wilson and Mandy. He still seemed half asleep though, his eyes half closed as he wandered across the sphere to them. Wilson and Mandy were pleased to see he was OK and Ruben waved at them as he approached the two.

"Hi guys…what a weird dream it was I just woke up from." he mumbled, yawning loudly as he stretched "I dreamt I was being sucked up into some colourful light in the sky."

"It's no dream kid." said Mandy "It was real. This is all real now. Wake up and have a look around."

Ruben didn't know what Mandy was on about but he did as he was told. He looked around groggily but when he began to drink in the scenery around him, his eyes fully opened and he soon became fully awake and aware of what was going on. He noticed the strange scenery all around him and as he stared in disbelief, he pinched himself to try and wake himself up. To his dismay, he was already awake so this was clearly not some kind of surreal dream he was experiencing. He jumped in alarm and his tail stood up straight behind him in fright.

"Good watery heck!" he gibbered "What the heck is this weird place?! Where the heck are we?!"

"I wish I could answer that Ruben." said Mandy, pulling Ruben towards her and hugging him comfortingly "But I can't. I don't know where we are. All I know is we're on some kind of alternate dimension or something."

"Given how Sonic ended up on another version of Mobius, that is likely." said Wilson "I will say, this Mobius differs greatly from ours doesn't it? There's nothing remotely the same about this world and ours!"

"I do hope Sora's OK, wherever she is." said Ruben, clutching Mandy's vest in worry "I can't bear to think about her in danger…"

"I'm sure she's fine…wherever she is." said Mandy softly "Right now, how do we get out of this place?"

Then suddenly, a terrible voice boomed through the skies above and the chequered sphere the three Mobians stood on began to tremble as if an earthquake was coming from nowhere and striking it. The trio clutched each other in terror as the voice spoke.

"MORTALS! HOW DARE YOU TRESPASS IN FEIST'S ZONE?!" thundered the voice.

The voice was soon accompanied by two ominous glowing yellow eyes that looked demonic in appearance and made Wilson, Mandy and Ruben scream in horror at them. The eyes were soon followed by a head and then later an entire body materialized before their very eyes. The three Mobians were gobsmacked at what stood before them now. An enormous panda-shaped creature stood, looming over the chequered sphere which the Mobians stood upon. It had a white torso and head and black arms and legs. Its only item of clothing was a silver steel belt that was wrapped around its waist. The creature looked Mobian to some degree but clearly wasn't Mobian given his ability to appear out of nowhere and his gargantuan size. He also didn't look as cuddly as panda bears are generally considered to be, he looked just as ferocious as the ones that resided in Chun-Nan. His teeth were clenched and he now held the sphere in his hand as if it were merely a ball for a game of some kind. He glowered at Wilson, Mandy and Ruben, the three backing away from him in fright as his eyes glowed over them, throwing streams of yellow light over their bodies.

"THE SPECIAL ZONE IS FEIST'S DOMAIN AND FEIST WILL NOT AB IDE TO IT BEING INFESTED WITH VILE MORTAL BEINGS!" bellowed the panda "FEIST WILL SMITE YOU ALL!"

"No wait, please wait!" begged Ruben, shaking like pennies being rattled around in a moneybox "We're sorry about this! Honest we are!"

"We came here by accident Mr.-Giant-Panda-Dude-Thingy!" shrieked Mandy "Please don't hurt us!"

Wilson was too scared to speak, he was clutching Mandy as if his life depended on her and her alone and his face rained with sweat. He looked as if he might be in need of clean underpants very shortly. Feist, the apparent name of the gigantic panda creature, raised an eyebrow of suspicion but he raised his head away from the Mobians. He put one hand on his hip, his other hand still firmly gripping the sphere he now held.

"YOU MORTALS CAM E HERE BY ACCIDENT?" mused Feist. Even when speaking softly, his voice still boomed around the world and made the floor shudder beneath the Mobian's feet "CLARIFY HOW THAT CAM E TO HAPPEN THEN."

Mandy wiped sweat off her forehead and she forced herself to relax so she could tell him everything. Standing shyly forward, Mandy explained everything.

"We're from Mobius Prime and we were brought here by a time rift. You heard of them?" she asked.

Feist put a finger and thumb to his chin and stroked it in thought.

"HMM…YOUR STORY RINGS A BELL. FEIST RECALLS OTHER MORTALS WHO ENDED UP HERE TELLING HIM THAT STORY." he murmured aloud "THESE TIME RIF TS MUST BE A PROBLEM IF SO MANY MORTALS HAVE BEEN BROUGHT HERE OVER TIME."

"So we're not the first ones to end up here?" asked Ruben nervously.

"NO, FEIST HAS HAD MORTALS FROM AL L OVER THE MULTI-VERSE END UP IN HIS ZONE." Feist exposited " NEV ER BEFORE HAS FEIST HAD THE HONOUR OF MEETING PRIME ZONERS THOUGH. YOU THREE ARE INSTANTLY AN AMUSING CASE FOR FEIST."

"I bet we are talk, dark and insanely creepy." said Mandy "So who are you and what is this "Special Zone"?" she asked with a gesture to the scenery they were occupying.

"FEIST HAS ALREADY GIVEN HIS NAME." boomed Feist "FEIST IS A GOD OF GREAT POWER AND FEIST IS IN CHARGE OF THE SPECIAL ZONE. THE SPECIAL ZONE IS A ZONE THAT HAS NO OCCUPANTS OTHER THAN FEIST AND FEIST IS FREE TO SHAPE THE ZONE TO HIS LIKING AS MUCH AS HE WANTS. FEIST LOVES AMUSEMENT AND MORTALS WHO HAVE ENDED UP HERE THANKS TO THESE SO-CALLED "TIME RIFTS" HAVE GIVEN FEIST MUCH AMUSEMENT IND EED."

"Story of my life." muttered Mandy "So if other people have ended up here…where are they?"

"BACK IN THEIR ZONES." explained Feist "FEIST HAS THE PO WER TO SEND MORTALS BACK HOME TO THEIR HOME DIMENSIONS."

"Really?" said Wilson excitedly, forgetting that he was scared of Feist a moment ago "So can you send us back to Mobius Prime? You see, we need to find out what's causing the time rifts and save our world from destruction."

"NOT SO FAST MORTAL!" roared Feist, the sphere trembling as he spoke "FEIST DOES NOT JUST SIMPLY GRANT A PO RTAL HOME LIKE THAT, YOU HAVE TO PLAY FEIST'S GAMES FOR YOUR TRIP BACK TO YOUR ZONE!"

"Feist, we don't have time for this!" protested Mandy "Our world is coming to an end thanks to the time rifts and we NEED to get home and fast before we lose everything! Please send us home now!"

"IF YOU WILL NOT TAKE PART IN FEIST'S GAMES THEN YOU CAN STAY HERE FOREVER." said Feist coldly " NO GA MES, NO PORTAL HOME. SIMPLE AS THAT."

Mandy sighed in annoyance and she ran her hand down her face exasperatedly. She didn't half hate it when people was as stubborn and obstinate as she could be at times. Especially since the doomsday clock was ticking away the seconds to disaster and they had to get home now before Mobius Prime fell apart. But if taking Feist's challenges was the only way to get out of the Special Zone and get back home then like it or not, she would have to take them. Sighing, Mandy looked back at Feist.

"OK Feisty boy, we'll accept your stupid games." she grumbled "But you better promise that when we win them, we WILL go home to Mobius Prime or we don't play!"

"FEIST GIVES HIS WORD THAT THE PUNY MORTALS WILL BE TAKEN HOME SAFELY SHOULD YOU WIN HIS GAMES." boomed Feist "FEIST HAS KEPT THAT PROMISE TO ALL THE OTHER MORTALS WHO HAVE ENDED UP IN THE SPECIAL ZONE AFTER ALL."

"Good." said Mandy "So what do we have to do then?"

"THE THREE OF YOU WILL TAKE PART IN ONE CHALLENGE EACH." explained Feist "IF EACH OF YOU WIN YOUR CHALLENGES, ALL THREE OF YOU WILL GO HOME AS FEIST PROMISES. FAIL…AND YOU STAY HERE FOR THE REST OF YOUR MORTAL LIVES. DO YOU ACCEPT?"

"Sure thing fatty." said Mandy "And since I'm desperate to get back home, I'll go first."

"VERY WELL." said Feist "PREPARE FOR YOUR CHALLENGE FEMALE RODENT MO RTAL."

Feist let go of the chequered sphere and he then held his hands up. Mandy, Wilson and Ruben just watched with disbelief as Feist began to form something completely out of thin air. He is a god after all so this was easily in his realm of power. As Feist waved his hands around and then stretched them apart, something began to form between his hands and form a shape. A huge, rocky track-shaped structure began to form out of the planet and expand across the void of space as Feist formed it. At the end of the track was another sphere that had a huge ring at the end of it. This was clearly the goal. The track expanded several yards and stone pillars stood on each section of the track. There was more to this course than met the eye but Feist intended to let Mandy find that out for herself.

Mandy studied the track and had an idea on what the challenge was.

"OK I get it, is this a race to the finish?" she asked.

"IT IS INDEED MOUSE WOMAN." boomed Feist "YOU MUST ADVANCE THROUGH FEIST'S OBSTACLE COURSE AND LEAP THROUGH THE GOAL RING WITHIN TEN MINUTES. IF YOU SUCCEED THEN YOU WILL BE GRANTED AN INSTANT PORTAL HOME AFTER THE DOG MAN AND THE PANTHER BOY COMPLETE THEIR CHALLENGES."

"Sounds fair to me." said Mandy, getting down onto her hands and preparing to charge off down the track "I'm ready to get this race started. Let's bring it on!"

Feist clapped his hands with delight.

"HOW DEL IGHTFUL! SUCH EAGERNESS AMUSES FEIST!" he boomed happily.

"Well I am the kind of girl who was born ready for anything." snickered Mandy.

"THEN LET US SEE IF YOU ARE READY FOR THIS." said Feist with a rather dark smile on his enormous, semi-plush and cuddly face "ON YOUR MARKS…GET SET…"

Mandy breathed in deeply as she prepared to go. The stone pillars ahead would make the course tricky to get across but Mandy knew what to do about them. It was time to put Tails's new weapons for her to the test. She glanced down at her new knuckle attachments and smiled at them.

"OK girls, time to see what you're made of…" she whispered to herself.

"GO!" the single word thundered out of Feist's mouth like an erupting volcano.

Mandy was on her feet faster than anybody could blink and she charged down the track as fast as her legs would let her. Ten minutes, nothing but stone pillars in her way to try and slow her down, a ticket back to Mobius Prime was the prize that awaited her at the end of the course. Mandy knew she could do it. She had been through much worse than a measly obstacle course before. She had been abducted by Brawn and his gang of rats the other week and survived so this was nothing for her. Mandy cleared the distance between her and the first pillar in twenty seconds exactly and she drew her arm back. Screaming a loud battle cry of fury, she punched the pillar and the steel knuckle attachments broke through it instantly as if it were merely sand. The pillar crumbled to the ground after a web of cracks formed from the terrific punch she'd launched at it. Mandy knew that Tails had made her some amazing knuckle attachments but she had no idea they were THAT powerful! Feist watched with amusement and he grinned at the power Mandy contained in her new knuckle attachments. This was clearly a mortal like no other and considering she was from the Prime Zone, that wasn't saying much. The Prime Zone was the supreme, ultimate zone of the multi-verse after all so Feist had high expectations for Mandy, Wilson and Ruben. Mandy ran over the broken pillar and she came across the second pillar. Drawing her arm back, she aimed at the centre of the pillar and she punched through it. One single punch mark and a mass of cracks was all the pillar could take before it crumbled to pieces like a house being demolished. Mandy smirked confidently. This was pathetically easy thanks to Tails's new weapons he'd made for her. She could hardly wait to try her knuckle attachments on any of Mobius Prime's villains once she got back there. Mandy ran across the track and to the third pillar. But then came the other surprises that Feist had inserted into the track without Mandy knowing. Hiding them behind the pillars was a good idea from the start since Mandy wouldn't expect it. Mandy punched through the third pillar and then nearly had her head taken off. She ducked down and felt something whiz over her ears. It was a sphere the size of a basketball and armed with axe blades that spun around it lethally. Mandy would have been cut to pieces had she not reacted quick enough. Mandy just sighed at the bladed ball. She had been an idiot to think it was going to be this easy. Mandy ran over the broken pillar and was pursued by the bladed ball. Mandy threw herself onto the floor and waited for the sphere to pass over her. It did so and it crashed into the pillar, its blades getting stuck in the rock and trapping it right then and there. Made punched the sphere to pieces and then punched through the pillar. As the pillar crumbled, she instinctively threw herself down onto the floor in case anything tried to chop her head off again. She had been right to do so for two large spheres with spikes on them lunged out at the space she had been in a split second before she ducked. Mandy had to wonder if Feist was trying to kill her rather then give her a challenge to do. Maybe surviving was part of the challenge and Feist had decided not to tell her just to shock her. Mandy had a nasty feeling that Feist might not be what he made himself out to be and that any of the previous people who had ended up in the Special Zone hadn't indeed won the challenges and gone home and rather got killed just trying to win. She was not going to fall to Feist's twisted game though, she was going to win and no panda-god was going to stop her. Mandy picked herself up and she grabbed a fallen piece of pillar. She threw it at the spiked balls and the hard stone smashed them both to pieces. Mandy turned around and scampered off to the last pillar. She punched through it and ducked down, expecting something to try and skewer her. Instead though, nothing happened. Mandy stood back up and was suddenly ensnared by tentacles. The last pillar had concealed a tentacle monster that was tall and lanky with red warty skin and clearly had more tentacles then it knew what to do with. Mandy was wrapped from head to toe in tentacles and she struggled furiously. Wilson and Mandy watched with concern as Mandy tried to break free from the monster. The monster held on tight and began to squeeze Mandy as hard as it possibly could. It was trying to constrict her. Mandy grimaced as she felt the air in her lungs being squeezed out of her. In a last desperate attempt to survive, Mandy wrenched her head free from the tentacle wrapped around it and she bit one of the monster's tentacles. The monster yelped and Mandy proceeded to bite another one, chomping down as hard as she could. The monster let Mandy go and clutched its tentacles in pain. Big mistake though. Mandy punched the monster squarely in the face, the heavily enhanced punch throwing the monster clean off the track and sending it on an endless plummet through the Special Zone. Feist boomed with laughter.

"AMAZING WORK FEMALE!" he bellowed "YOU ONLY HAVE ONE MINUTE LEFT TO REACH THE GOA L THOUGH. WILL YOU MAKE IT?!"

Mandy could hardly believe her ears. How had nine minutes passed so quickly?! Mandy threw herself down onto her hands and feet and she scampered across the track as fast as she could. She looked like a natural mouse running through a maze. On all fours, Mandy was much faster then ever before. It made her wonder why she didn't run on all fours more often. Mandy panted and gasped as she traversed the track and hurried along towards the goal. Her heart hammered and her head poured with sweat. Would she make it in time? She hoped so, she was not willing to have another go at Feist's challenges to try and get home. Once was more than enough. Feist began to count down from ten as Mandy neared the goal ring. Running fast and willing herself to move faster and faster with every second, Mandy closed her eyes and made a frantic leap for the goal ring. With two seconds to spare…she passed through the ring and rolled to a stop on the other side. The ring disappeared and track extended back towards the purple chequered sphere. Gasping for breath, Mandy put a hand over her chest and wiped beads of sweat off her forehead.

"Good god…I thought I was going to lose…" she panted.

"Well dear, you won." said Wilson, hugging Mandy in congratulations "You'll get to go back home to Mobius Prime after me and Ruben win our games."

"Indeed." said Mandy, hugging Wilson back "I've gotta say, I don't think I'll be doing that again…"

"I hope our challenges won't be so lethal." Ruben gulped, his face the embodiment of horror and worry at what he had just seen.

Feist's voice boomed around them once again as if to remind the Mobians that he was still here.

"DELIGHTFUL, SENSATIONAL, WONDERFUL!" he thundered with joy "YOU HAVE COMPLETED THE CHALLENGE MOUSE GIRL! YOU ARE EASILY THE MOST AMUSING MORTAL FEIST HAS SEEN IN A WHILE!"

"You know chubby boy, you could have at least WARNED me the course would try and kill me!" shrieked Mandy crossly "I nearly died because of that!"

"FEIST FINDS IT MORE AMUSING TO SHOCK THE CONTESTANTS." retorted Feist "NOW DON'T YOU TALK TO FEIST IN THAT TONE OF VOICE OR FEIST WI LL…"

"I don't give a damn what a big, creepy, overbearing, ill-tempered, bad-humoured, egotistical, badger-panda-giant thing has to say!" shouted Mandy "We don't want to play a game that can get us killed! We want to get home for a very good reason so we can do without you trying to…"

Then suddenly Feist waved his arm and completely out of nowhere, a stone cage formed around Mandy, trapping her inside and startling Wilson and Ruben. The cage was thick, stony and looked very tough. It would easily contain anybody, maybe even Sonic. Mandy tugged on the bars of the cage.

"Oy! Let me outta here!" she demanded.

"DUE TO YOUR OBSTINATE ATTITUDE, FEIST WILL NOW PUNISH YOU." sneered Feist "AND THAT PUNISHMENT IS YOU WILL BE A DAMSEL IN DISTRESS FOR THE NEXT CHALLENGE. AND DON'T BOTHER PUNCHING YOUR WAY OUT OF THE CAGE, FEIST HAS MADE THE CAGE IND ESTRUCTIBLE JUST TO CONTAIN YOU."

"Oh big fat whoop-de-do." muttered Mandy furiously "I'm supposed to be saved by somebody like some helpless princess locked in a tower. What a big insult to my honour this is." she moaned.

Feist ignored her and looked over at Wilson.

"YOU THERE, YOU ARE TO GO NEXT." said Feist "YOUR CHALLENGE WILL BE TO MAKE IT ACROSS A FIELD OF BOUNCING BALLS AND TO THE MOUSE'S CAGE. YOU HAVE TO FIND THE KEY THAT WILL UNLOCK HER CAGE ON THE WAY THOUGH AND IT WILL BE CONCEALED IN ONE OF THE BALLS YOU BOUNCE ON. YOU HAVE TO COMPLETE YOUR CHALLENGE IN TEN MINUTES OR YOU WILL NOT BE GOING BACK TO MOBIUS PRIME. DO YOU ACCEPT?"

"Course." sniffed Wilson "Nobody locks my wife in a cage and gets away with it!"

"VERY WELL…" said Feist with a dark grin as he began to form the next challenge for Wilson.

Feist held his hands out and out of the blue began to materialize a bunch of yellow spheres that seemed to form a path across the void of space. Mandy's cage was lifted off the chequered sphere and carried over to the end of the path of yellow spheres. The cage hovered in place but Mandy couldn't help but feel nervous at being positioned over pretty much nothing. She daren't imagine what it would be like if the cage fell. She forced herself not to look down and instead stare straight at Wilson. While hoping he would win this challenge, she also hoped that Wilson wouldn't come across anything that could potentially kill him. She did not want her husband to die in this whimsical world they were in. Wilson observed the path of spheres. There were five rows and there were about fifteen balls per row. It looked simple enough, just jump across them all and get to Mandy. Trouble was, Mandy's challenge looked very easy and yet she nearly had her head taken off. Wilson would be more vigilant in this case. Swallowing hard, he looked at Feist, the giant panda standing by with his arms folded and waiting for the fun to begin.

"So I just have to bounce on those balls and get to the cage at the end?" he asked "While also trying to find the key that will unlock it?"

"CORRECT MORTAL CANINE PERSON." boomed Feist with a sinister grin on his face "AND LIKE YOUR MOUSE FRIEND, YOU HAVE A TIME LIMIT OF TEN MINUTES TOO. CAN YOU FIND THE KEY TO HER CAGE AND MAKE IT ACROSS BEFORE TIME'S UP?"

"I sure hope I can…" muttered Wilson nervously.

Ruben could only watch and pray that Wilson would win. Otherwise poor Mandy would be going home without him and he did not want to imagine for one minute what that would be like for her. Wilson got down into a starting position and he was ready to spring into action.

"ON YOUR MARKS…GET SET…GO!" thundered Feist.

Wilson's legs activated before his brain had time to tell them to do something. He sprang into the air like a frog and he landed on the first bouncy ball. Feist wasn't kidding when he said they were bouncy. The moment Wilson's feet sank into the ball, he sprang straight off as if the ball was throwing him off for jumping on it. Wilson was taken aback by how springy it was and he found himself flailing about crazily in a comical spin as he hurled through the air and landed on another bouncy ball. This of course led to him being thrown into the air again. Mandy fought hard to keep herself from laughing at Wilson as this happened. She squeezed her lips together tightly and tried to repress herself. She failed. Ruben on the other hand didn't even try to resist. He just started laughing a very hearty laugh as Wilson was thrown from ball to ball like he was doing some crazy trampoline exercise. Even Feist was laughing at the poor dog, his booming laughter echoing and rumbling through the zone like a thunderstorm. Wilson cried out as he landed on another ball and bounced up into the air, fighting to control himself.

"Stop laughing at me you lot!" he yelped as Mandy and Ruben shrieked with laughter at him "It's not funnyyyyyyyyyy!" he was catapulted yet again into the air as he landed on another bouncy ball.

As Wilson spiralled through the air, he had just the idea to control himself. He whipped out his spinning blade weapon and he deployed both blades. He aimed the bottom blade down at the next bouncy ball he was heading for and the blade plunged straight through the ball like a knife through butter. The ball didn't bounce Wilson back up into the air for he was holding his spinning blade and the weapon had impaled itself into the ball. However, it ended up titling backwards and Wilson found himself hanging upside down while holding onto the ball and his weapon. He quickly righted himself and he pulled out his weapon. He sheathed it and put it away.

"OK, I bet I wasted a lot of time doing that." he muttered "Now to concentrate now I'm not bouncing so much. Before I reach Mandy, I need to find the key to her cage. Feist said it was concealed in one of the balls. I know just what to do about that..." he smiled deviously as a plan formed in his head.

He looked over at the new weapon Tails had given him, the spinning blade gauntlet. What was it he had said about it again? Wilson remembered, it would attack any enemy in its radius and wouldn't come back until it had hit them all. Maybe he would use it on the bouncy balls? Wilson reminded himself to keep one row intact so he could bounce his way over to Mandy. He clenched his fist and he thrust his arm forward. The pole whizzed off of the gauntlet it sat upon and its two blades deployed. It boomeranged through the air like a shuriken only much longer and more lethal. The spinning blade cleaved through a row of bouncy balls that ran down Wilson's right side. No key was concealed in any of them. It spiralled back around and cleaved through another row of balls. Still no key. Then it did a U-turn and sliced through a row of bouncy balls that was the second row from Wilson's left side. As it sliced the balls to pieces, Wilson saw the unmistakable shape of a key with a glowing golden aura suddenly appear as the row was destroyed by his spinning blade. He'd found it! Wilson held up his arm and the spinning blade returned to the gauntlet, blades sheathed upon re-entry. Wilson took out his normal spinning blade and he bounced off of the ball he was on and onto the next row. He bounced softly so that when he landed onto the next row, he only bounced up and down a little bit before coming to a stop. Now he was still, Wilson reached out with his spinning blade and he managed to edge the key towards him. He grabbed it and stood up straight, slipping the key onto his belt for safe keeping. How much time did he have to reach Mandy? As if reading his thoughts, Feist informed him.

"TWO MINUTES LEFT MORTAL, HURRY UP UNLESS YOU WANT TO LOSE!" taunted Feist.

"No way am I staying here while my wife goes home." retorted Wilson "We can't live without each other."

Wilson bounced off of the ball he was on and he landed perfectly onto the next ball. He had much better control of himself now as he landed on the next ball and bounced gracefully into the air. He bounced so high that he cleared five balls in a single leap! Only ten more to go and he was there! Wilson landed down on the sixth ball and he bounced up into the air, spiralling around as if doing some kind of dance routine. Mandy watched with awe, wishing she could join Wilson in this since it looked kind of fun to her. It would be a lot better than being stuck in a cage that's for sure. Wilson landed on the tenth ball and then he sprung up into the air. He cleared the last five balls but he had bounced too hard so he flew straight over the cage! Thinking fast, Wilson swung his spinning blade down and he just caught the edge of the cage with one of the blades. This made him swing down and he shot up one of his hands to grip the edge of the cage. He nearly fell but his will to hold on just managed to keep him holding on. Feist then started to count down from ten. Damn it! Wilson only had ten seconds to unlock Mandy's cage and free her! Acting fast, Wilson pulled himself up onto the cage and he scrambled onto the roof. He leaned over the top and just as Feist got to two, he plunged the key into the key hole and twisted it just as Feist said "one". The door of the cage opened and Mandy climbed out of the cage and onto the roof. Excited, she hugged Wilson eagerly.

"You did it! You won!" she cheered "Now we both go home together!"

"Thank bloomin' goodness I did win!" gasped Wilson, his hand over his heart "I would not want to spend the rest of my life trapped in here without you my lovely Mandy."

That earned a kiss on the cheek from Mandy. Now the challenge was over, Wilson and Mandy were warped back over onto the chequered sphere and Feist loomed over them once again. He didn't look too pleased to see another winner for some reason. That made them feel nervous. But then Feist's face eased up into a smile. A friendly one? Not really.

"CONGRATULATIONS MUTT, YOU HAVE WON YOUR CHALLENGE." boomed Feist "YOU CERTAINLY GAVE FEIST MUCH ENTERTAINMENT INDEED IN THAT ONE."

"I aim to please." said Wilson modestly.

"NOW THEN, IT IS TIME FOR THE LITTLE PANTHER BOY TO HAVE HIS CHALLENGE." said Feist, his illuminated yellow eyes fixed on Ruben who only stared back at Feist nervously "ARE YOU READY CHILD MORTAL?"

"Um...I think so." said Ruben shakily "I h-hope my challenge won't be d-deadly at all."

"IT IS UP TO FEIST IF YOUR CHALLENGE WILL BE LETHAL OR NOT." snarled Feist "BUT FEIST WILL BE LENIENT ON YOU SINCE YOU ARE A CHILD. CHILDREN AREN'T SO AMUSING TO WATCH WHEN THEY GET KILLED. HERE IS YOUR CHALLENGE!"

Ruben braced himself as Feist began to form something else with his great and godly powers. The water panther was worried. Was Feist just toying with him when he said he would be lenient towards him just because he was a child and actually, would make a very deadly challenge? Or would he make the challenge not so lethal and keep to his word? Ruben dreaded to find out. But never in his worst nightmares did he imagine being given a challenge such as this. Next to the chequered sphere, a huge, rocky pillar began to materialize out of thin air, expanding to great heights as Feist formed it. Wilson and Mandy had been placed on top of the pillar before they could even realize what was going on. They clutched each other tightly, wondering what was happening. They were now twenty-five feet above the ground and looking down at Ruben. Despite how tall the pillar was, Feist still loomed over them. The pillar had a lot of knobs sticking out all around the pillar. Ruben gulped and stared at the giant pillar. He had a nasty feeling that he knew what Feist would order him to do. The panda-god glowered at Ruben, his eyes bathing him in a golden glow as he stared at him.

"YOUR CHALLENGE IS TO CLIMB UP THIS PILLAR AND REACH YOUR FRIENDS." boomed Feist "IF YOU CAN CLIMB TO THE TOP THEN YOU WILL GET TO GO HOME WITH THE HOUND AND RODENT MORTALS. IF YOU FALL...THEN YOU LOSE, SIMPLE AS THAT."

"But-but-but I c-can't c-climb!" stammered Ruben "I'm a hopeless climber! Please Feist, give me another challenge! I can't do this one! I can't climb!"

"YOUR CHALLENGE HAS BEEN GIVEN AND FEIST WILL NOT CHANGE IT!" bellowed Feist "FEIST'S WORD IS FINAL! NOW DO THE CHALLENGE OR YOU WILL STAY HERE FOREVER WHILE

YOUR FRIENDS GET TO GO BACK TO THEIR MOBIUS!"

Ruben looked like he wanted to weep. Fighting back fear, he stuck his nose into the air and marched over to the pillar.

"Fine, I'll do it." he muttered "Besides, I have a sure fire way of getting up there without climbing..."

"AH, AH, AH! NO CHEATING!" snapped Feist "YOU ARE TO CLIMB THE PILLAR USING ONLY YOUR HANDS AND FEET! NO POWERS, NO TOOLS, NO WEAPONS! ONLY YOUR LIMBS! ANY ATTEMPTS TO CHEAT WILL RENDER THE CHALLENGE LOST AND YOU WILL NOT LEAVE THIS ZONE WITH YOUR FRIENDS!"

Ruben cursed under his breath in Chinese. He had been planning to just propel himself into the air using his water powers but Feist wouldn't let him. He had to do this the hard way. True Ruben had been given climbing lessons over time by Sora but he'd barely progressed. He was still useless at climbing, he still needed lessons. Right now, Ruben was wishing Sora was here to cheer him on. She was the confidence he needed when he tried climbing. Gulping and sweating, Ruben grabbed onto the rocky knobs that stuck out from all around the pillar. He held his breath and he pulled himself up using all his strength. He raised his left leg and he rested his foot onto the first knob. He pushed himself up and he reached for another knob. His fingers closed around it. Wilson and Mandy watched from where they were and they began to feel afraid for Ruben. Would he make it? They knew he was hopeless at climbing so they feared that this challenge was sure to beat him. They hugged each other and prayed for Ruben's sake. Ruben fixed his eyes onto Wilson and Mandy, knowing they would be praying for him to succeed. Despite only being a couple of knobs up, he was already sweating like a man on a hot summer's day. Ruben pulled himself up to another knob and he grabbed hold of it. His foot felt around for another knob. He brushed over one as he felt for it and he rested his foot on it. He pushed himself up and grabbed hold of another knob. His heart was hammering and he was already panting despite having only just started. Why did Feist curse him with this challenge?! Did Feist somehow know he was useless at climbing and did this challenge just to torture him? Why couldn't he have had

Wilson's challenge?! At least that looked fun! Ruben swallowed hard and he pulled himself onto another knob. His foot slipped and he found himself dangling precariously by his fingers. He forced himself not to panic. When climbing, panicking is the worst and probably stupidest thing you can do. That was what Sora had told him. If you lose a footing, DO NOT panic, just try and find it again. Ruben felt around frantically for the footholds with his scrambling feet. He could feel himself losing strength in his fingers. If he didn't balance himself now, he'd fall! Ruben's foot found a knob and he pressed it hard down onto the knob. Gasping for breath, Ruben wiped his forehead and he looked back up at Wilson and Mandy. He'd barely even made it a foot off the ground! What hope did he have of making it to twenty-five feet?! But Ruben knew what would befall him if he'd failed. He couldn't bear the thought of being stuck in the Special Zone forever. He'd never get to tell Sora he loved her if that was the case. Ruben then put on a serious face. He was going to succeed, he was NOT going to let Feist have the honour of watching him fail. He WAS going to win and show Feist that he couldn't beat him! Ignoring his worries, Ruben pressed on. He reached up and grabbed another knob and he pulled himself further up the pillar. Slowly but steadily, Ruben began to make his way up the pillar. It was as if new strength had come to him at last and he now had the power to make the climb. Wilson and Mandy were astonished. Ruben seemed to be doing much better now. What had suddenly come over him and made him more able than before? Was it simply a case of finding the skill he never knew he had before? They watched on as Ruben cleared a few feet without stopping. The truth was, it was his determination to get home and see Sora again that made him carry on and try as hard as he could to succeed. Not to mention Ruben was sick and tired of being unable to climb. This time, he was going to show that he could do it. And right now, it seemed he could do it. Ruben cleared several more feet and he looked up at Wilson and Mandy. They suddenly seemed much closer now. His heart leapt excitedly. He was going to make it! Ruben kept on climbing, pushing and pulling himself up and up until he was just a few feet away from Wilson and Mandy. But it seemed his luck might run out. He grabbed onto a knob and suddenly, it came free off the pillar and ended up in his hand. Ruben jerked back slightly and he found himself hanging by one arm onto a knob. The knob that had come out fell down to the ground. Ruben looked down and suddenly realized how high he was. He had climbed twenty feet! The water panther suddenly grew scared again. He closed his eyes and whimpered.

"H-help! P-please! I wanna get down!" he screamed.

"Ruben, hang on! You're almost there!" cheered Mandy "You can do it little dude! Come on, just a bit further!"

"Come on Ruben, don't give up!" Wilson cried supportively "You can do it, I know you can!"

Ruben took in their supporting words and he found the power he had a moment ago once again. He breathed slowly to himself. He could do it, he WOULD do it. Ruben felt around for some footholds with his feet and he placed them onto the footholds. Now he was balanced, he trekked to the side and found another knob to grab onto. He grabbed onto it and he pulled himself up. He pushed and pulled himself up the knobs until finally, he came to the top of the pillar. He gripped the edges of the pillar and he pulled himself on, grunting with effort. Now he was on the top of the pillar with Wilson and Mandy, he gasped with relief and then jumped up and down with joy.

"HALLELUJAH! I DID IT!" he screamed with joy "Oh my sainted ancestors, I did it! I finally managed to climb something and win!"

Wilson and Mandy hugged Ruben delightedly.

"Well done kiddo!" cried Mandy.

"Sora would be so proud of you." said Wilson.

Ruben swelled with pride upon hearing that. That was by far the nicest thing anyone had ever said to him. He could almost imagine what Sora would say when he told her what he'd accomplished. Then suddenly, the pillar began to shrink back down into the chequered sphere and Feist loomed above the Mobians once again. Now the three of them had completed his challenges, he didn't seem so threatening now all of the sudden. Maybe it was because in a way, they had all beaten him.

"FANTASTIC INDEED! YOU THREE HAVE ALL SUCCEEDED IN YOUR CHALLENGES!" boomed Feist "I KNEW YOU PRIME-ZONERS WOULD BE ENTERTAINING!"

"Flattered." said Mandy dully "Now do we get our portal back home like you promised?"

Feist suddenly had a very nasty smile on his face. It was the kind of smile that only the devil himself could manage.

"ABSOULTELY NOT." crowed Feist.

Wison, Mandy and Ruben all stared in disbelief at the giant panda as if he'd just shown them something disgusting.

"WHAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAT!" they all screamed incredulously.

"But you promised!" yelled Ruben "That's dishonourable of you to break your promise like that!"

"FEIST NEVER PROMISES, FEIST ONLY DECIEVES." snorted Feist "FEIST NEVER REALLY HAD THE POWER TO SEND PEOPLE BACK TO THEIR OWN ZONES. FEIST ONLY SAID THAT TO MAKE YOU ALL COMPLY ANYBODY WHO ENDED UP HERE REMAINS HERE FOREVER. AND FEIST DOES WITH THEM WHAT HE PLEASES. YOU THREE ARE SO ENTERTAINING THAT YOU WILL ALL BE FEIST'S PERSONAL PLAY THINGS! YOU'LL ENTERTAIN FEIST UNTIL THE DAY YOU ALL DIE!"

"Over my dead body!" screamed Mandy, snatching Wilson's spinning blade off of him and deploying its blades.

"No Mandy don't!" protested Wilson, trying to hold Mandy back.

When Mandy lost her temper, nothing could restrain her. It was like fighting with a lion only this lion was able to stand on two legs and had hands and more durable features. Mandy wrestled out of Wilson's grip and she threw the blade directly into Feist's eye. Despite being a god, Feist was not immune to pain. The blade skewered him in the eye and Feist bellowed a thunderous scream of pain. To add insult to injury, Ruben stepped forward and threw water into his other eye. As useless as it was, the two just wanted to show to Feist that they weren't scared of him. Feist rubbed his eyes better and be bellowed in rage.

"Oh great! See, now you made him angry!" shouted Wilson angrily "We're all dead now!"

Mandy and Ruben stepped back. Maybe this hadn't been such a good idea after all. Feist's body disappeared into nothing, leaving behind only his eyes and they both glowered at the three Mobians. The scenery all around began to turn into a storm of black colours as if reflecting his furious mood.

"HOW DARE YOU ASSAULT A GOD IN HIS OWN DOMAIN!" he roared "FEIST WILL SMITE YOU ALL FOR THIS! YOU WILL REGRET EVER ASSAULTING FEIST LIKE THIS!"

Wilson, Mandy and Ruben all hugged each other fearfully as they prepared for the worst to come to them. Would Feist kill them all? If so, how would he do it? Horribly and painfully? Would he make them suffer terribly? They would never find out for out of the blue, a white portal appeared suddenly behind the three, catching Feist by surprise and making the eyes back away.

"WHAT IS THIS?!" Feist blurted in surprise.

Wilson, Mandy and Ruben looked behind and they saw the white portal that shone brightly behind them.

"Hey, what the heck is that?" asked Mandy.

"Dunno, but I bet it leads somewhere better than here!" cried Wilson.

"And what if it doesn't?" asked Ruben nervously.

"I'm not gonna stay with tall, dark and plushy." said Mandy "I'm willing to take that risk. Come on guys, let's go through that portal!"

With that said, all three Mobians darted through the portal before Feist could grab them. The portal vanished, leaving Feist all alone in the Special Zone. He had lost his most entertaining victims. Feist could do nothing more than bellow furiously in anger, the entire zone shaking and shuddering as it felt his rage...

Footnotes:

We're going back a while in Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius . All the way back to the first arc to be precise…

Well that was one heck of an adventure wasn't it?! And what is it with Mobius and having evil pandas? Who knows...

That's it for this chapter. Next time, it's time for Knuckles, Shade, Amy, Cream and Sora to take the spotlight as they end up on a World of Brawl...

Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses Part 7

Story 172: Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses Part 7: World of Brawl

"Knuckles! Knuckles! Are you OK? Please wake up!"

That was the voice of Shade the Echidna pleading to the unconscious body of Knuckles the Echidna. Shade had not long since woken up and was now trying to help Knuckles come around by gently shaking the strong-fisted echidna. Shade prayed that Knuckles wasn't too badly hurt or worse as she tried to revive him.

The Mobotropolis Royal Fighters were going through one of their most intense, big and mind-blowing case yet. Time rifts, anomalies that ripped through the space time continuum and sucked up whatever they could find, had been appearing consistently for weeks on Mobius Prime and shortly before, Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat had arrived at New Mobotropolis to let Sonic the Hedgehog and his friends know that they were seconds away from disaster. The time rifts spelt the end of the world apparently, meaning Mobius Prime would be no more unless the Royal Fighters could stop the time rifts in time. A huge time rift had appeared over New Mobotropolis and ended up sucking up all the Royal Fighters and Dr. Eggman and Dr. Finitevus. The result had the team separated and thrown across the multi-verse, landing on random world after random world. Knuckles and Shade had been dumped into a vast stretching desert plain that seemed featureless for miles around and had sand blowing up slightly and drifting across the plains in the wind. So far, it didn't seem like anybody else Shade knew had ended up here. It just seemed to be her and Knuckles so far. Thank goodness they hadn't landed anywhere perilous, or that Finitevus had ended up with them. That would have been terrible. After a few more shakes, Knuckles finally came too and he coughed slightly. Massaging his temples, Knuckles sat up while Shade supported him slightly, pleased to see him awake.

"Oh man what the heck happened…" muttered Knuckles groggily.

"Knuckles, thank goodness you're OK!" cried Shade, hugging him as if he'd risen from the dead and she was overwhelmed with joy to see him.

"Oh Shade, it's good to see we weren't separated." said Knuckles, hugging Shade back "Do you remember what happened at all? My memory's a bit fuzzy."

"We were guarding the Master Emerald and then suddenly a streak of light appeared above Angel Island and sucked us in." explained Shade "We've been out for quite a while and…it looks like we've been dumped in the middle of nowhere."

Knuckles had to look around and see what Shade meant. True to what Shade had just said, they really were in the middle of nowhere. There was nothing around for as far as the eye could see. Just plain old rocky ground with faint traces of sand and dust for miles around. It seemed they had ended up on a pretty featureless world. Knuckles didn't mind too much although he would have preferred something a lot less vapid looking then just sand, dust and nothing more. His brows furrowed and his mouth curled down in distaste.

"Good grief, we really are in the middle of nowhere aren't we?" sniffed Knuckles "Looks like Sandopolis back on Angel Island."

"Are we still on Angel Island?" Shade suddenly wondered, a finger curled over her lips in thought "Have we merely been relocated from the emerald shrine to Sandopolis?"

"Nah, the streak of light wouldn't do that." said Knuckles, waving off the thought "When Sonic was taken by one, it threw him into another dimension. We must be somewhere else."

"An alternate version of Angel Island?" suggested Shade.

"That would be nice." said Knuckles "I'll laugh if I end up meeting another version of myself if that's the case!"

Shade forced a smile onto her face but she didn't really laugh at the joke. She wasn't in the mood for humour right now. She was thinking deeply about the time rift.

"Knuckles, that light in the sky that took us away and brought us here as a lot bigger than the ones that preceded it. Do you…think that's a sign of something terrible?" she asked worriedly.

"Terrible? As in something catastrophic?" mused Knuckles "You think this might be an apocalyptic thing right?"

Shade nodded, her face deathly pale and her eyes full of fright. Shade rarely ever lost her cool but in this case, she couldn't help but feel worried.

"Hmm…it's a possibility." said Knuckles "Maybe those time rifts will do more than just suck up people. It could suck up buildings and then cities and then…the entire world! The fact the time rifts are getting bigger is a big enough indicator on how likely this is to happen!"

Knuckles soon found himself sharing Shard's concerns.

"Shade, I think you might be right!" he cried "We have to get back home and figure out how to stop those lights!"

"But how?" asked Shade hopelessly "What can we do to stop those lights in the sky? It's not like it's something we understand enough to figure out how to stop."

"We'll find a way my love." said Knuckles reassuringly, putting an arm around his girlfriend's waist "Maybe the Master Emerald might have the power to stop those light things, who knows?"

"I don't think even the Master Emerald will stop the streak of light…" said Shade unsurely, clutching Knuckles as if hoping he would perform a miracle of some kind and sort this out in a millisecond.

Knuckles began to wonder if Shade was right. Was this something beyond even the Master Emerald's capabilities? He knew that the Chaos Emeralds and the Master Emerald had great power but even they had their limits. Would they not be enough to stop the time rifts? Knuckles had no idea but he hoped dearly that they would be able to sort out the problem. Then suddenly, completely out of nowhere, Knuckles and Shade could hear the sound of an approaching vehicle. It sounded like a hover bike of some kind. At least something was happening now. Whether it was good or bad, Knuckles and Shade would find out. The echidnas picked themselves up and waited for the vehicle to approach them. As it came into view, they saw that it was indeed a hover bike. It was rather bulky looking in appearance and made to look like it belonged to a bad boy with a black colour scheme, flames tattooed all over the sides and front and spikes protruding from around. The rider looked like a stereotypical bad boy too. He was a ferret dressed completely in leather, making him look like a proper bad biker dude. His black leather jacket was open, revealing his uncovered, muscular chest and well-toned stomach. His arms were huge and muscular, suggesting he was very strong and could easily throw a powerful punch. His eyes seemed to burn a fiery red colour. His fur matched his eye colour. Knuckles and Shade stared at the stranger and they wondered if he was a friend or a foe. He certainly didn't look very friendly. The ferret sneered at the echidnas.

"Puh, I've been traversing these deserts for miles in hope of finding any contestants for Brawlbius's latest tournament and I just find two scrawny echidnas out on their own?" he sniffed rudely "Give me a break."

"What did you say?!" snarled Knuckles, bashing his fists together and itching to punch the ferret.

"You're unwise to underestimate us tough guy." said Shade coldly "We are not just "scrawny echidnas", we are guardians and we will give you a pounding if you dare insult us again!"

"Oooooh, tough nuts are ya?" snorted the ferret "I'd love to see you two out in the battlefield. The name's Don Troy by the way. Who are you two scrubs?"

"I'm Knuckles and she's Shade." said Knuckles crossly "What are you doing out here?"

"Looking for new contestants to compete in Brawlbius's latest tournament knuckle-head." explained Don "You see, the tournament needs a few more contestants before we can begin. We're five people short."

"Brawlbius?" snorted Shade, trying not to laugh "What kind of stupid name is that?"

"It's the name of the planet you dumb woman." snapped Don, pointing his finger like a rifle at Shade "This is the world of Brawlbius, a world where the fighting never stops. We love nothing more than fighting and tournaments and having a right royal throw down of epic proportions. We get visitors from all over the multi-verse to try their hand at the Brawlbius Battle Brawl Tournament and we need five more contestants before we start. You two up for it?"

Knuckles and Shade stared incredulously at the ferret. A world where people love nothing more than fighting and tournaments? What kind of world was this?! Knuckles instantly thought about Marik the Martian and how he loved warfare and such. He'd probably enjoy this world if it did nothing but fight. Brawlbius was just right for him. Knuckles would have been tempted to join this tournament but given that Mobius was likely in danger, he couldn't waste time. He and Shade had to get home and fast so whether Don liked it or not, they would not be joining this crazy tournament. They were leaving this world and that was that.

"Sorry Don, but we're not interested." said Knuckles, waving his hand dismissively "Me and Shade have more important matters to attend to."

"Yes, we cannot stay here, our world needs us desperately." said Shade "Good day to you Don."

Don however looked like he was refusing to take no for an answer. He whipped out a gun-shaped weapon from inside his jacket and he aimed it at Knuckles and Shade. The gun was bulky with a square nozzle and a large handle. So large that his hand didn't fully close around it. He pulled the trigger and the gun fired two bolts of electricity at Knuckles and Shade. The bolts hit them and the two seized up as if they were suddenly frozen. Electricity coursed through their bodies and they suddenly collapsed onto the ground, still conscious miraculously enough. But they couldn't move. They couldn't even feel their limbs. The only things they could still feel were their heads and torsos.

"Hey! What gives?! We can't move!" cried Knuckles.

"I can't feel my arms or legs!" blurted Shade.

"I just numbed your bodies for a minute." said Don "You'll recover… eventually. Anyway, I'm not waiting another minute for the next tournament to begin. I love watching them brawls and I refuse to wait any longer! So like it or not, you two are joining the tournament and there's nothing you can do about it."

"Don, we don't have time for this!" shouted Knuckles "Our Mobius is in danger and we need to save it from disaster!"

"I missed the part where that was my problem punk." snapped Don "Now shut up before I numb you to the point of unconsciousness!"

He seized Knuckles and Shade by their dreadlocks and he dumped them onto his hover bike. The two could do nothing but sit in the passenger seats of the bike as Don started it up and then sped off through the plains, taking them to where the tournament would presumably be taking part. The echidnas were not pleased at all with their current situation. They had no time to waste, they didn't want to just take part in some crummy tournament because a fight-happy version of Mobius demands it, they wanted to try and stop the streaks of light in the sky before they doomed Mobius! But what could they do about it? They couldn't escape and even when their paralysis wore off, Don would likely do something else to them to make sure they cooperated. Hopefully when they fought their fights and won or lost them, they'd be allowed to go free and hopefully get back to Mobius Prime. Knuckles knew one thing, he wasn't looking forward to this very much. The thought of Mobius in peril worried him too much to even think about fighting…

"I can't believe we ended up being forced into this!" sighed Amy Rose, her elbow on her knee and her head resting on her hand as she sat on the bench of the changing rooms and sighed loudly.

"I can't believe it either Miss Rose." piped Cream the Rabbit, Amy's friend and little sister figure "We're being forced into taking part in a horrible fighting tournament! It's horrible! I bet it's going to be nasty and violent!"

"I just pray to god my little brother hasn't been forced into this." sighed Sora Prower, the super spy sister of Sonic's best friend Miles "Tails" Prower "That is, if he's even on this planet like we are."

Knuckles and Shade were NOT the only Prime Zoners that had ended up on Brawlbius it seemed. Amy, Cream and Sora had ended up on Brawlbius too. The time rift had merely dropped them off some distance away from Knuckles and Shade so the two echidnas had missed the girls before they were captured and brought to the Brawlbius Battle Brawl Tournament. Amy had been the first to wake up of the three and after waking up Sora and Cream, they had explored some of the plains to see what they could make of the planet and suddenly, they had been paralyzed and kidnapped by another biker. Now they were here, sitting in the tournament changing rooms and waiting for the tournament to begin. The girls were not looking forward to this tournament at all, especially since they knew that Mobius Prime was on the verge of destruction thanks to information Silver and Blaze had given them. Amy prayed with all her might that Sonic would come out of nowhere and save her, Cream and Sora from this nightmare so they could try and save Mobius Prime. But it seemed that wasn't happening any time soon. Amy even wondered if Sonic was on Brawlbius like she, Cream and Sora were. If he was on another world (which he is as you know) then it was tough luck for her. They'd just have to fine their own way off of Brawlbius and out of this tournament. As for the tournament, it would begin the moment two more contestants had been found and unbeknownst to the girls, they were on their way right now. They'd sure be surprised to see that it would be Knuckles and Shade who'd be joining them in this tournament. Amy sighed again and she drummed her fingers on her thigh.

"What sick world would like nothing but fighting?!" she grumbled for the millionth time "I mean what is the point of fighting, fighting, fighting?! Wouldn't you get bored of it eventually? Why couldn't we have ended up somewhere a bit more romantic? THAT would be nice!"

"My thoughts exactly." said Sora dully "Or somewhere fitting for a spy like me would be cool too. Anywhere would be better than here I'm certain of. And the worst part is while we're wasting time fighting mindlessly, Mobius Prime's final hour ticks away and threatens to eclipse the world! We shouldn't be doing this, we should be trying to save our world!"

"But we can't, we have to do this or we'll get killed." said Cream fearfully "That mean hyena on the bike warned us that if we refused to comply, he'd kill us all with these discs he's attached to our backs."

She felt behind her and her fingers brushed over a solid metal disc that was fixed to her back. Amy and Sora had one too. After they had been captured, the discs had been equipped onto their backs and no matter how hard they tried, they couldn't get the discs off. Cream's pet Chao Cheese didn't have one on since he was too small. The girls had no idea would the discs would do since apparently, they were meant to kill them but they didn't dare risk it. The discs could be harmless and just be there to make them do as they were told but the girls couldn't be sure on that. It was not wise to take the unknown to chance. If you don't know it's harmless then don't try it. It could well BE harmful. Also the girls wanted to live long enough to save Mobius Prime so they didn't want to risk death from the discs on their backs. Amy and Sora both sighed as they felt the discs, wishing they could remove them.

"Yeah, if only we could take the damn things off and then we could be on our way." muttered Sora "I dread to think what those discs will do to us. Electrocute us to death? Poison us? Impale us? There's a few possibilities on what they could do."

"And I for one do not want to find out." said Amy "Hopefully when we compete in this stupid tournament, we'll be relieved of the discs and then we can get out of here."

"I hope so too." said Cream "I'm really worried about Mobius. Mr. Silver and Miss Blaze said the time rifts mean it's coming to an end. I don't want the world to end! Especially since I'm separated from mother and father! I don't want them to die along with Mobius!"

"Oh Cream, we all want to save Mobius." said Amy, hugging Cream sympathetically "And I'm sure we will. We just need to get off this dimension that's all."

"And that will be easier said then done." said Sora grimly "They're not going to let us leave here so easily…"

Amy nodded, reluctantly agreeing with Sora on her statement. The discs on their backs were enough proof that the people in charge of the tournament were not going to let them go just like that. They would have to find some way out of this before Mobius ended. But would they succeed? It was definitely a terrible question to ask yourself in a moment like this. Imagine your world coming to an end and you're helpless to try and save it because you're being forced against your will to compete in a tournament. It would be a terrible time to think about succeeding in time indeed. Amy, Cream and Sora soon had something else to think about for the door to the changing room opened up and in walked Don Troy, dragging Knuckles and Shade inside by their arms. Their paralysis had worn off so they could feel their limbs again but Don had attached a disc each to their backs and warned them that if they refused to compete, the discs would kill them and he had gone on to describe what the discs would do to them. Said description included multiple steel legs emerging from within the shell of the disc and impaling them all over their bodies before a huge spike in the centre of the disc would finish them off. Knuckles and Shade assumed he was bluffing but they daren't put that to the test. Better safe then sorry as the old saying goes. Don pushed Knuckles and Shade towards the girls and he grinned nastily at them all.

"Looks like my friend Tony Bark found three more contestants." he purred nastily "Very well, we got the last five contestants we need for the tournament to begin. Hope you're all ready for it…"

Laughing a horrible, nasty laugh, Don left the Mobians alone in the changing room while he took his seat in the audience. Knuckles and Shade glowered at Don as he left.

"Oooooh I'm so gonna kill that ferret when I get my hands on him!" growled Knuckles.

"I hope you save some for me handsome, I want to hack him to pieces too." said Shade, her voice like ice.

"Knuckles! Shade! Oh my gosh, you're here too?!" cried Amy in alarm.

"Looks like the time rift's taking everybody." said Sora "Even people we didn't expect."

Knuckles and Shade's jaws dropped at the sight of the three girls before them.

"Amy?! Cream?! Sora?!" gasped Knuckles "The streak of light must have got you three too!"

"Thanks for stating the obvious." said Amy snarkily "We're not the only ones though, the time rift sucked all of us up, and I have a feeling that includes Sonic and the rest of the Royal Fighters. I hope they're OK…"

"We do too." said Shade "And by the way, what did Sora mean when she said "time rift" earlier?"

"Oh that's the apparent name of the lights in the sky." explained Sora "Silver and Blaze told us about them. They said…that they mean doom for Mobius. Our world is ending because of the time rifts."

Knuckles and Shade were horrified at this revelation. Their guesses were accurate and their worst fears were coming true! The time rifts were dooming Mobius! Now they HAD to get back to Mobius Prime before the world came to an end! Sadly though, that wouldn't be easy. They all had discs on their backs to threaten their lives should they try to leave or refuse to compete and they couldn't save the world if they were dead so they had to do as they were told for their own good. Knuckles regained himself and he folded his arms.

"So Shade, it seems you were right." said Knuckles sadly "The time rift things do mean something terrible."

"I wish I had been wrong." said Shade miserably "But I was right, the time rift being bigger meant something terrible was going to happen to Mobius. And we're helpless to stop it. The world is doomed…"

"Miss Shade, please don't give up." said Cream, her eyes wide and full of sorrow "We will save Mobius, I know we will! We've saved the world countless times before, we won't fail to save it this time!"

"I wish I could share your optimism little girl." said Shade gravely "But I can't. We're stuck here with no way off and we're wasting time away being forced into fighting in this crackpot tournament. We won't save Mobius in time, I just know it."

"Well we're not losing hope." said Sora "I know with all my heart that we'll succeed in saving Mobius. Let's just hope that the world doesn't end by the time we get out of here. I actually kinda want another time rift to open up and take us out of here. It's the only time a time rift appearing would be convenient I guess."

"Too right." said Knuckles "I also wonder if Finitevus would be able to work out how to stop the time rifts…"

"Funny you should mention the weirdo in the cape." said Amy, raising a finger "He and Eggman teamed up with us to try and stop the time rifts and they got sucked up into the time rift that brought us here. I wonder where they are now?"

"Hopefully on this planet so Finitevus can use his warp rings to warp us home." said Knuckles, frowning slightly since needing Finitevus's help was the last thing he ever wanted to sink down to "That would be great."

"As much as I hate to say it…yes it would." said Amy, nodding agreeably.

Their conversation was brought to an abrupt end for the door swung open and clanged against the wall, startling the Mobians and making them jump about a foot into the air. It was Don and he had his friend, name apparently Tony Bark, with him. Tony was a hyena who was dressed in leather biker gear just like Don was. He was equally as muscular and had terrible jaws crammed full of teeth. They packed a powerful bite and he had bitten many contestants in the past when he had competed in the tournament. His fur was a brilliant golden colour with streaks of brown all over. Knuckles wasn't sure who looked worse, Don or Tony. They both looked equally as punchable as far as he was concerned. Amy glared at Tony, itching to hammer his head in after what he had done to her, Sora and Cream. For their own sake though, both Knuckles and Amy refrained from attacking the two. Don and Tony smiled nastily at them.

"It's tournament time." crooned Tony, his voice hinting heavily that he had a smoking habit "The pink girl in the hideous red dress is to go first. Hurry up girlie, it's time for your battle!"

"Why does every jerk I meet think my dress is hideous?!" whined Amy furiously.

"Maybe evil people don't like that kind of dress?" said Sora, shrugging.

Amy sniffed and she stalked out of the changing room with Don and Tony. The two evil Mobians led her out onto the arena, which was large and looked very much like an old coliseum from the Roman times. It was even made of stone just like the coliseum in Rome is. It was round and stretched a good few meters all around. There were crowds upon crowds of people all staring at Amy and cheering like crazy. Amy could almost imagine the terrible things that the Romans did in these coliseums. She shook her head, pushing the horrible thoughts aside. She had to concentrate on the match. Even though she didn't want to do this silly tournament, at the same time she wanted to show Don and Tony she meant business and hopefully intimidate them in some way. Amy breathed in and breathed out, relaxing herself and preparing for the fight. This was it, she was going to have her first fight of the tournament. And she doubted it would be pretty. Amy looked ahead of her and noticed that a female echidna was standing before her. But it was not Shade much to her relief. It was somebody she had never seen before. The echidna was slender and curvaceous in appearance with a graceful looking body but her face betrayed whatever beauty her body displayed for it was twisted in a horrible smirk that would make any beautiful woman suddenly look unappealing. Her dreadlocks had criss-crossing white stripes on them but one dreadlock was completely metal. She had hair just at the front of her head. She wore a black leather body suit that certainly seemed to compliment her figure and seemed very fitting for her. She carried a whip with her. Amy sniffed. She didn't look like much of a challenge that's for sure. She'd floor this woman easily. And yet Amy had to wonder had she been forced against her will to fight in this tournament too? Sentimentality was not compulsory right now though, Amy had to fight and she would win this regardless of her opponent's position. The crowd fell silent as the announcer's booming voice echoed from the speakers all around the arena.

"LADIES AND GENTLEMEN!" squealed the announcer delightedly "I am happy to announce that the 2156 Brawlbius Battle Brawl Tournament can NOW begin! We have twenty contestants from all over the multi-verse here today, ready to duke it out and prove who the ultimate fighter is! OH YEAH!"

The crowd erupted into tumultuous applause.

"We now begin round one of our glorious tournament! From Mobius Prime, we have a rather ghastly looking constant who doesn't look like much. Amy Rose!"

Amy gasped. How did the announcer know her name? Given this was a fighting tournament, it was likely he knew all the contestants names so why let it bother her? The crowd booed Amy, clearly thinking that she was some puny, pathetic girl. They were expecting her to last a very short amount of time on the battlefield. Well Amy would show them a thing or two! She summoned her trademarked Piko-Piko hammer to her hands and she prepared to battle. The announcer continued.

"And from Mobius-Echid. We have a rather promising looking contestant. Lien-Da!" he sounded much more enthusiastic about Amy's opponent than Amy herself.

The crowd cheered for Lien-Da, clearly thinking that she was the one to root for in this battle. Lien-Da stretched out her whip and smiled confidently at Amy.

"Look at that little girl, the crowd's cheering for marvellous me." she boasted "They know who's going to win this fight and it'll be me."

"Allow me to defy your expectations you leather-clad egotist!" snarled Amy, her hammer poised and ready to attack.

"Three…two…one…LET THE BATTLE COMMENCE!" bellowed the announcer.

Lien-Da was the first to attack. She raised her whip and she charged towards Amy, yelling at the top of her voice. Amy just waited for her to come and the moment Lien-Da was within striking distance of her, Amy swung her hammer and walloped the echidna across the face. The hammer sent Lien-Da's head jerking violently to the right and she could have sworn she felt her neck crack under the strain. The crowd was astonished by that hammer blow. Seemed Amy might have more to offer than they thought. Amy smirked at Lien-Da and she raised her hammer, ready for another blow. Lien-Da lashed out with her whip but Amy held her hammer in the way so the whip just wrapped around Amy's hammer instead. Amy yanked on the hammer and pulled the whip out of Lien-Da's hands. Lien-Da gasped in surprise but she didn't let it bother her for long. She ran towards Amy, her hands open and her teeth clenched. Amy just hammered Lien-Da in the chin, sending her head jerking backwards and throwing her onto her back. Lien-Da gripped her head in pain, wishing that she'd stop seeing stars already. Amy hammered her in the gut, taking all the wind out of her and making Lien-Da gasp in pain. Lien-Da forced herself onto her feet but Amy proceeded to hammer on the head and knock her back down again. Lien-Da growled furiously and she clawed at Amy. Amy dodged and she kicked Lien-Da in the groin. Lien-Da shrieked in agony and she clutched her tender spot. Taking advantage of this, Amy walloped her into the air as if she was playing baseball with the echidna. Lien-Da hurled through the air, screaming loudly as she did so and she plummeted down like a cannon ball. She crashed into the wall head first, the blow knocking her out instantly. Amy just smirked at the unconscious Lien-Da.

"Oh and look at that. I win loser." she sneered.

Given Lien-Da was unconscious, the match was instantly over and the announcer's voice boomed out of the speakers once again.

"Aaaaaaaaand it's a knock out! What a surprise this is! Looks like our winner is the Prime Zoner, Amy Rose!" bellowed the announcer "Let's hear it for our winner people! Three cheers for Amy Rose!"

The crowd reluctantly cheered for Amy. Amy just smiled and bowed down to the audience, loving the cheering and glory she was receiving right now. As she preened, Lien-Da was carried out of the arena by the medical staff that worked in this arena.

"Hmm, this wasn't so bad after all." said Amy "Although it still doesn't help the fact Mobius Prime's ticking away to disaster…"

Her fight now over, Amy was escorted back into the changing rooms by Don and Tony. Upon arrival, she was greeted ecstatically by her friends. They had seen the whole match through the changing room windows and were well impressed with how well Amy had done out there.

"Well done Amy! You sure showed that woman down there what for!" cheered Cream.

"You sure showed her how it's done." said Knuckles with a smile "Congratulations."

"Thanks guys." said Amy gloatingly "I can't believe how easily I bet that stupid echidna too. She didn't even TRY to beat me!"

"I'll bet she did, just not very hard." laughed Sora "I wonder if our matches will be anywhere near as easy as yours was?"

"We'll find out shortly." said Shade "I have a feeling the next match is about to begin."

Shade couldn't be more right for Don and Tony re-entered the changing room and Tony pointed at Cream. The rabbit looked horrified at the fact she was picked to go next.

"You, you're next." said Tony "Time for Round 2 little girl."

"I don't want to go next!" whimpered Cream.

"Cream, just do what they say." sighed Amy "It'll make your life a lot easier." She motioned to the disc on her back as if to remind Cream what was coming should they refuse.

Reluctantly, Cream did as she was told. She followed Don and Tony as they led her out of the changing rooms and onto the arena. Cheese flew after her. It didn't seem like Cheese counted as a separate contestant although given he was often used as a weapon for Cream, he'd likely count as a weapon more than a contestant so he was allowed to come with Cream. Cream walked shyly out onto the arena while Don and Tony took their seats back in the crowd. The crowd seemed almost to sneer at Cream as she took her place in the arena. They clearly didn't think she looked like much. Just some scrawny, pathetic, wimpy little girl waiting to be pummelled by a superior opponent. This made Cream feel like crying. She hated being made fun of, especially since she liked helping and didn't want to feel useless. Cheese folded his stubby little arms and glowered back at the crowd. Cream looked ahead of her and noticed her opponent was in the arena too. He looked very much like Ginger the Fox, Tails's wormy deceased cousin, only he was slightly taller than Ginger was and he was dressed in karate robes. Maybe some alternate version of Ginger perhaps? Cream knew that she had to beat him otherwise Amy would never speak to her again. The Ginger look alike sneered at Cream, thinking he had no competition and that he had this in the bag.

"Time for Round Two ladies and gentlemen! This tournament's just about to get more exciting!" cried the announcer loudly "For our contestants, representing Mobius Prime, we have Cream the Rabbit! And representing Loser-World, we have Ginger the Karate Master!"

The crowd cheered for Ginger and booed Cream, making Cream feel even worse and Ginger feel all the more confident about this match.

"If I were you child, I'd forfeit. You can't win this one." gloated Ginger, striking a conceited pose as if hoping the crowd would admire his looks.

"I don't see how I can take you seriously when you come from a place called "Loser-World"." sneered Cream, trying to sound cool and collected.

Ginger glared at her but said nothing more.

"Three…two…one…LET THE BATTLE COMMENCE!" barked the announcer.

The crowd shrieked with frenzied delight as Ginger ran towards Cream and leaped into the air. He landed before Cream and began to strike some karate-like poses as if choosing the right moment to strike. Cream just stood there, wondering what the heck he was doing. As he did this, he began making silly noises like what you would hear in a cartoon show. He sounded like somebody doing a bad impression of a martial artist. Cream just sighed, almost embarrassed that this was her opponent, somebody who just did silly poses and made noises. Ginger stood on one foot, raised his hands, made a noise and…Cream just promptly kicked him in the groin as hard as she could. Ginger's face turned a mauve shade of purple and he clutched his groin in pain. He looked hurt that much was certain and collapsed onto the floor of the arena, squealing like a girl. The crowd erupted into shrieks of laughter at Ginger's misfortune.

"Eeeeeek…my groin! My one weakness!" whimpered Ginger.

"No wonder you come from "Loser-World" then." laughed Cream.

Ginger tried to stand back up but he was too weak from the pain in his groin. He lay there on the ground and accepted his defeat. Once the crowd stopped laughing at him, the announcer spoke again.

"Well, well, looks like Ginger the Karate Master is showing us why his world's called "Loser World"!" taunted the announcer as if sadistically wanting to pour more grief onto Ginger "The winner of this match is Cream the Rabbit!"

"Yay I won!" cheered Cream, skipping about like the Easter Bunny on Easter Day.

The crowd weren't sure whether to cheer or boo at Cream. Didn't matter since Cream left the arena before they had chance to deliver their pleasure or displeasure. Don and Tony followed Cream back to the changing room and watched as she was hugged by Amy.

"Goodness me Cream, I never saw THAT coming!" laughed Amy "You just kicked him where it really hurts and that's it! You're amazing when you want to be you know!"

"Well it was his own silly fault for messing around and not just hitting me already." sneered Cream "Mother always said "Nobody likes a show-off" and that Ginger was definitely a show-off that nobody will like now."

"I bet Tails would love to have seen that." giggled Sora "It would have felt like watching you beat his cousin in a fight."

"Yeah." said Cream delightedly.

"OK, praising time's over, it's your turn to fight now little girl." said Don, pointing at Sora.

"Oh god…wish me luck out there guys." said Sora nervously.

"I'm sure you'll win Sora." said Knuckles "After all, you are Tails's sister and a great super spy. You'll win."

Sora nodded, managing a weak smile on her face as Don and Tony took her firmly by the arms and dragged her out onto the arena. As Sora entered the arena and took her place, Don and Tony retook their seats and waited for the battle to begin. They were hoping for some excitement this time around. The last two matches had been pretty one-sided and in Cream's case, brief. Hopefully this match would last a bit longer and be more eventful. Sora ignored the crowd as it laughed at her, clearly thinking once again that there was a pathetic little kid in the arena. She focused on what appeared to be her opponent. Her opponent was a green feathered bird wearing brown goggles on his head, a red neckerchief and big, knee high boots and brown gloves. What was peculiar about the bird was the shape of his head. His head looked like a big green tear-drop and around his pelvis he wore a white garment that looked very peculiar on him indeed. Sora snickered at him.

"Seriously? I'm against a bird in a nappy?" she laughed "Is this some kind of joke?"

"IT IS NOT A NAPPY, IT IS MY FLIGHT HARNESS!" ranted the bird "Why does everybody think I'm wearing a nappy?!"

"I dunno, maybe because you ARE wearing one?" mocked Sora, keeling over with laughter.

The bird scowled at Sora and resisted the urge to beat her into submission for this. Instead, he waited as the announcer gave their names.

"Now for Round 3 ladies and gentlemen! Representing Mobius Prime again, we have a little vixen known only as Sora Prower! And representing Mobius-Aviary we have Speedy Battlekuku!"

"Pffffft! Speedy Battlekuku?!" Sora shrieked with laughter "Now I'm against a wazzock in a nappy with an equally as stupid name! Oh my gosh, what was I so worried about?!"

The crowd seemed amused at Sora's bantering. In fact, the crowd started laughing at Speedy with her due to how amusing it was. Speedy went hot with rage and embarrassment and he charged towards Sora like a speeding arrow whizzing towards the target. Sora stopped laughing long enough to jump out of the way and leave Speedy to whiz straight past her and crash into the wall. Speedy was sill conscious miraculously enough but he was a little dazed and confused from the impact. Speedy rubbed himself better and he flew towards Sora, hands open and ready to grab her. Sora jumped and grabbed onto Speedy just as he whizzed into her. Sora was now carried up into the air by Speedy. The furious bird tried to wrestle Sora off of himself but Sora held on tightly. She socked Speedy in the beak three times and threw off his concentration, forcing the bird to make a crash landing with Sora on top of him. Speedy skidded to a painful halt across the ground as he crashed. Sora leapt off Speedy and dared him to do his worst. Speedy picked himself up, his eyes burning with hate and he ran towards Sora again. Sora just whipped an orb off of her belt and she aimed it at Speedy. It was the orb that contained a grappling hook. She fired the grappling hook and it wrapped around Speedy's legs, tripping him up and bringing him down with a thud on the floor. Smirking, Sora yanked on the hook and brought Speedy hurling towards her. Before Speedy could crash into her, Sora kicked him across the arena. Speedy cried out as the hook unravelled around him and sent him spiralling through the air and into the wall again. Despite all that, Speedy still didn't seem to be in a giving up mood. He flew towards Sora and tried to grab her again. Sora ducked to the side and threw an orb at his leg. This was an orb she hadn't used very often due to how precious it could be in a mission. The moment the orb made contact with Speedy's leg, it exploded and threw blobs of sticky purple slime all over his body. This was a rare substance from Mobius Prime called Mega Muck. Sora would often save this orb for a situation that really needed it since it was good for a quick getaway. Now she was using it to defeat Speedy and win her battle. The Mega Muck weighed Speedy down and the moment Speedy made contact with the floor, it stuck fast and glued him down to it. Speedy struggled furiously but the Mega Muck held tightly and refused to let him go.

"Hey, this is cheating!" wailed Speedy.

"The rules don't say you can't use weapons to win." sneered Sora "I should know, I was told the rules before we began."

She then proceeded to finish the match by kicking Speedy in the side of his head, knocking him out instantly. As Speedy passed out, the announcer announced the winner of the match.

"What a knockout! Looks like Mobius Prime is bathing in victory for this year's tournament for the winner is Sora Prower!" yelled the announcer ecstatically.

The crowd cheered for Sora wildly while Sora just took their cheers modestly, not really relishing the glory she was receiving. Sora was not somebody who craved fame and glory after all. Being a spy, she was not really that used to being cheered and praised unless of course it was her friends doing the cheering and praising. Sora left the arena and returned to the changing rooms where she got the kind of cheering she did like to receive, the cheering from her friends. She really felt more comfortable receiving praise from people she knew.

"Sora, you sure impressed us out there!" cheered Amy excitedly.

"You beat that silly looking bird good and hard!" cried Cream "I do have to wonder why he was wearing a nappy though…he looks so silly in it."

"You bet he does, and his name was equally as stupid." laughed Sora "I know it's cruel and sadistic to enjoy the fact you've beat someone in a fight but given how stressed I am over the recent events…that was good stress relief." she sighed.

"That's one way of putting it." said Knuckles "Me and Shade likely will need a lot of stress relief given how edgy we are right now."

"I hope my opponent's fun to punch." muttered Shade "That might make me feel a tiny bit better…"

Shade would soon find out what her opponent was like for Don and Tony both entered the changing room. The sinister thing about them right now was the fact they were grinning like a pair of trolls. They seemed evilly delighted about something. What was it? Shade dreaded to find out. When somebody smiles like that, it's never good news.

"Oy, you two, you're both on the battle field now." ordered Don, pointing at Knuckles and Shade "Get moving the pair of you!"

"We both of us?" asked Knuckles.

"Isn't it obvious stupid?" snorted Tony "You're fighting each other for the next match. This oughta be fun to watch! Ha, ha, ha, ha!"

Knuckles and Shade were gobsmacked. They stood there, frozen in shock and staring at Don and Tony as if the two evil thugs had just grown a head out of their bottoms all of the sudden. Knuckles and Shade…were fighting each other?! No! This couldn't be! Knuckles instantly assumed that Don and Tony had done this on purpose for their own sadistic pleasure. Well no way would they do this!

"No! I can't fight my own girlfriend!" protested Knuckles.

"I refuse to fight Knuckles!" yelled Shade, pointing sharply at the two "And you can't make me!"

"Fine, then I guess you want the discs on your backs to pepper-pot you both?" threatened Don, making sure they remembered that they had something on their backs to make them comply against their will or else.

Knuckles and Shade both groaned furiously. They both forgot about the discs that clung onto their backs like spiders waiting to bite them. If they refused to comply then they would be skewered several times to the point of being called a kebab and dying was not an option at this point. Knuckles and Shade clenched their fists and they glared at Don and Tony.

"Fine, we'll do it." they both muttered.

"Good." laughed Tony "Come on Don, let's get back in our seats! I am NOT missing this! Ah, ha, ha, ha!"

Don and Tony both charged out of the room and ran back to the crowd seats so they could get seated again. The moment they left, Knuckles and Shade hugged each other as if trying to comfort each other before they had to bash each other's heads in.

"I'm so sorry Shade…" said Knuckles "I don't want to fight you but we have no choice."

"Please forgive me if I hurt you too much." said Shade, stroking Knuckles's dreadlocks and resting her head on her shoulder "Oh god…it's like Imperator Ix all over again!"

"Only this time, he's not part of it and we're doing this for the amusement of a stupid crowd." said Knuckles.

"Wait a minute!" cried Sora in realization "Why don't you two just forfeit? You could bow out of the match and spare yourselves a beating!"

"Sorry, that's not an option." said Knuckles "Don explained to us on the way that you can't bow out of a match. You HAVE to fight. There's no surrendering, only knockouts. It is literally against the rules to surrender."

"Oh…" said Sora, cursing in her head over that fact.

"It's no good, we'll have to do what they say or we're done for." said Shade.

Knuckles nodded. Like it or not, they had to fight or else they would be killed. Shade drew out a metal tube-shaped device from her jean pocket and she ran her finger across it, activating a switch that the device had. This was a device Tails had built for her that would allow her to change into her battle suit when the situation called for it. The device hovered before Shade and a beam of light swept over Shade, transforming her casual clothes into her battle suit. Amy, Cream and Sora were well impressed as the device did its work. Tails sure knew how to build them didn't he? The device finished its work and Shade put it away. She was fully suited up and ready for battle now. She drew out her twin blades and breathed in deeply. She exhaled again and looked sadly at Knuckles.

"May one of us win I guess." she said.

"This will forever be the worst moment of my life." said Knuckles, sharing her displeasure.

Knuckles and Shade left the changing rooms and they entered the arena. Amy, Cream and Sora left the changing rooms and waited by the arena entrance so they could watch the battle more closely and maybe even help one of the echidnas back into the changing room since Knuckles and Shade would likely leave the other battered and bruised. They couldn't bear to see what would happen as the echidnas took their battle positions. They stared each other down and the announcer's voice boomed around the arena.

"Now things are going to get VERY exciting folks!" he said "For we now have TWO Prime Zoners in the arena fighting for a spot in the quarter finals! Give it up for Knuckles and Shade the Echidnas!"

The crowd cheered for the two looked like promising contestants and a good match was going to come out of this. It would certainly be more entertaining to watch than the previous three matches that much was certain. The announcer counted down from three to one and gave the signal to start the match. The crowd screamed frantically as Knuckles and Shade both charged towards each other like mad rhinos. One thought pulsed through their brains as they ran: They were never going to forget this moment no matter how hard they wished they could. Knuckles threw a punch at Shade but the swift echidna dodged the blow by bending over backwards and letting the punch sweep over her. She swung her blades at Knuckles, purposefully making sure she missed so she wouldn't cut him. Knuckles grabbed Shade's arm and forced her to drop one of her blades. He picked it up and the two echidnas clashed weapons, sparks flying as the blades made contact with each other. Shade swiped the air with her blade and knocked Knuckles down with a Blade Rush wave. Knuckles picked himself up and tried to Blade Rush Shade in return but the blades only responded to Shade. To Knuckles, it was just another blade, not one that could make energy waves. Knuckles ran towards Shade and swung her blade at her. Shade blocked the attack and she kicked Knuckles in the thigh. Knuckles growled like a mad dog, just to try and hide the fact he and Shade didn't like what they were doing, and he threw a punch at Shade's gut. Shade felt the wind get knocked out of her as Knuckles's spiked fist walloped her in the gut. She doubled over and Knuckles kicked her down onto the floor. Groaning in pain, Shade forced herself onto her feet and she punched Knuckles in the face. Knuckles rubbed his face better and ducked down as Shade swung her blade at him. Knuckles uppercut Shade in the chin, making sure he didn't hit her too hard, and Shade stumbled onto her back. Shade picked herself up and lunged at Knuckles but Knuckles side-stepped out of the way. Shade spun around and slashed across Knuckles's back with her blade. That was when she realized that they had a way out of this mess. She had caught the disc on Knuckles's back and now a long gash had been drawn across it thanks to Shade's blade. Shade snapped her fingers, an idea coming to her head. Of course! They just had to destroy the disc and they were safe! Knuckles had felt Shade's blade across his back and he came to the same conclusion Shade had come to. They could use her blades to destroy the discs on their back! Knuckles stood still as Shade slashed the disc on his back to pieces, the useless device falling to pieces on the floor behind Knuckles's heels. Shade turned around and braced herself as Knuckles proceeded to do the same thing to her. The echidnas were now free of their discs! They no longer had to fight each other anymore! Don and Tony watched this with disapproval.

"Hey! The echidnas destroyed their discs!" growled Tony.

"No matter, we'll just kill the girls and make them wish they hadn't done that." sniffed Don.

But before he could do anything, Shade spotted him in the crowd and proceeded to Blade Rush him and Tony. The two were swept out of their seats and sent hurling back a few rows into the crowd. Many members of the crowd ran for their lives, fearing that the echidnas were going to attack them suddenly. Knuckles ran into the crowd and proceeded to start beating the tar out of Don and Tony. He socked them both in the faces and began slamming them around on the seats, breaking them as their bodies hit them. Don and Tony tried to fight back but Knuckles smacked them both with the broken chair pieces to make them back off and he uppercut them in the chin each. Don and Tony had no idea how strong Knuckles was but now they were wishing they still had no idea.

"That's for forcing me and my friends to take part in this bloodbath! And also making me fight Shade!" roared Knuckles, bashing their heads together and knocking both Don and Tony out.

As they collapsed onto the floor, Knuckles grinned triumphantly at them. Boy he was glad he got to beat up the two for what they did to him and his friends. Now they were out, Shade ran over to Amy, Cream and Sora and she cut their discs to pieces. Amy rubbed her back for the disc had caused it to itch badly and she smiled at Shade.

"Great idea Shade, I'm not sure how we didn't come up with that sooner." she said.

"Some ideas come to you when you least expect them." said Shade with a small smile "I'm just glad I realized that the discs could be destroyed. I never want to fight my handsome guardian again…" she spat venomously.

"I hope that never happens again." said Cream "It was horrible watching you two fight each other against your wills like that! You two love each other and should never have to fight like that!"

"I agree." said Sora "It'd be like if I was forced to fight Tails. It would be horrible to even imagine…"

"So now we're free of those stupid discs, what do we do now?" asked Amy curiously.

"We find a way off this stupid world and back home." said Knuckles, rejoining his friends in the arena "If only there was a way off this world though…"

As if to answer Knuckles's wish, a white portal suddenly materialized from nowhere and made everybody leap backwards in alarm. Rather than backing away or running for their lives, the Mobians stared at the portal. It wasn't like what they had seen before. What was it?

"Is it another time rift?" asked Cream worriedly.

"Don't think so." said Amy "It's plain white. It's not colourful at all. I think it's something else."

"Maybe it's a way home as you requested Knuckles." suggested Sora "Maybe somebody's trying to sort out this time rift problem and is helping us get back to Mobius Prime."

"It's a good guess but it could easily be wrong." said Knuckles "Either way, I'm not staying on Brawlbius any longer. Let's give this thing a shot."

"Brace yourselves, this could be dangerous…" said Shade, cautiously stepping into the portal ahead of everybody else.

She disappeared through the portal as she stepped into it. Knuckles followed her closely, also being cautious of what could happen. Amy, Cream and Sora followed the echidnas through the portal and as they passed through, the portal closed up and left no trace behind of its existence. The Prime Zoners were gone and once Don and Tony found that out, they would be mad indeed…

Well that was a lot of fun wasn't it?

Now we've just got Bunnie, Geoffrey, Vector, Espio and Charmy left and then the two-part finale of Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses begins! What will go on in Part 8? We shall see for it's going to be a "Chaotix Case" next time.

Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses Part 8

Story 173: Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses Part 8: A Chaotix Case

"Oh god, not ANOTHER murder!" whined Dark Cat the leopard-lynx hybrid, slamming the newspaper down onto the table in frustration "This is seriously beginning to freak me out now! I don't feel safe in this city anymore!"

"I feel even less safe considering all the murdered victims are women!" gasped Kiara the Cheetah, Dark's newly proclaimed girlfriend "I keep feeling like I'm going to be the next victim! I bet because I'm a woman I'm going to be targeted at some point!"

"No you won't babe, because nobody's lying a finger on you." said Dark, giving Kiara's hand a reassuring squeeze "You can fend for yourself and even if the attacker's too strong for you, there's always me to give you a hand."

"Oh of course, silly me." giggled Kiara "How could I possibly forget about those facts?"

Dark half-chuckled in agreement. It had been hard adjusting to this new world after being dumped here by a time rift but now there was a string of murders going around and all the murdered victims were women, which didn't settle well with Kiara in the slightest. If only they could just get out of here and get back to Mobius Prime! Then everything would be fine once again!

Dark and Kiara had been snatched up by a time rift after they had stopped Team Diamond from raiding the Golden Caverns in Megapolis. They had been dropped off onto another dimension and they had been stuck here for a week and two days, overall making seven days. Despite hoping that Sonic the Hedgehog or another Royal Fighter would find them and bring them back home, Dark and Kiara had lost all hope of ever getting back to Mobius Prime. It was hard for them to accept but it seemed they were stuck here forever. Unless of course another time rift appeared to which they could maybe get back home. For now, they just had to fit into the new Mobius they had ended up on and wait and see what happens. As for the new Mobius they were on, it was yet another alternate version of Mobius. There were after all infinite different versions of Mobius, there was no limit to how many versions of Mobius you could visit in the multi-verse. This Mobius that Dark and Kiara were forced for now to occupy was a very unusual version of Mobius. That is to say it seemed to Dark and Kiara that somebody had set the clock back a couple of centuries. Everything looked like it belongs in the age of Queen Victoria on Earth. The houses, the way the people dressed, the transport, the facilities, everything was straight out of the Victorian ages. Dark and Kiara had been so gobsmacked at how everything looked on this Mobius. It was certainly weird seeing people riding through the streets on horses and carriages instead of cars and people walking around dress immaculately and looking quite posh and opulent. When was the last time anyone had ever seen somebody walk around dressed in a cloak and old smart outfits? Dark certainly didn't recall ever seeing a woman walk around in a long dull dress and a bonnet. And the stink…to say that this world was smelly was an understatement. The smell was putrid beyond belief. Victorian times had a reputation for being smelly after all. This Mobius was called "Victorbius" and was named after the first ruler of the world named, you guessed it, Queen Victoria. Victorbius was a world that was constantly stuck in the Victorian ages and just couldn't seem to evolve. It was the year 2143 on this world and yet it didn't look anywhere near as advanced as Mobius Prime did. In order to fit in with this world, Dark and Kiara had been forced to change their outfits.

Dark was dressed in an all black outfit that consisted of a neatly buttoned up black shirt, a black tie and black trousers with matching black shoes. He wore a black cape that was red on the inside and held together by gold clasps and a chain. Just for the fun of it, he had a cane with a silver top and he had purchased a pocket watch so he could tell what the time was. And to top it all off, he had a top hat on. He looked like a Victorian gentleman and Kiara thought he looked very handsome in the outfit.

Kiara was dressed in a velvet Victorian dress that was sandy brown in colour and had flowers around the hem. She wore a bonnet on her head. She carried a purse with her just to try and look like a posh woman and she had styled her hair into a neat ponytail at the back so she didn't look so scruffy. Kiara didn't think the outfit suited her much but Dark thought she looked nice in the dress.

Dark and Kiara were revolted to think they had to live in this world until they could get back home. Such a sad, vintage waste of a world was all they could think. It wasn't helped by the fact this world was not just like the Victorian Ages in looks, it was the same in personality too. The poor were sympathetic and forced to be crooks for money, the rich were vain, selfish and snooty and they annoyed Dark and Kiara to no end. There were the prisons and the slums which were so cruel and sadistic that you could feel as sorry for the criminals as the innocent. And now there was a murderer going around killing women, a murderer known only as "Jack the Ripper". He hadn't been caught yet and that was what worried the people of Victorbius. Would this killer be caught and would he pay for his crimes? Given how lame the bogies, Victorian policemen, were at their jobs, it was very unlikely and it wasn't easy to find out who did what due to primitive technology. So the murders kept on going and Dark and Kiara kept on feeling disappointed when Jack the Ripper ended up not being caught. Right now they were sitting at a table outside a dingy pub that had a sever lack of personal hygiene and didn't look very inviting with it's decaying brickwork and slime covered walls. They were only having a cup of tea each but the news had put Dark off of his tea. The leo-lynx sighed in frustration.

"I thought them bloody garrotters were bad enough with how they press their hands against your neck until you passed out and then robbed you but now there is a serial killer out killing women and nobody can stop him!" whined Dark "I do have to ask what daft name is that? Jack the Ripper? Are they trying to make him sound less scary or something?"

"Oh god! Look out for Jack the Ripper!" cried Kiara in faux scared tones "Pfft, I'd laugh if I heard somebody scream that out loud…"

"You wouldn't if Jack the Ripper ended up slitting your throat." said Dark grimly "Not like that's gonna happen since I'll slit HIS throat before he gets anywhere near you."

"You got that right handsome." said Kiara "If that Ripper freak touches me, you'll give him what for! And maybe I will too given how much of a punch I pack. Say, why don't me and you try to find out who Jack the Ripper is? The police are bloody useless so we may as well do it ourselves."

"Hmm…it's dangerous and we could get killed…" mused Dark "But the police are doing no good so we may as well have a shot at it. I bet with our keen senses of smell we could track down the murderer."

"You bet we could." said Kiara "Although given how smelly this place is, we're bound to be distracted." her nose wrinkled as the whiff of the streets began to creep past her nostrils. Sometimes, Kiara felt like gagging when she smelt the horrible smell of the Victorbius streets.

"No bad smell will put me off." said Dark "So Kiara, I think it's time we went investigating."

"I think so too. If we're going to be stuck in this dingy place for the rest of our lives, we may as well eliminate something disturbing the peace so we can live comfortably here!" declared Kiara.

"Yeah, last thing I need is to feel like this place will be the death of me…" muttered Dark.

He and Kiara left the table and their untouched cups of tea behind and they walked off down the streets arm-in-arm. To be honest, they felt glad to have gotten away from the horrible pub since the atmosphere wasn't very inviting. As Dark and Kiara walked down the street, several people passed them and looked. To them, they just looked like an ordinary Victorian couple and how lovely they seemed to look together too. It was a lot better than the awkward stares that they had received upon arriving here. Their Victorian attire certainly helped them to blend in nicely with this world. Dark and Kiara walked across the pavement, passing by dully lit streetlights that seemed to have some kind of eerie presence to them somehow. Horses and carriages passed by them, the riders never giving them a second thought and just focusing on their own journey ahead. Dark grew to quite enjoy hearing the sound of hooves clip-clopping on the pavement as the horses passed them by. He wasn't sure way but they had a nice rhythm to them. It was certainly a lot better than half the music they were hearing. As they walked down the streets, they could see some fool banging on a small portable piano and singing horribly. A crowd of people gathered around, hopefully to scorn the horrible singing lad on his bad talents.

"Ladies and gentlemen! I am going to perform to you all that tragic song, "They're Moving Father's Grave To Build A Sewer" if you know it, sing with me!"

Banging on the keys, the boy began to sing.

"They're moving father's grave to build a sewer. They're shifting it regardless of expeeeense.

They're moving his remains, to put in nine-inch drains. To irrigate some posh folk's residence.

And what's the use of having a religion? And thinking when you die your troubles ceeeease?

If some society chap, wants a pipe-line for his tank. And they shift you from your place of rest and peeeace.

But in his life our daddy, he weren't a quitter. And I don't suppose, he'll be a quitter now.

So he'll haunt their toilet seats, in his funeral sheets. And they'll only get to piddle where he'll allow!

There won't be some ruddy consternation. And won't those city chaps all rant and rave .

Which is no more than they deserve, for having the ruddy nerve, to muck about with a British workman's grave! Workman's grrrraaaaaave!"

Somehow, the horrible performance was met with a round of applause from the watching spectators. The thing is, in Victorian times, humans had a fascination with death and often wrote songs about it. The same fact applied sadly to this world too. Dark and Kiara just shook their heads at the song.

"Good grief, did he write that himself?" snorted Dark "That'll explain why it's so bad."

"I know, and who wants to sing about moving somebody's grave to build a sewer?!" scoffed Kiara, twisting her face into a disgusted scowl "These people are so vile! Vile Victorians if you want my opinion!"

"If you think that's bad, wait till you hear William McGonagall's poetry." sighed Dark "That guy needs help if he thinks his poetry's any good."

"I did hear his poetry and I don't think I've ever laughed so loudly at something so bad in all my life!" snickered Kiara, thinking back to when she had the misfortune of hearing this crazy man's poetry "And the fact he's an ant-eater just makes him even harder to take seriously given how silly they look."

"William should stick to ant-eating and stop his bad poetry." said Dark agreeably "It'll do us all a big favour."

"Hey Dark, look over there!" Kiara cried out suddenly "I think there's some people we know!"

Dark looked to where Kiara was pointing. On the other side of the street, there were five Mobians talking to a wombat wearing a smart suit and a monocle. There was a crocodile, a chameleon, a bee, a skunk and a rabbit. Dark and Kiara recognized them easily. They were Vector, Espio, Charmy, Geoffrey and Bunnie Rabbot! They had been brought to Victorbius by the recent time rift that had thrown Sonic and friends all over the multi-verse and how unfortunate they were to end up here. They were all dressed in Victorian attire though for they had to fit into this world too. Vector was wearing a black waistcoat that seemed to strain hard just to fit him and he had a top hat on too. He still neglected to wear trousers it seemed. For shoes, he had managed to find a pair that fit him and they matched the waistcoat. Espio was dressed in a gentlemanly outfit too complete with bow-tie and a bowler hat. Charmy just wore a Victorian schoolboy's outfit since a gentleman's outfit wouldn't look good on him and he was too young to dress like that anyway. He didn't really like the outfit and wished he could just wear his old attire again. Geoffrey was dressed in an all black outfit much like Dark was. It certainly seemed to blend in well with his fur. The only thing that stuck out from him was a red tie he wore around his neck. Bunnie was dressed in a maid's outfit and she seemed to be making as much effort as possible to hide her robotic parts. After all, it wouldn't settle well with the people of this world. They'd probably be batty enough to consider Bunnie a witch for it. The dress covered her robot legs and she had her robotic arm hidden in a pocket. She just lied saying that she had a horrific hand injury and didn't want people to see it in fear of disgusting them. It certainly worked given how feeble-minded the Victorians were. Dark and Kiara crossed the road to see if they could hear what was going on with the five. Vector was making notes as the wombat spoke.

"Uh huh, so you think this "Jack the Ripper" person is a tall dark guy dressed in a cloak and top hat?" mused Vector.

"I don't think, I know!" snapped the wombat "Goddamn it, I told you I'd seen him didn't I?"

"Did you see his face?" asked Espio.

"No, it was too dark but I definitely saw what he was wearing." said the wombat.

"I've gotta say, who's stupid enough to just wear a cloak and a top hat and nothing more?" snorted Charmy "He's showing off and standing out a bit isn't he?"

"He'll have been wearing more than just that." said the wombat "I just saw him from behind so I didn't fully see what he was wearing, just what I saw."

"Well that's not very helpful…" muttered Vector as he jotted down the wombat's testimony "We can't just go around arresting guys in top hats and cloaks and hope one of them's the Ripper. We could be forever doing that. And also what if he ditches the clothes in favour of a different outfit?"

"I'm helping as best as I can!" whined the wombat.

"I know you are." said Vector "And we'll keep a look out for this Ripper guy and see if we can foil him. Thanks for your time and have a nice day."

The wombat tipped his had and he slowly walked away. The moment he left, Dark and Kiara approached Vector.

"Hey guys." said Dark "Wasn't expecting to see you around."

The five Mobians stared at Dark and Kiara for a minute before registering the fact that they knew who they were.

"Oh mah stars! It's Dark and Kiara!" cried Bunnie in surprise "We'd heard all about ya'll bein' taken away by a time rift and we've been tryin' whatever we can to find ya'll and bring ya back home! Looks like ya'll ended up here with us."

"We've been here for seven days." said Kiara "And in my opinion, that's way too long. I wouldn't have wanted to spend one day here, let alone SEVEN! It's horrible here! Everything's boring, the stink is unbearable and…"

"Kiara, that's enough." said Dark "I think they get the picture."

"We do mate." said Geoffrey glumly "It really is vapid here. What I wouldn't give to get back to Mobius Prime."

"Our sentiments exactly." said Dark with a scowl on his face "So did you five end up here thanks to a weird light in the sky?"

"Oh we did hon." said Bunnie with a sad shake of her head "A really big light in the sky appeared above NewMobotropolis and sucked us all up. Me, Geoffrey and Team Chaotix have ended up here. We're not sure if anybody else has or not. We might be the only ones here. The others could be on other dimensions for all we know."

"I bet they've ended up on better worlds than this one." muttered Kiara.

"Anywhere's better than here." said Espio "Anyway, we have terrible news regarding the light in the sky."

"Oh no, what is it?" asked Kiara, shuddering as she waited for the news to be spoken.

"According to Silver and Blaze, the lights in the sky are called "time rifts" and apparently the amount of time rifts we've been having means that the world is coming to an end." said Espio, his face matching his tone grim tone of voice.

Dark and Kiara felt like they were going to fall over backwards.

"No! No that can't be!" shrieked Kiara, unable to believe what she was hearing "That silver dude showed me what became of Mobius in his future before the Martians attacked! Do you think those "time rifts" are the cause?"

"Unlikely since Silver and Blaze had one appear in their timeline too." explained Geoffrey "I don't think the time rifts are the reason Silver and Blaze's timeline's a mess…but what they do know is that if we don't stop the time rifts then Mobius Prime will be no more, past, present AND future."

"We've gotta get back home and stop those time rifts!" cried Dark "We've just got to!"

"What can we do?" asked a very hopeless Vector "There's no way we can get back to Mobius Prime. This place is all vintage and no technology! We'll not be getting out of here unless another time rift appears."

"So we're gonna be forced to sit and let our world die?" asked Kiara, tears coming to her eyes.

"Ah'm afraid so sugah." said Bunnie, looking equally as dismayed as Kiara.

Kiara burst into tears upon hearing that. She threw herself into Dark's arms and wailed onto his shoulder. Dark hugged Kiara comfortingly, looking as sad as her.

"NO! The world can't end, it just can't!" wailed Kiara "We have to do something about it, we just have to! I'm not staying on this world forever!"

"I know how you feel Kiara." said Dark sadly "I don't want to lose our world either, especially since we only just got to confess our love for each other."

"Aww, that's even sadder now." said Bunnie, feeling sympathy for the two "Reminds me of how Geoffrey confessed his love for me when it looked like the Devatrons were gonna finish us off…at least we lived in time to develop our relationship but now it seems Mobius will be seeing its final hour unless we can save it."

"And right now, that's looking very unlikely." said Geoffrey, putting an arm around Bunnie sadly.

"End of the world sucks, it really does!" whined Charmy, pouting like a spoilt little kid.

"Understatement of the entire multi-verse." sighed Vector, rolling his eyes.

"AAAAAAAAAAAAAAAARRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRGG

The horrible scream just seemed to pierce the silence of the night and many heads seemed to turn in the direction of the scream as if wondering what had happened. The scream had certainly startled the Prime Zoners. They all nearly jumped out of their uniforms. Kiara clutched Dark so hard that the poor leo-lynx thought he was going to suffocate. Bunnie and Geoffrey gripped each other tightly and the Chaotix weren't sure what to do other than stand there in silence. The scream had come so suddenly that they were still surprised they'd even heard it. After a minute had passed, somebody finally spoke up.

"What was that?!" blurted Charmy, sounding very frightened.

"I think…the Ripper's struck again!" cried Dark.

"Let's go investigate shall we?" asked Bunnie, almost wishing she hadn't asked that since she had a nasty feeling on what they would come across.

The Mobians ran down the street, following where the scream had come from a moment ago. They turned around a corner and got the shock of their lives for lying on the road in a pool of blood was the poor, ravaged remains of a female wolf. She had been strikingly beautiful with fiery red fur and a slender frame. She had been well dressed and quite ravishing looking. At least, until she had been murdered right about now. (Hold your noses readers, this is about to get graphic) The woman's abdomen had been slight clean open, explaining the enormous pool of blood pouring out from her dead body. Her throat had been slit in two different places, the cuts fresh and bleeding still. Some of her intestines were lying beside her and her womb had been taken. Her face was the embodiment of horror, mouth open as if the scream hadn't finished before she was killed and her eyes still open in shock. Bunnie and Kiara both felt sick upon seeing this. Women were a lot more squeamish then men could be some times and the fact Bunnie and Kiara were looking at a dead woman just made it worse for them. Thank goodness it hadn't been one of them. Dark was horrified at the corpse whereas Team Chaotix didn't seem that bothered about it. They were detectives after all so they were used to this kind of graphicness. This wasn't the first corpse they'd ever seen on the job either. Still it was quite horrible to see. Especially considering how ravaged the corpse was.

"OK that's just gross." said Vector with a shudder "Look at the mess of that corpse! Was this really necessary?!"

"Vector, you know what murders are like. They're NEVER necessary." said Espio, cringing in disgust.

"I can definitely say that this "Jack the Ripper" has done it." said Charmy, grimacing at the sight of the corpse "I mean this murder matches all the details that witnesses have given us here." he read off of the notes that Vector had made when witnesses had described the victim's remains to them "Her throat's been slit, her stomach's cut open and there seems to be a few organs missing. She's definitely been killed by the Ripper."

"Hey guys, you mind if we just investigate this corpse or would you rather not watch?" asked Vector.

"I think the girls look pretty shell-shocked mate." said Geoffrey "We'll just leave you three to do your work in peace while the girls get their bearings together.

"Ah'm up for that." gasped Bunnie "That's too horrible to look at…"

Geoffrey and Dark led Bunnie and Kiara back around the corner so they didn't have to see the corpse anymore. As they left, Vector, Espio and Charmy knelt down beside the dead wolf, trying as hard as they could not to be disgusted by it.

"OK, let's see what clues we can gather from this corpse." said Vector "We might find out who Jack the Ripper could be."

"Well for starters, he seems to have medical knowledge." said Espio, taking note of the missing organs and the slit in the wolf's stomach "He seemed to know what he wanted and only somebody with medical knowledge would know exactly where a womb is. As for the cuts on her neck…"

He paused as he fingered around the slits on the wolf's neck.

"The gash is pretty thin but runs deep. Some kind of knife would have been used for that." he deduced.

"What kind of knife?" asked Charmy "That doesn't look like it was done by a butter knife or anything. Kitchen knife maybe?"

"I think the cuts are too thin for that." said Vector "Maybe it was a long bladed knife that a surgeon from this kind of time period would use, further enhancing Espio's theory on the Ripper having medical knowledge."

"I was thinking that too." said Espio "So we're getting ideas on what kind of character this Jack the Ripper is. Trouble is…doesn't really tell us WHO it is. Narrows down the suspect list maybe but not that much."

"Nah, we're still at square one." said Vector "We need to find some way of catching this guy off guard. Now how would we do that…?"

"Beats me." said Charmy "But we'll think of something."

Team Chaotix thought for a moment on what would be a good idea to catch the Ripper and put an end to his killing spree. It was clear the Ripper knew all of the streets like the back of his hand since he was always careful on where he would make his killings. Newspaper articles and testimonies from the police had told them that helpful bit of advice. Also the Ripper chose alley ways or quiet areas of the street. It would be very likely to catch him in that regard. It was once said that habit makes you predictable and it certainly would be the case for Jack the Ripper since Team Chaotix were immediately estimating where he might strike next. But given how many alleyways and streets there were, he could hide anywhere and although places to look were now narrowed down to just them, it didn't necessarily make it easier to find him. They could be on a wild goose chase for the Ripper and arrive at his possible killing places too late. No, they would have to lure the Ripper into a trap. Catch him off guard and arrest him once and for all. How would they accomplish that? What would lure the Ripper into a trap like a lion to meat? Vector took in the fact that the Ripper seemed only to kill women. They were his only victims. But they couldn't use a woman as bait for the Ripper! That was just horrible! Then Vector remembered, they had Bunnie Rabbot on their side and she was by far the strongest of them all. She'd floor the Ripper before he could even draw his knife out and slit her throat! Vector considered the options. It was risky and the plan could go wrong but it was a plan that was bound to work given how strong Bunnie was. It was worth a shot, it was the only one they had for the time being.

"Hey guys, I've got an idea." said Vector.

"Now's the moment where I feel insanely nervous..." muttered Espio. It was always wise to be concerned when Vector had an idea given how hairbrained they tended to be. Espio could barely forget the time where Vector came up with an idea to find jewellery easier than before. The result had ended up with them needing to buy some new furniture for the owner of the house.

"Puh, thanks for the support Espio." said Vector crossly. He wondered why Espio had to be so pessimistic around him. What had he done to deserve this?

"Come on Vector, let's hear your crazy plan then." said Charmy excitedly.

"I will not question how you knew this idea's crazy." laughed Vector. Somehow, Charmy seemed able to tell if his plans were crazy or not. Maybe it was how often they tended to be crazy. "Anyway, my idea is we lure the Ripper into a trap. And how do we do that? By having somebody act as bait for him."

"Vector, that's inhumane!" shouted Espio furiously, his bowler hat nearly falling off his head in fury "We can't use somebody as bait for a serial killer!"

"I agree Vector! That's not cool at all!" lectured Charmy "And they say I'm the stupid one..." he mumbled to himself.

"Guys hear me out!" protested Vector "Here's the good part of the plan! I'm not gonna use anyone as bait because I already know who's the perfect person to act as bait. And that person is Miss Rabbot herself."

"Out of the question!" barked Geoffrey, emerging from behind the corner and pointing furiously at Vector. He, Dark, Bunnie and Kiara had heard Vector's idea and Bunnie sounded shocked to hear that Vector was planning on using her as bait. Geoffrey of course was not pleased to hear this either.

"Ah agree with mah honey skunk, yer not usin' me as bait for a crazy serial killer!" snapped Bunnie crossly "Ya'll ain't sacrificn' me to him!"

Vector looked hurt to hear this. They seriously thought that he was going to be this evil and let Bunnie get killed by a serial killer?! Some friends they were if they thought he was going to do something so cruel! He'd already considered the fact it was inhumane to do something like this and wouldn't have gone with it if he knew that Bunnie would get killed. Vector frowned at Bunnie.

"Miss Rabbot, this ain't a sacrifice at all! Would I seriously do something like that?!" he growled crossly "Shame on you for thinking that. No, the idea is that since the Ripper seems to target women, you're a likely target for him. But you're strong and all right? So when the Ripper tries to attack, you just sock him with that metal arm of yours and presto, he's down and we've caught him. You're by far the best choice to knock that sucker down a few pegs!"

Bunnie took in Vector's idea and considered it. True she was strong and tough and she'd easily floor the Ripper if he tried to attack her. It was just a matter of whether or not she'd be able to react fast enough to avoid the Ripper since he'd likely be very stealthy on approach. It was very risky and after seeing what had become of the poor wolf she'd seen earlier, Bunnie did not want to a ravaged corpse with her womb and maybe more missing. But if they were going to catch the Ripper, they had to try that idea. Not to mention Bunnie had faced much worse than a measley serial killer. She'd survived Eggman robots and alien invasions, a serial killer was nothing compared to all that. Bunnie took a deep breath and sighed loudly.

"OK sugah, ah'll give it a shot." said Bunnie "Just please promise that this won't go pear-shaped."

"Come on Bunnie, the Ripper's just a guy with a knife. That's nothing compared to what we've been through in our lives so far." said Vector, clapping her on the back.

"I swear if things go wrong and Bunnie gets killed, you'll have more than the Ripper to worry about!" snarled Geoffrey.

"Not a problem." said Vector "Cause if things do go wrong, we'll be there to help Bunnie. We'll watch her and if she fails to notice the Ripper coming, we'll give her a warning. And Geoffrey, I'll let you do it."

"So glad you are since I'd be all too happy to warn me girl about an apporaching serial killer." said Geoffrey "So what should I do? Give her a silent signal?"

"I recommend it." said Espio "If the Ripper's coming and Bunnie doesn't notice, make a motion like this." He clenched his fist and began bending his arm at the elbow back and forth in the manner of somebody stabbing down with a knife or sword. "That'll be a good signal that the Ripper's nearby."

"Perfect." said Geoffrey "So luv, you're ready for this? You're not scared or worried about this plan?" he asked, taking Bunnie's hands into his own and staring worredly into her eyes.

"Ah'm a little nervous but ah'm willin' to take a shot." said Bunnie, her organic hand lightly stroking Geoffrey's cheek "After all, it's better we try to stop Jack the Ripper then to do nothing about it. We can't just let him keep killin' people."

"Too right." said Geoffrey "You know Bunnie, I always did admire how brave you are." he added with a charming smile, the kind that could win the heart of any woman who saw it.

"Bravery was always a common trait in mah family." said Bunnie with a wink "Ah get it from mah mother's side of the family though."

Geoffrey hugged Bunnie for a moment and then he turned to Vector.

"So where do we start?" he asked.

"Given the Ripper seems to prefer lurking in dark empty places, we think an alley-way would be a good place to set Bunnie up." said Vector.

"And this world has plenty of them so it's a start." said Espio "Shall we get set-up then?"

"Sho' thing sugah." said Bunnie "That Ripper has ripped apart his last victim today!"

Now that the Mobians had a plan, they ran off to find a good alley-way to hide in and wait for Jack the Ripper to come. Whether he would come or not remained to be seen. It was certainly going to be quite an agonizing wait for poor Bunnie though. She just hoped that she wouldn't be waiting forever and they could get this whole thing over with. And once the Ripper was defeated, they could work on trying to get back to Mobius Prime and hopefully save it from the time rifts before it came to an end...

A while later, the Mobians had found an alley-way to set up their trap for the Ripper. It was located in a place called Hanbury Street, which was a few minutes walk way from where the red wolf had been murdered minutes ago. The alley-way was dark and very popular among van-draggers, whizzers and screws given how great a hiding place it provided them when they waited for the time to commit their crimes. There were none of the sort around this time though. The Prime Zoners had the alley-way all to themselves for the time being. Bunnie was standing out in open view of anybody who was passing by. Somebody had to just glance up the alley-way and they'd see her. She was wide open for Jack the Ripper to see. Dark, Kiara, Geoffrey and the Chaotix were all hiding. They had taken shelter behind bin bags, dustbins and broken doors that had come off the nearby houses and were just lying forlornly on their sides, the hinges still attached and rusting. There was no chance of them ever being spotted by anybody. Bunnie just stood there, looking as nervous as she could. It is often said that a predator can sense fear. Maybe that would be the case for Jack the Ripper. Bunnie swallowed nervously. The quietness of the alley-way was beginning to get to her. Quietness is not often something people feared but in a spooky scene like this, the quietness somehow makes it feel even spookier. Nobody's really sure why that is the case, it just is. Bunnie began to whistle to herself just to break the quiet around her for the momet.

"You know...this place is kinda creepy when it's dark and deserted like this." said Bunnie more to herself than anybody "Not helped by the fact it's so different on this world which makes it even scarier to me."

She shivered as if a sudden cold had come over her. As time slowly passed, Geoffrey whispered over to Vector.

"Do you think the Ripper might come down this way?" he hissed with concern "What if he goes somewhere else entirely?"

"I hadn't really thought on that." said Vector sheepishly "But I'm sure this place would be a good place for the Ripper to strike. I just hope he comes out again otherwise Bunnie will be waiting here for nothing."

"I feel sorry for my lovely lass." said Geoffrey "She must be worrying her poor heart out right now, waiting for a sinister serial killer to come and get her."

"She'll be fine." said Vector "Bunnie's a brave woman as she said before, although I must admit I kinda feel bad about making her do this..." he said softly, looking at Bunnie's nervous face "Poor Bunnie. I had no idea it would be this nerve-racking for her."

"This is why I usually worry when Vector comes up with an idea." Espio said with a glum face.

Vector frowned at Espio but he said nothing. Then suddenly, they could hear the sound of approaching footsteps. Eerybody kept down low and listened out as the footsteps approached the alley-way.

"Somebody's coming!" hissed Kiara "It might be you-know-who!"

"Everybody keep your voices down and stay still." whispered Dark, drawing out his blades from his arms "Let's get ready to ambush the asshole."

Everybody watched and waited as the footsteps got nearer and nearer to the alley-way. Bunnie could hear the footsteps too and she risked a glance to her left as they grew louder. She saw a shadowy figure dressed in a cloak and a top-hat. She couldn't make out anymore features on the figure. It was too dark to see. Bunnie knew that somebody was coming. Was it the Ripper? She had to pretend she hadn't seen him so he would approach her. Bunnie turned her back and pretended she couldn't hear anything. Geoffrey watched, knowing that Bunnie was just pretending since he saw her tak a glance and obviously see somebody coming. He wouldn't need to signal her at all. The figure advanced on Bunnie, clearly eager to get her for some reason. It seemed delighted at this opportunity to get a woman that seemed helpless and alone in the middle of this alley-way. The figure drew out a knife that had a black handle and a long, sharp, shining blade. It hadn't been cleaned recently, it was still stained with blood from the earlier victim. Bunnie could smell the blood on the knife. It matched the smell of the dead wolf's blood from earlier, meaning that they had found the right guy. Jack the Ripper was here. Bunnie stood by, waiting for the right moment to turn out and wallop the murderer. The figure raised the knife and aimed for Bunnie's neck. That was when Bunnie suddenly struck. She spun around and back-handed the figure onto the ground. The figure seemed to groan in pain, clutching its sore face while Bunnie picked up the knife and tossed it into a nearby dustbin, just where it belonged. She looked at Jack the Ripper. She could make out more features on him now he was closer. He was dressed entirely in black and his face was concealed by a black morph mask that looked custom made. The head looked vaugley canine like. Some kind of dog was the Ripper? Bunnie didn't really care, all she knew was that she caught him and that's all there was to it.

"So ya'll think ya can attack an innocent little lady for no good reason?" growled Bunnie "Well ah got news for you buster! Ya'll ain't killin' anymore gals today! Yer busted partner!"

She reached down to grab the downed killer but Jack the Ripper smacked her hand away and drew out a spare knife he had stored in his coat. He lunged at Bunnie, trying to strike her in the heart with his knife. Bunnie grabbed his arm and held the knife away with her robot arm. The Ripper pushed down, trying to complete his strike. Bunnie strained, her teeth gritted and her face sweating as the knife was kept held just inches from her chest. The Ripper was surprisingly strong, much stronger than Bunnie had anticipated. She began to worry. Was he too strong for her? Geoffrey watched with concern as Bunnie struggled with the Ripper. Bunnie gave the Ripper one desperate shove by pushing her arms upwards and sending him falling backwards onto his back. He picked himself up only for Bunnie to grab him into a chokehold. She forced him to drop the knife and she kicked it away from him. She conked the Ripper on the head and knocked him down onto his knees, the murderer dazed and confused for the moment.

"Nice try gruseome but ya'll ain't addin' me to yer kill list!" snarled Bunnie "Now let's see who ya'll are under that mask!"

She yanked the morph mask of the murderer's head...and gasped in horror. She dropped the mask and she clasped her hands around her mouth. She recognized who Jack the Ripper was!

"R-R-Ravage?!" she shrieked "How in the hoo-hah did ya'll get here?!"

Now unmasked, the Ripper glowered at Bunnie. As Bunnie had said, it was none other than her childhood friend turned enemy, Ravage Bloodfang behind the mask. His trademark skull mask had been swapped for the more subtle morph mask he'd made for himself so now his scars were visible for everybody to see. His face was a mask of rage as his clenched teeth shone in the light and his eyes were narrowed into a hideous scowl. Upon hearing Bunnie say the name "Ravage", Geoffrey leaped out from his hiding place and ran over to the evil wolf. Team Chaotix, Dark and Kiara joined him and they stared at Ravage incredulously.

"Hello Bunnie. I was hoping to add you to Jack the Ripper's list of kills..." said Ravage coldly.

"Well tough crud grizzly cause we have ya'll outnumbered and ya'll can't possibly beat all of us." said Bunnie crossly "Especially me and Vector both together."

"Hey Bunnie, how's this freak and how do you know him?" asked Dark Cat curiously.

"We're old friends, literally." said Bunnie "But now we're fierce enemies all because Ravage got exiled from Adabat for breaking the rules. And if ah'm to take a wild guess...you must hae been brought here by a time rift too." she deduced.

"I'm not sure what a time rift is." said Ravage thoughtfully "But I can tell you that after my last encounter with you and your smelly boyfriend I was suddenly taken away by a weird colorful light that appeared in the sky completely out of nowhere. And after that, I was brought here and given I was still hungry I took to slaughtering innocent people just to keep myself well fed."

"So you were murdering all those people!" gasped Dark "You monster, how could you?! These people have done nothing to you, you don't even come from this zone!"

"Like I said, I was hungry and I needed to eat something. And over time as I've lived my life of exile, I have grown to really enjoy the taste of Mobian meat..." said Ravage nastily.

Bunnie felt sick hearing this. Ravage had truly gone off the deep end hadn't he? He was now resorting to cannibalism just to live?! And that was the reason he was killing people in this world? Bunnie had to accept it. Her old friend was well and truly gone and there was no saving him now. Bunnie glared at Ravage, her face the embodiment of contempt and disgust.

"You sick, twisted monster..." she growled "Ah can't believe you're stopping this low. Ya'll are dead to me old friend. Or should ah even acknowledge you as such?"

"I don't really care anymore." said Ravage "After you stopped me from getting my revenge*, you were officially dead to ME. As a matter of fact, allow me to make that statement literal!"

He pounced onto Bunnie and dragged her down onto the ground, hoping to kill the Rabbot with a single snap of his jaws. Bunnie grabbed Ravage's jaws and forced them closed. She swung her legs up and threw Ravage off of herself. The wolf landed on his back with a crunch. Geoffrey charged towards Ravage, his arm-mounted crossbow now on his arm and ready to shoot Ravage. Geoffrey had hidden it in a pocket inside his shirt and now he'd put it on for the battle ahead. Ravage grabbed Geoffrey's arm and forced it upwards, causing him to shoot at the sky and miss him completely. Geoffrey punched Ravage on the nose but the wolf retaliated with a feirce bite on the shoulder that made Geoffrey scream in pain. Ravage was clearly more animalistic than ever before. Ravage clamped down on Geoffrey's shoulder, his teeth penetrating the skunk's flesh deeply and sending flares of pain surging through his arm. Bunnie grabbed Ravage's jaws and forced them open, releasing Geoffrey so the skunk could sock him in the eye. He clutched his shoulder, which had deep teeth marks in it. It would take a while to heel much to Geoffrey's dismay. He wouldn't be able to fight with his left arm for a while. Ravage clawed at Bunnie, catching her across the chest and shredding bits of her Victorian dress as he did so. Bunnie uppercut Ravage in the chin and then socked him in the gut. Ravage growled like a rabid wolf and he spun around on his heel. He drove his foot into Bunnie's gut and sent her hurling across the alleyway into a bunch of dustbins. Ravage picked up a dustbin and prepared to slam it down on Bunnie's head but Dark eblowed him in the back, causing him to keel forward and drop the bin on his own head. Ravage yelped like a dog that's had its tail trapped in the door as the bin landed on top of him. Ravage picked it up and he swung the bin at Dark. Dark just cut the bin to pieces with his blades, leaving Ravage without a weapon. Ravage punched Dark in the face and then tripped him up with a kick to the legs. Dark groaned but he wasn't down for long. He took off his cloak and he wrapped it around Ravage's face. The wolf flailed around blindly, unable to see with the cloak tied around his head. Dark kicked Ravage in the bum and sent him staggering towards Kiara. Kiara clasped her fists together and she swung them both down onto Ravage's head. The wolf was dazed but he recovered and he ripped the cloak off of his head. He lashed at Kiara, the cheetah ducking backwards to avoid the attack and Kiara swung her head forward. Ravage screamed out loud as Kiara's head violently slammed against the bridge of his snout. The wolf's entire snout began to throb wildly as if it had been smashed by a hammer. To finish off the fight, Vector ran forward and grabbed Ravage around the throat. But Ravage wasn't finished yet. He clawed Vector on the arm and made him let go as he gripped his arm in pain. The wolf kicked Vector in the side and sent him hurling into the wall. Espio ran in and unleashed a few ninjitsu rounds on Ravage. He then wrapped his legs around Rvage's head, spun his body all around his head and brought Ravage down onto the ground, throttling him at the same time. Raage gasped for breath as Espio stood back and whipped out some shuriken. Ravage recovered from the earlier blow but Espio threw the shuriken at him. The stars sliced through his skin and drew blood, making the wolf wince in pain. Ravage ran towards Espio but the ninja chameleon spun around until he was behind Ravage and he dropkicked him in the back of his head, knocking him down onto the ground. Charmy proceeded to sting Ravage on the bottom for extra humiliation. Ravage roared like a wounded coyote as Charmy stung him. He swatted the bee down onto the ground and prepared to eat him alive. But Bunnie ran in and wrapped her robot arm around Ravage's neck. She pressed her metal hand against his windpipe, the wolf gasping for breath that wouldn't enter his lungs and swinging his arms madly. Bunnie remembered how people known as "garrotters" would do this to people so they could rob them. And it seemed now Bunnie would use this tactic to stop Ravage. Ravage fought against Bunnie but his strength was weakening as his air supply depleted and black dots swam round his vision. Bunnie pressed harder and harder on Ravage's throat until the wolf eventually passed out. The moment his body fell limp into her arms, Bunnie let him go and the wolf collapsed onto the ground in a heap. It seemed she was getting better at fighting him now. This was the shortest fight she'd had with Ravage yet. Wiping sweat off her head, Bunnie sighed with relief.

"Whew...subdued him. We did it." she said "Well fought guys."

"Our pleasure." said Vector "So what do we do with this lunatic now?"

"Bring him back to Mobius Prime so he can be put in a prison cell and pay for his crimes." said Bunnie coldly "That's the most that monster deserves."

"I agree on that." said Geoffrey, clutching his wounded shoulder "Although personally, I wouldn't even go far as to do that. I'd have had the blighter executed."

"Now, now sugah, we're not stooping to his level." said Bunnie firmly "We are decent people and we will do what's right. Please understand that."

"I do luv." said Geoffrey, his hand on Bunnie's cheek "And I'm glad we are decent people. I'd hate to be like Ravage."

"Me too hon." said Bunnie, kissing Geoffrey after saying that and then adding "It feels good to know ah'm not a monster."

"Indeed." said Geoffrey.

"So, now what?" asked Charmy "We don't know how to get back to our Mobius so what do we do now?"

As if to answer his question, a white portal appeared from nowhere, lighting up the alley-way and throwing gleaming white light over the dark shadows that shrouded it. The Mobians leapt back in surprise as the portal opened and they stared at it in wonder.

"Well...I guess we go through that." said Charmy, thinking he'd been given an answer.

"Dark baby, is that another time rift?" asked Kiara, clutching her boyfriend tightly.

"No, this one's plain white and it's at ground level, not in the sky." said Dark, observing the portal "I think this is harmless."

"Ah hope it takes us back to Mobius Prime." said Bunnie "Let's see what happens when we step through it."

The Mobians weren't sure whether to follow Bunnie's suggestion but given the world was ending and they needed to save it, they had to try it and see what happened. All seven Mobians stepped through the portal, Vector dragging Ravage's unconscious body in with them. The portal closed up, returning the darkness to the alley-way as the light faded. That portal was the last of the portals activated by Sonic to reunite his friends. Now it had found the last seven Sonic was looking for, he and his friends would be reunited and they could put an end to the Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses once and for all...

Footnotes:

See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 4: Trouble in Adabat

If anybody dares question some of the Victorian facts in this chapter then please go away. I have done my research on these facts AND I read the Horrible Histories books so if you think I'm making any of these facts up then don't, because I'm not. They are 100% REAL facts. You already know that Jack the Ripper in all his horror glory is true facts though.

Well how was that for some Victorian fun?

Well the search for Sonic's friends is over. Join me in Part 9 as everybody gets back together to stop The Eraser! Don't miss it!

Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses Part 9

Story 174: Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses Part 9: Getting Back Together

Sonic the Hedgehog watched with awe as the time sceptre opened up white portals all around the room as he tapped into the sceptre's power and followed Malacos's instructions.

A crisis was going on right now, known simply as the Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses. For weeks on end, strange multi-coloured lights had been appearing in the sky and sucking up whatever was in their way. On plenty of occasions a Mobian or two had ended up being sucked up by a light in the sky and thrown onto another world in the process. The lights were known simply as time rifts and Sonic the Hedgehog along with Amy Nega, an alternate version of Amy Rose, his evil brother Scourge the Hedgehog and the Royal Fighter traitor Fiona Fox had found out who was causing the time rifts. The villain had identified himself as The Eraser, the God of Existence. He was responsible for existence entirely and he was not pleased with how the multi-verse currently looked so he wanted to erase everything and remake the multi-verse in an image most benefiting him. Malacos, the God of Time, had been preventing that from happening by fighting off The Eraser but much to the multi-verse's dismay, he had been weakening and was now in need of help. Malacos had lent his time sceptre over to Sonic so he could try and find his friends and reunite with them so they could all help him to stop The Eraser from wiping everything clean and starting over. Sonic could almost imagine what The Eraser's evil plan would look like. Imagine knocking a castle down and building a new one in its place only with countless lives at risk and entire universes being reshaped at the selfish expense of a god who's power he abused sickeningly. Sonic would not stand for it so he was all too happy to help Malacos stop this demonic being from succeeding in his evil scheme. He just hoped that he and the combined might of all his friends would be enough to stop The Eraser and save the multi-verse. As the portals opened up and made gateways for his friends to reunite with him, Sonic handed the time sceptre back to Malacos.

"Thanks Malacos." he said "Let's just hope that my friends all get through those portals safely."

"I hope so too." said Scourge "I quite fancy taking a shot at all of them once this crap is over."

"Shut up Scourge." muttered Sonic grimly, glaring at Scourge.

Scourge ignored him and he looked at Malacos.

"So dude, if we stop The Eraser for good, will he, you know, STAY gone?" he asked "I mean, gods don't just die that easily as we all know."

"Gods do not die easily at all my green friend." said Malacos with a nod "But they are not unable to die. If we're to stop The Eraser, we have to kill him. ONLY when he is dead will you all be safe. Killing is by far the last method I would ever resort to but in a dire case like this, it is compulsory to make an exception."

"I'll say." said Scourge agreeably "Nothing wrong with needing to kill if it's absolutely necessary."

"Especially since this lunatic Eraser guy wants to kill us all just so he can make a new multi-verse." said Fiona bitterly, her hands on her hips and her face a bitter scowl of disapproval "Honestly, I've never heard of anything more selfish in all my life! Why should we all die just because some stupid god doesn't like the way everything looks?"

"For once, I agree with you Fiona." said Sonic "I mean even you and Scourge aren't that bad. You only want to take over one world, our world. You don't want to remake EVERYTHING into you image!"

"Indeed." said Fiona "One's enough if you want my opinion. There is such a thing as having "too much of a good thing"."

"I dunno babe, it'd be cool to rule over the entire multi-verse…" purred Scourge, marvelling at the very thought with delight.

"Hey Malacos, can we just let The Eraser erase those two jerks?" hissed Amy Nega "We can do without them, we really can!"

"No. No life should have to be sacrificed to The Eraser." said Malacos firmly "Everybody is an innocent life in all of this and The Eraser will not be allowed to take anybody's life away."

"I agree." said Sonic, scowling at Amy Nega for suggesting something so evil "Besides, I want Scourge to do time for his crimes. He can't do it if he's dead can he?"

"Sorry!" snapped Amy Nega furiously "It was just a suggestion!"

"Oh yeah? Well how about I suggest that we let The Eraser erase YOU and see how you like it pinky!" snarled Scourge.

"Guys, let's not fight please!" muttered Sonic in annoyance "Let's save that for The Eraser if he dares to show up again. Speaking of which…will he come back even though you're here?" Sonic asked, looking at Malacos.

"He will." said Malacos gravely "But The Eraser likes to buy his time. Pick a moment to strike and catch me off guard. I however am keeping myself aware for him so he will not catch me off guard this time."

"OK then." said Sonic "I won't talk to you anymore so you can concentrate. Everybody, leave Malacos alone so he can keep an eye out for The Eraser." he said, addressing everybody at once.

"Fair enough." said Scourge "Don't want to get caught off-guard by him after all."

"And I for one don't want to see him again until the cavalry arrives." said Fiona "Although I'd rather we had something a bit better than your playschool group of snot-faces you call a "team"." she added bitterly.

"Well it's better than nothing!" snapped Sonic "And besides, me and my friends have done the most amazing things just to keep everybody, including you and Scourge safe from harm! What the hell have you ever done aside from turn traitor and run off with Scourge? Have you done anything amazing since then?"

"Shut up!" screamed Fiona, slapping Sonic across the face as hard as she could "I'd much rather die a happy vixen beside my Scourge then die a miserable waste of life with you and your stupid friends! Heroism is overrated, I've made that very clear by now!"

"That was uncalled for! You take that back!" yelled Amy Nega.

"No, no Amy, leave her be." said Sonic, rubbing his face better "If Fiona wants to be a delusion idiot then let her. At least we're the ones who come off better in the end."

"One more word out of you and I'll break your jaw!" snarled Fiona, her face a twisted maw of rage and fury. She was so cross that she was even shaking around the edges.

"Yeah Sonic, shut your face before me and Fiona flatten you into mush!" roared Scourge.

Sonic was about to retort until some movement in one of the portals caught his eye and he looked at it.

"Hold that thought guys, I think something's coming through one of the portals!" Sonic exclaimed excitedly "I think one of my friends might have found us!"

Scourge and Fiona weren't watching. They really didn't care about this at all, Sonic's friends were very much their enemy as Sonic was so they had no interest in welcoming them back. Amy Nega however was interested in seeing this since she had never met any of Sonic's friends besides Shadow. She wondered how much they differed to their Mobius Nega counterparts. Sonic watched one of the glorious, glowing white portals as two faint shapes were visible from within the portal. Somebody was coming through and Sonic had a faint idea on who these two would be. As they emerged from the portal and entered this empty world that's only feature was the platform with surrounding flames and the coloured background, Sonic could see who the first two to rejoin with him were. Tails the Fox and his girlfriend the adorable Cosmo the Seedrian emerged from the portal that Sonic was looking at. The portal closed behind them as they exited it To their dismay, they weren't on Mobius Prime as they hoped they would be. When the portal had opened up on Mobius Beta, they were hoping to be going home to Mobius Prime, especially after all the hell they had been through on Mobius Beta. Their faces fell in despair.

"Aww…this isn't Mobius Prime at all." moaned Tails "This is just some featureless limbo type area."

"Well we can easily agree that it's better than Mobius Beta." said Cosmo, clutching Tails's arm and shuddering over their experience in the dystopian alter-world "I do hope that it recovers from what it's been through."

"Maybe one day we could send Alter a message asking how he is." said Tails, hugging Cosmo "Although I don't think I'll ever forget the horrible death of my Mobius Beta counterpart no matter how well Mobius Beta recovers from the Devatron invasion."

Sonic decided to make his presence known.

"Tails! Cosmo! Boy am I glad to see you both!" he cried delightedly.

Tails and Cosmo's heads both turned to Sonic's direction and they gaped in surprise at him. Their faces curled into smiles of pleasure and they both threw themselves at the hedgehog as if trying to rugby tackle him onto the floor. Sonic hugged the two children with joy.

"Sonic! Oh my gosh it's really you!" cheered Tails, almost going crazy with excitement "I was worried we'd never see you again!"

"Where have you been Sonic? Have you been alright?" asked Cosmo.

"Me? Course." said Sonic smugly "And with a little help from a time god, I helped bring you here so you can thank me for you two coming here."

"How did you do that?" asked Tails eagerly, impressed to hear this coming from Sonic.

"I'll explain once all the others come back." said Sonic "So what happened to you two?"

"You don't want to know." said Cosmo grimly, looking like she was about to cry "It's too horrible."

"Say no more then." said Sonic respectfully "I won't make you talk about it if you don't want. I will say, you both look like you've been through a lot. Must not have been pleasant wherever it was you ended up."

"That's an understatement." mumbled Tails sadly "But never mind, we're back with you so we're much better now."

"That's what I like to hear." said Sonic, playfully giving Tails a noogie-noogie "So then, did anybody else end up on another Mobius with you or is it just you two coming out of that portal?"

"Beats me." said Cosmo "We have no idea if anyone else landed on the same world as us. It might have just been me and Tails."

"I see." said Sonic "Well, there's other portals open so hopefully somebody else will…"

Right on cue as Sonic was about to finish the sentence, two more people emerged from the portal next to the one Tails and Cosmo had come out of. Sonic heard the sound of approaching feet and he turned to face the portal, wondering who else was coming too. To his surprise, two people ran out of the portal but a third seemed to fly out after them and the third person was completely new to Sonic. Out of this portal emerged his recently-become-girlfriend Queen Sally Acorn and in her hands, she held the handheld computer that was now the new and permanent home of her lady-in-waiting Nicole the Lynx. The stranger with them was Shard the Metal Sonic, a resident of Mobius 3000 and a Metal Sonic who was more like Sonic than any robot that had ever been made, even the Metal Sonic of Mobius Prime. Shard had helped Sally stop the villain of Mobius 3000 General Rakutan but he and Sally were both too late to save Nicole from being transformed into a computer. Her mind was trapped inside the handheld device Sally had in her hands while her body was still on Mobius 3000, lifeless and empty like a crate with no loads in it. As Sally, Nicole and Shard emerged from the portal, the portal closing behind them as they exited it, Sally put Nicole in her vest pocket and looked around. This was not Mobius Prime. She had assumed much too early and had been too hopeful. They were somewhere else entirely. Shard sniffed at their surroundings.

"You call THIS Mobius Prime?" he snorted "Puh, it's pretty damn boring compared to Mobius 3000! Are you THIS is the absolute and definite Mobius Prime? It certainly needs a lot more to liven it up! What a dull-fest!"

"Shard please, this isn't Mobius Prime." said Sally, sounding almost tired "The portal hasn't brought us home at all. This is another zone entirely."

"I should hope it is." said Shard with a coarse expression on his metallic face "I'd be a bit worried if this is what Mobius Prime literally looks like."

"I'm telling you Shard, this IS NOT Mobius Prime!" snapped Sally impatiently "Would I seriously say that if it was?!"

"Hey Sally, chill and breathe for a minute." said Sonic hastily "I can tell you where this is if you want."

Sally's ears pricked up at the sound of her boyfriend's own voice. She had not been expecting to hear it here. Sally spun around on her heel and she stared in disbelief as she saw Sonic standing before her and looking pleased to see her. Given they were in love, it was perfectly normal for them to be pleased to see each other. Sally pounced on Sonic and grasped him in a hug that could crush ribcages if she wasn't careful. Tails and Cosmo watched, awed by the tender scene before them. Shard returned their sentiment. He thought this scene was pretty cute too despite being a robot. Scourge and Fiona just curled their faces in disgust. They really didn't think Sonic and Sally made a cute couple at all. Sonic and Sally kissed for a moment and then finally spoke.

"Oh Sonic, you're here!" gasped Sally "Thank goodness! How have you been and where are we now?"

"I've been fine gorgeous." said Sonic, his finger under Sally's chin and a loving smile on his face "I've just done a bit of zone hopping and met up with a god who's going to help us sort out this façade with the time rifts. I'll explain more when the others come back."

"I see." said Sally, her fingers trailing down Sonic's handsome face "Well I can't tell you enough how thrilled I am to see you're OK."

"Me, Tails and Cosmo are equally as thrilled." said Sonic "So what happened to you then? And did Nicole end up on another Mobius with you? Where is she?"

"We ended up on a hi-tech version of Mobius called "Mobius 3000"." explained Sally, reaching into her vest and fishing out Nicole "And… this is what happened to Nicole while we were there."

She sadly showed the handheld device to Sonic and she opened up the screen. Sonic was puzzled but he soon understood what Sally meant as a hologram of Nicole emitted from the screen and stood before Sonic.

"Hello Sonic. I hope you are well." said Nicole politely.

"Nicole! You're a computer now?!" gasped Sonic "How the heck did that happen?!"

"I was kidnapped by the villain of Mobius 3000 and he wanted to turn me into a computer." explained Nicole "Much to my dismay…he succeeded. I'm now just a computer programme in a little handheld device. My body is nothing but an empty shell waiting to decompose while my consciousness and my soul reside in this meagre computer device. Thankfully I'm still myself and retain my emotions, heart and personality but…it's going to be hard to get used to. Already I want my body back…"

"Oh Nicole…that's terrible!" cried Sonic sympathetically "I'm so sorry to hear this! I wish I'd have been there with you two and I could have saved you before this happened to you Nicole!"

"Please don't be upset Sonic, it was not your fault." said Nicole sweetly "There was nothing you could have done. You were elsewhere. Just be glad that I'm a computer with my personality intact, it'd be worse if I had no emotions or personality at all."

"I'll say." said Sonic.

He glanced over at Shard and the robot hedgehog waved at him cheekily.

"Yo." he cooed.

"So who's the tin man over there?" asked Sonic "Some kind of Metal Sonic that I haven't smashed before?"

"Oh this is the hero of Mobius 3000." explained Sally "This is Shard. He's very much based on you and he wanted to save Mobius 3000 from the evil that turned Nicole into a computer. He's been dying to meet you."

"You bet I have toots." said Shard, strolling past Sally and walking up to Sonic "So you're the famous Sonic the Hedgehog eh? You're the Prime Zone Sonic right?"

"I am." said Sonic brightly "Well, it's nice to meet a friendly Metal Sonic for once. The ones on my world are evil and devoid of personality and character!"

"Well consider yourself honoured to meet me then true blue." said Shard snarkily, shaking Sonic's hand "And it's an honour to meet the person who's character I was modelled after. In a way, I was inspired by you so you can imagine meeting you face to face is pretty much making my circuits hum with ecstasy!"

Sonic chuckled, happy to hear that Shard was so ecstatic about all of this. Sonic wondered how well Shard would fare up against The Eraser considering that he was a Metal Sonic. He'd certainly boost up their ranks quite considerably in the coming battle. Sonic's attention was diverted from Shard and onto another portal as he spotted some movement coming from inside it. He just had enough time to register some movement before a whopping five Mobians emerged from within the portal. The portal closed as they exited it and the six Mobians that had leaped out of it observed their surroundings. To Sonic's delight, two of them were Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat, future dwellers who were determined to change the fate of their timeline. The other four were Mobians he was unfamiliar with. More natives perhaps? They were Rad the Raccoon, his sister Marine the Raccoon, his girlfriend Crystal the Polar Bear and their friend Gadget the Parrot. Together, they all formed Team Radical and they came from the world of Solbius. Silver and Blaze had ended up on Solbius and had helped the team stop the evil Captain Metal from commencing with his evil plans. They had wanted to come with Silver and Blaze and help stop the time rifts. They didn't seem too impressed with what they were looking at. Rad's face fell into a frown.

"Is this where you two live?" he asked "I thought you came from somewhere more…lively and interesting than this."

"This isn't Mobius Prime." said Silver "We're in another zone entirely. Wonder if this is where the time rifts came from?"

"Or the person who's causing the time rifts maybe resides here." suggested Blaze "Whatever this place is, it's not Mobius Prime."

"Whatever this place is, it's truly magnificent to think that we've transferred from one reality to another." said Gadget, marvelling at what he was seeing "I think I'm going to go nuts with excitement over this! I can hardly believe this is happening!"

"Well you'd better believe it Gadget because it's happening alright." said Crystal "Although couldn't we have ended up somewhere more interesting?"

"Oy! Mateys, we've got some people here!" cried Marine, pointing at Sonic, Sally, Tails, Cosmo and Shard "Maybe they can tell us where this is!"

Silver and Blaze looked where Marine was pointing and their faces lit up like sunbeams at the sight of Sonic and a few others. Noticing Shard, they guessed they weren't the only ones who were bringing natives from other Mobiuses with them.

"Hey Sonic! You're here too!" cried Silver excitedly "Did you open up that portal that me and Blaze came through?"

"I did although I had some help with that." said Sonic, motioning over to the watching and waiting Malacos, all senses alert for even the faintest sign of danger.

"I see and who's that then?" asked Blaze "A new ally of some sort?"

"He's the God of Time and he's trying to stop the time rifts." explained Sonic "I'll explain more when the rest find us. Those portals are doing a good job of bringing you all back it seems."

"I'll say." said Silver "You've already got Tails, Cosmo and Sally back. Wonder if the rest will find us at all?"

"I'm sure they will." said Sonic "So, who are your new friends then?" he added, looking at Team Radical "Natives from another Mobius?"

"We are indeed sir." said Rad "We come from the world of Solbius and Silver and Blaze ended up on our world thanks to a time rift. They helped us stop our greatest enemy, Captain Metal." he added, smiling at the two for helping them defeat the insidious robot pirate.

"Cool." said Sonic "Always nice to hear that my friends are saving worlds without me. So what are your names?"

"I'm Rad, this is Marine, this is Crystal and this is Gadget." said Rad "Together, we make Team Radical. We're "radically awesome" as I like to say."

"You look like a cool team." said Sonic with a wink "I can easily see how you're heroes of your own zone."

Rad smiled modestly. As for Marine, she seemed excited to about all this so she bounced forward and started jabbering away like an ecstatic kid who's pleased with her new toy and is proud to show it off everywhere.

"Oy mate! Yer name's Sonic right? I'm Marine, it's nice to meet ya. Why do they call you Sonic? Are you really fast? Do you run at sonic speeds? What do you do? Are you a hero too? You the hero of Mobius Prime? What moves can ya do? Come on, show us yer moves! Show us something! Why are you blue? Is blue your favourite colour? Who's the squirrel woman? Is she yer girlfriend? You and her gonna marry and have mutant hedge-squirrel babies at all? Who's the twin-tailed fox? Why does he have two tails? Who's the plant girl? Is she HIS girlfriend? Are they gonna marry and have mutant fox-plant babies at all? Eww, that must be a ghastly thought! Who's the green version of you over there? Is he your evil twin or something? Is the red vixen his girlfriend? They look right mine they do. Want me to knock a few dinghies off of them? Who's the robot dude? Is he a robot version of you? Are you friends with Silver and Blaze? You shoulda seen them when they beat up the robot pirates and crushed Captain Metal! Oh that was ripper! Strewth, Blaze sure showed Metal a thing or two! She fried him up like a kebab! Strewth, you shoulda seen that! Hey, what's Mobius Prime like? Is it full of water like Solbius? Who's the weirdo in the black cape and carrying a clock thingy? Is he a villain? I'll make a didgeridoo outta him! Look atta size of 'im! His height must be over 9000 or summet! Say, do you have anymore friends at all? We have lots ourselves…"

Sonic began to sweat-drop nervously.

"Uh…heh, heh…why won't she shut up?" he chuckled as if the weight of Marine's overly verbose nature was beginning to press down on him.

"Please forgive her." said Rad, half embarrassed at Marine's excitable babbling "She does get carried away a lot. I'm so sorry about this."

"You'd better be because she's getting on my *^&*ing nerves!" whined Scourge, his fingers in his ears "Shut the brat up already!"

"Permission to throw fire at him?" asked Blaze rather coldly, her hands already alit with flames.

"Denied." said Sonic "Just ignore him."

Blaze looked unhappy but she didn't say anything more and she extinguished her flames. Crystal frowned at Scourge.

"Who's the jerk in the leather jacket? And one would think he'd know better then to swear in front of a kid." she muttered, glancing at Marine who looked a little hurt at Scourge yelling at her like that.

"He's just my evil brother." sighed Sonic "But he's on our side for the moment so you can beat him up once the truce is over."

"I'd be happy too." said Crystal, cracking her knuckles.

"I'd like to see her in action." Tails whispered to Cosmo "She looks like she can pack a punch."

"I bet Team Radical as a whole pack quite a punch." Cosmo whispered back.

Tails nodded. Silver and Blaze had certainly brought back with them a promising team. Maybe they could help in stopping the time rifts. Their attention was soon diverted onto other things for something came whizzing out of a portal at a terrific speed. It was Shadow the Hedgehog and Rouge the Bat on the hover bike they had stolen to get away from the warden on the Inter-dimensional Lockdown Zone. The portal had appeared in front of them while they were getting away so they couldn't stop themselves in time to avoid it and drove straight into it. Following them were Drs. Eggman and Finitevus. They had been close behind Shadow and Rouge and they followed them through the portal. The hover bike circled around the platform as Rouge violently jerked the bike to the side. Malacos looked surprised as the hover-bike whooshed past him. Rouge spun the bike around and she killed the engine. The bike descended slowly down to the platform and Shadow and Rouge hopped off of it. Dr. Eggman had an easier time stopping. He just descended to the platform and touched down, Finitevus hopping off of his back and dusting himself off.

"What a wild ride that was…" he murmured "Wonder where we've ended up?"

"Wherever we've ended up, it's not Mobius Prime." said Eggman, the head of his life support mech rotating all around and taking in their surroundings. "Although some of our Prime-Zone friends are here and there appear to be other zone Mobians here too." he added, looking at Sonic, Sally, Tails, Cosmo, Blaze, Silver, Shard and Team Radical.

Finitevus looked at all the Mobians that were in this zone with him and Eggman.

"Well, well, well." purred Finitevus "Looks like some of you already managed to get back together. Did you end up in a white portal too?"

"Well I didn't, I was the one who made them." said Sonic "When everybody else gets here, I'll tell you all about it."

"Fascinating." said Eggman, his optics eyeing Malacos and taking an immediate interest in him.

As for Shadow and Rouge, they walked up to Sonic and Sonic greeted them happily.

"So what happened to you two then?" asked Sonic "You decided to go bike racing or something?"

"Not quite." said Shadow "We ended up in a zone that's dedicated to keeping law and order throughout the multi-verse. We had to escape from the cops since Mobius Prime is ending and we needed to get back so we can save it. I take it this is not home though."

"It isn't." said Sonic "But we will save Mobius Prime while we're here, you'll see in a moment."

"That's good." said Rouge "And it's also good to see more of the band coming together. Wonder how much more there is left to come."

Before Sonic could answer, three more Mobians emerged from one of the only remaining portals open. Those three were Wilson the Dog, his wife Mandy Mouse and the honourable Ruben the Water Panther. They charged out of the portal as if running away from danger and they panted and gasped for breath, the portal closing as they left it.

"Whew…what a lucky escape." gasped Mandy "I'll tell you something, I'll…gasp…never look at pandas the same way ever again."

"Me too." said Wilson.

"I'll never understand why pandas have a cute and friendly image considering how savage they are!" panted Ruben "Feist is easily the worst of them all though…"

"Hey guys, what's up?" asked Sonic "You look like you just escaped an apocalypse!"

"Blue dude!" squealed Mandy happily, squeezing Sonic in a spine-crushing hug that was much stronger then what one would think Mandy could do "Oh it's so good to see you're OK! Where did you end up? Right here I guess." she mused as she looked at what was all around her.

"Well I was on two zones before this one really." said Sonic "But I ended up here and with help from Malacos, I've opened up portals to bring you all back to me."

"Very good." said Wilson "And I guess the dude in black is Malacos?" he added, pointing at the time god who was still making sure The Eraser wasn't lurking around.

"He is." said Sonic "He'll be helping us stop the time rifts."

"Oh how fortuitous!" cried Ruben happily "Looks like we've got hope for Mobius after all!"

"More than just Mobius Ruben, all the Mobiuses of the multi-verse since apparently if Mobius Prime goes kaput, the rest of the multi-verse will follow." said Sonic.

"Oh my gosh!" gasped Mandy in horror "That's terrible! I guess this is even bigger than we possibly could imagine!"

"This is our biggest case yet you could say." said Wilson gravely "Never have we ever had to save so many worlds before. Will this make us "heroes of the multi-verse" if we stop the time rifts?"

"I guess." said Sonic casually "Although I think "Heroes of Mobius" has a nicer ring to it. So what happened to you three?"

"We ended up in a place called the Special Zone." explained Ruben "It's ruled by a giant panda named Feist and he wanted us to be his play things. We managed to escape after you apparently opened up that portal luckily. Believe me, you do NOT want to meet Feist Sonic."

"I bet I don't." said Sonic with a scowl "Nobody turns my friends into play toys for their amusement…"

He was cut off by another bunch of Mobians coming out of a portal. There were only two portals left and out of one of them emerged Knuckles the Echidna, Shade the Echidna, Amy Rose, Cream the Rabbit and Sora Prower. The five of them left the portal together and it sealed shut behind them, vanishing into thin air. The five looked all around and their faces fell with dismay.

"Aww! This isn't home!" whined Amy "That portal tricked us!"

"Or were we fools to think the portal would take us back to Mobius Prime?" mused Sora.

"Maybe so." said Cream "But our friends are here it seems. Look!"

The girls looked ahead and surely enough, they saw a bunch of familiar faces as well as some new ones on the platform all around. Amy's first reaction was to pounce on Sonic and grasp him tightly with delight. Sora immediately sprang into Tails's arms and hugged her brother happily. Knuckles and Shade walked up to Sonic while Cream walked up to Cosmo.

"Good to see you're OK." said Knuckles, knuckle-punching Sonic while the hedgehog tried his hardest to pry Amy off of himself "Did you end up here thanks to a white portal too?"

"Nah, I made them." said Sonic "It's a long story, I'll explain once Bunnie, Geoffrey, Team Chaotix, Dark and Kiara find us. So how did it go for you five then?"

"Horrible." spat Shade savagely "We were kidnapped and forced against our will to take part in a fighting tournament. We ended up on a world called "Brawlbius" and that world loves nothing more than a good fight."

"Sounds like Marik's dream world." scoffed Sonic "Well you don't look hurt or anything. I guess it went well for you all."

"It certainly did." said Cream "We won our opponents very easily. All I had to do was kick my opponent in the weak spot and he was down on his side." she added with an oddly prideful look on her face as if she was proud of herself for doing so."

"I see." said Sonic.

Over to Sora, she and Tails could hardly let go of each other for a minute.

"Oh my little brother, thank goodness you're OK!" exclaimed Sora "I was so worried about you!"

"I was worried too big sister." said Tails "Thank goodness you're safe too."

"My thoughts exactly." said Ruben "Hey Sora, you're gonna be very happy to hear this."

"Hear what cute stuff?" asked Sora, letting go of Tails and embracing Ruben, the water panther blushing as she bugged him.

"Heh, heh…um…I finally managed to climb up something and succeed." explained Ruben "I had to do a challenge where I had to climb a pillar and I did it. I was thinking about your lessons the whole time too."

"Oh Ruben that's amazing!" squealed Sora joyfully "Well done you amazing little water panther! I knew you could do it!"

"Aww…thanks beautiful." said Ruben, blushing so furiously he thought he was going to burst.

Sora just giggled at him. Ruben was cute when he blushed she thought and yet she wasn't sure why she thought that about him. As for Amy, she had spotted Amy Nega and was predictably as could be, asking questions about her.

"Who's SHE?!" blustered Amy "She looks like a black-clad version of me!"

"Oh I'm an alternate you." said Amy Nega "I'm from Mobius Nega. I'm sure Sonic's told you about it before."

"He mentioned meeting another me while he was on Mobius Nega I believe." said Amy thoughtfully "Well it's nice to meet you other me. I think we'll get on just fine I do." she added with a wink.

"I agree on that "sister"." chuckled Amy Nega, winking back at her.

"Heh, and I thought one Amy was going to be a handful." chuckled Sonic "I doubt we'll ever have two Amy Roses together again after this."

Amy and Amy Nega just giggled at Sonic, humoured by his statement. It would be unlikely to have two Amys together again once the crisis was over although there was always a change Amy could visit Mobius Nega and see Amy Nega again. As for the last white portal that was yawning open and glowing brightly, some Mobians began to emerge from within the portal. They were Bunnie Rabbot, Geoffrey St. John, Espio the Chameleon, Vector the Crocodile, Charmy Bee, Dark Cat the Leo Lynx and Kiara the Cheetah, fresh from the world of Victorbius, a Victorian themed Mobius. Vector was dragging the unconscious body of Ravage Bloodfang with him, his presence earning disgusted glares from Sonic, Tails, Cosmo, Ruben, Wilson and Mandy as they saw him. They had all met him before* and had hoped never to meet him again. The funny thing was as the Mobians all passed through the portal, their Victorian clothes had mystically changed back into their normal attire. Not that they minded of course since they preferred their normal attire anyway. They all had a look around.

"Oh mah stars!" cried Bunnie "This ain't Mobius Prime but all the others are right here before us!"

"Guess we weren't the only ones to get a portal out of the world we landed on." said Geoffrey "Wonder how everybody got on."

"Hey Sonic! So good to see the team back together again!" cried Vector excitedly "So what happened? Why has everybody been brought here?"

"I'll explain shortly." said Sonic "All I can say is it's good to see you all alive and well. So where did you end up and did Ravage do you much harm?"

"He tried to but we got the best of him." said Espio with a frown at Ravage.

"I even stung him on his butt!" laughed Charmy "Hurt him real bad I did! Hee, hee, hee!"

"I see." said Sonic "As for you two, it's so good to see you're alright." said Sonic, hugging Dark and Kiara both at once "I'd been hoping to get you both back after I heard from Roxy that you'd disappeared through a time rift but sadly, things got a little hard and we weren't sure where to look."

"Don't sweat it dude." said Kiara sweetly "I'm just glad we're out of that horrible Victorian-esque world at last! And hopefully soon, we can get back home! I bet Thomas Tiger's killing himself with worry over us!"

"I'm willing to bet he's a victim of a time rift too." said Dark grimly "Though we can't be too sure of that."

As for Ravage, he finally came to and the moment he woke up, Bunnie grabbed his head and held him firmly in place.

"Good to see ya'll are awake scum." snarled Bunnie "Now then, before ya'll try and eat us, just sit tight and listen for sugah-hog's probably got something important to say."

Ravage decided it would be best to do as he was told, especially since there were so many people around and trying to attack would not be a good idea since he'd be floored instantly. Also he was wondering about the time rifts since the day he'd been sucked up by one so he may as well see what they were all about. Now that everybody was back together and the team was complete, Sonic requested them all to form a line together and he stood before them like a conductor for a band. Even Eggman, Finitevus, Scourge and Fiona stood before him and waited to see what was going to happen. Malacos stood beside Sonic as if he was going to give a speech of some kind. Sonic cleared his throat and he spoke to all his friends.

"OK everybody, we're all back together after being separated by the time rifts." he explained "And now to explain how it happened. First of all, it's good to see everybody's alive and well, yes even the villains. I'm sad to say though that Nicole will not be the same anymore for she has been turned into a computer apparently."

Sally held up Nicole for everybody to see and the hologram that represented her seemed to look down at her see through feet as if to further enhance the fact it was sad news. Everybody gasped in surprise at Nicole's current state expect for Scourge and Fiona who only smirked at Nicole without her realizing, Eggman who just chortled mockingly at her and Finitevus who had a hand to his chin in thought. He was clearly fascinated by this turn of events and maybe he could use those to his advantage. Being Nicole was a computer now, she could be corrupted easily and forced to work for him. He'd have to see what he could do about that once the crisis was over.

"I know, it's horrible isn't it?" said Nicole miserably "But you needn't worry about me, I'm still with you all at least."

"Indeed." said Sonic "Now then, the more important stuff. Me, Amy Nega, Scourge and Fiona ended up on another world and some guy called "The Eraser" brought us here so he could get a time sceptre and use it against Malacos." he motioned to the black guardian standing beside him "But Malacos fended him off for the time being and he let me use his time sceptre to find you all and bring you all here. You see, Malacos is trying to defend the multi-verse from destruction and he kinda needs our help since his fight with The Eraser has weakened him. The Eraser wants to wipe out the multi-verse and rebuild everything into his own image and if we don't stop him…we're all dead. Do you all understand?"

The crowd nodded, horrified to hear that the cause of the time rifts was some god who wanted to erase everything. They couldn't possibly have guessed that was the cause of the time rifts but in the end, it all made sense for only a god could have that kind of power. It sickened all the Mobians to think that one person could be so selfish and horrible as to want to erase everything in existence just so they could start all over and make it their way and not let the multi-verse exist the way it does now.

"Whoa…" said Dr. Eggman, his suit jerking back in alarm "I might be an evil scientist with an IQ of 300 but even I'M not that evil! Wanting to erase the entire multi-verse just because they don't like the way it looks?! That's beyond my standards that's for sure!"

"This is disgusting!" declared Tails angrily "No way are we going to let that "Eraser" guy get rid of us all! We will "erase" HIM instead!"

"My thoughts exactly Tails." said Sonic with a smile on his face.

"Wait Sonic, if The Eraser wants to erase us all…why hasn't he done so already?" asked Sally curiously.

"Oh he's tried but Malacos here is defending us from his power." explained Sonic "As he puts it, he's formed barriers around the multi-verse to prevent us from being erased. But unfortunately, he's been getting weaker as time goes by and now his time rifts are slipping through the cracks in a way. If Malacos gets any weaker… then The Eraser will win."

"We won't allow that to happen!" declared Silver "Especially since me and Blaze still haven't found out what's doomed our future! We will stop this menace once and for all!"

"But Silver, he's a god. How can we stop The Eraser?" asked Blaze concernedly.

"Relax toots, The Eraser isn't such a big shot." crowed Scourge "We had him on the ropes for most of the fight me, Sonic, Fiona and Amy Nega had against him. With all of us together, he'll be creamed in a millisecond."

"That is not the case I'm afraid." said Malacos, a heavy weight to his voice as he spoke solemnly "The Eraser was merely holding back. His power is much greater then what he led you to believe my spiky, green mortal. The Eraser relishes in toying with mortals for his own amusement. He also does not believe that mortals like you are much of a threat so he purposefully uses less of his power to further mock you all."

"Well that's bloody nice of him…" muttered Scourge "Making us look like fools and tricking us into thinking that he's not that powerful…

"It's not like we needed The Eraser to make you look like a fool." snickered Sonic.

Scourge shot a death glare at Sonic but he said nothing more. He had no time to break Sonic's teeth right now, there was a time and a place for that. Malacos continued.

"At full power, only I can possibly match The Eraser." explained Malacos "And even then, I am getting weaker and The Eraser only grows stronger. Being the God of Existence is a big advantage of his. Every new being that comes into existence on every world of every universe in the multi-verse means that he has a countless supply of existences to feed off of. The same goes with time in my case but existence is stronger than time since time requires existence to even exist. That is why he grows stronger and I grow weaker."

"That's too bad." said Bunnie sympathetically "Ah'm sorry to hear that sir."

"Your sympathy is much appreciated my child." said Malacos, his voice warm and soft as he spoke.

"Hey Malacos, forgive me for asking what might be a stupid question but if we defeat The Eraser…won't that do more harm than good?" asked Tails cautiously as a rather legitimate point suddenly popped into his brainy head "He IS the God of Existence right? So don't we kinda need him to exist? If we get rid of him, we'll all disappear won't we?"

"I will be promoted as the new God of Existence if he is defeated." explained Malacos "The rules of the gods state that "If the God of Existence is defeated by any god under any method of any kind, even assistance from mortals, then the title is to be passed onto the next god in line. I am the next in line after The Eraser so I will become the new God of Existence."

"And you'll let us live right?" asked Cosmo nervously "You won't erase us from existence?"

"Life is everything to me. It makes my life worth living. Of course I'll let you live. I couldn't possibly erase this multi-verse, it's perfect in my eyes." said Malacos. It was hard for somebody as intimidating as Malacos to look friendly but as he smiled kindly at the Mobians, they could swear that he looked like a different kind of person for a brief second.

"Well I'm glad to hear that." said Sonic brightly "I'll be happy to live on Mobius knowing that you'll spare us and allow us to live."

"So Malacos, sir, how DO we defeat The Eraser?" the holographic image of Nicole spoke this time "If you're getting weaker fighting him, what hope do we have against him?"

Malacos was pleased that Nicole had asked him that question for he had a satisfying answer to that.

"The Eraser can be stopped." explained Malacos "But it'll take a lot of power. It is specified that The Eraser cannot match the power of more than one god. The Eraser knows this and thus, he erased all the other gods one by one before they could dare challenge him. My time power renders me immune to his power but I myself am not enough to stop The Eraser. We need more power."

"Wait a minute…would the Chaos Emeralds work?" asked Sonic.

"The Chaos Emeralds…they're mystical gems that give you great power are they not?" asked Malacos.

"They are." said Sonic "We have eight Chaos Emeralds and me, Shadow, Silver, Knuckles and Scourge can use them to turn super. Blaze has her own kind of emeralds known as "Sol Emeralds" and can turn super with them. They make us quite powerful. Me, Shadow and Scourge together took down Perfect Chaos, who was the God of Destruction. And then me, Shadow, Silver and Blaze in our super forms took down Tyrahko, a guy who was bonded in god-like armour so we must have the power to stop The Eraser if with Chaos Emeralds, we've beaten gods before."

"The Eraser is more powerful than those gods…but I'm sure your emeralds will give you the necessary power to stop The Eraser."

explained Malacos "And maybe I can amplify their power slightly. Be warned though, it'll drain some power out of me and render the multi-verse more vulnerable to being erased. If you fight him hard enough, The Eraser will be distracted too much to try and erase anything with any luck."

"It's risky but we have nothing else that we can try." said Sonic "We need to give it a shot. Can you open a portal to Mobius Prime's present and future so we can get our emeralds?"

"I shall try." said Malacos "Let us hope that your Chaos Emeralds and Sol Emeralds will put an end to this nightmare…"

He lifted up his time sceptre and he was about to wave it around until a terrifying voice echoed all around the platform. The Mobians all leaped back in alarm and looked around as the voice boomed in their ears and made the platform beneath their feet shake.

"You are fools to think that you can defeat me!" the deep gravely voice of The Eraser thundered all around as if he was everywhere at once "Your power will never exceed my own! And don't even try to power yourselves up for I will just erase you all before you get the chance!"

"Eraser!" barked Malacos, pointing his time sceptre in the air at the north-east direction as if he knew exactly where he was despite the fact The Eraser was nowhere to be seen "Show yourself you coward! Do not hide from me unless you fear losing to me once and for all!"

"Such a short-sighted, flaccid-minded weakling…" taunted The Eraser "I grow stronger whereas you grow weaker. Why would I need to fear you?"

"Uh, I activated the time sceptre's power and told Malacos where it was." noted Sonic "And when that happened, you ran away with your tail between your legs. I think you DO fear him."

"My fear of Malacos is non-existent!" crowed The Eraser "I have never feared Malacos. I've always know that I can defeat him! My cowardice is nothing more than a pretence to lure him into a false sense of hope that he might eventually defeat me! Well now is the time my pretence is dropped and I show Malacos what real power is!"

"Whether you fear me or not Eraser, you will never win." proclaimed Malacos "Especially since I now have help from a great range of mortals who are willing to brave the dangers you present to maintain their existence. And as long as I live, you cannot touch them!"

"Then allow me to erase you once and for all!" sneered The Eraser.

Malacos had been wrong on where he was. The Eraser had been directly behind him the whole time. He was just throwing his voice just to trick him so he could creep up behind him and launch an assault. The Eraser materialized behind Malacos and he clawed the time god across the back. Malacos let out an enormous roar of pain as The Eraser's icy hands clawed him across the back. Malacos spun around and walloped The Eraser in the head with his time sceptre. The blow sent the shrouding hood that sat on The Eraser's shoulders jerking violently to the right but the blow didn't seem to effect him all that much. The Eraser merely twisted his head back around as if the blow hadn't even happened. He thrust his hands forward, palms out and fingers curled. The hands slammed into Malacos's gut and made him gasp out as the wind was knocked out of him. Malacos hurled across the platform but he remained standing and he thrust the time sceptre forward. Time around The Eraser seemed to slow down but due to Malacos's weakened state, the curse wouldn't stay on him forever. Malacos ran towards The Eraser and he walloped him on the back of his head with his sceptre, the hands on the clock's faces spinning crazily as the sceptre knocked against The Eraser's shrouded head. The Eraser hurled forwards and landed smack on the pavement. The Eraser picked himself up and he held out his hands.

"Given I am the God of Existence, I can conjure things from thin air as I please!" he crowed "You know this already Malacos but your mortal friends might be interested in seeing what I am fully capable of!"

Before The Eraser could do anything, Malacos slowed time down around him again and he uppercut the evil god in the face with his sceptre. The Eraser hurled clean off the platform and plummeted straight down, not like that would keep him down for long. Malacos smirked to himself.

"We've been doing this for a centaury and he still hasn't learnt never to boast in the middle of a battle." he gloated "Now before he comes back…"

He pointed the time sceptre forward and opened up a white portal just in front of Sonic. He opened up another portal beside the first one.

"The portal on the left will take you to Mobius Prime, exactly where the Chaos Emeralds are kept." explained Malacos "And the portal on the right will take you to Mobius Prime's future, where the Sol Emeralds are kept. Being the god of time, I know where everything is."

"Cool." said Sonic "Keep those portals open Malacos, I'll be right back."

"I'll get my emeralds while Sonic gets his." said Blaze "Hold on for us please, we won't be long."

"I'll try as much as I can." said Malacos, turning around as if expecting The Eraser to suddenly appear again.

Sonic and Blaze both jumped into the white portals, the portals themselves staying open as they passed through them for Malacos was keeping the portals open so they could come straight back. Unfortunately, The Eraser reappeared and he had conjured up some flaming meteors to throw at Malacos. The Eraser threw the meteors at the time god, Malacos much too slow to react as the meteors struck him. He collapsed onto the ground as he was bombarded by the powerful blasts and he dropped the time sceptre. The portals closed up, sealing Sonic and Blaze off in their respective places. The Mobians gasped in horror at this. If Sonic and Blaze couldn't come back through the portals with the emeralds, how would they be able to use them to defeat The Eraser? They could always turn super and Chaos Control to the zone but would a Chaos Control work? Is this zone accessible by Chaos Control or can it only be entered by time rifts and white portals? They'd have to ask those questions later though for The Erase levitated before the Mobians, his icy hands stretched out ready to conjure up something else and bombard Malacos with it.

"You're only delaying the inevitable." crowed The Eraser "I will triumph in this match and then once Malacos is defeated, you will all be erased like you all should be! You disgusting parasites stain the multi-verse and I plan to give it a much needed makeover!"

"Our lives are for us to live and for us to decide if we should live or disappear!" yelled Sally, activating her wrist blades and getting ready to attack "And I say we all deserve to live! Everybody, ATTACK!"

The Mobians all charged towards The Eraser, ready to give the insidious god all their might. They would take him down or die trying. No way were they going to give The Eraser the satisfaction of seeing them standby helplessly. The Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses was going to conclude and they would emerge victorious no matter the cost…

Footnotes:

They met in a DeviantArt exclusive chapter known as "The Sword of Elemental Power". It's on my DA account for your reading pleasure.

OMG! This is it people! The final battle for the fate of the multi-verse begins next time! Don't miss the milestone phenomenon that will be Episode 175 next time!

Prepare for Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses comes to an amazing conclusion...

Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses The Finale

Goodness gracious me! I'm on my SEVENTH milestone chapter?! WOW AM I AMAZING! :D I once agian thank you all for be so supportive and wonderful to me for I would never have had the strength to carry this story on if you lot weren't being such wonderful readers. ^^ Thank you so much. Now on with the show...

Story 175 : Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses: The Finale

The multi-verse was in a crisis.

A terrifying god known only as The Eraser had decided he had had enough of the way the multi-verse currently looks and wanted nothing more than to try and erase everything and remake the multi-verse in an image he could enjoy. Over time he had been opening up time rifts all over the multi-verse, some universes receiving them more frequently than others such as Mobius Prime, the most important Mobius of all. The Eraser had been prevented from carrying on with his evil goal by the God of Time, Malacos but even he was no match for The Eraser. Over time he had been growing weaker and weaker thanks to The Eraser being stronger due him being a more important god than Malacos. Malacos still had the strength within him to protect the multi-verse from being erased completely but The Eraser's time rifts still managed to get out and suck up whatever they possibly could and over time they had been growing more and more frequent. If Malacos fell then the multi-verse would be no more. Malacos luckily had some allies who were willing to brave the enormous danger just to stop this insidious god from wiping them out of existence. These allies were Sonic the Hedgehog and his brave team of Royal Fighters Queen Sally Acorn, Tails the Fox, Knuckles the Echidna, Cosmo the Seedrian, Amy Rose, Cream the Rabbit, Wilson the Dog, Mandy Mouse, Shade the Echidna, Bunnie Rabbot, Geoffrey St. John, Ruben the Water Panther, Sora Prower, Vector the Crocodile, Espio the Chameleon, Charmy Bee and Nicole the Lynx (who can't really fight now since she's just a computer) and with them were Royal Fighters from another team Dark Cat the Leo-Lynx and Kiara the Cheetah. And more still, they had Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat, Mobians from the future, helping them. Shadow the Hedgehog and Rouge the Bat, part time Royal Fighters, were also helping and so were villains such as Drs. Eggman and Finitevus and Scourge the Hedgehog, Fiona Fox and even Ravage Bloodfang. And to top it off, some Mobians from other Mobiuses were helping too. Amy Nega from Mobius Nega, Shard the Metal Sonic from Mobius 3000 and Rad the Raccoon, Crystal the Polar Bear, Gadget the Parrot and Marine the Raccoon from Solbius. It was quite the impressive army and hopefully their combined might would be enough to stop The Eraser. Sonic and Blaze had been transported back to their respective worlds so they could get the Chaos Emeralds and Sol Emeralds to power up and have the strength to stop The Eraser. But The Eraser had stricken Malacos and caused him to close the portals that would allow Sonic and Blaze to come back to this strange realm they were all occupying so it would take them a while to come back with the emeralds. The Eraser foolishly thought that they wouldn't be able to come back without the portals, a mistake that would cost him dearly in this battle. For now though, the Royal Fighters, villains and other dimension Mobians all charged at The Eraser, ready to lay the smack down on him. Sally Acorn deployed her wrist mounted arm blades and took a battle ready stance.

"Our lives are for us to live and for us to decide if we should live or disappear!" she yelled at The Eraser, her eyes full of fury and her blades poised for an attack "And I say we all deserve to live! Everybody, ATTACK!"

With a chorus of battle cries from every Mobian around, the crowd all charged towards The Eraser like an angry mob storming a building. The Eraser cackled a demonic cackle of sadistic glee as he thrust his hands out and blew the crowd off their feet with a gust of wind that seemed to have just come out of nowhere. Given he was the God of Existence, The Eraser would have that kind of power in him so it wasn't unusual. It would of course make it harder for the heroes and villains to defeat The Eraser unfortunately but they were determined not to let the insidious demon win. Their lives literally depended on defeating him. Sally picked herself up first and she ran towards The Eraser. The Eraser lowered himself down onto the platform and he thrust his hand forward at Sally, his hand clenched into a fist that would likely throw a powerful punch. Sally bent over backwards to avoid the punch and she swung her right blade at his wrist, severing his hand from his arm completely. The hand dropped onto the platform with a clunk, forlorn and lifeless as was taken off The Eraser's body. The Eraser screamed in pain and he clutched his empty wrist in agony. Despite being a god, he wasn't immune to pain. But The Eraser didn't have to worry about losing any body part of any kind for his existential powers just allowed him to conjure up a new part to replace the one he lost. Out of his wrist, a new hand formed and he flexed it to try it out and see if it worked. He cackled dementedly at Sally, the squirrel staring at him incredulously as she watched him grow a new hand.

"Foolish woman! I can never be destroyed so easily!" crowed The Eraser "I am the God of Existence! I can regenerate at will! Only when my entire body is destroyed will you be able to kill me and if Malacos can't even do that, you have no hope of defeating me!"

"I cut your hand off didn't I?" sneered Sally "Maybe if we all attack you at once and tear you apart piece by piece, we'll finish you off."

It was a risky gambit and it likely wouldn't work but Sally was determined to defeat The Eraser. She had too much to live for, including her love for Sonic to be erased right now. Sally jumped at The Eraser and she swiped her blades at him. She slashed him across the chest and made The Eraser stagger backwards in pain. She then plunged her blades into his stomach and brought them slashing upwards, tearing great gashes through The Eraser's cloaked body. The Eraser wailed in pain as Sally cleaved through him but it would take more than that to finish him off. The Eraser regenerated his body, healing his injuries and he drew out a sword of his own. He swung it at Sally, the queen blocking the blow with her own arm blades but the force of the impact that followed The Eraser's weapon striking against her own threw her off of her feet. Sally shook her head and she whipped Nicole out of her vest pocket. She opened it up and the holographic avatar that represented Nicole's former body emitted from the little device, the avatar surrounded by a faint green glow.

"Hey Nicole, will you be able to help us out in anyway?" she asked "Does this computer device have a weapon of some kind you can use?"

"I'm afraid not Sally." said Nicole, her holographic avatar forming a sad face "Rakutan did not design these computers for combat. Remember, he was making the women servants for the men. Why would he give the computers that the women are transformed into weapons that they could use to fight against their masters?"

"Your logic is as profound as ever." said Sally, half-smiling and half frowning at this "Thank goodness you didn't lose that. Alas though, I doubt you'll be of much use to us in this regard."

"I know." sighed Nicole, frowning with Sally "Stupid Rakutan, trapping me in this stupid digital cage and making me useless…" she grumbled, her avatar glowing a faint shade of red around the edges

"You're not useless Nicole, there's just certain cases where you won't be as useful as before." said Sally sadly "When we get back to Mobius Prime, I'll have Tails upgrade you and give you a way to fight."

"That would be nice." said Nicole sweetly "Now then, do you think now would be a good time to get back into the fight?" she asked, a tone of snark evidence in her voice as a cheeky smile spread across her holographic face.

Sally chuckled, half embarrassedly as she realized she and Nicole were going on for quite a bit and now was not a good time for a long discussion. She put Nicole away and she redeployed her arm blades. Sally got to her feet and saw that Shard and Dr. Eggman were cutting lose on The Eraser, shooting at him as furiously as they could. Shard fired powerful shots out of his arm cannon and Dr. Eggman unleashed his entire arsenal, every inch of his life support mech loaded with a weapon of some kind. No wonder Katherine and based the life support mecha on E-123 Omega's design, the amount of weaponry Omega concealed was extravagant. Rockets launched, bullets sprayed and lasers fired from every available weapons port on the life support mech's chassis. Shard was impressed at the amount of weapons Eggman seemed to have on him.

"Holy Stormbreakers, you're fully loaded aren't you sir?!" he exclaimed, firing again at The Eraser.

"I always did have a nack of building machines with a substantial amount of weaponry." crowed Eggman as he fired more rockets at The Eraser.

"If only I had that many weapons!" laughed Shard.

He and Eggman let The Eraser have a few more rounds before finally stopping to see what the damages had done to him. To their utter horror though, their combined efforts had only slightly damaged The Eraser and even then, he was still repairing himself as he stood back up and laughed at them!

"That tickled!" he gloated, his repairs now finally finished "Your pitiful weaponry will not be enough to finish me off foolish mortals! I am a god, and I AM INVINCIBLE!" his haunting, gravely voice echoed like a demon's whisper around the zone.

"And they say I have a big ego…" muttered Eggman.

Shard decided to try another tactic. He spin-dashed The Eraser directly in the gut but The Eraser took the blow as if it was nothing and he puffed his stomach out, throwing Shard backwards like a ball bouncing off the wall. Shard skidded to a halt and he spin-dashed him in the head, this blow hitting him and throwing him backwards. Eggman rushed forward and he grabbed The Eraser by the legs. Using all the strength he had in his mech's body, he lifted The Eraser up and slammed him onto the floor like a kid slamming his teddy bear around excitedly. The Eraser was astonished at the amount of strength Eggman had in him as he slammed him on the floor. Eggman proceeded to do it several times, each slam harder than the previous slam until finally he spun around and tossed the evil god into the air. The Eraser hurled across the platform but before he could hit the ground, Scourge spin-dashed straight up into him and threw him up into the sky. The Eraser hurled straight up and plummeted straight back down. As he came down, all of Team Radical charged in and all four Mobians pile-dived The Eraser in the back, throwing him off the platform and sending him plummeting down on an endless fall through the zone.

"Good hit team!" praised Rad.

"Thank you Rad." said Crystal, Gadget and Marine in unison.

Silver gave them the thumbs up as if to say "good job team". But the Mobians knew that this battle wasn't over yet, far from it. The Eraser levitated back up onto the platform and he clenched his icy fists furiously. His eyes seemed to glow a darker shade of blue in rage. The Eraser thrust his arms forward and sent shards of ice hurling out of his fingertips. Given the God of Existence grants existence to everything, it wasn't much of a stretch to think that he could imitate super powers such as Blizzard the Ice Witch's ice magic. Silver used his psychokinesis to stop the ice shards. He spun them around and threw them back at The Eraser like a horde of arrows. The icicles pierced The Eraser as they struck him but as we know by now, simply wounding him is not a sure fire way to defeat him. Far from it in fact. It would take more than that to stop him. The Eraser cackled and he slammed his fist onto the platform. The platform cracked under the heavy punch and Silver found himself falling over as it shuddered beneath his feet. Team Radical were quick to help him up but The Eraser slammed his fist on the platform again, making it shudder and causing them to fall onto their backs. The Eraser prepared to punch through the platform again but Shadow and Rouge double-teamed him, spin-dashing and screw-kicking him in the face respectively to stop him from destroying the platform. As The Eraser was knocked down, Malacos weakly stood up and used what strength he had left in him to use the time sceptre on the cracked platform. The Eraser's last attack had done quite a number on him and it seemed to be a chore just to perform this bit of time magic he was doing. Time seemed to go in reverse on the platform for the cracks retracted into the base of the impact as if they were being sucked up and they suddenly vanished. Malacos gasped in exhaustion and he fell to his knees. Tails, who was about to attack The Eraser, ran over to Malacos in concern.

"You OK Malacos?" asked Tails worriedly.

"I am fine child, just worn out that's all." puffed Malacos "I am already weak and it took a lot of my strength just to reverse The Eraser's damage to the platform. I hope I do not have to do it again for if I do…I'll no longer have the strength to keep the time barriers up…and you'll al be vulnerable to The Eraser."

"I understand." said Tails "We'll make sure he doesn't break the platform. If it breaks…there's nowhere we can stand and we'll plummet endlessly.

"Indeed." said Malacos wearily, his eyes showing signs of his exhaustion for their glow wasn't as prominent or as bright now "And I do not have the strength to make a new one."

"You just stay here and rest now." said Tails "We need you to keep us alive pretty much, we'll do what we can to stop that demon."

He left Malacos to recover and he flew towards The Eraser, who was now fighting Shadow and Rouge. Shadow threw Chaos Spears at The Eraser's face, striking him and making the god scream in pain. As he clutched his face, Rouge attacked him from behind with a well-aimed screw-kick to the back. The Eraser was thrown forwards and just as he hurled forwards onto the floor, Shadow spin-dashed up into his gut and sent him hurling up into the air. Tails flew up after him and he stomp-kicked him down onto the floor. The Eraser groaned as his body slammed hard against the floor of the platform. Furious, he summoned what looked like to be swords from thin air, the deadliest thing about the swords being they were on fire. Slash and burn seemed to be his method of attack now. The Eraser threw the swords at Tails, Shadow and Rouge. Shadow just warped out of the way while Tails and Rouge flew around to dodge the attacks. Dr. Finitevus stepped into the line of fire and opened all eight of his warp rings up in a line in front of him. Many of the flaming swords plunged through the portals opened up in the middle of his warp rings and they emerged from the portals opened up directly above The Eraser. The Eraser was slashed and scorched from eight different directions as his own weapons was thrown back at him thanks to Finitevus's warp rings. The Eraser was brought down onto his knees, gasping and panting as he healed his wounds.

Finitevus took the opportunity to attack him while he was recovering. He drop-kicked him on one of his shoulders, aiming for a stab wound that had been caused by the swords. The Eraser roared in anguish as the still healing wound was kicked. Finitevus aimed for another wound that was still healing, driving his fist into it as hard as he could. The Eraser roared even louder as Finitevus's fist entered the wound and the evil echidna proceeded to push his fist as deeply into the wound as he could. The Eraser lunged at Finitevus but he freed his fist from the wound and dodged. The Eraser clawed straight at the floor and Finitevus grabbed his hand. He sharply twisted it to the side and threw The Eraser onto his back.

"Even a god must bow down before my very might…" he crowed.

The Eraser growled like an angry bear and he launched a punch strong enough to shatter skeletons at Finitevus. Finitevus just opened up a warp ring in front of himself and let The Eraser's fist plunge through it. The fist reappeared directly behind The Eraser's head and it ploughed straight into him. The Eraser gripped his head in pain, furious to feel the power of his own fist slamming against his skull. He punched at Finitevus again but Finitevus warped his punch away with a warp ring and he punched himself in the head again. The Eraser clutched his throbbing head and quickly used his healing powers to make the terrible pain go away. Mandy decided to take the opportunity to launch an attack on The Eraser. She ran towards Finitevus on all fours like a mouse scampering through the fields from danger. Finitevus put his hands together and Mandy leaped onto them. Finitevus threw his arms upwards, sending Mandy rocketing straight up into the air and above The Eraser. Mandy drew her arm back and she punched straight down on top of The Eraser, her new knuckle attachments making the punch extraordinarily powerful and painful. The Eraser was thrown down flat onto the floor by the punch. Mandy whistled in astonishment. She knew her new weapons were powerful but powerful enough to floor a god?! She never would have anticipated this!

"Thank you Tails…" she said to herself, smiling approvingly at what she'd just done.

She didn't have time to fawn over herself unfortunately. The Eraser pushed himself back onto his feet, seeming to strain with the effort.

It was as if he was so weak for the moment that even a simple act of getting up off the floor seemed physically challenging to him. Mandy made a note of that since it could be a useful piece of information for the battle. In a battle like this where it is literally a dance with death and the final countdown all at once, you need to make notes of any possible weak spots and fail-safes for they can help you come out on top. It seemed a blow to the head as callous as Mandy's enhanced punches weakened The Eraser significantly. Maybe they should aim for the head when they launch an attack at him.

"Hey everybody! I think I've found a weak spot on The Eraser!" Mandy called to the others "Aim for the head! That seems to weaken him for longer!"

"Makes sense." said Sally, the first one to catch the message "The head's always a weak spot on an opponent. Everybody, aim for the head as Mandy says!"

"Got it!" the heroes and villains all said at once.

Wilson decided to be the first to try his wife's tactic. He drew out his spinning blade weapon and threw it at The Eraser's head and then thrust his arm gauntlet forward, sending the second spinning blade after the first one. Two twin-bladed poles spinning through the air was something that nobody would want to get caught up by. The Eraser only just had enough time to register the blades coming towards him before they sliced through his head like a knife through meat. His head now had two large gashes that spread from the front to the back and he was soon to receive more damage for the spinning blades curled around and skimmed past his shoulders as they returned to Wilson. Furious at the fact he was losing so far, The Eraser flew up into the air out of harm's way. But he had forgotten one important thing, there were Mobians that could fly as well so he wasn't out of harm's way yet. Tails and Rouge flew up into the air after The Eraser and they both pile-dived him directly in the face. Ruben shot himself up into the air with a jet of water and as The Eraser's body bent violently backwards by Tails and Rouge's hits, he dropkicked him back down onto the platform. Before he hit the ground, Shard and Dr. Eggman both flew in and punched The Eraser as hard as they could to make the impact upon returning to the platform even more callous then it likely would be. Tails and Rouge caught Ruben and lowered him back down to the ground just as The Eraser picked himself up. The god was snarling furiously, sounding more like an animal than a person. Malacos just smirked at him, pleased to see how well the mortals were all doing right now. Seemed he got just the kind of help he needed. He watched on as Team Chaotix showed The Eraser why they were a team to look out for. Vector chomped on The Eraser's arm as hard as he possibly could. The bite of a crocodile is incredible, among one of the strongest bites in the animal kingdom and The Eraser was now seeing that kind of bite for himself. Vector held on tightly despite The Eraser's frantic struggling and Espio and Charmy both teamed up to bombard The Eraser with kicks and punches that even a god like him was able to find painful. The Eraser yanked his arm out of Vector's mouth and he backhanded Vector onto the floor. Espio drew out a kunai and he plunged it into The Eraser's chest, directly on the heart side. But Espio forgot that gods cannot be killed just like that. Their entire body has to be destroyed, a simple stab to the heart wasn't going to be enough. The Eraser grabbed Espio and he swung him to the side, swatting Charmy onto the floor beside Vector as he did so. He healed his injuries only to have more injuries to heal as Ravage jumped onto his back and began clawing and biting at him savagely. Bunnie only watched, remembering that was why people had called him "Ravage".

"Ah best not get used ta this since when this is over, me and Ravage will be enemies again…" sighed Bunnie, quite enjoying the moment since in a way, Ravage was back on her side.

She flew towards The Eraser and sucker-punched him directly in the side of his head, the hooded head snapping cringingly to the left as he was punched. Ravage grinned like a hungry wolf that's about to kill its latest prey.

"Brings back memories doesn't it my dear?" he crooned "Memories of us working together if I say so myself."

"Save it ugly, ah don't have time for yer brand of crazy right now!" snapped Bunnie, punching The Eraser again.

After Ravage had decided to live like a cannibal and eat innocent people just because he thought they tasted nice, Bunnie no longer had anything nice to say to her former friend. She then deployed her arm cannon and aimed it squarely at The Eraser's face. As Mandy had suggested, aim for the head. That seemed to be his weak spot. She blasted The Eraser, a huge searing laser blast punching into his face like a giant fist that was connected to an equally as giant arm. The Eraser was thrown across the platform like a rag doll and he landed just by one of the flickering flames that edged the platform. For mortal creatures, they sure seemed to pack a punch. He had no idea that mortal creatures could possibly be this powerful. Then again there was a large group of them so that made it harder for him. The Eraser picked himself up and healed himself from Bunnie and Ravage's attacks. But it seemed that healing himself would be pointless now for he just ended up getting injured again! Dark Cat deployed both his arm blades and plunged them straight into his back, the tips protruding from just under his sternum. The Eraser growled in pained fury and he tried to shake Dark off of himself. Dark's blades were embedded pretty deep, merely shaking him wouldn't get him off anytime soon. Dark was still pretty mad over the fact that The Eraser had been responsible for whisking him and Kiara off to Victorbius, an experience he hadn't enjoyed much. Kiara decided to show how grateful she was for being taken to another world by The Eraser. While Dark held him in place, Kiara clawed at him and then drove her knee as hard as she could into his stomach, knocking the wind out of him. Dark drew his blades out of The Eraser's back and he ran around the front to join Kiara. He put his hands around Kiara's waist and he threw her up into the air. Kiara stretched out a leg and she landed a powerful kick directly in the centre of The Eraser's face just between his eyes. The Eraser wasn't effect much by the kick for Kiara wasn't as strong as most of the Mobians around but it was still enough to make him stagger. Dark and Kiara both charged at The Eraser, Dark plunging his blades into his stomach and Kiara pulling him forward so she could head-butt him. Her head butts were pretty hard, much harder than any punch or kick she could throw, something Ravage had learnt back on Victorbius. Dark yanked his blades out of The Eraser's stomach and he and Kiara kicked him onto his back. The moment The Eraser picked himself up, Amy, Cream, Cosmo and Fiona all ran in together and let him have it. Amy walloped him in the face with her hammer, Cosmo and Cream threw their bladed discs and Fiona used whatever fighting skills she knew on him. The Eraser recovered quite quickly from the blows but he was quickly bombarded from behind as Geoffrey St. John fired a round of darts into the back of his head and shoulders. The darts all exploded at once, the explosion throwing The Eraser onto his stomach. Smoke poured from his head and shoulders but it quickly disappeared as The Eraser repaired the damages. That was the only thing that had stopped the heroes from defeating him already, the fact he could repair whatever damage he received. Even now though he appeared to be getting worn out as if the weight of his opponents was beginning to drag him down. He was fighting against a lot of mortals at once after all. The Eraser got up to his feet and he roared menacingly. The roar made everybody grip their ears in pain as the sound threatened to burst their eardrums and the floor trembled as if intimidated by the roar.

"Bothersome pests!" he screamed furiously "You may be putting up an excellent battle right now but do you still have the false hope that you can actually defeat me?!"

"Well consider the fact that we've been spending most of the battle kicking your butt ugly mug!" taunted Kiara "I think we actually can beat you!"

"Seriously, I think Malacos over-exaggerated how much of a threat you were." scoffed Dark "We're not even gods and we're kicking you all around as if you're nothing!"

"That is only because you have strength in numbers!" snapped The Eraser "I could pick you all off one at a time if you weren't so potent at working together!"

"So what, your number one weakness is teamwork or something?" joked Shard "Worst. God. EVER!"

"My thoughts exactly." laughed Tails "Tyrahko was harder to beat than he was and he wasn't even a real god!"

The Eraser seemed to have very little tolerance for being taunted and made fun of for he clenched his fists and shook them in rage. He was so mad that you could practically see steam pouring from his ears.

"Mock me all you want you parasites! You're only alive now because Malacos's time barriers are preventing me from erasing you all!" bellowed The Eraser "In fact, I'll just finish off Malacos so that you all will be vulnerable to my erasing power!"

"Gee, thanks for telling us what you're gonna do so we can work on preventing you from doing that!" snorted Knuckles, leaping up into the air and punching The Eraser directly in his eye.

"Not that he'll succeed anyway, Malacos has gone." said Shade, throwing a Blade Rush attack at The Eraser.

Surely enough, Malacos had vanished from sight. After The Eraser just stupidly announced at the top of his voice what he was going to do, Malacos decided to remove himself from the battle so that he wouldn't be targeted. If the mortals were going to win, then he had to stay alive and leaving the battle was the best way to ensure that that wasn't going to happen. The Eraser recovered from Knuckles and Shade's attacks and he saw that as Shade had pointed out, Malacos had gone. He growled in rage.

"The coward has fled for it!" he roared "Well I'll just have to chase him down until I find him and then kill him! He cannot hide from me! I will always know where he is!"

"I'd like to see you try and get away from us." said Sally coldly "Everybody, don't let him leave this place! Keep him here for our own sake!"

This was a message that everybody got instantly, no repeats necessary. Once was enough. The Eraser was about to open up a time rift and warp out of the zone but Shadow, Scourge and Shard all spin-dashed him at once like a trio of bowling balls rumbling down the lane and into the skittles. It amused Sally to watch three spin-dashes going off at once. It would be even cooler to watch four spin-dashes at once. Just get Sonic to return and they could do just that. The three hedgehogs sent The Eraser hurling down onto his side after that bombardment of spin-dashes. The Eraser glowered at his opponents and he rose up from the floor, ready to attack.

"Fine, I'll kill you all first." he muttered "Then I'll kill Malacos and erase everything before any more mortals can…"

"Do you ever shut up?!" yelled Knuckles, socking The Eraser in the face

Even a god like The Eraser found himself surprised at how powerful the spiked fists of Knuckles the Echidna were when he launched them at his enemies like missiles from a tank. The Eraser swung his head forward and he head-butted Knuckles down onto the floor. Shade stood in for Knuckles and she slashed at his hands, taking them both off in one fell swoop. As The Eraser stood by to regenerate his hands, Sally and Dark jumped up and severed his arms with their blades. The Eraser bellowed angrily in pained rage and he levitated up into the air so nobody on the ground could attack him while he regenerated his arms. Tails, Rouge, Silver, Gadget, Cream, Charmy Bunnie, Shard and Eggman all flew up after The Eraser and just as his arms regenerated, they all bombarded him like a swarm of angry bees attacking their predator. The Eraser nearly keeled over under the heavy attacks but he thrust his arms out and blew them away with a gust of wind that came out of nowhere. The fliers didn't fall down to the ground luckily, they managed to stay airborne. They flew towards The Eraser but The Eraser ducked down, causing the fliers to have a comical mass collision that could have easily leapt out of a child's cartoon show. The fliers all fell down to the ground, groaning in pain an wondering which parts of them to rub better first. The Eraser touched down on the platform but before he could do anything, Sora ran in and threw an orb at him. She had one orb full of Mega Muck left and now was a good time to use it. It would be hell trying to get anymore Mega Muck to use unfortunately given how hard to come across it was. The orb exploded in The Eraser's face and showered him in sticky, gloopy Mega Muck. The Eraser tried to move his arms but the Mega Muck held them firmly to his body as it covered him all over. The Mega Muck didn't hold for long though, he broke free of it and he fired shards of ice at Sora. The vixen screamed in terror and she ran for her life as shards of ice missed her by inches. Ruben was on hand to protect Sora by squirting jets of water at The Eraser. The Eraser however copied Ruben's power and squirted water back at him. His jets would easily overpower Ruben's no matter how powerful Ruben became. Ruben was drenched instantly and sent skidding across the platform. Sora scowled at The Eraser, livid he dared to harm her secret crush like this. She whipped another orb off her belt and she tossed it at The Eraser. This one was a flash bomb and as it hit The Eraser's face, it exploded in a ball of blinding light that left The Eraser without his vision for a while. All he could see so far was blurred colours that had no rhyme or reason or made any sense or shape to him. Taking advantage of this, Wilson and Mandy ran in to pummel The Eraser. Mandy socked him with a powerful punch to the stomach that knocked him off his feet and Wilson threw both his spinning blades at him, the blades tearing through his body like scissors through paper. The Eraser recovered from the blows and he leaped up off the floor as if springs had just popped out of nowhere and catapulted him into the air. He decided to try another tactic given that he could use any power he wanted for he was responsible for creating them and giving them to any super-powered being that existed. He pointed a finger out at the Mobians and fire spouted from his finger tip. Blaze would not like to see him do that if she was here now. The Mobians scattered as the fire raged and blazed threateningly at them. Finitevus just ran towards the fire and summoned all eight of his warp rings again. The warp rings edged forward and the flames flickered through them. Warp rings opened up just above The Eraser's head and he ended up burning himself as his own flames came out of them. The Eraser clutched his scorched body and he quickly willed himself to heal only to get bombarded by Dr. Eggman, unleashing every weapon he had onto The Eraser. He was hoping to tear him apart while he was weak. But The Eraser had done something to remedy that. He had summoned a wall of steel from nowhere and used it to block all of Eggman's attacks. He would punch through it eventually but it was all the time he needed to recover. The Eraser then made the steel wall disappear and he summoned a force field. It reminded Eggman very much of Katherine's own ability to emit those. Should he thank The Eraser for making this ability exist so that Katherine could use it? The Eraser then extended the barrier out from all around, the barrier pushing into the Mobians and edging them towards the edges of the platform. The ones who would fly would be alright if they fell off but the ones that couldn't were toast. If they fell, it was a fall that would never end and there weren't enough fliers to catch everybody. The Eraser cackled like a demented banshee as he pushed the Mobians towards the edges.

"I told you all you couldn't defeat me!" he crowed "Now you will all plummet into an endless fall! While you're all falling, I shall kill Malacos and then erase you all!"

But it seemed that fate was going to favour the heroes and villains once again for straight in front of The Eraser appeared a bright flash of light and a tornado of flames. The force field disappeared as The Eraser's concentration broke and he stared down at the light and fire that had appeared from nowhere just before him.

"What in the…?!" the single sentence came out of his mouth like a giant gasp of startled confusion.

The light and fire soon died down and in their places appeared Sonic the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat! They had finally retrieved their respective emeralds and had used them to teleport back to the zone they were currently in. Sonic had a smug smile of triumph on his face whereas Blaze looked like somebody was going to die today and she would be the one behind that death.

"Hello tall, dark and insanely ugly." sneered Sonic "I hope me and Blaze didn't miss the fun."

"Looks like we're just in time to have a go at him ourselves." muttered Blaze, her hands already alit with fire.

"Sonic! Blaze!" cried Tails excitedly "You made it! What kept you both?"

"The Eraser's time rifts." muttered Sonic "They're appearing over Mobius Prime like crazy and I kept having to hide from them and wait for Malacos to get rid of them. He ended up showing up in person so he could do it better at last and now I've managed to get the Chaos Emeralds and make it back here."

"Same thing happened with me." said Blaze "Malacos is currently trying to keep Mobius Prime safe from anymore time rifts for it's had more than it can take already."

"Well now you're both here, let's use the emeralds and smash that god to pieces!" cried Scourge, eager to make a grab for the emeralds "I've always wanted to turn super again!"

"All in good time Scourge." said Sonic "We have to get rid of The Eraser long enough so he can't get in the way of our transformations."

"That'll be easy." said Silver "We've been spending most of the past few minutes laying the smack down on him! He's not as strong as he thinks he is."

"Not that strong huh?" snorted Blaze "And here I was expecting a challenge…"

"I am more powerful than all of you!" snarled The Eraser "It's because of me that you all even exist! Soon though you will all disappear and you will be nothing more than a bad memory to me!"

"You should listen to yourself speak and realize how lame your threats sound." laughed Sonic.

The Eraser seemed to take an extraordinary amount of offence at the very thought of being called "lame" for he lunged at Sonic and Blaze with both hands. His hands slammed into the platform just a second where Sonic and Blaze had been before they jumped back in surprise. The floor seemed to crack under the force of The Eraser's punches. Sonic and Blaze took a note of the damage done and both came to the same conclusion, do NOT get punched by The Eraser if they knew what was good for them. Sonic curled up into a ball and he spin-dashed at The Eraser. The Eraser held up his hands but Sonic hit his hands and forced his arms to bend so his hands ended up flat against his chest and Sonic kept going, the force of his attack strong enough to push The Eraser backwards. The Eraser thrust his arms forward and sent Sonic skidding across the platform. Sonic spin-dashed again, aiming for his head this time. He was much too fast for The Eraser to react and he struck him straight in the middle of his face. His head yanked backwards as he was struck and he very nearly fell over onto his back. The Eraser was back on his feet as soon as he'd fallen over but just as he stood back up, Blaze was rushing towards him like a whizzing arrow. He only just registered what was happening before he was met with a fiery fist that slammed between his eyes like a wrecking ball. The Eraser hurled backwards across the platform and he landed directly on top one of the flames around the edges. The Eraser clawed around the flame he'd landed on until he was able to tear it away from the platform. He threw it towards Blaze but the fire cat just snapped her fingers and put the flame out. Before the rubble could hit her, Sonic spin-dashed it to pieces. The Eraser threw his arms up in anger and he bellowed like a lion. He summoned fire to his hands and he charged towards Sonic and Blaze. One thing you must never do when you're fighting Blaze is try to fight fire with fire. Blaze snapped her fingers and the flames around his hands disappeared in a puff of smoke much to the surprise of The Eraser.

"Don't ever attempt to burn me or my friends." said Blaze smoothly "I am a fire cat, I can start AND end fires whenever I wish. Try burning me, I'll just put your fire out. Unfortunately, you won't live to learn that lesson…"

She set her entire body alight and she rocketed towards The Eraser in a spiralling tornado of fire. The Eraser was about to throw water at Blaze and put her fire out but she was much too fast for him to react. She struck him in the chest and sent him flying through the air. Sonic spin-dashed The Eraser just as he hurled over him and The Eraser was sent screaming off the platform as he hurled off the edge.

"OK, he's off the platform, let's power up!" cried Sonic, whipping out the Chaos Emeralds before anyone could register what he was doing "Shadow, Scourge, Silver, Knuckles, over here now!"

Shadow, Scourge, Silver and Knuckles did as they were told. They all ran over to Sonic and they stood in a circle as the Chaos Emeralds prepared to work their magic. Blaze stood by them and took out her Sol Emeralds. Everybody else held their breath and waited for the magic to begin.

"Everyone ready?" asked Sonic.

"Ready as we'll ever be." said Shadow with a dark smile on his face.

"Totally!" cried Scourge "Time to show that dick what REAL power is!"

"The Eraser will be erased and we're gonna be the ones to do it!" declared Silver hotly.

"We'll stomp on him until he wishes he never existed!" yelled Knuckles.

"Let us prove to The Eraser that we deserve our existence." Blaze added, the Sol Emeralds already hot with fire as the transformation was about to begin.

"Couldn't have said it better myself everybody." said Sonic brightly "Let's get ready to do this. We'll show that jerk the real super power that we all have!"

The Chaos Emeralds rose above Sonic, Shadow, Scourge, Silver and Knuckles while the Sol Emeralds rose up above Blaze. The emeralds circled around the Mobians as they began to perform their miracle power. The Mobians closed their eyes and tensed up as the emeralds picked up speed, a great sensation building up through their bodies as they were beginning to turn super. The others watched with fascination, Shard and Team Radical staring at them in total awestruck for they had never seen this before. Finitevus had seen super forms before what with being a resident of Angel Island for some time and yet he was still intrigued at the sight of them and yet as he watched them power up, he began to make mental notes in his brainy head, notes that would likely be used for some evil scheme he'd be concocting in the future. The emeralds finished spinning around as the heroes were bathed in an amazing glow of dazzling light that seemed to swim through eight different colours. Sonic's fur became a strikingly glorious golden colour and his quills stuck up behind his head, Shadow's fur became a dazzling lemon-yellow colour and all of his quills rose up, Silver's fur changed into a brilliant shade of gold and the twin quills behind his head stood up behind him. Scourge's quills pointed upwards and his fur became a malevolent, dark shade of purple while the flames on his sleeves and his sunglasses turned blue and his shoes turned pink. He seemed the most ecstatic of the hedgehogs at being super again. Knuckles's fur turned completely green in colour and his dreadlocks waved around as if invisible strings were lifting them up and down. Blaze's fur had turned a light pinkish colour and her coat was now a fiery red that seemed fitting for her powers. The transformation was complete and the super powered heroes were ready for action.

"Oh yeah, now let's lay the smack down on The Eraser!" cried Super Sonic joyfully.

"He's so dead now!" crowed Super Scourge "He'll be sorry he messed with us!"

"More than that…he'll wish he never existed." boasted Super Shadow.

"I must say, it's nice that I'm going to use my super form to finish off somebody other than Imperator Ix for once." said Chaos Knuckles "Next time we need super forms to defeat somebody, I want in on the action!"

"I'm sure there'll be another time for that." said Super Silver "Given how much you heroes go through."

"Look out everybody, The Eraser's coming!" yelled Burning Blaze, pointing ahead of her in warning.

Surely enough, The Eraser flew back up onto the platform like a whizzing blue arrow and he spiralled towards the super powered Mobians in a tornado like fashion. The move reminded Sonic, Shadow and also Dr. Eggman of a move that Katherine was capable of doing. The Super Mobians flew out of the way as The Eraser sliced through the air that had seconds ago been occupied by them. The Eraser ground to a halt and he spun around in a flurry, his robes waving around as he turned around sharply. The Eraser's eyes widened at the sight of the Super Mobians all hovering before him like phantoms in a haunted house. To say that the sight of mortals with a super enhanced appearance was starling to him was an understatement in every possible meaning of the word. He was so surprised that his face seemed to betray his usual personality and form a new kind of mask that he'd never worn before. The mask of astonishment.

"How….how did you do that?!" gasped The Eraser in utter amazement "How did you manage to alter your appearances and get a super powered aura all around you?!"

"Given you're the reason everything in the multi-verse exists, I think you already know the answer to that question." sneered Super Sonic, his face the embodiment of confidence and triumph.

"Indeed…" The Eraser said slowly as he suddenly realized that he did indeed know the answer to that question "Your pathetic little Chaos Emeralds! I've seen you use them on many occasions during my battle with Malacos! They seem to wield great power indeed…but they will not save you in this match! I'm still invincible! You still cannot defeat me!"

"You know, why don't we just call this guy the "God of Mindless Boasting" or something? That's all he's any good at!" jeered Super Scourge mockingly, slapping his knee as he laughed at his joke.

"Maybe he's the kind of god you'd love to pray to then." snickered Chaos Knuckles, noting the hypocrisy of Scourge's statement given how much he liked to boast.

"Eraser, your evil ends here!" declared Super Silver "You dared to try and kill us all for your own selfish needs and we're gonna make you pay for it!"

"If I were you scum heap, I'd surrender." said Burning Blaze "That way we might be tempted to let you live."

"Renounce your evil ways and be content with our existence or perish, this will be your only warning!" snarled Super Shadow.

"Such pathetic threatening from pathetic mortal creatures…" crowed The Eraser, his eyes returning to their natural evil look "You cannot deny me my existence! My primary task is to ensure existence! I will not allow you all to remove me from existence!"

"We could say the same to you King of Lame Lines." retorted Super Sonic "Enough talk, let's end this fight here and now!"

" Not yet…" purred The Eraser menacingly "Let us see if you can fight your way through an army of look-alikes first…"

With that said, he suddenly shot backwards as if somebody had just thrown a punch at him and sent him flying through the air. The Super Mobians watched, wondering what he was going to do as he expanded the distance between himself and the platform. After he was about ten yards away, The Eraser waved his glowing hands around and he thrust them forward. Clouds of smoke snaked out from around his wrists and coursed through the air towards the platform. The moment the smoke trials reached the platform, they began to form shapes that seemed to resemble The Eraser himself. He was making an army of clones for the Super Mobians to fight. The Eraser knew what their weakness was since he knew every strength and weakness. He had created them after all. He was hoping his clone army would tire the Super Mobians out long enough for their super power to run out and then he could finish them off and steal the Chaos and Sol Emeralds and use their power for himself. If he had their power to add to his own, he would truly be unstoppable. So unstoppable that not even Malacos's power would surpass his own and the multi-verse would be free for him to erase and remake into his own image. Little did The Eraser know was that the Super Mobians were much smarter than he gave them credit for. As the clones advanced on them, Super Sonic prepared to charge.

"He's just trying to stall us until our power runs out!" growled Super Sonic furiously "Those clones are just distractions! We have to take them down all at once!"

"Leave that to me." said Super Shadow, flying towards the army of clones like an eagle swooping towards the helpless rabbit that it was hunting.

Super Shadow removed his inhibitor rings and he soared towards the clones. The clones all prepared to attack him but Super Shadow thrust his limbs out and unleashed all the Chaos Energy that his small but powerful body contained inside of him. Crimson energy seemed to explode from all around Super Shadow like an atom bomb as his Chaos Blast activated. The blast tore through the clones, vaporizing them instantly as if they were nothing. The blast expanded for miles around and it destroyed every last clone that The Eraser had conjured. The Eraser could only stare in disbelief as his beautiful plan was destroyed directly in front of him along with the clones. Clearly he had been a fool to underestimate the Mobians. If he lived to fight another day, he knew what he would never do again, underestimate mortal creatures. Now the clones were destroyed, the Super Mobians charged towards The Eraser.

"OK Eraser, time for you to disappear forever!" shouted Super Sonic, arm drawn back and ready to pummel The Eraser.

"The only ones who are disappearing are you and your vile friends!" declared The Eraser.

He summoned a wall of steel that stood defensively in front of him but Super Sonic ploughed through it as if it were merely rubble. Super Sonic spin-dashed The Eraser directly in the gut and sent him spiralling through the endless space of the world they were fighting in. The Eraser regained himself and just as Super Sonic hurled towards him again, he held his hands out and clapped them together. The single clap seemed to boom out of his hands like a loud thunderclap and from his hands emerged an arrow of white energy that streaked across the sky and struck Super Sonic. Super Sonic cried out loudly as he was struck and he spiralled backwards in a dizzy spin towards Super Silver. Super Silver used his enhanced psychic powers to catch Super Sonic and helped him to regain his balance and senses. Super Sonic charged towards The Eraser in another spin-dash but The Eraser held his hand out and caught him like a baseball. He drew his arm backwards and he threw Super Sonic straight upwards. Just as he threw Super Sonic up, Super Silver used his psychokinesis to hold The Eraser in place. It was a bit much to hope that he would hold The Eraser though. Even his super form wasn't powerful enough to restrain a god. The Eraser broke free of his power effortlessly and he thrust his arms forward, sending hordes of flaming swords towards Super Silver. This was something that the super hedgehog could stop though. He held his hands out like a mime doing the old wall trick and his body glowed a super enhanced teal colour as he used his psychic powers to stop the flaming swords dead in their paths. Burning Blaze used her connection to the flames to make them even bigger and Super Silver threw the swords at The Eraser. The Eraser screamed in agony as the swords cut through his body and scorched him at the same time. Getting cut and burnt both at once was not a pleasant experience at all. The Eraser tried to heal the injuries sustained from the terrible weapons but Burning Blaze came whooshing towards him in a burst of flames. She used her Burning Fire Boost attack to plough straight into The Eraser and push him backwards as much as she possibly could. Her flames licked at him, scorching him terribly and earning a roar of pained fury from The Eraser. She then thrust her arms up, sending huge bursts of fire whooshing up into The Eraser's face and then she fire-boosted into his chest again. The Eraser was sent falling down through the empty space all around him, smoke trailing after him as the burns took effect. The Eraser healed his injuries and he sent himself rocketing towards the Super Mobians like a jet. He set himself alight, mimicking what Burning Blaze did, and he spiralled around in a fiery tornado. He struck Super Silver and Burning Blaze both at once and threw jets of water at Burning Blaze in an attempt to put her out. The water did indeed put her out but she didn't stay out for long. She relit herself and whooshed towards The Eraser. The Eraser smirked confidently at her and he doused her in more water, putting her out yet again. Before she could relight herself, The Eraser grabbed her by the face and threw her into Super Silver, knocking him back as she slammed into him. The Eraser cackled gleefully at the two and he was about to attack them again until Super Scourge and Chaos Knuckles ploughed straight into his back with a spin-dash and a super punch respectively. The Eraser bellowed a surprised yelp of surprise as he was hit in the back by the two. Super Scourge then proceeded to punch, kick, elbow, stomp and head butt The Eraser all at once, moving at such a blinding speed that The Eraser couldn't see him as he launched his attacks at him. Chaos Knuckles uppercut The Eraser in the face and then slammed him on top of his head with his fist. It delighted Chaos Knuckles to see just how much stronger his punches were when he used his super form. He really should use it more often. The Eraser keeled forward after the slam on his head and Super Scourge slugged him as hard as he could in the throat, launching his well-aimed punch and driving it as viciously as he could into the Adam's apple in The Eraser's neck. The Eraser coughed and spluttered dreadfully loudly, his breath struggling to return to him as he tried to snatch the air that escaped from his lungs back. Seeking the opportunity, Super Shadow unleashed a shower of Chaos Spears all over The Eraser, the spears striking The Eraser and spearing him in every inch of his body. It was pure agony for The Eraser as the powerful spears struck him. He almost couldn't believe that he was truly fighting a bunch of mortals, it was as if they had become gods themselves! Their power would be worth snatching from them that much was certain. As the spears ended, Super Shadow spin-dashed The Eraser and unleashed a round of kicks and punches that slammed against The Eraser so hard he may as well have been hit by meteors. Super Scourge and Super Knuckles added more injury to Shadow's insult by charging directly into his head as callously as they could. Then Super Silver held The Eraser in place while Burning Blaze spiralled into him in a flaming twister of searing hot fire and sent him hurling into Super Sonic who finished off the assault with a roundhouse kick that could shatter a building to pieces. The Eraser hurled through the air and he crashed head first into the platform. The platform shuddered and shook as he hit it and the Mobians still occupying the platform had to fight hard to keep their balance. The Eraser shook his head and he kicked in his healing abilities just as the Super Mobians charged towards him again.

Narrowing his eyes, he summoned balls of ice and fire to his hands and he threw them at the Super Mobians. The Super Mobians ploughed straight through them as if they were nothing and they all charged into him at once. The Eraser was slammed against the platform again, forcing the mortals still on the platform to again fight for balance as it shuddered beneath their feet and even began to crack slightly under the impact. Anymore and the portal would crumble to pieces and send the occupants on a downwards plummet that would last until they died. Super Sonic sensed this and he decided to keep the fight as far away from the platform as possible. It was literally the only leg to stand on for his friends and enemies. Super Sonic flew around behind The Eraser followed by Super Shadow and Super Scourge and the three hedgehogs slammed into his back in a powerful spin-dash, throwing The Eraser away form the platform. The others all gathered at the edges of the platform and watched as the fight continued to unfold before them. Super Sonic flew to the top of The Eraser and he stomp-kicked him directly in the centre of his cranium. Super Sonic watched with satisfaction as his seldom used move worked with great effect on The Eraser, throwing him down and sending up spinning like an astronaut in space. The Eraser soon found himself unable to tell which way was up. Before he could regain his senses, Super Scourge and Super Shadow both stomp-kicked him in the shoulders, a loud snapping sound piercing through the sky as their kicks fractured his shoulder joints. The Eraser fixed his shoulders only to get a tornado of fire from Burning Blaze to the face. He roared in pain and tried to put her out again but Super Silver held him in place before he could throw any water. While he was held, Chaos Knuckles pile-dived him in the head with both fists and sent him on a drunken spin once again. The Eraser regained himself and he decided to use an ability that the Super Mobians could use.

"Chaos…CONTROL!" he thundered, throwing his arms up into the air to accompany his bellow.

Just as he yelled it, the Super Mobians rushed towards him but they were too late to launch an attack on him. Time slowed to a deadly stop around them, holding them in place as if they had been frozen in ice. They tried as hard as they could to keep moving but their bodies wouldn't obey their brain signals. The Eraser crowed at them and he flew towards the frozen Mobians. He spun around with his arms held wide out beside him. He backhanded all the Super Mobians and threw them across the sky a spectacular distance. The Super Mobians regained themselves and Super Sonic stared in disbelief at The Eraser.

"Suffering sneakers!" cried Super Sonic "He knows Chaos Control?!"

"He's the God of Existence Sonic, he created the power that we wield." noted Super Silver "It'll be perfectly normal for him to know what powers and attacks we have."

"Well he's not using Chaos Control on us again!" yelled Super Scourge furiously, the purple super hedgehog clenching his fists and baring his sharp teeth furiously "Cause we're gonna do it to him now!"

"An excellent idea." said Super Shadow "For you that is."

Super Scourge scowled at Super Shadow. Why must Sonic and his friends take whatever opportunity they have to make fun of him? The Eraser swooped towards the Super Mobians but before he could grab them, all six Super Mobians activated their own Chaos Control to freeze him in place. He stopped just inches in front of them. The pose he had been frozen in made him look like an angry cat pouncing on the unfortunate little mouse that had been foolish enough to scuttle its way. Seizing their chance, Super Sonic, Super Shadow, Super Scourge, Super Knuckles and Burning Blaze all cut loose on him, bombarding him from all over his body with every spin-dash, punch and fire boost they unleashed on him. Super Silver just grabbed him with his psychokinesis just as the Chaos Control wore off and held him in place as the others continued to attack him. He was being assaulted so violently and furiously that he couldn't try and break out of his psychokinesis. Unfortunately, The Eraser managed to use a Chaos Control to teleport out of the Super Mobians' way. He reappeared, his body littered with wounds, burns and bruises that were already beginning to heal. The Super Mobians glared at him angrily.

"Man he's tough!" cried Chaos Knuckles.

"Is he invincible?" asked Burning Blaze nervously.

"Is there anyway to stop this lunatic?!" grumbled Super Sonic "We can't keep this up forever! We'll run out of super power!"

"I heard Sally suggest earlier we attack him at once and tear him apart piece by piece." explained Super Shadow "And I think I know just what to do about that."

"Me too…" purred Super Scourge menacingly, his red eyes gleaming with joy "We'll Chaos Blast the sucker to atoms! All of us together!"

"Why didn't we think of that sooner?" muttered Super Silver, face palming himself in annoyance "Oh well, let's give it a shot!"

"It's the best tactic we have at this point in time." said Super Sonic grimly "Everybody, let's Chaos Blast him!"

But just as they were preparing to unleash the deadly attack that would ravage The Eraser to bite-sized chunks, The Eraser swooped through the air and ploughed straight through them, knocking them all aside like a meteor smashing into more meteors that were blocking its path.

"You will not be allowed to use your Chaos Blast!" declared The Eraser "For I will keep you occupied until your super forms expire!"

He then held his hands out and fired jolts of electricity from his finger tips. All six Super Mobians were stricken by the lightening attacks and being an attack from a god, the Super Mobians were hurt by the lightening as if their super enhanced invulnerability was suddenly gone. They all screamed in pain as electricity surged through their bodies and held them in place. That was the sinister thing about the electrical attacks, they seemed to firmly hold the Super Mobians in place as they attacked them from every inch of their bodies. The Super Mobians fought hard against the electricity but they couldn't move at all. They were stuck fast and the electricity was fast beginning to drain their strength as they screamed in anguish. The Eraser cackled delightedly at the pain he was inflicting on his enemies. If only he'd done this sooner and he could have saved himself a load of bother! Better late than never as the old saying went. The Eraser increased the voltage he was unleashing, making the Super Mobians scream even louder as more powerful bolts of electricity punched through them. But just as it seemed that The Eraser had won, a time sceptre appeared from nowhere and walloped him across the head. It was Malacos! Malacos had decided to return to the zone and see how things were going. He wasn't too pleased at what was happening and had decided to help out. Much of his strength had returned to him after the good rest he'd had luckily so he would be OK to fight The Eraser again, no worries of being killed by him this time. As The Eraser was stricken by the time sceptre, his electrical attacks ceased and the Super Mobians were free. They gasped with relief, glad that the pain had stopped. Their super auras began to slowly heal them as Malacos whacked The Eraser again. The Eraser growled savagely and he clawed at Malacos, the time god blocking the attack with his sceptre. Malacos swung his head forward and butted The Eraser in his neck, his helmet forming most of the power behind the blow. The Eraser's eyes bulged as if the blow to his neck would make them pop out of his head. The Eraser uppercut Malacos in the face and then roundhouse punched him in the cheek but Malacos uppercut The Eraser back and then used his time sceptre to slow time down around him. The Eraser was now moving completely in slow motion as if he was in some sort of film that was being slowed down. Malacos turned to the Super Mobians who had just finished recovering from The Eraser's earlier onslaught.

"Are you alright my dear mortals?" he asked concernedly.

"We're fine Malacos." said Super Sonic, looking much better now "We now how to stop The Eraser for good."

"Please leave here." said Burning Blaze "We're going to Chaos Blast him, all at once."

"It's gonna get messy and you don't want to get caught up in it." said Super Knuckles.

"That is fortuitous indeed." said Malacos "Very well, unleash all your power on him! End The Eraser's plight forever!"

"You don't have to tell us twice!" laughed Super Scourge.

Malacos warped himself back over onto the platform and watched with a satisfied smile as The Eraser's defeat was about to unfold. His power was still taking hold on The Eraser so The Eraser was going nowhere for the time being. Stuck in slow motion, he would not be able to avoid his coming fate. Super Sonic, Super Shadow, Super Silver, Super Scourge, Chaos Knuckles and Burning Blaze formed a wide circle around the slow moving Eraser and they tensed their bodies up as tightly as they could. Every muscle in their body tensed as they prepared to unleash the ultimate Chaos Blast. The one Super Shadow did earlier was enough to wipe out an entire army of clones so one from six Super Mobians would easily finish off The Eraser. The Super Mobians all thrust their arms out, energy coursing through their bodies as the build-up finished and they unleashed the power they contained within them.

"Chaos...

BLLLLLLLLLLLLLLLLLAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAA

The single word was the last thing The Eraser ever heard as masses of Chaos Energy erupted from the six Super Mobians and punched straight into him. The blast was fifty times more powerful than the atomic bomb that had been dropped on Hiroshima during World War II on Earth. As the blast hit The Eraser, he could feel every inch of his body being ripped apart by the savage blast. It was as if he was being devoured only fifty times more painful and more than just his flesh was being stripped apart. He was slowly but surely being decimated by the Chaos Blast and despite his healing powers kicking in, the blast was too powerful for him to recover and the blast wouldn't stop, it continued to furiously ravage his body. In a way, The Eraser was prolonging his own demise and making it even worse for himself. A haunting scream thundered from The Eraser's slowly disappearing head, the last sound he would ever make as he the blast completely vaporized him. Soon he was nothing but dust and the blast continued on until the dust became atoms and then the atoms become nothing. The Eraser had well and truly been erased like a pencil drawing being swiped at by the artist's rubber. The Chaos Blast finally ended and the Super Mobians gasped for breath. The blast had worn them down. So much in fact that their super forms powered down and they returned to normal. Luckily, Malacos used his powers to warp the six back over to platform so they wouldn't fall down through the endless void around them. Sonic, Shadow, Silver, Scourge, Knuckles and Blaze all came down to rest on the platform and they were gently lowered onto their backs as they tried to regain their strength. It didn't take them long to recover, they were soon back on their feet in a few minutes. As soon as they had stood back up, the crowd gathered around them and began expressing their joy over their victory.

"YAHOO! You did it you guys! You did it!" cheered Tails, practically going crazy with excitement.

"As begrudging as I am to say it…well done everyone." said Dr. Eggman "You sure showed that egotistical nutcase what true power is!"

"Strewth! You were awesome out there Silver and Blaze!" cried Marine, summing up what Team Radical pretty much had to say about this "You gave that blighter a ripper beat down!"

"Great job Scourge!" squealed Fiona, grasping her evil boyfriend in a spine-crushing hug that took Scourge by surprise "I couldn't be more proud of you!"

"Knuckles, you have honoured us all." said Shade, hugging Knuckles lovingly "Everybody on Angel Island will be so proud of you."

"Sonic, I can't thank you enough for saving us all once again!" blustered Sally, leaping into Sonic's arms and hugging him tightly "It never ceases to amaze me how you manage to do it! You're a wonder boy and you're the hero of the entire multi-verse!"

"Not just me Sally, we ALL are." said Sonic, hugging Sally back and smoothing her hair "We all deserve to be compensated for our efforts. We all fought The Eraser and it was our determination to survive and our teamwork that helped us win in the end."

"I couldn't agree more on that." said Silver with a wink "We showed that monster what happens when you mess with us!"

"The power you all displayed was truly magnanimous." purred Finitevus with a sinister grin on his face "I might have to see if I can harness that kind of power for myself someday…"

"Don't push it uncle!" growled Knuckles, threatening to punch the cape wearing echidna in the jaw.

Malacos beamed at the joy of all the mortals that was being displayed all around. He too was happy at The Eraser's demise. He had been fighting him for an entire centaury and now at long last, he was gone, never to threaten the multi-verse again.

"My brave mortals, you have all done the multi-verse proud today." he boomed gleefully "I cannot thank you enough for helping to destroy The Eraser. Because of your valour and dedication, the multi-verse is safe once again. The Crisis on Infinite Worlds is over, you're all heroes and you deserve to be praised for your efforts."

"We're all heroes eh?" chuckled Scourge "You hear that Sonic, we're ALL heroes, including me, Fiona, Eggman and the weirdo in the cape over there!" he crowed, hoping to ruffle up Sonic's fur a bit.

Crystal just stood forward and punched Scourge onto the floor. She owed him that punch for swearing at Marine earlier and she felt satisfied to finally have landed it on him. Fiona immediately helped Scourge back up, glaring at Crystal. Crystal just walked back over to Rad, the raccoon smiling at her.

"Thanks Crystal." he said with a slight chuckle.

"Any time. I was itching to do that to him anyway." said Crystal with a smile.

Malacos continued, ignoring what had just happened.

"Now The Eraser is defeated, I will assume the mantle of the God of Existence." he said "And as you know, I will not tamper with your existences in anyway. You can live your lives, free of fear, free of The Eraser and never will you have to worry about another time rift again. You can even forget about me and The Eraser and live your lives as if the crisis never happened."

"Oh no Malacos, we couldn't do that." said Sally "You helped save everything, we couldn't have done it without you. It would be disrespectful of us to pretend you never existed. We will always remember what happened and thank you for helping us to keep our lives."

"Very lovely of you my dear." said Malacos warmly "Such heart is truly admirable. Now then, just one more thing…"

He aimed his time sceptre and he opened up four white portals. One led to Mobius Prime, one led to Mobius 3000, one led to Mobius Nega and one led to Solbius. It was time for the Mobians to return home at last. Home never looked so inviting to Sonic or any of his friends before.

"One step through this portals and you will all be returned home." said Malacos "And please return to the correct zones, I don't want to have to organize you all myself."

"Don't worry, we will." said Sonic "I know which zone I'm going to."

"I guess it's back to Solbius for us now." said Rad, hugging Silver and Blaze "Goodbye you two. It's been a blast meeting you."

"The pleasure's all ours Rad." said Blaze sweetly "Good luck on your world and I hope you undo all of Captain Metal's evil."

"We will do." said Gadget "We hope to see you two again someday."

"I'm sure that can be arranged." said Silver brightly "Goodbye and have a great life all of you!"

Rad, Crystal, Marine and Gadget smiled appreciatively and they leaped through the portal that would take them back to Solbius. The portal closed behind them as they went through it. Shard was just about to return to Mobius 3000 but he turned to Malacos.

"Hey, can you keep my portal open for a bit longer?" asked Shard "I have something to return to Sally."

Malacos nodded and Shard disappeared through the portal. A moment later, he returned back through it, Nicole's lifeless body now in his arms and he handed it over to Sally. Sally took Nicole's body, tears already forming in her eyes as she held it again. Shard decided not to leave Nicole's body on his Mobius so he willingly went back just to retrieve it for Sally to take back home.

"Give her a good burial." said Shard "It's the most you can do for your friend. I hope she gets used to being a computer."

"I hope so too." said Sally sadly "Thank you Shard. I'll bury this body in a good place and make Nicole's new life as comfortable as possible for her."

Shard smiled brightly and he waved goodbye to Sally. He ran through the portal that led to Mobius 3000 and he disappeared instantly through it. The portal closed shut behind him. Amy Nega turned to leave but before she did so, she looked over her shoulder at Sonic.

"It's been great having an adventure with you again." she said softly

"And may you and your friends have a wonderful life back on Mobius Prime."

"Cheers Amy Nega." said Sonic "And may you have a wonderful life back on Mobius Nega."

Smiling sweetly, Amy Nega blew a goodbye kiss for Sonic and she walked through the portal that would take her back to Mobius Nega. She disappeared through the portal and the portal closed behind her. Now it was just the Prime Zoners left to return.

"Well guys, let's all go home." said Sonic cheerfully "I can't wait to settle back down in my cosy old house again."

"Don't get too comfortable Sonic." said Eggman deviously "The truce is over now, me and Finitevus will be after you make no mistake on that. But you all deserve a nice long rest after what's happened today so I'm going to be a just man and let you off for now."

"Charmed I'm sure." muttered Sonic "I'll make sure that armour of yours gets an extra special dent from me. But for now, see ya around."

Eggman's suit tilted back and forth in a nodding motion. Before Sonic walked through the portal, Sally took his hand into her own and rest his head on his shoulder.

"If it's alright with you Sonic, I'd like it if me and you had our rest and recuperation…together." she said smoothly "What do you say?"

"Resting with you would be the best way for me to recuperate Sal." said Sonic happily "Once we get back home, we'll go to Castle Acorn and settle down for the rest of the day."

"I think that sounds wonderful handsome." purred Sally, kissing Sonic just behind his ear.

Sonic giggled and then he and Sally walked hand-in-hand through the portal. The rest of the Mobians all followed the two. All that is but four. Before Scourge, Fiona and Ravage could go through the portal, Finitevus summoned his Super Warp Ring and pushed them through it. He then followed them through the warp ring, the warp ring vanishing as he entered it and leaving Malacos bewildered at what had happened. He didn't do anything about it though and he waved it off. Whatever the mortals were up to were none of his concern. Keep up their existence was the only thing that mattered to him now…

As for Finitevus, he had warped the three evil Mobians over to an empty laboratory that sat somewhere in the middle of Megapolis and was no longer in use. Scourge, Fiona and Ravage stared at him in obfuscation.

"Hey what gives?! Why are you kidnapping us?" asked Fiona coldly.

"Do you want me to break your mouth you creepy little cuss bag?!" snarled Scourge, raising his fist angrily.

"At ease you three, I am not kidnapping you at all." purred Finitevus darkly, waving his hands up defensively "Allow me to introduce myself. I am Dr. Finitevus and I merely have a proposition for you all."

"You do?" said Ravage, surprised to hear Finitevus say this "What kind of proposition?"

"I have done masses of research on Mobius so that I am up-to-date with it after being absent for ten years." explained Finitevus "And I have researched plenty on you three. Scourge, you're pretty much Sonic's equal in every possible way only more due to your more savage nature. Fiona, you're a Royal Fighter turncoat who wishes nothing more than to see the R.F.S. burn. Such subversive behaviour impresses me for I myself am a subversive fiend too. And you Ravage, you were once a man of good nature and now you just want to make Adabat pay for punishing you wrongly. I sympathize with you I really do."

The three stared at Finitevus in amazement.

"Wow…you're good!" gasped Scourge, his jaw dropping and refusing to close back up again.

"Research is my best friend Scourge." purred Finitevus, tapping his brainy head conceitedly.

"So…what is your proposition?" asked Fiona cautiously.

"Dear child, I'm so glad you asked." said Finitevus smoothly, his voice making Fiona's spine tingle "You see, I have great plans right now. Great plans for this pathetic little world we traipse upon. And I need recruits for these plans to work. You three will have the honour of becoming the first of these recruits."

"And why should we be interested?" snapped Scourge, folding his arms and glaring at Finitevus.

"Oh I have every reason you should be interested Scourge." said Finitevus, a finger waggle directed at Scourge as he spoke "For my plans will benefit you greatly. You want to rule Mobius? Well one my plans come to fruition, you shall have the honour of ruling Mobius and your beautiful girlfriend will have the honour of ruling alongside you as your queen. And Ravage, you will get to destroy Adabat at last."

"Do I also get to eat anyone who resists me?" said Ravage, salvia streaming out of his jaws as he pictured himself gorging on as many Mobians as he possibly could.

"Ravage, you may have a banquet to celebrate your victory." said Finitevus "All the meat you could possibly eat. My promise to you in return for your cooperation."

"Count me in!" cried Ravage gleefully "Adabat should pay for what it did to me and the one who should pay the most is that insolent brat Bunnie Rabbot!"

"Trust me Ravage, she can be your first meal once my plans are complete." said Finitevus with a dark smile that could freeze the blood.

Ravage smiled a toothy smile, clearly pleased he was making this decision. He was going to enjoy this alliance, he really was. As for Scourge and Fiona, they looked convinced in Finitevus's offer too.

"Finitevus, you got yourself two recruits." said Scourge, shaking Finitevus's hand gleefully.

"So what are your plans then?" asked Fiona, her hands on her hips and her tail curled around her ankles.

"Patience Fiona, first we must lay low and help Dr. Eggman come to an untimely end." explained Finitevus "His filthy presence will only get in the way of my plans. We must eliminate him first and as long as he believes that I am still working for him, I can infiltrate him from within. And once he is down, the plan can begin. This will require total patience for it could be a while before that happens. Once Eggman is on the verge of collapse, I will visit locations all over Mobius and recruit other big name villains who will be interested in my plans. Together…we will become an armada of dark villains and world conquerors…we shall call ourselves…The Dark Armada…"

Now that's a milestone!

Hope you all enjoyed it but you better buckle up your seats for the ride's about to get wilder as Heroes of Mobius builds up to the end. Only fifty chapters left and this great series will be all over. But there's plenty of adventures left to see though.

Get ready for the road to 200 begins next time with "The Court Of Ice"...

The Court of Ice Part 1

Story 176: The Court of Ice Part 1: A Cold Sentence

A whole peaceful month had passed since the Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses had finally come to an end.

Sonic the Hedgehog and friends had been through the biggest adventure of their lives, an adventure that was bigger than anything they'd ever been through and certainly bigger than the entire world for this adventure had been to save the multi-verse. They'd finally found out what had caused the time rifts and in order to save the multi-verse, Sonic and his friends and enemies and even Mobians from other Mobiuses had joined forces to eliminate the cause of the crisis. It had been a tough battle but they had succeeded at last and their attempts had been wonderfully rewarded with a month of peace and tranquillity. It made Sonic feel good to spend his days not worrying about the time rifts anymore. At long last, Mobius could return to normal although the events of the crisis would always remain with him. It was an experience he and his friends would never forget and depending on the person, it was something they'd never forget in a good way or a bad way. Sonic would always see it as the day he accomplished the most amazing thing ever, save the entire multi-verse. Nothing he would do now would ever top this accomplishment. Truly there was nothing more amazing then saving not just one world but infinite amounts of other worlds too.

But as we all know, all good things must come to an end for the month of peace was about to end. Over in the frigid habitat of White Acropolis, Blizzard the Ice Witch was preparing to conduct a spell, the same spell she had tried twice already to conduct.* A spell that would make her an army of Ice Demons, just the thing she'd need to take over New Mobotropolis and refurbish the corrupt and vile Kingdom of Acorn. The kingdom had ruined her life and Blizzard was determined to fix the damage done to her by wiping out the Kingdom of Acorn. Only with the kingdom's disappearance would she ever be able to be at peace. Before the crisis, Blizzard had come close to conducting the spell only to be interrupted at the last minute. After her unfortunate encounter with Silver and Blaze, she had planned on how to get the last ingredient she needed for the spell, a piece of an elemental Mobian but then the Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses had stricken. She had been caught up in a time rift and dumped onto another world. To her misfortune, it was a world of fire with the sole occupants being the fire cat race (Blaze would have loved that world no doubt.)The resulting experience had ended with her getting multiple burns that took weeks to recover. Blizzard had spent most of the month of peace recuperating from the world of fire she had been taken to and now she'd finally recovered, she could get her spell ready. While on the world of fire, she had managed to amputate a fire cat at the wrist and had taken the severed hand back to Mobius Prime once Malacos had begun opening up portals to guide any lost residents back to their proper worlds. To prevent the hand from rotting, Blizzard had frozen it and kept it preserved so that it would still be fresh to use once she'd recovered. Blizzard stretched as much as she could and she sighed contently.

"Aaaah…it's good to be better." she purred to herself "As horrible as that experience was, it shan't haunt me anymore. In a way, I'll have to thank whoever made that weird streak of light for taking me to that world they called "Mobius Pyro". I got just what I needed there, a piece of an elemental Mobian…"

Her voice trailed off as her eyes swept over to the frozen hand that had been waiting patiently to be used as Blizzard recovered from her injuries. Blizzard tapped the ice that imprisoned the hand and it cracked to pieces. Blizzard picked up the hand, which was ice cold due to being preserved in ice for so long, and she cackled delightedly.

"I just got lucky when I managed to amputate that stupid fire cat." she crooned "Thank goodness that portal that took me back home opened up just shortly after I'd cut off the cat's hand. It would have been so much nice if it had been Blaze's hand I'd taken but it's better than nothing at least. Now, since nobody will see me coming, I can finally formulate my Court of Ice and I will sentence all my enemies to immediate death with it. Sally Acorn, you will be sorry your father decided to take away everything that was precious to me…"

Blizzard would never be able to forget the terrible revelation that she had found in King Max's journal when she had been snooping around Castle Acorn looking for Sally last month. She had found out that King Max had been responsible for the death of her cult, a death that she had effected her in terrible ways. King Max had single-handedly transformed Blizzard into a monster when he had committed his heinous crime and Blizzard was determined to eliminate anyone affiliated with him so she could make him pay for it. And that day would be today as Blizzard strolled up to the ice cauldron and unloaded the ingredients she needed for the spell. A pound of crushed ice, a pound of crushed ice, a pile of fresh snow, a drop of mildew, a hair of fox, a leaf of any kind of plant, a hedgehog's quill and finally, a piece of an elemental Mobian. It's a good thing Blizzard stock piled on ingredients otherwise she'd constantly be needing to hunt for them. She dropped the fire cat's hand in last and watched gleefully as it disappeared into the liquid like a stock cube in boiling water. The ice cauldron began to glow a sinister, icy blue aura that somehow managed to make the already freezing cold lair that Blizzard occupied look even colder. Blizzard closed her eyes and held her hands out as the cauldron glowed and the liquid inside began to bubble. She then began the incantation that would formulate the spell and rise up her army of ice creatures. This time though, there would be no interruptions.

Powers of Ice, so strong and cold. I call upon thee, you have been told.

Powers of Ice, so beautiful and fair. I call upon thee, to give thy enemies a scare.

I need an army, an army so great. I need an army to destroy those I hate.

An army of ice creatures, one full of might. An army of ice creatures, one that can truly fight.

Hear my pleas, I call for an army of ice! Hear my pleas, an army that will deliver the final slice.

Army of Ice, I need thee now! Arise from they depths and heed my vow!

She thrust her arms up above her head as the cauldron glowed brighter and brighter and threw a huge beam of light up from within its depths. The light chased away the darkness of the cave, bathing Blizzard in a glorious light that was truly spectacular to watch. Blizzard cackled manically as the spell began to work. The light was soon replaced by a huge arm reaching out of the cauldron. The arm was made of solid ice and have enormous sharp icicles for digits. The wrist section was covered in sharp icicles that protruded forward from either side of its hand. The arm pulled on the side of the cauldron and pulled up the body it was joined to from within the cauldron. Then the entire body emerged from the cauldron, dripping wet from the liquid it had formed from. This was the first of many ice creatures that Blizzard had created with her spell. The creature was truly amazing looking, made entirely of solid ice and laden with sharp icicles protruding from its arms, head and back. It had large jaws with icicles for teeth and three ominous glowing eyes that seemed to spell danger for anybody who looked at it. It stood at a staggering six feet, much taller than the average Mobian and it looked like it had great power behind it. This ice creature was not the only one though, many more ice creatures began to form out of the cauldron and they joined the first one. Twenty ice creatures in total formed from the cauldron but Blizzard didn't mind, twenty was all she would need. This army would be more than enough to take down the Royal Fighters and if it wasn't, she'd just summon more and rebuild the army. As long as the cauldron remained untouched, the Ice Creatures could keep forming from it upon Blizzard's command. Blizzard shrieked with delighted laughter at the sight of her beautiful ice army. If there was such a thing as the most beautiful thing in the world, to Blizzard this was it. Her spell had worked and her plans could commence.

"Oh ho, ho, ho, ho, ho yes! It worked! Now nothing can stop me from getting my much deserved revenge!" cackled Blizzard "Oh Sally Acorn, I hope you have a grave prepared for all of your pathetic Royal Fighters for your funerals will be coming today!"

She stood before the ice army and loudly announced to them in the manner of a high authority figure.

"My beautiful Court of Ice! You have one simple task to complete!"

she barked "My vile enemies, the Royal Fighters, reside in the Kingdom of Acorn which is located in New Mobotropolis! It is a stain upon my honour that is to be wiped clean and you will have the honour of completing that task! Follow me my Court of Ice and I shall lead you to the enemy's location! Once we destroy the Royal Fighters, we will formulate a new kingdom, the Kingdom of Ice! It'll be a kingdom of honour and tranquillity and will be an improvement over the curse that is the Kingdom of Acorn. Onwards my court and let us claim what is rightfully ours!"

The ice creatures made loud, screeching roars of approval as if cheering for their master. Delighted, Blizzard led the Court of Ice out of her cave and began to make the long trek to New Mobotropolis, a city that had caused her too much strife for far too long. But as she began walking, she gripped her head as if in sudden pain and her eyes closed tightly shut. She gritted her teeth and hissed as if something was hammering inside her head. She could hear a whisper of some kind, a ghostly sort of whisper. And the sinister thing was, that whisper seemed to sound familiar to her. Familiar…in a way she never thought it would feel.

Don't do this my love…you're better than this…

"What in the…Iceberg?!" she gasped suddenly, the Court of Ice staring at her as if she was mad "No…it cannot be you! You're dead!"

Ind eed I am honey…but thanks to your new spell, I am back…as a ghost from your past. the whisper hissed in her head And I am disappointed to see what my beautiful wife has become in my absence. You're nothing but a monster now…this isn't the woman I fell for. Please my darling Blizzard, don't do this. You're not a monster, I know you're not.

"No…this is a trick! I'm hallucinating!" shrieked Blizzard, gripping her head furiously "I can't be hearing your voice in my head Iceberg, I just can't! I must be going mad! Well I'm not going to be mad any longer!"

She fell to her knees and she started throwing snow onto her head as if trying to ease the pain in her skull that was burning through her brain. As she did that, the whispers seemed to stop and the pain seemed to ease away. Blizzard shook the snow off her head and she slowly picked herself up, panting furiously. The court just looked confused. Was this seriously their master? A delusional old witch like her? They had served much better Ice Mobians before and it ashamed them to think Blizzard was going to lead them. Blizzard didn't seem to notice the court's reactions as her breathing slowed down.

"Phew…that's better." said Blizzard softly "I must have…imagined that voice. Might have been a side effect from the spell maybe. Hopefully it won't happen again."

She turned around to face the obfuscated Court of Ice, the ice creatures still staring at her as if she was fit for the asylum. She glowered at their gobsmacked faces.

"What are you all looking at?! MARCH ON ALL OF YOU!" she barked furiously.

The Court of Ice regained itself and they along with Blizzard continued to march on through the snow. In a matter of time, they would arrive at New Mobotropolis and the massacre could begin. Blizzard could hardly wait to see what the Kingdom of Ice would look like once she took the city over and remade it into her own image…

"Just a little tinkering here and…we're finished." said Tails the twin-tailed fox, wiping sweat off his head as he tightened one more bolt and put the spanner down "OK, let's see if this works."

The month that had passed after the Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses had been a relaxing, tranquil month for the Royal Fighters doing nothing but relaxing and living their daily lives as they would do normally on normal days like this. Being as peace is hard to come by these days, Sonic and friends made the most of this one month the best they possibly could. And Tails had been making the most of the month by doing what he did best, building new devices and tinkering with machinery. As odd as it sounded, this was Tails's idea of rest and relaxation. Given his genius level intellect, Tails was always at peace as far as machines and technology was concerned. Tails had been working all month on some new facilities that would benefit Nicole the Lynx greatly. During the Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses, Nicole had been kidnapped and had her mind transferred into a handheld computer pad, her primary function to be a servant to the next person who purchased her. In an attempt to save her, Sally and Mobius 3000's native hero Shard the Metal Sonic had failed to stop the process but they had managed to save her from losing her personality so in a way, Nicole wasn't truly gone. Her lifeless body had been buried around the back of Castle Acorn just next to Sally's parents graves while her mind lived on in the handheld computer. To give her more freedom, Tails had decided to make something for her. It wasn't fair for Nicole to be trapped inside a computer while she was home in New Mobotropolis, she deserved much more freedom than that. So Tails had installed some holographic projectors all around New Mobotropolis. He had installed them all over the ring wall that surrounded the city, on every wall of Castle Acorn and on every house that housed any of the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters. Sonic in particular had insisted his house have a holographic projector fitted on it so Nicole could materialize near it or in it whenever she wished. Tails of course had been all too happy to fit one onto his own house. After the projectors had been set up, Tails had spend the last two weeks of the month building a power generator for the holographic projectors. The generator was large and had hundreds of wires snaking out of it. The generator was located in Royal HQ's laboratory, a good place to put it indeed. He had just discovered that he needed a credible power source for the generator so he had gone out to the Lake of Rings and installed it into the generator. The ring's power was more than enough to power the generator and the power would be feed through on a continuous loop that would bring power to the generator and back to the ring so the ring would never run out. Even more ingenious was that the loop ran at twice the speed of sound so the generator would have time to receive and give power before the ring could lose any. It truly was a magnificent piece of science and in Tails's eyes, a work of scientific art. Just now he had been making some last minute adjustments that would make Nicole's life seem more like her old one. Now he'd finished he was ready to give it a try. Standing up from the generator, he turned to the anxiously waiting Sally Acorn who was standing by with Nicole in her hand, the hologram that represented her sharing her nervous expression.

"OK Miss Sally it should be ready for activation now." said Tails proudly "Nicole, prepare to leave your handheld and walk freely among us again!"

"Let's hope this works." said Nicole, crossing her fingers.

Tails crossed his fingers in return and he pulled the switch on the generator. The generator buzzed into life, the power ring residing inside it glowing a great, fluorescent golden colour that was so bright even the generator couldn't hide the shine completely. The generator shuddered slightly as it worked but then it stood still and hummed rhythmically as its circuitry worked and flowed as it should do. Tails grinned from ear to ear as he watched his precious machine work. Now came the next part, seeing if the holographic projectors worked as they should do. Nicole uploaded herself into the projectors and just as hoped, a hologram of herself emitted from nowhere and materialized into view just beside Sally. It was the same height and width as Nicole. It almost felt like for a minute that Nicole had truly come back in all her glory. Nicole gasped in delight at this and was amazed to see how well the machine was working.

"Oh my goodness, it works!" cried Nicole "I'm not just confined to the computer anymore! I can be anywhere in the city I want to be!"

"Indeed Nicole." said Tails "And here's the best part."

He talked up to Nicole and he took her hand into his own. Nicole gasped. Her hand didn't phase through Tails's own. In fact, she couldn't even get it out of his grip! She actually felt Tails's fingers curl over her own and his thumb lightly stroke her knuckles! Sally looked dumbfounded and decided to try this herself. She put her hand on Nicole's shoulder. To her utter amazement, her shoulder felt solid and real, even to the point of her fur feeling like actual fur. Tails smiled at their reactions. He loved surprising people, especially his friends. And of course, he liked surprising them in a good way. Sally took her hand from Nicole and gasped, unable to speak for a minute.

"You…you're…you're REAL?!" she blustered "Tails…how did…you do that?!"

"That's easy." said Tails "I installed a thermo-molecular matrix engine into the generator. The matrix's meritorious engineering allows a holographic projection to form solid shapes and even simulate real things such as fur, fluids and even a heartbeat for realism purposes. Put it simply, Nicole's hologram is the closest thing to organic she's going to get after the unfortunate loss of her old body. Luckily though she will be immune to any form of physical pain for if anybody throws a punch at her for example, the projectors will pick up the attempted assault and Nicole will unconsciously switch from solid to holographic, making any attempts to hurt her quite impossible. And because her hologram's capable of solid structure, she'll still be able to fight if anyone attacks us. I'm sorry to say that your handheld can't handle the same kind of matrix, it's much to compact for one to fit so New Mobotropolis is all the freedom you'll get." he said, looking a bit sad that he couldn't give Nicole anymore freedom than this.

"Tails, it's lovely." said Nicole, hugging Tails gleefully "Thank you so much. I still feel kinda trapped since I'm confined to my handheld once I'm outside of NewMobotropolis…but if there's any place I wouldn't mind being trapped in, it's here. At least I can feel Mobian again."

"At least indeed." said Tails "And you know your handheld form? I bet it'll be useful for research, translation and hacking purposes so even without a solid form for you to have outside of NewMobotropolis, you'll be quite useful on a mission I reckon."

"I'm sure of that indeed." said Nicole "The handheld allows me to think faster than humanly possible and I can process information much faster than before too. As is though…it still kinda makes me feel more like a tool than a Mobian."

Her face fell as she said that. Now was a good time to wonder if her solid form could emit tears like her old body for she certainly felt like crying now.

"I felt so happy and free when I was organic…now I'm a computer I just feel trapped. Your invention makes me feel less so Tails…but all you've done pretty much is expand my cage to make it roomier." she said sadly "And despite how realistic my hologram now feels, it still doesn't feel the same. What I wouldn't give to have my body back again!"

Nicole put her head into her hands and wept into them. The matrix engine was truly good at its job as far as realistic holograms go for Nicole actually emitted actual tears from her eyes. Tears that felt real to her that is. Sally put her arms around Nicole and she warmly embraced her heartbroken friend. Tails felt kind of crushed to see Nicole so upset. He'd worked so hard to try and make her happier and yet she still mourned her old body and wanted it back desperately. He could hardly help but feel sorry for the lynx. What had she done to deserve all this misery all of the sudden? Life certainly seemed unfair at times didn't it?

"Oh Nicole, please don't cry." said Sally softly "Tails didn't go through all this to see you upset. He was only trying to make you happy again."

"I know, I'm sorry Sally!" wailed Nicole loudly "But I just won't ever get used to this life! I want to be normal, not just a measly programme trapped in a handheld computer! Nothing you do will ever make it better for me!"

She looked at Tails, the fox looking even more hurt as he heard her wail.

"I mean no disrespect at all Tails, I'm glad you've made the city more accessible for me." said Nicole between snivels "I'm really sorry if I'm upsetting you but I can't help it. You have no idea what it feels like to be trapped as I am now."

"Given how often we've all been captured and restrained, I know exactly how you feel." said Tails gently.

"Maybe so but this is nothing compared to being tied down or locked in a cage." sobbed Nicole "This is a permanent cage for me that no key will unlock. Like it or not I'll have to get used to it…but it doesn't mean I'll like it. Please Sally, I need to disappear for a while." the digital tears streamed even harder down her face.

"Sure Nicole, whatever you need right now." said Sally softly, stroking Nicole's back to try and comfort her "Take all the time you need, we won't make you come out if you don't want to."

Nicole nodded sadly and then her body disappeared into a bunch of pixels, leaving no trace of her existence behind. That was one benefit of Nicole being a digital avatar, if she didn't want to be seen she could disappear at will so nobody would have to listen to her wail and she could have her own privacy. She could quite literally wail in private. Sally and Tails watched Nicole disappear, wondering how long she'd be gone for. They looked at each other sadly.

"Oh Tails, what are we going to do?" asked Sally worriedly "I so want my best friend to be happy again. Seeing Nicole sad makes me feel sad. And given how unaccustomed she is to this new life, I doubt she's ever going to be happy again."

"I don't know what we're going to do your majesty." said Tails sadly "I tried all I can but Nicole still feels "trapped" despite this. I don't know what else I can do. That seems to be her main problem, she feels shut in pretty much. She feels like a rat in a cage desperately biting away at the bars for freedom."

"I know." said Sally glumly "What can we do to make her feel less contained and more free?"

"I don't know…I just don't know…" said Tails, hugging Sally in the hope it'll be of some consort and comfort to her.

Sally hugged Tails back. If she ever had kids, she would know what the feeling of hugging one would feel like.

"It's all my fault that Nicole is suffering this torment." Sally whined, tears coming to her own eyes "If only I hadn't gotten knocked out by Mordred back on Mobius 3000, I could have saved her, I could have prevented this! But I didn't. Nicole's in misery…and it's all my fault."

"No it isn't." said Tails "It's not your fault at all. You tried all you could to save Nicole. It was just unfortunate that you didn't succeed. If you hadn't tried at all it would have been your fault but you did try and that's the main thing. I kinda felt the same way when I watched my alternate counterpart on Mobius Beta get killed in front of my eyes…" he cringed as the gruesome image came to his head again "I feel like it was my fault that he died for I didn't really try to help him. I just stood and watched. You at least tried to save Nicole, I didn't try to save Miles. Now his death haunts my nightmares whenever I have one…"

He could feel himself on the verge of tears. Just as they began brimming, Sally wiped them away with her thumbs like a loving mother comforting her child.

"There, there Tails." said Sally gently "Don't blame yourself for what happened when you and Cosmo ended up on Mobius Beta. I'm sure you did all you could and you didn't mean for your Mobius Beta counterpart to die. Don't act like it was your fault, I'm sure Miles wouldn't want you to think that about his death."

"I'm sure he wouldn't." said Tails, resting his head on Sally's shoulder and holding back the tears that were itching to fall "Thank you Sally."

"Anytime dear." said Sally warmly.

This rather sweet moment was cut short for Sonic burst into the lab and as he ran into it, he accidentally bumped into the counter, grimacing as pain flared up his knee for a minute and as he pumped into the counter, a hi-tech drill wobbled precariously near the edge. It then fell off the counter and broke into a million pieces. Tails instantly flipped in fury out of Sally's arms and he pointed sharply at Sonic.

"Sonic! I needed that!" he whined.

"Sorry Tails, I should have been a bit slower." said Sonic, picking up the broken drill and placing it back onto the counter "So, how's it going? Your new invention finished at all?"

"It is and it works most beautifully." said Tails, his expression changing so fast it was like the drill had never been broken all of the sudden "Although Nicole still kinda feels sad about being a computer programme. I'm trying to work out how to make her feel more free now…"

"That's too bad." said Sonic "I'm sure you tried all you can buddy. And I'm sure Nicole appreciates your efforts to make her life easier."

"She does." said Tails "That's the best news I can give though."

"Yeah." said Sonic "I'm sure we'll sort something out for Nicole some day."

He then turned to Sally and smiled at her.

"And how's my beautiful queen this morning?" he purred, wrapping his arms around her waist and pulling her close.

"She's perfectly well thank you." Sally purred back, a slight chuckle added to her words "And how's my handsome hedgehog this morning?"

"He's perfectly well thank you." said Sonic, kissing Sally on the forehead "I just thought I'd see how things are going that's all."

"I see. Anything to report?" asked Sally curiously.

"Not so far. Everything's pretty easy-going just like the past month has been." said Sonic brightly "Hopefully we'll get another month of peace. I'm growing to like kicking back and relaxing right now."

"It's only a matter of time until Eggman shows up again." muttered Tails "He's just waiting for the right moment to strike I bet. We should strike first before he gets a chance to."

"Maybe so." said Sonic "Say Sally, do you think a little mission to strike against Eggman would be a good idea?"

"Certainly." said Sally "We'll gather the whole team together and plan a heist on his base. We know where he is thanks to Nicole so we'll be able to find him and stop him dead in his tracks. He maybe in a life-support mech now but that won't stop us from taking him down."

"My thoughts exactly." said Sonic brightly.

They would soon have something other than Eggman to worry about though for Cosmo the Seedrian suddenly burst into the lab, looking very frightened as if the Day of Reckoning had finally arrived (it pretty much came close a month ago). Tails ran over to his girlfriend and he embraced her, hoping to calm her down a bit.

"Whoa love, settle down, what is it my flower?" he asked.

"You have to come outside now!" shrieked Cosmo, clutching Tails by the shoulders and shaking him furiously "Blizzard is coming towards the city and she's got an army of ice creatures with her! We must stop her before she can harm anybody! NOW!"

Sonic, Tails and Sally looked horrified to hear this. It was as if a zombie had dug up their graves and devoured their remains right then and there. Sonic put his hands on Sally's shoulders in case she needed the comfort.

"No…Blizzard's coming towards us?!" shrieked Sally "Oh god, please, anyone but her!"

"And things were going so well too." muttered Sonic grimly "Well she's not getting in the city!"

"Agreed on that." said Tails "Hey Nicole! Can you hear me? We need the shields raising please!" he called out loud.

Nicole, despite not being visible right now, did hear what Tails had said and she got to it immediately. She had to admit one good thing about her being a computer. She no longer needed the bead in her hair to activate the shields, she could just activate them with just a thought thanks to the access to all the facilities of NewMobotropolis she had been granted when Tails had been giving her the upgrades. The generator hummed as Nicole rose the shields to the city. The Court of Ice would not be able to get into the city while they were up but Sonic doubted Blizzard would let that slow her down. They had to get outside and drive away the threat before Blizzard could try anything crazy or even dangerous. Nicole's holographic form materialized in front of the Mobians.

"The shields are up." Nicole happily informed them "I'll stay visible so I can keep an eye on the populace and maybe even protect the city if somehow Blizzard manages to get in. Round up the others and drive away Blizzard's forces now!"

"You don't need to ask us twice." said Sally coldly "Blizzard's going to be sorry she ever decided to set foot here again."

"Whoa Sal, since when did you become so hateful towards her?" asked Sonic curiously "I thought she was Amy's enemy, not yours."

"She keeps trying to take over my kingdom, of course she's my enemy!" snapped Sally "And I'm not going to let her freeze my kingdom and make it her own! Come on team, let's take her down!"

Sally stormed out of the lab and headed on out of Royal HQ with Sonic, Tails and Cosmo following her. Sonic had to admit, Sally did have a point on why she seemed so keen on getting rid of Blizzard but he had a feeling that Sally's grudge expanded a bit further than that. Maybe there was more to this than he knew about. He shook off the nagging feeling as he followed the queen out of Royal HQ and towards the city gates. Sally called to the other members of the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters as she ran by them. Amy Rose, Cream the Rabbit, Wilson the Dog, Mandy Mouse, Sora Prower, Ruben the Water Panther, Geoffrey St. John, Bunnie Rabbot and Team Chaotix all joined Sonic, Tails, Sally and Cosmo as they walked through the city gates and stood defensively in front of the city wall, waiting for Blizzard to come. Amy in particular seemed very determined to give the Ice Witch a beating after what she'd done to her in the past. Her determination was the only one that exceeded Sally's and that was only by a little bit. As for Sally, she thought back to the day Blizzard had found out a dark secret about her father. In a way, she blamed King Max for the fact they were once again fighting against Blizzard. But what King Max did didn't justify Blizzard's actions at all. It was still evil of her and she wasn't going to let Blizzard win. Especially since she was working so hard on keeping the Acorn name clean and untainted. Blizzard was going to be arrested at last and she would pay for her crimes regardless of how wronged she had been in the past. Sally deployed her arm blades and took up a defensive stance as the Court of Ice marched towards New Mobotropolis. The Royal Fighters could only stare at the marvellous looking army of Ice Creatures that approached the city like a bunch of soldiers returning to their ranks. They looked sinister and very powerful that much was certain. They wouldn't be a match for them though, the Royal Fighters would defeat them. The Court of Ice stopped marching and Blizzard stood forward like a queen who's been invited to stay at another kingdom. She pointed a sharp finger at the Royal Fighters and her face curled into a sinister grin that made Sally's fur stand up.

"Royal Fighters, I have finally managed to conduct the spell that I've been trying so hard to conduct in the past." she barked "I come to you with my glorious Ice Amy, the Court of Ice! This army is invincible and any attempts to defeat them are futile. They cannot die, they are immortal so all you'll be doing is wasting your efforts. Surrender now and let the court deliver your sentence or you can die needlessly and I really am not in the mood for mindless bloodshed right now! The choice is yours!"

"Big words freak." muttered Amy "But so empty on the threats. Let's bash her head in!" she cried, brandishing her Piko-Piko hammer threateningly.

"Sonic, you and the others take down this "Court of Ice"." ordered Sally "Amy and I will take on Blizzard. Both of us have scores to settle with her."

"Whoa, two girls who have the hots for me are teaming up to fight an evil ice with…am I the only one who's interested in watching that?" chuckled Sonic, finding the whole idea very humorous.

Sally rolled her eyes. Sonic was the man for her that's for sure but at times, his humour could be very inappropriate and very corny. Hopefully he'd be a bit more serious once he spent more time with her. Blizzard just laughed at the fact the Royal Fighters were choosing to fight instead of surrender. A decision they would be regretting very soon.

"Fine then, if you want to sacrifice your lives so needlessly then so be it." she sneered "Don't say I didn't warn you. Court of Ice, ATTACK!" she roared at the top of her voice.

The Court of Ice sprang into action at such an alarming speed, Sonic was almost impressed. The ice creatures all thundered towards the Royal Fighters with their huge icy hands poised and ready to swat at the heroes. Sonic ducked as a huge icy hand swept through the air that his head had just occupied a moment ago and he rolled away from the ice creature. He spin-dashed it in the shoulder but to his surprise, the creature withstood the blow and shrugged off his spin-dash as if it was nothing. Sonic frowned at the ice creature. It wasn't going to be as simple as just spin-dashing it to pieces unlike all of Eggman's robots. He would have to try something else for the ice creature was clearly tougher than it looked. Sonic leaped up above the ice creature's head and he stomp-kicked it directly on top of its cranium, sending the creature hurling forward onto its face. Despite the power of the stomp-kick, the ice creature didn't seem fazed in the slightest. It still looked about ready to pulverize Sonic. The ice-creature picked itself up and as Sonic spin-dashed towards it, it held its hands up and seized Sonic like a basketball. He rose Sonic up into the air and then slammed him down onto the ground as if he was some disgusting bug that needed to be squashed. Sonic groaned as he was slammed into the ground and the ice creature rose its hand, ready for another strike. Just as it was about to bring its hand down on Sonic, Wilson threw his spinning blade at the creature's arm and the blade sliced it clean off. The creature growled in rage as its severed limb fell to the ground forlornly but it wasn't down for the count by any means. The ice creature simply regenerated its missing arm! A huge icicle extended out from the creature's shoulder and then slowly, steadily, formed an arm as it grew. It was almost like it had never lost it. Wilson could hardly believe his eyes.

"No way! They can regenerate lost limbs?!" he gasped.

"Oh god, it's The Eraser all over again!" muttered Mandy "Oh well, I bet my new knuckle attachments will finish those things off!"

She ran towards the ice creature, roaring like a Viking and she drew her arm back. The ice creature watched as Mandy ran up to it and threw a punch at the creature's abdomen. The punch was powerful enough to throw the creature off its feet thanks to her new knuckle attachments courtesy of Tails but to Mandy's utter amazement, the punch didn't even crack the creature! It had survived the punch as if it was nothing! The ice creature even emphasized this by picking itself up as if nothing had happened! Mandy looked just as gobsmacked as her husband did.

"No…way!" Mandy spat the words out in a hoarse gasp "It…survived the punch?! But I'm strong enough to punch through flippin' rocks with these new attachments! How can a creature of ice withstand it?!"

"You forget." said Tails, flying beside Mandy "They're magically made by an Ice Witch, of course they'll not shatter so easily. We've got to think of another way to stop them."

"We'd best do it quick." said Mandy grimly "Before those freaks try to storm the city."

Tails nodded agreeably. He knew that the city's shields would withstand the Court of Ice but he knew Blizzard wouldn't let a measly force field stop her. Also, they could easily dig their way underground and get into the city that way, the Court certainly looked capable of digging so despite the city being shielded, it wasn't completely protected from the Court of Ice. They would have to stop them now before they broke into the city. Tails, Wilson and Mandy charged towards the ice creature that had been fighting them. Mandy threw a terrific uppercut to the face on the creature, Wilson severed its arms and Tails stomp-kicked it just as its arms were growing back. The creature fell onto its back but just as its arms finished growing back, it picked itself up and swiped at the Mobians, missing them by centimetres.

Cream, Cosmo and Team Chaotix were teaming up to fight another ice creature. Cream and Cosmo both threw their disc weapons at the ice creature, hitting it in the eyes. The ice creature bellowed in pain as the discs slammed into its eyes. Now it was distract by the pain in its eyes, Vector lumbered clumsily forward and he clasped both fists together. He swung them directly into the creature's abdomen, making the upper-body of the creature lean forward as it was slammed. Vector then grabbed it in a headlock, making sure he didn't jab himself on the creature's head spikes as his arms tightly constricted the creature's neck. The ice creature turned its head slightly, jabbing Vector in the cheek with its head spikes. Vector yelped in pain but he held on tight. He then let go of the creature and uppercut it in the face. Espio and Charmy both kicked it in the chest but the creature took the blow and sent the chameleon and bee diving for cover as shards of ice spat out of its mouth like razor sharp drops of saliva. Vector ran towards the ice creature but the creature grabbed him by the arms and hoisted him up to its eyeline. It slammed its head into Vector's mouth, making the crocodile cry out from the impact and then the creature threw Vector into the air. Charmy flew up and caught Vector's hand. He lowered him to the ground and scowled at the creature.

"Aww...they're no fun. They're too mean and brutal!" he moaned.

"Blizzard sure knows how to make an army!" grunted Vector, rubbing his sore head "They're pretty tough!"

"Just a pity they're not on our side." grumbled Espio "They could be very useful on for the Royal Fighters."

"Well Espio, they're against us so we'll have to stop them anyway we can." said Cosmo glumly "Although it looks easier said than done I'm afraid..."

Team Chaotix nodded agreeably as the ice creature prepared to attack them again.

Another ice creature was fighting Bunnie, Geoffrey, Ruben and Sora. Sora threw a stun bomb into the creature's eyes to distract it while Bunnie lay the smack down on the creature with her robotic arm. She roundhouse punched it in the face and then deployed her arm cannon and blasted the creature in the torso. The creature was brought down onto the ground and Geoffrey fired a ring of stun-darts around the creature, knowing they wouldn't be sharp enough to actually embed themselves IN to the creature itself. The creature stood up and was suddenly bombarded by a ring of explosions as the darts went off. The explosions seemed to have cracked the creature but all of that was moot for the ice creature simply repaired the damages. Geoffrey and Bunnie were well shocked to see this but before they could express their surprise, the creature swatted them both away with a powerful arm. It then turned to Sora and opened its mouth. Showers of sharp icicles rained out of the creature's mouth and soared towards Sora. The vixen dodged the attack by rolling out of the way. She whipped an orb off her belt and fired it. It was her grappling hook orb and the hook wrapped itself around the creature, pressing its arms tightly against its sides. Now the creature was subdued, Ruben blasted it off its feet with a jet of water. Big mistake for the creature ended up freezing the water that trickled down its body, adding a bit more to its size and making it a little stronger. It seemed extra ice increased an ice creature's strength. The creature threw icicles at Ruben, the water panther barely dodging the blows as the icicles threatened to rip him apart. Sora yanked him down onto the grass to get him out of the way of the killer ice shower. The ice creature's mouth curled into what almost looked like a smirk as it saw Sora and Ruben diving for cover. It raised its arms and then slammed them onto the ground, the force kicking up soil and grass as it ripped its way across the land and hit Ruben and Sora, sending them both flying into the air as if a catapult had been activated. Bunnie flew up and caught the two children before they could have a nasty impact with the ground.

"Whew! Caught ya! You two OK?" she asked.

"My everything hurts." moaned Ruben.

"Those creatures are tough! And they just heal their injuries like The Eraser does!" exclaimed Sora "How can we stop those things?!"

"Maybe Sally-girl can convince Blizzard to tell us that..." said Bunnie, looking over to Sally and Amy.

The two girls were up against Blizzard, the Ice Witch looking eerily cool and confident as if she knew she was in control of the battle. Sally ran towards Blizzard with her energy blades flashing but the Ice Witch whipped her wand out and blew Sally off her feet with a magical force that felt like being punched very hard. Amy jumped into the air, hammer raised and ready to pile-dive Blizzard into submission but Blizzard smacked her down onto the ground with her wand's power. Amy winced in pain, not sure what had hit her as she hit the ground. Sally picked herself up and she ran towards Blizzard. Blizzard aimed her wand at her but Sally rolled out of the way as the wand's attack blasted towards her. Using her blades, Sally carved up a bit of soil and she threw it at Blizzard. Blizzard blasted the soil chunk to bits with her wand but that just left her wide open for Sally. Sally sliced her wand to pieces and then aimed a killer strike to the head with her other blade. Blizzard blocked the blow with an icicle that extended out of her hand. She summoned an icicle from her other hand and held Sally's other blade at bay. The queen pushed hard on her blades, willing them to slice through Blizzard's icicles. Unfortunately, that wouldn't be the case for Blizzard's weapons had increased in strength, a positive side effect from the ice creatures spell. Anyone using the spell would have stronger ice weapons as a result so Sally couldn't cut through her icicles, even if her blades could cut through almost anything. Sally grunted as she pushed on Blizzard's arms, her teeth clenched so hard she swore she could feel them cracking.

"Please Blizzard, stop this senseless fight!" pleaded Sally "Getting revenge on what happened to your cult will not make anything better for you! You'll only feel worse!"

The child is right you know darling. Please stop your desires for vengeance and let us rest in peace. Iceberg's voice whispered in Blizzard's head We want to rest with the knowledge that the Blizzard we knew and loved is still on the side of good...

"Shut up Iceberg!" snarled Blizzard, out loud by mistake.

"Who's Iceberg?" asked Sally "Your deceased husband? If so then what would HE think if he saw you like this? Do you think HE would be proud of what you've become Blizzard? Do you?!"

"SILENCE!" screamed Blizzard "Iceberg, along with my children and the rest of my cult were heartlessly slaughtered by YOUR father! Their deaths were undeserved and they deserve justice for what your filthy kingdom did to them!"

"This isn't justice, it's revenge!" snapped Sally "The two are NOT the same thing and never will be!"

"Don't you DARE preach to me you little brat!" snarled Blizzard "You are in NO position to preach to me about morality given what your father did! In fact, you're just like him! Stubborn, moronic and blind to the facts along with a poor sense of morality! Killing you will be like killing him at the same time!"

"I maybe like my father in some ways..." grunted Sally "...but I would never kill over a conclusion like he did. My sense of morality is much better than his. And I can also do what my dad never could, defend my city from villains like you!"

She then swung her leg directly up into Blizzard's gut, the Ice Witch gasping and spitting out drops of saliva as Sally's knee sharply connected with her stomach. Blizzard doubled over, clutching her stomach in pain. Sally sheathed her blades and she spun around on the ball of her foot, driving her other foot into Blizzard's face as hard as she could. What made the blow worse was the heel of Sally's boot being the part of her foot that struck her. Blizzard was thrown onto her side, a nasty bruise splotched on her cheek from the blow, and she clutched her face in pain. Just as she stood up, Amy ran in and hammered Blizzard into the air with her Piko-Piko hammer. Blizzard cried out loudly as she hurled into the air. One of the ice creatures, who was fighting off Team Chaotix, spun around and caught Blizzard in its arms before she could impact on the ground. Blizzard leaped out of its arms and she scowled tensely.

"Enough of this foolishness!" she growled "I will not be sullied at this stage of my plans! Court of Ice, UNLEASH THE FREEZING WINDS!"

The Court of Ice all obeyed Blizzard's orders. All twenty ice creatures opened their mouths and blew out a gust of icy cold winds that drifted all around the battlefield. To the heroes, it looked like ice blue mist was emitting from their throats and coating the arena with fog. But the freezing winds, which was the strongest attack of the Court of Ice, was not just a mere fog. The moment the mist drifted all over the heroes, they froze instantly. Twenty breaths of cold wind was more than enough to freeze everybody. Sally was horrified to see ice forming all around her beloved Royal Fighters. She soon got the shock of her life when she saw that she was freezing up too. Ice formed around her feet and worked her way up her body until she was completely frozen. The pose she had been frozen in made her look like she was calling for help. The mists died away as the Court of Ice completely froze the Royal Fighters. Blizzard cackled with maniacal glee as she saw that she had won the battle, just as she knew she would.

"YEEEESSS! YEEEEEEEESSSSSS! I WON! AH, HA, HA, HA, HA, HA, HA!" she shrieked delightedly "The Royal Fighters have been defeated! Bound in ice and helpless to stop me! Now nobody will prevent me from taking over the city!"

Blizzard! I'm ashamed of you! the cold, stern voice of Iceberg was as sharp as an icicle and Blizzard even felt like his words were sharp enough to cut her as the pain in her head appeared again This isn't you dear! How could you do something so evil?!

"Don't be ungrateful Icerberg! I did all this for you!" snapped Blizzard, clutching her head "You were killed for no reason, I'm avenging your death my darling husband! You'll thank me later!"

Revenge won't solve anything sweetheart. said Iceberg coldly And who said we wanted revenge for our untimely deaths? Ice Mobians welcome their deaths regardless of the reason. It's what made us such a civilized, honourable race and you Blizzard, are a disgrace to us all! This was not the woman I married. You're not my wife anymore, you're a monster! A MONSTER!

Blizzard's eyes streamed with tears and she fell to her knees in agony, clutching her head furiously as if trying to flatten it and ease the pain.

"NO, NOOOOOOO! I AM NOT A MONSTER ICEBERG! I AM NOT A MONSTER! " she roared at the top of her husky voice.

The Court of Ice stared at her again, obfuscated by Blizzard's delusional breakdown. What the hell was up with her?! This was NOT the person they would be happy to serve at all. They would happily double-cross Blizzard once the time was right. Blizzard picked herself up and she eased the pain in her head. Her eyes were still streaming with tears. She didn't want to wipe them away.

"I'll show you Iceberg...you'll appreciate what I've done for you...I'll SHOW YOU!" she barked "Court of Ice, let's freeze this pathetic kingdom and form the Kingdom of Ice!"

She and the Court of Ice marched towards New Mobotropolis, Nicole watching them approach from atop the wall in worry. Her friends had been frozen in ice and she'd be unable to stop them given she's now a computer programme. What could she do to save the city...?

Footnotes:

She's tried already in two Tales from Mobius arcs. Arc 21 and Arc 22 to be precise

* See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 17: Divide and Conquer: The Home Front

Well this isn't good...the Royal Fighters are frozen and Blizzard's victorious. But for how long? And is the Court of Ice all that loyal to her? Find out next time as the Court of Ice comes to a chilling conclusion...

The Court of Ice Part 2

Story 177: The Court of Ice Part 2: Dismissing the Court

It's amazing how fast peace can be shattered. Almost like watching a glass fall off the table and break into a million tiny slivers of sparkling fragments as it hits the floor.

Sonic the Hedgehog and his Royal Fighter friends had enjoyed a whole month of peace and relaxation after the intense Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses that nearly led to the end of everything and yet it seemed the world hadn't had enough of throwing obstacles in their way for Blizzard the Ice Witch had emerged from hiding to once again, try to take over the Kingdom of Acorn. Her goal was more personal than it was before though given what Blizzard had recently found out about her cult and how Sally's father had been the one who murdered them*. After a few failed attempts, Blizzard had finally conducted a spell that allowed her to form an army of invincible ice creatures that she had collectively named "The Court of Ice" under the impression that it would sentence her enemies to whatever dire punishment she deemed necessary for them. The spell seemed to have some unexplainable side effect for Blizzard for she was now hearing the voice of her deceased husband in her head, something that she was not too happy about for the voice kept berating her and making her look crazy in front of the court. Regardless, Blizzard's take over seemed well in hand for the Court of Ice had just frozen the Royal Fighters and left them to stand around like ice sculptures while they marched towards New Mobotropolis. The city was shielded but it wouldn't do any good. They'd find a way in somehow and there was nobody to stop the court now the Royal Fighters were frozen. Only Nicole the Lynx, Mobian-recently-turned-computer-programme, was left to defend the city and yet she knew she couldn't do anything about it. Her fighting style was not the best and given she was a computer programme, all Blizzard had to do was find out where she was stationed and then destroy it, erasing her instantly. Even if Blizzard didn't find where Nicole was stationed, she'd likely destroy her anyway for she'd likely freeze the city and make it an icy paradise. Her handheld computer wouldn't last in ice and the holographic projectors wouldn't work if they were frozen. Nicole was literally in a matter of life and death. But Nicole knew she couldn't go down without a fight, she had to try and defend the city. The lynx stood by the gates, bracing herself for the court's entrance.

"OK Nicole…let's see if you can defend this city…" she said to herself "Remember what Tails said, nobody can hurt you. Your solid mass alters if anybody tries to attack you, you won't get killed in this fight…it would be nice if I could just manipulate the city and make it kick them out though." she muttered.

It certainly was a nice thought to think about making a giant foot just come out of nowhere and send the Court of Ice and Blizzard flying back towards White Acropolis. To Nicole's dismay, that was not possible. She'd just have to do what she could. Nicole de-materialized into thin air and given how Tails had set up holo-projectors all over the city, Nicole could reappear anywhere she wanted in the city. For this case, Nicole had chosen to reappear in Royal HQ. Her holographic form materialized into existence within Royal HQ and she immediately ran over to the weapons cupboard. She yanked open the cupboard, now feeling grateful that Tails had given her the upgrades that allowed her hologram to look and feel more real since she was able to interact with the environment as if she was a normal person, and she looked through the masses of weapons that the Royal Fighters Service had. She chose a pair of arm gauntlets that very advanced members of the army would wear in battle. The gauntlets were as long as Nicole's lower arms and they clipped onto her arms nice and comfortably. They were a little chunky but relatively light and they had huge green circles in the centre. They would fire powerful plasma blasts. Hopefully that would be enough to stop the Court of Ice. Nicole de-materialized out of Royal HQ and back to the city gates. To her horror, the Court of Ice had used their icy breath to freeze the ring wall and the force field defending the city from harm and now they were breaking through the ice as if it was nothing. The sheet of ice crumbled to pieces as all twenty members of the Court of Ice stormed into New Mobotropolis. Nicole wasn't worried about their icy breath in the slightest. They couldn't freeze her since her hologram had been programmed to switch from solid to holographic the moment anybody attacked her. She was literally untouchable. But that didn't make her invincible. Would she be able to stop the court? Nicole raised the gauntlets and aimed them at the court menacingly. Blizzard, who was standing in front of the court, smirked confidently at the lynx.

"P-p-please, d-don't move." said Nicole, stammering a little as she spoke "Y-you are t-t-trespassing on r-r-royal grounds. P-please stand d-down or I w-will use force. Th-these gauntlets w-will p-punch a hole in a-anything."

"Go ahead, see if I care foolish woman." snorted Blizzard "The Court of Ice is immortal. You cannot kill them. Destroy them, they just come back alive with their regenerative powers. Your silly weapons won't stop the court so easily."

"Oh yeah?" said Nicole, trying her best to sound more threatening "How about I use these gauntlets on YOU! Will the Court of Ice be happy to see their master injured, perhaps dead? And what happens if my blasts kill you? Will the Court of Ice simply disappear?"

"As if I'd tell you that." snorted Blizzard "And besides, killing the creator doesn't simply make the creatures disappear. It means they're allowed to act on their own freewill and not be tied down by the master."

Blizzard would soon regret saying that for the Court of Ice suddenly had evil ideas in their heads. As for Nicole, she couldn't believe her rotten luck. The Court of Ice can't die and getting rid of Blizzard wouldn't solve anything? How could she defend the city now? Nevertheless, she wouldn't go down without a fight.

"So you say." said Nicole "But I'm still not surrendering. I'll blast the court to smithereens and send you all home packing if it's the last thing I do!"

"Silly thing to say Nicole, what if it IS the last thing you do?" snorted Blizzard, drawing out her ice wand and pointing it at her "And frankly, it WILL be the last thing you do! Ha, ha, ha, ha!"

Blizzard was still cackling as she strolled up to Nicole and lunged at her with her wand. Nicole just stood by and let Blizzard stab at her, interested to see if Tails's upgrades worked as they should do. Blizzard's wand plunged into Nicole's chest like a dagger through flesh…but Nicole felt no pain. She didn't even feel like she'd been impaled. She felt nothing. Blizzard gasped in alarm. It was as if her hand had phased straight through Nicole, something she hadn't seen since she'd stolen the phase shifter from Tails (it's useless now thanks to an EMP launcher Tails used on it so she doesn't still have it). Had Nicole somehow become intangible?! Blizzard drew her arm back and she stabbed again. Nicole smirked at her as the wand harmlessly phased through her.

"That tickles." she crowed.

"Impossible! How did you become intangible?!" shrieked Blizzard "You're not wearing a phase shifter!"

"You know what they say "A magician NEVER reveals his secrets"." sneered Nicole, giving Blizzard a finger waggle in a manner very much like how Sonic the Hedgehog would do it "I'm no magician but I'm not going to reveal my secret on this matter. Suffice it to say, I'm untouchable in a battle."

"So what if you are?!" snarled Blizzard "You can't stop us! This city will be mine and once I freeze it and form it into the Kingdom of Ice, you will be a servant to me and you'll be wishing you hadn't decided to defy me! Court of Ice! At…"

Before she could finish the word "attack", a sharp pain suddenly flared up in her skull and the ice witch fell onto her knees as if somebody had whacked her on the head and knocked her down. Nicole stood back, watching to see what was going to happen. Blizzard gripped her head in agony and she gritted her teeth ever so tensely. Her eyes were screwed tightly shut and her fingers were clutching her head so tightly Nicole thought she'd end up crushing her own head.

"Iceberg…go away!" wailed Blizzard "I'm in the middle of a takeover!"

No Blizzard, I will not go away. hissed the voice of her deceased husband, the voice sounding like it was coming from directly behind her even though it was in her own head I refuse to leave you alone unless you stop this evil and come back to the side of good. I don't want to rest knowing that my wife is a murderous monster who wants revenge on those who wronged her.

"You ungrateful little…you was murdered by a senile old man who was undeserving of his title as "king"! And not just you but our ENTIRE cult!" screamed Blizzard, angry tears as warm as her angry face streaming down her cheeks as she ranted "I'm trying to get justice for what happened to you and this is the thanks you're giving me?! You should appreciate my efforts Iceberg! You deserve justice for your undeserving death!"

Did you ignore what the Acorn child said to you earlier? snorted Iceberg This is NOT justice. It's REVENGE. You are not getting justice for what happened to us, you're getting revenge for what happened to us. And revenge NEVER solves anything. All you're doing is making your life horrible Blizzard. I mean what's your life been like since you killed that councillor just for picking on you? Horrible, that's what.

"How do you know about that?!" shrieked Blizzard in astonishment "I never got the chance to tell you about that!"

I'm in your head Blizzard, I know everything you're thinking. said Iceberg coldly I know exactly what happened now. You may have been bullied Blizzard but did that give you any right at all to murder Aramis? Would you like it if somebody murdered you just for being bullied by you? And what's happened since Aramis's death? Nothing but misery for you Blizzard. If you never killed Aramis then King Max wouldn't have gotten worried about you crying to us and then got the idea to kill us. Yes I agree, King Max's actions were equally as unjustified but given he's dead, you're taking your anger out on people who had NOTHING to do with our demise, especially the new queen, Sally is it? She wasn't even born at the time of our demise so your actions towards her are unjustified. She didn't harm you, far from it. Nobody on her team harmed you so how is killing them and taking over the kingdom going to get you justice for our deaths? It's revenge Blizzard, plain and simple. And now answer me this my darling wife…if you take over the kingdom…then what? Will you be happy? We'll still be dead regardless of what you do. Your goals will NOT solve your dilemma, it's making it worse. Please understand this Blizzard. I only want to help you…

"STOP IT! STOP IT, STOP IT, STOP IT!" thundered Blizzard, bellowing at the top of her voice "GET OUT OF MY HEAD ICEBERG! PLEASE, LEAVE ME ALONE!"

Then I guess you don't want to see your children again? said Iceberg smoothly, not showing any signs of losing patience with his wife.

"M…My children?" gasped Blizzard.

Nicole and the Court of Ice could only stare at Blizzard as she began hallucinating and ranting at the top of her voice. Nicole in particular had a face that said all the words she needed to say without her needing to use her mouth to say them. "Has Blizzard gone totally crazy?" Nicole always knew Blizzard was crazy but never had she imagined her being THIS crazy! The Court of Ice seemed to agree with her confusion without needing to say so. Their faces were screwed up in disgust as if to say "This is seriously the person we're working for, what a drag." As for Blizzard, she soon got the shock of her life as straight in front of her, visible only to her were two ghostly images, looming in front of Nicole as if trying to take her place in Blizzard's field of vision. They were ghostly looking images of small Ice Mobians, both of them hedgehogs like Blizzard was. One, a girl, was dressed more or less like Blizzard was only wearing light purple and having two quills that ran down the back of her head. The other, a boy, looked more like a young wizard and had darker blue clothing than Blizzard did. Blizzard thought she would cry for joy at the sight of the ghosts before her.

"Winter! Frost!" gasped Blizzard "My lovely children! I can't believe that I'm seeing you two again for the first time in fourteen years!"

Mummy, daddy says you're a monster. said Winter, her voice sounding somewhat adorable and sinister at the same time Is this true?

Yes mummy, is daddy telling the truth? Are you a monster? asked Frost, looking sterner than his sister did and pointing accusingly at Blizzard.

Blizzard looked stunned to hear accusations coming from her own children. She cried even harder upon hearing this.

"No children…No I'm not a monster!" protested Blizzard "Your mother would never be a monster!"

Then why are you trying to kill completely innocent people over something they didn't do? snapped Winter, sounding like a very stern parent giving her child an epic lecture They didn't kill us, that nasty man King Max did and he's dead now so you're just being mean and nasty over nothing!

My sister is right mother, you're not avenging our deaths at all! scolded Frost You're just making yourself worse! And we don't want our nice, lovely mother to become a monster! Stop being evil and make up for what you did or we will refuse to acknowledge you as our mother!

"No…NO! No please children, don't hate me!" whimpered Blizzard "I never wanted to stoop so low! Honest I didn't! My intentions were meant to be good! Please, forgive me! FORGIVE ME!"

She wailed loudly, her sobs an agonizing wail of despair as tears poured down her faces and her hands gripped her head tighter and tighter. Nicole, despite being crept out by Blizzard's hallucinations, began to feel a glimmer of hope building insider her digital body. Was Blizzard going to turn around and abdicate her evil intentions? She hoped that was the case, she certainly seemed to be feeling guilty all of the sudden. As Blizzard wept, another ghostly figure appeared before her. It was her husband, Iceberg the Ice Wizard himself. He was a white furred hedgehog with eight long quills styled like dreadlocks and he wore wizard robes that matched Blizzard's own. He knelt before his snivelling wife and he put a ghostly hand on her shoulder.

You see Blizzard? Even your children are heartbroken to see what you've become. he said warmly Do you want to be hated and scorned by your own family?

"No…god please…no…I don't want you to hate me!" howled Blizzard, trying to embrace her husband only to remember he was a ghost so she couldn't "Please, I can't live with myself knowing that this is what's going to happen to me! Please Iceberg, help me! Make the misery stop already! Please!"

You don't need my help Blizzard, you just need to relinquish any evil ambitions you have and return to the side of good. said Iceberg softly Honour our deaths by fulfilling the purpose of our cult, to bring peace to the world. Don't let our deaths be wasted. Please honey… can you do that for us? Our deaths may have been meaningless but you can honour us by carrying out what we strive to do. Come on Blizzard…do it for our children…do it for me….and do it for your cult. It's what they would have wanted.

Blizzard took in her husband's words and began to think very hard. As much as she wanted to make King Max pay for his crimes, she found herself wondering…would it be worth it? It would not. She did not want to hear her husband criticizing her for the rest of her life and since she didn't know how to fix this side effect that had come out of her spell, she couldn't just stop it and ignore him. Not to mention Iceberg had brought logic and common sense to her, something she had lost a long time ago after going mad. It was quite clear Blizzard needed to hear those ghosts in her head for they had shown her the error of her ways and shown what she had truly become. A monster. She couldn't live knowing that she was a monster. Her goal no longer had any weight to it and Blizzard no longer wished to carry out her grudge. She made up her mind. She was going to redeem herself and abdicate her evil ways for good. She didn't want to dishonour her cult by being this way. Blizzard looked at Iceberg. If there was one thing she had missed in his absence, it had been his warm smile and friendly, charming eyes that had won her over and led to him becoming her husband. Blizzard wiped away her tears and smiled happily at Iceberg.

"…my wonderful husband…you was just the wake-up call I needed." she said gently "What was I thinking? I'm so sorry about all the bad things I did! Please…please forgive me!"

I do forgive you Blizzard. said Iceberg gently It's up to you to try and earn the Roy al Fighters' forgiveness though. I'm so glad you've seen the error of your ways my angel.

Daddy, is mummy nice now? asked Winter.

Judging from what I'm picking up in her head…yes she is. said Frost Mummy, we knew you could reform. Thank you for listening to daddy.

"No…thank YOU my angels." said Blizzard brightly "Oh Iceberg, Winter and Frost. I wish I could see you all again. It's clear I need you more than I realized. Without you…I went insane."

Ind eed you did. said Iceberg And because of the side effect of the Ice Creatures spell, we will always be with you whenever you need us. We're just there inside your head if you want us at all.

"Wonderful…." said Blizzard happily "Thanks for everything my dear family…and remember, I love you all. Always have, always will."

We love you too Blizzard…always have, always will. said Iceberg Goodbye for now Blizzard…it's time we were going.

Blizzard nodded as the ghosts of her family disappeared and she snapped back into reality, just acknowledging that Nicole was still standing before her and had likely seen everything. She felt a bit embarrassed but it didn't matter now. Blizzard got up to her feet and decided to explain everything to Nicole.

"So, you might be wondering what that was all about..." she began.

"No need to explain, I figured it out." said Nicole, raising a hand up to silence Blizzard "You were seeing ghosts of your late family. You seemed to be getting upset and begging for forgiveness and wanting help. Were they lecturing you on your actions?"

"They were." said Blizzard solemnly "And I'm glad they did for they've shown me the error of my ways and pointed out that in the end...my goals aren't worth it and I'm disgracing my cult. This is a stain upon my honour I must wipe clean. So I have decided to reform. I am no longer your enemy and I wish to make up for my appalling crimes. Will you trust me enough to do that?"

"Can we talk about this later Blizzard, because the Court of Ice is preparing to attack you!" shrieked Nicole dramatically.

Blizzard turned around just in time to see an ice creature raise its arm and lunge at her with its powerful, sharp, icy claws. Blizzard leaped back in alarm, phasing through Nicole for she accidentally jumped back into her and she glared at her court.

"Court of Ice! Why are you trying to attack me?!" she snarled "Stand down at once!"

The court ignored Blizzard and they advanced menacingly on her. The Ice Witch stepped back in fright.

"Court of Ice! Stand down NOW!" she barked "Do not commence with this treason! I will destroy you all if you don't stand down!"

The lead ice creature opened its mouth and blasted a jet of icy wind towards Blizzard. But the ice creature should have known better then to try and freeze Blizzard. You can't freeze and Ice Mobian, they control all cyrokinetic abilities. Freeze them, they just unfreeze themselves. The creature's ice breath froze Blizzard in an instant but Blizzard simply managed to break free with merely a thought. It was useful being able to manipulate ice like she could, she would have been in trouble otherwise. Blizzard aimed her wand at the creatures and blew them off their feet with the wand's powers. All twenty ice creatures were sent colliding into each other and they tumbled down like a stack of dominoes. Now they were down, Blizzard ran off towards the city gates.

"Keep the creatures busy! I'm going to free the Royal Fighters and stop the Court of Ice!" Blizzard called to Nicole over her shoulder.

"Given they can't touch me, I'll be keeping them PLENTY busy Blizzard." said Nicole, aiming her arm gauntlets at the Court of Ice picked itself up and advanced towards her.

Blizzard knew that Nicole wouldn't need any help and that there was no need to worry about her. She'd seen for herself that Nicole appeared to be untouchable. She'd likely just keep phasing through the creatures and start blasting them. That would distract them long enough for her to put an end to her insidious court. Blizzard could already imagine how happy Iceberg and her kids would be to see her willingly going out to solve a problem she'd caused. It was the perfect start to her redemption. Blizzard ran through the city gates, the sound of Nicole's gauntlets firing and plasma blasts punching into ice ringing in her ears, and she dashed over to the frozen Royal Fighters. In an instant, she whipped her wand out and she waved it around. An icy aura trailed through the air, following the wand as Blizzard waved it around.

"Spirits of good, good so pure! Melt the ice, the curse you must cure!"

She pointed her wand at the Royal Fighters and all at once, fifteen beams of light all shot out of the wand and struck the frozen Royal Fighters. The moment the beams struck, the ice cracked and broke away, freeing the Royal Fighters from the prison they formed around them. They all gasped in alarm and started looking around frantically as if they were shocked at suddenly being able to move again.

"Whoa…I never want to get frozen again!" cried Sonic "I can't tell you how unpleasant it is, being unable to move and being so cold and all!"

"The feeling is mutual." said Sally, rubbing her arms to bring some warmth back to them "I wonder who freed us?"

"I did." said Blizzard, looking nervous as she forced herself to speak up.

The Royal Fighters all stared at Blizzard in disbelief. They blinked in unison and stared, not sure how to react to this. Amy however had the perfect reaction. She stormed up to Blizzard and grabbed her by the collar, the Ice Witch showing no signs of resistance as Amy grabbed her.

"Alright you ugly old witch, time to put you in jail where you belong!" snarled Amy "You and your Court of Ice are going down starting with you!"

"Amy please, I've switched sides!" protested Blizzard "I'm on your side now, I'm giving up my evil schemes and am returning to the side of good!"

"Do you really expect me to fall for such an obvious lie?!" growled Amy "Do you even realize how cliché that lie is?! Practically EVERY villain does it and then suddenly, what a shock! They're still evil! Well I'm not falling for it!"

"No Amy, really! I'm turning over a new leaf! Honest I am!" shrieked Blizzard "I know I've done terrible, terrible things but I'm putting that behind me now! I'm joining you Royal Fighters to stop the Court of Ice!"

"Blizzard, just stop, please. You're making a fool of yourself." said Sally coldly "We aren't falling for your obvious trick. Now stand down and face your punishment before things get unpleasant for you."

"No wait Sally!" cried Tails, holding Sally back by the arm "I think Blizzard's being serious! Look at her expressions and body language! That's way too convincing to be an act! I think she means what she's saying!"

"Tails, for a genius you sure are dumb." muttered Amy "Blizzard's faking it, I KNOW she is! Don't you DARE stick up for her!"

"Amy calm down!" yelled Sonic "I think Tails has a point. Also consider this, why would Blizzard suddenly change from wanting to take over the city to suddenly regretting her actions and wanting to stop the court? Why would she want to fake something like that? That's not in her character. Blizzard's many things but she's not a deceiver."

"True…" mused Sally "Blizzard never relied on deception to get what she wanted in her past attempts…"

"That doesn't prove anything!" yelled Amy angrily "I can't believe you lot are even remotely THINKING that Blizzard's turning good! She's an evil monster who killed my parents and scarred me terribly for a large portion of my childhood! Thanks to her I feared the snow for a while until I got over it! You can't seriously tell me you believe somebody as despicable as her is really willing to help us stop the Court of Ice, something SHE created need I remind you?!" she ranted furiously, her face seeming to turn red as she raved.

"Amy please, I've had a change of heart!" cried Blizzard desperately "Give me a chance to prove myself, please! I beg you!"

"Just shut up already." snarled Amy, her teeth clenched and her eyes narrowed into a hardcore scowl that could freeze the heart "I have NO respect for you after how you treated me and I'm not falling for your obvious trick! Go do something useful and arrest yourself or something!"

Blizzard scowled at Amy, almost prepared to ignore what her family had told her and go back to being evil but she knew that wouldn't fix the problem, it would make things even worse. She wouldn't be able to stop the court by herself, she needed the Royal Fighters' help and she needed to gain their trust. Blizzard knew what she had to do to sway their minds and get them to help her.

"Fine! If you don't want my help, that's your loss!" snapped Blizzard, folding her arms and sticking her nose up in the air "I was going to tell you how to stop the Court of Ice but now because you're being an ungrateful little brat who's assuming things that aren't true, I won't tell you now!"

"No wait Blizzard, please excuse Amy's distrust!" cried Sally desperately "We'll give you a chance to prove you've changed! Please tell us how to stop the Court of Ice!"

"No, you don't want my help so I won't give it you." said Blizzard tersely "I'm just an evil monster who deserves to be locked away aren't I? I've willingly changed my wicked ways and want to help you and you don't want it. I don't see why I should waste my time with people who don't want my help."

Sonic ran up to Blizzard and put a hand on her shoulder. Blizzard began to wonder if her act of refusing to help them was beginning to tempt the Royal Fighters into accepting her after all.

"Amy may not want your help but WE do." said Sonic "Unlike Amy, I actually believe you're willing to change. As Tails pointed out, the way you acted is way too realistic to be an act or fake and you know what? Your change of heart is reminding me of what happened to another former enemy of mine. A girl named Roxy wanted to change for the better and the way she acted strongly indicated she was being truthful. What you're going through is reminding me of that so I'm convinced. Though I have to ask why have you changed so drastically? First you want to kill us, now you want to help us? You've got some explaining to do." he said sternly.

"I know I have young man and I can explain perfectly." said Blizzard "You see, my spell came with a rather surprising side-effect. After conducting the spell that made the creatures, I began to hear my late husband's voice in my head."

"You were married?" said Sonic in surprise.

"I was, married with children even." said Blizzard sadly "As for my husband, I didn't only hear him but I began to see him too. And before you say anything, Nicole saw what was going on with me and worked out that I was seeing and hearing my dead family so she can vouch for what I'm telling you." she said sharply, jabbing Sonic in the chest with a pointy finger.

"So Nicole witnessed what was going on and worked out what was happening to you?" asked Sonic "Now I AM convinced what you're saying is true."

"Thank you." said Blizzard brightly "Now then, my husband showed me the error of my ways and even had my late children show me how wrong I am. It pains me to think I'm dishonouring my cult and disgracing their deaths. So…I no longer wish to commence with my ambitions. I want to redeem myself and I want to make it up to you all for what I've done. And I'm going to start by helping to stop the Court of Ice. I'm sorry to say that they've betrayed me and want to kill me now so I can't just get them to change sides either." she said solemnly "So I have to destroy them."

"That's awesome." said Sonic "Welcome to the good side Blizzard. So how do we stop the Court of Ice then?"

"I have to tamper with the cauldron." explained Blizzard "If I add so much as a tiny amount of an extra ingredient, the spell will be broken and the creatures will disappear. And I know just what I'm going to do. I'm going to put one of my quills in the cauldron. I created the creatures so it's fitting I use a piece of myself to stop them."

"I'll say." said Sonic "So why do you need us? Can't you just do it yourself?"

"I need somebody to keep the Court of Ice busy and Nicole won't hold them off forever." explained Blizzard "Also, more creatures might come out of the cauldron to try and protect it. I can't fight them alone so I need the extra muscle."

"That can be arranged." said Sonic with a smile "Me, Sally and Amy will back you up while the others protect New Mobotropolis."

"Sounds good to me." said Blizzard "Let's get going before the court wrecks your city!"

Sonic did not wait to be asked twice. He turned away from Blizzard and he walked over to Sally and Amy.

"OK girls, you might hate me for this but I'm convinced Blizzard is telling the truth." said Sonic cautiously, already expecting a violent reaction "But hear me out…she claims that a side effect of her spell is that she now sees and hears the ghosts of her former family, something I didn't know she had before. And apparently they've tempted her to stop being evil and turn over a new leaf. I know it sounds crazy but…"

"Sonic, I believe you." said Sally "When me and Blizzard were fighting, she randomly shouted out to somebody named "Iceberg". Her story is credible and makes sense so as crazy as it is, I believe it too."

"Good." said Sonic "And apparently, Nicole actually saw Blizzard talking to the ghosts so if you still didn't believe her then you could ask Nicole about it, she'd have told us the same thing."

Amy was about to form a rebuttal but she knew that she couldn't find a way of countering that statement. If Blizzard had talked to a ghost directly in front of Sally and then in front of Nicole then there was no way she could be making this up. And since she was a witch and witch's spells had been known to have side effects sometimes, that also made the story plausible. She didn't have a ghost problem before so why would she suddenly have one now? As reluctant as Amy was to admit it…she couldn't prove Blizzard was lying and her story did have some credibility to it. She sighed and folded her arms.

"Fine, Blizzard's telling the truth. First time that's ever happened." muttered Amy "Now then, has she told us how to stop the Court of Ice?"

"She has." said Sonic "She needs to throw something into the cauldron and tamper with the spell. She needs back-up though so me, you and Sally are coming to do that while the rest stay home and keep the Court of Ice busy."

"Sounds good to me." said Sally "And I very much would like to watch Blizzard do something heroic for a change. Let's go and stop those creatures!"

Happy to hear that Sally and Amy were convinced, Blizzard ran over to the three Mobians and she pulled out a smoke bomb from inside her sleeve.

"Everybody hold hands, I'll poof us back to my cave." said Blizzard, getting ready to throw the bomb down on the ground.

"OK." said Sonic "Everybody, help Nicole to protect the city from the Court of Ice!" he called to the other Royal Fighters "We'll be right back!"

"Good luck out there." said Tails "And…even you too Blizzard." he added, thinking how weird it sounded for him to be wishing Blizzard good luck.

Blizzard nodded and she threw the bomb down onto the ground, a billow of smoke seeping up all around her, Sonic, Sally and Amy as the bomb shattered. The smoke hung around for a few seconds and then vanished, no sign of Blizzard , Sonic, Sally or Amy after it disappeared. They'd be over in Blizzard's ice cave right now, preparing to put an end to the Court of Ice. The other Royal Fighters instantly headed over to New Mobotropolis to hold back the twenty ice creatures that were attacking the city. Time would tell if Blizzard would succeed in stopping the insidious court. If she couldn't…then the city was doomed to be a frozen paradise for them all…

The ice cave was suddenly alight with purple light as the four Mobians appeared out of thin air. The teleportation had been a success and Blizzard, Sonic, Sally and Amy found themselves in Blizzard's cave once again. Sally and Amy remembered all too well what the place was like since they had been in it in Blizzard's last encounter whereas Sonic was new to the place. He whistled in amazement, impressed with how the cave looked. It was amazing how ice and snow could have some kind of beauty to it despite how deadly it could also be.

"Nice place you got Blizzard…if a little cold." said Sonic, his fur standing up on end as the cold bit into him.

"P-probably sh-should h-have d-dressed up w-warmly b-before we l-left." muttered Amy, wrapping her arms around herself and trying to keep as much of her body warmth in as possible.

"I'm terribly sorry, I forget you poor Mobians aren't used to the cold as I am." said Blizzard half-embarrassedly "Hold on darlings, I can fix that."

She ran off into a room in the corner of the cave and she began looking for something as she entered the room. It was a cloak room, somewhere for Blizzard to hang up her robes when she retired for the night. She had plenty of spare robes in the room for there was always the possibility her robes could be ruined. Sonic, Sally and Amy were quite welcome to have a spare robe each. A moment later, she returned with three robes in her arms. She handed them to Sonic, Sally and Amy and the three put them on eagerly, hoping they were nice and warm. Blizzard beamed at the sight of them as they put on the robes. They looked like they would fit right into an Ice Mobian cult. Just dye their fur white and teach them ice magic and they would be perfect.

"Good thing I have spare robes isn't it?" she said brightly, a sweet smile on her face. Amy had to admit that a sweet smile did seem to make Blizzard look like a totally different person. She looked a lot nicer that way.

"Indeed so." said Sally, relieved to feel the cold on her arms drifting away as the warmth of the robes took over "So Blizzard, all you have to do is put something into the cauldron and the spell will be broken?"

"Yes." said Blizzard "It's a failsafe the Ice Mobians designed for the ice creatures made by the spell had a nasty habit of betraying their masters. I had hoped mine wouldn't do the same but because of my change of heart, they've betrayed me. Or at least I think it was my heel turn…might have been the ghosts in my head making me look crazy that did it…"

"We get the picture." said Sonic impatiently "So get on with it Blizzard! Ruin the spell already!"

"Please be patient." said Blizzard tightly "I have to make sure it'll be safe first. An ice creature could emerge from the cauldron and strike any moment. They have a nasty way of sensing if the cauldron is in any kind of danger."

"I can imagine." said Sally grimly.

Putting a finger to her lips, Blizzard used her wand to slice off a quill that draped down behind her head. Her wand was sharp enough to cut just like a dagger. Now she'd cut off a quill, the Ice Witch crept silently over to the cauldron, which was still hissing and emitting faint blue smoke. Any new ice creature could come out of the cauldron while the spell was still active. If any members of the Court of Ice were lost permanently or if the army needed an increase in numbers, an ice creature would automatically come out of the cauldron and join them. They would also come out if they sensed anybody attempting to tamper with the cauldron but given Blizzard was an Ice Witch, with any luck the cauldron wouldn't see her as a danger and allow her to commence with her deed, putting an end to her treacherous court for good. Unfortunately, nothing is ever as simple as that and Blizzard should have realized this. Blizzard was within five feet of the cauldron and then suddenly, a giant icy arm shot out of the cauldron's depths, spraying liquid from the cauldron everywhere. Blizzard leapt back in horror as the ice creature's body followed the emerging arm and it bore over her, baring its icicle like teeth and growling menacingly at Blizzard. This creature was much larger than any of the Court of Ice and it looked very menacing. The ice witch yelped as the ice creature rose its arm and she reacted quickly. She aimed her wand, which was still in her hand, and she blasted the ice creature away with a burst of magical energy. The ice creature hurled backwards across the room and crashed into the wall, making the cave shudder and the icicles in the ceiling shake. They would fall if Blizzard wasn't careful so she thought it would be a good idea if she didn't do that again. The ice creature picked itself up and gasped as Blizzard prepared to throw her severed quill into the cauldron. It rose its arm up and much like what Blizzard could do, it cause an icy hand to emerge from the floor and send her flying away. Blizzard cried out as she hurled through the air but Sonic leaped in and caught her before she could crash onto the floor. In any other case, Sonic would cite this as weird for it would be like saving one of his enemies. Sonic lowered Blizzard down and zoomed off towards the ice creature. The ice creature raised its arm and tried to slam its hand down on Sonic as if he was merely a bug waiting to be squashed but Sonic weaved around its hand as it slammed into the floor. This unfortunately caused Sonic to fall onto his bottom for the ground shook beneath him. The creature prepared to stomp on Sonic but Sonic rolled out of the way and jumped up to the creature's height. He stomp-kicked it on the head, causing it to fall forward and crash face first into the floor. Just as it raised its head, Sally deployed her arm blades and she chopped the creature's head off. But as we already know, the ice creature can just repair itself. It was an effect of the spell. As long as it was active, the creatures couldn't die. Luckily for Sally, the head seemed to take longer to regenerate than any other body part. Using this, Sally ran towards the creature and sliced its legs to pieces. The creature fell onto its stomach, its useless legs falling apart beneath it and its head finished regenerating just seconds after it hit the floor. The creature's legs began to regenerate but Sally had a brilliant idea. She stayed where the creature's legs were growing and proceeded to slice them off just as they were growing back. All she had to do was keep doing that until Blizzard got to the cauldron to break the spell. But as great an idea it was, it didn't stop the creature. Blizzard ran towards the cauldron but the ice creature summoned a wall of ice in front of her. Blizzard crashed straight into the wall, groaning in pain as her body knocked into it. Sonic tried to do the same but the ice creature summoned an ice hand from the floor and it grabbed Sonic. It then threw him into the wall where he crashed head first into it. The blow knocked him clean out, unfortunate since Sonic might have been fast enough to get Blizzard's quill into the cauldron before the creature could stop him. Then the creature summoned a hand of ice from where Sally was standing, the hand shooting up beneath her and sending Sally flying into the air. The creature regenerated its legs and it stood back up, only to have Sally land on its head and chop it off again with her blades. The creature wasn't down for long though. Sally was about to slice its arm off but she was caught by surprise when the creature suddenly grew another icicle, pushing her off its shoulder and onto the floor. The creature's head finished regenerating and it prepared to breathe its icy breath on Sally. Blizzard leaped in and summoned a hand of ice from beneath one of the creature's feet. It caused the creature to topple over for it was so top heavy it could hardly balance on one foot. With a heavy thud, it fell onto its side. Blizzard ran over to help Sally up.

"Are you alright your majesty?" she asked, sounding straight up concerned for her former enemy's welfare.

"I…I am." said Sally, taking Blizzard's hand "Th…thank you. I wasn't expecting you to be saving me so soon."

"You're not my enemy anymore Sally." said Blizzard "I've made it quite clear, I no longer desire to be vengeful and evil. That's what wrecked my life in the first place."

"I see." said Sally "Well hopefully we'll live long enough for me to congratulate you on coming to your senses."

Blizzard chuckled slightly as she and Sally turned to face the creature. It picked itself up, startled by how it had been toppled over so easily and it shook its head. Sally ran up to the creature and she sliced its legs in two once again. Watching this, Blizzard really had to admire how potent Sally's weaponry was. Whoever invented those blades was a genius that's for sure. The creature fell away from its severed legs and crashed into the floor. Before it could get back up, Amy ran towards it and she hammered it repeatedly on the head. The creature took the blows and it swatted Amy away. Amy hit the wall and landed down on it with a thump. The hedgehog screamed as the ice creature advanced on her with its newly grown legs and she pressed her back firmly against the wall, too frightened to move or attack. She could only stare in horror as the ice creature prepared to punch her. Blizzard stepped in by standing defensively in front of Amy and she blasted the creature in the leg with her wand. The ice creature stumbled and fell down on one knee as its leg was hit. Amy was stunned, almost finding it impossible to believe that Blizzard had just saved her life like that. She must be dreaming, it couldn't have happened! But luckily for Amy, it was no dream, it really had happened and she was grateful for it. Amy picked up her Piko-Piko hammer and she ran towards the creature. She walloped it in the face with her hammer, sending the creature falling onto its back and just as it landed on the floor, Sally chopped its head off again. She remained standing and waited for the head to regenerate so she could chop it off again. The ice creature wouldn't be able to stop her if it didn't have a head to think of its actions. While Sally was keeping the creature busy, Amy ran over to Sonic. He was still knocked out and Amy tried desperately to wake him up.

"Sonic! Wake up! Wake up!" she squealed "We need you right now!"

While Amy tried to wake up Sonic, Blizzard ran over to the cauldron, seizing her chance to drop in her quill. But the cauldron sensed the danger and given its bodyguard was out of action, a second ice creature emerged from the cauldron's depths. Cursing violently, Blizzard ran for her life as the second ice creature finished coming out of the cauldron and it ran after her. The stomping of the creature's feet was enough to wake Sonic up but at the same time it caused the icicles in the ceiling to shudder as if they were afraid of what was happening and wanted to break free so they didn't have to watch anymore. Blizzard drew her wand out and aimed it at the second ice creature menacingly. Then suddenly…a cluster of icicles broke away. Blizzard looked up in terror as sharp icicles fell down from the ceiling towards her like a mouth full of teeth chomping down on her. She was petrified with shock. She couldn't move. Sonic was only just coming around, he wouldn't be fast enough to save Blizzard. But one person saved her instead. Amy Rose ran in and she pushed Blizzard out of the icicle's way. The icicles embedded themselves into the ground just seconds where Blizzard had been standing. Some of them scratched Amy on the sides and legs but the pink hedgehog was otherwise unhurt for the most part. This was a moment Amy would not soon forget. She had just saved the life of her worst enemy. She hoped that she wouldn't live to regret it later. Blizzard sat up, awestruck at the fact Amy had saved her.

"Why Amy…thank you…" she whispered.

"Don't mention it…EVER." said Amy coldly, rubbing her cuts better "This doesn't make up for what you did to me so don't get any ideas."

"I know." said Blizzard sadly "And I'm not trying to get you to forgive me anyway. I don't deserve it after what I did."

Amy nodded. At least she and Blizzard wouldn't be enemies anymore though. Sonic got up to his feet, shaking off the blow that had knocked him out earlier and he ran over to the girls.

"Hey what'd I miss other than Amy saving you Blizzard?" he asked.

"Another ice creature's shown up." said Blizzard "And I know how to get past them. Sally keeps beheading the first one before it can regenerate so me and Amy will distract the second one. While that's happening, you will drop my quill into the cauldron. You're fast enough to get it in there before another ice creature can show up."

"Sounds great." said Sonic with a thumbs up.

Amy nodded agreeably. She and Blizzard readied battle positions as the second ice creature bore over them. Sonic took Blizzard's quill off of her and waited for the right moment to run. Blizzard summoned a hand of ice from the floor and had it grab onto the creature's neck and pull its head down low. Amy ran in and hammered it in the face as hard as she could. Her hammer shuddered after the blow, surprising Amy a little as she felt it tremble in her hands. It seemed the face was a hard spot, not that it mattered. While the ice creature was being dealt with, Sonic seized his chance. He zoomed towards the cauldron at top speed. Leaping up high, he soared over the cauldron and he threw the quill down into its depths. The quill landed into the cauldron, the liquid sizzling as it landed and it dissolved into nothing. As the quill dissolved into the cauldron, the two ice creatures wailed high-pitched squeals as the spell that formed them was broken. The creatures broke apart like ice sculptures melting in the sun. Their limbs fell to pieces, their heads separated from their bodies and smashed to pieces on the floor and their torso broke apart as they fell down with the rest of the body.

Over in New Mobotropolis, the twenty ice creatures that formed the Court of Ice went through the same thing. They all broke to pieces and crumbled down onto the floor like a fallen over snowman. The Royal Fighters were surprised to see this happen but it didn't take them long to work out what had happened. The spell had been broken and the Court of Ice was no more. Delighted, the Royal Fighters cheered ecstatically over the court's defeat. Sonic, Sally and Amy were in for a congratulations when they came home and it was likely to last for a while…

Back in Blizzard's ice cave, the four Mobians stared at the dead bodies of the ice creatures, pleased at the fact they had been stopped at long last. A long silence hung ominously in the air until Sonic finally decided to speak.

"Well Blizzard, I think your court has been dismissed." he chuckled.

"It has indeed Sonic." said Blizzard "Well done young man."

"Thanks, although you deserve most of the praise for today since you helped us to stop the Court of Ice." said Sonic with a thumbs up "And you also turned yourself around and are willing to redeem yourself. I think that deserves some praise too."

"Oh thank you very much Sonic but…I don't deserve your praise." said Blizzard sadly "I've done terrible things to you and your kingdom. I killed Amy's parents, scarred her for life and I've tried to conquer your city. I was even willing to let an innocent kid die out of spite for Sally! I maybe redeeming myself but I still don't deserve your praise."

"Blizzard don't say that, you're a hero!" cried Sally "You helped us stop the Court of Ice! Isn't that enough a redemption for you?"

"It's going to take much more than that to be on your good terms no doubt." said Blizzard glumly "And besides, I still somewhat resent you after what your father did. But…I won't hold a grudge on you anymore. What's past is past and you shouldn't pay for what your father did, you were innocent in all of that. And even if I was to pay him back…what would it achieve? Nothing. The damage has been done and it can't be repaired."

"I understand Blizzard but I still think you deserve a second chance." said Sally "Join the Royal Fighters and help us defeat Dr. Eggman and his evil minions so we can bring peace back to Mobius."

"A lovely offer…but one I cannot accept." said Blizzard, shaking her head sadly "I'm sorry Sally but I don't deserve this. I deserve to live alone for all I did. I will help you if you need it but I can't join you. I'm sorry…but I can't."

"If that's what you think Blizzard then fair enough." said Sally "But you don't need to be so hard on yourself. You're willing to redeem yourself for what you did, that's deserving of Royal Fighter status to me."

Blizzard smiled sadly at Sally.

"Thank you." she said, touched by the queen's kindness "I may reconsider joining you in the future if I feel I'm deserving enough."

"Take all the time you need Blizzard." said Sally "We'll wait. For now, hope things go well for you from now on."

"I hope so too." said Blizzard "And I hope you win your war with Dr.

Eggman."

"We will." said Sonic with a wink "See you around Blizzard."

"Goodbye Sonic, and good luck." said Blizzard softly, smiling brightly at Sonic.

Sonic smiled back and then he and Sally turned to leave. Just as they prepared to go back home, Amy walked up to Blizzard. The Ice Witch wondered what was going to happen next. To her surprise, Amy smiled at her.

"Well done for coming to your senses Blizzard." said Amy "Even though I find the whole "ghosts of your family" thing a bit farfetched. I'm glad we won't have to be enemies anymore."

"It'll take a while before we can fully rekindle I'm sure Amy…but it's a start." said Blizzard, shaking hands with her "I hope things go well for you dear."

"And to you." said Amy "See you around Blizzard…and the next time we meet I won't try and break your head open."

Blizzard forced herself to chuckle as Amy left the cave and followed Sonic and Sally outside. Blizzard watched them leave the cave and head off back to NewMobotropolis. She was now all alone in the cave with only the voices in her head to keep her company. Blizzard closed her eyes and listened as the ghosts of her family began to speak to her again.

Well done…my darling wife. Well done…and thank you for listening to us. Iceberg gently whispered inside Blizzard's head.

"No my love…thank YOU. Thank you…for everything." Blizzard whispered back, smiling widely at her husband's kind, loving words. She had redeemed herself and made her deceased family proud. Things were going to improve for Blizzard from now on and she could hardly wait to see what would happen next…

Footnotes:

See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 21: A Bitter Snowstorm

---

I bet you didn't see that coming eh? Blizzard's reformed and she's stopped the Court of Ice. What's in store for Blizzard now she's in the side of good? Only the future will tell...

I hope you enjoyed this chapter and I would appreciate it if you could leave a review or two on it. :D

Join me next time for Nicole's going to get a "new body" and it's a story you don't want to miss...

Oh and just for a bit of fun and a fun little tribute to after the credits month in Archie Sonic, here's an end credit scene for you! ;)

Meanwhile, over in the old laboratory in Megapolis, Dr. Finitevus was sitting at a computer and searching for valuable information. This information was vital to him in more ways than one. Vital in the sense that it would help him formulate his forthcoming Dark Armada. He wanted to know all he could about any possible mercenary on Mobius, most importantly, any enemy of Sonic the Hedgehog. He had been searching for quite a while but the computer's rather slow loading progress and worn down features meant Finitevus had to do a lot of waiting. The echidna massaged his temples as a web page he'd come across began to load agonizingly slowly. As much as he would have wanted to use Eggman's more sophisticated and potent computers, he knew he couldn't for he didn't want to attract attention to himself. The Dark Armada HAD to be a secret. It was compulsory that only he and his first three members knew about it. If anybody found out, his plans would be in jeopardy. This laboratory was a good place to formulate his armada for Eggman didn't know about it and likely wouldn't even care to look for him there. As far as Eggman knew, he was just working silently on something that would benefit the Eggman Empire beautifully. Finitevus glanced at the computer screen and sighed furiously.

"Grrr…hurry UP already!" he snarled, thumping the computer with his fist in the vain hope of making it go faster "I don't have all day! Eggman will be wanting me back in his lair anytime soon!"

He was suddenly interrupted by the sound of a warp ring opening up behind him. Out of the warp ring stepped the beautiful but villainous Fiona Fox. Finitevus didn't even turn around although Fiona guessed he knew she was back anyway. Finitevus smiled to himself.

"Dear child, have you gotten what I have ordered you to get?" purred Finitevus in a semi-friendly manner of voice.

"I have indeed." said Fiona, reaching onto her belt and taking some off of it "I've got the plans for Eggman's next project."

She had a memory stick in her hand. Finitevus had given it her and had ordered her to steal some secret information from Dr. Eggman with it. It seemed she'd gotten it. She handed the stick over to Finitevus. The echidna plugged the stick into the computer tower and waited as it loaded up, surprisingly quickly this time. He minimized the web page he was looking at earlier and he opened up the stick's data. He smiled to himself as some blueprints for a ship of some kind showed up on the computer screen.

"Excellent my dear! This is just what I asked for!" he cackled "The blueprints to Eggman's next big plan!"

"Indeed." said Fiona, her hands on her hips in a sultry manner "But…what IS his plan? What's he building this…"Death Egg" for?"

"He thinks he'll be able to stop the Royal Fighters with it." explained Finitevus "And roboticize the entire world as well. Instead, it shall be his own undoing."

"And how exactly do you plan on doing that?" asked Fiona curiously.

"Sabotage my dear, what else could I do to stop it?" crooned Finitevus "Believe me when I say that Eggman's so-called "Death Egg" will end up being his coffin. And out of the ashes of his demise…the Dark Armada shall arise…and it'll be unstoppable."

Nicole's New Body 1

Story 178: Nicole's New Body Part 1

Prologue

*The Egg-Bunker: 30 minutes ago… **

The Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses had come and passed and now a whole month had gone by without a hitch. This had been fortunate for Dr. Eggman, the enemy of Mobius and Sonic's biggest threat, for this month of peace had been more than enough time for him to start plotting. And plotting he had certainly been doing for the past month. Dr. Eggman had been wondering what would be the best way to stop Sonic the Hedgehog and his friends. They had been bothersome for two whole years now. This was his third year of war with the Mobians and he was still pretty much at square one. It was hard to believe before the mass-roboticization of Mobius last year he had been on top of the Mobians for the most part and since the destruction of Robotropolis and the de-roboticization of the world, he'd been stuck hiding in his bunker plotting his next scheme. What an insult to a great genius like him this was. He should be winning this war and yet he was still hiding in his bunker and plotting his next scheme. Even with his life-support mech he was still at square one and the life support mech he now housed was based on one of his strongest creations ever, E-123 Omega. Well Eggman wouldn't be hiding in his measly bunker anymore. He would be making his next move and he had the ultimate scheme in mind. Eggman stood by and watched as his Egg-Pawns began working on keeping the bunker functional and preparing his next scheme. All this was going on while Sonic and friends were dealing with Blizzard and her Court of Ice, meaning Eggman could have a moment of peace for a change. He smiled to himself from inside his mech. It was a brilliant plan he had come up with, even more brilliant than Egg-Timer, a machine that had ended up being used for Metal Sonic's nefarious scheme rather than his own. This plan was to end all plans and it would guarantee a sure fire victory for him and his Egg Army. It made him tingled with excitement just thinking about it.

"Oooooh my new plan is brilliant! Brilliant I say! Bwah, ha, ha, ha!" chortled Eggman "It's flawless and it's guaranteed to work! Ah, ha, ha, ha! Once it's unleashed, nobody will be able to stop it! Not even Sonic! I wonder what my echidna sidekick thinks of this plan?"

Eggman turned the upper body of his mech around and he bellowed at the top of his voice.

"DR. FINITEVUS!"

Almost immediately, Dr. Finitevus entered the room and stood to attention before Dr. Eggman. The evil albino echidna had plans of his own but Eggman had called him so he had to put his plans to the side for the moment while he answered his master's summons. The master that would soon be overthrown by him personally.

"You bellowed Dr. Eggman?" he answered innocently.

"I have come up with a brilliant new plan, a plan that is so flawless and amazing that it's guaranteed to succeed!" declared Dr. Eggman, pointing up with a metal claw in a manner of making a superior announcement.

"This ought to be interesting…" muttered Finitevus sarcastically "So let's hear this "flawless and brilliant plan" of yours."

"Now Finitevus, let's not have the cheek shall we?" said Eggman sternly "You'll regret the sarcasm once I explain this to you."

"I'm sure I will." said Finitevus, rolling his eyes.

Dr. Eggman frowned at the albino furred echidna. What did he have to do to impress the mad scientist? Finitevus allied himself with Eggman so surely would it be too much to ask for him to appreciate what he did?! Eggman shook it off and he spoke to Finitevus.

"OK then, here's my brilliant new plan." explained Dr. Eggman "Remember how you told me once that I was getting too predictable?"

"Yes, don't tell me something I already know." said Finitevus with a bored scowl on his face.

Eggman ignored him and he carried on, his mech making gestures he likely would have done if he was still his old self before he needed to be on life support.

"Well I've decided to carry out a plan that no Mobian on Mobius will see coming, not even the Royal Fighters." crowed Eggman.

"So you said when we formulated "Operation Double Trouble" and yet they still managed to stop you." snorted Finitevus.

"That was YOUR idea, not mine!" growled Eggman "Anyway, I'll be sending out robotic forces all over the world to start building fuelling stations for a new giant ship that I am making. The fuelling stations will not be necessary though, my ship won't actually need them." he crooned sinisterly.

"Ah, distractions. Decoys to slow them down while you commence with your actual plan." said Finitevus brightly "You're smarter than I give you credit for Eggman."

"I do have an IQ of 300 after all." sneered Eggman "Anyway, my new ship is called "The Death Egg". It is a ship that will be unlike any other ship I've ever built. It'll be colossal, have amazing weaponry and carry this ultimate feature...it'll carry a roboticization beam that'll transform EVERY last Mobian on the planet into robots! The Eggman Empire will be born and I will rule over all of Mobius! Bwah, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!"

His grating laughter echoed around the room as he chortled with delight. Finitevus's evil mind began working away on a plan to get rid of Eggman, the first stage of his own master plan.

"Correct me if I'm wrong Eggman but didn't you already try roboticizing the entire world?" asked Finitevus "I believe you said you did before."

"I did, but this time I'll roboticize EVERYBODY and not miss a single Mobian." declared Eggman "The Royal Fighters won't see me coming at all so when the beam fires, they'll blink and then suddenly, they'll be robots before they know what's happened! And to make sure they can't reach me, I'll go up into outer space and fire the beam! They'll not be able to stop me from succeeding in THIS plan! Ah, ha, ha, ha, ha!"

"I wouldn't gloat if I were you Eggman, you never know." said Finitevus sinisterly "You failed every other scheme you tried out and now look at you, still hiding away in your little bunker and making big plans. I'd just try out the new scheme and see what happens instead of being so certain it'll work."

"Never hurts to be confident." said Eggman smugly "And don't worry about being roboticized when the beam is fired at the planet Finitevus, you'll be on the Death Egg with me. You won't be roboticized."

"I should hope not too..." growled Finitevus fiercely.

"I mean it!" protested Eggman "You'll be safe as safe can be up on the Death Egg! Now Finitevus, be helpful and get some of my robots ready. I don't have enough Eggman robots to send out to build the counterfeit fuelling stations yet. I've only got enough to start building the Death Egg."

"I shall get to it immediately." lied Finitevus, bowing before Eggman.

Eggman smiled and he turned to face his servant bot Katherine. She was standing by and awaiting orders from Eggman and to her delight, Eggman was about to give her some. Finitevus didn't stick around. He simply left the room and sneaked out of the bunker through a warp ring. The warp ring took him back to the rundown laboratory in the middle of Megapolis that he had set himself up in to carry out his secret plans. Upon arrival, he saw Scourge the Hedgehog and Fiona Fox making out in the corner of the room. Scourge had his jacket off and Fiona was pinning him against the wall, arms wrapped tightly around him and her lips locked with his. Finitevus had recruited the two after taking them to the lab after the multi-verse crisis had ended. They, along with Ravage Bloodfang, were the first members of an upcoming armada he was planning. The armada would help him commence with his master plan but for now, he was still building up the army. He needed more than just himself, Scourge, Fiona and Ravage after all and he was waiting for the perfect opportunity to bring Eggman down. Now he had it, it was time to commence with his plans to get rid of Eggman. Finitevus scowled as Scourge and Fiona stopped kissing and they looked at Finitevus nervously. Scourge sweat-dropped and he put his jacket back on.

"Heh, heh...uh, me and Fiona got bored so..."

"I get the picture, you two very much love each other." said Finitevus grimly "Well I hope you don't mind me interrupting your private moment for I have a job for Fiona to do."

"M-Me?" asked Fiona, surprised to hear this and almost lost for words "Uh, wh-what do you want me for?"

"Eggman's planning to build a ship, and I want you to steal the plans for it." said Finitevus "You're stealthy enough to get in and out unnoticed. Do NOT come back empty-handed, is that understood?"

"Yes Finitevus." said Fiona, trying not to sound timid "I won't fail you."

Finitevus nodded and he opened up a portal to Eggman's Egg-Bunker with one of his warp rings. Fiona sneaked through the warp ring and it vanished from sight as she passed through. As Fiona left, Scourge looked at Finitevus curiously.

"What's this all about then doc?" he asked.

"The downfall of Dr. Eggman." Finitevus simply replied with a sinister smile that managed to make even Scourge feel nervous...

New Mobotropolis: Now...

Over in New Mobotropolis, things were going well. The Court of Ice had just been vanquished thanks to the unexpected assistance of Blizzard the Ice Witch after a ghost problem ended up turning her around and just now, the remains of the ice creatures had been tided away and the damage done to the city, which wasn't much to fuss about, was being dealt with immediately. New Mobotropolis was quickly returning back to its peaceful state as if nothing had happened earlier. The moment Sonic, Sally and Amy had returned home from Blizzard's ice cave, the three had let the other Royal Fighters know what had happened and most of all, how Blizzard had been a great help to them and had even saved Sally and Amy's lives at one point. The Royal Fighters were surprised to hear that Blizzard had well and truly turned good but they understood why she had done so after Nicole the Lynx had told them what she had witnessed and even showed recorded evidence to further prove her point that Blizzard was telling the truth about her ghost problem and subsequent heel-turn. The Royal Fighters were happy about this of course, it meant they had one enemy less to worry about. It would have been better if she had decided to join the Royal Fighters Service but they could understand why Blizzard had declined. She didn't feel deserving of such a position and she needed to have some time to feel deserving. She had only just turned around, she needed to do more good deeds before she was full redeemed. So for now, the Royal Fighters were returning to their daily routines and going about the day as normal. Yet there was one Royal Fighter who didn't seem too happy right about now. And that was Nicole. During the multi-verse crisis, Nicole had been kidnapped and had her mind transferred into that of a handheld computer. She had been turned from a Mobian to an A.I. and she was struggling to come to grips with her new life. She didn't feel the same anymore and due to being stuck in a computer, she felt constantly trapped and that she had no real freedom anymore. Tails had upgraded some of New Mobotropolis' facilities by adding holographic projectors everywhere so Nicole's avatar could show up whenever she wished and not just be limited to the computer and had even added a special engine that allowed her holographic avatar to form solid shapes and stimulate realism to try and help her feel more free and like her old self. But still Nicole felt contained and that she wasn't a real Mobian still. Right now she was sitting in the local park by herself, drowning in sorrow as she tried to commiserate over her new state. She wanted to be Mobian again, very badly. But she just had to accept the fact that she couldn't be Mobian again. What happened to her had happened and she couldn't change it. Her old body was dead and buried in Castle Acorn's garden, a special tombstone placed in it to mark where she'd been buried, so she wouldn't be able to just go back into her old body. It was likely to have fully rotted now given a whole month had passed since the crisis had ended. Like it or not, Nicole had to get used to her new life and even after a month had passed, she still wanted her old body back. It was like she was never going to get used to being an A.I. Nicole sighed, although given she was merely a hologram her sigh didn't really feel like it was done with real air in her lungs, and she looked up at the sky solemnly.

"Why can't I get used to my new life?" she whined "Why do I still crave to be organic again? I know why…because I didn't feel trapped and restricted before, that's why. Oh I wish I could be normal again. I just feel like a computer programme who's only purpose is to be a tool for my owner, even if I still have my personality and freewill. I don't want to feel like that…oh why did I have to lose my body?"

There was nobody around to answer her question. Nicole just put her head into her hands and cried again. She'd been doing plenty of that recently. Ever since she'd lost her body she'd mostly been crying about it and even after a whole month it wasn't going any better for her. As Nicole cried, she didn't notice that somebody was watching her. And that somebody was her best friend, Sally Acorn. Sally had been distraught when she'd failed to save Nicole and just to see how unhappy her friend was just made her feel worse. In a way, she felt responsible for Nicole's current predicament since she'd failed to save her. It wasn't her fault of course but she still felt that way about Nicole becoming an A.I. Sally sighed sadly and she shook her head.

"Oh Nicole…what are we going to do to make you happy again?" she asked miserably "It really pains me to see you like this."

"I'm on the same boat as you Miss Sally." came a young sounding voice that made her jump slightly.

Sally turned around and saw that she wasn't alone. Tails the Fox was standing behind her and sharing her expression. He had tried to make Nicole's life easier but the lynx was still upset so he felt sad for her as well.

"Oh Tails, it's only you." said Sally "What are you doing here?"

"I wondered how Nicole was doing and I could see that you were watching her sadly so it told me that she's still upset." said Tails glumly "I wonder if she'll ever be happy again. A month's gone by and she still craves for her old body."

"I know." said Sally sadly, looking back at Nicole who was still weeping like a willow to herself. Anybody passing by would likely just go on about their daily routine and ignore her as if she wasn't worth their valuable time. Sally and Tails on the other hand would happily go over to Nicole and comfort her but on the other hand, Nicole might want some alone time so they thought it best to leave her for a minute.

"You know if I could go back in time, I'd be all too happy to rewind to the point Nicole got kidnapped and prevent it from happening." said Sally grimly "The moment Mordred got her, that was the end for her and I still feel like I could have saved her. I know it wasn't my fault she got turned into a computer but I still feel like I could have saved her! I wish I did, it pains me to see my dearest friend so distraught all the time now."

"I know Sally but moping about it isn't going to help." said Tails "Something I learnt when I never found my parents after Eggman got them and when I saw my Mobius Beta counterpart get killed in front of me. You may wish you could have done something about it but the simple fact remains that you can't and there's no point feeling sorry for yourself. Just accept what's happened and move on. The status quo is not something that stays forever I'm afraid."

"Tails, at times I wonder if you're really as young as you say you are." chuckled Sally "You sound more like an adult than a kid at times."

"I grew up fighting a war with you guys, I had to grow up quickly." said Tails grimly "And also Miles's death has effected me a little. Maybe more than a little…"

Ever since his horrible encounter on Mobius Beta, Tails hadn't quite been the same himself. He had lost some of his cutesy charm and was a bit quieter than usual. Miles's death had been a horrible sight for him and had left an impact that would last him for quite a while.

One could say Tails's innocence had died along with Miles and not even Cosmo would be able to bring it back to him despite how much he still loved her. Not wanting to think about Miles anymore, Tails decided to bring up something else, something that he never thought of asking before but had decided to ask now.

"So Sally, this might be a weird question but…when did you and Nicole first meet? How did you become such great friends?" he asked.

Sally looked surprised to hear Tails ask her that. Her jaw dropped and her eyes opened wide. She composed herself and answered.

"Oh my…nobody's ever asked that before." she gasped "I never thought you'd be the first to ask Tails."

"I bet you were expecting Sonic to be the first to ask." chuckled Tails.

Sally half-laughed in agreement and then she answered the question.

"Well Tails, it all began on a rainy day in Old Mobotropolis." explained Sally "I was only ten years old at the time and Nicole was only nine. I was playing in the grand hall to myself until I heard a knock on the door. I opened it and there, standing soaking wet in the rain was a young lynx in a purple raincoat. She looked very sad and alone. Taking pity, I let her in and dried her off. Nicole introduced herself to me and explained why she was in New Mobotropolis. She was living with a family of computer manufacturers in Central City and was due to inherit the company when she came of age. But a terrible accident at the company had resulted in the death of her parents and Nicole had no living relatives to take care of her. So she decided to come to Mobotropolis for help. She claims to have hired somebody to take her here and given her family's opulence, I wouldn't be surprised if she did. After Nicole told me her story, I took pity on her and offered her a place in the castle. My dad didn't approve, not wanting to be a king who lets in homeless vagabonds but mother wouldn't hear of him, she accepted in a heartbeat. She thought some company would be good for me. I was quite pleased and when I started showing Nicole around, she noticed I had a broken computer. In half an hour, she fixed it for me and even improved the settings. I was breath taken. She was only nine and she could fix computers on a whim! After that…we sort of hit it off and became best friends. At times I felt Nicole was more than a friend. She felt…like a sister to me. The sister I never got. That's how close me and Nicole truly are." she finished with a weak smile on her beautiful face.

"Aww…that's a lovely story." said Tails with a heartfelt smile on his face "You and Nicole really are good friends aren't you?"

"The best." said Sally brightly "But sadly, I don't think even I can cheer Nicole up. I don't think she'll ever be happy again after what's become of her. She was a great computer whiz…I never would have thought she'd end up BECOMING one."

"I'll bet." murmured Tails sympathetically "It'd be like if I turned into a spanner or something…if only Nicole had a new body that would allow her more freedom and…"

Tails stopped and stared straight ahead of himself as if he'd just seen a ghost. He had just been stricken by an idea. It was amazing how just saying something out loud can give you an idea. Tails was lucky his brain was as prodigious as it was otherwise he wouldn't have caught onto the idea.

"A new body! That's it!" screeched Tails excitedly, snapping his fingers "Oh man am I so thick! Why didn't I think of that before?"

"What's your idea Tails?" asked Sally incredulously, her eyebrows furrowed in an unsure expression.

"We make Nicole a new body!" Tails explained enthusiastically "True it won't be exactly like her old body but it'll be better than nothing. I bet I could make a good Automaton and make it look like Nicole's old body so that she feels more like her old self. The Automatons were meant to be insanely realistic for a robot after all."

Memories of the Automaton Mandy came back into his head as he said that. Mandy had been kidnapped unknowingly by Dr. Eggman and replaced with an Automaton during an attack on Castle Acorn led by Metal Sonic last year. It had fooled everybody, even Wilson and had cost Sonic and friends a Chaos Emerald. Thankfully, the real Mandy had been retrieved and the Auto-Mandy presumably destroyed forever since they never saw it again. An Automaton would be perfect for Nicole's new body.

"It's a nice idea Tails but do you know HOW to build an Automaton?" asked Sally.

"Well…no I'm afraid." said Tails sheepishly "But I know just the person who can help me with that…"

He looked over to Nicole with a sneaky grin on his face. Sally read his expression and realized what he was up to.

"Ah…I see your plan now." said Sally smoothly "Nicole can hack into Eggman's systems and get the Automaton plans. Brilliant idea Tails!"

"Indeed it is." said Tails with pride "I sure hope Nicole likes her new body when it gets built."

"I'm sure she will." said Sally "Please Tails, be careful over there. I don't know what I'd do if something happened to you."

"I'll be fine Sally, I promise." said Tails reassuringly "I'm just going to sneak into the Egg-Bunker, get what I need and be out again before Eggman knows what's happened."

With that said, Tails ran off to get Nicole's handheld computer so he could use her to get exactly what he needed. Sally watched him go, smiling proudly at Tails. The boy really did have a big heart and it was really touching to see he was willing to brave certain dangers just to give Nicole a new body. It made Sally proud to have such a lovely boy on the Royal Fighters Service. She could hardly wait to see what Nicole would think to all of this…

---

40 minutes later…

Over in Megapolis, Dr. Finitevus was sitting in the old laboratory he had picked for a hiding place and was on a computer, closely studying the plans for the Death Egg that Fiona had stolen from directly underneath Eggman's nose. Finitevus wasn't at all surprised that Fiona had succeeded in her task. After all, he knew she could be a good sneak and Scourge had assure him that she was good at tasks like this. Fiona just stood with Scourge as Finitevus studied the Death Egg plans. He'd told Fiona he planned to sabotage the ship and bring Eggman down with it so obviously, he was trying to find a weak spot on the Death Egg. Fiona and Scourge could only watch, wondering how long it would take Finitevus to work out the ship's weak points. It slightly disturbed them to think that Dr. Eggman was going to use the ship to roboticized everybody on Mobius but given they had the plans for the ship, they needn't worry about it. Finitevus was a step ahead of Eggman now he had what he needed. After a minute or so, Finitevus found what he was looking for.

"Gotcha…" he mused to himself "Scourge, Fiona, I've found a weak spot on the Death Egg."

"Let's hear it then Dr. Creepy Von Evil." demanded Scourge.

"Stop calling him that, that's a stupid name!" shouted Fiona, elbowing Scourge in the ribs. The green hedgehog glowered at Fiona, the look on his face like a dagger through the heart.

"Yes Scourge, please don't call me that." muttered Finitevus "As I was saying, I know where the sabotage of the Death Egg should begin. It has a power core chamber located right in the centre of the vessel."

He pointed at the diagram of the Death Egg's power core chamber that was on the screen of the computer he had been using for his research and planning. The power core chamber was enormous with huge metal structures protruding from the floor and ceilings of the great vessel, the two structures almost meeting together like a pair of hands reaching out to touch one another. There were prongs on the end of two metal cylinders, one on the floor structure and the other above in the ceiling structure. Make them a few inches longer and they'll be able to touch each other. They were clearly meant to hold something. But what? Some kind of battery that would power the ship. Scourge and Fiona peered over Finitevus's shoulders to get a good look at the screen.

"So that's where its power source will be." said Scourge "So what do we do? Smash it until it's useless?"

"That would be a method most befitting you of course but I have a more subtle idea." purred Finitevus "You see, the plans clearly state that some kind of power source will be used for the Death Egg to make the ship more powerful. Eggman will be trying his hand at maybe obtaining a Chaos Emerald or even the Master Emerald to power up his ship. The best way of sabotage? Simply steal the power source. Once that happens, the ship will crash down and burn, taking Dr. Eggman with it."

"I dunno…that seems too easy." said Fiona unsurely "You sure he won't have some kind of back-up in case the Chaos Emerald fails?"

"Of course he will, Eggman's not stupid after all." purred Finitevus "Which is exactly why I've been combing the plans for any possible back up power supply."

"You found any?" asked Scourge.

"Not yet but my attention was mostly focused on the main power supply. I shall now study more of the plans to see what back ups it might have…" mused Finitevus as he moved the cursor over to the corner of the screen and zoomed out of the diagram, showing a full picture of the Death Egg's overall outer appearance. It looked like a giant steel egg with eyes, a nose and a moustache on it, just fitting for Dr. Eggman indeed. It somehow looked silly and threatening at the same time and Finitevus had a way of stopping it. He could already see the Death Egg's demise now once he commenced with his sabotage. Eggman was as good as dead and he, Dr. Finitevus, would rise up in his stead with his Dark Armada behind him. And once the armada rose, he would destroy the Royal Fighters and be without oppression as he carried out his grand plan. For now, he would just have to wait until Eggman went ahead with his plan before he could get rid of him. Finitevus soon had other things to focus on for the door opened up and in ran Ravage Bloodfang. Like Scourge and Fiona, Finitevus had recruited him for his coming armada. He had been on patrol outside the laboratory and it was clear he had some news to give, otherwise he wouldn't be here now. Finitevus turned to look at Ravage.

"Yes Ravage, what is it?" he asked.

"I've just sight a Royal Fighter." explained Ravage "It's Tails. He appears to be heading towards the Northern Border of Megapolis. He might be up to something."

"Sonic's little brat is going to the Northern Border of Megapolis…on his own?" blurted Scourge "You serious man?!"

"Positive, it's just him, no one else." said Ravage flatly "Why I don't know, it doesn't make any sense."

"Indeed it doesn't…" mused Finitevus, putting a finger and a thumb to his bottom lip in thought "What is the child up to? It must be something crazy if he's going there alone. I'll see what he's up to."

"I do hope he's not spying on Eggman." said Fiona grimly "I don't want Sonic and his playschool buddies to get rid of Eggman first."

"Same here, plus if he starts spying on Eggman, he might also work out what I'm up to." deducted Finitevus "Sometimes you can come for one thing and stay for another. I'll see what Tails is up to and then let Eggman have him."

"Aw, I was hoping you'd let me have him!" moaned Scourge.

Finitevus ignored him and he disappeared through a warp ring he summoned to warp back over to the Egg-Bunker. Scourge, Fiona and Ravage were left alone to do nothing but sit around and wait for Finitevus to return. They hoped he wouldn't be too long, it got boring waiting for him when he went away.

Meanwhile, Tails had arrived in the Northern Border of Megapolis. After taking Nicole's handheld computer from the holographic projectors generator, he had briefed Nicole over what he was planning to do and had left for the Egg-Bunker. Luckily for him, Nicole remembered where the Egg-Bunker was for she had been in the bunker herself and had found it through a rather clever method during the Martian invasion. It had taken a long flight but Tails had finally arrived at the place. He was now standing directly above the Egg-Bunker. It amused Tails to think Eggman had been hiding in the small bunker since the last time Robotropolis had been destroyed. How long ago it had been since that happened and yet Tails remembered the last time he saw Robotropolis as if it were yesterday. Shadow the Hedgehog had torn it apart to try and find Eggman after the mass-roboticization of Mobius had been foiled and Eggman had been in the bunker since. Somehow hiding underground seemed very fitting for Eggman. One day the Royal Fighters would get him out of hiding and throw him in prison for his many crimes. Tails looked at the handheld computer as Nicole's avatar emitted out of the screen.

"We're here." said Nicole "Right above the Egg-Bunker itself."

"That's great Nicole." said Tails brightly "So how do we get in?"

"We wait for somebody to open the door." said Nicole sheepishly "I'm afraid there's no other way in there. Unless of course you brought a cutting tool of some kind."

"I'm afraid I didn't for it would have looked too conspicuous." muttered Tails "Don't you have something on you that could get us in?"

"I'm sorry to say this but…no." said Nicole sadly "Rakutan put me inside a computer that has no weaponry. After all, I was meant to be a slave for whoever purchased me. Why would he give me weapons?"

"Good point." murmured Tails. Whoever Rakutan was, he had earned Tails's disapproval. "This would be so much easier if I still had my phase shifter…" he added bitterly.

He had built a device that allowed him to become intangible but Blizzard had stolen it from him and he had been forced to destroy it to stop her using it. He hadn't rebuilt it since it was too valuable a device to lose to enemies although there were times like this where he strongly considered changing his mind and rebuild the phase shifter. For now, he'd just have to wait and hope that somebody would open the door soon. Or maybe they could attract attention and make Eggman come up.

"Say Nicole, what do you think to catching Eggman's attention?" asked Tails.

"We could give him a reason to come to the surface and while he's looking for us, we could sneak through the open door." suggested Nicole "It's risky but it might work. Cover your ears Tails, I'm about to make a loud noise."

Tails put Nicole down on the ground and he stuck his fingers in his ears, waiting for the supposed noise she was going to make. Nicole's avatar disappeared and then the handheld computer suddenly blared an extremely loud siren. It was a fire alarm, one of the features that the handheld computer had. The idea was the handheld computers would have some security features such as a fire alarm in case of emergencies, providing safety for the person who purchased them back on Mobius 3000. Nicole was now putting it to good use and her control over the device allowed her to make the alarm much louder than it was supposed to be. Even with his fingers in his ears, the sound still sounded pretty loud to Tails. The fox even cringed a little as the alarm beat at his eardrums. Nicole could wake up a whole country with an alarm sound that loud. If that noise didn't catch Eggman's attention nothing will. Nicole stopped the alarm and Tails picked her up, rubbing his ears.

"You could have warned me just how loud that would have been!" he laughed.

"I may have overdone it a bit." Nicole giggled embarrassedly, her avatar's face emitting a sweat-drop.

Tails and Nicole both gasped in surprise for the ground shuddered slightly beneath Tails's feet and one section of ground seemed to open up like a trap door set in the floor. That was obviously the way into the Egg-Bunker. Tails and Nicole ran around behind the open door and listened as the sound of heavy clanking thundered from down in the bunker. They watched and waited as Dr. Eggman emerged out of the door and looked around. Tails dived down the door just as the life support mech's upper-body rotated a full 360 degrees. The optics swept over the spot that had a few second ago been occupied by Tails.

"Alright, who's making that racket and who's up here?!" barked Eggman "Come on, show yourself! Who is it?!"

Much to Eggman's bewilderment, there was nobody there. The only person up on the surface was him right now. It was as deserted as it always was and always has been. Eggman scratched the head of his mech with a metal claw in confusion.

"That's weird, I was sure I had some kind of alarm going off up here." he mumbled to himself "Must have been some kind of glitch in my systems, I'll see if my devices are working OK."

With that said, he turned around and headed back down into the Egg-Bunker. By the time the door had closed behind him, Tails and Nicole were already in Eggman's lab. They had quite stealthily managed to sneak past all the Eggman robots, even Katherine, and were now standing before one of his great computers. A USB slot extended out from the handheld computer and Tails plugged Nicole into the main computer.

"Alright Nicole, let's see how fast you can download." whispered Tails.

"Given how hi-tech Mobius 3000 was, I imagine I'll be the fastest downloader ever." Nicole whispered back confidently "Just need to find the Automaton file first and we can go…"

Tails gave the thumbs up sign and he hid behind a nearby tool desk while Nicole did her work. Her screen flashed brilliantly as she began searching for the right file she needed to download. It didn't take her long to find what she was looking for. She was an A.I. occupying a handheld computer device that was far more advanced than anything on Mobius Prime, this was mere child's play for her. In a matter of seconds she'd already found what she was looking for and began downloading the Automaton file. In another matter of seconds, she had downloaded it. Tails just watched with amazement. Mobius 3000 must be a hi-tech world if just a handheld computer could work that fast! He might have to visit it one day. It certainly sounded better than Mobius Beta. Nicole gave Tails a thumbs up to say she was done. Tails carefully emerged from his hiding place and he unplugged Nicole. He jumped in alarm for he heard Eggman coming back. One benefit of him being encased inside Omega was that he was incredibly noisy. He could tip-toe for all Tails knew and he'd still be loud enough to wake up a sleeping child. Tails dived back into his hiding place and waited with baited breath as Eggman re-entered the room. Katherine saluted him but Eggman didn't seem to have noticed. He strolled past her and addressed the Egg-Pawns working around the lab.

"There was a random loud alarm outside the bunker and I want to know if any of our systems have a glitch that caused it." announced Eggman "Perform a quick diagnostics test immediately!"

Katherine and the Egg-Pawns obeyed and they got to work on finding out if their systems were working as they should be. Tails decided now was the perfect time to leave. He closed the screen on Nicole, switching her off for the moment, and he cautiously peeked out from round the corner of the desk. Everybody was at work on something or another and with their backs turned. They'd never see Tails leaving. Heart pounding, Tails got up to his feet and tip-toed away from the desk. He crept as silently as he could up to the door. He pressed a button that opened the door. The door opened up silently, much to Tails's relief, and…he walked straight into Dr. Finitevus! The echidna had seen Tails creeping into the lab for he had arrived back for Tails even got here and was waiting for the right moment to seize him. Tails was so shocked he nearly dropped Nicole in horror.

"ARGH!" yelped Tails, catching the attention of every Egg-Pawn in the lab.

"Going somewhere little boy?" purred Finitevus, his face an ugly, nasty smirk that spelled confidence and triumph in every muscle.

Without warning, Tails lashed at Finitevus with a savage punch to the face. Finitevus had already moved his head out of the way before Tails so much as threw the punch. Finitevus slugged Tails in the stomach and made the fox keel over onto his knees in pain. Tails coughed loudly. He'd forgotten how hard Finitevus could punch. Finitevus then grabbed Tails by the scruff of his neck and he hoisted him up off the floor. He dropped Nicole as he was lifted up. Finitevus saw Nicole and he picked her up, thinking it was just some ordinary handheld computer. Finitevus carried Tails into the lab and he threw the wincing fox at Eggman's feet.

"It appears we have a spy in the works." crowed Finitevus.

"Ah Tails! Snooping as usual I see?" sneered Eggman, his mech leaning forward to look Tails in the eye "Well you've been caught you poor, simpering little boy! Ha, ha, ha, ha! So what are you doing here and why?"

"None of your business fat-head!" snapped Tails "Now if you don't mind, I was just leaving until Finitevus got in the way."

"You're not going anywhere Tails." said Finitevus coldly "You have some questions to answer. What are you doing here and why do you have this meagre handheld device?" he asked, holding up Nicole.

"Were you stealing valuable information?" snarled Eggman viciously "If so then I might have to arrange your funeral…"

"No please, don't hurt Tails! I beg of you!"

To Finitevus's surprise, the voice that had suddenly shrieked from nowhere seemed to be coming from the device. Finitevus opened up the screen and Nicole's avatar emitted from within.

"What in the name of…?!" blurted Finitevus.

"Please, don't hurt Tails!" wailed Nicole desperately.

"Is that…Nicole?!" cried Eggman "What's she doing in that computer?!"

"If you remember Eggman, Sonic mentioned that during the multi-verse crisis, Nicole was transferred into a computer device." explained Finitevus "And how fortuitous of us, we now hold her in our hands."

"Put Nicole down now or you'll be sorry!" screamed Tails.

Eggman just grabbed Tails and hoisted him up, the fox squirming in his grasp as the metal claws wrapped tightly around his body.

"Ugh…grrr…let me go!" cried Tails.

Eggman ignored him and he glared at Nicole. The holographic avatar looked worried as she stared helplessly at Tails.

"Now Nicole, we're going to ask some simple questions. And if you refuse to answer them, I'll break Tails's neck." growled Eggman threateningly "Why are you two here and what were you doing?"

He put his hand on Tails's head and got ready to make the killer blow that would silence the fox and finish him off. Tails instantly grew scared. It looked like he was going to meet his Mobius Beta counterpart if Nicole didn't do as she was told already. Nicole grew scared for Tails. She'd never forgive herself if she let Tails die so pointlessly so like it or not, she had to answer.

"Tails wanted to build a new body for me so he came here to download schematics for the Automaton model and use that as my new body!" shrieked Nicole frantically "That's why we're here! Cross my heart and hope to die! Just please don't kill Tails!"

"That's all I needed to hear…" purred Eggman sinisterly "Finitevus, bind and gag the brat and lock him in a cage!" he bellowed, throwing Tails at Finitevus "I'm going to give Nicole a new body."

"I beg your pardon doctor?" said Finitevus, wrapping his arm around Tails's neck and holding him firmly as the fox tried to get away.

"I'm going to give Nicole a new body." said Eggman, taking Nicole from Finitevus "And she'll be a slave for me when I put her in the new body. I really must thank Tails for such a brilliant idea. I can infiltrate the Royal Fighters from within with Nicole on my side and when the time is right…I'll have her finish them off!"

"You can't do this!" yelled Nicole furiously "I won't be your slave! I…"

Eggman just closed the screen and shut Nicole off for the moment. Tails wanted to cry out for Nicole. As if her situation couldn't get any worse! Now she's going to be an Eggman slave?! Sally would go mental if she knew what was happening now! Tails really wanted to kick himself for even going through with the idea in the first place. It was a foolish idea and it was costing him dearly. Finitevus dragged Tails away, the fox squirming madly in his grasp and trying to get away. As for Eggman, he took Nicole into another room in his laboratory. He was going to prepare an Automaton body for her and given he had some models pre-made already, it wouldn't take long. Just add the skin and fur textures and do some tinkering on the Automaton that would ensure Nicole's unwavering loyalty to him and it'd be done. Tails had given Eggman a great chance to eliminate Sonic and friends. He could dispose of them now and carry out his Death Egg plot without a hitch, wasn't life grand sometimes…?

Back in New Mobotropolis, Sally was sitting alone in the park just watching the Mobini(non-sentient Mobians) fish swimming around in the lake, happy as could be and without a care in the world. Tails and Nicole had been gone for quite a while and the squirrel was beginning to get worried about them. She knew that it took a while to get from here to Eggman's base but still, some nagging feeling in the back of her skull was making her wonder if everything was going alright with them. She was considering going over to the Egg-Bunker herself to see if Tails and Nicole were alright or if they needed any help. Her stomach tightened in anxiety.

"Oh I can't stop worrying about those two!" she moaned "Are they OK? Are they in trouble? Oh I don't know and I can't settle down because of it! I think I should go over to the Egg-Bunker and see if they're fine. I'll take Sonic with me in case I need back-up, it'll be foolish of me to go alone."

It was funny how Sally should mention Sonic's name for Sonic jogged by and skidded to a stop. He smiled happily at the fact he'd just run into his girlfriend and he wandered over to here.

"Hey Sal, how's it going?" he asked "It's been pretty nice since we stopped the Court of Ice. Amazing how quickly things can settle down isn't it?"

"I'm afraid we're not quite settled yet." said Sally solemnly, getting up off the bench and turning to face her boyfriend "Tails wanted to build Nicole a new body and he's gone over to the Egg-Bunker to get the schematics for an Automaton so he can make one for Nicole."

Sonic looked like Sally had just slapped him in the face.

"And…you let him go alone?!" he shrieked, leaping a foot in the air like a scared rabbit "Sally, that's crazy! Why didn't you let me know about this?! Tails won't make it in and out of there alone! Eggman will likely have caught him already!"

"I'm sorry Sonic, I myself wondered if letting Tails go alone was a good idea shortly after he and Nicole had left but I decided to have faith in Tails and wait and see if he succeeds." proclaimed Sally, putting her hands on Sonic's shoulders as if trying to keeping him down on the ground before he could blast off in orbit suddenly "Tails maybe young but he's not incompetent, he's very capable you know, even on his own. Please don't be mad at me."

"I'm not mad Sally." said Sonic calmly, putting his hands around Sally's wrists "But at the same time I do wish you'd informed me about Tails's idea so I could have gone with him. That way, we'd be certain he'd be OK."

"I'm sure he will be OK Sonic but I will admit, I've been worrying about Tails a moment ago and I was going to take you with me to the Egg-Bunker to see if he needs help." said Sally.

"Well I guess it was even more fortunate I happened to pass by." muttered Sonic "If Tails is in trouble Sally, I'm holding you responsible." he added, his voice uncharacteristically cold as he said it.

"No need, I'm already holding myself responsible for any misfortune that might have befallen Tails." said Sally grimly as Sonic scooped her up into his arms bridal style and prepared to run.

"I just hope Tails is OK and it turns out I'm getting jumpy over nothing." said Sonic hopefully.

Sally held on tightly to her boyfriend as Sonic rushed off out of New Mobotropolis and headed for Megapolis. It wouldn't take long for Sonic to get there thanks to his super speed. He'd be there in no time and if Tails needed any help, he'd be on time to give it to him. Sally prayed with all her heart that Tails and Nicole were OK. If not, it would be all her fault for not thinking properly about the whole thing and just letting Tails go alone…

Back in the Egg-Bunker, Tails had been tied up with a bunch of zip-ties that Eggman had on him. His hands were bound tightly behind his back and his ankles were bound together. The zip-ties held firmly and Tails couldn't break out of them no matter how hard he tried. A strip of duct tape had been plastered across his mouth to keep him quiet. After all of that had been done, he had been thrown into a tiny cage and locked firmly inside. The cage was too small for Tails to stand up in or lie down in, he could only sit down in it and try in vain to get free of his binds. As he struggled and made muffled grunts of effort behind his gag, Dr. Eggman lay down an Automaton model on the inventions table that he would often use to hold all the pieces before he started putting things together. Finitevus stood idly by with Nicole, still switched off, in his hand. The Automaton model looked like a robotic frame, a frame that would soon be covered in fur and other features to look fully like a Mobian. At its current state, it was more like a skeleton than a body but it would soon come to look like a body when Eggman had finished with it. As the Automaton was laid on the table, Eggman fastened it down on the surface with thick clamps that closed around the wrists and ankles. It seemed strange to just restrain an empty robotic shell that had no life in it but Eggman had his reasons. Tails watched with despair as Finitevus plugged Nicole into the Automaton's chest. As he did so, the Automaton jolted as if it had been struck be lightening. The Automaton rested back down on the table and then suddenly, the optics began to light up with a glowing green light. The head twitched as if taking note of its surroundings and it tried to move its limbs. The clamps held firm and the Automaton couldn't move.

"Grrr…let me go right now!" cried Nicole, her voice ringing out of the Automaton's vocal processor "You're not making me one of your robot cronies Eggman!"

"I really should have removed the voice box before I plugged her in." sighed Eggman "Nicole, download yourself into the body so that we won't need to keep the computer plugged in all the time."

"No!" spat Nicole furiously "I won't! I won't cede to your demands and I will NOT be your slave!"

"Fine then I guess you don't want Tails to live after all." said Eggman coldly "Finitevus, what should we put on his gravestone?" he purred, the albino echidna smiling gleefully at Eggman's little statement.

Nicole quickly changed her mind and she began the download. Finitevus glanced at the computer's screen to see if Nicole was doing as she was told. She was, the screen was flashing saying "Download commencing, transferring of home base approaching completion in two minutes". Nicole would be out of the computer and into the Automaton, a permanent new home for her. While easily better than the computer, it wouldn't be a nice new home for her when Eggman was finished.

"MMMMOOO!" Tails could only scream the muffled word as the tape on his mouth firmly held his lips together.

Nicole heard Tails's plea and despite being digital, the plea seemed to sting her hard like a dagger in the back. She knew that what she was doing wasn't good but she wasn't going to let Tails die just because she was refusing to obey Eggman's orders. She was not worth Tails dying for. In a matter of moments, the download had completed and Finitevus yanked the now empty computer device from the Automaton's chest. It was useless now there was nobody occupying it.

"You won't be needing THIS anymore my dear…" he said sinisterly, crushing the handheld computer in his hand and dropping the crumpled up mesh of metal he had reduced it to on the floor.

Tails felt like he had been stabbed in the chest as he saw this.

Nicole wouldn't be able to return to her handheld computer, she was stuck in the Automaton forever. The Automaton was her new home from now on. At least she'd have a body to control but it wouldn't be the kind of body she wanted. Now Nicole was in the Automaton and out of the computer, Eggman opened up the tip of his index claw and out of the tip extended a USB slot that he plugged into Nicole's chest.

"Now just upload some of my rather brash personality and my strongest internal coding that she will not be able to bypass and we're complete…" he mused to himself.

Nicole was helpless to fight Dr. Eggman. She was fastened to the table firmly and she had no way of defending herself. She could only lay back and allow Eggman to upload some of his own data into her. It would easily exceed her own free will and make her a loyal Eggman servant. She wouldn't be strong enough to fight Eggman's coding. In a matter of moments she would be transformed from a Royal Fighter to an Eggman robot. The Automaton shuddered as Eggman began his work and Tails watched with tears in his eyes as he watched Nicole being subjected to this horror. It was all his fault this was happening. If he hadn't gone alone and been so sure of himself, this wouldn't have happened. Now thanks to him, Nicole was going to betray her friends, even Sally, and be forced to work for Eggman. The fox let out some muffled cries of despair as the Automaton shuddered more furiously. Eggman kept it up for a minute until finally he was finished and he took his claw out of Nicole's chest. The Automaton fell silent and still for a minute before its optics changed from green to red and it spoke, the voice more evil sounding than before. The work had been done, Nicole was gone and in her place was a new servant for Dr. Eggman.

"I am Nicole, I am part of the Eggman Empire. I must destroy all enemies of the Eggman Empire." droned Nicole.

"Excellent! Excellent!" cheered Eggman delightedly "It worked, it worked! Nicole's all mine now! Bwah, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!"

"Please can you release me?" requested Nicole, the Automaton head turning to face him "I must commence with my duties Dr. Eggman."

Eggman obeyed instantly and he undid the clamps around Nicole's wrists and ankles. The Automaton skeleton sat up on the table and looked at Dr. Eggman as if registering what he looked like. Finitevus was intrigued. He hadn't been expecting Eggman's tampering to work and yet it had. If luck presented itself to him, he would try and take control of Nicole himself.

"What do you want me to do Dr. Eggman?" asked Nicole. It was clear she wanted something to do right now. Eggman wouldn't be too surprised if he ordered Nicole to self-destruct and she did it. The loyalty thing really seemed to be working.

"I'm so glad you asked my dear…" purred Eggman wickedly "I've got the perfect task for you. Kill Tails!" he bellowed.

"MMMHAT!?" Tails shrieked a muffled shrieked in horror.

"As you wish sir." droned Nicole, her voice empty of any emotion at all.

She hopped off the table and she strode up towards Tails. The fox backed up against the bars of his cage, his heart thumping wildly and the tape inflating in and out frantically as he breathed furiously. He was trapped and at the mercy of Nicole. If he survived this one, it would be a miracle. The miracle would have to hurry up though for Nicole ripped open the cage as if it was merely breadsticks and she reached in to grab the terrified fox cub…

Footnotes:

The opening scene takes place before the end credits scene in the previous episode

* See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 17: Divide and Conquer: The Home Front

 See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 21: A Bitter Snowstorm

HOLY SHIT! Nicole's been turned evil and Tails is about to meet the spirit in the sky! Will Sonic and Sally get to him in time or is Tails truly dead? And is Nicole...gone?!

Find out next time in Part 2 of "Nicole's New Body"!

Nicole's New Body 2

Story 179: Nicole's New Body Part 2

Miles "Tails" Prower was staring death directly in the face in the most literal way possible.

After the Court of Ice had attacked New Mobotropolis only to then be foiled by a reformed Blizzard the Ice Witch, Tails had decided to make Nicole a new body for her to occupy since she was missing being normal and wanted to be more than a computer programme. She had been turned into a computer programme by an evil genius on another version of Mobius during the now almost legendary multi-verse crisis that had impacted many alternate Mobiuses. She missed her old body and Tails had decided to make her a new one, using an Automaton as the new body since that was easily the next best thing Nicole could have. Unfortunately, things had gone horribly, HORRIBLY wrong. Finitevus had spotted Tails heading to the Egg-Bunker and had caught him red-handed before he could leave for home. Dr. Eggman, intrigued with Tails's idea, had decided to execute the idea himself only making Nicole work for him of course. Tails had been tied up, gagged and locked in a cage and forced to watch helplessly as Nicole was forced out of her handheld computer and into the Automaton body Eggman had gotten for her. After Nicole had placed herself in the Automaton, Eggman had uploaded his own unique coding and some of his personality into Nicole. The result had been glorious for him. Nicole was now completely loyal to him and completely on his side. Eggman had given Nicole her first horrible deed of the day to do and that was to mercilessly slaughter poor Tails. Eggman was so wicked and evil that he didn't care if he killed an innocent kid. Anyone can die as far as he was concerned. Nicole strode up to Tails's cage, the fox pressing himself firmly against the back of the cage in terror. He was crying tears of fear and his head rained with cold sweat. He almost wanted to faint he was that scared. Nicole grabbed the door of the cage and tore it clean of its hinges, the metal making a screeching cry of agony as it was taken away from its post. Nicole tossed the door across the room and she grabbed Tails by the fur on his chest.

Tails wondered if Nicole could feel his heart thumping against his ribcage as if hoping to escape while it still could. Nicole hoisted Tails out of the cage and she bared her metal claws, her other hand poised and aimed directly at his heart. Tails squirmed in protest, desperate to try and get away from Nicole. He picked her furiously but Nicole felt no pain. She was in the body of an Automaton, a robot that was meant to be realistic to the point of feeling pain, but Eggman had rather inconveniently disabled its pain receptors. The body was immune to pain of any sort now. Tails just stared helplessly at Nicole as she prepared to kill him.

"Mmmo! Mmmo! Mmmmease! Mmmmo! Mmmmn't mmmo mmmit Mmmicmmmole!" Tails pleaded pathetically, trying as best as he could to speak despite his mouth being taped shut.

Nicole ignored the terrified fox and was about ready to finish him off. Tails closed his eyes tightly, unable to witness his ultimate demise. The sweat was pouring so rapidly down his face now he may as well have had a rain cloud over his head. But as he waited for Nicole to finish him off, Nicole just stood there, silent and unmoving as if somebody had hit the pause button. Despite Eggman's coding, there was still a bit of Nicole left inside the Automaton and right now, Nicole was screaming at the body to ignore Eggman's orders and obey her own. But sadly, she was like the voice in the back of your head that tries to be heard and fails miserably. All she could do was combat Eggman's coding and try to win control over the Automaton. It seemed to be working for she'd gotten the Automaton to stop what it was doing. But how long could she hold it? Not very long it seemed for the Automaton's arm was twitching furiously as if itching to complete its journey into Tails's chest. Nicole did her best to hold the arm back. The twitching seemed to cease, meaning Nicole was beginning to overpower the coding. Eggman watched the Automaton with disgust.

"What are you doing Nicole?! KILL HIM!" he bellowed, shaking his arms furiously.

Don't listen to him body, listen to me! Nicole screamed in the Automaton's head.

The Automaton seemed conflicted between who's orders it should obey, Eggman's or Nicole's. Tails only stared at the Automaton, praying that Nicole could somehow take control of the Automaton and defeat Eggman's coding. Unfortunately, Eggman decided to make doubly sure that Nicole would obey him. He grabbed Nicole and carried her back over to the table, the Automaton dropping Tails as it was grabbed. He fastened her to the table again and he frowned at Nicole. If Nicole could see through his life support mech, she'd see a hideous scowl glowering at her.

"Nicole! Why aren't you doing as you're told?!" snarled Eggman "You're supposed to be loyal to me!"

"Please doctor, I was going to kill the boy but something keeps stopping me from doing so." droned Nicole "Give me anothe chance, I'll do it."

"Before you do that, I think some extra coding is in store for you." said Eggman.

He deployed his USB slot from the open claw tip he held over Nicole's chest and he plunged the slot into it again. He began to upload some more coding of his into Nicole's Automaton body. He was taking no chances, he couldn't let Nicole take control of the Automaton or he would be losing a potentially great weapon. A Royal Fighter forced to work for him was an opportunity he couldn't afford to lose. As Eggman began uploading more codes, Tails tried to sneak away only for Finitevus to stop him and hold him in place. The echidna seemed to be smirking at the fact things weren't going as Eggman planned.

"Oh dear Eggman, it seems your scheme isn't going as planned." he crowed "Nicole appears to be fighting for control of the body. Are you sure your coding will be enough for you to ensure control over her?"

"Do not criticize me Finitevus!" growled Eggman "I assure you my coding is plenty strong enough to make Nicole swear fealty to me! I obviously needed to upload some more! Nicole's stronger than I imagined. Well she did manage to counter-hack Katherine and lock me out of Mobius's satellites so that might explain something...*"

"If she can counter hack your loyal servant bot AND lock you out of Mobius's satellites then I doubt you'll be able to keep Nicole under control." said Finitevus warningly "I'd just dismantle Nicole while she's in the body and erase her forever. We have the perfect opportunity."

"I am NOT going to lose the chance to use one of Sonic's friends against him!" growled Eggman "Nicole will not be dismantled! If she IS too hard to control then I'll go with your suggestion. Fair enough?"

Finitevus sighed. Eggman was so stupid at times, hardly a man with an IQ of 300 was he? More like 3 as far as Finitevus was concerned. All the more reason to overthrow him. Finitevus looked forward dearly to the day the Dark Armada would rise above the Eggman Empire. Even if he waited for a hundred years it would be worth it. Then suddenly, Katherine entered the room and she walked up to Eggman. Eggman didn't even look at her. It was almost like he didn't even know she was there.

"What is it Katherine?" he asked, sounding almost tired as he asked.

"I checked the security camera for signs of any disturbances and I regret to inform THAT SONIC THE HEDGEHOG AND QUEEN SALLY ACORN are coming towards the Egg Bunker.

Eggman sighed loudly, taking the USB slot out of Nicole so he could throw his arms up in the air in exasperation. He seemed to make a habit out of doing that when things didn't go well.

"Oh for the love of all things scientific! Why must Sonic show up at the most inconvenient times?!" he moaned angrily "It's funny he never shows up when I'm not doing anything, I mean I went a whole month without him bothering me and I spent most of the month just coming up with my latest plan!"

"Stop moaning and deal with the hedgehog already!" snapped Finitevus "Do you want him to save Tails and Nicole?"

"Don't get snippy with me Finitevus, I was going to do that." said Eggman sternly "Nicole, come with me! Finitevus, take Tails with you! We're going to give Sonic and Sally a warm welcome..."

Nicole obeyed and she got up from the table after Finitevus freed her from it. As Eggman and Nicole left the room, Finitevus grabbed Tails by the scruff of his neck and he carried the tied up fox after him. Tails could only allow himself to be carried up to the surface, helpless to stop Eggman and Finitevus as they headed for the door. He knew what Eggman was planning. He'd use Tails as a hostage and likely make Sonic and Sally surrender to Eggman. And then to add salt to the wound, make Nicole kill them both as well as Tails. What more could go wrong?!

Up on the surface of the Egg-Bunker, Sonic and Sally had finally arrived and Sonic skidded to a halt. He put Sally down on the ground and he looked around cautiously. Being near Eggman's territory was almost like stepping into a minefield. You could walk anywhere and one wrong step will cause something to explode. In this case, one wrong step could set off whatever traps Eggman might have. Sonic put a finger to his lips as he observed his surroundings.

"Cost is clear, looks like we've been undetected." whispered Sonic "Although you never know when you're near an Eggman base."

"I know." said Sally, clipping he wristbands on as she spoke "I'll cut us a way into the bunker and once we're in, you cut loose and I'll see where Tails and Nicole are."

"If they need help, you're well equipped to get them free." said Sonic with a wink.

Sally nodded approvingly and she clenched her fists, deploying the energy blades that her wristbands stored. If Tails needed saving then it was a case of using an invention Tails had made to save Tails himself. Almost ironic in a way. Sally plunged her blades into the ground and was about to start cutting until a section of the ground opened up and Eggman suddenly emerged from within and strode up to them in a casual, almost prideful manner as if he was having a good day and was feeling confident about everything that was going on. Sally took her blades out of the ground and she braced herself for a fight. Sonic stood beside her, bracing himself for a fight with her.

"Why hello there Sonic and Sally." said Eggman brightly "How nice of you to pop by. After a month of not seeing you two I was beginning to worry about you both."

"Can't say the same about you egg for brains." muttered Sonic, tapping his foot impatiently "Now where are Tails and Nicole?"

Eggman didn't reply. Instead, Dr. Finitevus emerged from inside the Egg-Bunker with Tails in his arms and Nicole walked behind him, keeping a close eye on the fox. Tails squirmed furiously, trying to get free but Finitevus held on tightly and he dumped him down onto his knees before Sonic and Sally. Tails looked at Sonic and Sally with his eyes full of fright. Sonic and Sally stared in horror at Tails. Their fears had come true, he'd been caught and was now bound and gagged before them.

"Mmmmnic! Mmmmlly!" Tails cried as best as he could.

"Tails! Let him go right now Eggman!" ordered Sonic angrily, his face contorting with rage that looked like it was about to explode any moment now.

"How about you two surrender and the boy keeps his life?" sneered Eggman "And as for Nicole well, she's on MY side now."

"What do you mean?" asked Sally venomously.

"I put Nicole's mind into this Automaton body you see before you and thanks to some alterations, I have managed to re-program her to work for me." crowed Eggman "Genius isn't it?"

Sally looked like her intestines had just started to fall out without any reason why.

"You monster! How could you?!" she screamed wildly "You let Nicole go or so help me you'll be chopped to pieces before you can even realize what's happening!"

"Can you chop me to pieces before Nicole can kill Tails?" said Eggman threateningly.

"No but Sonic can spin-dash you faster than you can move." purred Sally smoothly.

Surely enough, Sonic did just that. He spin-dashed Dr. Eggman and threw him across the plains as he slammed into him like a football through a window. Eggman's mech hurled heavily through the air and came down with a heavy crash that threw him back up again and brought him down with another crash. Eggman picked himself up, mumbling unintelligibly to himself as his massive frame lifted itself up onto its own two feet.

"That's it! Nicole, kill Tails!" bellowed Eggman.

"Nicole, don't listen to him!" ordered Sally desperately "Don't kill Tails! Fight his programming! You're stronger than he is, I know you are!"

Nicole didn't seem to have heard Sally for she rose an arm and aimed her claws at Tails, the latter held firmly by Finitevus. Tails struggled to get free but Finitevus held him firmly into place. Finitevus had a tough grip. Tails wondered if even an elephant could break free from his grasp. Nicole aimed her claws at Tails and she prepared to run him through. Deep inside, Nicole was screaming at the Automaton to ignore its orders and listen to her but the extra coding Eggman had added was too strong for her to be heard. It was like trying to hear a conversation behind sound-proof glass for her. Tails watched nervously as the Automaton got into its killing position. Tails then suddenly had an idea. Thinking fast, he swung his head backwards into Finitevus's muzzle as hard as he could. Finitevus bellowed a thunderous roar of pain as Tails's head sharply connected with his face. He let go of Tails, allowing the fox to throw himself forward and out of harm's way. Nicole lunged at Tails but Tails had moved out of the way so Nicole ended up slashing Finitevus across the chest. His golden clasps that held his cape around his shoulders took the blow for him, heavy scratches now spread across them, and Finitevus growled like a rabid dog.

"You imbecile! You wasn't supposed to hit me!" he ranted, uppercutting Nicole into the air in retaliation.

Sonic seized the opportunity to spin-dash Finitevus while he was venting. As Sonic sent Finitevus flying, Tails rolled his away across the ground and towards Sally. Sally ran over to Tails and she cut him free with her energy blades. Tails got up onto his feet and he peeled the tape off of his mouth, relieved to be able to breathe again.

"Oh my gosh Sally, thank goodness you and Sonic made it here!" blustered Tails "I'm so sorry I got caught Sally and I'm equally as sorry as to what's happened to Nicole! Please don't be mad at me!"

"Tails, I'm not mad at you. I'm mad it myself for letting you go alone." said Sally, hugging him as if she was a mother who's been reunited with her lost child "I should have sent Sonic to go with you, or heck I should have come with you. It's all my fault this has happened!"

"No Sally, it's my fault." Tails insisted "I shouldn't have tried to get the Automaton plans, I should have just made Nicole a new body from scratch and all of this could have been avoided. I'm truly sorry that Nicole's been corrupted."

"It's alright Tails." said Sally softly "We'll get Nicole back. We won't lose her to Eggman like this."

"Yeah, let's save Nicole!" Tails yelled with enthusiasm.

He soon ended up yelping in surprise as Nicole lunged at them with her sharp metal claws. Tails and Sally dodged the attack just seconds before Nicole's hand came near them and Sally swung her energy blades at Nicole. To her surprise, the Automaton body had defences of its own against her blades. Eggman had installed them in the newer Automaton models so that they were more up to date with the current Royal Fighters. Nicole's lower arms glowed a fluorescent purple and faint outlines could be seen around the glow. As Sally's arm blades struck them, they bounced back off and made Sally stagger. Eggman had seen her use her energy blades to perfection during the multi verse crisis and thus, had upgraded his Automaton models to have forcefield generators in the arms to stop Sally from chopping them to pieces. It was possible he had even done so to more of his Eggman robots and not just the Automatons. Sally sighed in annoyance. It was Mordred the Robo-Mole all over again only this one was worse because it was her own friend fighting her. Sally swung at Nicole again but Nicole blocked the attack with her arm, causing Sally's blade to bounce backwards as it struck the forcefield. Sally could feel her arm shaking in protest after the blow. Keep this up and her own arm bone could end up jutting out of her shoulder. Nicole ran towards Sally and she backhanded her across the face. With the added forcefield, the backhand felt more like being whacked by a cricket bat. Sally was thrown across the battlefield as if somebody had shot her out of a cannon and she came down with a heavy crash on the ground. Her face was bruised horrifically from the attack. She looked like somebody had just thrown a splodge of purple paint on her cheek. Nicole ran towards Sally again but Tails flew in behind her and dropkicked her in the back of her head. This caused Nicole to fall forward onto the ground with a clunk. Sally picked herself up, ignoring the pain in her face, and she held her blades together in an X shape. She plunged them into the ground on either side of Nicole's neck, pinning her down and trapping the Automaton. Nicole didn't dare try to move in fear of severing her own head.

"Nicole, please, I know you can hear me in there!" cried Sally desperately "Fight Eggman's control! You can do it! I KNOW you can! You're stronger than he is! Remember how you managed to counter-hack him once? You can do it again! Fight his control, come back to us! Fight it Nicole, FIGHT IT!"

Nicole just glowered at Sally, hoping to find a way out of her current situation. Deep inside though, Nicole was trying to fight Eggman's coding and win control of herself again. Eggman may have added extra coding but that wasn't going to stop her. She was going to win and she wasn't going to let Eggman do this to her. She'd sooner be dead than serve Eggman. Unfortunately, Nicole was too weak to make herself heard inside the Automaton's head. She couldn't break through Eggman's control, the Automaton was still dominated by his coding. She needed another way of winning control. That would have to wait though for Finitevus sneaked up behind Sally and he grabbed her by the shoulders. He yanked the queen away from Nicole and pressed his knuckles against her throat. Sally gagged and spluttered, fighting for air that wouldn't come to her lungs. This tactic was very popular with garrotters back in the Victorian era of humanity and now Finitevus was using it on Sally. He'd make her pass out and then kill her while she was unconscious.

"Try all you want my dear, Nicole can't hear you." taunted Finitevus "As for you, I have scores to settle with you after the way you humiliated me during Operation: Double Trouble so I'll kill you myself!"

"Not...ack...in this life time!" croaked Sally.

Remembering advice from Princess Matilda, Sally held her blade against Finitevus's thigh. She had been taught that when somebody grabs hold of you, don't give into them, just find a way out of it. Finitevus winced in pain as Sally's blade pressed against his thigh. The blade felt hot and it burnt him badly. Yet Finitevus fought the pain and held on. Sally decided to increase the pain by making it a cut. That was enough to make Finitevus let go of her. He started to rub his sore thigh better and he let go of Sally. Sally spun around and lightly nicked him across the side of his head. Any closer and she would have taken his dreadlocks off. Finitevus growled furiously and he lashed out at Sally, aiming a powerful jab at her throat. Sally leaned backwards and tried to make another cut on Finitevus but the echidna drew his arm back before she could hit him. Finitevus swept Sally's feet out from under her and the squirrel came down heavily onto her back. While she was down, Finitevus grabbed Sally's left hand and he forced her fingers to curl into her palm, making a fist. Sally tried to stop him but Finitevus pinned her other arm down with his foot. He pressed on as hard as he could, the pressure on her palm enough to deactivate her energy blade. Finitevus then unclipped the wristband from Sally's wrist and he clipped it around his own wrist. He activated the blade and he held it at Sally's throat.

"How ironic it is that I will be finishing you off with your own weapon?" he purred darkly.

Sally gulped. She couldn't see anyway out of this one. She was dead meat in every possible meaning of the words. But it seemed her time would come another day for Tails flew in and tried to land a blow on Finitevus. The echidna heard his propelling tails scything through the air like helicopter rotors as he flew towards him so he was quick to react. Finitevus leaped off of Sally and he slashed at Tails with Sally's energy blade. He caught Tails across the face, leaving a long gash that streamed with blade and Tails screeched like a wounded fox. Finitevus then grabbed Tails by the foot and threw him into Sally just as she was standing back up. The two sprawled on the ground as they were knocked over and Finitevus cackled at them. He was about to make the killing blow until Sally leaped back onto her feet and blocked his attack with her other blade.

"You and Eggman won't be killing us today!" she growled determinedly "We'll rescue Nicole and we'll escape here with our lives!"

"I'd like to see you try you royal brat..." crooned Finitevus menacingly.

Sally pushed Finitevus backwards and slashed at him furiously like the Grim Reaper swishing his scythe at his latest victim but Finitevus already had his arm up to block the blow before Sally even threw the attack. The two blades clashed, a bright flash of blue light sparking between them as the blades hit. Finitevus pushed Sally away and he slashed Sally across the thigh with the blade he'd stolen from her. Sally winced as a sharp, stinging pain streamed through her thigh and down to her toes. Now Sally and Finitevus both had a cut across their thigh from the energy blades. Finitevus grinned evilly and he lunged at Sally with his foot. Sally had been expecting a punch so she didn't block the attack, allowing Finitevus's foot to hit its target, which was the cut on her thigh. Sally yelped as the already stinging cut began to sting even more and Finitevus was certain he saw Sally's leg buckle slightly underneath her. Sally screamed angrily and she tried to kick Finitevus in the cut on his thigh. Finitevus saw it coming so he blocked the attack with his blade. He swung his arm sharply to the side, throwing Sally's blade outwards so it gave him the perfect opportunity to launch a blow on her body. He kicked her in the thigh, aiming at the cut once again. Sally tried to hold in the pain but she couldn't resist the urge to put her hand over it and rub it better. This allowed Finitevus the opportunity to grab Sally's arm and unclip her remaining wristband. Sally now had no blades left to fight with. Finitevus took the wristband and he stuffed it into a pocket in his cloak. He took off the first wristband he'd nicked from Sally and put it in his cloak pocket too. Finitevus seemed to be interested in giving Sally a right royal beating. Sally just raised her fists. She'd beat Finitevus without her blades or so she hoped. But Finitevus wouldn't be the one to lay the smackdown on Sally. Instead, he glanced over to his left.

"Nicole, she's all yours now." he purred wickedly, smiling like a troll.

Now Sally realized that Finitevus had tricked her. He had only taken a shot at her to weaken her and deprive her of her weapons so Nicole could finish her off easier! And he'd done a good job too for she now had both weapons confiscated and her thigh had a horrible cut that had been made worse because of Finitevus kicking it! Nicole would take her down much easier now considering Nicole had her arm-mounted forcefields and she had nothing. Nicole ran up towards Sally and savagely clubbed the squirrel around the head with her arm, which still had the forcefield around it. Sally was thrown onto the floor like a wine bottle falling off a table and she grunted as she hit the ground hard. Nicole didn't relent though, she socked Sally in the back and made her cry out in agony. Sally tried to fight back with a kick to the leg but Nicole took the blow as if it didn't even happen and she punched Sally in the back again. She turned Sally onto her back and slugged her in the stomach. Sally spluttered hoarsely in pain but she soon had more pain to deal with for Nicole punched Sally in the face. To the poor queen it felt like being socked by a bowling ball. Sally turned her head to one side and spat out blood in a single throaty cough. Finitevus just stood idly by, enjoying every minute of the beating. Tails picked himself up from the earlier onslaught and he cried out in despair as Nicole slugged Sally yet again.

"Nicole! Stop this! Please stop it!" he screamed "That's your best friend you're beating up!"

Nicole didn't hear him. Instead, she punched Sally in the face again and knocked Sally down on the ground again. Sally forced herself onto her feet and she threw a punch at Nicole. Big mistake for she ended up giving herself a sore fist. Nicole picked Sally in her injured thigh, copying Finitevus's tactic and Sally staggered down on one knee. Nicole punched Sally in the mouth, blood trickling around her lips as she was thrown backwards and Sally collapsed onto the ground again. She coughed and splutered, sending drops of blood mixed with saliva shooting out of her mouth. Sally looked dreadful. Her face already had a bruise on it from earlier but now it had more bruises, her belly was bruised and her arms were bruised. The cut on her thigh had now swollen and gone a nasty mix of purple and red and any strength Sally had was only enough to keep her conscious. Sally tried to get back up but her injured body wouldn't obey her. Nicole stood over Sally, ready to finish her off. Sally's eyes trickled with tears as she watched Nicole bring her arm back and aim a killing punch at her face.

"No Nicole...please...don't...kill me." Sally said weakily, her voice straining with effort "Please...you're my...friend...you would...never hurt me...please..."

Nicole tried as hard as she could to stop the Automaton from completing its objective but she was still too weak to fight against Eggman's coding. Instead, the Automaton obeyed its orders and was about to kill the weeping Sally Acorn. Sally pleaded with her eyes for Nicole to stop but she could see it was futile. Nicole was working for Eggman now and she was going to kill her, no ifs or buts about it. But as Nicole prepared to kill Sally, Sonic spin-dashed Nicole in the back and tossed her across the battlefield like mere garbage. The Automaton hurled through the air and crashed head-first on the ground. The impact smashed some of its head and left it looking crumpled, crooked and dented. Another attack like that and it would have come off. Sonic knelt down beside his girlfriend's side. It pained him to see Sally hurt like this, especially since Nicole had done it.

"You alright Sally?" he asked worriedly.

"I feel...terrible..." croaked Sally "Nicole...and Finitevus...beat me up good...and hard."

"I can see that." said Sonic sadly "I tried to help you but Eggman kept getting in the way. Thanks to his stupid life-support mech, he's tough to beat. I'm so sorry I couldn't help Sally."

"It's...OK Sonic." grunted Sally reassuringly "We...have to...get Nicole...back home...so we can...save her...from Eggman's control."

"Well my spin-dash nearly took her head off so I'd best not do it again." said Sonic with concern "I'll grab her and then me, you and Tails will beat it before..."

He was rudely interrupted by a warp ring opening up underneath him and sending him falling away from Sally and back over to where Eggman was. Finitevus had done that of course. The echidna closed up the warp ring after Sonic had been successfully transported back to where Eggman was and he strode up to the weak and helpless Sally. Sally tried to get up but she was still too weak to move. She could only lie there and watch as Finitevus stood over her.

"You will not save Nicole." purred Finitevus darkly "She is Eggman's to control and you will be removed so you can never save her."

But before Finitevus could do anything to Sally, Tails flew up behind him and grabbed him by the cape. The echidna cried out in surprise as Tails tugged on his cape and literally lifted him off the ground by it! Finitevus gagged and croaked as the cape pressed hard against his Adam's apple. Tails strained with the effort as he fought to remain airborne and hold Finitevus both at once.

"I'll keep him busy Sally, you get to Nicole!" cried Tails.

Sally wasn't sure what good getting to Nicole would do but then again, she had gotten her head damaged by Sonic after she'd crashed on the ground so maybe with any luck, Nicole had reverted back to her original self. Sally remembered Sonic telling her how Tails had helped Vanilla get back her freewill while she was a robot, a sharp blow to the head had been enough to turn her back good. Maybe that was the case with Nicole. As Tails carried Finitevus away, Sally slowly pushed herself onto her stomach and crawled towards Nicole. It would take her a while due to her injuries but Sally was not about to let her injuries stop her now. She strained and grunted as she forced her muscles to articulate and make her body move. While she was doing that, Tails carried Finitevus over to Dr. Eggman, who was in battle with Sonic. Sonic spin-dashed at Eggman but Eggman blocked his attack by holding his hand up and letting his hand take the blow for him. It was so fortunate Eggman had such thickly built limbs and that Katherine had picked that to be his life-support mech otherwise Sonic would be flooring him right now. Sonic growled furiously. He hated it when Eggman's creations didn't break when he hit them, it made Eggman more infuriating to fight. Sonic leaped up into the air and just as he sailed above Eggman, he stomp-kicked the head section of his mech. Eggman staggered but he managed to keep himself standing and he shot a missile at Sonic. Sonic dodged the missile and he spin-dashed Eggman in the side. The top-heaviness of his mech caused him to loose his footing and fall onto his side. Seizing his chance, Tails dropped the flailing Finitevus directly on top of Dr. Eggman. Finitevus tried to get a warp ring out to save himself from the fall but he crashed into Eggman before he had the chance to flick it in the air, dropping the warp ring in the process. Sonic seized it and he activated it. Eggman threw Finitevus off of himself, yelling "Get off!" as he did so and he saw Sonic disappear through Finitevus's warp ring. He reappeared behind Eggman and he spin-dashed him in the back, throwing him across the battlefield and sending him crashing down onto his front with a heavy thud. Sonic chuckled but his chuckle was quickly replaced an "Argh!" as Finitevus booted him in the back of his head and knocked him down onto his hands and knees. Finitevus grabbed his warp ring and he put it back onto his arm before Sonic could get it back. Sonic picked himself up and he lashed out with his foot at Finitevus, the kick aimed squarely at his face. Finitevus grabbed Sonic's foot and sharply twisted it to the side, twisting Sonic around onto his front. Sonic's upper body fell down onto the ground, his chin taking the brunt of the impact. Tails flew in to help Sonic but Finitevus spun around on his heel and swung Sonic into Tails. The hedgehog's body slammed against the fox's and brought him crashing down onto the ground. Finitevus was about to swing Sonic again but Sonic yanked his foot out of Finitevus's grip and smacked his hand with it. Finitevus ignored the pain in his hand and he punched at Sonic. Sonic managed to manoeuvre himself out of the way so Finitevus ended up punching solid ground. Sonic kicked Finitevus in the face and then homing-attacked him in the chest. The echidna hurled backwards and came down with a heavy thud on his back. Sonic was about to attack Finitevus again but Eggman sent him scurrying for cover by firing a missile at him. Sonic only just managed to dodge the missile as it roared like a wild animal towards him. It exploded just inches from his feet, kicking up dirt and gravel as it tore a chunk out of the ground he had just seconds ago been standing on. Sonic turned around and he ran towards Eggman. Eggman deployed his Gatling guns and he was about to shoot Sonic but Tails put his hands over Eggman's optics, blinding him for long enough to let Sonic attack him. Sonic jumped towards Eggman and he stomp-kicked him, propelling himself away from Eggman and leaving the force of his kick to throw Eggman backwards. Sonic heard a satisfying thud as Eggman landed on his back. Finitevus however sneaked up behind Sonic and he threw his warp ring into the back of Sonic's head like a frisbee. The warp ring pinged off of Sonic's head and made him cry in pain. This distracted him long enough to let Eggman get back up and blast him off his feet with a laser blast. Sonic was tossed backwards as if a giant hand had smacked him but before he could land on the ground, Finitevus used a warp ring to send Sonic flying into Tails from up above. Sonic landed smack bang on top of Tails as if he was a fly swatter squashing a fly against the wall. Tails cried out in pain as he slammed against the ground with Sonic on top of himself. The impact had left Tails feeling winded and he coughed furiously as he tried to get the air back into his lungs. Eggman and Finitevus surrounded the two and they prepared to pummel them both into the ground but Sonic lashed out and pinched Finitevus's cut on his thigh. Finitevus's eyes shot open as pain surged up his thigh like an electrical shock and he bent down to rub his thigh better. Sonic jumped up and uppercut Finitevus in the chin before he could recover. Tails leaped up into the air and he tail-whipped Eggman in the face. Eggman wasn't effected by the blow but Sonic's attack did. He tripped Eggman up with a kick to the legs and brought him crashing down again. Eggman picked himself up only for Sonic to spin-dash him in the back, throwing him towards Finitevus. Finitevus just opened up a warp ring and sent Dr. Eggman hurling through it. Sonic only just had time to realize where it was going to reappear before the warp ring opened up behind him and threw Eggman out straight into him and Tails. It almost felt like being bowled over by a bowling ball as Sonic and Tails were whisked off their feet by the giant mech that housed Dr. Eggman. Eggman picked himself up and chortled at what had happened.

"That was a good tactic Finitevus. Thank you." he crooned.

"Think nothing of it doctor..." said Finitevus sinisterly as Sonic and Tails staggered back onto their feet.

"You know, I liked you two better when you WEREN'T working together!" grumbled Sonic "I'd sooner fight one or the other rather than both of you!"

Eggman and Finitevus sneered triumphantly at Sonic and Tails and they lunged forward for another attack. Sonic and Tails lunged back.

Meanwhile, Sally had made it over to Nicole, the latter still lying on the ground with her smashed up head looking very much lifeless and dead. Sally strained as she lifted her head up and she coughed before she managed to speak.

"Nicole...? Can...you hear me?" she grunted.

The Automaton didn't move for a minute but soon after, it suddenly twitched as if responding to Sally's question. The head's optics were faintly glowing but curiously enough, they were glowing green instead of red. The Automaton sat up, the head still attached thankfully but looking very much like a crumpled tin can sitting on top of a robot's shoulders. Nicole looked over at Sally, the optics fixed on her despite the damages to the head.

"S-S-Sally?" came Nicole's voice, sounding more or less normal again "I-Is that you?"

Sally beamed, well tried to beam but her face strained with the effort so she could only manage a slight smile. Her theory had been correct. The damage done to Nicole's head had been enough to weaken Eggman's programming and allow her to gain control! She was back on the heroes's side again!

"Yes Nicole...it's me...cough, cough, cough!" Sally croaked weakly "I'm...here for you..."

"Oh my god! What have I done to you?!" wailed Nicole, scurrying over to Sally and placing her metal hands on her friend's battered body "Oh Sally, I'm so sorry this happened! I tried my best to fight Eggman's control but I couldn't! I was too weak! Please, please, PLEASE forgive me Sally! I didn't want to beat you up, I really didn't!"

"Nicole...it doesn't matter...you're back with us...now." said Sally with a feeble smile "You...don't have...to serve...Eggman...anymore."

"I know, but still I apologize for what I did." said Nicole sadly "When we get home, I want to get out of this body and back into my computer! I don't want to have a new body anymore, it'll be a painful reminder of what I've done to you and what I almost did to Tails."

"Nicole...it's fine. Stop...beating yourself about it." said Sally softly "It...was not...your fault. It's...Eggman's fault...and now...you can make him...pay for it."

"With my head just about destroyed, I don't think that's a good idea." said Nicole worriedly "If it falls off, my body will be useless for I won't be able to control it without its head."

"Good...idea. It'll be best...to get you back home." said Sally.

Nicole nodded and she helped Sally up onto her feet. Pulling Sally's arm around her shoulder and putting a hand around Sally's waist, Nicole helped Sally to limp towards the battle with Sonic, Tails and the two doctors. Sonic saw the girls coming and he sped off away from Eggman and Finitevus with Tails flying after him.

"Sally! Is Nicole on our side again?" asked Sonic hopefully as he approached the girls.

"Yes." croaked Sally "The damage to...her head...was enough for...Nicole to regain...control."

"Yes!" cried Tails happily "Now let's get outta here before anything else happens!"

Dr. Eggman looked like his life support mech was about to have a mechanical breakdown upon hearing this. Nicole had been able to break through his coding and regain control of herself?! He would not let this humiliation go unnoticed! Nobody dared to break free of his control and get away with it! Eggman aimed his arm at the Royal Fighters and deployed a missile, ready for launch.

"You filthy rats won't leave here alive!" he bellowed "Especially Nicole!"

Without another word...he fired a missile at the Royal Fighters. The missile spat out of its nozzle like a poisoned dart and it rocketed through the air, quickly closing the distance between it and the heroes. Nicole handed Sally over to Sonic and she ran towards the missile. Sally cried out in horror as Nicole did what was essentially a suicidal run in.

"NICOLE NO! WHAT ARE YOU DOING?!" she screeched, her eyes already streaming with tears.

Nicole ignored Sally and she held her arms up in an X-shape. The two forcefields around her arms were already deployed but Nicole did something incredible. She managed to extend the forcefields so that they now completely shielded her. Luckily for her, Eggman hadn't put a limit on how big the forcefields could be. When she had been evil for Eggman, she had fought hard to keep the Automaton from making its forcefields any bigger to help the heroes in their battle earlier. Now she was allowing the forcefields to grow as big as they needed to be. But would they be enough to block a missile? It was too late to wonder now for the missile smashed against her forcefields and exploded into a terrific fist of fire and smoke. It was like a giant punch had slammed against her, said punch being a fist made of an explosion. Nicole was thrown backwards from the force of the explosion, her forcefields switching off as she was tossed away and leaving her body vulnerable to the aftershock. The Automaton's body was not built to withstand the aftershock of a missile explosion so the body ended up shattering to pieces as it hit the ground just before Sonic, Sally and Tails. The head, which had been horrifically damaged earlier already, was ironically enough the most intact part of the Automaton now. It sat forlornly at Sally's feet, optics blank and lifeless. It was nothing more than a crumpled piece of metal that resembled a head. The body was worst, scattered across the ground in a thousand pieces and useless to anyone. Sally threw herself onto her knees and she picked up the Automaton head, going hysterical with shock.

"NOOOOO! NICOLE!" she howled as tears streamed down her face like a pair of waterfalls.

"My gosh...she just...sacrificed herself to save us!" blurted Sonic, feeling sorry for his girlfriend "That was very gutsy of her.

Nicole...truly was one brave woman." he said solemnly.

"Indeed...pity she's dead now." said Tails, shedding tears of his own for poor Sally.

As for Eggman and Finitevus, they were gob smacked at the fact Nicole had managed to block a missile blow and only lose herself in the process. They looked at each other as if wondering what to do. They then turned back towards the Mobians only to see that Sonic had picked up the howling Sally, who was clutching the Automaton's head to her chest as if her life depended on it, and Tails had taken flight with a simple twirl of his twin tails.

"You'll pay for this Eggman!" snarled Sonic "If Nicole's truly gone then mark my words, you will PAY!"

He raised his fist as if to further emphasize his point before running off and leaving the two villains in the dust. Tails flew after him, desperate to get far away from Eggman and Finitevus as quickly as possible. Eggman and Finitevus weren't sure whether they should stop them or not. After a while, Eggman made up his decision.

"Well, at least I got one of them." he said casually "I bet that'll crush Sally's spirit oh most horribly and I bet Sonic will be plenty furious with this. We can use this to our advantage...if Sonic's emotionally troubled then he will falter in battle and..."

"Don't he so confident Eggman." interrupted Finitevus "A vengeful, angry person can be very dangerous you know. You might be sealing your own grave with this recent out turn. And what if Nicole's not even dead?"

"You heard Sally howling her heart out, Nicole's definitely had it." crowed Eggman.

"I'm not so sure about that. The head might still contain her and might still be functional enough for her to be alive." warned Finitevus.

"So what if it is?" sneered Eggman "Nicole won't be of any use to the Royal Fighters stuck inside a crumpled up Automaton head!

Don't worry so much Finitevus and enjoy our victory today!" he said in his usual brash attitude.

"Boy are you so illogical..." muttered Finitevus.

"What was that?!" snarled Eggman furiously.

Finitevus ignored Eggman and he summoned a warp ring to his hand. He tossed it over his shoulder and he disappeared through it, leaving Dr. Eggman alone in the plains to just get mad over the fact Finitevus had just blatantly left him behind like this.

"Oy! Come back here at once Finitevus!" roared Eggman, jumping up and down like an angry flea.

The warp ring had already closed before he said that so Finitevus didn't even hear him. He had gone back to his hideout and was going to leave Eggman to make a fool of himself until he was next needed in his presence...

Back in New Mobotropolis, Sonic and Tails had taken Sally and Nicole straight into Royal HQ and Tails had set the crumpled head down onto the desk as if ready to study it. Sonic had his arms comfortingly around Sally, the squirrel still sobbing as she feared the worst about her friend. She assumed Nicole was gone for good but Tails remained more optimistic. He was sure that Nicole could be saved so he had taken the head from her and was now observing it. It didn't look too good but considering the head's damage and Nicole was still functional with it in its current condition, it didn't necessarily mean Nicole was dead.

"Well?" asked Sonic with concern.

"I think Nicole might still be alive." said Tails "Most of my thoughts are admittedly gut instinct but I am dead sure Nicole can be saved. Maybe some remains of her data are still in the head and we just need to move her into something more functional. The head might be too damaged for her to properly work."

"But what can we use?" asked Sally between sobs "Her handheld computer's been lost hasn't it?"

"It has, Finitevus destroyed it." said Tails grimly "But we have an even bigger and better computer for her to take refuge in..."

He smiled brightly a she glanced over at the elephant in the room...Royal HQ's main computer monitor. Sonic and Sally looked over at the giant computer monitor and they saw what Tails was on to.

"Good idea Tails." said Sonic with a wink.

"But...Nicole will just feel trapped again." muttered Sally "Especially since this computer isn't portable."

"It'll have to do until we make a new handheld computer for her." said Tails "Besides, she'll still be able to use the holo projectors to appear around New Mobotropolis. She'll have the freedom I gave her before this happened, no worries."

"OK then. Let's hope this works." said Sonic, crossing his fingers "I don't want Sally to be sad and I don't want to lose Nicole since losing Nicole will make her very sad."

"I hope it works too." said Tails, crossing his fingers too.

He took out a wire that had USB links at each end and he connected the wire to the Automaton's head. He took the head over to the computer and he plugged the other end of the wire into it. Now Tails, still holding the head in his hands, bit his lip nervously as he waited for something to happen. Sally watched too, clutching her heart as if it was about to explode into a million pieces. Several minutes passed and it seemed like nothing was happening. The screen wasn't doing anything and the head wasn't showing any signs of life. Tails began to fear the worst. Maybe he had been too hopeful and Nicole truly was gone. Sally was about ready to wail again. Then suddenly, the screen flashed into life and the words "Body transfer commencing" flashed on the screen like a neon-lit sign. Tails almost dropped the head in excitement. If there was a body transfer happening then...

"YES! YES! She's alive! Look! She's transferring from the head into the computer!" screamed Tails delightedly.

"Oh thank goodness!" cried Sally, hugging Sonic tightly "Nicole's alive! What a lucky break for us!"

"You can say that again Sally." said Sonic, hugging her back.

The Mobians watched as the body transfer finished and the screen suddenly lit up with Nicole's beautiful smiling face looking at her friends delightedly.

"Hello my friends." she said "It is good to be back home and it's good to still be alive."

"Nicole! We thought we'd lost you!" shrieked Sally hysterically "When you ran in to stop the missile, I thought you was going to die!"

"I nearly did." said Nicole sadly "The head was only just enough to keep me alive. The brain section was the only part of the head that was still functional and I resided in there until further notice. I tried to tell you all I was alive but the optics wouldn't light up and my voice was silent. I'm so sorry for the scare everybody, I was only trying to protect you all..."

"Nicole, don't be sorry for saving our lives." said Sonic "You have just proven yourself one of our greatest heroes. Your body maybe gone but you've proven you don't need a body to be amazing. All you needed was a strong will and a good heart. Nicole, you are way past cool." he finished with a wink.

Sonic could swear that he saw Nicole's digital face blushing after he said that to him. The blush quickly faded and Nicole grinned from ear to ear.

"Thank you Sonic." she said "And you know what? I think I'm going to get used to being a computer after all. After all, I don't need my body just to be me. I have everything I need to be even if I am just digital codes and programme memory. I have my free will, my soul and most importantly...my friends. I can't thank you enough for coming to save me and trying to make my life easier despite my big change."

"Nicole, you are welcome and don't you forget it." said Sally, placing her hands against the screen and smiling at Nicole "And I'm so glad that you accept your new life now."

"Thanks Sally." said Nicole happily "It's amazing it took me a near-death experience and corruption at Eggman's hands to learn this lesson but never mind. Now then..."

With a flourish, Nicole's face disappeared from the computer screen and then suddenly, Nicole's holographic avatar appeared out of thin air and stood proudly before Sonic, Tails and Sally with a beautiful smile on her pixelated face.

"How about a group hug?" she asked "Thanks to Tails's genius, I'm still able to do that at least."

Sonic, Tails and Sally all gathered around Nicole and hugged her in unison. Nicole returned the hug, beaming with pride at her friends. Nicole didn't need her body anymore, nor did she need a body of any sort at all. Nicole had everything she could need and she would never lose sight of it. What she truly needed...was her friends and she wouldn't swap them for anything in the world. Not even a new body...

Footnotes:

 See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 17: Divide and Conquer: The Home Front

* See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 19: Rise of a Warrior Princess

Aww...I love a happy ending. ^^

Well that's it for this story arc. Come back soon for we get a stand-alone chapter and it's all about Sora Prower. And she's a "Number 1: Target"...wonder what Ruben will think to that? Don't miss it...

Sora Prower: Number 1 Target

Story 180: Sora Prower: Number 1 Target

"OK Eggman, what are you up to now?" mused Sora Prower as she watched the Egg-Pawns marching back and forth, carrying iron work and steel girders back and forth as they paced around the plains of Megapolis's Northern Border.

Dr. Eggman, the enemy of Mobius, had a grand plan and it involved building fake fuelling stations for his next big vessel, the Death Egg, so he could slow down the Royal Fighters and finish his Death Egg in peace and once the vessel launched into the sky, it was curtains for everyone on Mobius. Sora of course, didn't know this but she was here to find out what Eggman was planning now. After the recent fiasco with Nicole yesterday, Sally Acorn was anxious about Eggman and wondered if he was planning to try and corrupt her again so of course, her first choice for such a mission was the super-sleuth vixen Sora Prower. Tails, her brother, had been sceptical about sending Sora since he worried she'd get caught like he did but Sora had insisted to him that she was OK and that she would be fine. So Sora had left for Megapolis, piloting a hover saucer to help get her there as quickly as possible and now she had arrived at the site of the Egg-Bunker, she took shelter behind a rock and watched as a rather interesting yet puzzling scene unfolded before her. the Egg-Pawns were busy at work on something. They were cutting down chunks of metal and measuring the size of it, lifting the bars up and forming a structure of some kind and busy welding and hammering away. They were making something that was for sure. But what? What were they making? Sora had to find out. After all, that's why she was here. Sora took her camera-orb off her belt and she pointed it at the working Egg-Pawns. She took pictures of the Egg-Pawns and their work. The pictures would give the Royal Fighters some idea on what Eggman was up to and whatever his plan was, they would stop it before Eggman could use this building for anything. Didn't matter what it was for as long as he couldn't use it. It was better if they didn't know what it was for and Eggman couldn't use it then not knowing what it was for and Eggman using it. Yet Sora still wanted to know what Eggman was building so she stuck around for a time, waiting for something to happen.

"OK, there's some kind of construction work going off. Tells me there's building work going on but not what it's for." she mused "What is Eggman's plan?"

It seemed she'd get the answer for a loud noise began to pierce through the terrain like a loud scream breaking the silence. Sora's head snapped around as she looked at where the noise had come from. Her eyes fixed on the ground that seemed to be opening up from a few meters away from the building site. Sora knew what was happening. Eggman was coming out of his little hiding hole and he was going to inspect the progress of whatever it was his robots were building. Sora stood by and watched silently as Dr. Eggman's life support mech nosily walked out from the Egg-Bunker and entered the upper surface of the world above. Dr. Finitevus was walking behind him and looking like he wished he was somewhere else. That's probably because he does wish he was somewhere else. He had plans of his own and had been formulating his own secret army while also planning to sabotage Eggman from within. He had been interrupted once again for he had to see what Eggman was doing and keep up his act. After all, it was compulsory that Eggman suspected nothing of his planned betrayal. He had to remain completely in the dark and so far, it looked like it was working. Eggman didn't suspect a thing about Finitevus and continued to foolishly believe the albino echidna was still loyal to him. This foolishness would end up bringing Eggman down one day and Finitevus longed to see it happen. Sora read Finitevus's face and she instantly realized he didn't look too happy.

"Hmm…that face Finitevus has suggests he's not all that loyal." she murmured "What's his game I wonder?"

Maybe she could find out something about Finitevus as well as Eggman. After she'd finished with Eggman, she could spy on Finitevus too and see what he might be up to. For now, she focused on Eggman and watched as he loudly announced to his workers. It was clear that he knew nothing about keeping his voice down.

"Hurry up Egg-Pawns! The Death Egg's refuelling station must be completed in time!" he barked, shaking his arms so much that Sora swore they'd detach themselves from his shoulders "How will my Death Egg fly if there's nothing to refuel it with?! I sure hope the other groups I've sent around Mobius are progressing faster than you lot are!"

Sora's heart skipped a couple of beats before resuming its natural rhythm. Death Egg? Refuelling station? Other groups around Mobius? Eggman must be planning something big. Was this Death Egg a new ship? If refuelling stations were being built then it had to be a vehicle of some kind and Eggman LOVED to build giant ships that could fly through the sky and spell doom on anyone who saw them. Sora had found out Eggman's evil plan and she had to inform the Royal Fighters about it. But she needed to know where on Mobius the other groups of Egg-Pawns had been sent. Where on Mobius had Eggman decided to send some Egg-Pawns to build refuelling stations? She already knew where one was, and that was right here in front of her but where were the others being built? She had to find out although it was risky to try and find out information like that. She'd be plain lucky if Eggman even decided to conveniently mention the locations out loud for her but that was hoping too much. Sora remained hiding behind the rock and continued to watch and listen. As Eggman barked at the Egg-Pawns, Finitevus seemed to be looking around is if hoping to escape from Eggman as quickly as possible and he was trying to determine the best route. Not that he'd need to considering his warp rings. Sora observed his body-language. She was getting suspicions about Finitevus by the second. What was up with him? For someone who willingly allied with Eggman he didn't seem awfully happy. This was something Sora would have to find out one day. It could be important just like finding out what Eggman was planning was important. Finitevus glanced back at Eggman, a nasty scowl on his face that suggested he was disgusted he had to so much as look at Eggman.

"Do you really thinking barking like a wild dog is going to make your junk pile robots work any faster?" he growled, clearly sounding irritated "They work as fast as they're possibly capable of working. Shouting isn't going to make them move faster!"

"It will since they know what happens if they progress too slowly!" snapped Eggman "I destroy them all and make replacements and I doubt the Egg-Pawns will like that at all!"

"It's a miracle they haven't turned on you yet Eggman." crooned Finitevus, a dry smirk spreading across his slimy lips and catching Sora's attention "The way you treat them, one would think they'd be plotting your downfall or something."

"No robot will ever betray me as long as I have total control over them and I reside in this awesome mech!" barked Eggman furiously "Metal Sonic and Alonzo may have turned on me but that was because I was an idiot and gave them freewill! Now none of my robots have freewill, they will not be able to turn on me!"

"A very good idea if I say so myself." purred Finitevus "It's what I would have done too…"

He suddenly paused and blinked as a glistening shine from the sun reflected off of something and hit his eye. Finitevus kept his eye closed for a minute and then looked in the direction that the shine had come from. He could see a speck of sunlight reflecting off of a shiny surface behind a rock. He couldn't see what it was but he knew that it meant somebody was here. Sora watched Finitevus and she began to feel nervous. Had he spotted him? If so then how? She'd been so careful! There was no way he could have spotted her! Then Sora remembered. She was still holding her camera orb. She'd forgotten to put it away and now the sun was glistening off of its polished, metal surface. It might have caught Finitevus's attention for the echidna seemed to be glancing in her direction. Sora put her camera orb back on her belt and pressed her back firmly against the rock.

Please don't look for me! she hissed in her head Dismiss it as your imagination! Go on as normal! Please don't look for me!

Eggman noticed Finitevus was looking at something and he leaned over by his head.

"Finitevus? What is it?" he asked.

"I think I saw something over there." mused Finitevus quietly "Stay there, I'll check it out."

With that said, he opened up a warp ring and warped himself over from where he was standing over to Sora's hiding place. Sora let out a frightened scream as she saw Finitevus coming out of the warp ring and standing before her with a menacing look in his eyes. She thought her heart was going to stop beating in fear. She pressed herself against the rock as hard as she could. Any harder and she might somehow shift it. Finitevus rubbed his hands evilly.

"Well, well, well…it appears we have a spy in the works." he crooned darkly "Oh dear, oh dear. Whatever shall I do about this?"

"P-please, don't hurt me!" whimpered Sora, hoping her frightened girl act would deter Finitevus somehow "I-I m-mean you n-no harm! I-I'm n-not doing anything w-wrong!"

"Don't lie to me you little brat." snarled Finitevus, grabbing Sora by the neck and hoisting her off the ground as if she weighed as much as a sack of feathers "You're spying on me and Eggman! How much do you know?" he demanded.

"Go to hell!" snarled Sora, gritting her teeth furiously.

"I might do just that but you're going there before I am." said Finitevus coldly, tightening his grip on Sora's neck.

Sora fought desperately for breath as her air supply began to deplete. Finitevus was going to choke her to death and if she didn't escape now, he'd surely finish her off. But Sora had been in situations like this before and had gotten out of them so she knew exactly what to do. Sora reached onto her utility belt and whipped out her spray can. She aimed the can at Finitevus's eyes. Unfortunately, Finitevus knew what she was doing and he closed his eyes as Sora sprayed. But Sora had a backup plan, something she was often very good at coming up with. While Finitevus had his eyes closed, she kicked him in the gut and made the echidna gasp in astonishment as the air in his lungs was suddenly kicked out of him. His grip loosened on Sora's neck, enough for the vixen to wiggle free and sock him in the jaw. Finitevus rubbed his jaw better and he opened his eyes…only for Sora to spray them with her spray can. Finitevus screamed a pained scream as the irritable substance bit at his eyes like stinging hornets and he clutched them as if they were going to melt out of their sockets. Sora turned and ran as fast as she could. Unfortunately, Eggman spotted her and he deployed his Gatling gun from the mech's wrist section.

"A Royal Fighter! And it's that blue fox that recently joined them!" he blurted.

The barrel spun around in his wrist and spat out a shower of bullets that whizzed towards Sora, cleaving through the air that hung in the distance between them. Sora yelped and threw herself onto the ground as the bullets shot over her head. She picked herself up and ran on again. Eggman took to the air, activating the rockets in the mech's back and shooting into the air like a rocket. Sora was prepared for that much to Eggman's dismay. She took an orb off her belt and threw it at Eggman. After the multi-verse crisis had ended, she had managed to get some more Mega Muck and had now thrown an orb full of the stuff at him. The orb exploded and covered Eggman with a wave of purple sticky goo that weighed him down and brought him crashing onto the ground. The Mega Muck then clung to the ground like a board of wood that had been nailed down and held Eggman firmly in place. Eggman tried as hard as he could to break out of the Mega Muck but it was much too sticky for him. It held firm and Eggman couldn't move. Whooping with joy, Sora leaped into her parked hover saucer and she started it up immediately.

"Whew, I thought I was a goner for a moment!" she gasped as the saucer kicked into gear and she floored the acceleration pedal.

The saucer jerked violently as it hurled forward and then sped off through the plains, whipping up a cloud of dust that seemed to follow it as it sped along the terrain. Finitevus watched Sora escape with despair and he growled angrily. He summoned a warp ring and he disappeared through it, leaving Dr. Eggman stuck in the Mega Muck. Eggman kept on squirming until finally, he'd had enough of trying and he bellowed as loud as he could.

"OY! EGG-PAWNS! DON'T STAND THERE AND LOOK STUPID!

GET ME OUT OF THIS BLASTED GOO!"

The Egg-Pawns obeyed instantly and they ran over to Dr. Eggman to see what they could do about the Mega Muck. Eggman growled furiously. Sora had escaped and she likely knew way too much. He would have to take her down and he had a feeling Finitevus had already gone to do just that given he'd gone without him. He was likely already in New Mobotropolis and waiting to ambush her now…

Back in New Mobotropolis, Sora had arrived back at the city and had charged straight into Royal HQ without a moment's hesitance. The vixen frantically darted past the small houses and up towards the hill where Royal HQ proudly stood beside the equally as proud looking Castle Acorn. She ran into the lab, where Sonic the Hedgehog, Sally Acorn, Tails the Fox and Ruben the Water Panther were waiting for her and she paused for a moment to catch her breath. The four Mobians in the lab read Sora's body language and assumed she had just made it out by the skin of her teeth, something they were very used to in this line of duty and business.

"Sora, you look flushed. What happened?" asked Sally.

"Did Eggman nearly get you or something?" asked Ruben worriedly, putting his hands on Sora's shoulders.

"Very nearly…pant…pant…" gasped Sora, her hand over her chest as she tried to regain her breath "I got…spotted and Finitevus and Eggman…tried to kill me."

"Oh my gosh!" cried Tails in alarm "I knew you shouldn't have gone alone big sister! You could have gotten killed out there!"

"Little brother, don't worry about it." said Sora casually "I'm a spy, I'm used to nearly getting killed you know."

"I know Sora but you need to be more careful." said Tails, embracing his sister tenderly "I don't want to lose you Sora. You're the only family I have left and after not knowing you for eight years, I can't afford to lose you."

"Aww…that's so sweet Tails." said Sora, hugging him back "You're such a wonderful brother to me. And I think you're right anyway, I do need to be more careful. My luck will run out one of these days. Nobody stays lucky forever."

"Indeed." said Tails "So Sora, did you find anything out while you was in Megapolis?"

"I sure did Tails." said Sora, letting go of Tails and walking up towards Royal HQ's biggest computer monitor "Nicole, please could you upload some photos I took on my camera orb so I can show my friends what I've found out?"

The screen came into life and Nicole's lovely face appeared on the screen, smiling sweetly at her friends. It had taken her a while but she was becoming accustomed to life as a computer programme at last.

"Of course Sora." said Nicole.

With that said, a little drive opened up under the computer and Sora put her camera orb into the drive. The drive retracted back into its base and Nicole disappeared from the screen as Sora's latest photos appeared in her place. The Royal Fighters looked at the photos and thought about what they were looking at.

"Looks like old Egg-head's building something again." said Sonic casually "What is it? Is he rebuilding Robotropolis? If so, it's taken him long enough. It's been destroyed for goodness knows how long now!"

"It's not a city they're building, it's a refuelling station." explained Sora "Eggman is building refuelling stations for a new ship he's planning to launch. He calls it the "Death Egg" and given the supposed, estimated size of the station, it's going to be a big ship."

Sonic's first reaction was to slap his knee and burst out laughing as if Sora had told him an extremely funny joke. He clutched his sides as he laughed out loud.

"The Death Egg?! Ha, ha, ha, ha, haaaaa! That's the corniest name I've EVER heard for a ship! Ha, ha, ha, ha! Is Eggman seriously running out of cool names for his toys now?! Ha, ha, ha, ha, haaaaa!"

Sonic was laughing so hard that he nearly fell over onto his side in hysterical laughter. He managed to contain himself at last but to his dismay, he seemed to be the only one who found that funny. Nobody else was laughing with him. Sally was fixed on the photos as if trying to find some kind of hidden message in them.

"Refuelling stations for a big ship…this is serious." murmured Sally "Especially if the ship's going to be a big one. We've dealt with big ships before but we can't let Eggman launch his Death Egg. We have to destroy those stations. Sora, how many are there or is this the only one?"

"Eggman said he'd sent more groups of Egg-Pawns out into the world to build refuelling stations." explained Sora "Makes sense since he'll have a lot of places for an emergency stop in that case. I'm sorry to say that I didn't find out where the other stations are being built or how many there are."

"That does make things difficult." sighed Sally "We could be on a wild goose chase looking for the other stations. It'd be better if we found out where the other stations are being set up. At least we know where one of them's being set-up. We'll set out to destroy the Megapolis refuelling station and then find out where the other stations are being set up. We cannot let Eggman use those stations. Without refuelling stations, he can't fuel up his so-called "Death Egg" should he run out."

"I'm sure he's got a way of refuelling in his bunker but it won't do him any good if he's just flying along and he runs out of fuel." said Ruben "If he's too far away from the Egg-Bunker and all his stations are down, he's mincemeat."

"Exactly." said Sally with a rather lovely yet determined looking smile on her face "Me, Sonic and Tails will bring down that first station. Since the construction's not been going on for long, we'll have an easier time taking it down."

"You bet Sally!" cried Sonic happily "Come on then Sally and Tails, let's bust down a refuelling station!" he added with a cracking of his knuckles.

"Wait, are me and Ruben not coming with you?" asked Sora.

"I think since Eggman and Finitevus apparently spotted you, it would be best to keep out of their way." said Sally softly "You'll be safe here and neither of them will get you with Nicole defending the city. Plus I think Ruben would very much like to contribute to your protection." she added, winking at Ruben.

Ruben seemed happy to hear this, probably because it meant he could spend time with Sora and maybe at long last, reveal his crush he had on her. Sora however appeared to take offence to this idea.

"With all due respect your majesty, I'm not going to sit here and hide like a coward." she said sternly "Who cares if Eggman and Finitevus know I spied on them? With you, Sonic and Tails on the battlefield, they won't get anywhere near me."

"Sora, you are staying here and that is final." said Sally coldly "Do not make me have to punish you for disobeying orders. Is that clear?"

"Yes Sally." muttered Sora bitterly, folding her arms and scowling at Sally "Although do take in mind Finitevus has those warp rings of his and he HAS been in New Mobotropolis before." she noted "He can just warp in here and try to kill me anyway. I'm not safe here after all."

Sally looked taken aback to hear this. How did she not thing of that herself? Sora had a brilliant point and Sally couldn't possibly argue with her logic. Although Sally had a back up plan for that.

"Well noted Sora." said Sally smoothly "Which is why I suggest Ruben take you to the GreatForest and hide there until we come back. If Finitevus comes to the city, he'll find you gone and he can't possibly warp to your location if he doesn't know where you are. He'll be trying to find a needle in a haystack. Or in this case, a vixen cub in a big round world."

Sora looked defeated and she was about to object but she knew that she was fighting a losing battle. Sally did have a point and as she said to Tails, her luck would run out eventually so it would be best to make sure that Eggman or Finitevus wouldn't be able to kill her if they were thinking of trying such a thing. Hiding was a good option now and the GreatForest would be a good place to hide. Sora swallowed as if literally swallowing her pride and she sighed.

"Very well your majesty." she murmured "I'll do just that. At least you're letting Ruben keep me company, he's the first person I'd want to go into hiding with other than Tails." she added with a sweet smile.

Ruben grinned a Cheshire Cat grin as he heard Sora say that. It was quite clear she did have a thing for him so maybe he'd be lucky when he revealed to Sora that he loved her. Happy that business was settled, Sally turned to go.

"That's good to hear." she said "Come on Sonic and Tails, it's time to wreck Eggman's upcoming refuelling station."

Sonic and Tails followed Sally as she left the room. Ruben and Sora waited until they left Royal HQ before looking at each other and Ruben extending his arm out for Sora.

"So, shall we go to the Great Forest?" He asked "Maybe me and you could play in the Lake of Rings together."

"Sure why not cute stuff?" said Sora, wrapping her arm around Ruben's as if she was a fair lady being escorted by an equally as fair gentleman "I love swimming. It'll be twice as fun with you water boy."

Ruben beamed like a happy bouncing lamb and he and Sora walked out of Royal HQ to go to the Great Forest. Unfortunately, their hiding place wouldn't be so secret for the moment they left the building, Dr. Finitevus emerged from a nearby closet. He had been listening to the entire conversation from outside the lab and had hidden in a closet when the Royal Fighters prepared to go. Now Sora and Ruben were off, he summoned a warp ring and warped himself back into the Megapolis laboratory he had taken refuge in to secretly formulate his Dark Armada. Upon arrival, he saw Scourge the Hedgehog, Fiona Fox and Ravage Bloodfang all standing around looking bored and like they wished something would happen already. The three looked at the arriving Finitevus and seemed strangely happy to see him. Maybe because something was finally going to happen and chase the boredom away.

"Yo doc, is something finally going to happen?" asked Scourge "I'm dying of boredom here!"

"Well don't arrange your funeral just yet for something interesting is going to happen." said Finitevus darkly.

"That's the best news I've heard all day." said Fiona with sigh "So what's happening tall, dark and creepy-as-all-heck?"

"I'd prefer just plain old "Dr. Finitevus" thank you." muttered Finitevus "Anyway, the Royal Fighter known as Sora Prower has been caught red-handed spying on me and Dr. Eggman and she unfortunately managed to elude us and flee back to New Mobotropolis."

"I find that hard to believe." said Fiona casually.

"She is a spy don't forget so she's bound to have some surprises in store." said Finitevus "Anyway, Sonic, Sally and Tails are on their way to destroy Eggman's fake refuelling station in the Northern Border of Megapolis. To keep Sora safe in the event that me and Eggman come after her, she's sent Sora to hide in the Great Forest. She and that water panther Ruben are going to the Lake of Rings in particular. I want you and Scourge to go into the Great Forest and kill her."

"Dude, you didn't even need to ask." purred Scourge "The opportunity to kill Sonic or any of his lame-ass friends is always something I'm happy to do."

"Why do you want us to kill Sora?" asked Fiona "I mean, she doesn't know about the Dark Armada or your plans, she's focused on Eggman isn't she?"

"She is but what if she starts getting a little too nosy and ends up taking interest in me?" noted Finitevus "She could spy on me and find out what I'm up to and then the Dark Armada will be jeopardized before we can even begin our plans! Sora must not be allowed to live for our own good! Do you understand?"

"Totally." said Fiona.

"Good." said Finitevus "As for the kill, you will take this rifle…"

He paused as he walked over to a nearby cabinet that just sat forlornly in the corner of the room and opened it. Inside the cabinet was a long barrelled rifle that clearly looked like the kind of rifle an assassin would use. It as sleek, silver in colour and had an elemental of danger to it. Finitevus handed Fiona the rifle and the vixen clocked it. She smiled as if pleased to be holding the rifle in her hands.

"Oooh, this'll get the job done nicely." purred Fiona happily.

"Indeed it will my dear." said Finitevus "But in case it doesn't, I won't you to take these as well…"

He reached into his cloak pocket and handed Fiona two blue wristbands. Fiona took the wrist bands and she gasped in surprise.

"My gosh, they're Sally's wrist blades!" she cried out in alarm "How did you get these from her?"

"I am a deadly opponent in battle don't forget." crowed Finitevus "Remember, to activate them you have to clench your fists very tightly and to deactivate them, clench them again. I know this thanks to watching Sally use them. I'm sure you'll put them to great use." he added with a dark tone that seemed to accompany his words flawlessly.

"I will indeed." said Fiona "And if I don't get the kid then Scourge will. I'm sure he can break a few bones of hers."

"I'll break every bone in her body if I have to." laughed Scourge evilly "Come on Fiona, let's go kill that spy!"

Finitevus opened up a warp ring that led to the Great Forest and he stepped aside as Scourge and Fiona ran through the warp ring. The two would find a good hiding spot near the Lake of Rings and then make the kill. Finitevus smiled a demon's smile as Scourge and Fiona vanished through the warp ring. Sora had spied on Eggman for the last time…

Meanwhile in the Great Forest, Ruben and Sora had arrived at the Lake of the Rings. Before going in for a swim, Sora took off her utility belt and lay it down on the bank of the lake since it wasn't a wise idea to take a belt full of gadgets into a lake. She removed her hair bobble too, allowing her lovely lavender hair to fall down behind her shoulders like it naturally would do. Ruben stared hard at Sora's hair. He'd never seen it down before, only in a ponytail and he had to admit, Sora looked very cute with her hair down. Maybe she'd keep it like that more often. Now her belt and hair bobble was removed, Sora and Ruben both dived into the water, Ruben first and then Sora following afterwards. They both made some terrific splashes as they entered the lovely cool water. They both came up to surface and laughed like happy little children playing in their back garden paddling pool. Sora threw water into the air and giggled merrily.

"Ah I feel like a kid again!" she squealed excitedly "I haven't been swimming for a while, I used to do a lot of it when I was younger! Although most of it was training for my eventual career as a super spy, I didn't often get to swim for fun."

"Well you can swim for all the fun in the world right now darling." said Ruben, lying on his back and doing some back strokes across the water, his arms carrying him along as he moved them in circular motions and accompanied his paddling legs.

"I bet it's going to be very fun with a water panther swimming with me." laughed Sora, swimming after Ruben in a breast stroke motion.

"Believe me Sora, you're in for a lot of fun now I'm in the water with you." chuckled Ruben.

It felt strange to Ruben how he didn't seem so shy about talking or even interacting with Sora. Maybe his confidence was building up at long last and he'd finally get the courage to say those three words he was dying to say to Sora. First, he'd play a bit and then give it a shot. Ruben lifted himself upwards so he was back floating upright in the water while Sora continued to swim towards him. Just as Sora reached him, Ruben playfully swiped at the water and sent a wave of water whooshing over Sora's face. Sora shielded herself with her arms as the water hit her.

"Oy! That wasn't fair!" she playfully whined at Ruben.

"There are no rules in a water fight except have fun." laughed Ruben, placing his hands together and pushing them through the water palms first.

The flat palms of his hands caused the water to build up into a wave that swept over Sora, drenching her hair and causing it to stick to her head. Sora brushed her hair out of her eyes and she laughed at Ruben.

"OK wise guy, let's see how YOU like it!" she chortled.

She placed her hands together and pushed them through the water, sending a wave of water whooshing into Ruben's face. Ruben could tell Sora had been swimming before for that was a pretty good wave she did. Laughing heartily, Ruben was about to send another wave over Sora only to see that the vixen had disappeared. Ruben looked around wildly, wondering where Sora had gone. Then he felt a pair of hands close around his ankles. Ruben yelped in fright and began to splash around frantically only to then realize who had done it. Sora came up to the surface, her face the embodiment of joy as she laughed at Ruben's reaction. Ruben was happy to hear Sora laughing so much, she had a very cute laugh in his opinion. Ruben smiled mischievously at Sora and then he lunged forward and grabbed her by the shoulders. Sora only just had time to yelp in surprise before she and Ruben both submerged under the water. They remained under for a while before Ruben let Sora go and swam back up to the surface. Sora however got a mouthful of water before she emerged from under the water. Ruben noticed that Sora's cheeks suddenly seemed puffier than before and before he could say anything, Sora squirted him in the face with the water she had in her mouth. Ruben shook his head and then started throwing water at Sora. Sora threw water back at him and the two ended up throwing water at each other back and forth as furiously as possible. Ruben however decided to show why a water panther will always win the fight. He pointed his fingers at Sora and let her have it with a jet of water from each digit. Sora was drenched without mercy and the vixen tried hard to fight her way through the water jets. Ruben stopped squirting her and let Sora have a minute to catch her breath as she coughed and spluttered. Sora looked at Ruben with a childish smile on her face.

"That's totally unfair you know! I don't have water powers!" she giggled "You pretty much win by default!"

"I probably do." chuckled Ruben "I think that's enough water fighting now."

"Yeah, we'll call it a draw." Sora decided, swimming up to Ruben.

"That sounds fair." said Ruben brightly as Sora came up to him.

They were in a shallow part of the lake so the two could stand up in the water and face each other. The water came up to their chests, leaving only their heads and shoulders above the water. The two just stood in front of each other, looking into each others eyes and smiling at each other. Ruben started to blush but he fought to keep himself from going crazy with embarrassment. It had never occurred to him that Sora had such beautiful eyes before. As he stared into her green eyes, he found himself almost mesmerized by their beauty. Like a pair of gleaming emeralds he thought. Sora's grin broadened.

"Hee, hee, are you blushing cute stuff?" she taunted cheerily.

"N-no." said Ruben feebly "I was merely admiring your beautiful eyes Sora. You have very beautiful eyes I think."

"Aw Ruben, you're gonna make ME blush in a minute!" giggled Sora, playfully pushing Ruben away from her and half hiding her face, flattered by his comment.

"No Sora, I mean it. Your eyes are wonderful." said Ruben softly "And I also think your hair looks very nice too. Especially down like it is now."

He reached out and lightly touched Sora's lovely lavender hair with his fingers. Sora let him do so for she only let her friends touch her hair and Ruben was definitely her friend so he was allowed to touch her hair. Sora blushed although she tried to keep it from showing.

"Aw…th-thank you." said Sora "I'm glad you like my hair. It used to be brown believe it or not but I didn't think it suited me so I dyed it lavender. It looks much better than it did when it was brown I think."

"Your hair would look lovely no matter what colour it is." said Ruben, amazed he even said that out loud.

"You're too kind Ruben. Really." said Sora, her blush more apparent now "What did I ever do to earn your kindness?"

"Nothing, I just think you're a very lovely, smart, strong, talented and lovely girl Sora and in Chun-Nan, it was customary for us water panthers to treat girls we liked very well." said Ruben, putting his hands around Sora's shoulders and lightly pulling her closer to himself "I really like you Sora for you have a lot of traits I adore in women and I want to show you just how much I like you. That's why I'm so nice to you."

"Oh…I see. That's very sweet Ruben." said Sora, putting her hands on his shoulders and looking into his dark blue eyes lovingly "We're so lucky to have you on our team. It wouldn't be the same without you."

"Thanks." said Ruben, flattered by the comment "And you know what Sora? You're such a wonderful person and a great friend…"

"Yes?" asked Sora as Ruben suddenly paused for a moment.

"Um…how do I put this…uh…Sora, I uh…um…" Ruben tried to make his lips form the words he so desperately wanted to say to his crush.

Sora had a feeling that Ruben was trying to tell her what he'd tried to tell her before during the time she was on death's door with Blizzard's Cold Death curse*. He'd told her he really liked her but why would he go and tell her that again? Maybe he more than liked her. Sora could feel her heart skipping with excitement for she knew what Ruben was trying to say to her.

"Ruben…do you love me?" she asked.

Ruben blushed so hard he thought he was going to explode. Ruben now suddenly seemed to lose the ability to speak. He was so shy that the words just wouldn't come to his mouth. Sora could tell that his answer was likely yes though. She was good at reading body-language and facial expressions thanks to her training that shaped her into a spy over the years. Ruben however surprised Sora for he didn't say he loved her with words, but with his body instead. The water panther leaned forward, holding Sora tenderly and he planted a kiss on her lips. Sora's eyes widened in surprise but she closed them and wrapped her arms around Ruben, returning the kiss. They may only be eleven and twelve respectively but it seemed they had found love. And they had found it in each other. Somehow the fact they were kissing in the water seemed to make the scene look more romantic and beautiful. They kissed for a minute before separating their lips and looking back into each other's eyes. Ruben was no longer blushing and his face suggested he was now every confident.

"Yes…Sora, I love you so much." he said gently "I think you're the most wonderful girl I've ever met and I've grown to love you as time goes by."

"Awww…you're so sweet and adorable." said Sora, stroking Ruben's face softly "And you know what…I love you too you adorable little water panther. I've never met a boy as cute as you since my little brother. Speaking of Tails, wonder what he would think if he saw this?"

"He'd be happy that his big sister has found love like he has." said Ruben with a wink.

Sora smiled and the two were about to kiss again until Ruben suddenly noticed something was wrong. There was a red dot on Sora's head. Why was it there? She hadn't cut herself and couldn't be bleeding or anything. The dot hadn't been there when he and Sora had kissed so why was it there now? Then Ruben suddenly had a nasty thought. The red dot was a targeting dot and it must belong to a gun! Somebody was pointing a gun at Sora's head!

"SORA GET DOWN!" he screamed, ducking Sora underwater just as an ear splitting bang tore through the forest quiet and a laser shot whizzed over his head just millimetres from his ears.

He aimed his hands at where the shot had come from and he fired a jet of water at a nearby bush. The person with the gun spilled out from behind the bush as it was hit by the water. To Ruben's horror, it was Fiona Fox and she wasn't alone for she had Scourge with her! Scourge and Fiona picked themselves up from the ground, sopping wet and grumbling furiously. Sora emerged from the surface of the water in time to see Scourge and Fiona shouting at each other.

"I told you to shoot the moment the dot was on her head you lazy lump!" yelled Scourge angrily.

"I had to make sure the aim was precise before I pulled the trigger you stupid head!" snapped Fiona.

"Scourge and Fiona?!" shrieked Sora "How the hell did they know we were here?!"

"Doesn't matter, they're going home with a broken jaw each!" snarled Ruben "What are you two dishonourable creeps doing here and why are you trying to kill Sora?!" he demanded angrily, climbing out of the lake and pointing sharply at the two.

"You pretty much just answered the first question yourself and as for why we're trying to kill Sora, it's none of your business snot-face." snapped Fiona, pointing the rifle at Ruben "Now get lost before I blow your head off!"

Ruben just squirted the gun out of Fiona's hands and sent the rifle spinning through the air into a bush. Cursing violently, Fiona dived into the bush to retrieve the rifle while Scourge spin-dashed Ruben and knocked him into the water. Sora cried out for her boyfriend and she swam over to help Ruben up to the surface. Ruben emerged from under the water and he swam back over to the bank while Sora swam over to where her utility belt was. Unfortunately, Scourge grabbed it and held it tauntingly in front of Sora, mocking her mercilessly as Sora tried to get her belt back.

"Sorry kid but you won't be needing this." sneered Scourge.

In a single spin-dash, he broke the belt and its contents to pieces. Sora stared in horror at her broken utility belt as it was reduced to pieces. The belt had been a gift from her foster father and was all he had left of her. Now it was broken, Sora felt like she'd lost the only thing that kept her foster father alive. Scourge threw the broken belt into the lake and he grabbed Sora by the wrists. He hoisted her out of the water and threw her onto the grass, Sora grunting as she hit the ground. Ruben climbed out of the water only for Scourge to roundhouse kick him back into it.

"Ha, ha, ha! I could keep this up all day!" he laughed as Ruben landed back into the water.

Scowling angrily, Sora pounced on Scourge and she punched him in the mouth. Scourge staggered backwards, surprised at how hard Sora could punch. He had clearly underestimated his opponent. But of course, Sora was just another puny, pathetic Mobian to him. He could curbstomp Sonic on a good day so Sora had no chance. Scourge slugged Sora in the gut and brought her down onto her knees. Sora clutched her gut and coughed loudly. Seizing her chance, Fiona emerged from the bush with the rifle back in her hands and she aimed it at Sora. Before she could shoot Sora dead, Ruben knocked her off her feet with a jet of water and he leaped out of the lake. Fiona picked herself up on for Ruben to kick her in the gut and then wrap his tail around her ankle. His tail yanked on her leg and tripped Fiona up, bringing the vixen down hard on her back. Scourge ran in to deck Ruben but Ruben span around and blasted him off his feet with water. Fiona picked herself up and she deployed the energy blades Finitevus had stolen from Sally and given to her. Ruben gasped in horror and ducked over backwards as Fiona swung the blades at him. Ruben attempted to squirt water at Fiona again but Scourge grabbed Ruben by the collar and yanked him back, choking Ruben as the collar dug into his Adam's apple. Fiona walked up to Ruben and she slashed him on both legs. Ruben screamed in pain as horrible gashes spread across his thighs. The water panther was brought down onto his knees, clutching his thighs in pain. Fiona sneered at him and she slashed him across the back. Sora could feel her heart tearing in two as she saw Fiona slashing at Ruben. She charged towards Scourge and she dropkicked him in the back of his head. Scourge hurled forward and very nearly got impaled on Fiona's arm blades. Fiona quickly sheathed them and caught Scourge before he could land on the ground. Scourge twisted around and he uppercut Sora in the chin, sending the vixen hurling into the air and crashing down beside a tree. Ruben tried to stand up but the injuries Fiona had inflicted on him were too great. Scourge decided to curbstomp Ruben just to hurt Sora mentally for a bit of extra fun. He and Fiona had witnessed them confessing their love for each other so he knew beating up Ruben would upset Sora greatly. Scourge stomped on Ruben's back, aiming for the slash wound, and then he punched, kicked, stomped and even bit him several times over, showing no mercy and not relenting in the slightest. He even picked Ruben up and spin-dashed him onto the other side of the lake. Ruben groaned in pain as he hit the bank. He tried to get up but his wounds and bruises were too great for him. He couldn't get up. He was very close to passing out due to how weak he was. Sora looked at Ruben in despair. She soon had something else to worry about for Scourge and Fiona advanced on her. Sora backed away from them, staring worriedly at the two. Ruben watched as they advanced on Sora. He reached up feebly and grunted as he spoke.

"N…No…I…leave her alone!" he croaked.

Scourge and Fiona ignored Ruben and continued advancing on her. Sora backed away until her back suddenly hit something. Sora had backed against a tree. She was completely trapped now. Sora pressed herself firmly against the tree, her legs trembling and her heart pounding as Scourge and Fiona blocked her escape.

"Ha, ha, ha! No escape now kid." crowed Scourge "You're dead now! And I thought this was going to be difficult. How silly of me."

"P-please! D-don't k-kill me!" whimpered Sora "I h-haven't d-done anything t-to you two! Y-you h-have n-no right t-to kill me!"

"Who says we need a right to kill anyway?" snorted Fiona "Besides, we don't want filthy young spies spying on us and getting in our way so you little girl have to be put down. Nothing personal, it's just business."

"Please! I beg of you! Spare my life!" screeched Sora "Please don't do it!"

"Begging won't get you anywhere you little brat." snarled Scourge "Fiona, shoot the kid and be done with her already!"

Fiona nodded and she aimed the rifle at Sora's head. Eyes streaming with tears, Sora stared at the rifle as if she was staring at the Grim Reaper himself. Once Fiona pulled the trigger, a laser blast would travel down the bullet and spit out into Sora's head. The blow would finish her off before she could blink.

"RUBEN, HELP!" screamed Sora.

Fiona was just about to pull the trigger until something diverted her attention. Ruben couldn't possibly have picked a better time to take Sora down to the Lake of Rings. It was three o'clock now and that was when the miracle that occurred every twenty-four hours happened. A beautiful, golden power ring emerged from the Lake of Rings, shining brighter than the sun itself and dazzling Scourge and Fiona. Ruben watched the ring glowing and he reached out as if trying to grab it. He would never get it, he was too far away from the ring and too weak to get it. However, he could try and get it over to Sora. Since Scourge and Fiona were looking at the power ring, Sora ran around them and she ran into Ruben's viewpoint. Ruben seized his chance. He squirted a jet of water at the power ring and sent it hurling towards Sora. Sora caught the ring and she threw it back over to Ruben like a Frisbee. Fiona tried to shoot the ring to pieces but her shooting skills weren't good enough to get a clear aim at the ring so she missed. The ring landed in front of Ruben and the water panther weakly grabbed it. Ruben knew about the power rings from Sonic. Those who desperately needed its power could use the power for whatever need they had for it and the power rings packed a lot of power. Ruben needed all the power he could get at this point given how tough Scourge and Fiona were. Ruben closed his eyes and willed for the power ring to power him up. He could already feel the ring crackling with energy in his hands and a great surging sensation seemed to tingle in his veins. A golden aura surrounded Ruben as he tapped into the ring's power. Sora just stared open-mouthed at Ruben, unable to believe what she was seeing. Scourge however spin-dashed towards Ruben and tried to stop him from using the ring. To Scourge's amazement, Ruben stood up and punched him away, sending him hurling into the water! The ring had managed to get Ruben back on his feet and had even enhanced his strength, meaning his punch was much stronger then it would have been had he not used the ring. Scourge hurled into the bank of the lakehead first and then fell into the water. Fiona helped him climb out of the lake and she pointed the rifle at him. She shot at him but the ring's power prevented the shots from doing any damage. Ruben leaped into the air, doing an amazing somersault as he crossed from one side of the lake to the other and he landed before Scourge and Fiona. Scourge punched at Ruben but the water panther caught his hand and twisted it to the side. He kicked Scourge into a bush and then he elbowed Fiona in the gut. Fiona doubled over, allowing Ruben to snatch the rifle from her. He broke the rifle over his knee and tossed the broken halves aside. He grabbed Scourge and Fiona by the neck each and he glowered at them, his face somehow scarier looking than usual.

"Leave. Sora. Alone!" he snarled, his voice as vicious as a lion's growl "Get out of here now before I break your necks!"

Scourge was stubborn and never liked to back down but he knew when he was beaten. Fiona on the other hand looked like she was ready to surrender without a second thought. Fiona took out the warp ring Finitevus had given her and she flicked it into the air. The warp ring expanded in size and opened up a portal from the GreatForest to Finitevus's laboratory. The two villains fled through the warp ring as fast as they possibly could. The moment they left, Ruben powered down and threw the power-drained power ring back into the lake. Sora ran over to Ruben and she embraced him tightly with delight.

"Oh thank you so much Ruben!" she cried with tears in her eyes "I thought I was dead until that power ring appeared! Thank you for saving my life Ruben! Thank you so much!"

"Anytime…Sora." said Ruben, suddenly feeling weak again for the power ring hadn't healed his injuries and now its power was gone, he was back to his injured state "I…only just…confessed my love for…you. I couldn't…let them kill you…so soon…after that."

"I know and for that, I owe you my life." said Sora happily "Oh Ruben, you're the best boy a girl could ask for!"

"Thank you…precious." said Ruben weakly "And you…are a girl worth…dying for."

He couldn't stay awake any longer, he succumbed to his injuries. Ruben's legs buckled underneath him and he closed his eyes. Sora was the only thing keeping him from collapsing onto the ground. Sora lay Ruben down gently and she knelt beside him, hoping that he was alright. Sora clutched Ruben tightly and she wept over his unconscious body.

"Oh Ruben! Please be OK!" she cried "I don't want to lose you! I've lost too many things in my life, I can't afford to lose you!"

Ruben didn't answer. He remained unconscious in his girlfriend's arms. Determined not to lose Ruben to his injuries, Sora picked him up in her arms and she carried him off back to New Mobotropolis. She'd get Ruben into a hospital and hopefully they'd be able to save him. If not then she would surely die of a broken heart and join Ruben in the afterlife…

Later on, Sora had managed to return Ruben to New Mobotropolis and had been quick to get him into hospital. Sonic, Tails and Sally hadn't come back from their mission in Megapolis yet so Sora kept it in mind to let them know what had happened when they came back. At the moment, Sora was sitting in the waiting room with her hands clenched together as if she was trying to crush them and her stomach aching with worry. The other people in the waiting room sympathized with her. It was a daunting place to sit in a hospital. You sit there, waiting in anxiety as you await the news of your loved one and find out if they will survive or not. Sora was definitely going through that phase right now. She was waiting to see if Ruben was going to survive his injuries or not. He had been beaten pretty badly and his slash wounds were very serious. The power ring might have drained him a bit too much after he powered down and he might lose the will to live. Sora could feel her hands sweating as if she was in a very hot room yet the sweat felt ice cold as if they had been dipped in cold water. It was agonizing, waiting for the news she so longed to hear now. Almost half an hour had passed before a doctor walked into the waiting room and looked down at Sora. Sora looked up at him. Doctors were often quite emotionless people. They had to be, it made it easier for them to do their work. Sora couldn't read any emotions on his face right now so she had no idea what the news was going to be.

"Is…is he…?" asked Sora nervously.

"Ruben is quite badly bruised and he has superficial wounding to his thighs and back…but he's quite stable." said the doctor, his voice carrying more emotion than his face.

"Oh thank god!" cried Sora in relief, the pain in her stomach fading away quickly as if it had never happened "Please can I see him?"

"You may." said the doctor kindly "He's just resting right now but he's fit enough to see somebody."

Sora did not wait to be asked twice. She got up to her feet and walked down the corridor. The other patients seemed pleased that things were looking good for Sora, now they just hoped they could share her reaction when hearing news about their loved ones. Sora ran down the corridor and found Ruben's room. He was in room 8643. She knew this because she had followed the doctors to the room herself so she'd know where to find him. Sora entered the room and saw Ruben resting peacefully in a hospital bed, the duvet tucked up to his chin and his eyes closed. He wasn't asleep though, he heard Sora coming into the room. He was merely resting his eyes. Ruben opened his eyes and he looked to his right. Sora sat down by his bed and lightly touched his face. It had multiple bruises and his left eye had a dark blue circle around it but he seemed to have enough energy in his face to smile. Under the duvet, Sora would see Ruben had bandages on his back and thighs. Ruben reached a hand out from under the duvet and he placed it over Sora's hand, happy to feel it again for Sora had very lovely hands that felt very lovely in his own hand. Sora smiled at Ruben, happy tears filling her eyes.

"Hey Sora…how are you?" asked Ruben softly, suggesting he didn't feel like speaking very loudly right now.

"I'm over the moon after hearing the doctor's news." said Sora, the happy tears trickling down her face as she stroked Ruben's hand "You have no idea how worried I was for you Ruben. I feared you was going to die!"

"I thought…I was about dead too." said Ruben "But thankfully…I'm alive and in a couple of weeks, I'll be back on my feet and back in the battle."

"I hope you recover well my adorable water panther." said Sora kindly, wiping away her tears "I'm going to miss you while you're in here and unable to join me on a mission or two."

"I'm going to miss you too." said Ruben softly "But don't worry, Tails will keep you company and I'm sure Sonic and the others will make sure you're well looked after and not so lonely without me."

"I know." said Sora, leaning forward a little closer to Ruben "And Ruben…I can't thank you enough for what you did for me today. That was very brave, selfless and kind of you to risk your life for me. You're just like my lovely brother and that's what makes me love you so much."

"Aw thank you dear." said Ruben "And Sora, you are more beautiful than even Chun-Nan's most magnificent waterfalls. I can't describe how much I love you Sora."

Touched by his words, Sora leaned forward again and kissed Ruben on the lips. Ruben put his arm around Sora's head and stroked her hair while returning the kiss. It was going to be a long wait for Ruben's recovery but their love would see them through until the end and it would be worth waiting for. Sora and Ruben were in love and their love would make them stronger than ever and no villain would ever be able to break them apart…

Footnotes:

You know, I can't seem to stop bringing up Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 21: A Bitter Snowstorm can I?

*As of Story 176, Ruben is now eleven years old

Aww...aren't Ruben and Sora so adorable together? Aww...

Well that's it for this chapter. It's not the end of Sora's story yet for in* Tales from Mobius*, we are going to learn something we don't know about yet. How did she become a spy and what led to her becoming one? Tune into* Tales from Mobius *for a whole new arc which shows Sora "Becoming A Spy"... don't miss it!

As for the main series, we're going to learn about a "Dark Secret in Soleanna"...

The Dark Secret of Soleanna

Story 181: The Dark Secret Of Soleanna

Mobius Prime, 200 years into the future…

The world maybe a wreck and in a state of never-ending decay but it was not impossible to find a way of exercising yourself. Blaze the Cat was roaming through the wrecked city of Nekronopolis and going through a keep-fit phase. Blaze was a firm believer in keeping fit and that it was very important to keep yourself fit no matter what. The fitter you are, the more able you are in battle or anything else for that matter. Blaze sprinted at a steady but fast pace through the forlorn streets that told a sad story on how Nekronopolis used to be before the catastrophe had happened. The multi-verse crisis had been an extremely close call and since then, Silver the Hedgehog had been more determined than ever to find out the cause behind Mobius's destruction. He was taking some time off to study more about Mobius's history and Blaze was exercising since she wasn't much of a study person. She was more of a "listen to somebody tell you what they've learnt" person, it was much easier for her to just listen to somebody then try and study herself. Plus it saved time too. As Blaze sprinted, she wondered if Silver would have anything interesting to tell her when she returned. Blaze turned a corner and sprinted down an avenue that was pretty much beyond recognition and not what an avenue commonly looks like given how wrecked and full of pot holes it was. Blaze avoided each and every one with ease and she ran towards a pile of wrecked cars that were piled on top of each other. Blaze really had no idea how this had happened. One of life's mysteries she guessed. Blaze leaped gracefully into the air, sailing perfectly over the car pile in a single, spectacular twirl through the air. She landed on her feet (like cats supposedly always do) on the other side of the pile and she sprinted off. She came across a large oil tanker that had been abandoned and forgotten for years and was dry of any oil so Blaze wouldn't have to worry about setting it alight by accident and causing an explosion. Blaze ran as fast as she could towards the tanker but instead of leaping over it, she threw herself down onto the ground and slid under the tanker as if she was skating across ice. Blaze leaped back onto her feet after passing under the tanker and she ran off. She jumped up into the air, did an amazing somersault accompanied by an added twirl of grace and she landed perfectly on top of a hover car that probably hadn't hovered in over two-hundred years. Blaze smiled with satisfaction. She was still very good at her stuff. Her continuous exercising was paying off beautifully. Blaze decided that was enough exercise for one day so she sprinted off back to the hotel that she and Silver had to reluctantly call home. I say reluctantly because a wrecked establishment with little conveniences wasn't their idea of home but until they changed the past and fixed the future, it had to do for now. Blaze entered the hotel and she walked up into Silver's room which was only on the second floor of the hotel. She opened the door a crack and peeked through it. She could see that as usual Silver has his nose buried in another book he'd managed to find. It was another copy of "Mobius History" and this one was more intact then the one that had led them to falsely believe the Martians had been the cause of all Mobius's destruction. While more intact and having further dates to read about, the book was still missing some potentially vital pages but Silver had studied the book quite carefully and had jotted down some potential events the book documented on a piece of paper. Blaze walked up to Silver and she put her arms around his neck and shoulders. Silver smiled, loving the warm embrace Blaze was giving him.

"Hey beautiful, did you have a nice exercise?" asked Silver.

"Wonderful thank you." said Blaze smoothly "As horrible as the world looks right now, it does make an entertaining exercise course. Want an obstacle race, you've got obstacles everywhere."

"Indeed although in my case I just move the obstacles out of the way." laughed Silver "With any chance of beating me, they'd have to make psychic powers against the rules."

"Can't argue with that." said Blaze "So Silver, have you found anymore clues to Mobius's destruction?"

"I've found some facts that stand out to me but whether they're the missing links or not is questionable." said Silver.

Blaze sat down on a chair beside Silver and waited as Silver picked up the list and prepared to read it to her. He picked up his paper and glanced at it.

"First of all, there's an event known as "The Day of Solaris"." explained Silver "According to information form the book, a creature known as Solaris was unleashed upon the world and it attempted to end it. There's a page missing and it doesn't say if Solaris was stopped or not." he said sadly.

"What's Solaris?" asked Blaze.

"The eternal sun god that the people of Soleanna worship but that's as much as I know." murmured Silver "The book's vague about Solaris for some reason."

"I see." said Blaze grimly "I bet it would be vital to learn much about this "Solaris" creature so we could stop it."

"The book does state how Solaris was made." replied Silver "It was made with a fusion of a creature named "Mephiles" and a creature named "Iblis". I bet if we destroyed both those creatures, Solaris would never exist and he wouldn't doom the world...that is if he WAS responsible."

"Indeed." said Blaze "And is that it or do you have other notes at all?"

"Just one more." said Silver, looking at the paper "Something about a big Eggman ship called...the Death Egg."

"If something has the word "death" in it, it's never a good thing." said Blaze with a shudder "What's that all about then?"

"Well all the page tells me is that "Eggman launched a giant egg-shaped ship into the sky known as the Death Egg and it fired a giant beam at the planet" and that's about it." mused Silver "There's quite a lot of bits missing from the actual page for most of the page is torn. It's not giving me much information."

"So it doesn't tell us much does it?" murmured Blaze "Two different times that sound like they might be the link we're looking for yet there's no concrete evidence that they are the events that ended the world. They could be and yet they couldn't be at the same time."

"Well both events are similarly timed so there might be a connection somehow." said Silver "The Day of Solaris takes place in July the 5th 2143 and the Death Egg rises only a week after, July the 12th 2143. Maybe the Day of Solaris dooms the world and the Death Egg just makes it worse?"

"I highly doubt that." Blaze thought aloud "Then again, we don't know how much damage Solaris or the Death Egg can do. Solaris tried to end the world according to your research so it must be powerful...but the Death Egg is able to rise and fire a beam at the world, meaning at least Eggman survives the Day of Solaris. But does Eggman live to launch the Death Egg because Solaris was defeated and the world was saved? Or does he straight up survive the day and live to launch the Death Egg?"

"We'll just have to find that out." said Silver "We should go back in time to the Day of Solaris and see what happens and if the world does end, we'll go back and prevent it from dooming the world. If not, then we stick around to stop the Death Egg from launching."

"Kill two birds with one stone pretty much, sounds good to me." said Blaze, her face not really showing much enthusiasm "Silver, take us back to that time."

"I will." said Silver, whipping out his Super Warp Ring "You bring the Sol Emeralds since if we have to fight Solaris and he's too powerful for us to defeat, we might need them to go super."

Blaze nodded understandably and Silver opened up a portal to Angel Island with his warp ring. Blaze went through the portal and over to the island to get her Sol Emeralds. Once she got them, she made them vanish into the flames within her soul so she didn't have to carry them with her all over the place and would just need to summon them with merely a thought. Now Blaze had the emeralds, she returned to Silver and Silver reopened his Super Warp Ring to Soleanna in the year 2143 and on July the 5th 2143. Holding hands, Silver and Blaze walked through the warp ring and they were instantly transported into the past once again. Hopefully they will have gotten it right this time. If they managed to foil these two events, hopefully the world would be saved and the future would be different...if not then it was back to square one for the two...

"Princess Elise of Soleanna. It is an honour to meet you." said Queen Sally Acorn, bowing politely before the jaguar that stood before her, all grace and beauty like any normal princess usually stands.

"The honour is all mine my queen." said Princess Elise curtseying politely in return before Sally "Especially since you're here with all your amazing Royal Fighters."

"I'm glad you think that your honour." said Sally gratefully "The Royal Fighters are always happy to hear such compliments."

"That's great because I have nothing but good things to say to you guys after all the amazing things you've done to save the world on countless occassions." said a very happy Elise "You truly are inspirations for me and my people. Soleanna appreciates your heroism."

The Mobotropolis Royal Fighters glowed with delight but nobody seemed to glow brighter than Sonic the Hedgehog himself. No sooner had Tails and Sora Prower found out that Eggman was setting up a Death Egg refuelling station in Soleanna, the Royal Fighters had been keen to get to the City of Water right away. Sonic had been quite happy to come to Soleanna. He thought it was one of the most beautiful cities on Mobius and he always wanted a chance to go to it again. And now he was here, admiring its beauty again while preparing to kick Eggman butt. He was also quite pleased to meet Princess Elise in the flesh at last. He'd heard about her from Silver and Blaze when they'd gone to Soleanna during the Martian invasion and had been greatly amused at the fact Elise not only was a good fighter, but managed to floor Marik the Martian himself. He wondered if Elise would be as great a fighter as Silver and Blaze had described. Now Elise had greeted the Royal Fighters, Sally informed her on what the occasion was.

"So you maybe wondering why we've come." said Sally.

"I am honestly." said Elise "Though I'm still happy you're all here, don't get me wrong. So what's the occasion?"

"Tails and his sister Sora discovered that Dr. Eggman was building a refuelling station for an upcoming ship of his called "The Death Egg"." explained Sonic "We think destroying the stations will be a great hindrance to the ship so we've come here to destroy the station."

"I see." said Elise "You know what, I was beginning to wonder what that giant steel tower was all about. I was out walking through the city and then suddenly I spotted a steel tower of some kind standing in the middle of Soleanna Forest. It was so bloomin' tall that I could see the top of it and I wasn't even IN the forest! I was just on the outskirts! I had assumed that it might be construction work for a tower of some kind but it never crossed my mind that it could be an Eggman building. I think that might be the refuelling station you're looking for."

"What did it look like?" asked Tails.

"I dunno, I didn't investigate. I'm sorry." said Elise sadly "I only saw the top of the tower but from what I could make it, it's all frames and girders so far, it must not be complete yet."

"We'll investigate this "tower" you've spotted and be back before you know it." said Sonic "If it is an Eggman refuelling station, we'll save your country from unwillingly being one of its refuelling ports."

"That'll be awesome!" piped Elise "I can't bear the idea of Eggman using my country as a port for any hideous ship he might have to refuel! Ugh, disgusting!" Her face screwed up as if it was trying to suck itself up into Elise's head.

"You bet it is." murmured Sally "So Elise, you say the tower's in Soleanna forest?"

"Correct." said Elise "As I said, it's so tall it stretches above the trees. You can't miss it. Do you need a guide to show you the way?"

"No need." said Sally "I have Nicole as my navigator. She was recently uploaded with the coordinates of every place on Mobius. She's the world's greatest Sat-nav pretty much."

Sally reached down onto her boot and took off a handheld computer she had attached there. It was Nicole. Tails had built her a new handheld computer after Finitevus had destroyed the original and Nicole used that as her home when outside of New Mobotropolis. Sally opened up the computer and Nicole's avatar emitted out of the computer. Elise was gobsmacked.

"Good lord! How did that happen?!" she gasped "Your "Nicole" has turned into a computer!"

"It's a long story and I don't want to talk about it." said Sally sadly "It's very sad."

"Oh I'm sorry, don't tell me then." said Elise "Forgive me for being so thoughtless."

"Don't sweat it, it's OK." said Sally hastily "Nicole, can you lead us to the Soleanna Forest?"

"Certainly Sally." said Nicole brightly "Just follow my directions and you'll be there before you can say "Binary codes"." her digital face winked at Sally.

"Thank you." said Sally brightly "Elise, are you coming with us?"

"Oh no, I'm very sorry but I've got my duties here." said Elise with a shake of her head "It's my turn to guard the Sceptre of Darkness today and I have to be at my post shortly. I can't come with you."

"OK then, we'll let you know how things went when we get back." said Sonic with a thumbs up "By the way, what's the Sceptre of Darkness?"

"Something for me to know and you guys to never find out." said Elise grimly "It's for the good of everybody."

"Oh...I see." said Sonic slowly, taken aback by the response "Well then, I won't ask about it again. See you later Elise."

"See you and thanks for coming once again." said Elise with a big smile on her face.

The Royal Fighters walked off and headed towards the Soleanna Forest with Sally in the lead and following the directions that Nicole was giving to her. Elise watched them leave and then she walked off, heading back to her palace where she would be taking over as guard of the Sceptre of Darkness for the time being. Her face fell as she headed towards her palace.

"Oh I wish we weren't the ones that have to guard that stupid thing..." she moaned under her breath "I wish we could just chuck the damn thing into the sea and let it stay submerged forever."

Elise did not really like guarding the Sceptre of Darkness, less still did she like the fact that her family was the one to guard it. Why should her family be the ones guarding the sceptre? Just because it contained a dark being that was one half of the eternal sun god Solaris, a god that Soleanna worshipped, does it mean that her family had to be in charge of it? Somebody else should guard it, somebody who actually enjoys guarding things that can spell doom on the world. But Elise's family was the family that was guarding the sceptre so like it or not, they had to guard it and Elise had to do her part as well. Didn't mean she had to enjoy it though...

Meanwhile in Megapolis, Dr. Finitevus was once again, sitting at his computer and doing more research. He was already conducting a list of people he wanted to recruit for the Dark Armada and outlining the details of his plans but he was still working on something. He was searching for whatever could be useful for the Dark Armada in its scheme to take over the world. Scourge, Fiona and Ravage, who were already recruited, were out on patrol and were to report back anything of relevance to Finitevus. The echidna had been furious at Scourge and Fiona for failing to kill Sora so Scourge and Fiona were determined not to upset Finitevus this time. They'd do their job and make sure that they succeeded at it this time. Ravage would see to it that they succeed which is why he was going with them. Finitevus still felt that Sora should be gotten rid of as soon as possible but at the same time, he knew better than to keep gunning for Sora as that would attract some unwanted attention and he could even unintentionally get Sora interested in him so he wouldn't consistently try and get rid of Sora. After all, he had bigger fish to fry. He'd already plotted Eggman's downfall and now he was finalizing the Dark Armada and his plans. The list of recruits had grown quite long and Finitevus was quite satisfied with it. The armada would be glorious when it formulated, he just knew it. Now he was looking up for anything related to Soleanna. Ravage had told him about the Sword of Elemental Power and how it would be impossible to retrieve since Sonic had thrown it into a volcano and Finitevus had been interested in seeing if Soleanna had anything else powerful, or any ONE powerful that could be of use to the armada. Finitevus searched and searched until he came across a news article saying "Soleanna remembers the Disaster of Project: Solaris on its tenth anniversary". Finitevus was one of those sick, twisted minds that loved the very idea of a disaster and that article interested him easily. He clicked on it and read the article to himself. It said:

Ten years ago on this very day, our brave team of scientists carried out Project: Solaris. Originally thought to be an energy research programme, the project was actually about trying to control time itself and the very thing used in the experiment was the Flame of Hope. The experiment was ambitious and the research team had hoped dearly that it would be a success. If we could control time then we could do wondrous things with that power, like erasing Mobian-kind's mistakes in the past and making the world a better place. But the project ended in disaster and the Flame of Hope, also known as the eternal sun god Solaris, was split in two in the resulting accident. The halves were known as Mephiles and Iblis and they were likely to cause great damage had they been allowed to roam freely or even worse...form Solaris. The Duke and Duchess of Soleanna were quick to seal the creatures away. Mephiles was contained in the Sceptre of Darkness and Iblis was sealed inside a Fire Stone. The Royals of Soleanna currently guard Mephiles whereas Iblis's location is yet to be known for they have kept it a heavy secret and refuse to let anybody know the location of Iblis. It's probably for the best. We morn for those who lost their lives in the accident and we hope that Mephiles and Iblis will NEVER come together.

Finitevus grinned maliciously at the news article.

"How incredibly interesting..." he purred "Two creatures that could form a god named Solaris? Now that is power the Dark Armada MUST have! If my plans are to succeed then these two will make valuable weapons of mass destruction for the armada. The Royal Fighters won't know what hit them..."

He typed up something on the computer before he got up from his chair and summoned a warp ring to his hand.

"Scourge, Fiona and Ravage may wonder where I am so the message on the computer will let them know what's happening." he said to himself "In the meantime, I will seize that Sceptre of Darkness, free Mephiles and help him to find Iblis. I'm sure we'll locate him somehow. With Mephiles and Iblis, I may even be able to get rid of Sonic and his friends and even Dr. Eggman already..."

He cackled maniacally to himself as he flicked the warp ring into the air and jumped through it, warping over from his secret lab to Soleanna. Soleanna was in for its darkest hour any moment now...

Back over to the Royal Fighters, Sally continued to follow Nicole's directions as arrows appeared on her screen and pointed in the direction they had to go. Thanks to Nicole's navigational skills, they were almost at the Soleanna Forest. Sally could faintly make out a forest in the distance as they were nearing the edge of the city so they were definitely going in the right direction.

"Just head forward from this point on and hey presto, we're there." said Nicole brightly.

"Thank you very much Nicole." said Sally gratefully.

"As sad as it is that Nicole's not a Mobian anymore, that computer of her's sure has its advantages." said Bunnie Rabbot gleefully "Thanks to Nicole, we never need a map and we'll never get lost."

"It's a good think we installed a navigational programme into her to make this possible." said Tails brightly "Nicole's essentially the world's greatest map on a computer. Only thing we have to worry about is losing Nicole herself but like that's gonna happen."

"Too right." said Geoffrey St. John agreeably "Especially since Sally's taking good care of the lass. So, once we storm this tower that might be what we're looking for, what do we do next?"

"Find out where the other refuelling stations are being built." replied Sonic "I wonder what other locations Eggman's picked for his precious stations."

"He better not pick Grand Metropolis or I'm gonna murder him!" growled Mandy Mouse furiously "That would be a sure fire way to desecrate my sister's resting place..."

"I'm sure he won't pick Grand Metropolis Mandy." said Wilson reassuringly "Though it would be horrible if he did."

"It'd be equally as horrible if he picked Chun-Nan!" cried Ruben in alarm "I hope he's not building a filthy station in Chun-Nan!"

"We'll find that out soon enough Ruben." said Sora grimly "If Chun-Nan is a place he's picked to put a refuelling station then he will have no mercy from me. Nobody desecrates my boyfriend's home country." she added with a rather uncharacteristic scowl on her face.

"I just hope the fat man doesn't try and build a station in New Mobotropolis." muttered Sonic "I will flip my lid if he does. But I doubt Eggman's that stupid so I don't think he'll put one there."

"Eggman would have to be suicidal if he thought about building a station in New Mobotropolis." said Amy Rose "I mean, we'd be right there to stop him without a single problem. We'd wreck his robots before he can start building. Eggman's certainly not going to be so bone-headed and do that."

"You got that right Amy." said Cream the Rabbit agreeably "So our city won't have a nasty station built on it."

"Regardless of where Eggman's building these refuelling stations, we can guarantee he won't go easy on us." murmured Sally "We destroyed the one directly above his Egg Bunker so he likely will be heavily guarding all the rest of his stations."

"Doesn't matter sugah, we'll destroy them all and make sure that durn Death Egg hasn't got a place to land when it needs new fuel!" cried a very determined Bunnie Rabbot "And once we've destroyed the stations, we'll destroy the Death Egg itself!"

"You got that right Bunnie." said Geoffrey agreeably.

"One thing I keep wondering is what this "Death Egg" will do." said a rather nervous looking Cosmo, her face matching the tone of her voice "Will it be a big weapon of death and fire some kind of beam that'll kill us all? I remember how daddy would describe weapons of mass destruction that often had the word "death" in their names would live up to their names quite literally. Even the Martians had destructive weapons with the word "death" in their names."

Her body shuddered as if a cold hand had run itself down her back.

"The Death Egg will likely be very powerful and potentially deadly but I don't think Eggman wants to just kill everything and everybody with it, he does want to roboticize us all after all." noted Tails "Maybe the Death Egg will play a part in that..."

Cosmo nodded weakly. She did not want to think about what the Death Egg would possibly do. She wanted it to be stopped before it could take flight much like everybody else did. Cosmo had lost her original home planet Greengate, she didn't want to lose Mobius too. Tails could see Cosmo looked a bit nervous so he held her hand comfortingly.

"Don't worry Cosmo, we'll stop Eggman for good." he reassured, his sentence matched up with a warm reassuring smile that made Cosmo feel much better.

"I'm sure we will Tails." said Cosmo sweetly "Hey Sally, are we at the forest yet?" she asked.

Sally looked up from Nicole and she could see that the forest scene that expanded across the horizon a few moments ago had suddenly come forward to greet them. It was amazing how their conversation had passed so much time. They were there already and they hadn't really realized it. Sally looked at the forest and surely enough, like Elise had said, there was a giant metal tower standing in the centre of the mass sea of trees. Only the tip of the tower, which was nothing but frames and girders, was visible as if trying to cry out for help before the trees surrounding it swallowed it up like quicksand.

"We are." said Sally as her gaze set upon the wall of trees that stood proudly above the Mobians with their thick branches and green leaves looking as elegant and peaceful as ever "And as Elise said, there's the tip of the tower protruding from the centre of the forest. We're at our destination."

"So what's our plan of attack your majesty?" asked Ruben eagerly.

"We sneak through the growth that the forest will likely have plenty of and once we're close enough to the tower, we observe and see if it is indeed a Death Egg refuelling station." replied Sally "If it is what we think it is, we ambush and attack the Eggman robots. If it isn't, then we just go back and see where the refuelling station really is."

"I just hope the information me and Tails got wasn't fake information just to slow us down." Sora shuddered as a terrible thought crept over her like a haunting shadow.

"Nah, that's not Eggman's style." said Sonic "dismissively "He wouldn't have done that."

Sora hoped Sonic was right, swallowing a nervous lump in her throat as if hoping to swallow her anxieties too. Ruben patted Sora on the shoulder to ease her nerves to which Sora greatly appreciated. Sally closed up Nicole and put her on her boot. Leading the team, she entered the forest. The team walked after her as slowly and quietly as possible. Somebody as fast moving as Sonic didn't really enjoy such tactics but he put up with it for the time being. He knew better than to rush in just like that since reckless behaviour like that had landed him in serious trouble before. The trek wasn't long much to Sonic's delight for a few minutes later, they'd reached the area that the tower was being built in. The Royal Fighters ducked down behind a thick bush and peered cautiously over the top. It was just as they'd suspected. The area was alive with construction activity and the builders were Egg-Pawns all rushing too-and-fro and carrying a variety of tools, steel beams, girders, nuts, bolts and rivets that would make up the tower's frame and then later have metal plating added to build up the bulk and outer casing of the tower. Surprisingly enough, Dr. Eggman was nowhere to be seen. It was just Egg-Pawns and nothing else. Not even Dr. Finitevus was there and he seemed to be the likeliest person to be on guard given his amazing prowess. Sally narrowed her brows into a frown of suspicion. Sonic didn't seem suspicious at all though.

"It's just as we suspected! It's the refuelling station we're here to destroy!" hissed Sonic "Come on let's bash those builders!"

"Wait Sonic, this looks way too easy..." whispered Sally, holding her boyfriend back hastily with an outstretched arm "Why the hell is Eggman not here? Surely after the destruction of his first station he'd be a bit more protective of his facilities, upcoming or already made. And why is Finitevus absent? Surely he'd be guarding one of these stations too? I smell a trap."

"Either that or they're guarding another station." suggested Sonic "Maybe one that needs protecting more than this one? I mean he can't possibly know we were going to gun for that particular station."

"Perhaps or maybe coincidentally he chose to guard this one and we happened to find out it's here." mused Sally "Either way I don't like this. It must be a trap. He wouldn't leave a station so valuable under protected like this."

"I think I agree Sally." said Tails quietly "I'll never forget how heavily guarded Robotropolis could get when he used to have that city running."

"Well what are we gonna do?" asked Bunnie helplessly "If we think it's a trap and don't do anything about it, how will we destroy the darn tower?"

"Simple, we spring the trap prematurely." said Sally matter-of-factly "Bunnie, shot at an Egg-Pawn and see what happens."

Bunnie was dumbfounded but she knew better than to question the Queen of New Mobotropolis, especially since she was so good at plans and strategy. Shrugging, Bunnie deployed her arm-cannon and she pointed it at a nearby Egg-Pawn that seemed to be having trouble telling the difference between a hammer and a spanner. It made Bunnie giggle as to how comical the dumb robot looked as its head twitched helplessly from the hammer and the spanner in its hands. Bunnie shot at the Egg-Pawn with her arm cannon. The single blast punched a hole through the Egg-Pawn and fried its internal circuits. The Egg-Pawn twitched furiously and then collapsed onto the ground, dead as a dingbat. The other Egg-Pawns leaped about a foot into the air in shock and they searched desperately for who had done that. Nothing else seemed to happen. This struck Sally as very peculiar indeed. No trap. Eggman was definitely getting bad at what he does or maybe Bunnie's shot wasn't enough to spring the trap.

"Look Sally, no trap." sneered Sonic "You were just being paranoid."

Sally had a grim face but she couldn't seem to file a rebuttal for Sonic. Sighing, she just simply said:

"Royal Fighters, let the ambush begin."

The sentence had an automatic effect on the team. It was as if it was merely a code to activate them and get them moving. The Royal Fighters sprang out from behind the bush like jack in the boxes and they charged towards the Egg-Pawns. But their ambush was quickly halted by the sudden hail of bullets that kicked up the soil before them and threatened to slice through their bodies. The Royal Fighters stepped back as a giant bush with an arm that had a Gatling gun at the end suddenly emerged from within the depths of the forest and plodded up to them on its peculiar metal legs. The bush then tore itself apart from within, a giant metal hand cleaving through the leaves and yanking them away. It was none other than Dr. Eggman himself! He had been hiding in a bush the whole time and was planning an ambush of his own. He had expected the Royal Fighters to come by and had been lying in wait for them. He had also set this trap for incase anybody from Soleanna came poking around and dared to squeal on him. Eggman's laughter resonated from the voice box of his life-support mech as he pointed his weapon at the Royal Fighters. Sonic frowned at Eggman.

"OK Sally you were right, there WAS a trap after all." muttered Sonic.

"I will say I didn't expect him to be so patient." Sally muttered back "I wondered if he'd show up after Bunnie shot that Egg-Pawn."

"Oh really Sally, for somebody so brainy you sure can be thick-headed." sneered Dr. Eggman "Would I really do something so stupid and give myself away so prematurely? Nah, I knew that patience was the key in a well-executed ambush so when Bunnie fired that shot, I knew better than to spoil my ambush so I waited back for a minute. Now I have you all at my mercy and waiting to be annihilated! I have no idea how you know that I had a refueling station being built in Soleanna but it doesn't matter, you're here now and I'm going to destroy every single one of you once and for all!"

"No chance of that fatty." sneered Sonic "You've been fighting us for a couple of years now and we're still alive to kick your backside in so you'll not get rid of us so easily."

"Well I have this glorious life-support mech that is loaded with more weaponry than I know what to do with so I will get rid of you all that easily!" gloated Eggman "Prepare for total annihilation!"

"I could say the same to you." growled Mandy, slipping on her knuckle attachments and running towards Eggman.

Eggman aimed his Gatling gun at Mandy but Bunnie Rabbot fired a laser shot at Eggman's arm and made his arm point away from Mandy so he ended up shooting at any innocent trees that just happened to be standing around like spectators watching a fight. Mandy smirked at Bunnie's distraction. She carried on running and she roundhouse punched Eggman in the torso. The extra-power of her knuckle-attachments chucked Eggman across the battlefield and slammed him against a mighty tree that despite the impact of Eggman's heavy mech slamming against it, still managed to remain standing. Eggman was amazed at Mandy's onslaught. How powerful where the mouse's new knuckle attachments?! He didn't remember Mandy being that powerful with her knuckle attachments before. She must have been given new ones that enhance her punches somehow. How amazing! Eggman pushed himself onto his feet and he deployed all the weaponry he had in his mech. Before he could fire a single shot though, Sonic zoomed in and spin-dashed Eggman off of his feet, knocking him down onto his back.

"Me, Bunnie and Mandy will handle Egg-head, the rest of you destroy that station!" yelled Sonic.

The rest of the team gave the thumbs up as they ran over towards the refuelling station. Eggman tried to stop them but Bunnie flew in front of his line of fire with her shield generator deployed so when Eggman fired his Gatling guns, he hit Bunnie's shield and the shots bounced off of it like ping pong balls across a table. Eggman was about to launch a missile at Bunnie but Mandy punched him in the side and caused him to topple over. Sonic stomp-kicked on Eggman's mid-section and he hopped off as Bunnie landed a powerful punch that left a dent on the section he'd just stomp-kicked on. The other Royal Fighters came up against the Egg-Pawns. The Egg-Pawns abandoned their precious work in order to fight off the Royal Fighters. But they'd soon end up wishing they'd carried on working. Sally deployed her ever deadly wrist blades and she neatly cleaved through an Egg-Pawn as if it were made of butter. The Egg-Pawn's top half collapsed onto the ground while its legs tumbled over backwards. Geoffrey fired his usual round of explosive darts at the Egg-Pawns and destroyed them instantly, Ruben and Sora double-teamed against an Egg-Pawn and brought it down onto the ground, Tails and Cosmo took down an Egg-Pawn with a single tail-whip and a throw of the Flower Blade, Amy hammered the robots away as if they were golf balls and Wilson sliced the Egg-Pawns to pieces with his two spinning blades. Given the puny opposition, it was certain that the Royal Fighters would win this battle. But they'd soon end up in a battle bigger than they anticipated…

"Well the newspaper here says that it's "July the 5th, 2143 so we've definitely arrived at the right date." Silver's voice was quiet and distant as he read the date on the paper aloud "So why are the Royal Fighters nowhere around? The book I read said they were involved in the Day of Solaris."

"Maybe they weren't in Soleanna when it happened?" suggested Blaze, looking around the familiar scenery of Soleanna and taking note of the architecture of the buildings and the surrounding scenery "Or maybe they're somewhere around and we just missed them somehow."

"I should hope that's not the case, we have to warn them about what we've just learnt and fast." said Silver desperately "The sooner they're prepared for this, the better."

"Provided that our efforts in preparing them for these events are actually worthwhile and not another dead end." noted Blaze sternly.

Silver nodded. He and Blaze had arrived in Soleanna half an hour ago and had been spending most of their time trying to find Sonic the Hedgehog and friends. As bad luck would have it, they just missed the Royal Fighters. They had left for the SoleannaForest and had disappeared just as they arrived at their location. Now they'd been searching for them and Silver had just found a newspaper lying on a nearby bench that confirmed to him he had gone back to the right time and date. He had simply just missed the Royal Fighters. The search for them had rewarded them with a walk around Soleanna and a chance to drink in the scenery and enjoy the pleasure of walking through an actual alive city and not ruins, something they always enjoyed when coming to the past so it hadn't been all bad. Silver became more determined to save the future than ever when he admired how beautiful the past was. Blaze shared his determination. With her hands on her hips, Blaze thought about something.

"So how will we stop this "Day of Solaris" from happening?" she asked "I mean, we know how Solaris is formed but did that book explain how Solaris was formed?"

"Sadly no, that information was missing." muttered Silver grumpily "So we've gotta figure it out on our own. Where would Mephiles and Iblis be kept I wonder?"

"Beats me." said Blaze with a shrug "If we knew where we could find them, we could just destroy them and prevent Solaris from existing. That is…if they can even be destroyed. Solaris is a god right? And if Mephiles and Iblis make Solaris…are they gods too?"

"Possibly." murmured Silver unevenly "And if they're gods, will they be the immortal kind?"

"They might but they might also be the kind of god you can kill just like The Eraser was." thought Blaze "We'll see for ourselves should we come face-to-face with the two."

"I just wonder what power they'll have." mused Silver to nobody in particular.

"Hey Silver, who's the guy in the cape over there?" asked Blaze, pointing ahead of herself seemingly for no reason.

Of course, she was pointing for a reason and Silver had no trouble working out what the reason was. Blaze had spotted an albino echidna wearing a black cape marching up towards the Soleanna Palace a good few metres away from where they were standing. It was Dr. Finitevus. He'd arrived in Soleanna and was now going to get the Sceptre of Darkness, the prison that contained the deadly Mephiles. Silver recognized him from the Crisis on Infinite Mobiuses but he wasn't entirely sure on who it was. He hadn't studied about him either so Finitevus was new to him.

"I think I saw him during the multi-verse crisis. Wasn't his name "Finitevus" or something?" he asked.

"I think I heard somebody refer to him as such." said Blaze slowly and unsurely "And I think he was with Dr. Eggman. I don't think he's a good guy."

"Well we can't jump to conclusions about him." said Silver matter-of-factly "We could be attacking an entirely innocent echidna. Let's investigate and see what he's up to."

"Woe betide him if it's anything with malicious intent…" Blaze said coldly.

She and Silver waited until Finitevus walked into the Soleanna Palace. Once he entered, they ran towards the palace. It took a few strides before they reached the palace and by the time they'd gotten to the front door, Finitevus was already storming down to the lower levels of the Soleanna Palace. Finitevus had immediately assumed that the Sceptre of Darkness would likely be on the lower floors of the palace since anything that was usually hidden from the world was stored in a downstairs or underground room. Since he'd gone down, Silver and Blaze had entered the palace only to see he was seemingly gone. They were just left staring at a rather grand looking hallway that had Soleanna's traditional architecture and beauty carved in every inch of its marble and stonework. This was not the time for admiring though, they had to find Finitevus. Silver and Blaze both ran upstairs to look for him. Their assumption had been he'd gone up to the upper rooms for whatever reason, an assumption that would slow them down greatly in this race against time. As they ran upstairs, Dr. Finitevus had reached the underground level of the palace. There was a rather damp and cold tunnel with little lighting that stretched a few metres and led to a stone wall with a door and a few flaming torches on the wall near the door. There was a jaguar in a white dress and white gloves with red hair and blue eyes standing by the door. Finitevus dismissed it as a mere woman who was not worth the hassle. Just somebody in the way. He walked through the tunnel and up towards the door. Elise, who was looking maddeningly bored just standing in front of the door to guard the precious thing it had on the other side, stared at Finitevus as he emerged from the tunnel and stood before Elise with a rather dark smile on his face. Elise was quick to assume he meant no good, especially given his dark appearance. She took up a battle-ready stance and she glowered at Finitevus.

"Who are you and what are you doing here?!" she demanded furiously.

"I am Dr. Finitevus and I am here to release Mephiles from his prison." purred Finitevus "My dear, I greatly advise that you stand down and let me carry out my ambition, I do not want to attract any unwanted attention."

"You already have done Finitevus and that's me." growled Elise coldly "I've been assigned here to protect Mephiles from being released and if you're here to release him, I'm afraid I'm gonna have to lay the smack down on you."

"Don't waste my time you foolish woman, save yourself a beating and surrender." Finitevus's voice was heavy with annoyance.

"I'm Princess Elise and I will NOT abandon my post for any reason!" snarled Elise.

Finitevus held his hand up and he dared Elise to come up to him. Elise foolishly did as Finitevus wanted her to and she ran towards Finitevus. Finitevus leaped up to the roof of the tunnel, gripped the stonework around the mouth of the tunnel above him and he raised his legs. He lashed out in a kangaroo style and both his feet slammed directly in Elise's chest. Elise staggered backwards, amazed at the power behind Finitevus's kicks. The kick had felt like being hammered only not as hard and having the texture of bandaged up feet. Finitevus dropped down from the tunnel and he chopped Elise across the face with a mighty swipe of his hand. Elise took the blow and she brought her elbow-slamming down on Finitevus's shoulder, causing the echidna's upper body to lean to one side and then Elise gripped him in a chokehold, her arm tightly constricting his neck and pressing against his windpipe. Finitevus pinched Elise on the neck and made the jaguar yelp in pain. Finitevus broke out of her grasp in a single twirl and he socked Elise in the mouth. Blood streamed down Elise's chin as Finitevus's fist violently struck her jaw. Wiping the blood away, Elise lashed out with a furious swipe of her fingers as if trying to claw Finitevus without actually having any claws. Finitevus dodged the attack and he ran around beside Elise. He took Elise's legs out from underneath her with a swift roundhouse kick and Elise slammed down onto the floor, the impact taking the wind out of her. Finitevus grabbed a flame torch and just as Elise stood up, he pointed it at her. Gasping in horror, Elise backed away from Finitevus as he advanced on her with the torch. Her back ended up against the wall near the tunnel and she pressed herself firmly against it. Her head rained with sweat as Finitevus held the flaming torch in front of her face. She could feel the heat licking at her, just waiting to consume her whole. Elise gulped while Finitevus grinned wickedly.

"Such a pathetic fight." he sneered "Now stand down and I won't burn you alive."

"Oh please, don't do this!" whimpered Elise "I'm begging you, please don't release Mephiles! He'll doom us all if you release him! Please!"

"He has great power and I only wish to claim the power for myself." purred Finitevus darkly "I have great plans and Mephiles will be very useful for them indeed."

"I'm begging you, please listen to me!" screeched Elise, trying as much as she could to keep herself from the flames as the flickered wildly at her "If you release Mephiles and he releases Iblis, you'll bring the end of everything! Once they become Solaris, that's it! We're all doomed! Please don't do this!"

"I am not interested in your begging princess." growled Finitevus "Besides, my plan revolves around destruction anyway, this "Solaris" will be quite welcome. This world is corrupted and like a wild fire that needs to be cleansed. I'll be all too happy to unleash the starting ember. But I'll not allow Solaris to destroy the entire world, oh no. I'll tame its power and make it destroy as much as I deem necessary."

I won't let you do this!" shouted Elise bravely, trying not to let the fire intimidate her a minute longer.

"Oh you won't? And how do you plan on stopping me?" snorted Finitevus, edging the torch ever closer to Elise's face.

Elise didn't answer, she just dropped down onto the floor, completely out of harm's way now. Elise punched Finitevus in the gut while she was still sat down on the floor and while Finitevus doubled over, she jumped up and uppercut the echidna into the door she had been standing guard in front of. Finitevus bumped into the door and yet surprisingly, was still holding the torch in his hand. Elise grabbed his wrists and tried to make him drop the torch but Finitevus fought back and pushed on Elise's arms. The two were getting into a sumo match right about now, both opponents pushing onto each other's arms as much as they possibly could. Elise grunted as she tried to overpower Finitevus whereas Finitevus wasn't to the point of making a noise of effort. Just gritting his teeth and glowering at Elise. The girl was surprisingly strong. She was clearly more of an opponent than Finitevus had anticipated. But Finitevus knew what to do about Elise. He twisted his hand and aimed the torch at Elise's arm. The fire singed Elise's arm and made the jaguar scream in anguish as the flame burnt her arm. Elise let go of Finitevus and gripped her arm tensely, still screaming horribly over the horrible burn she's received. Finitevus dropkicked her into the tunnel and he saw to opening the door. Elise pressed her arm against the cold, damp wall of the tunnel to ease the burning pain in her arm, leaving Finitevus to just punch the door of its hinges. Finitevus ran in through the door and found himself inside a dingy room that wouldn't have looked out of place in a castle's dungeon. It was dark, damp and murky and there was a stony plinth where the Sceptre of Darkness stood eerily above. The sceptre was stony and had a purple gem in the centre of its head. Finitevus ran up to the sceptre and he grabbed it eagerly. Elise ran into the room and gasped in terror as Finitevus raised the sceptre, ready to break it.

"NO! DON'T PLEASE!" screamed Elise.

Finitevus ignored Elise and just as the princess ran to stop him, he threw the sceptre into the wall at the end of the room. Elise tackled Finitevus and pinned him down to the plinth but it was much too late. The sceptre had been hurled into the wall by Finitevus and it was not designed to withstand being smashed into the wall like that. Upon hitting the wall, it had smashed into a million pieces. With the sceptre broken, its prisoner was now free to roam once again. A black puddle oozed out of the broken sceptre. Elise could only watch in horror as the puddle began to form a shape. Finitevus watched, clearly fascinated by what was happening next. Unbeknownst to both of them, Silver and Blaze had come to the underground level of the palace and had run to the room only to see a black puddle forming a solid shape. They had no idea what was going on so they could only watch. The black puddle formed a Mobian hedgehog shape and solidified itself like water being frozen into ice. The thing now looked a little bit like Shadow the Hedgehog only it had a crystalline appearance, no nose or mouth, red eyes with green pupils and a devious scowl that could make the devil wet himself in fear. The tips of its quills, the edges around its eyes, its hands, its feet and even its ears had a crystalline texture around them, making it look more like some living jewel than a Mobian. Silver and Blaze were dumbfounded. They couldn't believe what they were looking at. Finitevus looked delighted at what he was looking at whereas Elise looked like she was going to have a heart-attack. The thing stared down at the floor for a moment before raising its head back and thundering with laughter.

"Muah, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha! Oooooh how horrible fate can be!" crowed the crystalline hedgehog, its voice booming and sounding very much like Knuckles the Echidna, only more evil "I have been sealed away for ten miserable years by the foolish people of Soleanna and now I am free to wreck havoc wherever I go! I am Mephiles the Dark…and I am FREE, FREE AT LAST! AH, HA, HA, HA, HA, HA, HA, HA, HA, HA, HA!

His laughter boomed around the room like a haunting echo of the ghouls…

Footnotes:

The accusation came to Silver in *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 15: All's Fair In Warfare

* See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 23: Becoming A Spy

 See the DeviantArt exclusive chapter "The Sword of Elemental Power"

HOLY CRAP! MEPHILES IS HERE?! WHAT THE HELL'S GONNA HAPPEN NEXT?!

Tune into the next chapter "Dark Tidings" to find out what happens next...believe me, it ain't pretty...

Dark Tidings

Story 182: Dark Tidings

"Blaze…I think we've found Mephiles." said Silver the Hedgehog, his voice hoarse as if he couldn't speak properly. He was that horrified right now.

"We have indeed." Blaze the Cat gasped in terror as she stared at the crystalline hedgehog that identified itself as Mephiles "We're too late! The Day of Solaris is likely to begin…"

Soleanna was in for a dark time. The maniacal Dr. Finitevus had just managed to break into the forbidden cell that the Sceptre of Darkness was being held in and now Finitevus had broken the sceptre before Princess Elise, the princess of Soleanna and the one who had been entrusted with guarding the sceptre for today, could stop him. The sceptre lay in pieces and because it was broken, the valuable prisoner it contained was free once again. Mephiles the Dark, a demigod that was half of the eternal sun god Solaris, stood over the broken sceptre in a zombie-like manner. His cold, demonic stare seemed to have a Medusa-like effect on Elise. She was frozen in terror, unable to move or even speak. She could only stare directly at Mephiles as if he was her worst nightmare. As far as anyone could tell, Mephiles WAS her worst nightmare. Finitevus pushed Elise off of himself, sending the princess tumbling onto her bottom and he rose from the plinth. Mephiles walked, his arms limp and his head facing the floor. He rose his head and glowered at Elise.

"Muah, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha! You poor, simple fools thought you could contain me after I and my other half Iblis were separated as a result of your failed Solaris Project." crowed Mephiles, pointing straight at the petrified princess "But now I am free at long last. Ten years have I been held in that sceptre, unable to do anything but watch as you and your family guarded me and made sure I never escaped. And now I'm free, I am going to find Iblis and join with him at long last so that we can become Solaris!"

Elise still couldn't speak. She was too shocked and horrified to do so. Silver and Blaze were about to step in and help Elise but they held back for the moment for Finitevus decided to make himself known. He stood before Mephiles and bowed graciously before him. Mephiles seemed to scowl at Finitevus as if he was staring at a disgusting bug that he wanted to just flick away or step on.

"Greeting Mephiles, I am Dr. Finitevus and I am the one who freed you from your prison." Finitevus purred.

"In that case I am very grateful for your aid." crooned Mephiles, the tone in his voice suggesting he didn't really mean it "I thank you for freeing me…Dr. Finitevus."

"You're most welcome dark creature of great power." said Finitevus wickedly "Now you maybe wondering why I have freed you from your prison. You see, I have plans, great plans and I could do with somebody as powerful as you on my side. I've heard that you wield great power Mephiles and if you join me, we can bring order to this tainted world and make it a dark paradise for villains everywhere. Do you accept my offer?"

Silver and Blaze did not like what they were hearing. Finitevus wanted Mephiles to join him? And what was his so-called "great plan"? Was that linked in anyway to the end of the world? Silver was now beginning to wonder if he'd found the key to changing the past. But he got the surprise of his life when Mephiles answered Finitevus's question.

"No." he growled.

"What?!" cried Finitevus in disbelief, his face contorting with shock. An unusual expression for Finitevus to wear on his face indeed.

"I do not seek world dominion, nor do I wish to bring order to the world." boomed Mephiles menacingly "I crave only one thing… destruction. When I become Solaris, I am going to lay waste to this pathetic world and not only am I going to do that, I will lay waste to everything else. As a super-dimensional being, the whole multi-verse will fall before me!"

That made Silver and Blaze very nervous. Mephiles wanted to destroy the multi-verse?! It was the multi-verse crisis all over again! Only this time no time rifts were involved and they actually knew how they could stop the crisis this time. They had to destroy Mephiles now before he could find Iblis and become Solaris! Silver and Blaze prepared to jump in and fight Mephiles but Finitevus seemed eager to launch the first attack. He bent down in a battle ready stance and fixed his steely gaze on Mephiles.

"You cannot destroy the multi-verse!" shouted Finitevus desperately "Would you really be so demonic as to wipe out all existence?!"

"Life means nothing to me, only destruction." purred Mephiles darkly, giving Finitevus a Basilisk stare "I am going to find Iblis, then I'm going to merge with him and we shall form Solaris! Once Solaris is born, we will lay waste to everything in existence! And then there will only be one life form that is truly deserving of living…Solaris."

"Well I have great plans for this world and I'm not about to let you put a stop to them before I can unleash them!" snarled Finitevus "It appears I've made a mistake, a mistake I'll soon rectify right now!"

He lunged at Mephiles and punched him in the face as hard as he could. The crystalline hedgehog-shaped creature was hurled swiftly off his feet by the punch and he slammed against the wall at the force of a car crashing into another car head on. Mephiles didn't appear to be hurt by the impact. He in fact was completely unharmed! He still felt the punch though and he had to admit, for a mortal, Finitevus had some power behind him. Mephiles cricked his neck and he glowered at Finitevus.

"All right then…" he purred menacingly.

He then summoned a dark, crackling ball of energy to his hands. He threw the energy ball at Finitevus but the echidna was already out of the way just seconds before it could hit him. He rolled over the plinth as the ball swept through the air just millimetres from his leg. Silver and Blaze threw themselves onto the floor before the ball could hit them. It pounded against the floor just outside the cell, kicking up brickwork and throwing stone and shrapnel into the tunnel outside the cell. Mephiles was impressed by Finitevus's agility. He hadn't expected a mortal of any kind to be so agile. Laughing, Mephiles decided to do something else. He was a being of darkness, meaning he could flawlessly shadow-meld with any shadows around in the room. And as bad luck would have it, the cell was shrouded in shadows. It was mostly dark with very little light. Mephiles sunk down into the shadow like a melting snowman and he disappeared from view. Finitevus was both amazed and horrified at this. How could he fight something he couldn't touch? Elise jumped up onto her feet and looked around nervously. Where would Mephiles emerge from? Silver and Blaze stayed outside the cell, waiting for Mephiles to return into view. This was not good at all. If he could shadow-meld then it was very likely he'd be difficult to defeat.

"Ah, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!" the haunting cackle of Mephiles boomed around the room completely out of the blue, startling the Mobians "I am a dark entity, shadows are my strengths and your weaknesses! I am strong in the shadows and the shadows will consume you all so that you may never see the light again!"

He then suddenly emerged from a shadow directly behind Finitevus. Finitevus heard him coming and he roundhouse kicked Mephiles in the face. Mephiles took the kick as if nothing had happened and he uppercut Finitevus in the chin. The echidna stumbled backwards, surprised at the power Mephiles had in that punch. Mephiles then summoned a dark ball of energy and he thrust his arms forward, sending the ball slamming into Finitevus's body and sending him hurling backwards across the room. Finitevus slammed into the wall and fell onto the floor. He spluttered for the impact had knocked the wind out of him. He tried to get back up but Mephiles summoned two shadowy figures that greatly resembled him from nowhere and the two figures grabbed hold of Finitevus. Finitevus fought against their grasp but the figures held on tightly. They were quite strong, even more so than Finitevus himself. Cackling maniacally, Mephiles advanced on Finitevus and he slugged the echidna in the gut. Finitevus spluttered as Mephiles's fist slammed into his stomach. Mephiles then proceeded to drive his fist into Finitevus's head. Slamming down hard on the echidna's cranium with his tightly clenched fist, Mephiles managed to knock Finitevus out cold. The echidna collapsed onto the floor, unconscious and defeated. Mephiles stood over Finitevus and he held his hand above him.

"Such a foolish waste of energy…" he gloated "You meagre creatures can't hope to match a dark entity such as myself. Now Finitevus, you will die for daring to defy me!"

"Oh no you don't!" yelled Elise, charging towards Mephiles and elbow-thrusting him in the back, slamming him face first into the wall as a result of her attack.

Mephiles was momentarily stunned but sinisterly enough, just seconds later he got back onto his feet and turned to face Elise. He wasn't even rubbing his face better. His hands still remained limp by his sides in his weird-zombie-like-manner that he seemed very fond of standing in. Elise knew that Mephiles wasn't easy to hurt so this didn't surprise her. She was still worried over whether she'd be able to bring down Mephiles. Judo skills would not be enough to take down a demigod no matter how hard she tried to beat Mephiles. Silver and Blaze seemed to share Elise's doubts for they were beginning to think Elise was signing her death warrant even so much as thinking about taking on Mephiles. If he could knock Finitevus out then what hope did she have against him? Mephiles clenched his fists and his reptilian eyes fixed on the nervous but determined princess that had dared to assault him so vigorously.

"So…the mighty princess dares to attack me?" he purred "What an act of folly…you will not have chance against me. I know everything I need to know about you Elise. I've been in your family's care for ten years! I know your strengths and weaknesses and your fear of me is your greatest weakness. Trying to fight me will only bring your death sooner than you'd have liked it to come…"

"I don't care! I will do whatever I can to beat you down Mephiles! You will not leave this room alive!" screamed Elise viciously.

"If you want to achieve that your highness, you'll need some help." said Silver, running into the room to join the battle.

The time for idling by and watching was over, he and Blaze needed to get involved in this fight if Elise had a even a ghost of a chance in stopping Mephiles. Silver stood beside Elise's left side and Blaze took Elise's right side. The jaguar was momentarily stunned at the surprise arrival of Silver and Blaze but nonetheless grateful. She had remembered how they'd helped stop Marik and his Martian squadron from wrecking Soleanna during the infamous Martian invasion. Elise's face lit up like a light bulb.

"Silver! Blaze! You two are here to help me! Awesome!" she cried out ecstatically.

"We have indeed." said Blaze tersely "Me and Silver studied about Mobius's past and learnt about an event supposedly called "The Day of Solaris". We're here to make sure it never happens."

That made Elise feel a bit worried. The Day of Solaris? Did that mean that Mephiles finds Iblis somehow and fuses with him to make Solaris? She didn't have to worry now Silver and Blaze were here to prevent that from happening, she could put her worries at ease and focus on stopping Mephiles. With Silver and Blaze on hand, her job just got easier. Mephiles didn't seem to agree with her though for he merely laughed out loud as if Silver and Blaze were a comedy duo and they'd just done something seriously funny.

"So it appears that time travellers have come to make sure I never fuse with Solaris?" he sneered "That means that I end up succeeding in my cause. How delightful! But if there's time travellers here to stop me from becoming Solaris then I'll have to erase you both just like I intend to erase the princess and her pitiful family for imprisoning me in that accursed sceptre!" he pointed a sharp, crystalline digit at Silver and Blaze. The digit was so sharp that Silver felt like Mephiles could cut people just by pointing at them.

"You're not becoming Solaris Mephiles!" barked Silver hotly "You're going to be destroyed and with you gone, Iblis won't have anybody to become Solaris with!"

"I'm afraid it's not that simple." said Elise gravely, her face suggesting what she was going to say next was not good at all "They're demigods, they cannot be destroyed. Why do you think we merely imprisoned Mephiles and Iblis if we could destroy them?"

"No! How can we stop Mephiles if we can't destroy him?!" cried a very horrified Blaze the Cat.

"We stomp on him until he turns into his base form and then try to imprison him again." explained Elise "Once he's imprisoned again, I'm going to just toss him into the sea. Nobody will find him in there."

"I'd like to see you try and imprison me again Elise." snorted Mephiles, his eyes making an expression that matched the tone of his voice "You and your family will be the first to die. Consider that an act of mercy for you will be spared the terror that Solaris will inflict upon all of existence when he rises…"

Mephiles held his hands out and out of the blue, purple spheres of crackling energy loomed above his hands. Mephiles threw the balls but Silver caught them with his psychic energy powers. He drew his arm back and launched it forward like a catapult, sending the energy balls hurling back towards Mephiles. The balls struck Mephiles and hurled him callously into the wall. Mephiles had never been stricken by his own attacks before and he could hardly say it was a satisfying experience. More like the most painful experience he'd ever encountered. Mephiles stood awkwardly, his legs bent inwards as if he was about to collapse. He remained standing and he gasped furiously. It was amazing he could gasp despite not having a mouth, or at least a visible mouth. Mephiles raised his head and glowered at Silver. His stare was freakier than anything Silver had seen before.

"A psychokinetic? I am impressed…I didn't want this battle to be too easy after all." he crowed.

He melted down into the shadows and disappeared from view once again. Silver and Blaze were instantly on the alert, looking for any sign of Mephiles. It would be hard to locate somebody who had melted down into the shadows but they wouldn't let that stop them. Mephiles emerged from behind Silver and the demigod back-handed him across the cell, sending him hurling over the plinth and crashing down by the foot of the plinth. He groaned, amazed at how hard Mephiles could hit. Furious, Blaze set her hands alight and she punched Mephiles with a blazing fist that would deliver a double dose of pain. Pain from the punch and pain from the fire. It made no difference to Mephiles for he withstood the blows that Blaze launched at him. Blaze threw her punches hard and callously, striking him in the face, gut and the sides of his head. She uppercut Mephiles and then tripped him up with a roundhouse kick to the legs. Mephiles picked himself up and he grabbed Blaze's arm as she lunged at him again. He twisted her arm behind her back sharply and wrapped his other hand around her neck. Blaze squirmed furiously, trying to break free but Mephiles seemed to have an iron grasp. He pressed hard against Blaze's windpipe, the cat losing air and fast as she tried to keep conscious.

"And a pyrokinetic too, even better!" cackled Mephiles "You'd be perfect for helping me find Iblis young one, you'd be able to sense his flames and lead me right to him!"

"I'm not helping you find Iblis! I'm helping you get sealed away again!" snarled Blaze, setting her entire body alight and letting Mephiles have it full on with her fire powers.

Mephiles let out a haunting bellow as Blaze's fire seared away at his body. He was forced to let go of Blaze in order to save himself anymore pain. Just because he was difficult to hurt, it didn't mean he was entirely tolerable of pain, especially great pain like this. Blaze turned around and roundhouse kicked Mephiles across the face, sending him hurling into the wall. As Mephiles hit the wall, some bricks came loose and crumbled away onto the floor. The cell was very old and run down, if the fight got too violent then the entire room could cave in onto their heads. Mephiles picked himself up and he narrowed his eyes into an expression mixed with fury, rage and annoyance. He raised his arms in to the air and suddenly, out of the shadows in the room, rose shadowy figures that resembled him greatly with small differences to their anatomy and appearance. The shadow figures grew in numbers and they completely surrounded Elise, Blaze and Silver. The three Mobians looked nervous as the army of shadow men advanced on them.

"Drown in darkness!" bellowed Mephiles, disappearing from view and leaving the Mobians at the mercy of his shadow army.

The moment he disappeared, the shadow men pounced on Silver, Blaze and Elise. Silver used his psychokinesis to hold some of the men away but he couldn't focus on all of them at once for it was too strenuous for his head and there were too many shadow men at once, meaning he couldn't stop them all. He threw the shadow men he managed to grab away but the others grabbed hold of him from all corners and they forced him down onto the floor. After forcing him down, they all piled on top of him, hoping to hold him down. Blaze threw fire at as many creatures as she could but the shadow men kept coming back after she blazed them away and they jumped on top of her. Grabbing hold of whatever part of her body they could, they dragged Blaze down onto the floor and held her firmly down. Blaze struggled, trying desperately to break free from the shadow men but their numbers made them much stronger in their holding of her. Elise had been taken down in mere seconds and was forced down onto the floor by the shadow men. She struggled as much as she possibly could but she couldn't get free. Silver, Blaze and Elise were all firmly pressed down onto the floor by the shadow men, pretty much being consumed by the shadows that shrouded the cell only these shadows were alive and had limbs and solid forms. Mephiles emerged from the shadows and stood before his captives. The shadow men holding Elise formed a new shape as Mephiles silently commanded them to do so. They formed a long black pole with side arms that resembled the Christian Cross that stood before Mephiles. Elise's arms were fastened to the cross's side arms and her legs were fastened to the base of the cross. Elise was completely restrained and trapped before the dark demigod. Mephiles seemed quite happy to have Elise as his prisoner. The jaguar stared, terrified, into the crystalline hedgehog's eyes as Mephiles stared at her with a stare that could make the weak-willed die of exposure. Mephiles reached out with his hand and he grabbed Elise by the face.

"Before you die princess, you can contribute to my victory by ending your life with the telling of Iblis's location." he said smoothly, his voice making Elise's skin crawl "Where is Iblis?!"

"Go to hell!" screamed Elise.

"I'm a dark entity, hell would be a comforting place for me to go to." snorted Mephiles mockingly "Now where is Iblis?! Tell me now or your friends will be scarified needlessly!"

"Doesn't matter, you'll kill us all anyway if Iblis is released." snapped Elise "I'm not telling you where he is!"

"You will tell me or I'll tear this planet apart trying to find him myself!"

snarled Mephiles.

"Go ahead, it'll just make it possible for you to be defeated and imprisoned again." retorted Elise.

"If you won't tell me where Iblis is then I'll MAKE you tell me!" roared Mephiles "I might have to take over your body and…"

His sentence was rudely interrupted by a bright glow of teal light and fiery orange. Silver and Blaze had summoned the power they needed to break out of the shadow army's holds. Silver blasted them away with a burst of psychic energy and Blaze threw them away with a burst of flames that spread around like an ever-expanding ring that was designed to keep people away from you. Silver and Blaze got onto their feet and Silver used his psychokinesis to hold Mephiles in place. The demigod tried to break free but Silver's hold was powerful. While Silver held Mephiles, Blaze threw fire at the shadow cross holding Elise and the cross disappeared into the shadows, releasing Elise. The jaguar lashed forward and elbow-thrusted Mephiles in the gut. She elbowed him on top of his head and then backhanded him onto the floor. Mephiles was about to stand up but Silver grabbed him with his psychokinesis and threw him towards Blaze. Blaze, her hand alit with flames, drew her arm back and launched it straight into Mephiles just as he hurled towards her. Blaze's fist hit Mephiles squarely in the centre of his face, a perfect shot if you ever saw it. Mephiles's head snapped backwards, his body lurching forwards due to the impact of the punch and Mephiles hurled backwards into the wall. More bricks fell out onto the floor and some very perceptible cracks started to spread up the wall. The sudden cracking of the wall had given Blaze some kind of idea. They could maybe make the cell cave in on top of Mephiles. It wouldn't kill him but it would hold him long enough for them to find a way to imprison Mephiles. Mephiles staggered onto his feet and he was about to launch another attack on the Mobians but suddenly, a warp ring appeared underneath his feet and he disappeared through it. The warp ring opened up in the ceiling and Mephiles fell out of it with a crunch on the floor. Dr. Finitevus had come to at last and despite the noticeable bump on his cranium, he appeared to be fine. He was evidently very peeved though and seemed eager to finish off Mephiles. Silver, Blaze and Elise were pleased at this, meant that Finitevus could help them subdue the demigod. Finitevus ran towards Mephiles and just as Mephiles got up to his feet, the echidna chopped him across the cheek and then grabbed his arms. He forced his arms behind his back and he kicked Mephiles onto the floor. Mephiles punched at the stone plinth and he cracked it. The cracks were so big that he was able to grab a chunk of the plinth and wrench it free from its housing. Mephiles threw the slab of rock at Finitevus but Finitevus used a warp ring to send the rock hurling back towards him. The rock landed slap-bang on top of Mephiles's head but the impact didn't even phase him. He swiped his arms and sent a ball of purple energy slamming vigorously into Finitevus's torso. The ball hit Finitevus and slammed him against the wall, knocking the wind out of him. Elise ran towards Mephiles but he levitated up out of the way, leaving Elise to rush past underneath him. Mephiles positioned himself upside down and he flew straight down on top of Elise with his elbow aimed at the top of her head. The attack brought Elise down onto her stomach and Mephiles grabbed Elise's arms. Yanking them sharply back, he dug his foot into the small of Elise's back and yanked viciously on her arms as if hoping to wrench them free from her sockets. Elise squealed and tried to yank her arms free from Mephiles's tough grasp but the demigod held on tightly and kept pulling. Blaze jumped towards Mephiles and struck him in the back with a fiery tornado that threw him off of Elise and sent him hurling towards the recovered Finitevus. Finitevus jumped up high and dropkicked Mephiles onto the floor. Mephiles groaned furiously, clearly getting agitated at the resistance that he was met with. He had no idea that mortal creatures could be so powerful. Mephiles picked himself up only to get grabbed in a psychic grasp by Silver the Hedgehog. Silver rose Mephiles off the ground and then threw him into the ceiling. Mephiles hit the ceiling and just as he did so, a chunk of the ceiling fell free from its place and it weighed down on Mephiles like a hand coming down to squash an ant. The chunk of ceiling crashed down on the floor, flattening Mephiles like a pancake. But when you're a dark entity with shadow powers, it'll take more than a chunk of rock flattening you to stop you. Mephiles turned into his base form and the black puddle that he had reduced himself to trickled out from under the slab. After the puddle had done that, it reformed itself into Mephiles. It was like watching a snowman melting but in reverse. Blaze realized that her idea likely wouldn't slow Mephiles down that much. They needed a better idea. Mephiles forced himself to stand, straining hard as he stood up. He looked to be in pain at long last but it was too much to hope that they'd defeated him. Mephiles raised his head, his face contorting with loathing.

"You fools are persistent I'll hand it to you…but ultimately your attempts are futile." he crooned darkly "I'll find Iblis myself and you can't stop me from locating him…"

With that said, he proceeded to sink down into another shadow and then disappear from view. That did not settle well with the Mobians at all, they were quick to panic.

"He's gone!" cried Elise "And he's going to try and find Iblis! He doesn't know where he is but he'll likely try whatever he can to find him! We have to stop Mephiles now!"

"Let's search everywhere!" cried Silver "There's plenty of shadows in Soleanna, he could pop up anywhere!"

I agree on that statement." said Finitevus grimly "We should split up and search the city high and low to see where Mephiles emerges. I sincerely doubt he has an unlimited range in that shadow meld of his. He'll only be able to travel through shadows as far as the next room or building. He won't end up out of Soleanna that quickly."

"I'll stay here and search the palace." said Blaze "The rest of you can search wherever you wish."

"If you see Mephiles Blaze, do what you can to stop him." said Silver urgently "The fate of Mobius depends on it."

"I know Silver." said Blaze, tenderly touching Silver's arm "I'll be careful, don't worry about me. You be careful yourself."

"I will Blaze." said Silver, tenderly touching Blaze's arm in return "Good luck in finding him."

"And to you." said Blaze, pecking Silver on the cheek for luck.

"Oooh I hope Mephiles doesn't play too hard to find!" whined Elise, hopping from one foot to another as if she needed to go, very badly

"Mom and dad will kill me if they find out he's escaped!"

"We'll find him, don't worry." said Silver "Finitevus, warp us outside the palace so we can get outta here faster."

Finitevus obeyed and he summoned a warp ring to his hand. He flicked it open and the warp ring opened a portal that led from the cell to the upper surface. Finitevus, Silver and Elise walked through the warp ring and left Blaze behind in the cell to search the palace for Mephiles. Once the warp ring vanished, Blaze prepared to leave the cell. But before she could leave, a tiny doubt began to nag in the back of her mind and it made Blaze hesitate, something she wasn't renowned for doing. Was Mephiles really gone? Was he still hiding in this room? He was going to look for Iblis so why would he still be in the cell? Maybe Mephiles had done this just to try and single out the four of them and make them easier to pick off. But he was trying to find Iblis so why would he need to single anybody out. Then Blaze realized something. He said that due to being a pyrokinetic, Blaze would be useful in finding Iblis. Had he pretended to leave just to try and single her out and make it easier to catch her? Not that it'd be a problem since Blaze would floor Mephiles and refuse to help him. Mephiles couldn't make her so what was there to worry about? Then suddenly, Blaze felt something close around her legs. She looked down and saw a black tentacle snaking its way up her legs and towards her waist! Blaze gasped in horror and the tentacle continued to close around Blaze until it wrapped itself around her body and then around her mouth, silencing her and preventing her from calling for help. Blaze struggled in the grasp of the tentacle but to no effect. She couldn't break free at all. She set herself on fire but the tentacle held her firmly, ignoring the flames as if Blaze wasn't even on fire! Blaze quickly grew very frightened. She'd fallen for Mephiles's trick and now Mephiles had her at his mercy. But she wouldn't submit to him, no way. She'd still refuse to help him. Then another tentacle grew out from the same shadow that the tentacle holding Blaze was growing out of and the tip of the tentacle formed Mephiles's upper body and arms. The head glowered at Blaze with its ominous, reptilian green and red eyes. Blaze frowned at Mephiles.

"How simple-minded you mortals can be…you managed to fall for such an obvious trap and now I've caught you…Blaze I believe your name is." he purred.

Blaze just continued glaring at Mephiles, not showing any signs of giving up to him. Mephiles leaned forward and he lightly touched Blaze's cheek.

"As I've said Blaze, you are a pyrokinetic. You will make finding Iblis all that much easier for me. You will help me find Iblis or I shall be forced to take more…painful methods of which will make you comply."

"Mmm'll mmmver mmmelp mmmou!" growled Blaze, trying as best as she could to speak despite her mouth being held shut by the tentacle. At most, she could just mumble.

"I figured as such." growled Mephiles "Which is why I'll make you help me. If you won't help me under your own agenda then I very much think I'll have to force you…and by that I'll have to take control of your body…"

Blaze's eyes widened in shock. She squirmed and writhed furiously in the grip of the black tentacle but it just wouldn't let her go and she couldn't break free. She was at the mercy of Mephiles and he was free to do what he liked. Mephiles cackled at his prisoner as he transformed back into the tentacle tip and then he sank down into the shadow that he rose from. Blaze wondered what was going to happen next. Then the tentacle holding her unwrapped from around her mouth. Confused, Blaze watched the tentacle tip hover in front of her face. Then the tentacle tip seeped between Blaze's lips and forced itself down into Blaze's mouth. Gagging horribly, Blaze could do nothing about it as the tentacle descended down Blaze's throat and into her body. It was like swallowing a black snake only way more unpleasant. The tentacle disappeared down Blaze's throat, unravelling around her as it did so and Blaze coughed horribly as the tentacle finished entering her body. She gripped her chest in pain as if her heart was going to explode and she fell onto her knees, gasping hoarsely as if on the verge of vomiting. She gasped for air and choked, gripping her neck and fighting for breath. Then the tormented cat lay sprawled on the floor and she passed out. She didn't remain passed out for long though. She stood up two minutes later and opened her eyes. Her beautiful golden eyes were replaced by the crystalline red and green eyes that Mephiles had and black veins began to appear all over Blaze's body. Her mouth curled into a sinister sneer that looked very out of place on somebody as serious and reserved as Blaze. Blaze admired herself all over and she laughed, only her laugh was not her own laugh, it was the laugh of Mephiles. He had done it. Mephiles had taken over Blaze's body and poor Blaze couldn't do anything about it. Mephiles stopped laughing and he gloated aloud to himself.

"All too easy…" he sneered "The cat was far too weak to resist my body control technique. Now with her pyrokinetic powers, I will locate Iblis and become Solaris at long last! And when Solaris rises…nobody will stop me! Ah, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!"

With that said, Mephiles sank down into a shadow and disappeared from the cell. With Blaze's body, he could already sense Iblis's flames, but only very faintly. He had to search far and wide for Iblis but he'd find the demigod eventually and then all hell would break lose for everybody…

"And yet another missile misses me!" taunted Sonic the Hedgehog as he ducked down and avoided an oncoming missile from Dr. Eggman "Seriously doc, are you missing me on purpose or doing a really bad job at hitting me?! I'm confused as to what you're doing right now!"

Dr. Eggman let out a loud, grating growl of frustration as Sonic taunted him. How Sonic irritated him when he did that!

Things had been going much better for the Royal Fighters than for Elise, Silver, Blaze and Finitevus. Sonic and two Royal Fighters Mandy Mouse and Bunnie Rabbot were doing a fine job on keeping Dr. Eggman occupied while the other team members Sally Acorn, Tails the Fox Amy Rose, Cosmo the Seedrian, Cream the Rabbit, Geoffrey St. John, Wilson the Dog, Ruben the Water Panther and Sora Prower were taking out the Egg-Pawns that were guarding the Soleanna Refuelling Station that was being built for Dr. Eggman's upcoming Death Egg ship. Dr. Eggman kept trying to stop the Royal Fighters from getting close to the tower but Sonic, Bunnie and Mandy were too much for him. Eggman threw a mighty punch that would have easily shattered bones at Mandy but Mandy ducked down onto the floor and she uppercut Eggman in the upper section of his life support mech. The uppercut was much stronger than it normally would have been thanks to the new knuckle attachments Tails had made for her last month. They never ceased to amaze Mandy at how much better these knuckle attachments were compared to her old brass ones. They really did make her punches all the more stronger and made her much more liable to fight somebody like Eggman. Dr. Eggman swiped at Mandy with his metal claws but the mouse managed to dodge his attack. This was a serious Achilles heel for Eggman, his life-support mech was based upon the design of E-123 Omega and he was rather heavy, cumbersome and slow so his speed paled in comparison to Mandy's. But Eggman was able to land a laser shot on Mandy that threw her across the battlefield and sent her flying into a bush. Bunnie flew in and she threw a punch at Eggman. Eggman threw a punch at the same time and the two connected metal fists very violently with each other. Eggman won the match due to his much larger and more powerful robotic limb and Bunnie was thrown onto the ground. She picked herself up and punched Eggman in the gut. Eggman fell down onto his bottom and just as he picked himself up, Sonic spin-dashed him in the bottom. Eggman fell onto his hands and knees and he deployed some guns that pointed behind him to shoot at Sonic. Sonic dodged every shot as if they were moving in slow motion and he stomp-kicked Eggman in the back. Eggman lay flat on the ground after that attack and he thumped his fists against the ground in rage.

"How is it I'm encased in the body of E-123 Omega, my most weapon-heavy and one of my most powerful robots in the history of the world and I'm still getting floored by you pests?!" wailed Dr. Eggman.

"Isn't it obvious Eggman? Because you suck, that's why!" retorted Mandy cheekily, laughing as she punched Eggman in the mech's head section.

"Ah reckon he's fallen to the point he's not really a threat, more like an annoyance nowadays!" taunted Bunnie, kicking Eggman as furiously as she could.

They knew that Eggman was easily riled and that annoying your enemy was always a good idea. It makes them angry and when they get angry, they lose focus and become easier to attack for they'll be too busy to try and block your blows and just try to attack you. Eggman growled savagely and he picked himself up. His huge metal arms shook with rage.

"I'll show you just how "annoying" I can be!" roared Dr. Eggman.

He lunged at Bunnie and Mandy with his metal claws but the two girls jumped out of the way, leaving him to claw at the dirt they had just momentarily been standing on. Bunnie drew her arm backwards and threw a punch at Eggman's shoulder but the evil scientist caught her arm with his hand and hoisted her off the ground. He then spun Bunnie around and walloped Mandy with her. It was like Bunnie had become a Mobian nunchaku for Eggman. Mandy crashed into a nearby tree as she was hit by Bunnie and Eggman threw Bunnie into the tree just on top of Mandy. Sonic zoomed towards Dr. Eggman but Eggman deployed one of his laser cannons and he shot at the ground just in front of Sonic's feet. The force of the blast caused Sonic to lose his balance and topple over onto his face. Now Sonic was down, Eggman grabbed the hedgehog and he lifted him up off the ground. He slammed Sonic onto the floor like a rugby ball at touchdown. Sonic groaned as he felt pretty much every inch of his body flare up with pain and Eggman lifted him up again. He slammed him on the ground again and then closed his other hand around Sonic's head.

"Let's see how useful you are once I've separated your head from your body!" he cackled menacingly as he pulled on Sonic's head.

But he never got the chance to render his greatest enemy headless for Bunnie deployed her arm cannon and shot Eggman in the back, causing him to drop Sonic and sending him hurling across the battlefield. He landed with a heavy crash onto his back. Sonic picked himself up, massaging his aching head better as pain flowed through his skull. Thank goodness for that save otherwise things would have been very messy indeed.

"You OK sugah-hog?" asked Bunnie.

"Never better." said Sonic casually "I'd best make sure that never happens again. That was painful!"

Bunnie nodded, only daring to imagine the pain Sonic must have felt as Eggman quite literally attempted to rip his head off a moment ago. Dr. Eggman picked himself up and he turned to face his foes. He pointed his Gatling guns at the trio but Bunnie deployed her force field generator and used her force field to block Eggman's attack. The bullets bounced off of her force field as if they were merely tennis balls bouncing off the wall. While Eggman was shooting at Bunnie, Sonic took the perfect opportunity to run around from behind and spin-dash Eggman in the side. Eggman was knocked over but just as he picked himself up, Mandy uppercut Eggman in the torso and sent him flying into the air. Eggman spiralled crazily through the air and he crashed into a tree, his great bulk knocking it clean over as he crashed into it. Eggman was back on his feet in no time and he picked up the fallen tree. He swung it at Sonic but Sonic jumped over the tree as it swept underneath his feet and he spin-dashed Eggman once again. Eggman raised the fallen tree up but Bunnie shot it to splinters before he could slam it down on Sonic. Growling angrily, Eggman thundered towards Bunnie and roundhouse punched the Rabbot as hard as he could. The punch felt like being hit by a wrecking ball. Bunnie was left lying on the ground wondering which part of her to rub better first. Mandy ran in to punch Eggman again but Eggman grabbed her and hoisted her off the ground. He pointed a laser cannon at Mandy's face but Sonic stomp-kicked his arm down, forcing him to shoot the ground and due to how close the laser had hit from where Eggman was standing, the force of the shot sent Eggman's arm hurling to the side and throwing him off balance. This caused him to drop Mandy and Mandy punched him in the torso, throwing him onto his back once again. Bunnie picked herself up and picked up Dr. Eggman with her robotic arm. It was amazing how strong her robotic arm was. Eggman forever rued the day he had ever given Bunnie those robotic parts when he tried to roboticize her once. Bunnie aimed at the refuelling station and she threw Dr. Eggman at it. Eggman crashed into one of the supporting beams for the tower, his mech denting it heavily and buckling it slightly a she crashed into it. The tower began to creak ominously and lean to one side a little. Eggman pushed himself back onto his feet and he stampeded back towards the Mobians. Bunnie however stuck her leg out and caused Eggman to trip over it. What resulted was an hilarious scene of Eggman tripping over Bunnie's leg and rolling across the grass and into a tree with a wallop. Sonic was laughing so hard he swore that his guts were about to erupt.

"Oh man that is priceless! Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!" he chortled "Eggman would make great entertainment in a comedy show I bet! Hee, hee, hee, hee!"

"He'd certainly be very popular among us." agreed Mandy "We'd be laughing at him because it's our worst enemy doing something silly."

"Yeah." Sonic breathed as he slowed down his laughing "Hey Sally, how are you doing over there?" he called over to his girlfriend.

"We're doing quite well sweetie." Sally called back as she sliced another Egg-Pawn to pieces "The Egg-Pawns are falling like dead flies. We've got this covered."

"That's great." said Sonic "So I think we can destroy that refuelling station now."

"I'm inclined to agree there." said Sally approvingly "Geoffrey, fire a dart into each supporting leg of the tower." she ordered "Once you've done that, we'll run into the forest for cover and let the darts blow the tower down."

"No problem your highness." said Geoffrey brightly.

Sally had been true to her word. The Egg-Pawns had all been destroyed by her and the others so there was nobody to stop them from destroying the tower. Now there was no more resistance, Geoffrey fired an explosive dart into all four of the tower's supporting legs. He was amazed that the darts had actually managed to embed themselves into the steelwork. It seemed the tower wasn't as strong as he thought it would be. Now the darts were set up, the Royal Fighters retreated into the forest. Geoffrey was the last to guy, pushing the detonation button on his arm-mounted crossbow as he legged it. The darts exploded, tearing the supporting legs apart as they ripped their way through the strong steel. Eggman picked himself up only to see that his precious tower was beginning to fall. He didn't mind since of course, it was fake as part of his plan to slow the Royal Fighters down and keep their attention away from the Death Egg but he still legged it since he didn't want the tower to crash down on top of him. As he ran, he had to give himself a lot of credit, he'd certainly done a good job on convincing the Royal Fighters that the towers were worth their time and effort. They didn't suspect a thing about his plans at all. The doomed refuelling station creaked a horrible, ear-piercing creak as the legs gave way and the tower fell down. It came down with a thundering crash as tonnes of steel slammed down onto the ground. The top half of the tower flattened many of the trees due to how tall it was and the fact some trees were near to it and not out of the tower's range. Some environmentalists would not be pleased with this at all. The Royal Fighters heard the terrific crash as the refuelling station came down and they whooped with joy.

"Oh yeah! We destroyed it!" whooped Tails joyfully.

"I'm amazed how easy these things are to destroy." laughed Sonic "It's like Eggman's not even trying to make them Royal Fighter-proof! Ha, ha, ha!"

"Do take in mind Sonic that we're destroying the stations while they're being constructed." noted Sally "We wouldn't have this much luck if the stations were complete. We're just lucky to be destroying them while they're so vulnerable."

"True." said Sonic agreeably "I hope we find the other stations before they get completed. I do have to wonder how many more there are to destroy."

"We'll have to find that out sooner or later." said Sally "Me and Nicole could probably try and hack into Eggman's database and find out that vital piece of information."

"So we'd best schedule a visit to the Egg-Bunker at some point." said Sonic "That'll be no problem at all. So, let's get back to Soleanna Town and give Elise the good news."

Before anyone could do anything though, Dr. Eggman emerged from within the depths of the forest and he pointed his deployed missile launchers at the Royal Fighters. The Royal Fighters all stepped back hastily as Eggman prepared to bombard them with missiles.

"You pests have destroyed my refuelling station! Now you'll pay for this with your lives!" he roared furiously.

"Geez Eggman, do you ever quit?" muttered Sonic "Just admit you're defeated for once and quit bothering us."

"Why do you see me as just "bothering you" these days Sonic?!" ranted Eggman "Have you forgotten that I'm the one who roboticized much of the populace upon my arrival here and destroyed the original Mobotropolis?! And have you forgotten about all the times I nearly beat you all and even once roboticized ALL of Mobius?!"

"Yes and you lost all of those times and nowadays, you're just easily defeated and you've come no closer to winning then you have before so you're not really a threat anymore Eggman, just a nuisance." snickered Sonic "And once you're locked away forever, you'll not be a nuisance to anybody anymore."

"Face it Eggman, you've become tiresome, predictable. You've hit rock bottom." said Sally with a cold smirk on her face that made her seem eerily villainous looking.

"I'LL SHOW YOU WHO'S HIT ROCK BOTTOM!" bellowed Eggman angrily.

Sonic was pleased to see Eggman getting so mad. It's why he was so easily defeated these days, his anger was what ultimately prevented him from ever coming on top in this war. If Eggman couldn't control that temper of his, he had no chance of ever winning against the Royal Fighters. Eggman didn't seem to care though. He was going to wipe out Sonic and friends if it was the last thing he did. And even if he didn't, he still had his Death Egg coming soon and the Death Egg would roboticize all of Mobius once it took to the sky so no matter what happened now, Eggman would win in the end. At the same time, he thought it would be good if he at least managed to kill the Royal Fighters before the Death Egg launched just to be safe. Eggman aimed his weapons at the Royal Fighters but just as he was about to fire, a wall of flames suddenly rushed across between Eggman and the Royal Fighters, making them all back off hastily to avoid being burnt by the fire.

"Whoa! I didn't know "Kill it with fire" was suddenly your next method of attack Eggman!" yelped Sonic as his nose was nearly singed off.

"That…wasn't me." blurted Eggman in surprise.

Sonic turned to his left and he saw who really started that flame wall. The flame wall ended and the person who had caused it strode forward towards the Royal Fighters. It was Blaze the Cat, their good old friend from the future. But something seemed oddly different about her. Her eyes were red and green and she had black veins visible all over her body. Plus her face seemed a little dark and possibly even evil looking. "Blaze" strode towards the Royal Fighters, a cold stare on her face as she glanced at them. Sonic instantly recognized the odd things about Blaze as she came up to them.

"Hey…uh…Blaze." he said wearily "Good to…see you. Um, you OK? You look a bit odd."

"I'm afraid Blaze isn't here right now." Blaze purred in a deep, dark voice that sounded very freaky coming out of her "She's had a bad case of "having her body taken over by an evil spirit"! Ha, ha, ha, ha!"

Sonic leaped back in fright and almost collided with Sally as he did so. His quills stood up on end and his eyes were wide with shock. Blaze with a male voice?! And just when he thought he couldn't see anything freakier than half the stuff he'd seen in his life.

"Wh-what's going on?" asked Tails "Why is Blaze talking in that scary voice?"

"I can definitely say goodbye to my sleep tonight." murmured Eggman.

"Who are you and why are you doing this to Blaze?!" demanded Sonic furiously.

"I am Mephiles the Dark and I need this woman to find somebody important." purred Mephiles, gesturing towards the body of Blaze to which he currently piloted "With her pyrokinetic abilities, I will find Iblis and once I find Iblis, I will lay waste to everything in existence."

"Yeah about that, somebody else already tried that and we kinda stopped him." said Sonic smugly "So now we're going to do the same to you Mephiles! Let Blaze go and I promise I won't hurt you!"

"Blaze is mine until Iblis is found." growled Mephiles "If you want her back then leave me to find Iblis or I'll burn you all alive!"

"Just try it freak!" growled Sonic, zooming up to Mephiles and slugging him in the gut as hard as he possibly could.

He felt kind of guilty at having to punch Blaze but with Mephiles in her body, he had no choice but to attack her. He had to get Mephiles out of Blaze before he could use her any longer. Mephiles took the blow to the gut and he smiled wickedly at Sonic.

"That tickled." he crowed "But this will do more than tickle you…"

He swiped his arm and sent a wave of fire sweeping through the air towards Sonic…

Well this didn't go very well did it? Mephiles is in control of Blaze and is now using her to find Iblis! Will he succeed? Or will he be stopped in time?

Tune in next time as we bear witness to "The Flames of Iblis..."

Oh and I do hope the scene with Blaze getting possessed didn't freak you out too much...ha, ha, ha...Happy Nightmares Everybody!

The Flames of Disaster

Story 183: The Flames of Iblis

Five minutes ago…

Soleanna was in for a dark time. First the demonic being Mephiles the Dark had been released from his prison by Dr. Finitevus and now he was hoping to find Iblis, the other half of the eternal sun god known as Solaris. Mephiles craved destruction and he wished to destroy everything in existence just because he wanted to. No real reason why, it was just his nature. Silver the Hedgehog and his girlfriend Blaze the Cat had travelled back in time to try and prevent Mephiles from becoming Solaris for they wondered if Solaris had anything to do with Mobius's destruction in the future. At the moment, Mephiles had escaped and now he was running around Soleanna Town, trying to find the demonic creature so that he and the city's princess, Elise, could seal Mephiles away for good. Even Dr. Finitevus, the one who had released Mephiles in the first place, was helping to find him. After all, he had hoped that Mephiles would join the Dark Armada and his cause and when Mephiles had refused, Finitevus quickly changed from hoping to recruit him to wanting to seal him away. The three had split up to search Soleanna Town for Mephiles for they had the idea he might be somewhere in the town after he'd shadow-melded out of his cell. Silver had searched all around the upper part of town but he hadn't found Mephiles unfortunately. He was heading back to the town square to meet up with Elise and Finitevus. Using his psychokinesis to levitate, he reached the town square in record time. He was the only one in the square though, Finitevus and Elise hadn't returned yet. As Silver waited for them to return, he failed to noticed that Blaze the Cat appeared to be heading towards the Soleanna Forest. Only on a technical note, it wasn't Blaze. Mephiles had captured the feisty and powerful cat and had taken over her body. Blaze was a prisoner to Mephiles's mind and she couldn't do anything about her current predicament. She was forced against her will to serve Mephiles and find Iblis. Her connection to fire was the reason Mephiles wanted to use her. She'd be able to sense Iblis's flames and find him easily.

And now he was heading into Soleanna Forest, presumably thinking that Iblis was in the forest or something. The moment Mephiles disappeared into the forest, Dr. Finitevus and Elise arrived at Silver's location, looking out of breath and like they'd been on a wild goose chase. Silver assumed they hadn't found Mephiles either.

"No luck?" he asked, already knowing the answer.

"No luck." panted Elise "I couldn't find Mephiles anywhere."

"I have been equally as unsuccessful in tracking down our demonic enemy." muttered Finitevus "And believe me, I searched everywhere INCLUDING inside every building."

"I couldn't find him either." said Silver disappointedly "It appears he's alluded us."

"Oh where could he be?!" whined Elise impatiently "It tears me apart to think about what he could be doing now he's rooming freely and looking for Iblis! He'll probably slaughter as many innocent people as possible just to find that fiery demon! We've gotta stop him and we've gotta stop him NOW!"

"I know, I know. Calm down Elise." said Silver, putting his hands on the jaguar's shoulders and holding her still "I promise, we'll find Mephiles. We won't let him find Iblis. If we have to turn the world upside down in the process, we'll find Mephiles and put a stop to him for good."

"It's easy enough to promise something like that Silver but it's a promise I don't think you can keep so easily." muttered Finitevus.

"You can be quiet before I decide you're not helping us." snarled Silver "You started all of this and you're going to answer for this when all this is over." he added with a finger aimed at him like a pistol waiting to spit the bullet into his head.

"Not likely." sighed Finitevus, his face showing no emotion over than annoyance at Silver's statement.

Silver ignored Finitevus. He didn't have time to beat some sense into him right now. He looked at Elise. He was beginning to form an idea in his head and he needed some vital information from her in order for it to work.

"So Elise, where exactly IS Iblis?" he asked "Maybe if you tell us, we can get to Iblis first and…"

"I can't tell you where Iblis is." said Elise dully "I'm forbidden to ever reveal his location to anybody. And besides, if we just go to Iblis won't we make Mephiles's job easier? I mean what if he coincidentally sees us standing where Iblis is located and gets suspicious?" she noted.

"Elise please, I've just come up with a brilliant idea on how to sort this mess." explained Silver "You see, I have a super warp ring. Take me to Iblis's location and using the super warp ring, I'll warp Iblis OFF of Mobius. I'll warp into another dimension and dump Iblis there. Mephiles will never find him then!"

"Wrong." said Elise grimly "Mephiles is a time traveller. Did you forget the fact that Solaris is a super-dimensional being? Mephiles can appear wherever he likes in the multi-verse. He has NO limit! Your plan is doomed to failure Silver."

Silver was speechless with shock. His beautiful plan crumbled to pieces before him. Silver stomped the ground furiously with his foot.

"Damn!" he cursed "Well then, I guess it's best if Iblis's location remains secret. But if it's so secret, why are you so worried about Mephiles finding him?"

"Because I know he'll tear the world apart just trying to find him." sighed Elise, massaging her temples vigorously "And he'll find him eventually if we don't stop him. That's why I'm so worried Silver."

"I see." said Silver understandingly "Well then, we'd best find Mephiles and stop him before it's too late."

"And how are we going to do that?" asked Finitevus "We do not have a way of imprisoning him. There's nothing to contain him now the Sceptre of Darkness is destroyed, thanks to me as we already know…" he added venomously.

"Is there a way of imprisoning him Elise?" asked Silver "Is there a replacement for the Sceptre of Darkness?"

"I'm afraid not. We only had the one built." replied Elise sadly "And that took years to make. Before it was used to imprison Mephiles, it had been built to imprison dark creatures and Mephiles had been the sceptre's first and only prisoner until now."

Silver was beginning to get seriously frustrated. He'd gone back in time to prevent The Day of Solaris was happening and yet he'd failed and it seemed it was destined to happen regardless of what he came up with. Fate was seriously against Silver now it seemed. But then Silver realized something. It was as if his head had suddenly gone click and a light bulb had switched on in his mind.

"Wait a minute!" he cried out loud "I have a super warp ring! I can just warp back in time to stop Finitevus from ever releasing Mephiles in the first place!" he leaped up into the air with joy, pleased to have found a solution at last.

"A very clever idea indeed." complimented Finitevus with a dark smile on his face "Very ingenious I must say."

Silver smiled and he got out his super warp ring. He flicked it into the air…but it didn't open a portal. It expanded in size but opened no portal of any kid. It was just a giant ring with an empty space. Silver face-palmed himself in anguish.

"Oh please don't tell me I didn't recharge the damn thing!" he whined "Gah, I forget these warp rings are limited on how many times they can be used and need constant recharging to stop them from running out! Stupid, stupid, stupid!"

He added more to his little rant by smacking himself in the head and stomping angrily in annoyance.

"I have a super warp ring as well but unfortunately, the fight with Mephiles has left it a little damaged." muttered Finitevus, looking at the warp rings on his arm "I am unable to carry out your marvellous plan."

The two rings nearest to either of his hands were cracked a little, meaning that he couldn't use them. Warp rings don't work very well when they're damaged, even slightly. One little crack would throw their coordination of whack and that was not what Finitevus wanted right now. One of the cracked warp rings was his super warp ring. The fight with Mephiles had damaged them and he only had four more warp rings, two on each arm, and the four on each leg to use. When this was over, Finitevus would fix the broken warp rings.

"That's unfortunate." murmured Silver "But we can still do the plan. Blaze has the Sol Emeralds on her. We can use them to warp back in time. I'll just have to go and get her."

"Before you run off Silver, I faintly glimpsed Blaze heading into the forest as I was heading back to the Town Square." explained Finitevus "I had assumed she was just looking for Mephiles in there and didn't bother her as I headed back here."

"I see." said Silver "Well then, off to the Soleanna Forest I guess."

"Let's hope Blaze has subdued Mephiles by the time we arrive." added Elise worriedly, running off frantically towards the Soleanna Forest.

Silver and Finitevus ran after her as fast as they could. They had a plan on how to stop Mephiles and Blaze held the key to the plan's success. Only Blaze wasn't herself right now…

Meanwhile, Mephiles had trekked quite fair into the Soleanna Forest in his search for Mephiles. The fire in Blaze's soul only grew hotter and stronger as he trekked into the forest. Iblis must be somewhere around and Mephiles was going to find him. Blaze's pyrokinetic abilities had led Mephiles this far, deep into the Soleanna Forest, and now only one thing stood in his way. Sonic the Hedgehog and his Royal Fighter comrades. Of course they weren't in his way on purpose but Mephiles didn't really want them to interfere with his mission so he was going to get rid of them all. Sonic had struck the first blow by slugging him and now he was retaliating.

He swiped the arm that belonged to Blaze at Sonic and struck him with a wave of fire. The flame wave knocked Sonic off of his feet but Sally Acorn was on hand to catch him before he could crash into the ground. Sonic rubbed himself better and he winced as the burns stung him slightly.

"Alright Mephiles, you wanna play? I'll show you playtime!" yelled Sonic.

"Royal Fighters, bring that thing down but do NOT try and cause too much harm to Blaze!" ordered Sally "We must get this "Mephiles" thing out of her body!"

The Royal Fighters understood even if they had no idea how in the heck they were possibly going to get a dark being out of Blaze's body. It wasn't going to be that simple. One does not simply beat somebody and force the being controlling their body out of the body after all. Bunnie Rabbot charged into Mephiles and she grasped him in a bear-hug that would make even a bear jealous due to how tight it was. Bunnie held on tightly to Mephiles but the evil being used Blaze's fire powers to set himself alight. The fire surrounding Blaze scalded Bunnie and made the Rabbit jump back in agony. Mephiles spun around and walloped Bunnie in the side of her face with Blaze's foot, the hell of her shoe being the part of her foot that struck Bunnie. Bunnie winced and placed a hand over her cheek as it began to sting from the impact. Mephiles cackled at Bunnie.

"It is very unwise to get too close to a fire-powered entity such as the woman I'm in control of..." he sneered.

He ignited Blaze's hands and he advanced on Bunnie. But the Rabbot got up onto her feet and uppercut Mephiles, using her organic hand so she'd hurt Blaze's body less. Blaze's head snapped backwards from the impact but given Mephiles was in control of her, she had Mephiles's high level of resilience. He took the blow and he punched Bunnie in the gut. Bunnie had always wondered how hard Blaze would actually be able to punch and now she knew the answer, very hard. Whether Blaze could naturally punch that hard or if it was just Mephiles enhancing her strength was questionable but Bunnie wasn't all that interested in knowing the answer to that question. The Rabbot knelt down on one knee, clutching her aching stomach and coughing hoarsely. Mephiles drew his arm back and was about to give Bunnie a fiery punch to the head but just as Blaze's fist lit up with flames, Tails flew in and tail-whipped him in the head.

"I'm very sorry Blaze but we need to get that thing out of your body!" he cried as his attack brought Mephiles down onto his side.

Mephiles picked himself up and Blaze's face curled into a hideous scowl that really seemed out of place on the fiery feline. Tails definitely had to admit that Blaze looked pretty scary with that scowl. If it hadn't been so obvious she had been possessed then that scowl would have been the big indicator that she had been. Mephiles placed Blaze's hands together and fired a tornado of flames towards Tails. Screaming in terror, Tails flew out of the way and fled for it as Mephiles tried to fry him like a burger in a fast-food restaurant. Mephiles came terrifyingly close to scorching Tails alive but Cosmo the Seedrian whipped out her Flower Blade weapon and she threw it at Mephiles, already regretting having to do so because she would be hurting Blaze. The bladed disc slashed him across the arm and made Mephiles bellow in pain. As himself, he didn't often feel pain that easily but being inside a mortal body full of nerves and the like, it made it much easier for him to feel pain than before. Not that it mattered to him. Mephiles spun around on the heel of Blaze's foot and he threw fire at Cosmo. Cosmo leaped out of the way and Tails flew in behind Mephiles, drop-kicking him in the back of his head. Mephiles was thrown town onto his hands and knees by the attack and just as he stood back up, Wilson the Dog and Mandy Mouse both jumped in and kicked him back down onto the ground. They both pinned Mephiles down by pressing their legs down on his arms but Mephiles didn't let that stop him. He set himself alight, forcing Wilson and Mandy to back off before they could be burnt alive. Ruben the Water Panther quickly got rid of the fire by squirting water all over Mephiles. Mephiles fumed angrily as the fire to which Blaze was renowned for was put out from around him. He picked himself up and growled fiercely. It was such a fierce growl that even Sonic stepped back, a little freaked out that the growl was coming out of a woman's mouth.

"You're quite hardy I'll hand it to you…but can you handle the powers of the darkness?" growled Mephiles sinisterly.

He held his hands into the air and summoned a bunch of dark, crackling, purple balls of energy to his hands. He felt much more comfortable using his own powers rather than somebody else's, even if he did enjoy using Blaze's fire powers. The Royal Fighters instantly managed to guess that this was Mephiles's doing for they knew Blaze couldn't normally do that and that made them wonder what Mephiles could do when he wasn't using somebody else to do the fighting. Mephiles threw the energy balls at the Royal Fighters but the great agility that the team all displayed between them paid off for they managed to dodge all the balls before they could hit them. Sonic ducked down low as an energy ball sailed over his head. He felt it whiz past as it narrowly missed him. He did not want to know what it felt like to be hit by one of these.

"Whoa! Since when could Blaze do that?!" he gasped.

"She can't. It's part of Mephiles's natural abilities if I'm to guess." said Sally "I dread to think what else he can do."

She clenched her fists and deployed her energy blades. Eggman was a little surprised at this given she'd had them stolen from her by Finitevus the other week but he quickly ruled it out as "She just got new ones". Sally rushed up towards Mephiles and swiped her blades at him. She was more trying to intimidate Mephiles than hurt him since she did not want to render Blaze with a missing limb or two. Hopefully the deadly blades would scare Mephiles into leaving the body before he could get dissected. However Mephiles was not so easily scared and that was what would make Sally's plan utterly useless against him. Mephiles dodged Sally's attacks and he threw fire at the squirrel queen. Sally ducked down low to avoid the oncoming fire but just as she rose back up, Mephiles sped forwards and slugged her in the stomach. He then elbowed Sally on the back just behind her shoulders, bringing her down onto the ground instantly. Mephiles attempted to stomp on Sally but she rolled out of the way just before he could do so. She slashed Mephiles on the leg, making the demon scream out horribly as a fresh cut spread across Blaze's leg and stung furiously. Now he was distracted, Sally criss-crossed her blades and held them at Mephiles's throat. Mephiles didn't seem phased at all by this.

"Get out of Blaze's body Mephiles or I'll kill you!" snarled Sally.

"You foolish woman, you'll kill Blaze as well if you do that." snorted Mephiles.

"Indeed I will but I don't think you're willing to die anytime soon are you?" asked Sally smoothly "If you want to live then let Blaze go. You live and we get her back. That way, we both win."

"Indeed so squirrel girl…but I am a being of darkness. I don't believe in both sides winning, only the dark side is allowed to triumph!" crowed Mephiles.

He aimed his hand at Sally's belly and blasted her off her feet with a jet of flames that spewed from the palm of Blaze's hand. Sally crashed into a tree and clutched her belly in agonizing pain. She looked like she had a stomach ache but the pain in her belly was much worse than a mere stomach ache. Sonic ran over to Sally's side and helped her up.

"You OK Sally?" he asked worriedly.

"Ugh…not really." groaned Sally, trying to ease the scalding pain in her belly "I thought I had him there…"

Sonic glared at Mephiles furiously and he closed his hand around his fist.

"That's it! Nobody, and I mean NOBODY possesses my friend and uses her to burn my girlfriend!" growled Sonic "Mephiles, I'm gonna beat you so badly that you'll want to leave Blaze's body!"

"I intend to hold onto the fire cat until I find Iblis!" snarled Mephiles "And you pitiful creatures cannot hope to stop me! I am all powerful and once Solaris is formed once again, I'll have the power to destroy you all!"

With that said, he held his arms out to the sides and torrents of fire whooshed out from Blaze's hands. But they didn't hit anybody. He hadn't been aiming at the Royal Fighters. He had instead been aiming at the surrounding forest. Mephiles knew very well what happens when flames and plants come into contact and he was doing this in an attempt to slow the Royal Fighters down enough so he could continue his search for Iblis. Blaze's flames spewed out all over the trees and the nearby bushes and they were all instantly set alight by the whooshing flames. Mephiles lowered his arms and set the grass on fire too. Given how much growth there was in the forest, the fire spread horrifyingly quickly and soon the surrounding area to which the Royal Fighters and Mephiles were standing was engulfed by a raging inferno that would soon consume the entire forest. Mephiles cackled maniacally but the crackling and whooshing of flames made his evil laugh inaudible to even his own ears. He then sunk down into a shadow that stretched out ahead of him as the fire burned behind him and disappeared, leaving the Royal Fighters at the mercy of the fiery inferno he'd created. An arsonist would be proud of his work, that's for sure. The Royal Fighters gathered together in a tight circle as the fire spread all around and threatened to consume them. The heat was intense and no matter where the Royal Fighters stood, they could feel the fire blazing away all around. Even Dr. Eggman seemed a little nervous of this scene of fiery carnage that Mephiles had single-handedly created thanks to the power that Blaze wielded in her soul.

"I hope Katherine made my life support mech heat-proof!" he whimpered.

"I hope she didn't so you can burn alive in this fire!" snapped Amy Rose rather bitterly.

"Ruben, put this fire out!" cried Sonic as a burning branch broke away from a blazing tree and nearly fell down on top of him, missing him by inches.

"I hope I can do this…" said Ruben nervously "I'm not used to putting out very big fires."

"You can do it Ruben, I know you can! Give it a try!" yelled Sora Prower supportively.

Ruben beamed, pleased to hear his girlfriend supporting him like this. Closing his eyes and focusing deeply, Ruben held his hands out and he unleashed a torrent of water from his hands. The water swept over the fire that was creeping ominously towards them across the grass and the fire was quickly extinguished by Ruben's water. He had a lot of work to do for the fire continued to burn from all around, incinerating bushes and destroying trees. A branch broke away from an incinerated tree and nearly fell down on top of Tails and Cosmo. Ruben aimed his hand and squirted the branch away from them, the water hitting the branch like a missile and sending it hurling away into the flames. Ruben aimed up at the trees and sprayed jets of water from his palms and his fingertips. The more water the better and because there was water coming out of his fingertips, he could flex his fingers and move the shooting water around so he wasn't just aiming at one spot. It took him a few minutes but he managed to put out most of the nearby trees and now he just had to put out a wall of flames that blazed away behind the Royal Fighters. He was getting tired and the fire was threatening to expand and blaze away at the already incinerated trees but Ruben was determined to beat the fire. Straining from the effort, he fired streams of water at the fire and pressed on until the last remaining wall of fire hissed and went out with a cloud of vapour. Ruben fell onto his knees, gasping for breath as he felt his strength drain out of him. He'd never used so much water before so this had been a tiring experience for him. Sora knelt down beside him and hugged Ruben, delighted that he succeeded.

"You did it cute stuff." she said sweetly.

"I know…pant…pant…but it took…a lot out of me…pant…pant…" Ruben gasped out in hoarse pants "I've…never thrown…so much water…before…"

"Take a break Ruben, you earned it." said Sonic kindly, patting him on the back "You gave it your all to stop that fire. As a Royal Fighter, you've done us all proud buddy."

Ruben beamed with delight. Receiving compliments from his friends was one of the most honourable things he could ever receive on the team. He couldn't be more proud to be a Royal Fighter. Now that the fire had been put out, Cream the Rabbit decided to break the silence that hung around for a minute or two.

"So now we saved ourselves from becoming a barbecue, what are we going to do about poor Miss Blaze?" she asked "That nasty "Mephiles" thingy got away from us. How will we find him?"

"Hopefully he decided to leave a trail of flames just for the sake of burning something." muttered Amy "It'd make finding him all the more easy."

"I doubt Mephiles would do that." said Cosmo matter-of-factly "He only fought us because he wanted us out of his way while he found something. He's looking for something called "Iblis". What's an "Iblis"? And who's Mephiles for that matter?"

"I don't know but I think Elise can tell us that." said Sally grimly "I once read that Soleanna had a terrible accident ten years ago and the accident formed Mephiles and Iblis. What they are I don't know for the book had been published a long while back and thus, has outdated information. It didn't say exactly what Mephiles and Iblis were."

"It doesn't matter, Mephiles plans to find Iblis and form something called "Solaris" and he wants to lay waste to everything." noted Sonic, recalling what Mephiles had said cryptically earlier. "We can't let him find Iblis and become Solaris. We've gotta track down Mephiles, get him out of Blaze's body and then…uh, what do we do after that?" he asked, shrugging his shoulders.

"I'd suggest contain him but I'm not sure if that would work." mused Eggman "I saw him just sink down into a shadow and disappear. Put him in a cell of some kind, he'll just shadow-meld out of it once the cell has a shadow in it."

"I see." said Sally disappointedly "Maybe Elise would know how to contain him."

"Funny you should mention Elise Sal, she's coming to us right now." Sonic's arm was stretched out and his finger pointing directly ahead of himself as something perceptibly enough caught his attention.

The Royal Fighters looked in Sonic's direction and they noticed that, surely enough, Elise was indeed coming towards them, pushing through the bushes as she desperately ran towards the team. Not surprisingly, Silver the Hedgehog was with her. They had expected Silver to not be far behind since he and Blaze were always together. What did surprise them was that Dr. Finitevus was with them. Sonic couldn't guess for a minute what Finitevus was doing here and why he was with Elise and Silver. Elise and Silver ran up to the Royal Fighters whereas Finitevus hung back for a minute.

"Sonic! Royal Fighters! Thank goodness we found you!" gasped Silver "We've been looking all over for Blaze and we haven't managed to find her yet! Have you seen her?"

"We did." said Sonic, motioning towards the sorry scene of incinerated and blackened trees, grass and bushes that lightly steamed away as the heat of the fire began to die down "Unfortunately, she's been possessed by some guy named "Mephiles". Elise, can you tell us who he is?"

Elise was about to speak but Silver interrupted her.

"Blaze has been WHAT?!" he screamed, his face the living definition of horror.

"Possessed." said Sonic "I'm sorry Silver but that's what's happened. She had red and green eyes and black veins all over her body. She also threw dark energy balls at us. That definitely isn't the Blaze I know."

Silver looked like he was about to die of exposure.

"NO!" he screamed "That…that…that monster's possessed my Blaze?! I won't let him get away with this! I'm gonna catch up to him and make him leave my girl's body or I'll drag him out of it kicking and screaming!"

"We need to find where he's gone first." said Sally, taking Nicole off her boot and opening the little computer up "And I've got the person who can help with that."

"Before we go anywhere, why is Finitevus here?" demanded Dr. Eggman, pointing accusingly at the echidna "I explicitly remember telling him to stay put when I left for Soleanna! You were supposed to protect the Egg-Bunker while I was away Finitevus!"

Finitevus scowled at Eggman, refusing to respond to his comment. Silver scowled at Finitevus and then turned to Eggman.

"He came to Soleanna wanting to release Mephiles in the first place. And he succeeded too." he grumbled "So you can blame Finitevus for Mephiles roaming freely now."

The Royal Fighters gave Finitevus a horde of horrified gasps and glares of disgust at him. Even Eggman seemed furious with Finitevus right now. Finitevus however just scowled back at them all, not phased in the slightest by the angry Royal Fighters and the equally as angry Dr. Eggman.

"So all this is YOUR fault?!" cried Sonic "Finitevus, that's a new low even for you!"

"Don't start you idiotic simpleton! I did not intend for this to happen!" snarled Finitevus, poking Sonic sharply in the chest "I had hoped to harness the power of Mephiles and use him as a way of defeating you all and bringing the Eggman Empire to victory but Mephiles rejected my offer for he plans to destroy everything, not take over the world and turned on me! Had I known he was so obstinate and destruction-hungry, I wouldn't have released him in the first place!"

"It's still your fault." retorted Sonic, rubbing his chest better "Didn't your mommy ever tell you not to play around with strange people?" he added cheekily.

Finitevus scowled but said nothing more. He had no time to waste arguing with such an impudent sod like Sonic the Hedgehog. He'd rather save his breath for something more important.

"Finitevus, I will save your punishment for later." growled Eggman crossly "For now, we've got more important things at hand. Like finding Mephiles and stopping him before he destroys everything!" he declared in the manner of a World War II general about ready to go to war.

"You got that right!" piped Elise with her hands to her face "Me and my family have been entrusted in making sure Mephiles and Iblis never come together and if Mephiles succeeds in finding Iblis…I will have disgraced my family and all my people! I can't let this happen!" she wailed.

"If it does happen Elise, just remember who's actually the one to blame for that." muttered Sally, glaring an ice cold glare at Finitevus in the vain hope of making him feel guilty. It didn't work. Finitevus just pretended Sally wasn't looking at him. Sally just ignored Finitevus and looked at Nicole "Nicole, can you track down where Mephiles has gone?"

"Certainly Sally." said Nicole with a happy emoticon appearing on her screen "Mephiles has a very peculiar energy signature that makes him very easy to track. He sticks out like a sore thumb to some extent. He's heading north, deep into the forest and judging from the layout of the forest…he appears to be heading towards a nearby cave." she added, showing Sally a map of where Mephiles was.

Elise's face couldn't possibly look anymore shocked than it did now.

"No!" squealed Elise in horror "That's where Iblis is being kept! He's going to find him! We're gonna be too late!" she panicked frantically.

"No we won't." said Sonic "Finitevus, use your warp rings to warp us over to Iblis's hiding place." he ordered.

"I have never been in Soleanna before and therefore, will not be able to visualize where we need to go." sighed Finitevus disappointedly "I am unable to aid you in this situation Sonic the Hedgehog."

"Well that sucks." muttered Sonic "Very well, Silver can get us there quickly enough. Silver, use your psychic powers to carry us all and fly us to where Mephiles is."

"OK then, I warn you though that it's going to do a number on me." said Silver cautiously.

"We haven't got far to go." said Sally, looking at the map on Nicole's screen "We should get there in a short amount of time. I'll tell you where to go while you fly us over to the cave."

"Sure thing Sally." said Silver "Get ready everybody, this is going to be quite sensational."

The Royal Fighters readied themselves as Silver held his hands out and activated his psychic powers. A teal outline surrounded Silver and as he focused on the Royal Fighters, they began to get a teal outline around their bodies too. Silver levitated off the ground, taking all the Royal Fighters along with him. Elise could hardly keep the excitement off her face as she saw herself rising off the ground. She'd wondered what it would be like to fly and thanks to Silver, he'd get to see for herself what it would be like. Silver was quite pleased to hear the jaguar laughing. Made a change from her constantly fretting. Sally looked at Nicole and worked out that Mephiles was in the north direction according to the displayed map. She directed to Silver and Silver flew off, heading north. As he flew, the other Royal Fighters followed him. Flying altogether through the sky thanks to Silver's psychokinesis, the Mobians looked like a meteor shower hurling through the sky although they were considerably more furry and animalistic in appearance and not at all rocky. As Silver carried everybody through the sky, Elise prayed hard that they would make it in time to stop Mephiles…

Meanwhile, Mephiles had trekked through the forest and come across a huge cave that seemed unusually out of place in the middle of a forest. The amount of tress and bushes in the Soleanna Forest just made the appearance of something that wasn't a tree of a bush or anything plant like unusual when you came across it. Mephiles walked up to the mouth of the cave. It was like a lump of rock just randomly stick up out of the earth with a large mouth yawning wide open, waiting to swallow you up whole should you be foolish enough to walk inside it. There were a couple of trees standing atop the cave but nothing more. Mephiles stood still for a minute and closed his eyes. He listened to the crackling of fire coming from deep within Blaze's very soul, something she would always feel as long as she had the fire gem in her head. The fire was roaring quite fiercely. Iblis had to be in the cave, he was quite literally on fire just standing where he was. Mephiles opened his eyes and he smiled wickedly to himself.

"Iblis…I can feel your flames…you're in there, I just know it!" he cackled delightedly "Now I can join with you at long last…"

He then closed his eyes again and opened his mouth. Blaze's body began to tremble all of the sudden. Shaking furiously, Blaze's body tensed up and the dark veins snaking around her body began to disappear. A dark trail of black goo started to pour out of Blaze's mouth and spill onto the ground. She looked like she was vomiting and it didn't look very pleasant at all. The black goo formed a black puddle and the black puddle solidified and formed into Mephiles's usual Mobian-hedgehog-esque form. Mephiles admired himself all over, pleased to be himself again. Now he was no longer in Blaze's body, Blaze collapsed onto the ground and passed out. Her breathing was raspy and her face was ashen. Blood dribbled out of her mouth, possibly a side effect from the possession. She'd be OK in a short while though, Mephiles hadn't done any lasting harm to Blaze. Fortunately for her as one would easily say. Mephiles scoffed at the pathetic body that he had taken over and he strode into the cave.

"Blaze served her purpose well…" purred Mephiles "Pity I'll have to wipe her out along with the rest of existence. All good things must come to an end as they say."

Before going down into the cave, he turned around and fired a bunch of energy balls into the ceiling of the cave. He had suspected that the Royal Fighters likely would have survived the fire and would be looking for him. He also took in the possible fact Silver and Elise might come looking for him so to keep them at bay, he was going to block the cave entrance. The energy balls hit the ceiling and the roof of the cave just slightly behind the cave entrance caved in. Huge rocks piled down from the ceiling and onto the ground, piling up until they reached the top of the cave. The entrance was completely blocked. Nobody would be getting in or out of the cave now. Mephiles wanted it that way so that he could unlock Iblis without any interruptions. Now the cave was blocked, Mephiles sank down into the darkness of the cave and quickly traverse through it. When you can travel through shadows and darkness, you never need to walk when you're in a place as dark as a cave. Mephiles reached the heart of the cave in mere seconds and just as he sensed at the mouth of the cave…he found Iblis at long last. Iblis was contained within a giant red ruby that was five times the size of even the biggest Mobian in the world and bathed the room with an ominous, ruby red glow that seemed to emphasize how fiery hot its prisoner was. The ruby was known as a "Fire Ruby" and was a gift from the Fire Cat race. They had given it to Soleanna after hearing about Iblis and the danger he presented. Iblis had been successfully contained in the ruby for ten years but the ruby would be Iblis's prison no more. Mephiles places his hands on the ruby and cackled delightedly.

"I've found you Iblis…yes! Now we can become Solaris at long last! Iblis, prepare to be freed!" he bellowed at the top of his voice.

He held his hand out and fired a huge spear of energy from the palm of his hand. This was a deadly attack known as the "Dark Chaos Lance" and was a deadly impaling weapon. Mephiles often saved that for when he seriously needed it and he certainly needed it in this case. The spear pierced the tough skin of the ruby and cracks began to spread up the ruby like somebody drawing pencil lines on a paper bit by bit. Now the starting damage was done, Mephiles drew his arm back and he punched through the ruby. His punch made a huge hole in the ruby and that hole was more than enough for Iblis to free himself. A trickle of what looked like lava began to seep through the hole in the ruby and spill onto the floor. Mephiles just watched as the lava puddle began to spread until it filled the entire floor of the cave. He was cackling constantly throughout the entire process. This was like the happiest day of his life for him. As Iblis finished seeping out of the ruby, the lava that was Iblis began to form a shape. The shape formed a huge body with four arms, a head and no legs. It was truly a monstrous looking creature with its skin being entirely made of lava and its back and head had rocky builds all around. The head looked asymmetrical with one spike on one side of its face and chin. The rocks on its back made it look like it had a vague shell-like structure on its back. This was one of three different forms Iblis could form and it was its preferred form, the form it was most happy using. Iblis roared a magnificent, thunderous roar, the first roar in ten years it had ever done. Mephiles stared gleefully at his companion.

"Ah, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha! Finally, the seal is broken! At long last, I'll be able to join with you…IBLLIIIIIIIS!" his voice echoed around the cave as he bellowed Iblis's name.

Iblis roared with Mephiles and then he stared down at his dark companion. But nothing seemed to happen after that. Mephiles and Iblis were just standing staring at each other with nothing happening. No fusion process was going on or anything. Mephiles was willing himself and Iblis to fuse together and form Solaris but Iblis didn't seem like he was going to do so. Mephiles looked confused.

"But…but I've found you Iblis. Why won't you join with me?" he asked curiously "I freed you! We can become Solaris! Why won't you fuse with me?"

Iblis gave off a growl. Iblis couldn't speak like Mephiles could so he just growled and roared in order to communicate. Mephiles could understand his lava-based other half very well.

"Me and you aren't powerful enough to make the transformation?!" he blurted as if very confused by this aspect indeed "How can we become Solaris then if we're not powerful enough?!"

Iblis growled again, the room shaking as the growl resonated from all around.

"We need a Chaos Emerald?" Mephiles spoke aloud "Yes…I've heard of Chaos Emeralds. They're powerful gems with time stopping and warping abilities. I didn't think we'd need one though. Where are we going to find a Chaos Emerald?"

He thought for a moment and then thought of something.

"Maybe the princess knows where to find a Chaos Emerald." mused Mephiles "She knows much about us after all. I'll find her and force her to give me a Chaos Emerald. Then me and you will make the transformation at last. Come Iblis."

Iblis obeyed and his shape dissolved into the puddle of lava that formed the base it protruded from. Mephiles melted down into the shadows and he headed up towards the surface outside the cave. Iblis, sensing Mephiles due to his connection to the dark being, slithered up through the cave after Mephiles. It was like watching a lava flow in reverse, the lava flowing up instead of down. The two couldn't form Solaris yet but it wouldn't be long before they'd be able to…

Outside the cave, Silver had reached the destination and he lowered himself down onto the ground. He released everybody from his psychokinetic hold and he clutched his head dizzyingly. He felt like it was about to erupt like a volcano. Not a pretty image at all.

"Man what a headache…I'm not used to carrying so many people at once!" he slurred.

"Well Silver, you did very well." said Elise, helping to support him for he looked like he was about to fall over "You got us all there and you didn't drop anybody."

"That's lucky I suppose." said Silver.

His attention was quickly diverted when he saw Blaze the Cat lying on the ground unconscious just near the cave entrance.

"BLAZE!" screamed Silver.

He dashed over to his girlfriend and he threw himself onto his knees beside her still body. The Royal Fighters joined him and stared at Blaze. The black veins were gone and a puddle of blood was just underneath the side of her face with a trail of blood from her mouth to the puddle on the ground. She was still breathing, indicating she was alive luckily. Silver raised Blaze up onto his lap and Ruben held his finger into her mouth, letting a light trickle of water pour out of his finger to freshen her up. The water revived Blaze and the cat woke up with a violent coughing fit. After she'd stopped coughing, she wiped her mouth and opened her eyes. To her delight, the first thing she saw was her beloved Silver. Blaze threw her arms around Silver and grasped him tightly. Her eyes were streaming with tears as she hugged Silver.

"Oh Silver! I'm so sorry about what I've done!" she wailed "I got captured by Mephiles and he took over my body and forced me to fight against Sonic and friends and then forced me to help him find Iblis! I'm so sorry! I'm so, so sorry!"

"Sssh, it's alright Blaze." said Silver, patting her on the back affectionately "You didn't do all that on purpose. Mephiles made you do that. It's alright now, you're free from him and now you can help us stop him."

"Oh I'll be very happy to do that." muttered Blaze bitterly "Nobody possesses me and uses me in their scheme to doom the world! I'm going to make Mephiles pay for what he's done to me!"

"Now he's found Iblis, I doubt we'll be able to do that." said Elise with a sad look on her face, taking note of the blocked cave entrance which easily suggested that Mephiles was in the cave looking for Iblis "We're all doomed now."

"No we're not." said Silver "Blaze, you have your Sol Emeralds remember? Use them to take us back in time to before Finitevus released Mephiles! Then we can prevent this from happening at all!"

"Silver, you're a genius." Blaze could only utter in amazement "Who knew that we had a solution that simple the whole time? Would have been better if we realized it earlier so I never would have gotten possessed…"

"Nobody's perfect." said Silver casually "Come on now Blaze, let's do the plan."

"And we'd best do it fast." said Elise nervously "If the two become Solaris now then no time period will be safe. Being a multi-dimensional being, he'll be able to stop you from trying to prevent Mephiles from being released. He'll be able to appear ANYWHERE he likes."

"In that case, time for us to time travel again." murmured Blaze, fishing out her favourite of the Sol Emeralds, the red emerald.

She was about to perform a Sol Control and warp herself and Silver back a couple of hours to before Mephiles was released but before she could say the words, Sonic interrupted her.

"Hey! Is that supposed to happen?" he asked, pointing at the blocked up cave entrance.

"I thought this was meant to be a cave, not a volcano!" blurted Eggman.

Blaze looked over her shoulder and gasped at what she saw. Seeping out through the gaps in the rock pile blocking the cave was a trail of lava. The lava trails formed together to make a much larger puddle of lava as it exited the cave. The puddle crept towards the Royal Fighters as if trying to lap up to their feet…and maybe burn them off at the same time. Elise looked horrified and she knew what his meant.

"NO!" she screamed "Iblis is free! Mephiles is going to destroy us all!"

"Not if I can help it." growled Blaze, holding her Sol Emerald up into the air "Sol CON…"

Before she could finish her sentence, a tentacle of lava lashed out and smacked Blaze, causing her to drop the Sol Emerald and hurl backwards into the air. Blaze came down onto the ground with a terrible thud that knocked the wind out of her. The Sol Emerald lay at the edge of the expanding lava puddle. Silver used his psychokinesis to grab the emerald and hold it back as the lava puddle tried and failed to grip it. The lava puddle then stopped expanding and started to form the familiar shape of Iblis. Elise looked horrified to be witnessing Iblis in person for the first time in ten years. She had only been nine when Iblis was first released and even now, Iblis still looked as terrifying as ever. She put her hands over her mouth to stop herself from screaming as the four-armed, lava-based creature towered over her, roaring loudly and making the ground tremble as if it was afraid of him as much as the Mobians themselves.

"HOLY CHAOS EMERALDS!" exclaimed Sonic "THAT'S Iblis?! Bit hot under the collar isn't he?!"

"That's Iblis!" gasped Elise, hardly able to speak properly due to how horrified she was at the sight of the fiery creature she had hoped would stay imprisoned forever "And now he's free, Solaris can form at last! We're all doomed!"

"I'm afraid that isn't the case Elise." said Mephiles, rising up just in front of Iblis's base "We have discovered that we are not powerful enough to form Solaris. We need a Chaos Emerald in order to begin the transformation and you are going to tell us where we can find them!"

"I don't know what a "Chaos Emerald" is! And even if I did, I wouldn't tell ya!" retorted Elise.

"Mephiles and Iblis need a Chaos Emerald?" asked Silver "Well I guess we're not doomed yet. I'll just use Blaze's Sol Emerald to back in time and…"

"Back in time?" Mephiles echoed as Silver said those words "You're not planning to go back in time and prevent my release from the Sceptre of Darkness are you?"

"How'd you guess?" snorted Silver.

"I wouldn't try that plan if I were you silver creature." growled Mephiles "I can travel through time as well. I'll just follow you and make sure you don't tamper with the past. Your plan is doomed to failure."

"Let's see if you can stop me before I can stop your release!" challenged Silver "Sol…"

He had to stomp himself and leap back in alarm as Iblis breathed a jet of fire at him. As Silver leaped back, he accidentally dropped the Sol Emerald onto the ground. Blaze was about to grab it but Mephiles fired dark energy balls at her and sent her hurling backwards away from the emerald. Mephiles grabbed the emerald and he cackled delightedly.

"This is quite a close equivalent to the Chaos Emeralds, if with a fiery touch to them." he mused with interest "This emerald will do just nicely for us Iblis."

Sonic spin-dashed towards Mephiles but the evil dark being levitated out of his way and flew up into the sky just above Iblis, rendering him out of reach for anybody so the emerald was his to keep. He held the Sol Emerald up high above his head, the emerald glowing very brightly as his thoughts were being transformed into power. Blaze stared at him with loathing and hatred, desperate to make him pay for what he'd done to her but now missing the opportunity. She also was horrified at the fact Mephiles was using her own emerald for his own nefarious needs. The Royal Fighters ran forward to stop Mephiles but Iblis surrounded them with a ring of fire that kept them in check. Blaze tried to put the fire out with a snap of her fingers but Iblis was just like her, he could control the flames and he was much more powerful than Blaze was so Blaze couldn't do anything about it. His will was infinite as far as fire was concerned. Now the heroes were rounded up, Mephiles was ready to begin the transformation.

"Now little emerald…it's time for the final curtain call!" he declared.

The Sol Emerald hovered out of his hand and with its power combined with Mephiles, it miraculously managed to summon the other six Sol Emeralds without Blaze needing to do so and the other six emeralds joined the red emerald Mephiles had. The seven Sol Emeralds began to spiral around Mephiles and Iblis, the two creatures becoming ghostly entities as their forms began to combine. Solaris was coming and nobody could do anything to stop it…

Well...this isn't good...Solaris is coming! The end of everything is coming! And it's not even a milestone chapter yet...LOL.

How will the heroes stop Solaris now he's coming? Find out next time in the finale, "Solaris Rising"...

Solaris Rising

Story 184: Solaris Rising

The transformation to Solaris was well under-way and it was coming close to completion.

What had started as a routine assault on Dr. Eggman's property had quickly spiralled into yet another end-of-the-world scenario that would have to be prevented once again. Sonic the Hedgehog and friends had come to Soleanna to destroy a Death Egg refuelling station and despite succeeding, they ended up getting more than they bargained for. Dr. Finitevus had unleashed a dark entity named Mephiles the Dark. He had hoped to harness Mephiles's meritorious power for his own nefarious schemes but Mephiles had refused to join him and so Finitevus had to fix the mistake he'd made. A mistake that was going to cost the lives of everybody. Whilst free, Mephiles had taken over the body of Blaze the Cat and used her pyrokinetic abilities to track down Iblis, the other half of Solaris that he needed in order to become the eternal sun god. Now he'd found Solaris, he'd managed to swipe Blaze's Sol Emeralds from her and was using them to fuse him and Iblis together to make Solaris. The transformation had merely been a blinding dazzle of light and a fusion of two bodies but it had been quick and terrifying to watch. Nobody was possibly more terrified now than Soleanna's very own Princess Elise. She watched the whole process with tears in her eyes, too shocked to move and too shocked to faint. Frozen to the spot in fear as if time had stopped around her and only her. Sonic and his love Queen Sally Acorn, clutched each other tightly as Solaris began to form. The transformation completed, the haunting cackle of Mephiles drowning out as the light faded and revealed a giant creature beyond anything ever seen on Mobius before. This was Solaris. Solaris was enormous, his height surpassing even the tallest building in the world. He was a very unusually shaped creature with no legs and two enormous arms. The lower section was just a sharp point as if he had a spike growing from underneath his upper body. He appeared to have a chunk of armour on the chest section that had a head sitting atop the armour and the lower arms were thickly armoured with pointy elbows and three claws protruding from out the armour. The head was vaguely bird like and had antler-like structures on either side. The eyes glowed an ominous yellow that seemed to evoke all the power Solaris wielded. On his back floated a circular plate with six triangular points, resembling a traditional sun symbol and the points would spin clockwise on occasion. He was transparent white all over. Solaris made no noise but it was already intimidating enough as it was without needing to emit any vocal sounds. Everybody stared in fear and amazement at the sight of this illuminated behemoth that threatened to destroy everything. Nobody could do anything but stare for they were all petrified with fear. The worst was yet to come though for Solaris held out his arms and bathed the entire area with an ominous, fluorescent purple light that expanded for miles around, swallowing up whatever was in its path. The Royal Fighters had to shield their eyes from the light but even with their eyes closed, it still felt too bright. The light seemed to expand all over the world and as the light expanded, darkness befell everything. The Royal Fighters opened their eyes only to see that they were standing on a platform of grass, presumably all that was left of Soleanna Forest after the light had touched it. Everything else was either vague platforms that barely had anything going for them or just a vast void of darkness stretching for miles around. Solaris was represented by a big sphere of light that loomed over everybody as if watching them and waiting for the right moment to strike at them. Elise was hysterical, unable to control her sobbing and practically going mental with terror.

"It's happened…it's happened! Solaris is here! He's been formed and he's going to kill us all!" she howled "We're all dead! And there's nothing we can do to stop him!"

She put her hands over her eyes and wept into them, feeling that she would never be able to stop no matter how much she wanted to.

"And we all know who's fault THAT is!" snarled Sonic, glaring at Finitevus angrily "Well freaking done Finitevus! You released Mephiles, he's found Iblis and now they've become Solaris! You've doomed us all! Is this what you wanted?! Huh?! HUH?!"

"Curb your insolence you wretched hedgehog!" retorted Finitevus angrily "I did NOT intend for this to happen at all and I'm all too happy to try and prevent Solaris from carrying out his nefarious schemes!"

"Still doesn't change the fact that all of this is YOUR fault Finitevus!" snapped Sonic "And we're going to clean up the mess you've made! Elise, how can we stop Solaris?"

"We can't." snivelled Elise "Solaris cannot be stopped! At least, it's assumed he can't given what kind of creature he is…"

"Assume is good, means there's a possibility we can stop Solaris." thought Sonic "I need to get to Angel Island and get the Chaos Emeralds. I have a feeling I need to go super for this one."

"I'd happily help you in the battle Sonic but since Mephiles stole my Sol Emeralds to become Solaris, I can't become Burning Blaze." said Blaze disappointedly "I need to get them back!"

"I'll help you." offered Silver "We'll get the Sol Emeralds back for you and then me and you can turn super to help Sonic stop Solaris."

"That'll be very nice Silver." said Blaze appreciatively "Though how we'll possibly get the emeralds back from Solaris is beyond me." she added, taking in the fact they likely had a very powerful foe to deal with right now.

"Do you think Solaris still has them?" asked Silver.

"Let's see…" mused Blaze quietly.

She closed her eyes and allowed the fire within her soul to reach out and feel for the Sol Emeralds. Her ability to sense flames made it possible for her to track the Sol Emeralds since they themselves were infused with the flames that the fire cat race was known for. The fire within the Sol Emeralds is what had made the Sol Emeralds what they are now. To Blaze's surprise, as she searched for the Sol Emeralds, she felt their flames but not from Solaris. Instead, the Sol Emeralds were gathered around a particular spot. It was like Solaris had just disposed of them as if he felt they were useless to him and he didn't need them anymore, a mistake that would definitely be very costly for Solaris. Blaze opened her eyes.

"I can sense the emerald's flames." she said "Solaris doesn't have them anymore. He's thrown them into some random corner of this distorted world."

"Well that's a bit thick of him isn't it?" snorted Sonic with a mocking grin on his face just as he took in that surprising yet humorous fact "Just getting rid of seven precious gems like that. He's just making your job a lot easier Blaze."

"Where are the Sol Emeralds?" asked Silver.

"Carry me and I'll direct you to them." ordered Blaze.

"OK then Blaze, just don't panic about the heights." warned Silver, taking note of Blaze's phobia.

"At this point, I don't care about the heights anymore." muttered Blaze.

Silver smiled, pleased to hear that, and he put his hands around Blaze's waist. Using psychokinesis, he lifted himself up off the platform of grass they all occupied at the moment. He held on tightly to Blaze as he and the cat ascended into the air. Blaze pointed ahead of herself and Silver flew off at a speed that would rival even the fastest of fighter jets. Now Silver and Blaze were gone, Sonic turned to Finitevus.

"OK Dr. Creepy-As-All-Heck, give me a warp ring and I'll head over to Angel Island so I can get the Chaos Emeralds." ordered Sonic.

"In this particular case, I'm all too happy to relinquish one of my rings." Finitevus said with a voice who's tone was flatter than even a pancake.

He lifted his leg up and took off the warp ring around his ankle. This, unlike the first two warp rings on each arm, wasn't damaged so it'd be perfect for using. Sonic took the warp ring and he was about to activate it until he felt a familiar pair of hands pull him close to the body they belonged to. It was Sally. Her face was full of anxiety and Sonic could sense that she was worried about Solaris. He put a hand on her cheek tenderly.

"Please Sonic, be careful out there." she said "And do whatever you can to stop that monster."

"I'll do anything I can Sal." said Sonic softly "I'll stop Solaris you see if I don't."

"I know." said Sally, embracing Sonic warmly "Good luck out there, you'll need plenty of it."

"Thanks Sally. Hold on for me will you?" Sonic asked kindly.

Sally nodded and the two shared a farewell kiss before Sonic broke up the hug and flicked the warp ring into the air. The ring expanded to twice its normal size and opened up a portal that led from where they were now to Angel Island. Sonic could only wonder what Knuckles and Shade the Echidnas had to say about all this. They wouldn't be very happy that's for sure. Sonic bid his friends farewell and he disappeared through the warp ring. The warp ring closed shut and Finitevus grabbed it and put it back onto his leg. Sonic wouldn't need it since he was going to turn super and would just warp back here anyway. A long silence hung over the platform until Elise wandered over to Sally and put a hand on the squirrel's shoulder.

"Do you…think that Sonic, Silver and Blaze can…stop Solaris?" she whispered hoarsely. She'd been crying so much that she'd worn her voice out a little.

"I don't think Elise…I KNOW they can." said Sally confidently "They stopped the God of Existence along with Shadow, Knuckles and Scourge so this will be a cakewalk for them."

"How powerful was this "God of Existence" thing?" asked Elise.

"He was the one responsible for our existences. That alone should tell you how powerful he was." explained Sally "And yet we managed to stop that creature and get another god to take over the mantle of "God of Existence". You know thinking about it, do you think Malacos would try and stop Solaris?" Sally wondered aloud more to herself than anybody.

Elise didn't answer for she had no idea who Malacos was and would be unable to give an answer to such a question.

"Given Malacos is the new God of Existence after The Eraser was defeated, he might come out and help us." suggested Tails "I bet Solaris will make it difficult for him though. Being super-dimensional and all, Malacos won't be able to just "get rid of him" that easily."

"You're right." said Sally agreeably "So we'll have to do whatever we can in order to stop this creature."

She stared fearfully up at the ball of light that was Solaris, looming above the dark, distorted world that Mobius had been reduced to by his very own hand. The end was ticking away slowly but steadily and it was precisely this as to why Sally was becoming slightly nervous about Solaris. Solaris was toying with them, buying his time for his own amusement as he prepared to reduce everything in the multi-verse to nothing. Solaris could strike any time and the long wait would just be an attempt to throw the Mobians off-guard. A singe prayer came from every one on the platform in this dire moment of terror:

Please Sonic, Silver and Blaze…save us all and defeat Solaris…

The warp ring opened up just above Angel Island and Sonic stepped out through the warp ring, all senses alert and taking great caution. The world was distorted, twisted and wrong so anything could happen even in a simple moment like this and Sonic was taking no chances. He'd been in many life-and-death situations and even though he'd survived them all, he still knew that you had to be vigilant. Especially since the end-of-the-world was threatening to eclipse him and everybody else on Mobius right now. Sonic cautiously looked around as he exited the warp ring and it disappeared behind him. Angel Island didn't look all that different amazingly enough. It still looked the same as it did before albeit now just floating around a vast black void that seemed to go on forever. Knuckles and Shade were nowhere in sight. Presumably they were taking shelter somewhere on the island or guarding the Master Emerald from whatever was causing the world to be this way. It was likely the latter since even in a crisis like this, the echidnas wouldn't leave the Master Emerald unguarded under any circumstances. Sonic hadn't warped over to the Master Emerald shrine so he couldn't see for himself if they were guarding the Master Emerald at all. He had instead warped into the forest that housed the tomb where all eight Chaos Emeralds resided. The forest was silent and there didn't appear to be any signs of danger around at all. Sonic looked and listened to make sure the coast was clear. He saw nothing and heard nothing that immediately said to him "watch out!".

"Looks like luck is on my side." said Sonic casually "Nothing going on here that isn't out of the ordinary. Maybe Solaris hasn't noticed what I'm up to. Lucky for me I guess…"

Smiling confidently and contently to himself, Sonic wandered through the tall grass that he was standing in and he searched for the emerald tomb. He had obligated to warp too close to the tomb or in the tomb itself incase Eggman or Finitevus attempted to follow him and had instead warped reasonably close to the tomb. He only took half a minute to find it. Sonic pressed on the stone that shielded the Chaos Emerald's energy from being detected and sealed them in the tomb and the stone slid down and away, revealing all eight Chaos Emeralds sitting in the slab at the bottom, all glowing beautifully with their eight different colours of red, yellow, green, purple, cyan, grey, blue and white. Sonic could still recall the time when he only had seven Chaos Emeralds, it was still amazing to even have an extra one. Of course, he had to thank the Black Arms for that for they had been the ones to have the eighth Chaos Emerald. Sonic reached out to grab the Chaos Emeralds but just as his fingers reached to close around one, a terrible sound boomed in his ears and Sonic jerked around so fast that if you had blinked, you wouldn't have seen him turn around. To his horror, a giant purpley-blue sphere appeared directly in front of him, the sphere having a reptilian pupil in the middle which made it look like a giant staring eyeball glaring directly at Sonic. The hedgehog had not expected something like this at all. This sphere was the Eye of Solaris. Solaris was determined to put down any attempts to stop him and thus he'd sent the eye to stop Sonic. Sonic at first though the eye would be of no harm but he soon regretted thinking such a thing for he could feel something pulling on him as if invisible hands had reached out and grabbed him. It was the same feeling he got from the time rifts in the prelude to the multi-verse crisis only this wasn't a time rift, it was a giant eye-like sphere doing it. Sonic turned around and tried to grab the Chaos Emeralds but the Eye of Solaris was too strong for him to resist. He pulled as hard as he could and tried desperately to break free from the pull but he had no chance. It was like trying to pull a jumbo jet, impossible to do and a feat you cannot accomplish. Sonic strained as he forced his body to pull and move forward. His body obeyed him but the strength it had wasn't enough. Sonic could feel himself giving up as the Eye of Solaris pulled him forward. His body was beginning tugged backwards slowly but steadily, inch by inch, towards the eye. Sonic would soon be in the eye and he did not want to think for a minute what the eye would do to him should he get pulled into it. Complete disintegration was one possible outcome and Sonic would not be able to save Mobius if he was disintegrated. Sonic fought on to break free from the eye's pull but he knew it was hopeless. He knew he was doomed and that he'd failed everybody all because he wasn't more alert and just was too quick to assume that things were going well for him. But it seemed luck was still on Sonic's side for a red blur jumped in and pushed Sonic out of the way of the Eye of Solaris. It was Knuckles! He'd heard the sound the eye made when it appeared and he along with Shade and rushed into investigate. They had been surprised to see Sonic here and even more surprised to see he was in danger so they'd rushed in to help the hapless hedgehog. Knuckles had managed to get Sonic out of the way and Shade had rushed into the emerald tomb to grab a Chaos Emerald. She grabbed the white one and used a Chaos Control to freeze time around the Eye of Solaris. That way it wouldn't be able to try and suck up anybody else until it wore off. Shade gathered up the other seven emeralds and she ran over to Sonic and Knuckles. The three Mobians shifted away from the Eye of Solaris and Sonic expressed his gratitude.

"Knuckles! Shade! Boy you two are life savers!" cried Sonic happily "I thought I was dead meat for a minute!"

"You very nearly were." murmured Knuckles "So Sonic, what's going on? Why is everything…dark and distorted?"

"Well your brilliant uncle Finitevus decided to release a creature named Mephiles who in turn found a creature named Iblis and the two formed together to make Solaris, a super dimensional creature who eats dimensions for lunch or something along those lines." explained Sonic "So basically, it's another "end-of-the-world" thing and I need the Chaos Emeralds to stop it from happening."

"You mean all of this is Finitevus's fault?!" screamed Knuckles in astonishment "Ooooh when I get my hands on him I'm gonna make him wish he'd never been born!"

"Allow me the privilege of joining you on that matter." said Shade, looking equally as mad as Knuckles did.

"Certainly hon." said Knuckles with a smile "So you think the Chaos Emeralds will stop this "Solaris" thingy?" he asked.

"I'm hoping so." said Sonic "There's nothing else we can try, the Chaos Emeralds are the best options we have at this point. If they don't work…then we're all doomed."

"Let us hope it won't come to that." said Shade grimly, handing Sonic the Chaos Emeralds.

"I'll say. I've been working for way too long and hard on keeping Mobius safe for us all. No way is Solaris undermining what I and my friends have done for Mobius now!" declared Sonic.

Knuckles and Shade couldn't agree more with that statement. Sonic held out the eight Chaos Emeralds and allowed them to drift up out of his arms and into the air around his head. The Chaos Emeralds circled around his body as the always sensational and amazing transformation to Super Sonic prepared to begin. Sonic could never get enough of that feeling, it was the most amazing feeling in the world. Sonic closed his eyes and held his arms out to the side as the Chaos Emeralds picked up speed, the emeralds becoming a ring of colours that circled around him like a tornado waiting to whisk him away in the monstrous winds. The Chaos Emeralds soon vanished and Sonic's cobalt blue fur began to change into the familiar bright, luminous, brilliant shade of gold of Super Sonic and his quills stood up on end. Super Sonic was here once again and he was ready to put an end to Solaris's nefarious goal. Knuckles and Shade just stared at Super Sonic, awestruck by his appearance. The sight of a super form never ceased to amaze them no matter how many times they watched it happen. Super Sonic grinned confidently.

"Man I love it when I do this!" he laughed "Now then, it's time to send Solaris packing!"

He took Knuckles and Shade by the hands for he thought the echidnas would want to watch and see if he could stop Solaris despite them not knowing who Solaris was. Super Sonic warped away from Angel Island with a single Chaos Control, disappearing just as the Chaos Control around the Eye of Solaris wore off and the eye started moving around, trying to locate its prey. It saw nothing and disappeared into thin air, no longer needing to be around since Sonic was gone…

Meanwhile, Silver had flown over vast voids of darkness and the odd floating platform or two as Blaze directed him to where the Sol Emeralds had been stored. It still baffled Silver as to how Solaris just disposed of the Sol Emeralds as if they were garbage like this. Was Solaris really that thick in the head or was Solaris baiting them into a trap? In times like this, Silver knew that you had to risk everything. It was a matter of life and death and they had to risk certain death in order to save the lives of everybody in the world, or the multi-verse for that matter. Blaze pointed ahead of herself. Just ahead was another platform but Silver recognized the appearance. It looked like a chunk of Soleanna's town square had been take out of the city and was just floating around for no real reason. The Sol Emeralds were lying scattered on the platform as if they had merely been dropped there carelessly.

"They're on that platform." said Blaze "Take us in Silver."

Silver nodded and he flew towards the platform whilst holding on tightly to Blaze. Despite her fear of heights, Blaze had to admit that the feeling she felt in her stomach while riding on Silver was thrilling. Silver literally made the heights bearable due to how exciting it was to ride in his arms while he flew. Silver headed towards the platform and he swung his legs forward. He landed feet first on the platform and Blaze scampered over to the Sol Emeralds. She gathered all seven of them up and clutched them tightly to her body as if afraid they'd try and scamper away.

"Now I've got my emeralds back, we can put an end to Solaris's terror." declared Blaze "Not to mention I still have a score to settle with Mephiles, one of Solaris's halves…"

She still felt sore over the fact Mephiles had taken control of her and used her to find Iblis and therefore, be able to start all of this carnage and was looking forward to making Solaris pay for what Mephiles did.

"And of course we need to make sure that this isn't the event that ends Mobius too." reminded Silver "When you're ready Blaze, let's…"

He was cut off by a terrible sound that made Silver and Blaze clutch their eyes in anguish as their eardrums screamed in protest against the noise. Then an Eye of Solaris opened up, staring ominously at the two Mobians that had managed to find the Sol Emeralds despite the mess that Mobius was in at the moment. Silver and Blaze stared at the eye, wondering what it was. Then suddenly, the eye's powers began to activate and Silver and Blaze could feel themselves being pulled towards it.

"H-hey! That eye's pulling us towards it!" cried Silver.

"Solaris baited us!" cried Blaze, fighting against the pull of the eye "He tricked us into coming here so he could finish us off! Why didn't I see that at first?! It was so obvious it was a trap!" she complained.

"Well this trap ain't…catching us!" grunted Silver.

Activating his psychokinesis, he managed to tear up a chunk of the ground beneath his feet and he used his psychokinesis to lift himself off the ground. The Eye of Solaris tugged back but Silver's psychokinesis was strong enough to hold for the moment. He wouldn't hold on forever though and he could feel his grip weakening as he forced his psychokinesis to pull and keep himself away from the Eye of Solaris. With the eye focusing more on Silver, Blaze was able to break free from its pull. She summoned flames to her hands and she threw them at the eye. The flames didn't seem to do much harm to the Eye of Solaris unfortunately but they did break its concentration long enough for Silver to break free from its pull. He used his psychokinesis to lift Blaze up onto the chunk of ground he was standing on and Blaze held her hands out.

"We need to make the transformation now!" Blaze blurted frantically "We won't have a chance if more of those eye things show up!"

"I agree." said Silver "And I do NOT wanna find out what happens if the eye pulls us in!"

Silver and Blaze held hands and closed their eyes as the Sol Emeralds prepared to do their magic. The Sol Emeralds were alight with flames as they slowly circled around Silver and Blaze. Their speed increased until the Sol Emeralds became a blazing ring of fire that surrounded the two Mobians. The Eye of Solaris seemed to watch, helpless to stop the transformation as it unfolded before it. A huge wave of fire burst out from around Silver and Blaze as the transformation completed. The fire was so bright that the Eye of Solaris's pupil shrank back as if mesmerized by the fire and then the fire struck the eye. Due to the super power coming from the Sol Emeralds, the fire was enough to destroy the Eye of Solaris and make it disappear. Super Silver and Burning Blaze were unleashed once more. Super Silver's brilliant golden fur glower brilliantly and Burning Blaze's pink and red colour scheme was as fiery and hot as the feline herself.

"Oh yeah, Solaris is doomed now!" laughed Super Silver.

"Time to show Solaris what happens to those who try to end the world…" growled Burning Blaze, her face the embodiment of fury.

With a quick Sol Control, Super Silver and Burning Blaze eclipsed themselves within a tornado of fire and then disappeared into thin air, leaving nothing but the platform they had been standing on behind…

Nothing much had been going on since Sonic, Silver and Blaze had left. The Royal Fighters had just been standing on the grassy platform waiting for the Mobians to return whilst watching Solaris. It had been an agonizing wait but the wait was soon to be over for a couple of bright flashes appeared and Super Sonic, Super Silver and Burning Blaze appeared directly in front of them. This made the Royal Fighters cheer ecstatically for they knew that their only hope was here at last. Elise in particular seemed to be amazed at the sight of the Super Mobians before her.

"Actual super forms…I don't believe it!" she cried in amazement "I never thought I'd ever see a real super form!"

"Well Elise, you have now." said Super Sonic smugly "Now Solaris will be going down and wishing he'd never existed!"

"We'll have to see on that." said Elise gravely "We have to hope your powers are enough to stop that thing."

"Come on Elise, I've stopped many crazy things in the past." gloated Super Sonic "Invulnerable robots, a Martian clad in god-like armour and even an ACTUAL god. Solaris will be a cakewalk!"

"Well if you're so confident then stop preening about yourself and destroy Solaris!" bellowed a furious Dr. Eggman, shaking his arms wildly in annoyance.

"You didn't even have to say anything." snorted Super Sonic "Come on Silver and Blaze, let's send Solaris to his doom!"

"With pleasure." said Burning Blaze, cracking her knuckles.

The three super forms left the platform and flew up to the ball of light that was Solaris, looking down on them as if waiting to strike at any available opportunity. The Royal Fighters watched with baited breath as the fight was about to begin. Knuckles and Shade were the most nervous at the moment for they hadn't seen Solaris yet but they would do very shortly. Super Sonic, Super Silver and Burning Blaze levitated before the ball of light and Super Sonic pointed challengingly at it.

"Solaris! Come out and fight!" he growled.

"It's time to meet your doom Solaris!" declared Super Silver.

"You'll pay for using me as part of your rebirth!" snarled Burning Blaze.

Solaris seemed to take those comments as personal threats and challenges so he emerged from the ball of light he was hiding in. The giant beast with the sun-like symbol on his back and enormous arms loomed ominously before the Super Mobians with a look of death in its eyes and a thirst for destruction. Knuckles and Shade could only gape at the sight of such a creature. They could see why Solaris was something to be worried about now, he literally LOOKED like something to worry about. Solaris's surreal, terrifying appearance didn't faze Super Sonic in the slightest. After all, he had dealt with many creatures like this before. Solaris was just another doomsday monster to deal with.

"The present day…the here and now that you've stolen…time to take it back!" Super Sonic yelled with such authority and confidence in his voice.

Solaris seemed to have something to say about that for several Eyes of Solaris opened up in front of him and they fired giant, rocky, purple orbs towards the Super Mobians. Super Silver was on hand to catch them all with his psychokinesis. The orbs were surrounded by a teal glow and they halted just inches in front of the Super Mobians. Super Silver drew his arms back and he threw the spheres at Solaris. Solaris held up his left arm to shield himself from the attack. The spheres crashed and smashed against his arm but the chunk of armour around it seemed to hold. Burning Blaze was next to attack. She activated her Burning Fire Boost move and rocket towards Solaris. Solaris held up his arm left arm again to block the attack. Blaze ploughed straight into his arm and her attack seemed to do more damage than what Super Silver had done. Only superficial damage though for there were cracks spreading up the armour and nothing more. Solaris swatted Burning Blaze away from himself and fired a beam of light towards her. The beam of light seemed to come from his chest area. Burning Blaze dodged the attack and threw a hail fire of fireballs at Solaris. Once again, Solaris shielded himself with his arm and the fireballs all bombarded his arm in rapid succession. While Solaris was distracted, Super Sonic rocketed through the sky like a supersonic aircraft and he held his feet up. He stomp-kicked Solaris's arm, his attack seeming to cause more damage to the chunk of armour that shielded it. It looked like it was ready to break into pieces. Super Sonic and Burning Blaze decided to combine their efforts and break off the armour. Super Sonic boosted and Burning Blaze shot towards Solaris's arm. They both struck it together and broke the amour into pieces. Their attack didn't seem to hurt Solaris all that much though. Solaris merely lowered his arm as if nothing had happened. The Super Mobians had some idea on how to beat him. Maybe break through the armour and it'll expose him a little and make him more vulnerable to their attacks. Super Silver seemed uncertain though. For an super dimensional being, Solaris seemed a little easy to defeat so far. Was Solaris goading them into breaking his armour in the false hope that it'll weaken him? There was no way of being 100% certain at the moment, they'd have to keep trying and see what happens. Solaris fired more purple orbs at the Super Mobians but Super Silver caught them all with his psychokinesis. Solaris however had a back up plan. He fired a beam of light at Super Silver and struck him. He had been focusing only on the orbs so he couldn't possibly stop the beam of light too. Super Silver cried out as he was stricken by the light and he was thrown backwards. The watching Royal Fighters cringed, feeling the pain that Super Silver had received from that shot. Burning Blaze growled with rage and she set her hands alight. She boosted towards Solaris and spiralled around in a killer fire tornado that would surely do damage to even the hardiest of life forms. Solaris watched the deadly fire cat spiralling towards him and he held up his right arm to block the attack. Burning Blaze struck his arm and she struck it so hard that the armour on his right arm cracked under the power of her attack. She continued spinning despite already hitting his arm and because of this, she was doing more and more damage by the second. Chunks of armour were flying off as Burning Blaze's attack churned away at Solaris's arm. Solaris however swung his arm to the side and sent Burning Blaze hurling away. He just had enough time to raise his arm and block Super Sonic's attack but the damage had been done. Burning Blaze's terrific onslaught had damaged the armour enough for Super Sonic to break it with a mere super spin-dash. Solaris's right arm was now bare just like his left. Solaris didn't seem fazed by the attack at all. He just glowered at the Super Mobians as if they were annoying bugs waiting to be squashed. As far as Solaris was concerned, that's exactly what they were. Solaris held his arms out and fired a beam of light at Super Sonic. The light struck him and sent him spiralling through the vast void of darkness, wondering which way was up and which way was down. Super Silver and Burning Blaze flew up on either side of Solaris and they both pile-dived Solaris in either sides of his chest. Their attacks cracked it but Solaris otherwise seemed unhurt. Burning Blaze summoned a huge fireball to her hands and she threw it at Solaris, hitting him in the chest again. He withstood most of the impact and he fired another beam at Burning Blaze. Burning Blaze dodged and Burning Fire Boosted into Solaris's upper body again. This time, she did more damage.

"Silver, it seems if we attack him while he's launching that beam attack, we can damage him more!" called Burning Blaze.

"So he makes himself vulnerable when he attacks? That's fortuitous for us." Super Silver smirked delightedly at this news.

Super Sonic had heard what Burning Blaze had said and was equally as delighted to hear this. Super Sonic rushed towards Solaris and stomp-kicked him in the chest, hoping to provoke Solaris to fire a beam at him. His plan worked for Solaris did just that to make him back off. Now distracted, Super Silver and Burning Blaze double-teamed Solaris and did more damage to his chest. Super Sonic added more to the attack by spin-dashing Solaris in the head. Creepily enough, his head seemed to crack under the strain it had been subjected to as well. Being a super dimensional being, Super Sonic doubted destroying the head would finish off Solaris anyway so he didn't get excited. Solaris swatted the Super Mobians away from himself and fired another beam attack. Super Sonic used a Chaos Control to warp out of the way and he reappeared in front of Solaris as he was still firing. He spin-dashed the armour and shattered it into pieces. Solaris now had no armour anywhere on him and his head was gone. With the armour gone, one could see that there was a giant red sphere in the centre of Solaris's body but the Super Mobians didn't take much notice of it. Solaris didn't seem all that weakened and destroying the head hadn't fazed him at all. He was still active and ready to kill. The infuriating Super Mobians had broken his defences and he was going to make them pay for it. Solaris advanced on the Super Mobians and swatted them away with both arms. Being hit like Solaris was like being hit by a tank, two very big tanks that is. The Super Mobians were stricken and shaken by the blow but had they been normal at this moment, it would have been much worse for them. Solaris summoned more purple orbs from nowhere and he fired them towards the Super Mobians in hopes of adding more pain that he'd already caused to the Super Mobians. Super Silver caught them and he threw them back at Solaris. The orbs struck Solaris and Super Sonic and Burning Blaze wrapped it all up with a spin-dash and a fire boost each on Solaris's chest. The attacks seemed to bring Solaris down for the giant demigod began to fall down out of the sky and plummet an endless plummet down through the void it had created. Super Sonic was about to celebrate until something incredible happened. Solaris rose back up and seemed to have transformed himself in someway. Gone was the sun like symbol on its back and in its place protruded a huge structure that had enormous wings protruding from either side. The wings looked like bony structures with four blade like features protruding from them. The wings gave Solaris a rather graceful and deadly look both at the same time. The Super Mobians and the Royal Fighters were speechless with amazement. They hadn't seen that coming, not even Elise.

"Solaris…just changed himself!" gasped Super Sonic.

"We threw everything we've got at him and he's still not down!" exclaimed Burning Blaze.

"Is he invincible?!" cried Super Silver "Is it possible to stop him?!"

"I should hope so…" said Super Sonic grimly.

Over on the platform, Sally opened up Nicole and held her up so she could see Solaris. Nicole's avatar emitted from the handheld computer she occupied and she stared incredulously at Solaris.

"Nicole, can you detect anything that resembles a weakness on Solaris?" asked Sally.

"Analyzing…" Nicole murmured as she observed Solaris and took in whatever she could read about him. The process took mere seconds before she came to a conclusion. "There seems to be a concentrated dose of energy in the centre of Solaris's body. It is in the form of a red sphere occupying the centre of his body. It's his core and it must be his weak spot."

"I hope it is!" blurted Elise "We're all doomed otherwise!"

"Sonic, Silver, Blaze! Aim for the sphere in Solaris's body!" Sally called out to the Super Mobians "We think that's his weak spot!"

"Got it." said Super Sonic with a thumbs up "You heard the lady guys, aim for the core! It must be the only way to stop Solaris!"

"It better be or we will be finished…" muttered Burning Blaze.

Unfortunately for them, Solaris seemed to know what they were attempting to do. He knew full well his core was vulnerable so he was going to do whatever he could to make sure they never got near him. With his wings flapping, Solaris held his arms out and fired a plethora of beams at the Super Mobians. The beams seemed to strike from as many directions as possible and the Super Mobians found it near impossible to dodge them all. They were stricken by at least one of the beams and they cried out in agonizing pain. Even their super forms weren't enough to spare them the pain of Solaris's attacks. But being invulnerable, the Super Mobians were quick to recover and they all charged towards Solaris. Solaris fired more beams of light and struck them again. The Super Mobians were thrown backwards by the attacks. So far in fact they crashed into the platform that the Royal Fighters occupied and they all fell over as it shuddered under the impact. They managed to pick themselves up and they watched as the Super Mobians shook off the effects of Solaris's attack and they charged back towards him. Solaris fired showers of purple meteors towards the Super Mobians but Super Silver was on hand to catch them all with his psychokinesis. Using his psychokinesis, he forced all the meteors together into one big rocky ball that just looked like a giant meteor like what would usually fall out of space and crash into a planet. Super Silver threw the giant rock ball at Solaris and it struck him. Solaris had his arms up so the rock ball didn't do much harm to him. It did distract Solaris long enough for Super Sonic to take a shot at hitting his core. Solaris kept his arms raised until Super Sonic came within striking distance and he threw them out to the side. His arms struck Super Sonic and sent him spinning out of control through the air. Super Sonic was left with a dizzying sense of vertigo as he tried to work out which way was up. Burning Blaze hit Solaris in his upper body with a Burning Fire Boost but the attack didn't effect Solaris. He reached up and grabbed Burning Blaze. Super Silver tried to save her but Solaris lashed out and grabbed him as well. Super Silver used his psychokinesis to try and open Solaris's arm but it didn't work. He was too strong for him. Solaris held the two in front of himself and blasted Super Silver and Burning Blaze with a beam of light from his core. The attack felt much worse to them for they had been held directly in front of Solaris's core as he fired the attack. Solaris let go while he was still firing and the beam threw Burning Blaze and Super Silver into a random platform that seemed to belong to nothing in particular. As they hit the platform, they completely destroyed it. Unfortunately for Solaris, that gave Super Silver a weapon. He used his psychokinesis to grab the platform debris and he threw it at Solaris's core. Solaris held his arms up to block the platform debris from hitting him. That distracted Solaris long enough for Super Sonic to fly around from behind and charge into his core like an arrow through the heart. He struck the core and Solaris emitted a shrieking wailing sound that sounded more like it was coming from a ghost than a super-dimensional creature. That was definitely his weak spot. He hadn't shrieked in pain during any of the other onslaughts prior to this attack so the core was definitely his weak spot. Nicole's analysis had been correct on Solaris's weak point. Satisfied, Super Sonic boosted towards Solaris's core again but Solaris held both arms in front of himself to shield his vulnerable core. Super Sonic ricocheted off of Solaris's arms as he hit them. If Solaris had a face that could emote human expressions, he'd likely have been smirking at Super Sonic as he failed to hit his core. Super Sonic frowned and he charged towards Solaris again. Not a very good idea for Solaris struck him down with another beam of light. But Super Sonic's recklessness had been useful for a change for Burning Blaze had the perfect opportunity to throw fire into Solaris's exposed core. The core was more vulnerable when Solaris was attacking. Solaris winced as Burning Blaze struck his core. He turned to Burning Blaze and blasted her with a shower of meteors that sent Burning Blaze spiralling away. Super Silver rushed into avenge his girlfriend by flying directly towards Solaris's core. Solaris fired a beam at him but Super Silver flew out of the way and flew into his exposed core. Solaris groaned once again as his core as hit. He wouldn't be able to withstand this onslaught forever. He had to finish the pesky Mobians off once and for all before they destroyed his core. With his core gone, he'd be nothing. Solaris fired off nine beams coming from multiple directions at once. The super Mobians had a hard time dodging all the beams and at least one of them managed to snag them. Super Sonic charged towards Solaris's core while he was firing the beams but the beams criss-crossed so he couldn't get to the core without hitting the beams. Super Sonic panted, feeling his strength depleting after that latest attack. They couldn't keep getting hit by those beams otherwise they would end up running out of strength and their super forms would run out. Without their super forms, Solaris would win hands down. Super Sonic decided to be more elusive from now on. Solaris tried to hit Super Sonic again but he used a Chaos Control to warp out of the way of the beams. He reappeared underneath Solaris's attacks and he spin-dashed into his core once again. Solaris made an ominous noise that made him sound almost furious and infuriated with the Mobians. He sent a shower of orbs hurling towards the Super Mobians but Super Silver was on hand to stop them all again. Solaris didn't stop though, he continued firing the orbs until they became too much for Super Silver to focus on all of them at once and they struck him, causing him to let go of the others. The other orbs hit Burning Blaze and Super Sonic and Solaris added another beam of light to this already incredible onslaught of his. The three Super Mobians began to pant. Their power was running out and they could feel it. If they continued to get bombarded like this, they'd be finished. They had to end the battle now.

"Whew…Solaris sure isn't going easy on us…" puffed Super Sonic.

"He isn't indeed. I can feel…my power fading." grunted Super Silver.

"We need to hurry and finish him!" declared Burning Blaze "Let's try charging into him all at once!"

Super Sonic approved of the idea as did Super Silver so they tried it. All three of them boosted towards Solaris's core. Solaris attempted to stop their attack but the Super Mobians flew out of the way of his attacks and continued their pursuit. They all struck him in unison and made Solaris thunder in pain as he was stricken by all three Mobians. It wouldn't take long to finish him off. His core was getting weaker and weaker. A few more attack and he'd probably be did. Solaris decided to launch another attack and this time he combined his energy beams and his meteor attacks together. He fired energy beams and meteors all at once at the Super Mobians. No direction they flew in would allow them a way of evading the attacks. Even a Chaos Control wouldn't save them for they'd just reappear in the line of fire. The Super Mobians were bombarded relentlessly by the terrible attacks and as they were hit, they could feel their powers fading more and more by the minute. They all gasped and panted for breath the moment the attack ended. Their immortality was beginning to wear. They were feeling more pain then they should be feeling. One more attack like that and their super powers would deplete and burn out on them. It was a matter of life and death and death was threatening to eclipse them at any moment now. Solaris was about to launch another attack until Super Sonic had a great idea. Maybe he could use a Chaos Control on Solaris and freeze him into place! Super Sonic thrust his arms forward and activated his Chaos Control. It worked for time slowed to a stop around Solaris and the giant, dimensional creature could do nothing more but stand there, frozen completely in time. It wouldn't last long though and given they were weakening, Solaris would likely finish them off once he broke free so they had to be quick about it.

"Solaris is frozen! Let's hit his core and finish him off now!" yelled Super Sonic.

"Allow me the honours Sonic." said Burning Blaze coldly "After all, I have a score to settle with that monster."

"Be my guest Blaze." said Super Sonic, all too happy to allow Blaze the pleasure of eliminating Solaris.

Burning Blaze flew towards Solaris and given how Solaris couldn't move, she was free to unleash hell on him. Burning Blaze summoned fire to her hands and she let it all out in a huge explosion of flames that erupted from all around and fried Solaris's core. The Chaos Control was beginning to wear off but Burning Blaze had enough time to keep the attack going for long enough to finish Solaris off. With a bloodcurdling roar, Burning Blaze fire-boosted all around Solaris's core and unleashed a final burst of flames that wiped out the rest of Solaris's core. The Chaos Control had worn off at last but it was much too late for Solaris to do anything now. His core had been vaporized by the furious Burning Blaze and now Solaris was defeated. His lifeless body tumbled down and plummeted on an endless plummet into the empty void that he'd created. Burning Blaze just watched with a look of contempt on her face as Solaris's body disappeared forever.

"That was for controlling me and using me to awaken you." she snarled at the dead body.

"Whoo hoo! That was epic Blaze!" cheered Silver "You sure showed Solaris what for!"

"Thanks Silver." said Burning Blaze appreciatively "Although I wouldn't have done it without you and Sonic helping me. We all stopped Solaris together."

"And this is why I love teamwork." Super Sonic beamed happily.

Now Solaris was defeated at last, the world that Solaris had created disappeared and Mobius returned to its former glorious self. The dark void disappeared, bright blue sky returned and platforms became whole landscapes once again. Mobius was back to normal and Solaris had been defeated. Once again, the world had been saved from total destruction. Satisfied with the results and their victory over Solaris, Super Sonic, Super Silver and Burning Blaze powered down and returned to their normal forms. They lowered down onto the ground and were instantly greeted by a very ecstatic and grateful Princess Elise. She hugged each of them excitedly to which the three Mobians were all too happy to receive.

"OHMIGOSH! I can't believe you three amazing Mobians managed to stop Solaris! How can I ever thank you three for your hard work?!" she squealed delightedly.

"Don't sweat it princess" said Sonic casually "It's what we do. We stop doomsday monsters like this all the time."

"Well me and Blaze don't do it all the time since in our timeline, there are no doomsday monsters anymore but yeah, we're quite good at saving the world it seems." said Silver modestly.

"Silver, is the future any different?" asked Blaze suddenly "I'm sure after you turned super, your Super Warp Ring was recharged in the transformation."

"Let's try it…" said Silver, fishing out his Super Warp Ring.

He flicked it into the air and as expected, it opened a portal that led into the future of Mobius. His transformation to Super Silver had recharged the Super Warp Ring so now he could use it again. Silver peeked his head through the warp ring and to his dismay, nothing had changed. The future was still an apocalyptic wreck of a world, the same world he and Blaze had lived in all their lives. Solaris clearly had nothing to do with the end of Mobius at all. He would have been stopped regardless of their interventions it seemed. Silver took his head out of the warp ring and stomped the ground in fury.

"It's still a wreck!" he whined "Nothing's changed! Solaris wasn't responsible after all! Gyah! How many damn times are me and Blaze gonna try and save the future before it gets saved?!"

"I don't know…" muttered Blaze sadly, hugging Silver sympathetically "Well we have on theory debunked already. Onto the next one."

"Yeah." said Silver, not mentioning the other theory they had for it was about the Death Egg and they didn't want to catch Dr. Eggman's attention at all.

"What's the other theory you had behind Mobius's future being a wreck?" asked Sonic curiously.

"We'll explain later." said Silver tersely "For now, we just enjoy the fact that Solaris is gone for good and he'll never menace the world again."

"Indeed." said Dr. Eggman agreeably "And I have one more thing to do before I leave here. Dr. Finitevus, your punishment for your actions today is…"

He turned around and much to his utter obfuscation, Dr. Finitevus had vanished. The echidna had used a warp ring to warp away from Eggman the moment Solaris had been defeated. He was not at all interested in Eggman's punishment and decided now was the perfect time to ditch him. Eggman fumed angrily and he stomped a metal foot on the ground.

"Humph! The coward fled for it! He should have been a man and faced his punishment instead of running away!" growled Eggman.

"You're not the only one who wanted to lay the smack down on Finitevus for what he did." sighed Knuckles, disappointed he couldn't make Finitevus pay for the fact he'd caused Solaris to rise and nearly end the world.

"Well that Karma Houdini isn't worth it right now." muttered Sonic "We have more urgent things to deal with now. Such as finding out where more of Eggman's refuelling stations are." he added, glowering at Dr. Eggman.

"Well I'm not telling you where they are!" sneered Eggman mockingly "You'll have to find out yourself!"

With that said, he took to the skies with a blast of his rockets and he whooshed off into the distance. He was far too fast and too high for anybody to catch now so the Mobians couldn't do anything except watch Eggman leave SoleannaForest behind and head off back to base. Now Eggman was gone, Silver and Blaze stood forward and spoke.

"OK now Eggman's gone, here's the other theory we're testing out for the end of Mobius." Silver announced.

"A ship called the Death Egg launches and it fires a giant beam at the planet." explained Blaze "We think that it probably causes the wreck that is our future."

"So the Death Egg launches?" gasped Sonic, horrified to hear that their attempts were presumably in vain at this point "And it fires a beam at Mobius? Why would Egg-Brains do that? He wants to conquer the world, not destroy it!"

"Maybe he had a change of heart." said Silver with a shrug "Either way, we cannot let Eggman launch that ship. It might very well be the missing link me and Blaze are looking for."

"I hope it is." said Sonic with a shudder "I don't want Eggman to be the cause of Mobius's destruction. It would mean everything we've done for the world was all in vain and Eggman ultimately wins in the end."

"Indeed." said Sally gravely "We're going to have to destroy the rest of those stations and find out where the Death Egg's located. While the Egg Bunker might be obvious, I don't think Eggman would build the Death Egg in a place we're bound to look in. He's too smart for that."

"I agree Sally." said Sonic, taking her hands into his own for comfort "So we need to find out where the Death Egg is and stop it from launching. If it launches, then we stop it before it can fire a beam at the planet. Either way, we'll stop that thing for good."

"I hope so Sonic…" said Sally, hugging Sonic tightly as if tomorrow wasn't going to come.

Sonic patted Sally's back and nodded. The Death Egg seemed to be the missing link and Sonic would do whatever he could to make sure it didn't end the world. He loved Mobius and would do anything to protect it. He wasn't going to let a measly Eggman ship end it for him now…

Meanwhile, Finitevus had returned to his secret lab in Megapolis and was instantly greeted by a very concerned Scourge the Hedgehog, Fiona Fox and Ravage Bloodfang. They had seen the message he'd left for them earlier, saying he'd left for Soleanna and they had been eager to hear how things had been going for him in Soleanna.

"Yo doc! How'd it go?" asked Scourge "You've been gone for hours and then suddenly the world turned dark and surreal for some reason!"

"It went disastrous!" growled Finitevus "I unleashed Mephiles and the first thing he did was backstab me and fuse with another creature to become Solaris! Solaris caused the world to go dark for a minute and had it not been for Sonic, Silver and Blaze, we wouldn't be alive right now for Solaris intended to destroy everything."

"Huh, for once I'm glad my dweeby, goody-goody, two-shoes brother exists." muttered Scourge "He saved us all pretty much now."

"So I guess you won't be using this Mephiles guy for your grand plan?" asked Fiona curiously.

"Indeed not my child but I do have a rather interesting idea for the plan." mused Finitevus "If I could recreate the power of Solaris then we would be one invincible army and nobody would stand in our way." he grinned wickedly at the idea.

"And what kind of power does this "Solaris" have?" asked Ravage inquisitively.

"He's a super dimensional being Ravage." explained Finitevus "His power was greater than anything ever seen on Mobius. If I could add that to my plan than we could all become super dimensional beings and rule Mobius with an iron fist. Nobody would stop us with that kind of power…"

"Cute. Is it possible?" asked Fiona unsurely.

"I'm willing to do whatever I can to try and see if it is indeed possible." purred Finitevus "And given the plan involves a Chaos demigod and hordes of Chaos Emeralds to be artificially made…it might be possible."

"I hope so cause I'd LOVE to have the kind of power that Solaris guy had!" cried Scourge delightedly.

"Indeed so Scourge." Finitevus nodded agreeably "Also I have some other news to tell. Eggman was going to punish me for my blunder so I decided to cut my losses and ditch him already."

"You mean you've relinquished your ties with the portly man?" asked Ravage in surprise "I'm glad to hear it. Nobody should work with such a hideous creature such as him…"

"I loathed every minute I spent with the idiot that much is certain." Finitevus grumbled "Well no more do I have to suffer under his farce and play the loyal stooge to him. I'm free to formulate my plans and I'll actually have more time to develop them now. We will need to start building the Dark Armada's flagship soon though. Eggman will launch his Death Egg soon and The Nefarious will be the only safe haven we'll have from the blast."

"We'll get the materials we need for the ship immediately." said Fiona "Although it'll take us a while to build The Nefarious I'm afraid. We can't build ships extremely quickly and there's only four of us. We won't build the ship in time for the Death Egg's launch."

"Who says we're going to build The Nefarious from scratch?" purred Finitevus "No, we're going to swipe one of Eggman's ships behind his back and remould it to our liking. He has an Egg-Carrier stationary for incase he ever needs it in the Egg-Bunker and my Super Warp Ring will expand enough for us to steal the Egg-Carrier for Super Warp Rings have no limit to how far they can open. The lab we currently occupy has an underground hangar bay for it used to build ships and aircraft and launch them on occasion, the Egg-Carrier will reside there until its transformation to The Nefarious is complete."

"Wow…you're smart." gasped Fiona.

"Thank you dear." said Finitevus happily "One more thing. We'll need to formulate the armada itself before the Death Egg launches. I've completed my list of villains I want to recruit so I feel that we can start gathering up our lucky armada members once The Nefarious is ready to launch."

"That's very good Finitevus." said Ravage "And if I may add something, I've discovered that there's a Cyber-Husky residing in Megapolis."

"Cyber-Husky?" mused Finitevus "Explain Ravage."

"Being a canine myself, I of course will be familiar with the Cyber Huskies." explained Ravage "I heard many stories about them when I was a little boy and I heard that they were very tech-crazy and nefarious creatures. They believed that technology was the way of life everybody should have they tried to force everybody else to become cyborgs. Alas…they were met with near extinction in their attempts. They sadly began to die out and only one remains it seems. I looked them up while you was away since I thought they would be a good addition to the armada and I discovered there's only one left apparently. He lives in Megapolis and his name is Raphael."

"I see…" said Finitevus with interest "Find this Raphael and recruit him at once. You know what they say, the more the merrier." he added darkly.

"It shall be done." said Ravage delightedly "We could promise to restore his species and he'll be willing to join us instantly."

Ravage bowed to Finitevus and then he left the room to find Raphael the Cyber-Husky. As for Finitevus, he sat down on the computer and opened up a file so he could add his recent updates to it for the whole idea of having power like Solaris was going to be part of it. This single, solitary file was Finitevus's grand plan and was marked with the words "Operation: Enerjak Reborn"…

Solaris's mark has been left and time is ticking as the Death Egg and Finitevus's plans are nearing fruition. What will happen next? Will the Death Egg launch? What is Finitevus's plan? Will Sonic and friends find out before it's too late? Join in next time for Sonic, Sally, Silver and Blaze find themselves in a familiar world with some old "radical friends" of Silver and Blaze's...

Before that, tune into Tales from Mobius where Dark and Kiara find themselves at the mercy of this so-called "Cyber-Husky" that Ravage was talking about...

Other World Encounter Part 1

Story 185: Other World Encounter Part 1: Solbius

"Your sonic wave emitter should be repaired by now Raphael. Give it a test drive." said Dr. Finitevus as he put down his screwdriver and stood up from the worktable he was currently sitting at.

Next to him on another seat was the person he'd been using the screwdriver and indeed any other tool on the table on. A broad, muscular, cybernetic husky named Raphael. Scourge the Hedgehog, Fiona Fox and Ravage Bloodfang were in the corner of the laboratory and watching with interest. Raphael had been through a rough day yesterday. He'd managed to capture the Megapolis Royal Fighters Dark Cat the Leo-Lynx and Kiara the Cheetah but before he could turn them into cyborgs, Kiara had managed to get herself free and then had freed Dark as well. The resulting battle had ended with Raphael losing his hands and his sonic wave emitter being damaged and his entire camp had been destroyed. But Ravage Bloodfang had come across him and had taken him to Dr. Finitevus to have his hands and sonic wave emitter fixed as well as to join the Dark Armada itself*. Raphael liked the idea of the Dark Armada making his dream of making everybody a cyborg come true, something Ravage had promised him when recruiting him, so he was all too happy to join the Armada. Finitevus had been trilled to see that Ravage had been successful in recruiting Raphael. He believed that the bigger his armada, the better it would be. You could not have too many members after all. Finitevus had spent most of the morning fixing Raphael's missing and broken parts. Raphael had had to wait for Finitevus had been quite busy yesterday and now he was getting fixed at last. It hadn't taken Finitevus long at all, only the whole morning. This was mere child's play for the scientist. He'd had to fix far worse damages than missing hands and a broken sonic wave emitter. After screwing the cover of the sonic wave emitter back onto Raphael's forehead apparatus, Raphael was ready to test his fixed weapon to see if Finitevus had done a good job. Raphael aimed at a dummy that was standing nearby and he fired sonic waves at it. The dummy was mostly there for target practice or to do some training on since the Dark Armada needed to be in good shape for its eventual takeover. The dummy was blasted by the sonic waves coming from Raphael's forehead apparatus. The amount of force the dummy was hit by the sonic waves was impressive to watch for Finitevus. The dummy slammed against the wall and landed with a thud on the floor. Scourge, Fiona and Ravage were impressed. That weapon sure seemed useful and they were already picturing Raphael using it on their sworn enemies. It would be a tough weapon for Sonic and friends to beat that's for sure. Raphael was pleased to see that his sonic wave emitter was working again. And it was just as strong as before too. Finitevus had done a good job on fixing him up from the damages Kiara had done to him. Now he could get his revenge on her and her boyfriend Dark Cat. Raphael turned to Finitevus with an approving smile on his gruff face. Finitevus returned the smile with an evil smile of his own. It seemed evil smiles were contagious in this armada. One of them smiles, they all smile.

"This is great Finitevus! You fixed it up brilliantly!" cried Raphael delightedly "My sonic wave emitter and my new hands work perfectly!"

"I'm so glad you approve of my repair work Raphael." purred Finitevus smoothly, his voice almost kind sounding but still not quite there yet.

"You're more welcome then you give yourself credit for doc." beamed Raphael "Now if you'll excuse me, I have two disgusting kitties to slaughter!"

"Patience Raphael, you shall get your revenge on the leo-lynx and his cheetah girl sooner or later." Finitevus held up his hands hastily "There are many monumental things we still have to get on with in this armada before we can strike."

"Like what?" asked Raphael impatiently "What's this armada about anyway?"

"It's about satisfying the villains of the world whilst striking back on the heroes that dare to defend it from our schemes." explained Finitevus "This world is wild and corrupt like an experiment gone wrong and all we want to do is improve it. Scourge and Fiona wish to bring their idea of law and order to Mobius and Ravage himself wishes for the world to be a peaceful place. I myself just wish to make myself all powerful so that I have the power to perfect this tainted world. And then there's you Raphael. You want to make the Mobian race stronger and more perfect by making us all cyborgs. We all have good intentions in mind between us and our efforts are met with resistance and idiocy. The Dark Armada seeks to right all those wrongs but we're not ready to show our hand yet. We need to lay low and keep anything about us to ourselves until the armada is formulated."

"I see." said Raphael with a nod "And when will the armada be formulated? I want my revenge on Dark and Kiara NOW!"

"Dude, don't yell at the master planner or I'll break your jaws!" snarled Scourge "You'll get your revenge when Finitevus is ready! I'm as impatient as you are but I've come to grips with this long waiting now so I suggest you do the same."

"I agree with my handsome hunk Raph, please be patient." said Fiona grimly "We'll be ready when Finitevus deems the time to be right. We can't rush this or the Dark Armada will lose the element of surprise."

"Fine." muttered Raphael tersely "I guess I can wait. Waiting is good, it gets us ready for action when the time is right."

"Indeed." said Finitevus with a nod of his head "We won't be long either, the Dark Armada will make its move once The Nefarious is completed. It'll take a week or maybe longer to get the new additions fitted into the Egg Carrier that I managed to steal from Dr. Eggman behind his back and there's also the purpose of remoulding the ship's appearance to our liking. Once The Nefarious is ready, we'll take flight and then recruit the other villains I wish to have in our armada."

"And who are they then?" asked Raphael with interest.

"A fine selection of villains who will fit our armada's goals and interests indeed." crooned Finitevus delightedly "I've researched on many notorious criminals from around Mobius and have made a list on who to recruit. The chosen members will be…"

He paused as he fished out the list of villains he wanted to recruit for the Dark Armada. The list was merely a small scrap of paper that Finitevus had scribbled the names on so he could remind himself on who he was going to recruit without needing to keep looking at his file on the computer. Finitevus read the list aloud.

"1: Team Diamond, members Lennox Meers the Meerkat, Alistair Drakken the Bat and Owen Pounder the Rabbit. Roxy the Raccoon was a member but has gone rogue. They are a team of treasure hunters and are very brutal in their pursuits of treasures and priceless artefacts. Lennox is a good shot, Owen is very strong and powerful, Alistair is an aerial ace and Roxy was a good infiltrator who's charm and beauty may prove useful in making the men hesitate. The boys may want to join the armada whereas the girl will have to be forced into joining us. Whereabouts unknown.

2: Lord Sycorax. He is an anarchistic crocodile who's sole purpose is to make the world free of policy, democracy and governments. We'll need to convince him that the Dark Armada wishes to make a kind of government that he can enjoy. Was a leader of a group of reptiles but ended up losing them to a time rift and only has two sidekicks on his side, Romeo the Chameleon and Vladek the Frill-Necked Lizard. All currently incarcerated.

3: Zira the Ruthless. Was presumably treated badly as a child in Chun-Nan and now wants to conquer the country. Is very brutal in her approach to power. Will snap necks and knows a vicious style of kung-fu. Her kung-fu abilities will be a boon to the heroes and a blessing to the armada. She'll very likely join us if it means conquering Chun-Nan. Currently incarcerated.

4: Conquering Storm and the Raiju Clan. This clan is a clan of strict discipline, order and ruthlessness. Once conquered Chun-Nan and oppressed its emperor and even managed to defeat its princess in battle. Will likely join the armada for reasons of revenge and dominance over Chun-Nan. Their large numbers and great skill will benefit the armada greatly, as well as increase numbers. May not get along well with Zira unfortunately given their past rivalry with each other. I'll fix that problem of course. Conquering Storm and all her clan members are currently incarcerated.

5: Cutthroat Jim. A vicious pirate with a bloodthirsty nature and a keen eye for treasure. May not be all that useful but it never hurts to have an extra member. His sword skills and vicious fighting style will be of use to us in the battlefield. His pirate crew could also add to our numbers. Currently marooned on an island and has been so for a year. May have to proceed with caution for he could be insane or worse."

"That sounds like an interesting bunch of baddies." mused Raphael in amazement "And you sure did research deeply on them all didn't you? You know them all as if you've just met them all!"

"That's Dr. Brainy-Beyond-Belief for you Raph, he's insanely good at what he does." chuckled Fiona with a chuckle that sounded more dry and forced than one of good humour.

"So once we've got your ship ready to fly, we'll track down these villains, recruit em, and then put our plans into action?" asked Raphael "Is that it?"

"Correct Raphael, that's exactly what the plan is." said Finitevus darkly "But first, we need to get rid of Dr. Eggman, the single cursed being that taints Mobius more than anything else. Fiona managed to steal the plans to his upcoming vessel, the Death Egg, and we plan to sneak onboard the ship and sabotage its power supply. It'll bring Eggman down to the ground and kill him at long last. With him gone, we focus on Sonic the Hedgehog and his friends and destroy them one at a time. Then we shall get what we want."

"Sounds good to me." said Raphael gleefully "So are we doing anything now?"

"Yes." said Finitevus "Sonic the Hedgehog and his friends are taking out refuelling stations that Dr. Eggman is building for the Death Egg. They are fake of course and he doesn't need them. But they'll undeniably get closer to Dr. Eggman and then find the Death Egg and destroy it, eliminating our chance to kill him once and for all. The heroes will just prolong the war instead of ending it."

"So what are we gonna do about that?" asked Scourge "Cut our losses and strike now?"

"Absolutely not." spat Finitevus crossly "That illogical action could compromise our plans gravely. No, we slow down Sonic the Hedgehog and his friends. If we can delay them for at least a week then the Death Egg will near or reach completion and then take flight. At the same time, The Nefarious will be ready to launch and we can take down Dr. Eggman. And because of Raphael's prodigious technology, I know how we'll slow down Sonic and his friends."

"My technology? What do you man doc?" asked Raphael curiously.

"You can create portals." explained Finitevus "You said so yourself earlier. You can create a portal and send Sonic and anyone with him to another place. Can you create portals to other worlds?"

"Oh I can indeed." Raphael grinned with pride as he announced this "I travelled around the multi-verse the other year, testing the capabilities of my portal creating ability. I know every single world in the multi-verse. I know a good place to send this "Sonic the Hedgehog" person. It's a world called "Solbius". It's mostly water there and has little land. That'll keep him busy and I doubt that Solbius has a way off the world so he might be stuck there permanently."

"In that case Raphael, next time Sonic decides to snoop on Dr. Eggman, you can send him to this "Solbius" world and we'll leave him there until he lives his lifespan…" purred Finitevus darkly, his face a menacing smirk that could give even the world's ugliest, scariest spider nightmares.

It appeared that Finitevus had a plan and Sonic would never know what hit him when he unleashed it…

Meanwhile in the Egg-Bunker, a Super WarpRing opened up, throwing a bright golden gleam around the empty room that it had appeared in. Out of the warp ring appeared first a foot that was covered by a white sock and an accompanying red and white sneaker with a golden buckle on one side. As the foot stepped out of the warp ring, the body that the foot belong to emerged from out the warp ring along with the foot. Sonic the Hedgehog emerged completely from within the warp ring and he looked around the Egg-Bunker. His senses were all alert and he had his eyes open and focused on the scenery around him. He was taking part in a raiding mission that had been contrived by Queen Sally Acorn, New Mobotropolis's ruler and Sonic's girlfriend. They had plotted to sneak in the Egg-Bunker and find out the locations of the rest of the Death Egg refuelling stations, as well as find where the Death Egg itself was although they sincerely doubted that would be the case since Eggman likely wouldn't have information like that stored somewhere. The Death Egg was his next big scheme and he'd be likely trying everything in his power to make sure that it went off without a hitch. thus it was unlikely he'd have the Death Egg's location stored anywhere for them to find. It was still worth a try though. Finding the Death Egg was a paramount task at this moment in time, especially since Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat were theorizing that the launch of the Death Egg had something to do with Mobius's doom, something they had been trying endlessly to prevent since the day Sonic had first met them. Speaking of Silver and Blaze, they were with Sonic too. As Sonic checked his surroundings and realized that the coast was clear, he stuck his arm through the still open warp ring and curled his fingers into his palm. That was the signal: the coast is clear. You can come through now. Silver and Blaze traversed through the warp ring and into the Egg-Bunker. The warp ring had opened up from inside Royal HQ so it was merely a hop from hero headquarters to villain headquarters. A very dangerous hop indeed. Sonic, Silver and Blaze had one more person coming through and then the mission could begin. And that was the brain that had come up with the heist in the first place, Sally Acorn herself. She came through the warp ring with Nicole, a Mobian-turned-computer-programme, in her hand. Nicole had been vital for the mission for out of the four, only she had ever been in the Egg-Bunker. Twice in fact, once during the Martian invasion and the second when Tails tried to get a new body for her. Thus, Nicole knew where the warp ring should open up and had shown Sally a visual of the room they were in so she could visualize it in her head and be able to warp into the bunker. As for the room the Mobians were in, it was the room that Eggman had taken Nicole into when he'd attempted to turn her evil. Nicole remembered it all too well, the low ceiling and the metal bed that the automaton body she'd been placed in had been restrained to as Eggman did his work. Thank goodness it wouldn't happen again. The warp ring closed up behind Sally as she exited from it and Silver grabbed it. Given it was his warp ring, he held onto it for the time being, twirling it casually around his finger.

"OK we're in." whispered Silver "Now what?"

"As you remember, we have the other team members on standby waiting to cause a distraction that will get Eggman out of the bunker." Sally whispered back "I'll just let Sora know that we're in and we can begin the hacking."

"Eggman really will feel stupid when he realizes that his computer's been hacked in while he's been up top fighting." snickered Sonic "And it won't matter if he leaves anybody on guard while he's away since we'll just smash them all to pieces."

"You make it sound like Eggman's never built a good machine yet." murmured Blaze grimly "One has to wonder how he came to antagonize Mobius for so long."

"Indeed." said Sonic with a shrug "He only built a couple of good machines in all the while he's been on Mobius and that's it. Even then, they stop being good once he uses them over and over. I mean Metal Sonic's not threatening anymore."

It was true. Metal Sonic had once been Eggman's greatest creation and probably the only robot Eggman had ever made that had managed to take over the world and even then, Tails had erased what Metal Sonic had done to Mobius with Eggman's Egg-Timer. Nowadays, Metal Sonic seemed to just be thrown out for the heroes to destroy on occasion. The latest time Metal Sonic had been used was during Operation: Double Trouble and he had been destroyed by Knuckles and Shade the Echidnas and Team Chaotix. Eggman had yet to build a good robot again these days. It was no wonder he was losing this war and was seen more as a nuisance than a threat pretty much by all the Royal Fighters.

"And yet Silver and Blaze seem convinced that his Death Egg is what causes the end of the world." mused Sally "I still don't believe it though. Eggman wants to conquer the world, not destroy it."

"Maybe something goes wrong with the Death Egg and it devastates Mobius by accident?" suggested Silver "Or maybe Eggman has a sudden change of heart and ends up wanting to destroy the world instead. We don't know, me and Blaze are just going from what we've learnt from history books and any information we can find."

"And hopefully you've found what you were looking for." said Sonic brightly "It still makes my skin shudder to think Mobius ends at some point and 200 years later, life's beginning to wipe out."

"The feeling is mutual Sonic." said Sally gravely, her face matching the tone of her voice.

Sally loved her life on Mobius and the life that she and her Royal Fighters lived and swore to protect. Just thinking about the world ending felt like a severe undermining of their efforts and she hoped dearly that they could prevent it from happening. For now, she pushed her thoughts aside and focused on the mission at hand. She had staged this heist perfectly. She, Sonic, Silver and Blaze were the pawns that were to make the first move in this game and up above the Egg-Bunker, the rest of the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters were on standby like the other pieces of the chessboard waiting to be moved along the board, waiting to distract Eggman and give Sally the chance to get what they came for. Tails was equipped with an earpiece and Sally would use Nicole to call him once she and her team were inside. She pressed a button on Nicole's keypad and waited as Nicole's screen lit up with the words "connecting to earpiece device". Nicole connected and Tails answered the call.

"Hello, this is Tails. You ready Sally?" his voice emitted from Nicole's speaker and thankfully, had been set to quiet so his voice came out more like a whisper in somebody's ear as he spoke.

"We're inside Tails, begin the distraction." ordered Sally.

"Roger that." said Tails happily.

Up on the surface above the Egg-Bunker, Tails switched off his earpiece and he turned to the other Royal Fighters. They were all here, Amy Rose, Cosmo the Seedrian, Cream the Rabbit, Knuckles the Echidna, Shade the Echidna, Wilson the Dog, Mandy Mouse, Geoffrey St. John, Bunnie Rabbot, Ruben the Water Panther, Sora Prower, Espio the Chameleon, Vector the Crocodile and Charmy Bee. They had been waiting patiently for Tails to tell them that it was OK to set off the distraction and get Eggman out of the bunker so Sonic, Sally, Silver and Blaze could do their part. The distraction was a simple bomb that they were going to detonate. The explosion would catch Eggman's attention and bring him out of the bunker and up to the surface. The bomb would be powerful but not too powerful. They didn't want to bring the roof down on Sonic's team's heads or that would jeopardize everything and make the mission all for naught. Tails switched on the bomb, which was a huge rugby ball-shaped device with a single button that was meant to activate it. Tails lay the bomb down on its side and he signalled for everybody to stand well back. The bomb would send a lot of debris flying and they didn't want to get hit by any of it. The Royal Fighters all ran a good distance away from the bomb and waited for it to explode. Ten seconds passed and the bomb exploded in a terrific ball of fire and smoke. Despite its size, the bomb was powerful enough to make the earth tremble beneath the Royal Fighter's feet and the noise was ear-splittingly loud, surprising for a bomb so small. Tails thought for one horrid, fur shivering moment that the bomb was too powerful and he'd end up causing the roof of the Egg-Bunker to cave in. But the bomb didn't do as much damage as he thought it would do. It only caused a small crater no bigger than a standard living room in a standard house. The Egg-Bunker would hold, luckily for them. The terrific explosion had definitely done the job it was supposed to do though, catch Dr. Eggman's attention. He was in the main computer room and upon hearing the explosion, he'd instantly reacted.

"What the Sam Hill was that?!" blurted Eggman frantically "Katherine, Egg-Pawns, with me up to the surface now! You two, stand guard while I'm out!" Eggman pointed to a couple of Egg-Pawns armed with lances and shields as he gave the order.

The two Egg-Pawns nodded eagerly, happy to be given guard-duties for the time being. They soon would end up wishing that they hadn't been given that task. Dr. Eggman, his servant bot Katherine, and a fleet of Egg-Pawns all rushed out of the room to find out what had caused that tremble above their heads. Eggman already assumed it was Royal Fighter work but he still needed to know how they did it so he could stop them doing it again. The roof could have easily crumbled down on top of him and ruin his Egg-Bunker, the only base he had left now. The computer room was now empty save for the two Egg-Pawns that had been placed on guard. Eggman would be outside fighting the Royal Fighters along with his servant bot and Egg-Pawns. The plan had worked and now it was time for Phase 2 of the plan. The Egg-Pawns stood to attention as if they were the Queen's bodyguards outside of Buckingham Palace standing guard and ensuring her Majesty's safety. Sonic could only snicker at their attempts of looking imposing. Egg-Pawns were probably the worst guards anybody could have. Silver just reached out a hand and he grabbed the Egg-Pawns with his psychokinesis. The Egg-Pawns froze as a teal glow surrounded them. They felt like something had just grabbed them but they couldn't see any hands anywhere, suggesting they were being grabbed by invisible hands or by the air itself. Silver clenched his fist, his psychic powers pressing onto the Egg-Pawns and squashing them flat like a soda can being crushed in the hand of its purchaser. The two crushed Egg-Pawns fell down onto the floor as Silver released them. They were of no use to anyone anymore. Now the cost was clear, Sonic, Sally, Silver and Blaze ran into the room. Sally's first intention was to run over to the main computer and plug Nicole into it.

"OK Nicole, do your stuff." said Sally under her breath.

"Easily done Sally." crowed Nicole "Eggman's yet to build something I can't hack in to."

"How fortuitous." Blaze said quietly.

The room fell silent as Nicole began to hack into Dr. Eggman's main computer and search for the files she absolutely needed to find. Nicole had been right to boast about how Eggman was yet to build something she couldn't hack into for she managed to break the codes of the main computer and access its data files in mere seconds. It helped how she was an A.I. that had been put into a heavily advanced handheld computer courtesy of General Rakutan on Mobius 3000. Finitevus may have destroyed her original handheld but the new handheld computer she resided in was functional enough and Nicole was still as advanced as before. Nicole managed to find what she was looking for and she downloaded the information into her handheld computer base. The process had taken one whole precious minute. Now Nicole had finished, Sally unplugged her from the main computer.

"That was quick." she said with a smile "So did you find out where the remaining stations are?"

"I have." said Nicole delightedly "There is one in Adabat, one near the city of Megapolis, one in the Golden Hive Colony, one in the Lost Jungle and one in Chun-Nan. We will have to divide our forces in order to bring them all down at once. And we'll have to start soon, these towers are presumably nearing completion."

"That is something indeed." murmured Sally dryly, a little uneasy about how many refuelling stations were left to destroy and the fact they were nearing completion "And what about the Death Egg? Did you find the location of the Death Egg as well?"

"I'm afraid not Sally." said Nicole sadly, a sad face emoticon appearing on the screen as she spoke "Dr. Eggman seems to want to keep the Death Egg so secret that its whereabouts aren't stored on the main computers. It's like he knew we'd try and find out where the Death Egg is."

"Very clever of him if that's the case and very unusual of him to be so clever." mused Sally "Eggman's sure stepping up his A-Game isn't he?"

"Well give him credit, he is desperate to beat us and take over Mobius is he not?" noted Sonic "So he'll do whatever he can to make sure he wins. Even so, we'll still beat him."

"We've been on top of him for months now, he's as good as beaten anyway." crowed Sally "And yet Silver and Blaze seem to think he causes the end of the world and is the reason their future is a wreck..."

"They've given us a head start by warning us about this so that won't happen...hopefully." said Sonic, looking unsure of what he'd just said.

"With any luck, the last few refuelling stations might give us a clue on the whereabouts of the Death Egg." suggested Sally "And once we find it, we destroy it. It can't end Mobius if it's destroyed after all."

"If we find the Death Egg, I'd like to be the one to destroy it." growled Blaze fiercely, clenching her fists with rage "The very thought of that thing being responsible for me and Silver living in a dystopian world makes my skin crawl!"

"Calm down Blaze, we'll get our chance soon enough." said Silver "Now then, we got what we came for, let's get outta here."

"Tails, this is Sally, mission accomplished." said Sally, switching Nicole's communicator on and speaking into Nicole's speaker so she could talk to Tails "Meet us back a Royal HQ immediately."

"Got it Sally." replied Tails.

Sally could hear bullets spraying and missiles firing in the background. It seemed Eggman was in a bad mood right now. Not that he could help it given how much of a nuisance she and her Royal Fighters were for him. He'd be furious to see that they'd successfully managed to infiltrate the Egg-Bunker and steal valuable information that they would use to bring down the Death Egg and foil his plans once again. Whatever his plans with the Death Egg were, Sally didn't care. She just wanted it destroyed and never to see the light of day. The Mobians turned away from the main computer and Silver prepared to activate his Super Warp Ring. But just was he flicked it up, a tunnel of sonic waves suddenly blasted him, Sonic, Sally and Blaze and slammed them against the main computer, breaking it and crushing many of its buttons and controls. Silver had dropped his Super Warp Ring the moment he'd been hit. The four collapsed onto the floor, not knowing what had hit them. They picked themselves up off the floor only to see that a portal had opened up in front of them. They stared at the portal in wonderment. It was definitely something they hadn't seen before and they wondered where it had come from. Before they could find out, something rushed around behind them and pushed them into the portal with another blast of sonic waves. Sonic, Sally, Silver and Blaze disappeared into the portal as they were pushed into it. The portal closed up behind them and the attacker grinned delightedly, pleased that the plan had worked so well.

"Ha! The four twerps didn't know what hit em!" crowed Raphael as he scooped up Silver's Super Warp Ring "And they won't be getting back anytime soon now they've lost their warp ring."

He laughed to himself and he walked into the room where the Royal Fighters had arrived in earlier. He wasn't the only one in the room though, Dr. Finitevus was there too. He had warped Raphael into the room with a warp ring of his own since he knew the Egg-Bunker inside and out. Once he'd warped Raphael into the Egg-Bunker, Raphael carried out the plan as perfectly as possible. Pleased to see Raphael had succeeded, Finitevus flicked his warp ring into the air and opened up a portal back to the lab he and the Dark Armada resided in.

"Masterfully executed if I do say so myself Raphael." purred Finitevus delightedly "You sent Sonic, Sally, Silver and Blaze all at once into Solbius. And you managed to make Silver lose his warp ring, even better. They'll never get back now."

"Indeed not." replied Raphael with a tone of triumph in his voice "So you say this Sonic guy's a big threat? Didn't seem so tough to me."

"That's because you caught him by surprise." growled Finitevus, jabbing Raphael in the chest sharply with a bandaged finger that was so heavy on Raphael that Finitevus may as well have pulled a knife on him "Do not underestimate Sonic. Had you fought him properly, you would be amazed at how powerful he can be and a battle with him would be a battle you'd like to forget."

"Good thing we got rid of him eh?" said Raphael, rubbing the back of his head uneasily "He'll not stop the armada now he's gone forever."

"Indeed so Raphael." said Finitevus agreeably "Come now, The Nefarious needs preparing for launch."

Raphael nodded and he followed Finitevus through the warp ring. The warp ring vanished as Finitevus and Raphael stepped through it, leaving the Egg-Bunker exactly as it was. Minus the destroyed main computer to which Dr. Eggman would not be pleased about at all...

Meanwhile, the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters had returned home from Megapolis and had entered Royal HQ. They all gathered together into the lab to see what Sonic, Sally, Silver and Blaze had in store for them all. They had played their part of the plan beautifully. Eggman had been a tough opponent for all of them given his rather heavily armoured and well-armed life-support mech suit but they had all made it out in one piece and now they were excitedly waiting to see if Sally's team had found exactly what they'd broken into the Egg-Bunker for. But upon arriving back at Royal HQ and entering the lab, it was clear that something was deathly wrong. Sally had told the others to meet her back at Royal HQ. She was not here. Nor was Sonic, Silver or Blaze. Just to be double-sure, Tails ran out of the lab and did a thorough search through of the entire headquarters. They could have warped into any particular room of Royal HQ although it did strike Tails as odd since they wouldn't have any reason not to warp into the lab as that was Royal HQ's most important room. A few minutes later, Tails returned to the lab with a face that said everything that needed to be said without any words needing to be spoken whatsoever. The others could tell what he was going to say before he even opened his mouth.

"They're not in any of the other rooms are they?" asked Cosmo, her voice worried and quivering.

"I'm afraid not Cosmo." gasped Tails, his face ashen with fear "Sonic's team hasn't come back yet it seems. They're not in Royal HQ at all."

"But why wouldn't they be back yet?" asked Knuckles curiously "I mean, you told us that Sally told you to meet her team back here. Why would they not be back yet? Given Silver has a warp ring, Sally and the boys should have got home before us!"

"I agree with the red dude, this isn't right." said Mandy with a tight edge to her voice "They should be back here but they're not. And when Sally said "Back at Royal HQ", she means "Back at HQ". Something must have happened to them."

"Tails, try contacting them." suggested Cosmo "See if they answer at all."

Tails did so. He activated his ear piece and he spoke loud and clear so Sally would hear him.

"Sally? Sally? This is Tails. Where are you? Over." he asked.

There was no reply.

"Sally please respond. Where are you?" Tails asked again.

There was still no reply. The silence that responded to Tails's question made the fox's blood run colder than a polar ice cap. He almost felt like he wanted to collapse in shock. Cosmo put an arm around her lover's arm and looked into his fear-filled eyes worriedly.

"They're not responding are they?" she asked nervously.

"I'm afraid not Cosmo." whispered Tails hoarsely "I've received no response of any kind. Only silence."

Cosmo put her free hand to her mouth in horror.

"No…you don't…think…" she gasped, unable to speak properly.

"Did Eggman get them?" asked Bunnie worriedly "Or did somethin' else happen to them?"

"I dunno but we're gonna have to find them." declared Tails "We go back to the Egg-Bunker and see if Eggman's captured them. If he hasn't then we'll have to assume that something worse might have happened to them. I hope they're alive, I can't bear to think of my best friend being dead…"

It was particularly horrible for Tails to think about after his traumatizing experience on Mobius Beta during the now already legendary multi-verse crisis last month. He had watched his Mobius Beta counterpart die in front of his eyes and the experience had left him quite paranoid about anything death related, especially when it concerned any of his friends. The very thought of Sonic, Sally, Silver and Blaze dead was enough to make Tails shiver like a boy trapped in a freezer. He'd been so traumatized by the experience that the sound of his own breathing at night had become a comfort to him.

"I'm sure they're still alive Tails, no need to worry about them being dead." said Wilson softly "I agree with your idea, we should go back to the Egg-Bunker and see if we can find out what happened to the four."

"Let's get started and to make things easier for us, I say we should bring a Chaos Emerald with us so we can use a Chaos Control to freeze time on the Egg-Bunker." suggested Tails "With time frozen, Eggman won't slow us down."

"You better make sure you don't lose it Tails or you'll be the one to retrieve it." warned Knuckles firmly.

"I won't lose it Knuckles." Tails reassured him hastily "I promise you that. Now then, let's get a Chaos Emerald and start searching the Egg-Bunker for Sonic, Sally, Silver and Blaze."

Without another word, the Royal Fighters left Royal HQ to do just that. It was going to be a tense moment for them all, finding out if their friends were dead or alive at this point in time. Tails sincerely hoped with all his heart that it was the former…

Meanwhile, a portal opened up in a bright blue, sunny sky that looked down gleefully upon a glorious, golden beach complete with dry, fine sand and a lapping blue ocean that threw waves at the shore every so often. Out of the portal spilled Sonic, Sally, Silver and Blaze. To them it felt like being inside a can of baked beans and then poured into the hot pan. The surface they landed on was considerably softer and much better than a hot pan though. The four Mobians crashed down onto the sand with a hard thump that sprayed grains of sand everywhere. Sonic and Silver had landed on their backs whereas Sally and Blaze had unfortunately landed on their stomachs, their faces getting covered in sand and the grains blinding them momentarily. Sally even got some in her mouth and she coughed and spluttered violently to get the sand out. She brushed sand out of her fur and vigorously wiped her tongue on the palm of her hand to get the sand off of it. Blaze had had her mouth closed so she didn't get any in her mouth, only all over her face. She couldn't open her eyes for a minute though for she'd gotten a bit of a sand in them and she rubbed at them furiously. Sonic and Silver sat up and crawled over to their respective girlfriends to help them. Sonic brushed sand off of Sally's face and hair and Silver helped Blaze to get sand out of her face. When the four had finally managed to get all of the sand out of their fur, Sally turned to Sonic.

"What the heck was that?" she croaked, her voice a little strained and sore due to the sand getting in her mouth.

"I dunno." said Sonic with a helpless shrug of his shoulders "Some sonic wave thingy hit us and knocked us through a portal. I have no idea what caused the portal though, I mean time rifts are a thing of the past now."

"Unless of course somebody else is able to make time rifts." said Silver tersely "But I don't think that was a time rift. I'm not sure what the portal was but I'm sure it wasn't a time rift."

"I hope it wasn't." muttered Sonic, helping Sally up to her feet "They were more trouble than they were worth."

"You can say that again handsome." murmured Sally "So…where are we?" her voice trailed as she took sight of the bright sunny sky and the sparkling blue ocean that lapped at the shore of the sand they had landed on.

"Some kind of beach I suppose." said Sonic, looking around and drinking in the glorious, sunny scene that lay out before him.

"I think I know this beach…" mused Blaze as she observed the sand beneath her feet and sniffed at the air that hung around them "It feels like I've been here before…maybe during the near end of the multi-verse."

"I think I know this beach too." mused Silver "The buildings in the distance strike me as familiar and I haven't felt this much heat since we left Solbius." he added as he took note of the nearby town that stood outside of the beach and the fact that the weather was swelteringly hot all of the sudden.

"Nor I." agreed Blaze, nodding slowly as it dawned on her that she knew where they were "Sonic, Sally…we have landed on the alternate world known as Solbius."

"You sure? Positive about that?" asked Sonic.

"Definitely." said Blaze plainly "Believe me, this is Solbius. We're on Sol Beach, the very beach that we got off of the Ocean Tornado at after me and Silver helped the world's local heroes defeat Captain Metal."

"I believe you." said Sally "I must say…this place is beautiful. And it looks so peaceful too. Reminds me of the times before Eggman if I say so myself."

Sally had already fallen in love with the beautiful scenery around her. She'd probably want to live here if she didn't have a reason to return to Mobius Prime.

"It is beautiful indeed." said Sonic with an approving smile on his face as he gently lifted his foot and allowed the sand around his sneakers to trail down the sides like water in a waterfall "Maybe on a slow day, we could come here for a day off or two. For now though, we need to get back home. The others will be worried sick about us." his tone shifted almost as fast as he could run.

"Oh yes!" cried Sally in alarm "The Royal Fighters were to meet us back at Royal HQ! We need to get back there now or they'll think we've disappeared or something!"

"One thing I have to wonder is why somebody sent us to Solbius in particular?" asked Silver curiously "I mean, was somebody trying to get rid of us or something?"

"If they did Silver then they would have killed us, not sent us to another dimension." said Blaze with a disagreeable shake of her head "The portal must have been some other weird phenomenon and we ended up in it. But then again, who caused the sonic waves?"

"We'll find out when we get home." declared Sonic "If only we had a way home though."

"I know, I lost my warp ring when I got hit." said Silver sadly "I can't warp us back I'm afraid."

"But I can." announced Blaze with a triumphant grin on her face "My Sol Emeralds will do the trick. I still have them on me after all."

"Oh of course! When you take the Sol Emeralds with you, you can summon them whenever you feel the need to!" cried Silver, snapping his fingers in realization "Man Blaze, it's so fortunate you brought the emeralds!"

"Indeed it is Silver." Blaze beamed as she summoned one of them to her hand "I assure you Sonic and Sally, this won't hurt at all. It's just like a Chaos Control only with fire instead of light. The fire is harmless, I promise you."

"Well then let's get going back home shall we?" asked Sonic impatiently "We've got information to share with our buddies right now!"

Blaze was about to perform a Sol Control but then suddenly, her voice was drowned out by an ear-splitting bang that seemed to rip through the quiet of the beach. Blaze turned around to see what the noise was and suddenly found a net being draped over her. The net threw Blaze down onto the sand and just before Blaze could try and break out of the net, a terrible electrical shock surged through the net and zapped Blaze into unconsciousness. The lavender furred cat passed out on the sand, unable to escape from the net that had captured her. Sonic, Silver and Sally were horrified at what had happened but before they could do anything to help Blaze, a smoke bomb had been tossed out onto the beach and upon exploding, the bomb emitted thick black smoke that obscured all vision, making it impossible for anybody to see. That is, if you were organic. Two shapes ran through the smoke and they both spotted the netted and unconscious Blaze lying on the sand thanks to their highly advanced sensor optics that allowed them to see through the thick smoke. The two shapes were the metallic buccaneers of the robotic pirate crew known as Swash and Buckle. They worked for the evil Captain Metal and now they had carried out a plan that saw Blaze the Cat getting subdued for them to take away. The picked up the netted up cat and carried her to the sea where a submarine was waiting for them. They had arrived in the submarine and had fired a net at Blaze via the submarine's onboard net-gun. The smoke bomb had been fired from one of its cannons. The submarine itself was partially submerged with only the top of it visible like a whale lying on the shore. It was quite large and had a black and navy blue colour scheme with a golden eagle statuette at the front. Swash and Buckle carried Blaze onto the submarine and they took her down inside the cabin.

"Shiver me timbers Buckle, I neverrr thought we'd be capturing Blaze tharr Cat!" cried Swash in astonishment "I thought we were supposed to be capturing Team Radical! We've been lyin' in wait fer those landlubbers to come near tharr shores so we could net em' up and take em' to tharr captain!"

"Well the captain will want Blaze more than those scallywags that's fer sure." said Buckle as they hung the netted up Blaze on a hook in the ceiling of the submarine "After all, she was the one who nearly killed him, not them."

"Indeed so Buckle me lad!" yelled Swash, slapping his friend on the back "This be a fine capture indeed! Tharr captain will be so happy when he sees we've got Blaze for him!"

"Oh yes Swash matey." Buckle said excitedly "I bet we will be paid handsomely for her capture!"

He could already picture the amount of golden parts that Captain Metal would be paying him and Swash with when they arrived back to the Metal Marauder with their prisoner. Blaze would likely be worth more gold than they'd ever received in their lives.

"Bet the lassie will regret ever tryin' ta murder our captain." laughed Swash as he sat down at the submarine's controls and prepared to set off.

"And if she thinks about escapin' then she's got another thing coming." crowed Buckle "That net be heatproof, she'll not get out of that at all."

"Indeed not." agreed Swash.

He thrust the submarine's controls into action and the submarine started up. With an ominous whirr, it reversed away from the beach and sunk down into the ocean that lapped out at the shores like a mouth trying to swallow up the whole island. By the time the submarine had descended into the water and turned around to go back to base, the smoke from the smoke bomb had cleared and Sonic, Sally and Silver could now see properly again. Sonic coughed as the last of the smoke escaped his lungs and he opened his eyes, relieved he could now see properly again.

"Man! Talk about an ambush!" spluttered Sonic "That's twice somebody's gotten the drop on us today!"

"It seems our vigilance is a little rusty." grumbled Sally "We need to remain more alert from now on, this is getting irksome by the second."

"You know what's worse than that you two?" asked Silver, his face full of shock "Blaze has gone! Somebody's taken her while we were blinded by that smoke!"

Sonic and Sally leapt into action before Silver even said the last word of his sentence. They ran up to where Blaze had been netted and quickly noticed that she was indeed gone. Sonic kicked at the sand furiously, cursing himself furiously over Blaze's capture.

"Damn!" he swore "First we end up on an entirely new world and now Blaze gets captured! What more can go wrong today?!"

"Sonic dear, clam down." Sally said hastily, grabbing Sonic and holding him tight so he couldn't kick about anymore.

"Don't tell me to be calm Sally!" spat Sonic wildly "Blaze had our only way off of this world and now she's been captured! How will we get back home now?!"

"We need to find Blaze and rescue her!" cried Silver frantically "Who knows what's gonna happen to her now she's been captured! We need to get her back before any harm comes to her!"

"But how Silver?" asked Sally "There's no way we'll be able to find Blaze! We don't even know where she is or where she's being taken!"

"Well can't Nicole track her?" asked Sonic "I mean, Nicole is good at that stuff isn't she?"

"Oh yes of course…Nicole can track her." Sally realized.

She took Nicole off of her boot, pausing to shake sand off of the computer for a moment, and then she opened up Nicole. Nicole's avatar emerged from the handheld device and she instantly realized that she was being called at a bad time now.

"Hello Sally, is there something wrong?" she asked politely.

"Blaze has been captured and we need to find her so we can get back to Mobius Prime." explained Sally "Can you track her?"

"Hold on…"

Nicole fell silent as she began to scan the world that they were occupying for any signs of Blaze the Cat. Solbius was new to her so it took a while for her to take in their surroundings and what was what in this world but she managed it eventually and she managed to locate a moving object cruising through the ocean at top speed. It was Swash and Buckle's submarine. The submarine seemed to have a faint heat signature emitting from it. That was Blaze, no questions asked. Nicole's avatar opened its digital eyes and looked up at Sally.

"Blaze is inside a submarine that is cruising through the water at about 100 knots." explained Nicole "It's heading in the north direction."

"Well that sucks, how are we gonna get to that submarine then?" groaned Silver "We haven't got a means of sea travel around here!"

"Did somebody request for sea travel?" came a familiar voice that Silver knew all too well.

Sonic, Sally and Silver turned their heads and saw that they were no longer alone on the beach. Standing before them, looking a little dumbfounded were the local heroes of Solbius, Team Radical. Rad and Marine the Raccoons, Crystal the Polar Bear and Gadget the Parrot had been passing by quite casually until they'd heard Silver complaining and they'd decided to go over and see what was the problem. Silver smiled at the sight of Team Radical whereas Sonic and Sally looked at them with interest.

"Team Radical!" cried Silver excitedly.

"Hey Silver." said Rad with a wink "Good to see you again psychic dude. So what's going on around here then…?"

Footnotes:

 That all just happened recently in *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 25: Terror of the Cyber-Husky

* See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 17: Divide and Conquer: The Home Front

Why must things always go wrong for Sonic and friends? So how will Sonic, Sally and Silver save Blaze? Will Team Radical help them out with that? And what will happen to Blaze when she's delivered to Captain Metal? Will Tails find out where Sonic and the others are? Find out next time in Part 2 where a real "Pirate Plunder Panic" begins...

Other World Encounter Part 2

Story 186: Other World Encounter Part 2: Pirate Plunder Panic

Today had gone from bad to worse for Sonic the Hedgehog, his girlfriend Queen Sally Acorn, Silver the Hedgehog, time traveller hell-bent on changing the past to save the future and Blaze the Cat, Silver's girlfriend and former fire cat princess.

First they had successfully managed to infiltrate the Egg-Bunker and download some very valuable information that they needed in order to cripple Dr. Eggman's upcoming battle ship, the Death Egg. But then after that, somebody had ended up sending them through a portal that took them from Mobius Prime to Solbius, one of infinite alternate worlds in the multi-verse that was related to Mobius. Blaze had been about to warp herself, Sonic, Sally and Silver back to Mobius Prime with the aid of her Sol Emeralds but she ended up getting caught and knocked out by an electrical net and then taken away in a pirate submarine. Now Sonic, Sally and Silver were well and truly stranded and they had no way of catching up to the submarine. Just when all hope seemed lost though, things started to look up for the heroes for Team Radical, Solbius's native heroes and indigenous residents had arrived on the scene. Silver remembered them all too well. It was like he'd only seen them yesterday and yet it had been a whole month since the day that he and Blaze had ended up on Solbius. Silver greeted the four Solbians (Solbius Mobians) with ecstatic glee.

"Team Radical!" he cried excitedly, his face matching the tone of his voice.

"Hey Silver, good to see you again psychic dude." said Rad the Raccoon cheerfully, winking at him "So what's going on around here then?"

"Yeah, we didn't think you'd show up again Silver." said Crystal the Polar Bear, giving Silver a friendly hug in greeting "What brings you here then? And especially bringing Sonic and Sally with you too.

This is a special occasion."

"Hey Team Radical, it's cool to see you four again." said Sonic happily "How's it been going since The Eraser was defeated and destroyed at last?"

"It's been great." said Rad brightly "Solbius has been pretty peaceful since the time rifts stopped and we've been enjoying the peace and quiet."

"It's been too boring for my tastes but still nice." said Crystal "Especially since we don't have to worry about any damn lights appearing in the sky now…"

"You have no idea how much I agree with you on that." said Sally, smiling "The time rifts were just scary from day one and now they're gone, no Mobius in the multi-verse needs to worry about them anymore."

"I certainly acquiesce with that statement fair lady." said Gadget the Parrot in his usual eloquent manner "So my Prime Zone friends, what brings you upon Solbius territory then?"

"Believe me, we're not here for a holiday." muttered Sonic bitterly as if the fact they weren't here for a holiday was disappointing for him "We were sent here by some portal that appeared from nowhere. But it wasn't a time rift so don't worry about it."

"Crikey! Portals comin' outta nowhere?! Right weird things happen in this bloomin' world dunnit?" blurted a rather surprised Marine the Raccoon.

"We're still obfuscated as to where it came from and why it happened." sighed Sally "Anyway, we were sent here by a portal and before we could go back home, somebody kidnapped Blaze the Cat. She's here too and has been taken away in a submarine apparently."

"Oh no!" cried Rad, putting his hands to his face in horror "Blaze has been captured?! We've gotta help you save her! You said she's in a submarine right?"

"Yes." explained Sally "We don't know what the submarine looked like I'm afraid. Just that Blaze is in a submarine."

Rad thought about this for a minute.

"A lot of villains we've faced used submarines be they pirates or not." mused Rad "I can only think of one person who'd want to capture Blaze though but it can't be him since he's dead."

"Indeed, and we de-roboticized all of Captain Metal's crew save for Swash and Buckle so maybe they have done that just to avenge their fallen captain." suggested Gadget.

"Why didn't you de-roboticize those two then?" asked Silver with a rather angry look on his face as if blaming Gadget for the fact they'd kidnapped Blaze, if indeed that was correct.

"They got away before we could do so. I am sorry to say this Silver." said Gadget with a rather guilty look on his face.

"It's OK." said Silver "At least we know who to look for now. Can you lend us the Ocean Tornado so we can sail off after those two and rescue Blaze?"

"Sure." said Rad brightly, eager to lend a hand if it meant saving a friend of his "We're coming with you though. We want to help save Blaze too. It's the least we could do to return the favour after you and her helped us to defeat Captain Metal."

"That's very kind of you Rad." said Silver with pleasure "I'm all too happy to let you help us."

"I just hope we won't be sailing for long." moaned Sonic "I really hate water after all…"

"We'll be on a ship Sonic and you can stay inside the ship so you don't have to see the water, you'll be fine." assured Sally gently "I hope we can catch up to that submarine because we REALLY need to get back to Mobius Prime and fast."

"I bet your friends will be worried about you." said Crystal sadly.

She remembered that Sonic and Sally had friends back home for she and the rest of Team Radical had been present during the final battle with The Eraser. She could already imagine them being worried about Sonic and Sally right now.

"They will be Crystal." said Sally worriedly "So it's vital we rescue Blaze. She has our only ticket home and if we don't rescue her, we'll be stuck here forever."

"Not that that's a bad thing right?" asked Marine "I mean Solbius is a lovely world to be stranded on wouldn't you agree?"

Grinning, Sally just nodded at Marine as if to say "Yes I do agree Marine". Marine was right, Solbius was a nice world to be stranded on. There were much worse places they could have ended up on than here.

"We'll see to it that she gets saved so she can return you all home." said Rad kindly "Come on! The Ocean Tornado's this way! Let's go and save Blaze the Cat!"

He and his team mates ran off eagerly to get to the Ocean Tornado. Sonic, Sally and Silver followed them without a moment's hesitation. As they ran off to the Ocean Tornado, Silver could only wonder what was happening to Blaze right now. It pained him to think that she could be in great danger right now, especially in the hands of robotic pirates that likely wanted to make her suffer for killing their precious captain…

Meanwhile…

The submarine had been cruising through the sea for quite a long time but it had finally arrived at its destination. It had been heading towards an island that had metallic looking trees dotted around the landscape and a huge cylindrical building with a crane arm on the top that stretched high above the trees as if hoping to be noticed. This was where Swash and Buckle were taking their prisoner. The submarine's periscope extended above the water and Swash peered through it to see if they had arrived at their destination yet.

The building and the island it stood upon was in view much to Swash's delight. He was too impatient to deliver Blaze to Captain Metal already and been tingling with excitement that could rival even the most excitable of children. Just as the submarine pulled up into port, Blaze woke up at long last. It had amazed Swash and Buckle that the pyrokinetic cat had been out for the entire trip. The shock the net had given her had indeed been quite painful and powerful and the trip had been quiet so Blaze had no chance of being woken up prematurely. But she was coming around at last, her head throbbing to the point she wondered if some tiny person had crawled inside her head and was doing a moonwalk on her brain. Her voice was a low sickly groan of displeasure.

"Oooooh where am I…?" she slurred.

"Oh goodie, the lassie's awake!" cried Swash "Now we can show herrr to Cap'n Metal awake!"

"That'll be more fun than giving him to her unconscious. We wouldn't see her reaction otherwise." said Buckle in a crude evil voice.

"Huh?!"

Blaze's eyes shot open and she suddenly realized what was going on. She was trapped in a net that was hanging on a hook in the ceiling and she was in some kind of sea vehicle with Swash and Buckle at the controls. Blaze squirmed in the net and tried as hard as she could to break out of it. She tugged on it and tried to break the net apart but the strands held firm and her efforts were ultimately futile.

"Let me outta here right now!" she barked "If you don't let me go this second I'm gonna fry you both to a crisp!"

"Just try it lassie, we've been given upgrades." boasted Swash "We're made of heatproof metal now. Ye won't harm us at all."

"That won't stop me from beating the crap outta you two!" snarled Blaze "Let me out of this net and I promise you'll keep your bodies intact!"

"Sorry lassie but we follow the Captain's orders." said Buckle, striding up to Blaze and hooking the net with his own hook hand to take it off the hook in the ceiling "And speaking of the Captain, he wants to see you very badly."

"What, is he planning on haunting me?" sniffed Blaze "I don't believe in ghosts and robots can't even become ghosts so that won't work."

Swash and Buckle just laughed at Blaze's remark as if she'd told a very bad joke. Blaze didn't really like the fact they were laughing at her. If somebody laughs at you like that, it means something bad usually and that you've assumed something wrong. Buckle carried Blaze out of the submarine with Swash leading him and the two strode onto the shore of the island.

"Ye'll find out fer yerself what he's planning on doing lassie." crowed Swash "And believe me, ye will be surprised. Not pleasantly that is."

"As if I'd be pleasantly surprised by anything you scum have to offer." growled Blaze.

Swash ignored her and he headed on towards the cylindrical building. Blaze couldn't help but think that it looked like a giant silo with a crane arm attached to it. She doubted that she would be finding it full of leavings from a pig though. Swash and Buckle came up to a huge iron door that was barred, giving the building a prison like feeling. How appropriate considering Blaze was here as a prisoner anyway. The door rose up to let the two robotic pirates inside and Blaze found herself being carried into a large metallic room that had little features on offer. The walls were in a pattern of squares and Xs that stretched up to the top of the building. There appeared to be a row of seats just a few meters up from ground level that reached all around the building. Blaze suggested that Captain Metal's crew would have all sat there at some point before being de-roboticized by Team Radical. There was a large tortoise shell-like pattern on the floor and a line down the middle of it. Could the floor open up or something? If so what was it containing? Blaze didn't really care. What she cared about was getting out of this net and back to her friends so she could whisk them all back to Mobius Prime. But then something in the room caught her attention. She stared in indescribable shock at what lay ahead of her. There was a throne at the back of the room which had stairs that led to it, huge gears on the side that served whatever purpose they served and there were skulls sculpted on either side at the top of the throne. The throne had an occupant and the occupant was the last person Blaze ever expected to see again. It was none other than the nefarious Metal Sonic turned robot pirate Captain Metal! He stood up from his throne and narrowed his singular red optic at the captive in the net that Buckle had on the end of his hook like a fishing trip gone well. Blaze couldn't speak for a minute and when she finally did, it was nothing more than a snarl of fury.

"No…it can't be! I killed you!" snarled Blaze "How can you possibly be alive?! I finished you off and we sunk your ship! You should be lying dead at the bottom of the ocean you monster!"

Captain Metal ignored Blaze and he stepped down from his throne. He walked up to Swash and Buckle and glanced at them as if acknowledging them for the first time. They were used to it though, he often ignored them until he saw who they had captured.

"Shiver me timbers lads, I sent ye to capturrre Team Radical and ye come back with me with Blaze tharr Cat in yer hands! What serendipity this be! This be much better than capturing those pesky landlubbers!" he cried in delight.

"Why thank ye Captain." said Swash with a smug, proud smile on his face "And it was no problem either."

"Yeah, we caught tharr lass completely off-guard and we've brought her here directly to you!" added Buckle "So what's our reward?"

"I promised ye limbs of gold for tharr capture of Team Radical but Blaze be much more special so ye deserve an entire BODY made of gold me fine ship mates!" declared Captain Metal "Escort yer selves over to ye engineer bot and have yer bodies upgraded into golden metal bodies! Ye both deserve it for yer efforts!"

"Gee, thanks Captain!" squealed Swash and Buckle with excitement.

Buckle dumped Blaze on the floor and he and Swash ran off to get their bodies upgraded. They could hardly wait to see what they looked like as golden robots. Now alone with Blaze, Captain Metal knelt down before her and glared ominously into her eyes with his singular red optic. Blaze scowled at him. Captain Metal didn't seem bothered.

"So, ye decided to come to Solbius once again Blaze...what made ye come crawling back then?" sneered Captain Metal "Did ye want to make doubly sure I was dead?"

"I'm not here under my own admission, believe me. I was sent here by a weird portal and somebody with sonic waves." muttered Blaze bitterly "And I was just about to leave until your stupid goons kidnapped me."

"How fortuitous is was they caught ye then otherwise I wouldn't get a chance to get me revenge on you me dear." hissed Captain Metal demoniacally, raising his gun arm so the cutlass blade that formed the bayonet at the end glistened in the light "Ever since me near death at your hands, the only thing I ever wanted was to make you suffer for what ye did to me. Now you're here, I can fulfil that dream of mine..."

He held his blade just inches from Blaze's face, the tip pointing directly at her forehead. Blaze ignored him and folded her arms.

"So what now? You going to kill me?" sniffed Blaze "Go ahead, I deserve it for what I did to you no doubt."

Captain Metal withdrew his arm, taking the blade away from Blaze's face.

"Ye don't fear death do ye?" purred Captain Metal, clearly impressed at what Blaze had just said "I admire that in a woman, or indeed any person fer that matter. Any good person welcomes death in me books."

"I come from a future where everything is dead and the populace is dwindling, death doesn't scare me." growled Blaze "So I'm not at all scared at the fact you're going to kill me. Don't think you'll get that satisfaction of seeing me scared before you because you'll not. Kill me now, you'll only feel empty about it since I didn't give you any satisfaction in return for my death."

"Killing ye now is satisfaction enough lassie, whether yer afraid or not." snorted Captain Metal, positioning the blade on his gun arm at Blaze's throat through the net "But I do not plan to kill ye anyway. No, that be too merciful for a scurvy landlubber like you. Ye deserve a fate worse than death Blaze. I'm going to break ye and then I'm going to make ye watch as I take over Solbius and then take over other worlds with me new weapon of mass destruction. Then when ye beg me for mercy…and beg for me to stop what I'm doing…then ye will die. Seeing ye broken and defeated as ye die will be tharr best satisfaction a pirate could have."

"You'll never break me you scum!" growled Blaze "I beat you once, I'll bet you again! Now let me out of this net so I can break you to pieces!"

"Of course lassie, it be time for our rematch. And what a fine sea tale to tell tharr other pirates it shall be!" laughed Captain Metal delightedly.

With that said, Captain Metal cut Blaze's net open and the cat leapt up onto her feet, throwing the strands of net off herself. She failed to realize that she still had her Sol Emerald out though. She had been about to use it before getting captured and as she stood up, it clattered onto the floor, startling Blaze and catching Captain Metal's attention. The sparkling red gem practically winked at him as it shone in the light of the room.

"Fire on tharr poop deck!" blurted Captain Metal "It appears ye have treasure of yer own lassie! That be impressive indeed. I may have to steal that emerald from yer battered and beaten body!"

"This gem is mine and you'll never have it!" yelled Blaze "In fact, I can just use this gem to disappear and flee your clutches once and for all! You've lost before the fight's even started Captain Metal!"

Blaze should have known better than to be so cocky in the presence of a villain as dangerous as Captain Metal. Captain Metal aimed his gun arm at Blaze and fired, blasting Blaze directly in the stomach and sending her flying across the room. She crashed into the wall and slid down to the floor, groaning in pain. Captain Metal scooped up the Sol Emerald and he admired it delightedly. It looked so beautiful to him given his pirate-nature and love for gems and he thought it would make a very nice addition to his treasure trove indeed. Yet the emerald had a familiar feel to it. Something like… Chaos Energy only hotter.

"Avast ye…this gem feels like a Chaos Emerald!" exclaimed Captain Metal "Ye have yer own version of a Chaos Emerald lassie! That be a fine treasure indeed! This will be welcome in me treasure trove indeed!"

"Give that back!" screamed Blaze.

"I'll make you a deal lassie." said Captain Metal smoothly "Ye fight me and the prize will be yer emerald. If ye win, ye get it back. If ye lose then I keep it. And given it be like a Chaos Emerald, I'm willing to bet that there be six more gems like it."

"How right you are." muttered Blaze "But you won't get ANY of them because I'll beat you and win my freedom!"

"If so sure ye are lassie then how about we alter the deal?" suggested Captain Metal "The prize will be ALL of yer emeralds, not just one. Winner takes all seven, loser gets nothing."

"There's not point making that wager since I'll win but deal." said Blaze coldly "Prepare to die again Captain Metal!"

"Ye are the one who should be preparin' to die lassie…" growled Captain Metal sinisterly, raising his sword and tossing the Sol Emerald over onto his throne.

Blaze narrowed her eyes and glared squarely at Captain Metal. Never in all her life had she found herself hating somebody as much as Captain Metal. He was now literally the most hated thing Blaze had ever encountered and she was going to enjoy killing him all over again. This time, she'd make sure he actually WAS dead. Blaze summoned fire to her hands and she aimed at Captain Metal. Captain Metal oddly enough seemed to be daring Blaze to attack him as if he wasn't scared of her. Well he was a pirate and he had fought Blaze before and nearly won so he had no reason to be afraid of her. Blaze thrust her arms forward and sent a tornado of fire spiralling through the air towards Captain Metal. The flames hit him and the robot pirate was engulfed by the fire. Blaze kept it up for a minute before stopping her fire to see how she'd done. She was only met with sheer horror. Captain Metal just stood there as if nothing had happened and he was laughing at Blaze!

"Harr, harr, harrgh! Blaze, I thought tharr battle was beginning! Did you want me to throw tharr first blow or something?" he crowed. He was not only looking like nothing had happened, he was acting like it too!

"But...but...that's impossible! My flames effected you before!" shrieked Blaze "How are you..."

"When me body was salvaged from tharr waters by me good first mates Swash and Buckle, I had myself rebuilt with heatproof metal . Every inch of me body is heatproof, yer fire powers will not harm me again!" boasted Captain Metal.

"You're a pirate, of course you'd be a coward and cheat!" snarled Blaze "You're a dirty, cheating, slimy, yellow-bellied coward Captain Metal and I'm gonna make you sorry you were manufactured!"

"And I will make you sorry ye were born Blaze..." Captain Metal snarled back.

Screaming viciously, Blaze summoned fire to her hands and ran towards Captain Metal. Her fire powers wouldn't work on Captain Metal but it would still enhance her fighting prowess and make her a strong contender for Captain Metal. She drew her arm back and punched Captain Metal directly in the torso. The heatproof metal that Captain Metal's body had been constructed of did nothing to prevent the punch from sending him flying backwards into his throne. Captain Metal had almost forgotten how powerful Blaze was. But he was a robot, he had many advantages over Blaze and he would exploit them to ensure himself a victory in this battle. Blaze ran towards Captain Metal's throne and was ready to attack him again but Captain Metal grabbed the Sol Emerald he'd stolen from Blaze and he threw it into her face. The Sol Emerald walloped Blaze between the eyes and the cat screeched as the sharp bump on her head from the emerald made her head throb. Captain Metal retrieved the emerald and he threw it back onto his throne. Then just to keep the Sol Emerald out of Blaze's reach, he pressed a button on the side wall that caused the throne to rise up. The gears on either side of the throne climbed up the tracks they were connected too as they rotated, pulling the throne up to the upper platform. Blaze wouldn't be able to get the Sol Emerald back now. Furious, Blaze set fire to herself and rocketed towards Captain Metal in a fiery spin with her feet straight ahead of her. Captain Metal merely held his arm up and let Blaze hit him. He had something else to boast about to her.

"I should mention something else lassie...I cannot feel pain anymore." gloated Captain Metal as Blaze leapt back, ready to attack him again "I had me pain receptors removed when I was being repaired. Therefore, I cannot feel pain. Pain is a weakness that shall not hinder me anymore!"

"You'll be glad you can't feel pain anymore for what I have planned for you is going to be VERY painful indeed!" roared Blaze.

She threw an uppercut to the chin at Captain Metal but the insidious Metal Sonic pirate ducked backwards, leaving Blaze to uppercut the air he had occupied just seconds ago. Captain Metal swung his head forward and walloped Blaze in the bridge of her nose. It was very unpleasant for Blaze to be hit with such force by something so hard. Getting head butted by Captain Metal was like getting hit by a toolbox. Blaze was amazed she hadn't blacked out from the attack. Captain Metal then lunged at Blaze with a savage blow to the gut that knocked the wind out of her. Blaze spluttered and then found herself being elbowed on the back by Captain Metal's gun arm. Being his right arm was shaped like a gun, the elbow attack was like hitting somebody in the back with the gun's handle. Blaze winced but fought against the pain as Captain Metal prepared to slash her with the blade under his right arm. Blaze rolled out of the way as Captain Metal swung down at her, leaving his blade to cleave into the floor and get stuck. Blaze set her feet alight and she kicked Captain Metal callously, trying to break his body away from his arm.

But no such luck for Captain Metal backhanded Blaze onto her side. He wrenched his right arm free and he blasted Blaze with a powerful laser blast that shot out of his right arm and hit her squarely in the back. Blaze gritted her teeth and forced herself to stand back up...only to get knocked down again by a powerful kick to the head from Captain Metal. Blaze's head was spinning after that kick and by the time she worked out which way was up, Captain Metal punched her in the gut and sent her slamming into a wall. Blaze spluttered and waited for Captain Metal to come to her. The captain stampeded towards her like a wild boar but Blaze moved out of his way, leaving Captain Metal to crash into the wall. Captain Metal staggered backwards for a minute, wondering what had happened. Blaze lashed out and grabbed his ragged, light blue cape. She yanked on it, pulling him backwards and she swung Captain Metal around into the wall. Captain Metal may not feel pain anymore but Blaze was sure she could break him if she applied enough force on him in her attacks. She swung Captain Metal into the wall again and then gave him a fiery punch to the head. The attack seemed to leave Captain Metal bedraggled so Blaze did it again. Captain Metal fell down onto his knees. Seizing her chance, Blaze kicked him against the wall and then grabbed his cape again. She swung him around and threw him across the room and into the other wall. Captain Metal slumped against it but he wasn't down for long. He picked himself up and waited for Blaze to come at him. Blaze launched herself at Captain Metal in another fiery spinning-attack. Captain Metal held his arms up and allowed Blaze to hit him. Blaze sent him skidding backwards as she hit him but she didn't do much harm to him. Blaze leapt back and then threw a punch at Captain Metal. Captain Metal caught the punch with his hand and he twisted Blaze's arm sharply to the side. Blaze screamed and tried to get her arm free but Captain Metal's grasp was much too strong for her. Captain Metal then slashed her across the face with his blade and just to further weaken her, he slashed her across the arm he was holding. Blaze now had two horrible cuts, one on her face and one on her arm and both of them hurt very badly. Captain Metal released Blaze's arm and he socked her in the mouth. Blaze backed away in pain, clutching her mouth. She took her hand away and saw that there was blood on her glove. She spat some blood out and wiped her mouth clean. Growling, she tried to attack Captain Metal again. She punched Captain Metal, with the arm that had the cut on.

Stinging pain shot up her arm because of this and she winced for a minute, giving Captain Metal the opportunity to kick her in the knee and bring her down onto her side. Blaze howled like a cat that's had its tail trapped in the door and she clutched her throbbing knee instinctively. While she was down, Captain Metal stomped on Blaze like he was trying to crush a soda can that was lying on the floor. Blaze cried out in pain and Captain Metal only proceeded to do it again. Then he kicked Blaze into the air and sent her hurling into the centre of the room. Blaze strained as she stood back up and she tried to attack Captain Metal again. But she was too hurt from his earlier blows to fight properly. Her punch came in slow and ill-timed so she ended up missing. Captain Metal slugged her and then backhanded her, causing her to spit blood out again. Then Captain Metal sucker-punched her in the middle of her face, kicked her in the thigh and then roundhouse kicked her into the floor. He wasn't done yet though. He stomped on her again and kicked her twice in the back. He yanked Blaze back up onto her feet just so he could slash her across her other cheek and then elbow-thrust her in the eye. Her left eye was a swollen, purple splodge that didn't compliment her face very well at all. Blaze fought to stay conscious but she didn't have any energy left to fight. Captain Metal shot her in the stomach and sent her slamming against the wall where she fell onto the floor and coughed loudly. She moaned as pain flared up her body. She had never been beaten so badly before in her life. This was the worst fight she'd ever had. Captain Metal however seemed to think this was the best fight he'd ever had. He strode up to Blaze, triumphant and full of smugness as the cat failed to get back up.

"Harr, harrgh! An amazing grudge match that was! Ye fought valiantly Blaze but ultimately, ye have been bested by me!" crowed Captain Metal "Thus, I get all of yer emeralds as par our deal!"

"You...will...not...have...them..." croaked Blaze "I...refuse...to honour...the deal..."

"If ye won't honour the deal then I'll be forced to kill you lassie." snarled Captain Metal, aiming his gun arm directly at her head "And I think ye'd rather live to fight me another day wouldn't ye?"

Blaze would sooner die than let Captain Metal have the Sol Emeralds but in the end, what good would dying do? Blaze needed to get back to Sonic, Sally and Silver so she could warp them all home with her emeralds. She could warp away now but Captain Metal would still have the red Sol Emerald and she wasn't going to let him have even one Sol Emerald. He could still do harm with even one Sol Emerald. Plus, even if she refused to give them over, Captain Metal would likely take them from her corpse so either way, he would win. Blaze would much rather live and get the emeralds back then die and lose them permanently. With great reluctance plaguing her soul, Blaze opened her hands and summoned the other six emeralds in a wisp of flames. Delighted, Captain Metal took off his cape and gathered the emeralds up into the cape. He tied the cape shut and he slung the emeralds over his shoulder. He looked like Santa Claus with the cape full of emeralds slung over his shoulder like how Santa would carry his sack of toys. Blaze just lifted her head and tried her best to scowl at Captain Metal but she could only manage a tiny scowl due to how much her face hurt right now.

"Thank you lassie." sneered Captain Metal "Don't worry, I'll put all yer gems to good use. You'll see what use I have for them when I unveil me new weapon."

"New...weapon?" croaked Blaze.

"Yes lassie, after Team Radical de-roboticized me pirate crew, I decided to make a weapon that would roboticize every last citizen on Solbius." explained Captain Metal "It is a weapon based upon a design of ship that me creator once made only I added a few extra features to it to make it more...pirate like as ye would say."

"A weapon…to roboticize…every…last citizen?" grunted Blaze weakly.

"Indeed lassie, me chariot of chaos will roboticize every last citizen on Solbius." crowed Captain Metal "And ye will be tharr first Mobian to bear witness to its intriguing design and structurrre before it launches!"

"How…rewarding." muttered Blaze in a voice mixed with sarcasm and venom.

Captain Metal just laughed and he hooked the cape full of Sol Emeralds onto his blade. Now his hand was free, he grabbed Blaze by the scruff of her neck. He carried the battered and beaten cat out of his base and he took her around the back to show her his new weapon. Blaze couldn't do anything about it since she was too weak from her injuries. She just allowed herself to be carried away by Captain Metal. She may as well see what his new weapon was given there was nothing else she could do. As Blaze was carried around the back of the base, she could that there was another silo-shaped building nearby. It was sitting on an island of rocks surrounded by sea water as if about to drift away from the rest of the island. Blaze had a feeling that the weapon was inside that building. Captain Metal barked over to the crew members that were standing guard around the building. These were robot pirates but they were actual robots instead of roboticized people. The few that Blaze could see were the only crew Captain Metal momentarily had for the time being.

"Mateys! Unveil tharr ship!" ordered Captain Metal "I wish to see me completed weapon with me own optics now!"

"Aye, aye captain!" said the robot pirates with a salute of loyalty.

The pirates pressed a few buttons that were dotted around the base of the building and they all ran for cover as the building began to hiss loudly. Steam poured out from the inside of the building and then it began to split into four parts. The four sections of the building lowered down like a peeled banana and Blaze watched as they splashed down onto the water, spraying it everywhere and even sending some of it landing at Captain Metal's feet. Captain Metal just watched, delighted that he could see his completed weapon for himself. It had taken a long time since his crew's numbers were so low but it was complete and now for the first time ever, he'd see its completed form in all its glory. Blaze stared in disbelief at that the building had opened up to reveal. In its place stood an enormous egg-shaped vessel that dwarfed everything around it, even Captain Metal's base. The pirate like-features on the ship that Captain Metal had mentioned were a huge skull-face with an eye patch on the front of the ship with a ventilation system in place of its mouth, four steel structures that were presumably meant to act like a crossbones for the skull face, a barrage of cannons that were all around the base of ship underneath the skull face and the whole thing was steel with rings of magenta on the top and a gold coloured bottom section. Even with one of her eyes bruised and swollen, Blaze still managed to stare at the ship, wide-eyed and open mouthed. Captain Metal was clearly delighted at her expression concerning the appearance of the ship.

"Behold, THE EGG O' WAR!" bellowed Captain Metal, motioning towards the enormous vessel that stood before them on the platform of rocks that supported it. The tone of voice he expressed was unmistakeable. He was clearly delighted to be showing off his new toy to Blaze.

"That…looks like…the Death…Egg…" gasped Blaze.

The book Silver had read stating that the Death Egg fired a beam at Mobius showed a picture of the Death Egg and Blaze could easily see how this "Egg O' War" greatly resembled the Death Egg. It was like Captain Metal just stole the Death Egg and remade it into a flying egg-shaped skull and crossbones. Things just took a turn for the worse now. If that thing managed to take flight, Solbius would no longer be home to Solbian life, only Robians from now on.

"Ye are impressive…" mused Captain Metal "Ye know of tharr Death Egg? Well me creatorrr once created a ship called tharr Death Egg. I just took the Death Egg design and remade it into me own Ship of Terror. The Egg O' War is much more threatening than tharr Death Egg for its very appearance spells death to anyone that witnesses it!"

"More like…it causes…people to…laugh at…how stupid…it looks…" grunted Blaze.

Captain Metal just threw her onto the rocks beneath his feet, adding more pain to the already beaten fire cat. He turned around and pointed at a robot pirate that had a spherical body, giving it the appearance of a pirate with a beer-gut.

"Lock her up in the brig of the Egg O' War!" he snapped "Then after ye've done that, prepare tharr ship fer launch! I want to see it in action as soon as possible!"

"Aye, aye captain!" said the fat robot pirate.

He grabbed Blaze and casually slung her over his shoulder as if she was a bag full of treasure waiting to be emptied. Blaze just allowed herself to be taken away. What could she do when she was too weak to even so much as punch anybody? She was battered and beaten, she may as well save herself anymore beating. As the pirate leapt into the water and carried Blaze over to the Egg O' War, Captain Metal strode back towards his base. He looked at the cape full of Sol Emeralds he still had hooked on the end of his blade like a net full of fish.

"And ye know with these Sol Emeralds…I could maybe invade other worlds and plunder them of their riches." he thought to himself "And also roboticize them too. A captain can never have too many crew members after all. Yes…tharr emeralds will make me an invincible force to be reckoned with. Harr, harr, harr, harrgh…"

He was still laughing as he re-entered his base to get the red Sol Emerald he still had lying on his throne. Captain Metal was going to win and Blaze was helpless to stop him. Once the Egg O' War took flight, that was it. The end of all organic life was about to begin…

"…me and Rad may have had a rough introduction and looking back on the day, I kinda wish I'd handled it better but we've set aside that fight and now we're very much in love." said Crystal as she finished telling the story of her first meeting with Rad "I couldn't have been a luckier girl to have met a boy as cute as my Raddy." her smile was so bright and wonderful that Crystal almost seemed to glow with it.

"That's very lovely Crystal." said Sally, who had been listening to Crystal's story with great interest "I think you and Rad make a lovely couple."

"Thanks." replied Crystal, beaming "And I think you and Sonic look destined for each other too."

"And to think when the Royal Fighters first formed, we weren't that interested in each other." laughed Sally "I guess it took me becoming a fighter to finally catch Sonic's attention!"

The girls laughed at that joke.

It had been a long trip on the Ocean Tornado but the Mobians had managed to pass much of the time on the sea talking to each other. It had been nice for Sonic and Sally to learn more about Team Radical and their adventures on Solbius. Sonic in particular admired Rad's love of adventure and the two were engaging in conversation about the kind of adventures they had had in their time.

"…so you can see that I've definitely had my fair share of close encounters and nail-biting adventures." finished Sonic "The Eraser and this whole multi-verse crisis thing was just one of many adventures I've had in my life."

"And to think all of that was in the span of three years just about!" gasped Rad "You have been busy Sonic. Even me and my team haven't been active for that long!"

"When did you four become a team like?" asked Sonic.

"Literally the day Captain Metal was born, which was a few months ago although we had been friends a couple of years before we became Team Radical so we were more just a group of friends than a hero team at that time." explained Rad.

"I see now." said Sonic "Quick question, who's Captain Metal?"

"A robot named "Metal Sonic" made into the image of a pirate." explained Rad "But Blaze destroyed him when she and Silver came to our world via the time rifts, you won't have to worry about him."

"Too right bruv!" agreed Marine "Blaze proper made a barbecue outta that blighter didn't she?! It was proper awesome to watch it was! And a good thing too since that darn pirate was nothing but trouble with a big fat "T"."

"Metal Sonic as a pirate…huh, sounds like something the guys who make the comics about me would come up with." chuckled Sonic

"Oh well, if Captain Metal's dead then we don't have to worry about him. I do wonder who kidnapped Blaze and why though."

"I theory that Swash and Buckle did it to avenge Captain Metal's death." explained Gadget "They were incredibly loyal to him after all. They'd easily do something like that for him even if he is dead."

"Puh, loyalty can make you do some crazy things can't it?" snickered Sonic "Now then, are we nearly at any land at all? I can't stand being out in this water any longer!" he whinged.

"Hold on mate, I'll take a gander and see." said Marine, picking up a telescope and extending it out to its full length.

She ran to the bow of the ship and placed one of her feet on the proud eagle statuette that protruded from atop the Ocean Tornado's bow. Marine peered through the telescope and looked out to see if there was any land in sight. She could see Captain Metal's island in the distance. Marine recognized it all to well with its metallic trees and huge silo-shaped building. She and her team mates had been on the island before. Many times in fact.

"Oy bruv! Pirate Island's just up ahead!" squealed Marine excitedly.

"I wonder if that's where Blaze is." murmured Rad thoughtfully "Sally, can Nicole tell us if she's there?"

Sally didn't answer for a minute as she took Nicole off her boot and held her towards the bow of the Ocean Tornado. Nicole immediately went into action as Sally waited for the answer to Rad's question.

"Nicole, is Blaze on the island?" asked Sally.

"I am unable to clarify that but the submarine I detected with her heat signature in it earlier is in port at the island." Nicole analyzed "Blaze must be on the island somewhere if the submarine that was taking her away is there."

"So it was Swash and Buckle who kidnapped her." growled Crystal "Nobody else could possibly be living on Pirate Island but them. Well this polar bear's gonna show those two scoundrels what happens to those who kidnap my friends!"

She punched her hand with her fist as if to show how ready she was for a battle. Sally could tell from her body language that she was very ready for a battle now.

"Once we arrive at the island, we'll attack and get Blaze back." declared Silver "I sure hope Swash and Buckle are ready for a beating because I'm so gonna give it to them for kidnapping my girl!"

"I'm not sure if Blaze would appreciate being labelled as "your girl" Silver." snickered Sonic, playfully nudging the psychic hedgehog with his elbow.

"Uh, maybe not." said Silver embarrassedly "I should have said "my girlfriend" rather shouldn't I?"

Silver didn't receive an answer for the Mobians and Solbians were purely focused on Pirate Island, coming up towards them as the ship sailed on. Rad narrowed his eyes as he focused on the upcoming island. He'd been on Pirate Island more times than he could possibly count. Sometimes as a prisoner and sometimes in an invasion plan or a rescue mission. And now here he and his team were again, coming to Pirate Island to rescue another captured citizen. Since Rad knew the island just as well as he knew Sol Island, he was already coming up with a plan.

"OK, if Swash and Buckle are still alive then they're bound to be on guard somewhere." deduced Rad "There likely won't be anymore robot pirates since we de-roboticized all of Captain Metal's crew but it's possible Swash and Buckle built some new robot pirates to replace them. Me and my team will keep Swash and Buckle busy. Silver, you Sonic and Sally break into that building to see if Blaze is in there." he pointed at the silo-shaped building on the edge of the island "That's where Captain Metal liked to hang out, it'd be fitting for Swash and Buckle to keep her prisoner in there."

"I'll do just that." said Silver "And I know just how I'm gonna get in there too. When you have psychokinesis, there's nothing you can't break into."

"You wouldn't really need to break into the building since it has no roof." said Gadget matter-of-factly "Just take your friends and fly in over the building, you'll get inside easily since there's no roof."

"Well that seems surprisingly simple." thought Sally wearily "Who in their right mind doesn't have a roof on a building? It's like the architect who build it is BEGGING for somebody to drop in from up above."

"Maybe when Captain Metal built it, he wanted it to look easy on purpose." suggested Crystal, shrugging "He's laid many traps for us in that building before though so the whole "looking easy on purpose" thing worked. But Captain Metal's dead so there won't be any traps in the building."

"In that case let's get onto that island and get Blaze back!" cried Sonic.

The Ocean Tornado was almost in port to Pirate Island. In another ten minutes, it would be close enough to the island for the heroes to just leap off the boat and onto the shore. But Silver wasn't willing to wait ten more minutes, he wanted to save Blaze now. Using his psychokinesis, Silver carried everybody off of the Ocean Tornado and he flew them over to Pirate Island. Marine was practically going crazy with excitement as this happened. She'd always loved the idea of flying and now her dream was coming true. Rad liked how Silver was doing this since Swash and Buckle wouldn't expect him and his team to just come flying into them from up above. A perfect ambush if ever there was one. The moment Silver passed over Pirate Island, he lowered Team Radical down onto the ground where Swash and Buckle, who were now completely golden in appearance as per the reward Captain Metal had given them for Blaze's capture, were waiting for them. They were well surprised to see what was happening and for a moment, they couldn't speak. Before they could speak though, Rad lashed out and whacked them both across the face with his nunchakus. His nunchakus had added blades on the end of them so Rad could do more damage to the two. Swash and Buckle staggered backwards from the blow but they were still standing. Buckle raised his hook hand and tried to impale Rad with it but Rad jumped out of the way, leaving Buckle to get it stuck in the ground. As Buckle tried to wrench it free, Crystal ran towards Buckle and she socked him right in the section of his face where his mouth would be if he had one. Buckle's hook came free from the ground after that punch and he was thrown onto his back. He was still amazed at how a puny polar bear girl could be so strong. Swash raised his cane and aimed its electrical tip at Crystal. Crystal lashed out and grabbed the cane before it could touch her. She shoved it backwards, making Swash hit himself in the face with the cane's handle. Then Crystal yanked the cane out of Swash's hand and jabbed the tip into his throat, shocking him into submission instantly. It's always worse when a robot gets shocked than when an organic gets shocked. Swash collapsed, unconscious onto the ground. Buckle furiously tried to bonk Crystal on the head but the polar bear heard him coming so she dodged his assault and roundhouse kicked him in the side. There were other robot pirates on the island just as Rad had suspected and they could see Swash and Buckle needed help so they ran over towards Team Radical to help their first mates. Gadget and Marine ran towards the oncoming pirate crowd and Gadget dive-bombed into them, knocking many of them over as he flew past them. Marine leapt onto a robot pirate and started thumping it on the head furiously. The pirate tried to skewer her with its cutlass but Marine jumped off, leaving it to accidentally skewer itself in the head.

"What a wally that bot was!" chortled Marine "He should know better than ta skewer himself in the head!"

Team Radical appeared to have the situation under control so Silver flew off towards the silo building with Sonic and Sally in his psychic grasp. As he touched down on top of the building just beside the crane arm though, he spotted the Egg O' War standing motionlessly as it waited to take to the skies and unleash hell on the pitiful planet that it had been built on. Silver stared in disbelief at the Egg O' War. Sonic and Sally could hardly keep their eyes off the giant vessel too for it looked very unusual. Beyond anything they'd ever seen before.

"What is that?" asked Sonic "Looks like a cross between a Jolly Roger symbol and an egg!"

"It looks like the Death Egg design I saw in that book I read…" gasped Silver "Is there an Eggman on this world too?"

"Perhaps." murmured Sally "And that thing likely can do what the Death Egg will be able to do if it greatly resembles the Death Egg.

Do you think we should take it down after we've rescued Blaze?"

"Totally." said Sonic "Solbius isn't falling victim to that thing on my watch. It's bad enough how it seems Mobius will end because of the Death Egg, I'm not letting Solbius have the same fate."

"Then once we've found Blaze, we'll destroy that ship." declared Sally "I hope we find her before it takes flight…"

Silver nodded and he used his psychokinesis to pick himself, Sonic and Sally up and float down onto the floor at the bottom of the building. As they touched down, they took in their surroundings. There was a tortoise shell like pattern on the floor, a throne with gears attached to a track of gears that stretched up to the top of the building and an upper row of seats just a storey up from where they were. Blaze appeared to be nowhere in sight. Maybe she wasn't in the building after all. Silver looked a little disappointed.

"Huh, she's not here." he muttered "She must be on that ship then. Where else could she be?"

"Then it's over to that Pirate Death Egg ship then." said Sonic "If Blaze is there than she can help us destroy that thing."

But before anything could happen, the tortoise shell pattern on the floor suddenly began to separate and split in half, retracting away into the corners of the room. The Mobians all jumped in alarm as the floor opened up to a reveal a circular pool of water splashing about underneath and huge, metallic, blue tentacles began to snake their way up from the water. They loomed above the Mobians, sensing that there was prey in the room and that it had something to snatch up and drag underwater. The three stepped back in terror.

"Holy heck, there's something living under there!" yelped Sonic "And it's got big metal tentacles!"

"Some kind of robo-squid or something?" suggested Silver "In any case, we're getting outta here!"

He was about to fly away but the tentacles lashed out and grabbed hold of Sonic, Sally and Silver. They had moved so fast that Silver didn't see them do so. The Mobians cried out in extreme terror as the tentacles held them aloft and pulled them down into the water. Whilst under the water, they could see that the tentacles did indeed belong to a giant robotic squid. The squid was completely metal and it had glowing orange eyes and glowing orange decals all around its tentacles and eyes. It looked completely monstrous and the size seemed to suggest that it was meant to be a robotic equivalent of the legendary sea monster known as The Kraken. The Kraken glared at its prey delightedly. It was dinner time for The Kraken and Sonic, Sally and Silver are on the menu…

Meanwhile, Captain Metal was on the Egg O' War and was preparing it for launch. He was in the power core chamber, a huge spacious room that had a bridge way connecting to a huge metal base with a metal structure protruding from the top of the base. Another spherical structure loomed about it from the ceiling with a metallic structure protruding from the bottom as if trying to touch the one on the bottom base. He put the Sol Emeralds in-between the two structures and watched as they levitated slightly in a big ball of light that emitted as the two structures did their work. The Sol Emeralds were connecting to the Egg O' War's power core and with their prodigious power working away, the Egg O' War would have power like no other vessel in the world. It would be able to warp from world to world so Captain Metal could take over more worlds than one. The Egg O' War was quite simply the most invincible vessel in the multi-verse and once it launched, nobody would be able to stop it. Captain Metal cackled to himself gleefully.

"Yeesss…now that me Egg O' War be powered up with tharr emeralds that Blaze so kindly donated to me, I shall take flight and make the entire world me pirate crew." purred Captain Metal "And since I'll be able to teleport to other worlds with tharr emerald's powers, I'll be able to make another world me pirate crew! And another, and another! Until finally, the entire multi-verse will be me pirate crew! We'll plunder everything and nobody will stop me! Harr, harr, harr, harr, harrgh!"

His cackling echoed around the room as if the room was laughing with him. With the Sol Emeralds in place, Captain Metal now saw to getting the Egg O' War to launch. A holographic launch sequence emitted in the space before him and he started dialling in the codes. The Egg O' War rumbled as its engines started up. The rumbling could be felt all over the ship, even in the prison chamber where Blaze was currently being held. The beaten fire cat had been tossed into an empty, featureless cell with four walls, a ceiling a door and nothing more. Vapidity at its best although Blaze supposed that given this was a prison cell, it was supposed to feel this way. Blaze could feel the floor rumbling beneath her as the engines of the Egg O' War roared into life and prepared to push the vessel into the sky. Blaze's mind was racing and she forced herself up onto her feet. One thought was on her mind.

No…the ship's preparing to launch…I need to get out of here. And I need to get out of here NOW!

She strained as she forced herself to walk around the room, desperate to find a way out as the ship prepared to ascend…

Now this is what I call a deep sea skirmish! Sonic, Sally and Silver are Kraken food, Blaze is locked up and the Egg O' War is ready to launch! Will our heroes win this battle and make it out alive...?

Other World Encounter Part 3

Story 187: Other World Encounter Part 3: The Egg O' War

The beginning of the end was coming for all organic life on Solbius. And the beginning of the end for all organic life on Solbius was in the form of a giant egg-shaped ship with a skull and crossbones theme to it.

Pirate Island trembled, maybe in fear, as the gigantic vessel that was the Egg O' War began to slowly but steadily rise up from the rocky platform it stood upon. The Egg O' War was a ship built by the nefarious robotic pirate Captain Metal, a Metal Sonic model rebuilt with a pirate theme to its design. Captain Metal had built the Egg O' War for the sole purpose of roboticizing every last Solbian on Solbius and because the Egg O' War was being powered with the Sol Emeralds, it would have the ability to travel to other worlds. Captain Metal would then use the Egg O' War on those worlds too and make the entire multi-verse one big pirate crew for himself. The Egg O' War's engines boosted and flames spouted it from beneath the base of the ship. Water sprayed in every direction as the fumes of the engines slammed down on it. The terrific noise caught the attention of Solbius's native heroes Team Radical. They were fighting the robot pirates that patrolled PirateIsland but the Egg O' War taking off had distracted them. Not that they had to worry about anything since they were pretty much victorious anyway for Swash and Buckle were down on the ground barely moving and all the other robot pirates had been beaten. Rad the Raccoon, the team leader, ran over to the edge of the island and gaped as the Egg O' War slowly ascended into the sky. The takeoff was slow but that just made it look all the more ominous. Crystal the Polar Bear, Gadget the Parrot and Marine the Raccoon all stood behind Rad and watched as the ship took off, mesmerized and intimidated both at once by the size and appearance of the Egg O' War.

"What in the blazes is that?!" shrieked Crystal.

"It's a bloomin' flying Jolly Roger!" squealed Marine "But who the heck's flyin' it?! All the robot pirates are down here!"

"Maybe there's more robot pirates on board." murmured Rad with a serious expression to match his tone of voice "I can say this though, I don't like the look of that ship. If it's pirate made, it's going to be bad. We need to get the others and bring that thing down."

"I agree on that Rad. I for one am heavily uninterested in finding out the nefarious purpose of that aviation vessel before us." said Gadget with a rather worried look on his face.

Team Radical abandoned the defeated robot pirates and turned their back on the Egg O' War to run off towards Captain Metal's base. Sonic the Hedgehog, Silver the Hedgehog and Sally Acorn had gone into the building to see if Blaze the Cat, who had been kidnapped by the robot pirates, was in there. Team Radical would find out for themselves if Blaze was in there and Sonic, Silver and Sally had found her. They ran up to the barred door of the base and Crystal proceeded to grab hold of the door and wrench it free of its sockets. Rad watched admirably. He always did admire how strong Crystal was. Crystal threw the door away and ran into the base. She got the shock of her life as she saw the Kraken looming before her in a pool of water in the middle of the room. The Kraken had hold of Sonic, Silver and Sally and despite holding them underwater for a while, it had let them up for air just so it could have the amusement of pulling them under again. It was delighted to see that it had more prey to play with. It raised a tentacle and lunged at Crystal. Crystal threw herself down on the floor just as the tentacle was about to hit her. She could feel the air rush over her as the tentacle missed and stabbed through the space she had been in a second before. Rad could see that his girlfriend was in trouble so he charged in to help her. Gadget and Marine ran along behind him, seeing if they could help in anyway. The Kraken swiped at them with a huge tentacle but Team Radical leapt up over the tentacle, feeling it sweep underneath their feet as it passed under them. They landed down on the floor and stared at the Kraken, wondering what to do about.

"OK…how the heck do we stop a giant robotic squid?!" blurted Rad.

"Silver has psychic powers, he'll stop it easily!" declared Crystal.

Unfortunately, that wasn't going to be the case for the Kraken was squeezing Sonic, Sally and Silver very tightly. Much to tightly for Silver to even so much as think about using his psychic powers. He needed to be able to think in order to use his powers but when you're being squeezed by a giant metal tentacle, that just isn't possible. Silver could only croak weakly as he felt his air supply diminishing. Sonic and Sally struggled but they couldn't get free at all.

"Grrr…help us…!" grunted Sonic in desperation as the Kraken squeezed him as if trying to squeeze is very life out of him like toothpaste out of its tube.

"Oy you big metal monster, you put my friends down or I'll give ya a ripper beating!" yelled Marine angrily "I warn ya, yer messin' with the great Captain Marine of the Ocean Tornado! I'm so gonna beat ya to death if ya don't let them go this minute!"

"Marine, get away from that thing!" screamed Rad.

Too late. The Kraken grabbed Marine and coiled its tentacle tightly around the raccoon's puny body. Marine tried to scream but the amount of pressure applied on her body from the tentacle's squeezing made even a scream impossible to emit. She couldn't even so much as gasp, more like croak in agony as she was squeezed. The Kraken was going to have more than it thought it was going to eat at this rate. Raising its tentacles, it prepared to grab Rad, Crystal and Gadget. Gadget however flew up off the floor and zoomed towards the Kraken's eye. The Kraken swung a tentacle at Gadget but the parrot flew out of its way, causing the Kraken to hit itself in the eye. The Kraken yelped and emitted a loud, thunderous, mechanical screech that suggested it was in pain although with robots, Gadget could never be fully sure how a robot emotes compared to a Mobian. Due to the Kraken hitting itself in the eye and hurting itself, Sonic, Sally, Silver and Marine found its grip loosening a little around them. This was perfect for Silver could now breathe properly and concentrate on his psychokinesis. He closed his eyes and allowed his body to glow teal. He then used his powers to grab hold of the Kraken's tentacles and force them open. The Kraken just watched, completely bewildered by the fact its tentacles were opening without it wanting them too. It was like they suddenly had a mind of their own. Silver forced open the Kraken's tentacles and then used his psychic powers to catch Sonic, Sally and Marine before they could fall. It was giving him a bit of a headache using so much of his psychokinesis and focusing so much on so many things at once but Silver was determined to come through. With himself and his friends now free, he carried himself and his friends back down onto the floor. They maybe free but the Kraken wasn't down yet. The giant robotical cephalopod roared in anger and it swung a tentacle down towards the Mobians. Silver caught it with his psychokinesis and threw it backwards, causing the Kraken to whip itself in the face. While it was distracted, Sally clipped on her wristbands and clenched her fists, activating her energy blades. Crystal however ran outside to fetch something. The polar bear had an idea but she needed something in order for it to work. Sally stood her ground as the Kraken reached out for her, ready to snag her once again. Sally waited patiently as the tentacle came towards her and she bent down low just as it shot over her head. Sally ran to the tentacle's middle section and she swung her blade at it. The tentacle was severed cleanly in half. The Kraken's reaction as a mixture of rage and anguish and it started pounding the floor and the walls in fury. In its fury, one of its tentacles slammed down beside Sally and Sally proceeded to chop that one in half too. The two tentacles that had been severed by Sally's blades were the ones that protruded from directly under its face. Its face was now less protected with those tentacles missing, a fact that Sonic took to his advantage. He spin-dashed the Kraken directly in the face and knocked it backwards, sending cascades of water streaming out of its pool and all over the floor. This hadn't been a very smart move for the water made the floor slippery and the Mobians had to be careful not to slip. The Kraken lunged at Rad but the raccoon jumped out of the way. Upon landing however, he slipped on the wet floor and landed with a horrible thud on the floor. He grimaced as his back sharply hit the floor and he found himself winded and finding it hard to stand back up. Marine helped Rad stand back up just as the Kraken was about to grab him. Sally chopped its tentacle in half once again and the Kraken reeled back in pain. Then suddenly, Crystal arrived back on the scene. She had Swash's can in his hand, the electrical tip still buzzing furiously. She had planned to throw it into the Kraken's pool and electrocute it but she could see that the floor was wet and she would electrocute everybody else as well so an evacuation was in order.

"Everybody outta here now!" screeched Crystal "I'm gonna finish that thing off!"

"You got it Crystal!" cried Rad.

He could see Crystal's plan from a mile away so he didn't hesitate for a minute. The Mobians all ran for it with the Kraken swatting down at their heels with its remaining tentacles. It even pulled itself onto the edge of the pool as if trying to follow them but no such luck. Its large size and missing tentacles made the job very cumbersome. It would take ages for the Kraken to catch up with its escaping prey. It would never catch up to them though. Crystal gave the Kraken a dirty look of disgust and abhorrence and she tossed the electric cane onto the wet floor just in front of the Kraken, turning and running the moment the cane left her hand. The cane landed on the floor and a current of electricity travelled across the water and to the Kraken. Water and electricity are elements that should never be combined. They don't mix and thus, anyone in the water is instantly electrocuted. The Kraken was in for terrible pain for it was sitting in a pool of water, the floor around said pool was wet and the Kraken itself was wet. The electrical current from Swash's cane turned the Kraken's pool into a pool of agony. The Kraken screeched as it was brutally electrocuted. One could almost feel sorry for the creature as it was subjected to such terrible pain and torture. The tentacles writhed around as if trying to swat the electricity away but that just wasn't possible. The Kraken could only feebly try to fight the electrical current as it coursed through its circuitry. The torture carried on until the Kraken short-circuited and then erupted into a terrible explosion that tore it apart piece by piece from the inside. The explosion hammered against the walls of the base and even buckled them. It held firm but there were noticeable splits around the top of the building as if the explosion had tried to split it in two and the walls were buckled and dented. Captain Metal would not be pleased to see what had become of his base. The Mobians all watched the base buckle under the pressure of the explosion and Crystal punched the air triumphantly.

"Oh yeah baby! Team Radical ONE, ugly robot squid thing ZERO!" she squealed delightedly "I knew Swash's cane would come in handy!"

"That was a brilliant idea Crystal." complimented Rad, hugging his girlfriend in congratulations "Well done. I bet Swash won't be too happy that his cane killed that robot squid thing."

"I bet not indeed Raddy." beamed Crystal, hugging him back.

"Well now we have eluded the clutches of that cephalopod-shaped behemoth, we now have to stop that rather gargantuan aviation vessel before it can do something terrible." noted Gadget, pointing up at the Egg O' War, which was now half-way up into the sky and still climbing.

"Strewth! We'll never catch that bloomin' thing now!" squealed Marine "It's too high up! How can we stop it from flying?!"

"Easy." said Silver "We've got me remember? I'll fly us all up there."

"And with my blades, we can cut our way in." declared Sally "Once we're aboard, we destroy that ship."

"And if Blaze is on there, we'll rescue her at the same time." added Sonic "She wasn't in that building so she must be on that ship. Or at the most, it's likely she's on that ship."

Sally nodded agreeably. It didn't seem like Blaze could be anywhere else on the island. There was only one building and that was Captain Metal's base, which they had just been in and she wasn't there. The Egg O' War was definitely the only place Blaze could possibly be on now. Silver used his psychokinesis to grab hold of everybody and he flew up towards the ascending Egg O' War. It wasn't so high that the atmosphere was too thin yet so the Mobians would survive. Silver was also a very fast flier. He was already halfway through the distance between the ground and the Egg O' War. They'd be onboard in no time…

Meanwhile, Blaze the Cat had observed the whole of the tiny, bare cell that she had been locked up in and to her utter annoyance, she had not found a single way out of the cell. She hadn't even thought of using her fire powers, instantly assuming that the Egg O' War's cells were likely made of heatproof metal too. She was trapped. Blaze slumped against the wall and she fumed furiously to herself. Why did she have to get captured by Swash and Buckle? Why didn't she just use the Sol Emeralds to escape Captain Metal before they got into that battle? Blaze didn't know the answer to those questions but she did feel very foolish for not using the Sol Emeralds to escape when she had the chance. She should have used them the moment she had woken up. But as with any person in the world, small details like that can be easily overlooked no matter how bright you are. Blaze was reasonably intelligent but even she had moments where she could overlook something so obvious. It's only natural that small things or even big things can occasionally slip your mind. Blaze made sure that if she ever get out of this cell, she would never forget to use the Sol Emeralds when she had them on her ever again. Now of course, she had to escape so she would live to learn that lesson. If she stayed here, the Egg O' War would do its nefarious purpose and then Captain Metal would kill her. With Blaze dead, Sonic, Silver and Sally would be stranded here forever although it wouldn't matter since they'd all be robot pirates serving Captain Metal once the Egg O' War unleashed its power. Blaze thought hard to herself. How could she possibly escape from this cell? There were no escape routes, no lose panels that she could use to breakout and the cell was very likely heatproof so her fire powers were out of the question. Plus she still felt weakened from Captain Metal's earlier beating, she wouldn't be at her best strength to break out anyway. She needed a plan and she needed it fast. Then Blaze suddenly realized that she had a way out. If there was a guard outside the cell door, maybe she could trick it into letting her out. It was certainly worth a try. Blaze gritted her teeth as she forced herself onto her feet. Her injuries hadn't healed at all, she was still in great pain. But her injuries weren't going to bring her down, not while there was a world at stake. Blaze rapped on the door, hoping to receive an answer.

"What do you want?!" snapped a fierce, pirate like voice from the other side of the door.

Outside Blaze's cell was a spherical looking robot pirate with green body paint and a metal beard. It had cutlasses sheathed on its back and a peg leg. Blaze could hardly believe her luck. There WAS a guard outside her cell! Why did Captain Metal feel the need to put a guard outside the cell if her cell was as inescapable as it seemed? Maybe she'd overestimated the cell and it obviously wasn't as inescapable as she thought. Or maybe the guard was just there to mock her or beat her up if Captain Metal was feeling bored, Blaze didn't care. She got what she needed and now she needed to put her plan into action.

"So you're…here to guard…me I suppose?" sneered Blaze "I guess…Captain Metal didn't think this…cell was very hardy if…he thinks a puny guard…such as yourself should…be on duty to keep me locked up. If this cell was inescapable…he wouldn't need you now would he?"

"What are you getting at lassie?" snorted the pirate.

"If I need guarding…then this cell must be…useless at keeping me imprisoned." jeered Blaze "Heck, this may surprise you…but I think there's a loose panel in the ceiling."

"That be preposterous, this cell is inescapable!" declared the pirate.

"Wanna bet?" scoffed Blaze "Come…in here…and stop me before I escape through…the ceiling! There's a panel loose. It's loosening… just one more shove and…"

The guard was about to malfunction. He was sure Blaze was bluffing but at the same time he couldn't be sure. He couldn't see what was going on in the cell so Blaze could be telling the truth for all he knew. He had to check and see if the ceiling did have a loose panel. The door was just a big solid rectangle of metal with no windows so there was no way of seeing into the cell. The guard placed his hand against the handprint scanner that opened the door for him. He ran into the cell only to see that the ceiling was indeed intact but Blaze was nowhere to be seen. Before he could work out where she was, the door suddenly slammed shut behind him, trapping him inside the cell. The guard knew exactly what had happened. Blaze had been hiding next to the door and had slipped out the moment he entered the cell. The cell door was programmed to close once anybody left. It was meant to be for the guard to be that one person that left but Blaze had left the cell so the door closed. The guard banged on it furiously.

"Oy! Open this door!" he bellowed "Get back here prisoner!"

Blaze ignored the guard and she ran down the corridor. Or at least, tried to run as best as she possibly could considering her injuries. Her legs weren't as injured as the rest of her body so they were more functional and she was in less pain when she used them. Blaze darted down the corridor only to then suddenly stop to catch her breath. Her injuries were taking hold so her stamina was considerably weakened. Plus she had no idea where she was going. This was the Egg O' War, something she'd never been on before. She couldn't possibly find the Sol Emeralds without knowing where to go. Blaze closed her eyes and concentrated. She would just have to sense the Sol Emerald's presence. She let the flames in her soul flicker as they reached out for the flames of the Sol Emeralds.

"Come on…where are you my…emeralds?" murmured Blaze as she tried to find the emeralds.

Then suddenly, she felt a sharp pain in her chest and she winced tensely. Something was reacting with the Sol Emeralds. It was the Egg O' War's power core chamber using their power for its own. Because of this, Blaze was able to pinpoint their exact location now.

"Guh…they're in the heart of the ship itself!" growled Blaze, rubbing her chest better "Good. Then I can take…them back and make…this abomination crash down and hopefully take Captain Metal with it!"

Now she knew where to go, Blaze set off down the corridor again, using her connection to the Sol Emeralds to guide her. It was much easier for her now she knew exactly where they were. Once she got to the power core chamber, Blaze would make Captain Metal sorry he was ever created. Blaze found herself coming to the end of a corridor but there was a nearby doorway that seemed to lead up somewhere. Being how Blaze had been locked in a cell, it was obvious she was in the bottom of the Egg O' War. Nobody puts a cell on an upper floor, always the bottom floor. The doorway could only lead upwards. Blaze ran to the doorway and saw that it indeed led upwards. She ran up the steps and found herself in another corridor. She ran to the end of that one and found another flight of stairs that led upwards. She could feel the fire getting hotter inside her as the Sol Emeralds got closer and closer to their location. So hot in fact Blaze could practically feel them in their hands already. She must be very close to their location already. As Blaze made it to the top of the second flight of stairs she'd come across, she ran down another corridor, following where she'd pinpointed the Sol Emeralds. She could see a sign at the end saying "This way to the power core chamber" printed on the wall at the end of the corridor. Blaze almost wanted to laugh at that sign. It seemed pretty ridiculous to put up a sign saying where such an important room was. Anybody looking for the power core chamber would know where to look now. Blaze knew that's where the Sol Emeralds would be. After all, the power core chamber was the ship's equivalent to a heart after all, only without the beating. Blaze followed the scene and came across a door that was locked shut and had a hand print scanner that was clearly meant for Captain Metal to use. It matched the shape of his hand. Blaze wouldn't be able to open the door with that so she did the only thing she could do in order to break in. She summoned fire to her hands and punched the scanner with all her might. The scanner was broken and the door opened, revealing another flight of stairs, but only a short flight this time. Blaze had to stop and rest for a moment though for she was feeling tired and couldn't go on any longer. Her injuries really weren't helping but her desire to find the Sol Emeralds had somehow eased the pain a little. She still had her limits though. Blaze rested for five minutes before forcing herself up the stairs. She found herself inside the power core chamber and she saw that the seven Sol Emeralds were indeed in the chamber itself. Captain Metal was standing before a giant machine and the Sol Emeralds were hovering between the two prongs with energy feeding from them into the machinery. Captain Metal was using the Sol Emeralds to power up the Egg O' War. That made Blaze grit her teeth in unfathomable fury. How dare this scumbag pirate use her emeralds to power up his evil machine?! Well Blaze would put a stop to that! Captain Metal maybe heatproof and impervious to pain but he wasn't unbeatable. Blaze had beaten him in their first outing and she'd do it again. The beating she'd taken earlier would make that difficult but once she got her emeralds back, she would reduce Captain Metal into ashes. Blaze walked into the power core chamber, watching Captain Metal closely. He was too busy watching the Sol Emeralds and the altitude of the Egg O' War to notice that he had an intruder. Blaze was pleased. She could launch a sneak attack on Captain Metal. If she'd stolen a cutlass from her guard, she could have just sneaked up behind Captain Metal and run him through. But she didn't have a cutlass and being Captain Metal was heatproof now, a sword likely wouldn't be enough to penetrate him. She had to get Captain Metal away from the Sol Emeralds and then power up with them. She was too weak to fight Captain Metal as she was now. Blaze crept as quietly as she could towards Captain Metal but upon standing on the bridge way that led to the power core machine, Captain Metal suddenly wheeled around and spotted her. He hadn't heard her and turned around, he'd simply turned around and just happened to turn around as Blaze was coming. His singular optic stared at her as if she'd come down with bubonic plague and he was afraid of getting infected.

"Shiver me timbers!" he blurted in surprise "Blaze tharr Cat! How tharr heck did ye break outta yer prison cell?!"

"Your guard had a change of heart and decided to let me go." sniffed Blaze "Now I've found you Captain Miscreant, you're going to pay for kidnapping me, stealing my emeralds and using them to power up your abomination you call a vessel!"

Captain Metal just laughed mockingly at Blaze as if the cat was out of her mind.

"Ye seriously believe that ye can stop me?" purred Captain Metal "Ye be a brain dead landlubber if ye seriously believe that ye can stop me! Look at ye, ye can barely stand up! The beating I gave ye earlier is still taking a bad effect on ya lassie! Ye will not be able to fight with me!"

"I maybe weakened…but I'm not down yet." growled Blaze "As long as I'm alive, there's always a chance that I'll stop you!"

"Nay lassie, there be no chance of stopping me now." boasted Captain Metal "See this? I'm at tharr right altitude to fire me roboticizer wave."

He pointed to his left at the holographic screen that displayed the Egg O' War's altitude over his shoulder. It was nearly in space it had gone so high. But Captain Metal had said he was at the right altitude to fire the wave. It was obvious he thought this was high enough. The holographic screen then suddenly changed shape and a different option appeared on it. It now said "Pirate Roboticizer Wave Ready for Activation. Commence with activation?" and it had the options of Yes and No available. Blaze stared in horror as Captain Metal's metal claw hovered over the yes option.

"No…don't do it!" begged Blaze "Don't roboticize all of…Solbius! Please!"

"Give me a good reason why I shouldn't Blaze." snarled Captain Metal "Before I ever ended up on Solbius thanks to that blasted light in tharr sky, me purpose under me original creator was to destroy his enemies and roboticize the entire world. I may not be on me old world anymore but I want to fulfil me original purpose. After all, everything has a purpose in tharr world. Without purpose…we be nothing."

"You can have a better purpose…than wanton destruction and… dictatorship!" screamed Blaze "Your goals are evil and…even nonsensical in a way! I mean…what happens when you roboticize the entire…multi-verse and make…everybody a robot pirate? What will the point…of your life be after that? You'll have no purpose… anymore!"

"That lassie be where you're wrong." sniffed Captain Metal "Me purpose will be to keep all tharr multi-verse under control. I'll have the biggest purpose in all of existence! If I'm in charge of infinite planets full of robot pirates, they'll all be relying on their creatorrr to keep them in check. Me purpose will be more important than anybody else's! Mayhap it be more important than all of existence itself."

"But is this really…the kind of purpose you want?!" cried Blaze "To rule planets upon planets full of the same verminous robotic pirates…that you love? Won't the universe…be boring if it's all just robot pirates and nothing more? I mean, you'll have nothing to plunder or fight for!"

"Fie Blaze, I knew fer certain that me robot pirates may turn on me at any available opportunity so life will not be boring! It be interesting to see how long I'll be able to hold me control over them before any of them revolt. And if they revolt…they'll be fighting a losing battle. I'll just use me Egg O' War to destroy them all."

"So if your own minions double-cross them…you'll wipe them out?!" screeched Blaze "You're sick and you're mine!"

"Can ye stop me before I press tharr button?" sneered Captain Metal.

Blaze didn't answer that question. Instead she just threw fire into Captain Metal's face. Captain Metal was unharmed of course but with Blaze's fire in his face, he couldn't see anything but flames. He pushed his way through the fire towards Blaze. Seizing her chance, Blaze lashed out and hooked her foot around Captain Metal's ankle. She tripped him up and brought him down onto his back. Then she kicked him off the bridge way and down onto the floor below. Blaze was disappointed that there wasn't a bottomless drop under the bridge but it didn't matter, Captain Metal was distracted and out of her way. She ran over towards the holographic screen and pressed the no option. Unfortunately…it didn't work. The screen went red in colour and said electronically "Access Denied". Blaze couldn't tell the computer not to go with the roboticization. Thus she would have to do the obvious best thing. Destroy the Egg O' War. The Sol Emeralds loomed before her, waiting to be used. Blaze was about to grab the Sol Emeralds until something blasted her in the back and brought her down onto her knees. Captain Metal had shot her and now he was climbing back up to the bridge way. He hopped back onto the bridge and he stabbed at the holographic screen's yes option. The screen disappeared and a flare of energy flowed through the Egg O' War. Blaze screamed in agony as the Sol Emeralds reacted to the Egg O' War's energy feed and the roboticizer wave was activated. Captain Metal cackled delightedly. His plan was complete, the roboticizer wave had activated. Under the Egg O' War, a huge white wave expanded all around Solbius, transforming everything that it touched into a robotical pirate. Citizens all over Solbius screamed as the wave hit them and transformed them. They didn't even have a chance as the wave brushed over them. Swash, Buckle and the robot pirates on Pirate Island were instantly destroyed by the wave though since roboticizers destroy anything that's already a robot. Not that it mattered to Captain Metal. They had literally been cannon fodder up until this point. Blaze managed to turn herself around, ignoring the pain in her back as she lay against the power core machine. She stared in horror as a screen lit up, showing Captain Metal what was going on down below. She nearly fainted as she saw everybody on Solbius being transformed into robot pirates.

"NOOOOO!" screamed Blaze in despair, her eyes full of angry and horrified tears.

"Oh yes lassie! I have succeeded!" crowed Captain Metal "Solbius will be me first pirate crew and ye were helpless to stop me! Even Team Rrrradical haven't shown up to stop me! Harr, harr, harrgh!"

"You monster! Why are you so evil?! WHY?!" wailed Blaze angrily.

"I was built that way." sniffed Captain Metal "Why do ye think I be like this? Now one last problem to deal with."

He pressed his blade over Blaze's heart, pinning the fire cat against the machine and himself. Blaze gulped. Captain Metal had cornered her in their first battle and nearly killed her. Now he had her cornered again and was going to kill her.

"Harr, harr…déjà vu it be lassie." gloated Captain Metal "Now I was going to be an honourable pirate and let ye live until ye begged for mercy. But now I be forced to kill you now. Such a shame too. Ye were a good opponent Blaze but all good things must come to an end I'm afraid."

"You're making a mistake!" snarled Blaze "I have friends back on Mobius Prime who will avenge my death! As a matter of fact, Silver…ended up here again as well as me and he'll…be looking for me right now! Kill me now and he'll kill you! It's…a lose-lose situation for both of us!"

"And you believe that Silver will reach tharr Egg O' War before tharr roboticizer wave hits him?" sneered Captain Metal "He's probably being roboticized as we speak! He'll be a robot pirate forced to serve me and address me as "Captain"! So this is actually a win-win situation fer me."

"Silver can fly. He'll have flown out of the way before the wave can get him." retorted Blaze "He's probably flying towards your disgusting chip right now."

"Then I'll just kill him the moment he arrives if that be the case!" declared Captain Metal "Now say yer prayers Blaze tharr Cat!"

He drew his arm backwards and was about to impale Blaze directly through the chest with his blade but before he could finish off Blaze…he stopped. His arm wouldn't move. Captain Metal tried to continue his blade on its journey into Blaze's heart but it refused to budge. Then Blaze noticed that Captain Metal had a teal glow around him. That could only mean one thing…Silver was here at last! Captain Metal found himself being picked up off the floor and then thrown to one side where he crashed into the wall and dented it. He fell down heavily onto the floor. With Captain Metal out of the way, Blaze could see that Silver was indeed here and he had Sally, Sonic and Team Radical with him. Blaze couldn't be more happy to see them then right now. Straining, Blaze forced herself up and Silver threw himself into her arms.

"Blaze! Thank goodness we got here!" cried Silver "I was so worried about you! I thought you'd be in terrible trouble or something!"

"I was…until you showed up." said Blaze happily "However did you…find me?"

"Well a giant flying egg with a skull and crossbones on it isn't exactly hard to miss." scoffed Sonic "And being we couldn't find you on the ground, we guessed you'd be up here. As for how we got to you, Sally cut us inside and Gadget hacked into the ship's computers to find the power core chamber since we're here to destroy the ship."

"It was simply a coincidence you just happened to be there Blaze." said Gadget matter-of-factly.

"And Captain Metal too." muttered Rad "I can't believe he's still alive." he growled with a seething contempt dominating his tone of voice "I thought we'd seen the last of that monster during the multi-verse crisis…"

"So did I." muttered Blaze "Now…listen to me. The Egg O' War… has activated a roboticizer wave. It's roboticizing everybody down on the ground! We…need to stop it!"

The Mobians gasped in horror and they looked at each other incredulously.

"NO!" cried Rad "Our home…it's…being roboticized?!"

"Thank goodness we got onboard before it fired then." said Crystal, her face full of shock "Gadget, hack into this thing and reverse the wave's effects!"

"I shall strive to accomplish that task Crystal!" cried Gadget quickly.

He dashed over to the holographic screen that was still showing the effects of the roboticizer wave that was spreading over Solbius. Gadget began to tap away on the screen, seeing whatever he could do to reverse its effects.

"As for you Blaze, you need healing." said Silver, using his psychokinesis to grab the Sol Emeralds and carry them away from the power core "Here you go, I believe these are yours."

Blaze graciously took the Sol Emeralds into her hands, pleased to feel them in her possession once again.

"Uh Silver, don't you think the Sol Emeralds were making this thing fly?" asked Sally unsurely "We're going to fall out of the sky if you take them out.

"Captain…Metal didn't know about my…emeralds at first." explained Blaze "He…wouldn't have built…the Egg O' War with them in mind to power…it up. The ship…doesn't necessarily need them. He likely…used them so the…Egg O' War could use their power…to onto other worlds…since he planned to roboticize…all of the multi-verse."

"Ah, makes sense to me." said Sally "So the ship will remain airborne. Once Gadget reverses what the Egg O' War's done, we'll get off the ship and Blaze can use her emeralds to destroy it."

Using the Sol Emeralds, Blaze performed a Sol Regeneration on herself, the Sol Emerald's equivalent to a Chaos Regeneration. As Blaze held up the emeralds, she was engulfed in a bright flash of light and fire. Captain Metal picked himself up and he stared in fury at Blaze as her injuries slowly but steadily began to heal themselves. He could practically see her cuts closing shut and her bruises melting away into Blaze's natural colours as the regeneration began. He wanted to stop Blaze but he knew he'd be too late. It didn't matter though, Captain Metal would merely beat Blaze up all over again. As Blaze's Sol Regeneration completed, Captain Metal took aim at her. He was going to shoot her through the head. Unfortunately for him, Blaze spotted him and she rocketed towards him in a torpedo of flames. She struck Captain Metal and slammed him against the wall. So hard that Captain Metal not only dented the wall, but he bent the back of his hat in the impact. Blaze clutched him by the throat and she summoned fire to her free hand.

"It's over Captain Metal!" she snarled "You have lost! The Sol Emeralds are back in my possession, your plan is being undone and your ship will be destroyed! Surrender now and you might live long enough to be scrap metal for somebody to use as spare parts!"

"Nay lassie! I am not defeated yet! I'll peel the flesh off yer bones fer ruining me plans! Not just you, but all of her landlubber friends!" roared Captain Metal. The anger in his voice was like that of a wild tiger.

He swung his head forward but Blaze was already launching her punch at him before his head could connect with hers. Captain Metal's attempted head butt had just ended up delivering himself into Blaze's fist. Blaze's fire-enhanced fist slammed callously into the middle of Captain Metal's face, slamming his head backwards against the wall and crushing the back of his hat flat against the back of his head. Blaze then grabbed Captain Metal by the neck section of his cloak and he threw him across the room. Captain Metal crashed into the base of the Egg O' War's power core machine and he slid down to the floor at the bottom. Blaze jumped down after him and started whaling on him as hard as she could. The Sol Regeneration had given Blaze new strength and agility so she was fighting much better than she had done before. She punched Captain Metal in the face and then uppercut him in the chin, nearly taking his head off. Captain Metal took every blow she threw without feeling anything since he couldn't feel pain anymore but he was getting frustrated at how fast Blaze was throwing her punches. He couldn't keep up with her. Blaze roundhouse kicked Captain Metal in the side of his head and threw him down onto the floor. Captain Metal picked himself up and he blasted at Blaze but Blaze blocked the attack with a wall of flames. She summoned fire to her hands and swiped at Captain Metal, hitting him with a wave of flames that swept over him. Captain Metal just walked straight through them and ran up towards Blaze. Captain Metal slugged Blaze in the gut and elbowed her on the head, throwing her down onto the floor. He tried to cut her head off while she was down, raising his gun arm and aiming the blade underneath at her neck. Blaze rolled out of the way, leaving Captain Metal to get it stuck in the floor. As he tried to free it, Blaze kicked Captain Metal furiously in the chest. She then kicked Captain Metal so hard that as he snapped backwards, his entire right arm wrenched itself free from his shoulder, leaving only the ball joint it had been attached to behind. The arm was still stuck in the floor but Captain Metal wasn't going to leave it there. He grabbed his broke gun arm by the handle shaped elbow and wrenched it free from the floor. He couldn't shoot anymore now the arm was broken but he could still use it as a sword. He swung the arm at Blaze, nearly catching her with the blade but Blaze ducked, allowing the sword to sweep over her head. Captain Metal kicked Blaze in the thigh and knocked her down onto one knee. He tried to cut Blaze in two with the blade on his gun arm but Blaze leapt up and slugged him in the gut, making him double-over. Blaze had the perfect opportunity to kick Captain Metal directly in the cranium as his head was lowered, Captain Metal was sent hurling backwards into the wall. In the impact, he dropped his broken gun arm. Blaze grabbed it, surprised at how heavy it was as she lifted it up, and she plunged the blade into Captain Metal's chest. Captain Metal felt the blade penetrating him but no pain registered in his body. He was however aware that he had been impaled and was severely damaged. His limbs twitched and he growled furiously, his voice going static slightly and his optic brightening and going dull back and forth.

"C-c-curse y-you…B-B-Blaze tharr…Cat!" he croaked.

His head fell back, his remaining arm fell limp by his side and his optic switched off. Captain Metal appeared to be finished off once again. Blaze stomped on his head.

"And this time…STAY DEAD!" she snarled, her mouth a snarling maw of gritted teeth and her eyes a hideous scowl of fury that looked out of place on such a beautiful face like hers.

Now Captain Metal was dealt with, she looked up on the bridge way and saw that the others were still working on reversing the Egg O' War's roboticization wave. She leapt up onto the bridge and watched to see what was happening. Gadget was typing furiously on the holographic screen and clearly trying to sort out what to do about the roboticizer wave. Unfortunately for him, while he was able to interact with the computer, he couldn't get it to accept his requests or do what he wanted it to. It kept denying him access to the Egg O' War's main controls. Gadget was sweating now. He gripped his head and began panicking.

"It's hopeless! Absolutely hopeless!" he cried out "The primary interfacing system is immune to my commands! It won't respond to what I'm trying to do with it!"

"How can we reverse the roboticizer wave?" asked Rad frantically "If you can't use the computer, what can we do to reverse it?"

"I know." said Blaze "Silver, bring Captain Metal's body up here. Only he can use that computer."

Silver obeyed and he used his psychokinesis to pick up Captain Metal's dead body. He carried the insidious robot pirate up towards them and he put him down beside Gadget. Blaze held him upright and Gadget lifted up Captain Metal's left arm. He pointed one of his claws at the screen and began using the claw to do what he had been trying to do with his own fingers on the holographic screen. The computer responded to Captain Metal's claw and Gadget was successfully able to do what he needed to do. In a moment, the roboticizer wave was reversed and ready to fire. Gadget used Captain Metal's claw to press the "Yes" option when the options screen came up. The Mobians now stood back and watched as the wave fired down on Solbius below. The de-roboticizer wave swept over the planet and in a matter of moments, the robotic pirates that the wave had created suddenly began to lose their metal bodies and regain their organic bodies. Captain Metal's pirate crew had been eliminated as quickly as it had been born. The Solbians all cheered as they were turned back to normal and the wave continued all around Solbius until every last Solbian had been restored to normal. Up on the Egg O' War, Team Radical whooped with joy.

"YES! We did it!" cried Rad ecstatically "We saved all of Solbius again!"

"And to think Captain Metal nearly won!" cried Crystal excitedly "But we beat him, and this time for good!"

"Just to make double-sure he's dead…" said Silver.

He reached out with his psychokinesis and grabbed Captain Metal with his powers. He closed his eyes, focused hard on Metal's body and then clenched his fist. The dead body as crushed instantly and reduced to nothing more than a sorry crumple of metal with a ragged cape attached to it. Silver threw the remains away from the bridge.

"Now Captain Metal's dead and Solbius is saved, there's only one thing left to do." said Sally "Destroy the Egg O' War. We can't have Solbius being reminded of its darkest hour after all."

"Allow me." said Blaze "I'll Sol Control Team Radical down to the ground and return you, Sonic and Silver home Sally. With you all safe and sound, I'll use the emeralds to power myself up enough to destroy this Egg O' War."

"Sounds good to me Blaze." said Sonic "I'd love to stay and watch myself but…then I'd be cooked alive. Ha, ha…we'll see you back on Mobius Prime when you're finished."

"Indeed you will." said Blaze.

She turned to Team Radical with a smile on her face.

"It's a pity I didn't get much time to meet you again." she said "But it is nice to see you four again. I'm afraid I can't stay though, I have to go now."

"We understand." said Rad, shaking Blaze's hand "Thanks for destroying Captain Metal all over again and for helping to save our world."

"My pleasure." said Blaze, beaming "I hope you all have a good life now he's gone for good."

"Strewth, we will indeed Blaze." said Marine with a smile "Bye Blaze! Hope to see ya again someday!"

"I hope so too." said Blaze happily.

"One more thing, warp us onto the Ocean Tornado please." said Crystal "We don't wanna leave that moored to Pirate Island forever."

"Certainly." said Blaze.

Without further ado, Blaze used her Sol Emeralds to emit a Sol Control. With the emeralds, she opened up two fiery portals for the Mobians and Solbians. One led to the Ocean Tornado and one led back to New Mobotropolis. The Solbians took the left portal, which was the one that led to the Ocean Tornado. The Mobians took the portal on the right. Silver gave Blaze a loving smile over his shoulder before he went into the portal. Blaze smiled back and watched as the portal disappeared into nothing. Now that everybody was safe and out of harm's way, Blaze turned around to the face the Egg O' War's power core machine. She stepped up on top of the bottom prong and summoned the Sol Emeralds into her hands.

"Now time to fry this abomination." she growled softly to herself.

Closing her eyes, she allowed the Sol Emeralds to circle her body and engulf her in a bright flash of light and spiralling fire. Blaze was turning into Burning Blaze once again but only for the purpose of destroying the Egg O' War. In a matter of seconds, her transformation was complete and Burning Blaze was here once again. She summoned much fire to her body and then fire boosted through the ceiling. Burning Blaze tore through the metal of the Egg O' War as if it were merely paper. She ploughed her way through the Egg O' War's chassis, destroying every inch of metal and circuitry that stood in her way. She blasted fire out in all directions and exploded through the top of the Egg O' War like a missile ploughing through its target. Burning Blaze then came around for another attack, ploughing through the Egg O' War's hull and rocketing through its inner body once again. She emerged through the skull face, breaking a huge hole through the skull face as she did so. The damage on the Egg O' War was incredible. There were holes in the top and sides of the vessel and smoke billowing out from the holes but it was still airborne. Not for long though. Burning Blaze then turned around, not quite finished with her work yet. She summoned a huge fireball to her hands and she blasted the Egg O' War with a rocket of fire that could rival even the biggest bonfire display you can imagine. The Egg O' War's hull couldn't take anymore damage. The fire blast churned through the metal and fried its innards to molten slag. The entire centre of the Egg O' War was completely destroyed, the interior being completely unrecognizable to anybody. The damage done to the Egg O' War was enough to finally bring it down. The Egg O' War had flown straight up so it fell straight down, right on top of the rocks it had been based on before take off. As it crashed down onto the rocks, it overbalanced and ended up crashing down onto Pirate Island, flattening half of the island and throwing water over the rest. Pirate Island was no more. Only Captain Metal's base remained visible above the ocean but that wasn't much to go on when the rest of the island was submerged. Satisfied with her handiwork, Burning Blaze used a Sol Control to disappear from Solbius and return to Mobius Prime. She had done it. Captain Metal was dead, Solbius was safe. She had no reason to stay on Solbius anymore. Now she had warped home to Mobius Prime where she could resume her original mission, to prevent the Death Egg from seeing the light of day…

Had Burning Blaze not been so focused on destroying the Egg O' War, she may have noticed that there was something cruising through the ocean. It was Captain Metal! Captain Metal had activated yet another contingency plan of his. Prior to his resurrection after the multi-verse crisis had concluded, he had built spare bodies for himself in the event he should get destroyed once again. His bodies had been programmed to send his consciousness to the next model up once his original body was dead and destroyed. His original body had only died in front of Blaze's eyes because his consciousness had been transported to the next body, which was the same as his old body only with a slightly darker colour scheme. Silver had merely crushed an empty shell. Sadly for Captain Metal, the body he had now was the only one he had left. The rest of his new bodies had been destroyed along with the Egg O' War. Captain Metal would have to make sure he didn't die in this body or he would be permanently dead. Now Captain Metal was cruising through the seas in an escape pod that took him towards Sol Island. His escape pod had launched shortly after the de-roboticizer wave had activated so he was way ahead of Team Radical. In fact, he had even arrived back at the island now. His escape pod was very fast after all and literally just as Burning Blaze teleported back to Mobius Prime, he had pulled up to the shore. He had not pulled up on the beach though, he had pulled up in an unpopulated area of the island. Captain Metal left the escape pod and he went wild with rage, screaming in rage at the top of his voice as if hoping the heavens above could hear him.

"I can't believe tharr bloody fire cat foiled me plans AGAIN!" he raved, kicking the sand beneath his metal feet furiously "Damn her! Damn that Blaze! Damn her to Davy Jones's locker! When I get me hands on that impudent woman, I'm going to rip her to pieces! I'll send her to the bottom of tharr ocean and leave her to rot fer all eternity! She has not heard, nor seen tharr last of tharr great Captain Metal!"

He stopped ranting and then came to a realization.

"But tharr lass has likely gone back to her own world now." he muttered "I be stuck here on Solbius, she be back on Mobius Prime now. How will I get me revenge on her if I be stuck here? I need a way of transporting myself onto Mobius Prime…"

Then suddenly, it seemed as if luck would have it for he looked up and saw a little twin-tailed fox asking a brown dog in a leather coat something. It was Tails. Back on Mobius Prime, he had managed to find out that Sonic, Sally, Silver and Blaze had been sent to another world and he had grabbed a Chaos Emerald to start warping to other worlds in hopes of finding them. He had ended up on Solbius after a few searches on other worlds and was now asking the dog if he'd seen them anywhere. He'd looked on all the Sol Islands and was now on the main island itself in hopes of finding them. Captain Metal eyed the green Chaos Emerald in Tails's hand eagerly and he crept up towards Tails in hopes of snatching the emerald. Tails didn't notice Captain Metal as he crept up towards him.

"So sir, have you seen the people I described to you?" asked Tails hopefully.

"No kiddo, I haven't seen anybody like that." said the dog sadly "I wouldn't really think Solbius was a place where Prime Zoners would visit anyway."

"I'm sorry to have wasted your time then sir." said Tails "Have a nice day."

"Cheers mate, you too." said the dog, walking away and whistling nonchalantly.

Tails was a little disappointed now. He'd been searching everywhere and he couldn't find Sonic, Sally, Silver or Blaze. It seemed he was on a wild goose chase at this point in time.

"Well, I guess this isn't going to work." murmured Tails "I should build something that'll make my job easier really. Maybe a scanner that can pick up Prime Zoner signatures. I'll see what I can do when I get back."

He raised the Chaos Emerald and activated a Chaos Control. Unfortunately for him, Captain Metal had grabbed hold of his hand, catching Tails by surprise, and he yelled "Chaos…CONTROL!" upon grabbing Tails. The Chaos Emerald ended up taking both of them back to Mobius Prime, the two disappearing in a bright green flash that disappeared after a few seconds. Captain Metal was coming to Mobius Prime…and he was out for revenge. Blaze was not safe now Captain Metal had followed her home…

Oh dear...Captain Metal's coming to Mobius Prime! What will happen to him now? And what will Blaze think to this? Join me next time as we begin a new countdown, starting with "Adabat in Peril"...

Plan of Attack

Story 188: Plans of Attack

Countdown to Death Egg: 7

"Ah…it's good to be home again." said Sonic the Hedgehog happily as he, Sally Acorn and Silver the Hedgehog returned to New Mobotropolis in a flash of fire and light.

Things had been pretty eventful lately for Mobius's biggest hero, New Mobotrolis's ruler and the two future dwelling Mobians that had a big goal in mind, to save Mobius from future destruction. First they had infiltrated the Egg-Bunker in order to steal sensitive information from Dr. Eggman, then a portal had opened up and somebody had shoved them through it, then they had ended up on the alternate world of Solbius and all sorts of hi-jinks had ensued while they had been there. Captain Metal had turned out to be alive and had kidnapped Blaze the Cat so he could get revenge on her, then he'd used his Egg O' War to roboticize all of Solbius but luckily, his plans had been reversed and Solbius had been saved. Now Sonic, Sally and Silver had been returned back to Mobius Prime while she destroyed the Egg O' War. As they waited, the three stirred up a conversation.

"I do hope we weren't gone for too long." said Sally, looking concerned "Our friends will be worried about us."

"Well now we're back, let's go and see them shall we?" asked Sonic "Let's put their worries at ease and show that we're A-OK."

"Hold on Sonic, let's wait for Blaze to return first." said Silver "So she can show the others that she's OK too."

"OK then." said Sonic kindly "While we wait, there's one thing we need to find out. What caused that portal that sent us to Solbius in the first place?"

"I really wonder if we'll ever find out." murmured Sally "If it happens again, we'll be ready for it. If any portals open up, move away from it so we can't get knocked into it."

"I can do that." said Silver smiling. His smile died away though as he realized something else. "Although I did lose my super warp ring back in the Egg Bunker. I bet Eggman's got it now…"

"I hope he hasn't…or he'll be able to spread his rule to other Mobiuses as well as our own." Sally shuddered "We may have to try and get that back at some point."

"Indeed. For now, we've gotta destroy those refuelling stations and find out where the Death Egg is." declared Sonic "You still got that information Nicole downloaded am I right?"

"Course." said Sally smugly "Computers don't lose sensitive information like that. And it was lucky Nicole's waterproof otherwise when that squid dragged us underwater, she would have short-circuited…"

She took Nicole off her boot and opened her up just to be double sure she was fine. Nicole's screen lit up and her smiling face appeared on it.

"Hello Sally." said Nicole happily "It appears we've returned to Mobius Prime." she analyzed as she took in their surroundings and noticed the familiar territory they were in.

"Indeed so." replied Sally, grinning "Blaze warped us back here with her emeralds. Now we're back, you can deliver what you found out to our comrades. Then we can see to bringing down Eggman once and for all."

"I strive to see that happen Sally." beamed Nicole.

Sally smiled back as if to say "Don't we all Nicole?". A brief second passed before another flash of fire and light appeared from nowhere. Sonic, Sally and Silver weren't surprised at this. They had expected that to happen after all. The light and fire disappeared and in its place stood Blaze the Cat. She had used her Sol Emeralds to become Burning Blaze and had just destroyed the Egg O' War, quite brutally in fact, and had now returned to Mobius Prime. She now stood before the others, powered down and clearly content with what she had done a moment ago. Silver ran over to Blaze and hugged her, pleased to have her back along with him on Mobius Prime. Blaze returned the hug graciously. Sonic and Sally were awed by this. Silver and Blaze's love reminded them a bit of their love for each other. It helped considering the two had much in common with Sonic and Sally too.

"You know Blaze, every moment we were away on Solbius was a moment I never want to experience again." said Silver "I really did worry about you when you got caught."

"I was worried too Silver." said Blaze, lightly stroking Silver's face tenderly "Worried that I wouldn't live to reunite with you. But we survived Captain Metal and his tyranny and I've sent his abhorrent ship down to the bottom of the ocean. The Egg O' War will never fly again."

"That's great news Blaze." Silver's face seemed to beam like a sunrise as he said that "And Captain Metal's remains will have gone down with the Egg O' War. He belongs under the ocean after all he's done."

"You know what they say Silver, "A good captain goes down with his ship"." noted Blaze "Not that Metal was a good captain anyway...but I digress. Shall we go to Royal HQ and let everybody know we're fine now?"

"Course." said Sonic happily "We were just waiting for you to return first. That and you and Silver looked really cute together so me and Sally thought we'd let you two have a moment first." he winked cheekily at the two future Mobians.

Silver and Blaze blushed red. Silver chuckled nervously whereas Blaze remained straight-faced despite her reddening cheeks. They maybe in love but they'd prefer that Sonic didn't make a joke about it. Just to save the moment from becoming more awkward, Sonic decided to set off for Royal HQ. Sally, Silver and Blaze followed him. Sonic could already picture the reactions from his friends when he, Sally, Silver and Blaze walked into the building. Provided that the Royal Fighters were in Royal HQ or not. Didn't matter for they could just search around New Mobotropolis for them and let them know that they were back. But there was on person they wouldn't find...yet. As they walked into Royal HQ, a bright green flash suddenly appeared just down the hill from where Castle Acorn was. It was Tails the Fox and the stowaway metal marauder himself, Captain Metal. Tails had managed to break into the Egg-Bunker and find out what had happened to the four returning Mobians so he'd taken a Chaos Emerald and Chaos Controlled onto whatever Mobius he knew in the multi-verse in hopes of finding them. He'd decided to return home after coming up empty handed but unfortunately for him, Captain Metal had grabbed onto his hand as he used the Chaos Control. The hand he'd grabbed was the hand holding the Chaos Emerald so it took him to Mobius Prime along with Tails. Now the Chaos Control had completed, Captain Metal kicked Tails away from himself, taking the Chaos Emerald out of his hand as he did so. Tails landed with a thud onto his back and he groaned as Captain Metal stared at the glorious, green emerald in his hand. It sparkled brighter than any treasure he'd ever seen and it felt magnificent to hold. He cackled delightedly with joy.

"Harr, harr, harrgh...I'd always dreamed of holding a Chaos Emerald in me hand." purred Captain Metal "And now I be holding one. Life sure is grrrand sometimes..."

"Give that back to me!" cried Tails "That's not your emerald! Who are you and why did you follow me back here?!"

"I be Captain Metal, the Scourge of Solbius, and I be here to exact revenge on Blaze tharr Cat!" growled Captain Metal "And you lad have kindly delivered me to tharr Prime Zone. I must thank ye very much. Now where be Blaze so that I may cut out her heart and show it to her as she dies?"

"I don't know if Blaze has returned home yet or not." explained Tails truthfully "I was on Solbius looking for her, Sonic, Sally and Silver. Even if I knew where she was I wouldn't tell you! Now give me that Chaos Emerald back!"

"Nay chance of that laddie!" snarled Captain Metal "I be needing this gem to make myself strongerrr so I can finally be rid of that fire-throwing feline!"

Tails glared crossly at Captain Metal and he flew towards him, yelling loudly at the top of his voice. He drew his arm back and prepared to punch Captain Metal in the face. However, Captain Metal had already won this match for he had a Chaos Emerald in his hands. He used the Chaos Emerald to slow Tails down and render him vulnerable to an attack. Captain Metal ran around beside Tails and conked him on the head with his fist. The blow knocked Tails clean out instantly. Getting hit on the head by a metal fist does guarantee a clean knockout. To Tails it had been like the world had just turned black. When he woke up, he'd realize what had really happened. Captain Metal sneered at Tails's unconscious body and he swished his cape as he turned away from him.

"A pathetic little lad. Not even worth slaying." he muttered "I'll just leave him there while I search for Blaze tharr Cat."

But just before he could even do that, a warp ring suddenly appeared underneath him and swallowed him up in a golden portal that filled the space inside the ring. His screams were silenced by the warp ring closing up, vanishing in a bright golden sparkle. The warp ring had belonged to Dr. Finitevus. He had started snooping around New Mobotropolis to see if Sonic, Sally, Silver and Blaze were still gone. To his disappointment, they had returned but fortuitously enough, a metal robot that clearly seemed to be evil and have a grudge on Blaze had gotten a Chaos Emerald. How fortunate indeed for a Chaos Emerald was just what Finitevus needed for his master plan. Summoning a warp ring to his hand, he flicked it up behind him and disappeared through it. He was going to give Captain Metal a warm welcome and a possible spot for the Dark Armada. After all, he wasn't limiting himself to how many members he needed for it...

The atmosphere in Royal HQ was nothing short of tense and impatient. A week had passed since Tails had left Mobius Prime to go looking for Sonic, Sally, Silver and Blaze and he hadn't returned yet. A whole week of nothing but waiting and worrying was becoming a little too much for the poor Royal Fighters. They were practically killing themselves ten times over with worry, dying to know if Tails was going to return with their lost friends. The Royal Fighters were all sitting together in the rest room but all they were doing was sitting around waiting for something to happen rather than occupying themselves with the room's conveniences. They weren't in the right frame of mind for fun after all. Tails's girlfriend, the lovely Cosmo the Seedrian, was gripping her hands and feeling the sweat in her palms. She was beginning to worry about Tails. She did love him dearly after all and couldn't bear to think of him in danger.

"Ooooh...it's been a week since Tails left." moaned Cosmo "Where could he be?"

"Do remember Cosmo, we saw the four getting pushed into a portal by a tunnel of sonic waves." noted Amy Rose "Just because we saw them going through a portal, it doesn't mean we know where they ended up. They could be anywhere for all we know. Tails could take forever just to find them."

"I hope he finds our friends soon, I'm really concerned about them." replied Cosmo anxiously "What could be happening to Sonic, Sally, Silver or Blaze as we speak? If they've ended up on Mobius Beta, they won't be very happy indeed..."

Cosmo still shuddered to remember Mobius Beta, an alternate version of Mobius that had been reduced to a hell on Earth by the Devatrons of that dimension. True they had defeated Devion and Alter the Wolf would see that the rest of the Devatrons join Devion in the afterlife but still, it was horrible to imagine the four treading through a dystopian world and worrying about what had happened. The gloomy atmosphere would certainly effect them dearly as it had done to her and Tails.

"I hope they ended up somewhere nice." said Amy "That way, they won't be in too much trouble when Tails finds them at last. If they've ended up on Brawlbius, I will be mad..."

"Same here." muttered Knuckles the Echidna "It was bad enough what me, you, Shade, Cream and Sora endured whilst on that world. They don't deserve to suffer Brawlbius's horrible nature either."

Amy nodded agreeably. She remembered all too well what had happened when she, Knuckles, Shade, Cream and Sora had ended up on Brawlbius. They had been forced against their will to take part in a fighting contest for the sick entertainment of the people who lived on Brawlbius. The thought of Sonic, Sally, Silver and Blaze being forced to do that was just cringing for Amy and she wanted to imagine them somewhere else to make it better for her.

"If there's one place I hope they didn't end up, it's the Special Zone." grumbled Mandy Mouse bitterly "Feist is the last person I want the blue dude and the others to cross paths with."

"Tell me about it dear." said Wilson agreeably, shaking his head "It was bad enough what me, you and Ruben went through whilst in his parlour."

"You bet." agreed Mandy "If they did end up in the Special Zone then they'd best hope Feist is feeling generous after what we did to upset him..."

Her face drooped as she remembered how angry Feist had been when she's skewered him in the eye with Wilson's own blade weapon. She couldn't imagine Feist being too pleased at the idea of dealing with more Prime Zoners.

"Well it's not good hoping Sonic, Sally, Silver and Blaze didn't end up in a particular place since that portal they were pushed into could have taken them anywhere." noted Ruben the Water Panther gravely "We'll just have to wait and see where Tails finds them."

The Royal Fighters nodded agreeably. Their thoughts were interrupted by the sound of a door opening. They all turned around and got a surprise they never expected they would get. The door opened and four people strode into the room. The four people that entered the room were the last people they had expected so suddenly. Sonic, Sally, Silver and Blaze all stood before them, looking pleased to see them all again.

"Hi everybody!" cooed Sonic cheerily "Did you all miss us while we were gone?"

"SONIC!" squealed Amy "Ohmigosh you're back! And so's Sally, Silver and Blaze! Oh hallelujah, this is great! We were all so worried about you!"

"We were concerned about you all too." said Sally softly "We worried over what you would think to our disappearance. But we're back now so no worries."

"This might worry you a bit though." said Sora Prower, sister of Tails and child super spy "You've been gone for a week. I bet that Death Egg's even closer to launching now."

"A week?!" shrieked Blaze in disbelief "But...but...how?!"

"We haven't been gone that long!" cried Silver "If I counted my time right on Solbius, we were only gone for a few hours!"

"If I'm to guess, time flows differently on Solbius." mused Sally "Maybe a day on Solbius is a week on Mobius Prime. We feel like we've been gone for a few hours on Solbius but on Mobius Prime, we've been gone for a week. This is not good indeed..."

"I'll say!" whined Sonic "We've lost precious time in finding that Death Egg and destroying its stations! The Death Egg might be done by now!"

"I hope it isn't..." said Silver grimly "Otherwise mine and Blaze's mission to stop it launching may well be jeopardized."

"It depends if the Death Egg's actually completed or not." Sally stated matter-of-factly "And I guess we'll find out when we go out and destroy the last of the refuelling stations. If they're near completed or at least complete, they might be an indicator of how close to completion the Death Egg is."

"Good point." said Sonic "So we'd best get finding those stations and get to bringing them down! Maybe one of them will give us a clue as to where the Death Egg is."

"I hope that'll be the case too." said Sally, opening up Nicole's screen "Nicole, show our friends where the refuelling stations are please."

"Hold on." said Sonic quickly, putting his hand on Sally's shoulder hesitantly "There's somebody missing. Where's Tails?"

While Sally had been talking, Sonic had taken a look around the room to see if everybody was here. He noticed Tails was indeed missing. That immediately concerned the hedgehog for Tails was the one friend he would put his life in the line of fire for ahead of anybody else. Sally noticed that Tails was missing too. She fumed at herself for not noticing before.

"Tails has gone searching through the multi-verse, trying to find you Sonic." explained Cosmo "He likely hasn't returned yet."

"Boy will Tails be disappointed when he sees we've already gotten back here, making his attempts all for naught." murmured Silver sadly "Poor kid."

"I'm afraid we won't have time to wait for him though." said Sally "We'll have to leave without him. We'll just leave him a message and let him know where we've gone. We'll give him the option of whether he wants to join one of the teams or just sit back here and wait for us. Now then, Nicole, show the Royal Fighters the information we downloaded from the Egg-Bunker please."

Nicole obeyed and her avatar materialized into view before the Royal Fighters like a ghost that's come to haunt people. Nicole beamed, pleased to be able to stand before her friends like an ordinary person again since she didn't enjoy being cooped up in her little computer for too long. Now Nicole was standing before everybody, she began her testimony.

"OK everybody, whilst in the Egg-Bunker, I managed to download the information we required." explained Nicole "The last remaining refuelling stations are in certain locations all over the world."

She reshaped her avatar into the shape of Mobius itself with a mere rearrangement of pixels. Nicole had to admit that it was rather fun being able to change her shape in anyway like she did now. As the holographic image of Mobius was made, Nicole displayed the coordinates for the other Death Egg refuelling stations that she had found out about when hacking into the Egg-Bunker's computers. It amused the Royal Fighters a little how Nicole displayed the locations of the stations with an image of her face. It was quite a funny sight for a holographic image.

"The stations are located in Adabat, Megapolis, the Golden Hive Colony, the Lost Jungle and Chun-Nan." explained Nicole "And if we're to destroy them all at once, we need to split up into teams. Divide our resources and attack simultaneously. It'll take forever for us to destroy all the stations one at a time. The Death Egg nears completion the longer we wait so this'll be much quicker."

"And we all know that quick is what I do best." beamed Sonic "I'll go to Chun-Nan. Anyone wanna come with me?"

"We'll come." offered Silver and Blaze together.

"We've always wanted to see Chun-Nan in its prime before…well, you know." said Silver "Chun-Nan sounds like a wonderful place and me and Blaze would love to come with you to destroy the station it has there."

"Likewise." said Sonic enthusiastically "Plus, we can get a helping hand from Chun-Nan's native heroes. They'll be very useful to us."

"Indeed, and you're going to have a native of Chun-Nan helping you three." put in Ruben "I'm coming too. When my country's involved, I get involved too. It'll be an honour to save it from Eggman's scorn once again."

Sonic was very pleased to hear this. Ruben's honourable personality was truly admirable indeed. No wonder he was a Royal Fighter.

"Very good." said Sally happily "I'll take Bunnie and Nicole to the Lost Jungle. I've always fancied a jungle expedition. Although I lost one of my cousins in the Lost Jungle once when my parents took her on an expedition there seven years ago…"

It seemed out of place for Sally to suddenly mention something like that. Sonic could understand why Sally volunteered to go to the Lost Jungle now. Maybe pay her respects to her supposed lost cousin whilst on the mission at the same time. It was very nice of Sally to do this and Sonic loved it. A good heart was what he admired in a person, especially one as beautiful and lovely as Sally.

"I'm sure your lost cousin will appreciate that." said Sonic comfortingly, hugging Sally "Good luck in the Lost Jungle. Same goes to you too Bunnie." he added, looking over at the Southern Belle with a charming smile that could make anybody enthusiastic.

"Aw thanks sugah-hog." chirped Bunnie brightly "Ah appreciate it. Good luck to you, Silver and Blaze over in Chun-Nan."

Sonic gave Bunnie a thumbs up in return.

"If it's no problem, I'd like to go to Adabat." offered Wilson "I've kinda wanted to go back there after mine and Mandy's short-lived honeymoon there*. You coming too honey?" he turned to his wife and waited for an answer.

"Of course." said Mandy brightly "You go, I go. No questions asked. Anyone else wanna come with me and Wilson?" she asked, addressing the other Royal Fighters with a glance over at each of them.

"I'll come love." said Geoffrey St. John eagerly "It'll be nice to be in Adabat again."

"We'll be happy to have you Mr. St. John." Mandy replied with a satisfied smile on her face "Don't worry Bunnie, we'll make sure your handsome skunk-boy returns in on piece." she winked teasingly at the Rabbot.

"Haw, haw, OK Mandy." chortled Bunnie amusedly "And Geoffrey will take good care of ya'll too ah bet."

Geoffrey nodded at Bunnie.

"We'll take the Golden Hive Colony." offered Vector the Crocodile, leader of Team Chaotix "Our junior member Charmy Bee here came from that place. He got kicked out of the colony a while back but once the colony sees what he's capable of, they'll be pleased to see him again."

Charmy didn't look very comfortable. He looked nervous as if the Golden Hive Colony was a bad memory to him. He didn't look like he wanted to go back there at all. But he didn't say anything, unusual considering he was often known to be quite chatty and talkative. He was deep in thought about how his meeting with his former colony would turn out.

"We'll come too." offered Knuckles, motioning to himself and Shade, who was standing beside him "We'll offer any extra muscle just in case."

"Very nice of you echidnas to offer." said Espio the Chameleon, the Chaotix Ninja, with a bow "We accept your offer."

"That colony's gonna be rid of its refuelling station now we're the ones going after it!" cried Vector delightedly "I can hardly wait to see how this'll turn out!"

Knuckles and Shade just smiled. They were just looking forward to smashing Eggman robots themselves more than anything but it would be fun to work with the Chaotix since they were a great trio of fighters and a lot of fun to hang around with.

"So that just leaves me, Cosmo, Amy and Cream to go to Megapolis." said Sora "If Tails was here, I'd take him too but alas, we'll have to go without him I'm afraid. Hope my little brother doesn't mind."

"Maybe when he returns and finds out we're gone, he'll probably join your team Sora." suggested Sonic "In the meantime, let's do it to it everybody! We've got some stations to destroy!"

The Royal Fighters acted immediately. The teams all split up and set off to their respective places. In order to get to the locations quicker, the Royal Fighters boarded some vehicles. Mandy chose her customized hover-car for her, Wilson and Geoffrey to go in to Adabat. Mandy started the car up and kicked it into the highest gear. With a whirr of its hover pad and a roar of its engines, the car levitated off the ground and zoomed off. Wilson and Geoffrey didn't mind the speed. They were used to going fast by now thanks to Sonic's famous super speed. Mandy whooped excitedly, pleased to be using her car for the first time in a while and especially at this speed. The car zoomed out of the city gates and headed off for Adabat. Knuckles and Sally's teams boarded a hover-saucer each and they set off for their respective locations. They waved each other goodbye as they passed through New Mobotropolis's gates and headed off to the Golden Hive Colony and the Lost Jungle. Sonic's team didn't even need a vehicle. Blaze used her Sol Emeralds to warp the team over to Chun-Nan. They all disappeared in a bright flash of spiralling flames and light as the Sol Control whisked them away. That left Sora's team to board another hover saucer that was on standby. As the team got into it and started it up, they began to hover on through the city. However, something caught Sora's eye and she ground the saucer to a halt. She turned to her left and saw something moving. Moving…and groaning too. It was Tails! Sora put her hands to her mouth in alarm and Cosmo leapt out of the saucer to greet her boyfriend. Tails had been woken up by the hover-saucers and Mandy's car moving along out of New Mobotropolis and he picked himself up, stretching and massaging his temples. He was nearly knocked over as Cosmo pounced on him and hugged him tightly.

"Oh Tails! Thank goodness you're back!" cried Cosmo "We worried that you'd be missing out on our next mission!"

"Cosmo!" exclaimed Tails happily, hugging her back "So glad to be back my love! I'm sorry to announce that I couldn't find Sonic, Sally, Silver and Blaze. I've…"

"No worries little brother, they're back now." explained Sora "Blaze used her Sol Emeralds to get them back."

"Oh…right." murmured Tails "That's slightly disappointing…I kinda went after them for nothing. Oh well, they're back now, that's good enough for me. So what's going on now?"

"We've divided our resources to destroy the last remaining Death Egg refuelling stations." explained Cosmo "Nicole was able to decipher their locations so we're going to destroy them all. Hopefully, they'll lead us to the Death Egg itself."

"That's great!" cried Tails excitedly "So were you girls just about to go to destroy a station?"

"We were." piped Cream "Do you wanna come with us Mr. Tails?"

"I'm sorry but I can't." said Tails sadly "You see, somebody stole the Chaos Emerald I used to travel around the multi-verse in search of Sonic, Sally, Silver and Blaze. I need to get it back or Knuckles will kill me for losing it!"

"Somebody stole the emerald from you?" gasped Sora "Who?"

"Some…robot pirate thing." said Tails shrugging "He called himself "Captain Metal" or something and he's out for revenge against Blaze. He looked like Metal Sonic dressed as a pirate. No really."

"Huh, and just when I thought Mobius couldn't have anything weirder than what we've seen in the past." scoffed Amy "Well what are we gonna do?"

"You girls go do your mission, I'll find the Chaos Emerald." declared Tails "I lost it, ergo I get it back."

"You're not going alone Tails." Cosmo said firmly "I'm coming with you precious."

"Cosmo please, I can manage." Tails insisted, not wanting to upset Cosmo but still being firm on how he wanted to go alone.

"No Tails. Please. Let me help." begged Cosmo, stroking Tails's whiskers soothingly "I want to be by your side if you ever need help."

"Well…OK then sweetheart." said Tails happily, kissing Cosmo on the forehead "You can come. Sora, good luck on your mission. Hope you destroy that station."

"I have Amy Rose with me. I think I'll manage." laughed Sora "Hope you find that Chaos Emerald Tails and Cosmo."

"We will." Tails insisted "And we'll make Captain Metal sorry he stole it from me."

Sora nodded and she started up the hover saucer. The hover saucer rose up off the ground and Sora thrust the controls forward, setting the saucer off towards the city gates. Tails and Cosmo watched, hand-in-hand, as the saucer left New Mobotropolis and set off towards Megapolis. As the saucer left, Cosmo looked at Tails with concern in her eyes.

"So how will we find the Chaos Emerald?" she asked worriedly.

"I'll have to use Mobius's satellites to see if they can pinpoint a Chaos signature anywhere." suggested Tails "Nowhere on Mobius other than the tomb on Angel Island can mask a Chaos signature. Outside of Angel Island, the Chaos Emerald's a sitting target. We'll find it in no time."

Cosmo felt a twinge of excitement in her stomach as she and Tails ran off to Royal HQ to find the Chaos Emerald. There was quite a lot of events going off now on Mobius. How they would all end remained to be seen…

Meanwhile, over in Megapolis, Captain Metal had fallen out of the warp ring that had snatched him up in New Mobotropolis and he dropped down onto the floor with a heavy clang that made all his joints shudder in protest. Scourge the Hedgehog, Fiona Fox, Ravage Bloodfang and Raphael the Cyber-Husky were in the room and they were startled at the sight of Captain Metal. As he lay on the floor, wondering which way was up, they all stared at him and began wondering what he was. Scourge and Fiona looked at each other and then back at Captain Metal.

"What the hell is that?!" blurted Fiona "And how'd it get here?!"

"If you want my opinion babe, it looks like Metal Sonic cosplaying as a pirate." sniffed Scourge "He looks pretty damn silly to me. As for how it got here, I guess Dr. Warp Rings brought it here."

"Why I wonder?" mused Ravage "Does he think this thing will make a liable addition to our armada?"

"Perhaps." said Raphael, shrugging "But why would Finitevus bring an Eggman robot? I mean, aren't Eggman's robots generally useless?"

"Not Metal Sonic dude." noted Scourge "He was able to best me AND Sonic both at once. I bet this guy, despite his silly pirate additions, is equally as powerful."

"If so then Finitevus sure is making a smart move and giving us a Metal Sonic…whatever that is." Fiona deduced.

"I'll tell you what was smart about Finitevus bringing that thing here, the fact it's got a Chaos Emerald!" Scourge cried out in astonishment.

He pointed at the floor and Fiona could see that surely enough, there was a Chaos Emerald lying near Captain Metal's hand. Scourge had to smile at the fact it was a green Chaos Emerald. Matched his fur colour. Scourge rubbed his hands greedily.

"Oh boy this is awesome! We've got a Chaos Emerald already and Finny's plan hasn't even started yet!" laughed Scourge "He'll be mighty pleased about this!"

"Given the prodigious power the emeralds seem to bestow upon the user, it is fortuitous indeed that we have a Chaos Emerald in our hands." agreed Ravage. He had see what the emeralds can do for himself. He had witnessed Scourge turning super along with Sonic, Silver and Knuckles when they fought to destroy The Eraser. He was pleased to have a Chaos Emerald in the armada's possession too.

"Well let's take it and hold onto it until Finitevus returns." said Fiona "I'm sure this tin-can pirate won't mind if we hold onto it."

She knelt down and grabbed the Chaos Emerald…and then got grabbed on the wrist by Captain Metal. Fiona screamed as Captain Metal made her drop the Chaos Emerald and he stood up to his full height, still clutching Fiona's arm. The robot pirate scowled viciously at Fiona and he aimed his cutlass blade at her arm.

"Tryin' ta steal me treasure are ye lassie?!" snarled Captain Metal

"Well I'll see to it that ye end up missing an arm fer that!"

"Let go of me you tin-plated moron!" screamed Fiona furiously, trying to get her arm free "I wasn't stealing it, I was "borrowing" it! Totally different!"

"Yeah, let Fiona go or I'll stomp on you!" growled Scourge "Nobody messes with my girl and gets away with it!"

"Yaaargh, ye can talk tharr talk green hedgehog, but can ye walk tharr walk?" asked Captain Metal coldly "Nobody threatens Captain Metal and lives to tell tharr tale! Mayhap we have a battle to settle this?"

"You're on asshole!" yelled Scourge "I'm gonna beat the metal outta ya!"

"ENOUGH!" bellowed a fierce voice that was so intimidating that the room echoed as if repeating the word in a nervous whisper all over.

Scourge remained where he was and Captain Metal released Fiona's arm. He spun around on his heel and saw that there was another person in the room. And that was Dr. Finitevus. He'd been standing by to see how Captain Metal would react to being in the parlour of some villains like the ones he had currently gathered together and also how he would react to having the Chaos Emerald taken from him. He'd been pleased with the reactions but now he had to step in to stop a fight brewing. He wanted to form an army, not form an army and have the members kill each other. Finitevus stepped out of the shadows and he stood before Captain Metal, his cloak shrouding his entire body as he kept his arms down by his sides.

"Greetings Captain Metal. It is a pleasure to meet a cutthroat villain such as yourself." purred Finitevus delightedly.

"Who in tharr name of Davy Jones are you?!" blurted Captain Metal, staring incredulously at the albino echidna.

"Indeed, know your enemy as they say." purred Finitevus "I am Dr. Finitevus, a Chaos Scientist and master planner. I am currently formulating an army of villains to take over the world of Mobius and make it a more worthwhile place to occupy. What you see now are just some of the villains that I'm recruiting to my army."

"Yaaargh, that be a fine sea tale indeed doctorrr." said Captain Metal "But why did ye bring me down to yer hideout? Do ye wish to recruit me into tharr army?"

"I do indeed." said Finitevus delightedly "I've been thinking about having a Metal Sonic in the Dark Armada and you Captain Metal, are the lucky one to fill in that role. Not to mention, you interest me already given you seek revenge on the one called…Blaze the Cat I believe."

"Yaaargh! Ye bet I do!" snarled Captain Metal "That meddling brat has interfered in me affairs much to often! First she ended up on Solbius and ended up nearly killing me and sending me down to tharr bottom of the ocean and now she ends up on Solbius again and not only foils me plans of making tharr whole world a world of robot piracy, but she destroys me Egg O' War too! I so wanna kill that lass! Only with her death will I be satisfied at last!"

"Um...about Blaze ending up on Solbius…that's kinda my fault." said Raphael, looking guilty as he heard this "I sent her, Sonic, Sally and Silver there to try and keep them from meddling in our affairs. Sorry to have caused you such grief metal guy."

"Don't be sorry Raphael for you have just ended up giving us a worthy candidate for our armada." crooned Finitevus wickedly "If you hadn't sent those fools to Solbius, we wouldn't have ended up with Captain Metal in our hands now would we?"

"Suppose not." said Raphael, shrugging "By the way, are they still trapped on Solbius?"

"I'm afraid not." said Finitevus grimly "I had completely forgotten that Blaze had her Sol Emeralds with her and she used them to warp back here. I wonder what took her so long though, it's been a week since you sent them away…"

"A week?" mused Captain Metal "Funny, a full day hasn't passed on Solbius yet. Anyway, ye can thank me for delaying tharr lass fer so long. I had stolen her emeralds and used them to power up me Egg O' War. But tharr fire cat has managed to get her emeralds back unfortunately…"

"And yet you managed to get a Chaos Emerald." noted Scourge "How did you get it pal?"

"A twin-tailed fox appeared on Solbius, looking fer Sonic and his friends." explained Captain Metal "He had that Chaos Emerald on him. I followed him back home as he used his Chaos Control and I stole tharr emerald from him. So if ye want it, ye will have to challenge me fer it! It be my treasure and ye can't have it!"

"You're welcome TO have it Captain Metal." purred Finitevus smoothly "It's yours. You earned it. You deserve to keep it. But I will be needing to borrow it for a while though."

"Why is that then matey?" asked Captain Metal suspiciously.

"You see, there are other villains in the world that I am hoping to recruit." explained Finitevus "And I think a Chaos Emerald will help me very much in that regard. You don't mind if I borrow the Chaos Emerald for a while do you?"

"Do ya swear on tharr oil of all robot pirates that ye will return it to me afterwards?" growled Captain Metal.

"I'm recruiting you for the Dark Armada, why would I betray my own allies?" scoffed Finitevus.

Captain Metal found himself trusting Finitevus so he handed the Chaos Emerald over to him. He was still sure he'd take the emerald and ditch him but at the same time, he had to admire Finitevus's dark personality and ambitions for the world. Maybe he could trust him after all. Finitevus took the Chaos Emerald and he stored it in a pocket in his cloak.

"Thank you." said Dr. Finitevus "Now then Captain Metal, is there a wish that the armada can grant for you? Maybe, you have a nefarious goal in mind that you want to see completed?"

"Well, I be wanting to make everything in tharr multi-verse a robot pirate." explained Captain Metal "Make myself tharr largest pirate crew one could ask for. Will ye be willing to help me accomplish that?"

"Yes…and no." said Finitevus "You see, Mobius Prime is ours for the taking and some of my comrades won't approve of your vision of the world. BUT I will allow you to roboticize at least half the population of Mobius Prime and then let you roboticize the rest of the multi-verse. We only have interest in Mobius Prime."

"That be a fair deal indeed matey." said Captain Metal gleefully "Half of Mobius Prime be just fine with me. It be better than nothing at all. Not to mention if I am to be in yer army, I should respect tharr wishes of me shipmates right?"

"Indeed." said Finitevus with a slasher smile on his face "And another promise I make to you is that you will get your revenge on Blaze. Mark my words you will have her head as a trophy to keep for your very own."

"Shiver me timbers! That be just what I be wanting!" cackled Captain Metal excitedly "Consider me part of tharr Dark Armada!"

"Good." said Finitevus, shaking Captain Metal's hand "If you like, I'll even try to locate Blaze for you so that you may kill her."

"That be very nice of you matey!" said Captain Metal happily.

Finitevus nodded and he sat down on the old computer that he had been using to formulate his big plan, "Operation: Enerjak Reborn". He booted the computer up and began taping on it. Unbeknownst to the Royal Fighters, in the week of Sonic's absence, he had sneaked a miniature drone up into space and had attached it onto one of Mobius's satellites. The drone allowed him to take control of the satellite and he was now using it to find Blaze the Cat for Captain Metal. It took him a long time to finally locate Blaze for Mobius was a big planet and Blaze could be anywhere on the planet. But he'd found her at last. He saw her trekking through the bamboo forests of Chun-Nan with Sonic, Silver and Ruben following her closely behind. Finitevus had a feeling he knew why they were in Chun-

Nan. He knew where all the Death Egg refuelling stations were being built and Chun-Nan was one of the places that had been chosen. They were obviously there to destroy the tower. Finitevus turned around and faced Captain Metal.

"Blaze is in a country called Chun-Nan." he explained "She has Sonic, Silver and a Royal Fighter named Ruben the Water Panther with her. Unless you're water proof, I'd avoid fighting with Ruben since he has water powers."

"I be waterproof so that water panther won't harm me." gloated Captain Metal "Did ye honestly think that a steel scallywag such as myself wouldn't be waterproof considering I be sailing across tharr water on a regular basis?"

"Point taken." said Finitevus bluntly "Now stand still. I'll use a warp ring to take you over to Chun-Nan. You may keep hold of the warp ring so that once you kill Blaze, you can use it to return home. When using the warp ring, you have to visualize the place you want to go to and then flick it into the air. It'll open up a portal for you and you'll be able to go wherever you visualize."

"So to use tharr warp ring to come back here, I just got to think of this place?" asked Captain Metal "Very well then matey. I can do that. I promise ye that I will return with Blaze's head on tharr end of me blade!"

"Very good." purred Finitevus "Blaze will be one less hero to worry about when the Dark Armada rises. Good luck Captain."

He flicked a warp ring up into the air and opened up a portal to Chun-Nan. Captain Metal stepped through the warp ring and transported from the lab in Megapolis to Chun-Nan. Blaze would certainly be in for a nasty surprise when she realized that Captain Metal was back to try and kill her again. The warp ring vanished as he passed through it. It would now be Captain Metal's to use whenever he so desired and Finitevus wondered if Metal would use it against Blaze in anyway in the forthcoming battle between him and her. After Captain Metal vanished, Finitevus turned around to face his comrades.

"So…now what?" asked Scourge "We just sit around and wait for Captain Metal to come back?"

"You sit around and wait for Captain Metal to come back." ordered Finitevus "I on the other hand will be going out to find Team Diamond. The Chaos Emerald will be the perfect bait to lure them into the armada. They'll join instantly when they see what treasure we have for them."

"So you're going to get Team Diamond then?" asked Fiona "And then you'll recruit all the other villains you want as well?"

"After The Nefarious is complete, I shall formulate the rest of the armada." explained Finitevus "And fortuitously enough, the ship's nearly complete so we won't be waiting long. With a Chaos Emerald, I'll easily be able to break out the incarcerated villains and find Cutthroat Jim. A simple Chaos Control will make breaking and entering the prisons holding Sycorax, Conquering Storm and Zira easy as pie. For Cutthroat Jim, I can just warp onto CocoIsland and find him. I just hope the fact he is a pirate doesn't cause any tension between him and Captain Metal…" he muttered to himself more than anybody.

"I think we should expect that to happen at some point." sighed Fiona "Or we can just reprogram Captain Metal to play nice with Cutthroat Jim if they become enemies. Easy as that."

"Indeed child." agreed Finitevus "Now then, see to it that The Nefarious gets finished while I'm away. Once I return, give me a status report on the ship. If it's ready, we take flight. If not, then I'll see if I can help speed up the finishing touches."

"Sounds good doc." said Scourge "I can't wait till we FINALLY make our move and stop hiding from everybody. I'm so freaking bored of this!"

"Your patience will have to hold out for as long as I deem necessary." said Finitevus coldly "If you get impatient Scourge then that's your problem to deal with."

Scourge rolled his eyes but said nothing more.

"So what happens when The Nefarious takes flight and we recruit everybody else?" asked Raphael.

"We then wait for the Death Egg to rise…so that I may take it down myself." purred Finitevus "Although the fact we have a Chaos Emerald…gives me more ideas. Maybe I can use this Chaos Emerald to locate the other seven the heroes have. And I could also steal the Master Emerald too. That and the eight Chaos Emeralds are vital to our plan. We need their unique properties in order to be able to artificially create hundreds of other Chaos Emeralds necessary for the plan."

"Finitevus, it's no wonder I'm glad to be recruited by you." said Scourge happily "I'd love to go super once again and kick everybody's ass!"

"The emeralds are for me to use." said Finitevus sternly "I will decide whether you use them to go super or not. But don't worry, I'll easily grant you that opportunity. And without Chaos Emeralds, Sonic and friends will not be able to turn super themselves and fight back. True Blaze has her Sol Emeralds but Captain Metal's gone to get rid of her. No worries about her becoming Burning Blaze and trying to fight back."

"You bet!" Scourge crooned wickedly, his face twisted into a smile that only a troll could ever think looked nice at all.

"Now then, I bid you farewell." said Finitevus "I'll be back as soon as possible."

The other villains waved goodbye as Finitevus used a Chaos Control to teleport out of his lab and outside in the world to look for Team Diamond. He already knew a good place to start looking… Megapolis. They had been nosing around Megapolis, looking in the GoldenCaverns for treasure and he wondered if they would be there again. If not, he would just have to look for them. A team of treasure hunters wouldn't be all that hard to find. As for the turncoat Roxy the Raccoon, he had the perfect way of forcing her back into the team and he knew that Lennox Meers, the team leader, would approve of his methods…

Meanwhile, Wilson, Mandy and Geoffrey had finally arrived at Adabat. It had been a long drive, even at the great speed Mandy was driving at, but they made it at last. Wilson and Mandy were instantly met with pleasant memories of fun on the beach and a grand day out that they had had when they came here to spend their honeymoon. It was a shame that their holiday had been forcibly cut short after a bunch of mice-hating rats had spoilt the mood for Mandy but they still had pleasant memories of their short time in Adabat. Geoffrey however was reminded very much of when he and Bunnie had been here for a day off and instead, fought for their lives against Ravage Bloodfang. Geoffrey prayed that they wouldn't see Ravage here while they were on their mission. They didn't have time to fight with him after all. Mandy parked her car and the Royal Fighters got out of it, instantly feeling the intense heat of Adabat's sun beating down on them. The sun was starting to set for Adabat was a few hours ahead of Mobotropolis and while it was late afternoon for them, it was beginning to dusk here in Adabat. Mandy could hardly keep her eyes off the beautiful mixture of orange and yellow the sky was turning as the sun started to dip down behind the horizon. Adabat still looked fabulous to her, even in a sunset.

"Man I could get used to a place like this." she sighed contently "So beautiful…I'd like to have a holiday here again someday."

"I'll be sure to arrange that for us sweetie." said Wilson kindly "For now, we've got a mission to do."

"I hope that when we finally bring Eggman down, we'll get time to enjoy the views that Mobius has on offer as opposed to just fighting for our lives all the bloomin' time." muttered Geoffrey "I don't half miss the good old days before this war started."

"We do as well." said Mandy sadly "But that's what we're fighting for. Our freedom and our peace. With Eggman gone, we'll have those back at long last and I look forward SO much to that day."

"Me too." added Wilson "So any thoughts on where this tower might be?"

"Well I can see a rather conspicuous looking building standing in the middle of the local village." Geoffrey observed, pointing ahead of him "You don't think that building could possibly be a refuelling station at all?"

Wilson and Mandy looked in Geoffrey's direction and they could see that there was indeed a rather tall building standing proudly in the centre of the village. It looked hideous and woefully out of place in a village of rather rustic looking houses and houses on stilts that stood above the waters surrounding the island. Hi-tech facilities and low-tech facilities don't mix together well at all. Wilson and Mandy were so surprised at how much the building stood out to them that they were amazed they didn't immediately notice it upon arrival. Mandy frowned at herself for being so unobservant.

"Oh yeah, that's definitely our target." muttered Mandy "Eggman's as subtle as a motorway accident in the middle of the night. That tower's pretty much screaming at us "Hi! I'm your target! Please destroy me!" does that fat idiot put ANY effort into his schemes anymore?!"

"I dunno but I'm glad he's being so careless now. It makes our job easier for us." chuckled Wilson.

"I dunno you two but I think Eggman's making this a little TOO easy for my tastes..." murmured Geoffrey "Maybe this is a trap. We'll have to be careful."

"Geoffrey, Tails gave me knuckle attachments that can punch through anything. No trap will be too great for me." boasted Mandy "Eggman and try all he likes. I'll just punch my way out of any trap he springs at us!"

"I can see why you married this girl." snickered Geoffrey, nudging Wilson in the shoulder playfully.

Wilson winked back at him, agreeing with Geoffrey on what he said.

"Well then, let's go and bring down that station." said Wilson "You know, I wonder if Team Adabat's around? They could give us a hand or two."

"With any luck, they're already at it and we're here to finish the job." suggested Mandy.

With that said, she set off towards the village with Wilson and Geoffrey following her closely. Mandy was right. Team Adabat were already at the station. But they weren't bringing it down. As the trio would soon discover, this mission would end up turning into a rescue as well for Team Adabat had been captured by Eggman's forces guarding the station. And now they were being held hostage for any possible attack that would be launched on the station...

Footnotes:

 See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 20: Honeymoons and Rats

*See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 4: Trouble in Ada bat

Well, the Royal Fighters have made their moves and now the pieces are coming together. Will they all succeed in their missions? Or will they all end in disaster?

Find out as Wilson, Mandy and Geoffrey have to save Adabat from peril...

Meanwhile, tune into Tales from Mobius and see what happens as Roxy the Raccoon ends up on the run while Tails and Cosmo search for the stolen Chaos Emerald and Sora's team makes its move in destroying a refuelling station...

P.S., this WAS going to be the first part of "Adabat in Peril" but the way this turned out made me change my mind. I'm spending more time moving the pieces of the story into place so it didn't feel right calling this "Adabat in Peril Part 1" so I changed the name. The next chapter WILL be called "Adabat in Peril". Promise.

Adabat in Peril

Story 189: Adabat in Peril

Countdown to Death Egg: 6

The Adabat Death Egg refuelling station stood out like a sore thumb that also had accompanying blusters and scabs from previous cuts it had gained over time. The Death Egg refuelling station that was now occupying the centre of Adabat's village was truly out of place in such a rustic looking village that occupied the space around the station. The station was a tall red and black tower with bits of gold in places, the usual colours of Dr. Eggman. It was often said that people make things in their own image as an extension of their own ego and Dr. Eggman was no exception to this at all. The refuelling station was a huge tower that had an astonishing resemblance to the Eiffel Tower, a landmark in Paris, France that Eggman remembered all to well from his time on Earth before his exile. He thought the Eiffel Tower's complex design of criss-crossed steel girders and its great height would make a fine design for a Death Egg refuelling station. Behind the tower was a huge landing pad for the Death Egg itself and there were pipes snaking from the station to the pad that would connect to the Death Egg when it landed there to refuel. Not that it needed them since the Death Egg didn't actually need the refuelling stations. They were fake after all. The station had gun turrets on both sides and they were ready to shoot at whatever dared to come near it and attempt to destroy it. There were many Egg-Pawn guards on patrol to keep the tower defended and there was a rather large box-shaped vehicle with tank treads on standby. Presumably, something was inside it. It was perhaps a storage vehicle of some kind that was meant to carry supplies and escort the guards to and from the station. Whatever it was, it served some kind of purpose to the station. The guards marched around the station, occasionally glancing up at something before resuming their patrol. They had a reason to glance up occasionally though for they had something hanging from underneath the tower's base, which was supported by four enormous legs that stored a lot of fuel and oil in them akin to those of an oil rig. There were prisoners of the Egg-Pawns that guarded the station. The four prisoners were Team Adabat: Scott the Lynx, Jessica the Cougar, Taran the Lynx and Felix the Peacock. The four had actually tried to take down the refuelling station but they had been captured due to the overwhelming forces they were dealt with and a secret weapon that the guards had. Now they were chained up and dangling under the base of the tower by chains wrapped around their wrists. Team Adabat all winced in agony as the chains squeezed around their wrists and held their arms aloft. They all felt like their arms were going to suddenly break away from their bodies given the strain put on them. They had tried to break free but when you're strung up by your wrists and left dangling, escape isn't exactly easy and Scott and Jessica's powers weren't enough to break the chains. They could only dangle helplessly as the guards patrolled the area and made sure they didn't get away. Team Adabat were being kept prisoner and there was presumably a good reason for this. Eggman had suspected that the Royal Fighters would try and attack the refuelling station so he wanted Team Adabat to be held hostage to make Sonic the Hedgehog and his friends back off. Plus, he wanted Team Adabat to be roboticized when the Death Egg launched so he didn't want them killed yet. That was one bit of good news for Team Adabat, they were being kept alive. That meant they had a chance to break free. They just needed a good plan for it. Fighting the pain in his arms, Scott looked over at Jessica. The cougar looked to be in agony as she was held aloft by her arms. She clearly wasn't used to being in this position.

"Ungh…duh…my arms are so killing me!" moaned Jessica "Why did they have to chain us up like this?!"

"Eggman's a sadist, what other reason does he need?" muttered Scott "I can't tell you how much this hurts too. And how vulnerable I feel in this position too."

"Yeah, the guards can do what they like to us and with our arms held aloft like this, we're powerless to stop them." sighed Jessica, looking up at her arms "So any ideas how we're going to get out of this mess?"

"I'm afraid I have been unable to conjure up a plan good enough to get us out of this." said Felix sadly.

"I haven't been successful either." muttered Taran, looking down at the ground below them "I dunno how to get out of this either."

"It would be so nice if one of us had a cutting weapon or something." grumbled Scott "We could slice the chains to pieces and get free."

"But we don't have one so we'll have to deal with it." sighed Jessica "Our energy powers are no good either. We can't fire energy spears when we can't use our arms and the chains are heatproof."

"Eggman certainly put his mind into our capture didn't he?" murmured Felix "We're literally in an inescapable situation here."

"I hope one of the other Royal Fighter groups comes along to give us a hand." said Taran grimly "We could sure use one."

"I sure would love it if Sonic showed up out of nowhere and decided to save us." said Scott hopefully "But that's just wishful thinking. He might be too occupied with something else to bother about us…"

"Maybe so but it never hurts to hope." said Jessica "It's better than admitting defeat, something that Eggman won't get the pleasure of seeing me do."

"Same here." said Scott "I'd sooner let Ravage eat me alive than admit defeat to Eggman."

"We're of the same opinion as you Scott." added Felix "Eggman may have us chained, but he will not bring down our hopes for a rescue. I just verily hope that it comes soon."

"Right now would be even better." moaned Taran "If I hang about like this any longer, my arms will go numb for life!"

Moan as much as he liked, Taran knew that there was nothing he could do about his position. Just hang about and hope for a miracle. Team Adabat fell silent as they watched the Egg-Pawns patrolling around the station like some Indian tripe dancing around a campfire. The Egg-Pawns glanced up for the billionth time just to make sure their prisoners were still imprisoned and weren't trying to escape. Team Adabat just ignored them. They didn't think the guards were much to bother about. They just wanted to escape or at the most, get rescued so that was all they thought about.

And it seemed help would come sooner than either member could have anticipated. Wilson the Dog, Mandy Mouse and Geoffrey St. John had come to Adabat to destroy the Adabat Refuelling Station. They had chosen to come to Adabat in particular for the three each had fond memories of the country and wanted to set foot in it again. Given how conspicuous the station looked, Geoffrey had literally spotted it immediately and the trio was now making its way over to the station. They came across a wooden house and opened the door, surprised to find that the house was empty. They ran into the house and ran over to a window that gave them a perfect view of the refuelling station outside. The trio knelt down by the window and they stared at the station, amazed at the height and size of their target. They knew it was tall due to how easily spotted it was but as with any building, it always looked taller when you was actually close to it. Wilson and Mandy took note of the Egg-Pawns patrolling the area and wondered on what to do.

"That's one big station…and there's a lot of guards about." said Wilson, a clear tone of worry in his voice "Any ideas on how we carry this destruction mission out?"

"Simple, we smash the guards and I'll punch the legs to bits." declared Mandy "My knuckle attachments will make easy work of that. And Geoffrey can add some additional destruction with his exploding darts."

"Indeed love." said Geoffrey brightly "Me arm-mounted crossbow would be all too happy to destroy that station. Look how hideous it is! It clashes horribly with the village of Adabat! It has no place here!"

"Not to mention so of Adabat's lush environment would have been flattened to make that thing." muttered Mandy "That station deserves to be destroyed."

"Uh you two, we might have a problem." hissed Wilson "It appears the guards have hostages."

Mandy and Geoffrey looked in Wilson's location and they could see that Wilson had noticed something they hadn't. They saw Team Adabat chained up and dangling under the station while Egg-Pawns patrolled around the area beneath them. Mandy gasped and Geoffrey stared incredulously. The two were shocked to see that Team Adabat had gotten there before them and had somehow gotten captured by the Egg-Pawns. Team Adabat's imprisonment only complicated things for the trio. They had come here to destroy a Death Egg refuelling station, now they were here to destroy the station and rescue some captured Royal Fighters. They would have to save Team Adabat before they could destroy the station.

"No! Team Adabat have been caught?!" cried Mandy.

"That's impossible! Scott and Jessica have incredible powers and are great fighters! How the bloody hell did they get captured by mere Egg-Pawns?!" cried Geoffrey in astonishment.

"I guess Team Adabat were unlucky." said Wilson, shrugging "We need to rescue them. We'll only get them killed if we destroy the station without saving them."

"I agree on that my handsome hound." said Mandy grimly, her face a cold glare as she stared venomously at the Egg-Pawns "Change of plan, we kick the guard's asses, save Team Adabat and then we destroy the station."

"I can save them easily enough." said Wilson with a smile on his face "I'll just throw my spinning blade at their chains and cut them to pieces."

"If the chains are too strong for your blade, I'll just shoot some darts at the top of their chains and blow them out of their sockets." put in Geoffrey "Either way, they're definitely as good as rescued now we're here."

"And when they get free, maybe they could help us destroy the station." suggested Mandy "Many hands make light work as they say."

"Indeed." said Wilson "So it appears we have a plan on our hands. Let's put it into action shall we?"

"Hold on you two, what do you think that thing is?" asked Geoffrey, pointing at something from the corner of the window.

Wilson and Mandy looked in Geoffrey's direction and they saw that he had noticed something. He'd spotted the black box-shaped vehicle with tank treads that was standing nearby the station. The married couple looked at the vehicle with wonderment.

"What is that?" mused Mandy "Is it hiding something in there?"

"Maybe so." murmured Geoffrey "We should keep an eye on that. It could just be a storage vehicle but when it comes to Dr. Eggman, you just can't be too certain. It's always wise to be cautious around him."

"Indeed." agreed Mandy "We'll see what that thing is when we get to the station. Come on boys, let's save Team Adabat and destroy that station!"

Without waiting to be asked twice, Wilson and Geoffrey leapt up onto their feet just as Mandy did so and the trio ran out of the empty house to ambush the refuelling station. They ran towards the station, their footsteps catching the attention of the Egg-Pawns and springing them into action faster than anyone could blink. The Egg-Pawns readied the laser rifles that they were armed with and they began shooting at Wilson, Mandy and Geoffrey. The trio dived for cover as they were shot at and Wilson retaliated by throwing the two spinning blades he had at the Egg-Pawns. The Egg-Pawns stood no chance. They were sliced to pieces the moment the blades hit them. It was like an axe through wood to them. Team Adabat watched excitedly as the Egg-Pawns were quickly taken out by Wilson's spinning blades. The two blades returned to Wilson's hands after they had finished their jobs. There were some Egg-Pawns that were lucky to have avoided getting chopped to pieces but that was hardly anything to be happy about for Mandy just charged at the Egg-Pawns and punched them to smithereens with her specialized knuckle attachments. It was just like punching through a crumbling brick wall for Mandy. The mouse laughed mockingly at the destroyed Egg-Pawns and she looked around to see if they had taken down all the guards. The guards had been taken down but there was another danger that they had to avoid. The station's gun turrets picked up the fact that there was an intruder in the area and they lowered down at Wilson and Mandy. Geoffrey stepped in with his arm-mounted crossbow to fire exploding darts at the guns before they could fire. The darts embedded themselves into the turrets and Geoffrey set them off to blow with a push of a button on his crossbow. The darts exploded, taking the gun turrets with them as the explosion tore them apart. The gun turrets collapsed onto the ground in pieces, unable to serve their purpose anymore. Pleased with himself, Geoffrey turned to Wilson and Mandy.

"Well that wasn't too hard." he said happily "Looks like we're in for an easy time right now."

"Lucky for us I guess." said Mandy brightly.

"Hey guys, you sure showed up at the right time!" cried Scott happily.

"We were beginning to wonder if anybody was going to save us!" exclaimed Jessica excitedly "Thank goodness you're here!"

Taran and Felix showed all their excitement in just their facial expressions. They literally didn't need to say anything, their faces said all that needed saying. Wilson, Mandy and Geoffrey looked up at Team Adabat, pleased to see how happy the team was to see them here now.

"Thank goodness indeed." agreed Geoffrey "You four look like you need some help."

"Yeah, we spotted this tower thing being built the other day and just an hour ago, we tried to destroy it." explained Scott "But then the guards unleashed some kind of secret weapon they had and… needless to say it got us captured." he grumbled, looking up at his chained hands.

"Secret weapon?" asked Mandy quizzically "What secret weapon?"

"Some kind of huge silver robot with blades on its back." answered Jessica "It's hiding in that black box-shaped vehicle over there."

She raised a leg to point at the vehicle since she couldn't user her arms. The trio looked over at the vehicle and understood what Jessica was talking about. They had wondered just moments ago what it was. Now they knew.

"So there IS something hiding in there!" cried Mandy, snapping her fingers "Well hopefully, since the Egg-Pawns are all dead now, they can't call for it. It'll be stuck in there without somebody to call for it."

"Just to be sure, I think we should destroy it." said Geoffrey "Can't be too careful you know. Wilson, you get Team Adabat free while I blow up that storage vehicle."

"Will do Geoffrey." said Wilson "And a good thing too, Team Adabat look to be in great discomfort. Poor kids…"

Team Adabat didn't even need to reply to his comment. Nothing needed to be said about their situation now. Wilson aimed his left arm, which had the gauntlet that launched a spinning blade on, at Team Adabat's chains. Before he could launch the blade at the chains and free the team though, the vehicle suddenly split open down the middle. Geoffrey had only stepped two paces towards the vehicle and suddenly it had activated. Geoffrey wondered for a brief moment if he'd accidentally activated the vehicle but he soon realized that there was nothing in sight and he hadn't stepped on anything so he couldn't have made the vehicle open as he stepped towards it. Maybe the vehicle just had a sensor array and it had senses Geoffrey as he came near the vehicle. Whatever the activation was, it had happened and now the vehicle was opening up. Wilson, Mandy and Geoffrey watched as the vehicle opened and the thing it was concealing began to rise up from within. The vehicle had been hiding a Silver Sonic robot. Wilson and Mandy had fought with one before and had barely escaped with their lives. Now they were facing yet another Silver Sonic but this one was a little different to the other models that had preceded it. It was slightly larger than the previous Silver Sonics, about a foot taller in height and it had black arm gauntlets that had some kind of feature on them. This Silver Sonic also differed greatly from the others thanks to one fundamental feature that would make it a deadly opponent for any Royal Fighter…it had an intelligent mind. After Silver Sonic had been tricked into destroying Eggman's flagship during the Egg Fleet's attack on New Mobotropolis on its opening ceremony, Eggman had decided that in order to prevent Silver Sonic from accidentally destroying the refuelling station, he should install some intelligence into the robot. It wasn't as smart as Alonzo, Katherine or the first Metal Sonic but it was smarter than its previous models at least. Collateral damage would be something it would avoid now it had a sense of environmental awareness. This model was simply known as Silver Sonic Mk II. Silver Sonic Mk II glowered down at its victims with fiery orange optics and it prepared to jump into battle. Wilson clutched Mandy in fear whereas Mandy looked a little nervous but not quite as much as Wilson. Geoffrey stood back, trying not to look intimidated but he failed miserably.

"Th-th-that's the s-s-secret w-weapon the g-guards u-used on us!" stammered Taran.

"Take great caution in the battle my friends!" hollered Felix "It is a most onerous opponent! It is fast, intelligent and its arm gauntlets have an array of weaponry that will most certainly kill you if you are not careful!"

"I gathered as such!" whimpered Wilson "We've fought a Silver Sonic before but this one looks kinda new…I bet it's much better than the previous model."

"Guys, I think our job just got harder…" said Mandy with a gulp "Prepare to unleash all you've got on that thing!"

Geoffrey and Wilson nodded as Silver Sonic Mk II advanced on the trio menacingly, emitting a mechanical screechy roar from its vocal processor. Its arm gauntlets crackled with purple electricity. It was building up an attack and the heroes would see soon what it was. Silver Sonic Mk II held its arms out and it aimed the electrical bolts at the heroes. The bolts fired like a lightening storm towards Wilson, Mandy and Geoffrey…

Roxy the Raccoon struggled violently in her restraints and tried as desperately as she could to cry for help. The most she could manage though was a loud, muffled shriek and her struggling was ultimately futile. Roxy had been on the run from Team Diamond after they had found out they had been tricked and that she was actually still alive and had turned traitor. She'd turn into Tails the Fox and Cosmo the Seedrian and asked for protection, as well as the chance to join the Royal Fighters Service since she would be safer with them rather than on her own. While the protection had been good and Roxy had actually managed to shoot Lennox Meers in the knee and cripple him, Dr. Finitevus had come onto the scene and had kidnapped her along with Lennox, Owen and Alistair with the aid of his warp rings*. While Lennox, Owen and Alistair were just sitting in the corner of the room, wondering what was going on, Roxy had been laid down on an operating table and fastened to it via belts around her wrists and ankles. The belts were tough and they held firm. Roxy struggled as much as she could to break free but the thick leather of the belts refused to give way. She was trapped. And just to stop her from screaming for help every five minutes like any captive would, Finitevus had taped her mouth shut with a silver strip of duct tape. Now all Roxy could do was struggle violently and emit muffled screams as she tried to break free. She refused to give up despite the fact she couldn't break free and struggled as much as she possibly could. Finitevus watched her, bewildered at the fact Roxy wasn't willing to give up her pitiful struggling. He put a hand on the raccoon's throat and stopped her from squirming. He glowered ominously into the raccoon's terrified eyes. Roxy had never seen anybody who looked so scary in all her life. Finitevus was beyond anything she'd seen before, especially with the black and gold eyes that just screamed "Unnatural" to her.

"Struggle all you want you ignorant girl, you're just tiring yourself out." sneered Finitevus "Those belts could hold the Team Diamond muscle member Owen Pounder so what chance do you have of breaking free?"

Roxy tried to say something but the tape across her mouth prevented that from happening. She just mumbled a few muffled words that sounded like she was trying to say "Let me go at once you black eyed freak!". Finitevus didn't understand what she'd tried to say but he didn't respond to it. He carried on as if Roxy hadn't said anything.

"I know all about you Roxy my dear." purred Finitevus sinisterly "In fact, I know ALL about you and your team mates. I even know about your abhorrent heel-turn. Seriously, you wanted to give up a cruel and dark lifestyle like what Team Diamond led? Utterly disgraceful. You disappoint me my child…"

Roxy shivered as Finitevus put a hand as cold as ice on her face and ran it down her side. The echidna continued.

"You have potential to be a great villainess. You already displayed that by crippling your own team leader." he said, pointing at Lennox who was still clutching his injured knee in agony "And yet you wasted all that just to be a disgusting do-gooder? You shame the villain name Roxy and for that you must be punished."

Roxy angrily protested but again, the tape prevented her from spitting the words out. Finitevus promptly back-handed her across the face to make her shut-up. Roxy moaned a pained, muffled moan as she was hit.

"And by punished, I mean you will have to be forced back into villainy." explained Finitevus "But before I do that, I have to talk to your team mates."

He turned away from Roxy and wandered over to the curious Team Diamond. They only sat where they were and watched him in wonderment as he approached them in a manner far too casual for somebody who had just kidnapped them. He was acting more like an old friend of theirs than a kidnapper, something that Lennox was a little crept out by. Finitevus certainly seemed like a sinister figure and he had no idea what to expect with him. Finitevus stood before Lennox, Owen and Alistair and he smiled a friendly smile at them. Strange considering the three had never met Finitevus before. They kept their guard up and waited to see what would happen next.

"Greetings Team Diamond." said Finitevus smoothly, his voice displaying no hostility towards the three boys at all "I am Dr. Finitevus and it is my utmost pleasure to meet such renowned villains such as yourselves. It's quite an honour to meet you, it really is."

He finished his sentence with a bow as if he was addressing royalty and not just three mangy treasure-hunters. Lennox, Owen and Alistair were obfuscated. They had no idea what was up with Finitevus. He went and kidnapped them and now he's acting like he's a big fan of them?! They'd seen many weird things in their lives…but nothing as strange as this! Cautiously, Lennox looked at Finitevus.

"Alright you albino-furred freak, what's the big idea?" snarled Lennox "You kidnapped us and now you're treating us as if we're your guests! Explain yourself!"

"Watch your tone Lennox, that'll give Roxy over there a bad example of how to behave in front of me." Finitevus said in a voice harder than steel and colder than ice "I did not kidnap you three at all, I merely invited you over to meet me and it's an invitation you cannot refuse."

"Oh yeah?" scoffed Owen, folding his arms "How about I just crush your skull and leave this place?"

"You wouldn't want to do that Owen." said Finitevus darkly "Unless of course you fancy the idea of being curb-stomped into the floor…"

Owen seemed to take that as an offence but Lennox and Alistair held him down before he could try to attack Finitevus.

"How do you know our names?" asked Alistair.

"Research is a very good friend of mine." purred Finitevus, tapping his brainy head to emphasize his point "I've researched all I can about you four. I know your names, I know your occupations and I know of your…encounters with Sonic the Hedgehog. It's also no secret that you once used the Key of Opulence to a disastrous result and nearly turned the whole of Mobius into gold. And of course, I know all about your raccoon friend's betrayal and just for you, I'm going to put her back in her place."

"You're going to force Roxy back into the team?" asked Lennox "Why? Why do this for us?"

"We don't even know you!" blurted Owen "And you're not giving us a reason why we should buy all this!"

"Then allow me to explain myself." said Finitevus impatiently "I am formulating an army of villains which all have one goal in mind…to eliminate Sonic the Hedgehog, his pathetic Royal Fighters and to take over the whole of Mobius and make it a world worth living in. It's pathetic as it is now but the Dark Armada will see to improving it. And I am inviting you all to join me in my cause. We could use treasure-hunters such as yourselves in our cause."

"Give us a reason why we should join you!" growled Owen.

"If you join the Dark Armada, you will find treasures beyond anything you've ever known before…"

Finitevus reached into his cloak and he unveiled the green Chaos Emerald that Captain Metal had stolen from Tails earlier. The team gasped in wonder at the glowing green emerald. They had never seen a treasure like this before. This was definitely a sight to behold and the treasure-hunters in them practically screamed for possession of the emerald.

"W-w-wow…" stammered Lennox "That's the most beautiful gem I've ever seen…what is it?"

"It is a Chaos Emerald Lennox." explained Finitevus "There are eight of these gems and one of them just conveniently happened to fall into my hands. If you join my cause, I'll find the other seven for you and you will be allowed to keep them. There's even a Master Emerald on AngelIsland and it is twice the size of an ordinary Chaos Emerald. Join the Dark Armada and you will be handsomely rewarded with the Chaos Emeralds and the Master Emerald."

"Good deal…" mused Alistair "And I say we should take it."

"I agree." said Lennox "H.U.N.T. specializes in treasure and treasure is what we hunt for. But how do we know you'll honour your agreement?"

Finitevus just promptly handed Lennox the green Chaos Emerald. The meerkat was surprised at the fact Finitevus had just given it to him free-handedly like that. That had never happened to him before. Finitevus smiled darkly.

"That one is for you to keep as a little token of my sincerity." crooned Finitevus "And I promise you the other seven and the Master Emerald too. But only if you join my cause. If you join the armada, you will have as much treasure as you can handle and you'll even get revenge on Sonic the Hedgehog and his friends too. This is an offer you cannot pass up."

"It seems so." said Lennox, grateful for the gift Finitevus had bestowed for him "And we accept. Team Diamond will join your armada."

"Thank you very much indeed." said Finitevus, shaking Lennox's hand "But be warned, I will not tolerate betrayals of any kind. Double-cross me, you will live to regret it." his voice was like that of a poisoned dart.

"Dude, why would we WANT to double-cross you after your generous offer?" asked Owen indignantly "This is the nicest thing anyone's ever offered us! We'll be grateful to you for this!"

"See to it that you are." warned Finitevus "After all, Roxy betrayed you so you know what it feels like to be betrayed."

"Indeed." muttered Lennox "So, you said you're going to force Roxy back onto the team? How?"

"You really do not want to know…" Finitevus's face was twisted into a devil's smirk. To be honest, even the devil himself would have whimpered at that smile.

"Try us. We're tough guys!" bragged Owen "We'll handle it!"

"Don't say I didn't warn you…" cackled Finitevus, swishing his cape as he turned around and walked back over to Roxy.

The raccoon had listened to the whole conversation and was horrified at the fact Team Diamond had agreed to join Finitevus and his sinister army. What was worse was that Finitevus was going to force her back into the team and she did not want to know how he was going to accomplish that. Finitevus approached Roxy and reached into his cloak. He pulled out a long sedation needle and he jabbed it into Roxy's arm. The raccoon squirmed and writhed around frantically but the needle had been inserted into her skin and the sedation drug kicked in almost immediately. Roxy's eyes rolled into the back of her head and she fell into a sedated slumber. Just perfect for what Finitevus had in mind. Finitevus checked to see if Roxy was fully sedated before proceeding onto Phase 2. He took out a scalpel and a specialist drill that a brain surgeon would likely use. He also had a silver disc shaped object that was no thicker than a penny and had a red light on it.

"Let's see Roxy betray us now once she realizes that a simple voice command from either of us can blow her head off…" purred Finitevus.

He raised the scalpel and prepared to cut, aiming directly at the top of Roxy's scalp. Lennox, Owen and Alistair just watched, completely silent and scarcely daring to breathe as Finitevus stuck the scalpel into the skin of Roxy's scalp and slowly began to cut open Roxy's head…

Mandy threw herself down onto the ground as a purple jolt of electricity surged directly over her head, missing her by millimetres. Silver Sonic Mk II aimed his other arm at Mandy and fired another jolt of electricity to which Mandy narrowly dodged again although she did actually feel the jolt pass by her as she moved out of the way. Silver Sonic Mk II currently had the Royal Fighters on the ropes. Its electrical attacks were deadly and powerful and Wilson, Mandy and Geoffrey were not at all interested in seeing what would happen if the attack actually hit them. Team Adabat had given them some warning in advance that the electrical attacks would knock them out instantly if they were hit, explaining how they had managed to get captured in the first place. Thus, the trio was determined not to get hit by Silver Sonic Mk II. Mandy ran towards Silver Sonic Mk II and she threw a punch at him. But Silver Sonic Mk II raised its leg and caused Mandy to accidentally throw herself over onto her face. Silver Sonic Mk II was then about to bring its foot down on Mandy and crush her but Wilson threw his spinning blade at the monstrous robot and hit it just above the foot. This caused Silver Sonic Mk II's leg to go backwards and land down away from Mandy. Mandy picked herself up and punched Silver Sonic Mk II in the shin. The heavily armoured robot withstood the punch but Mandy had left some damage on it. Her metal knuckle attachments had left a huge dent in the robot's shin. Silver Sonic Mk II glowered down at its dented shin, showing no signs of pain despite the damage. It looked more annoyed than hurt. It glared at Mandy and raised its foot, hoping to squash her this time. Mandy ran out of the way just as Silver Sonic Mk II's foot came crashing down on the ground. Geoffrey fired an explosive dart at Silver Sonic Mk II but much to his horror, the dart ricocheted off of Silver Sonic Mk II's tough armour! Eggman had taken in Geoffrey's exploding darts when designing this new Silver Sonic model and had made it so the armour would be took thick for the darts to stab into the robot and then blow up. Geoffrey cursed to himself, angered to see that his weapon was useless in this fight. He ran for cover as Silver Sonic Mk II clawed at him. He narrowly caught Geoffrey by the fur on his tail. Geoffrey rolled across the floor and under Silver Sonic Mk II's storage vehicle. Silver Sonic Mk II saw where he was hiding and he picked up the heavy, tank-treaded vehicle as if it weighed nothing to the giant robot. Geoffrey was gobsmacked at how strong Silver Sonic Mk II was and he had to run for it as Silver Sonic Mk II brought the vehicle crashing down onto the ground, smashing it to pieces as it happened. Mandy ran up behind Silver Sonic and punched it in the back of its leg, leaving a terrible dent in it and making Silver Sonic Mk II flinch as if that punch did hurt him that time. That was because Mandy had punched it on the same leg she'd punched earlier. So now its left leg was dented on both sides. It was still functional but it was dented heavily on both sides so Silver Sonic Mk II ended up with a slight limp. Growling a mechanical growl of fury, Silver Sonic Mk II swatted down at Mandy as if trying top swat a fly. Mandy threw herself to the side and out of Silver Sonic Mk II's way, leaving him to slam down onto empty ground. Mandy ran over to the Death Egg refuelling station, hoping that Silver Sonic Mk II would follow her and cause damage to the station just trying to get her. Unfortunately for her, this model had environmental awareness as mentioned earlier so despite following Mandy, it immediately stopped once it got up to the refuelling station. It got down on its knees so as not to hurt Team Adabat for they dangled just inches above it, and it reached out for Mandy. Mandy punched down on its hand, making it screech in pain and raise up, the blades on the back of its head stabbing into the underbelly of the tower's base above. Team Adabat felt their chains shudder as Silver Sonic Mk II hit the underbelly of the tower's base. Silver Sonic Mk II got out from underneath the tower and it started analyzing the environment, hoping to find another way of getting to Mandy without causing any collateral damage. While it was distracted, Wilson threw his spinning blade at Team Adabat's chains. The blade cut through the chains and the four Mobians dropped down onto the ground, relived to be free at last. Scott, Jessica, Taran and Felix rubbed their aching arms better but they remained under the tower for they seemed to realize that Silver Sonic Mk II was hesitant to get them if it meant damaging the refuelling station. Wilson and Geoffrey ran under the tower to join them.

"Thanks for getting us down Wilson." said Scott, still rubbing his arms better.

"Anytime Scott." said Wilson brightly.

"Man does it feel good to be free at last!" grunted Jessica as she stretched to ease the strain on her body "My arms were killing me up there!"

"Believe me, I've felt like that before." murmured Mandy, remembering how she herself had been restrained in such a painful manner in the past "So then, what do we do now?"

"It appears the behemoth is highly hesitant to attack us while we are under the refuelling station." observed Felix "I guess it does not want to inflict any damage to the station as well."

"So much for tricking that thing into doing the dirty work for us." sighed Mandy "But this does give us an advantage. If we remain under here, it won't come after us in fear of causing damage to the station."

"And me and Jessica have projectile weaponry." said Scott, summoning energy to his hands "We can just shoot at that thing whilst remaining under here for safety. This is a win-win for us."

But Scott was wrong. Silver Sonic Mk II had realized that it didn't need to come under the tower to attack the Royal Fighters. Instead, he could just fire his electrical attacks. Silver Sonic Mk II aimed his arm gauntlets under the tower and fired jolts of electricity at the Royal Fighters. The Royal Fighters cried out in surprise and they ran for cover as the shocks nearly hit them.

"So much for that plan!" cried Jessica frantically.

"Now what do we do?!" yelled Taran in fright "Run for our lives and hope it gets tired?!"

"No, we try and bring it down once and for all." declared Mandy "And since there's more of us this time, Silver Sonic will have a harder time snagging us all."

"I hope you're right my love!" squeaked Wilson fearfully as he was nearly hit by another jolt of electricity.

Since the station didn't offer the kind of protection they had been hoping for, the Royal Fighters had to come out from underneath and into the open where they'd be more exposed but likewise, they didn't have much choice. Plus they'd have more freedom to move around out from underneath the station. Silver Sonic Mk II saw Scott coming out from under the station and he decided to attack him first. He fired a jolt of electricity at Scott but the lynx threw an energy spear and hit the attack, stopping it dead in its tracks. Silver Sonic Mk II wasn't too pleased at this and thus it decided to unleash its deadliest attack. It curled up into a huge, bladed ball and it spin-dashed towards Scott. Screaming in terror, Scott dived out of the way as Silver Sonic Mk II hurtled past him. Silver Sonic Mk II broke out of the spin-dash and screeched to a halt after realizing it had missed. This was another new feature of this upgraded model. Silver Sonic Mk II had a sensor that operated while it was in spin-dash mode. The sensor would detect if it had missed its target and if it missed, it would automatically stop the spin-dash so it wouldn't accidentally hit something else. It would also stop the spin-dash if it was about to hit any Eggman buildings. A perfect failsafe device if one ever existed. Silver Sonic Mk II spin-dashed again towards Scott but the lynx jumped out of the way and just as Silver Sonic Mk II uncurled from its spin-dash, Scott summoned energy to his hands and walloped it in the side of its abdomen. Silver Sonic Mk II tumbled over from that punch and lay on its side, groaning a mechanical groan of pain. Before it could get up, Jessica ran up to its head and punched it in the visor with an energy enhanced punch, cracking it heavily and blinding the robot. Jessica did it again, breaking the visor completely. Now Silver Sonic Mk II couldn't see whatsoever. This would end up leading to its downfall. Silver Sonic Mk II got back up onto its feet but because it couldn't see, it didn't notice that Mandy was coming towards it. She punched it in the left leg, denting it so hard that the leg just buckled inwards completely and made Silver Sonic kneel down in pain. The left leg was completely useless to it now. Silver Sonic Mk II forced itself up on its one leg and began firing jolts of electricity in random directions. It couldn't see so it had no idea where it was aiming anymore. But that didn't mean it wasn't still dangerous. A blinded opponent can be very dangerous. They may not know where they're aiming but attacking and firing rapidly like that, Silver Sonic Mk II was bound to hit somebody eventually. Plus their rather frantic firing makes it rather difficult to get close to them without getting hit. The Royal Fighters were forced to take cover as Silver Sonic Mk II continued to blindly fire at them. Felix however realized something that the others hadn't. Silver Sonic Mk II was aiming all around him but he wasn't aiming above himself. Felix could fly over Silver Sonic Mk II and distract him. Taking flight, Felix flew over Silver Sonic Mk II's head and he grabbed two of his tail feathers. They stiffened into clubs and Felix walloped Silver Sonic Mk II on his head. Silver Sonic Mk II felt the blow and he stopped firing electrical jolts to claw at Felix. The peacock just swung his clubs and knocked Silver Sonic Mk II's hand away. Angry, Silver Sonic Mk II started firing rapidly into the sky, trying to hit Felix. Mandy seized her chance. She darted towards Silver Sonic Mk II and punched him in his other leg, three times on the shin. That caused his other leg to buckle inwards and make the huge silver robot collapse onto the ground. The ground shuddered beneath Mandy's feet as Silver Sonic Mk II landed just in front of her.

"Not so tough without your legs now are you?" sneered Mandy, sticking her tongue out mockingly at Silver Sonic Mk II. The gesture was pointless since he couldn't see but Mandy just thought it made her mockery even worse for Silver Sonic Mk II since she was making fun of him and he couldn't see her doing it.

Silver Sonic Mk II heard what Mandy had said and it decided it wasn't going to let her make fun of it like this. It curled into a spin-dash and hurtled towards Mandy but Mandy had jumped out of the way the moment he had curled into a spin-dash. Silver Sonic Mk II hurled past Mandy and he uncurled from its spin-dash. Its visor maybe be broken but the sensor fail-safe was still functional at least. Silver Sonic Mk II landed on the flat part of its buckled in legs and it spin-dashed towards Mandy again. But Scott and Jessica summoned energy to their hands and combined their powers to fire a powerful energy blast from their hands. The blast hurled towards the spin-dashed Silver Sonic Mk II and walloped it side on, sending Silver Sonic Mk II hurling into one of the supporting legs of the refuelling station. Silver Sonic Mk II's body slammed into the tough steel work of the leg and buckled some of the supporting rods that made up the leg's shape. But the strongest parts of the leg were still intact luckily so the station remained standing. Silver Sonic Mk II didn't realize that it had caused damaged to the refuelling station, something it was meant to avoid doing. All it knew was that it had crashed into something but because it was blinded, it didn't know what it had crashed into. It didn't have time to think of anything else though for Geoffrey fired two exploding darts into the empty space in its face that had once been its visor. The darts embedded themselves into the circuitry within the head of Silver Sonic Mk II and Geoffrey set them off without a moment's hesitance. The darts exploded, taking Silver Sonic Mk II's head apart from within and blowing it into fragments. Silver Sonic Mk II's headless body sagged to one side, smoke pouring out of its neck section. It had finally been defeated. Silver Sonic Mk II was destroyed at last. The Royal Fighters whooped with joy over their victory.

"YES! We destroyed it!" cheered Mandy "I thought we'd met our match for a moment but we proved that not even the strongest of Eggman robots can stop us!"

"It's all thanks to our great team work." said Scott brightly "We did brilliantly together didn't we?"

"I agree on that mate." said Geoffrey with a nod "We wouldn't have won if we hadn't worked together so well."

"That's why Eggman will never win." crowed Jessica "Our teamwork will always take down whatever he throws at us!"

"Royal Fighters rule!" whooped Taran.

"Now that the assailant has been eliminated, we can see to bringing down this abysmal station." deduced Felix "That abhorrent building has no place in our wonderful village. Utter desecration if I ever saw it."

"That's what we'd come here for, to destroy that station." said Wilson "Let's get to it before anything else happens."

"We'll have to be careful about it mate." said Geoffrey "We don't want the blooming tower to fall over and crush any houses. This needs to be controlled demolition."

"You're the best man for that." said Mandy "We'll stand back while you set up the darts to blow up the building. I assume you know about controlled demolition?"

"Believe me love, I'm the one to rely on for stuff like this." said Geoffrey, trying to sound modest but failing to keep a bit of pride out of his voice "Felix, you'll have to fly me to the higher levels of the station. I'll need to set up a dart on each section of the building for it to be controlled."

"I shall carry out that task without hindrance or question sir." said Felix politely.

Now they had a plan, Felix flew up and put his talons around Geoffrey's shoulders, hoisting him up from the ground and taking him into the air. Wilson, Mandy, Scott, Jessica and Taran all ran away from the station so they wouldn't be caught up in the crumbling building. Geoffrey fired four darts into each of the station's supporting legs and motioned for Felix to take him up higher. Felix flew up to the next section of the building, which was the base above the legs. Geoffrey set up some darts around the base and had Felix carry him up to where the destroyed gun-turrets were. Geoffrey fired a few darts into the space between the gun turrets on both sides of the tower and Felix took him up to the section nearest to the top of the building. Geoffrey set up some darts around that section and he gave Felix the thumbs up to tell him that they were done and they could go back down to the ground. Felix carried Geoffrey down to where the others had taken shelter. Wilson, Mandy, Scott, Jessica and Taran had taken shelter behind a couple of houses that were a safe distance away from the station. Felix put Geoffrey down and Geoffrey pressed the activation button on his crossbow. The darts exploded, starting with the ones around the base then moving on upwards until the darts at the top exploded, a five-second delay between each section as they went off. The noise was deafening and the explosions were terrific and chaotic. The station was blown apart as the darts tore through the structure and due to the placement of the darts, the tower crumbled straight down in on itself instead of tumbling over and crashing down onto something. It was like watching a sandcastle crumble down. The tower collapsed into a huge pile of metal and debris. The landing pad lay buried under the tower's rubble, useless now the station was destroyed and laying on top of it in pieces. No harm had been done to the surrounding environment. The controlled destruction had been a success. Geoffrey felt very pleased with himself.

"And that's how you destroy a station without harming anything else." he said proudly.

"Very well executed Geoff." said Mandy happily "I bet our pals back home will be very happy to hear how well things have gone with us. This mission was pretty much a cakewalk sans Silver Sonic really."

"They'll be very happy to hear how well we've done Mandy." said Wilson, hugging Mandy "I wonder if the other teams are doing well in their missions."

"We'll find out soon enough when we get home." noted Mandy.

"Hey you guys, enlighten us please. What is this all about anyway?" asked Scott curiously "You know, the station and splitting into teams and all."

"Oh I'm sorry, we should have told you what was going on." said Mandy quickly "Ahem, Eggman's built refuelling stations for an upcoming ship of his called "The Death Egg". We've split into groups to destroy the stations so that the Death Egg won't have anywhere to make an emergency stop or refuel Although Silver and Blaze told us that they think the Death Egg will cause the supposed end of the world that they're trying to prevent so we're now trying to prevent the Death Egg from launching in the first place. Hopefully the stations will give us some kind of clue as to where it is."

"Wow...that's pretty amazing." gasped Jessica "Can we join in this mission?"

"Sure, why not?" said Mandy brightly "The more the merrier and all that. You're welcome to join us in our mission to stop the Death Egg."

"Thank you." said Scott happily "I promise you this, if I see that Dr. Eggman I'll make sure he knows who it is that knocks him down flat!"

"You and me both Scottie." said Mandy grimly "Come on, we'll take you back to Royal HQ. There's room in the car for you all, unless of course Felix wants to fly."

Mandy led the Royal Fighters back to her hover-car. A mission had been accomplished and the Death Egg had one less station to use. But they hadn't gotten closer to finding the Death Egg itself. Mandy began to worry if they'd be too late and the Death Egg would launch. And if it did launch, would it end Mobius like Silver and Blaze thought it would? Mandy hoped they'd never find out...

"Wake up Roxy my dear..." purred the sinister voice of Dr. Finitevus.

Roxy had been out for a whole hour, more than enough time for Finitevus to do what he needed to do to her. Finitevus had completed his work and now he was enticing the raccoon into waking up. She was still strapped down to the table but Finitevus had removed her tape gag so she could speak now. Roxy began to wake up, moaning sleepily and looking very groggy. There was a scar on her cranium that had been stitched shut after Fintievus had finished with her but her hair covered it up. Team Diamond, who had watched the entire operation go off with rather disgusted expressions on their faces, waited to see what Finitevus had done to her. To them, it had just been like watching a brain surgeon work on a patient but they had a feeling Finitevus wasn't trying to fix Roxy's brain since it was just fine. There was something more sinister behind this operation and they were anxious to see what it was. Roxy's eyes opened but her vision was blurred. They closed again but she was beginning to speak again.

"Oh god...I feel like I've fallen out of bed..." she slurred drunkenly "And why does my head hurt...?"

As she'd woken up, she suddenly realized that her head was throbbing. Possibly an after effect of being sedated but Roxy was sure that she could feel something funny in her brain. She so wanted to rub her head better but she was still belted down to the table so she couldn't. Roxy's eyes opened up and she realized that Finitevus was staring at her. Growling angrily, Roxy tugged on her belts and tried to attack him.

"You...you...how dare you sedate me you sick echidna!" she growled "Let me outta these belts so I can give you a headache!"

"And risk being blown up? I don't think so my dear." sneered Dr. Finitevus "After all, you'll be useless to me without a head."

"What the hell are you talking about?!" snapped Roxy.

"You know why I sedated you Roxy?" purred Finitevus "So I could perform my magic on you without accidentally damaging you in anyway."

"You're not making any sense!" snapped Roxy "Get to the bloody point!"

"I was." growled Finitevus, grabbing Roxy's neck and throttling her "You see, while you was unconscious, I cut your head open and placed a small, tiny bomb atop your brain."

"WHAT?!" squealed Roxy "No...that's impossible! You're lying to me!"

"Will you still think that after you see the X-ray?" crooned Finitevus.

He then proceeded to show Roxy her image on an X-ray screen that was positioned beside the table. Roxy looked at the screen and straight away, she noticed that her brain had something added to it. It was a small, flat circular disc about the size of a 2 pence penny and it had a red light to show it was active. Roxy's blood froze and her heart nearly stopped.

"No...no..." she gasped hoarsely.

"Yes my child, you now have a bomb inside your head." purred Finitevus sadistically "If you dare to betray Team Diamond OR me for that matter...we'll set off the bomb and it'll be bye-bye Roxy. Isn't science wonderful?"

"YOU MONSTER!" screamed Roxy "How could you?!"

"I wanted ALL of Team Diamond in my armada, therefore I had to force you to join me." explained Finitevus "Now you will do as I or Lennox tells you...or you'll be killed. All I or any member of Team Diamond has to do is say the words "bomb" and "self-destruct" both together and your head will be blown apart. I can't imagine it'll be a very pretty sight."

"You bastard!" shrieked Roxy "Sonic and the Royal Fighters will kill you for this!"

"Oh no they won't." purred Finitevus "You see, they will think you've come back to Team Diamond willingly. You will not breathe a word about what's happened to you on any occasion. If you do, the bomb goes off without any moment's hesitance. If you meet any Royal Fighters, you will tell them that you lied about your heel-turn and you've come back to Team Diamond and joined me. Do you understand?"

"Y-y-yes Finitevus..." whimpered Roxy "I swear though, you will pay for this!"

"I'm sure I will but you will not be the one who will be making me pay." sneered Finitevus "Now then, you need to rest for a moment so I suggest you be isolated for an hour or so. I'll take you to an isolation chamber and once you think you're ready to accept your place and you feel well rested, I will let you out. Me and Team Diamond on the other hand have some emeralds to find."

Roxy didn't say anything, she knew that it'd be pointless now. She did not want Finitevus to blow her head up after all. Finitevus released Roxy from the belts and he helped her up off the table and onto her feet. As he led Roxy out of the room, Team Diamond smiled mockingly at her. They were well pleased with what Finitevus had done to Roxy. He'd kept his word definitely. He'd promised to force Roxy back into the team...and he'd succeeded in a way they never would have expected.

"Hey Roxy, welcome back to the team!" yelled Owen in a teasing voice that dripped with sadism and mockery.

"Dare betray us and it's off with your head! Ha, ha, ha, ha!" laughed Alistair wickedly.

"And this time Roxy, you will STAY on our team." said Lennox coldly "Don't make me be the one that'll blow your head off."

Roxy ignored them. She was not giving them the satisfaction of a reaction to their words. She'd rather keep herself to herself this time around. Finitevus led Roxy out of the room and he took her to a cell that had four walls and a door, nothing else. This was an isolation chamber although it was more like a cell than anything. Finitevus just preferred the term "Isolation chamber" because it sounded more scientific than "cell". Finitevus shoved Roxy into the cell and he locked it shut behind her. Roxy just listened at the door as Finitevus walked away. The moment Finitevus left, Roxy slumped against the cell wall and tucked her knees up to her chest. Defeated, submitted and without anyway out of her situation, Roxy fell into a despair worse than anything she'd ever felt before. With her ears drooping down and her eyes welling with tears, Roxy lowered her head into her knees and cried. Feeling for all the world that she would never...ever... be able to stop...

Footnotes:

 That all just happened in *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 25: Racoon on the Run

Aww...poor Roxy! :'((cries)

Well at least Wilson, Mandy and Geoffrey succeeded in their mission! :D Let's see if Knuckles, Shade and the Chaotix have anymore luck in the next chapter. Tune in as we fight "For The Colony" next time...

For The Colony Part 1

Story 190: For the Colony Part 1

Countdown to Death Egg: 5

The Royal Fighters were on a trip all around the world. Just recently they had found out that the Death Egg's remaining refuelling stations were located in random locations all over Mobius and in order to destroy them all simultaneously, the Royal Fighters had to split up. Knuckles the Echidna, his girlfriend Shade the Echidna and Team Chaotix were one of those teams. Vector the Crocodile, the Chaotix boss, had chosen personally to go to the Golden Hive Colony in Nekronopolis, one of the locations that a Death Egg refuelling station had been built in. He'd chosen primarily because the Golden Hive Colony was the birthplace of the junior Chaotix member Charmy Bee. He had been kicked out of the hive just for being an irresponsible worker though and this had led to Vector finding Charmy and taking him in when nobody else would. Vector hoped that destroying the refuelling station would put Charmy in the colony's good books even though Charmy would most certainly not come back to the colony again. His place was with the Chaotix and that's all there was to it. The Golden Hive Colony was a long drive away from New Mobotropolis but the Mobians were almost there. In a few minutes, they would be arriving to the colony. The hover-saucer sped across a field of grass that seemed to go on forever, blowing the grass wildly as it sped over it. Shade, who was already in combat gear at this moment, turned to Vector The crocodile was sitting on her left side while Knuckles sat on her right side.

"So Vector, what is the Golden Hive Colony?" asked Shade curiously "I've never really heard of it before."

"All I can tell ya pretty much is what Charmy tells me about it." said Vector modestly "That is to say, he doesn't tell me much about it."

"Can you blame him?" asked Espio the Chameleon, the Chaotix Ninja and the one who was driving the hover-saucer. He kept his eye on the road but still turned around to talk to Vector "Would you want to talk about a place that kicked you out at all?"

"In case you forget Espio, I LEFT the place I was raised in!" snapped Vector "So actually, I can't really blame Charmy! I was in the same position as him before I had to reveal my past to you all!* But I guess Charmy is more hesitant to talk about his past than I was because he still tells us very little about the colony other than the fact it has a pretty mean king and he was kicked out for being irresponsible and clumsy."

"Seems a bit unfair really." muttered Knuckles "He's just a kid after all, it's hardly his fault he acted that way."

"Bees do have a rather complex way of life Knuckles." said Shade matter-of-factly "No matter your age, every bee has to do his or her part for the colony. Its how they function and we're not inclined to tell them otherwise."

"Fair enough but I still think that was needlessly harsh on Charmy's part." said Knuckles, a sympathetic expression on his face as he glanced over at Charmy, who was sitting beside Espio and keeping very quiet "If I was in charge of the Golden Hive Colony, I would have just tried to teach Charmy how to be responsible instead of dropping him off as a dead weight."

Charmy had been quiet throughout the entire trip but after what Knuckles had said, he felt the need to say something. He turned around and pointed at Knuckles.

"For your information spiky, the royals in charge of the Golden Hive Colony DID try to teach me how to be responsible!" he snapped "And I did try my hardest but I just couldn't do what they wanted me to do and thus they gave up on me and kicked me out! And I'm not EVER allowed to come back to the colony! I really wish you didn't pick the Golden Hive Colony Vector! Why did you have to pick the Golden Hive Colony?! Couldn't we have gone to Adabat instead?"

"I picked the colony because I was hoping to repair your image and give you a better reputation amongst the colony." explained Vector "I'm nice like that you know. Plus, I'm sure your mama and papa would be really pleased to see you too."

"Oh yeah, I really missed those guys when I got the boot…" murmured Charmy sadly "It'll be awesome to see them again but… I'm not allowed in the colony. I'm forbidden so I can't come in."

"We'll see if the king changes his tune when he finds out that you're a member of the Royal Fighters Service and is here along with me, Espio, Knuckles and Shade to destroy a Death Egg refuelling station that's been built on their property." said Vector with a confident smile on his grizzly but kind face "I bet he'll be all too happy to let you in Charmy."

"I sincerely doubt that…" muttered Charmy "The king was a right jerk he was. He made the colony worked until their wings ached. I hope he's softened down in my absence…"

"He'll be in a good mood when he sees who's coming to meet the colony." said Knuckles although in his mind, he was just as doubtful as Charmy himself "I bet even the colony's heard of the Royal Fighters and all the good they've done for the world."

"Let us hope that's the case or things will get very difficult indeed…" said Shade grimly.

"I'm tellin' ya, the king's gonna hate you all the moment he looks at you." said Charmy, his voice deathly serious. Unusual for the bee's rather crazy, excitable character. It was like this trip was slowly transforming him into a different person altogether.

Vector and Espio were very perplexed at Charmy's sudden change in character. It was obvious that being kicked out of the Golden Hive Colony had effected in Charmy worse than they could ever imagine. The colony clearly did leave a bad memory in his head, a memory that he'd rather expel from his mind if possible. Hopefully this mission would change all that. A couple more minutes passed before the Golden Give Colony suddenly came into view up ahead. They had arrived at last. Espio, Vector, Knuckles and Shade stared incredulously at what lay ahead of them. The Golden Hive Colony was a metropolis of beehive shaped buildings that varied in shape and size. Some beehives looked more traditional, others looked more like skyscrapers mixed with beehives. They all varied in different shades of orange, yellow and gold too, very traditional colours for bees of all kinds. Charmy remembered this architecture all too well. It had been a couple of years since he'd last set foot in the colony and yet he felt like he'd only see it yesterday. Kicked out at the age of five and now he was returning to the colony, a couple years older. Not that it made any difference since one could still plainly tell it was him should anyone lay eyes upon Charmy. The bee gulped as the hover-saucer pulled up to a stop and the Mobians all leapt out of the saucer. Vector whistled, clearly impressed at what he was looking at.

"Now that's a nice looking place." he said to himself "If I was a bee, I'd be heartbroken if I was kicked outta this place."

"Just wait till you see the inside of it." whinged Charmy "Nothing but work, work, work from all the bees in the colony. It's not as fun as it looks or sounds."

"Maybe to you." said Espio "Some people enjoy working you know. It's obvious you weren't the right kind of bee for this colony."

"Well this is the Golden Hive Colony is seems." mused Knuckles "But I don't see anything that looks like it's of Eggman's design. Maybe it's deeper in the city."

"It must be less conspicuous than that station in Soleanna if we can't immediately spot it." said Shade "I bet the colony's bigger than it appears."

"Oh it is." said Charmy "It's gianormous! Humongous! Big enough to get lost in forever! Don't let those few buildings fool ya! The colony's a lot bigger than it seems!"

"In that case, we'll stick together." said Espio "We'll avoid getting lost in that case and on a mission as imperative as this, we can't afford to get lost in there."

"So Charmy, how do we enter this place?" asked Vector curiously "Do we just knock on the door or something?"

"You just walk right in and if a bee in a royal uniform comes up to ya, tell him who you are and what you're doing here." explained Charmy "They welcome visitors since bees have a habit of being nice and welcoming but they will hesitate if you're a bad-guy or something like that."

"Sounds easy enough." said Vector "Let's go in then. Keep an eye out for any Eggman robots. They'll likely pounce on us if they recognize us."

The team nodded and they approached the impressive looking bee city before them. The colony seemed to expand in size as the Mobians approached it. Shade was beginning to believe Charmy on what he said about the colony being bigger than it seemed from afar. More buildings were visible now the Mobians entered the colony, most of them being the size of an average house but still keeping the beehive like structure that made the Golden Hive Colony what it was. There were a horde of bees buzzing all around the city, rushing to and fro with baskets of honey and flowers that give the colony a very sweet smell that give the colony a very pleasant atmosphere. Some of the bees were walking around rather than flying and they seemed to be greeting each other like ordinary people on the street. Some of the bees clearly had wives for Vector saw a couple of bees embracing each other and another couple kissing as the husband went off to work. There were even child bees walking or flying around with their parents, all of them looking about Charmy's age and size. Charmy had to admit, the children made him feel more welcome since he didn't look out of place compared to them. Some of the buildings that occupied the streets were civilian houses or shopping markets that sold a lot of flowers and honey. There was a huge, bright orange beehive with yellow hexagons dotted around that seemed to be where all the honey was made. A lot of bees were flying in and out of that building. They were empty handed when they flew into the building but when they flew out of the building, they had hands full of baskets containing honey jars. It was truly a lovely looking city and for Knuckles, Shade, Vector and Espio, it was like stepping into a new world. They were breath taken at what they were looking at. They were so marvelled at what they saw that they didn't realize some of the bees were staring at them, wondering what the heck they were staring at. They didn't see many Mobians that weren't bees after all but given they were bees, they didn't be rude or nasty about it. Bees were among the nicest Mobians on Mobius, hardly ever having bees that were cruel or even evil for that matter. They knew better than to make a big scene about strangers which was all for the best in a matter of speaking for the Mobians might have felt a bit uncomfortable.

"Take a gander…at this!" gasped Vector.

"You sure came from a grand colony Charmy." said Espio "This is truly meritorious. The bees must be honoured to live here."

"I must say, it's awesome to see this place again." said Charmy admittedly "But I still don't feel comfortable here. I keep feeling like somebody's gonna point at me and call the guards on me…"

"Charmy, keep your voice down!" hissed Shade "Don't draw attention to yourself if you don't want the guards on you!"

"Sorry." whispered Charmy, dropping his voice down so only Shade could hear him.

"So, where's the king's residence then?" asked Knuckles "I'm not seeing anything that says "Here is where you'll find the King of the Golden Hive Colony"."

"You don't just walk over to the king's palace silly-brain!" snapped Charmy, bonking Knuckles on the head "You have to ask permission first! And a guard will take you over to the palace should he accept your request to see the king and queen! And I bet once they see me, they won't be so generous…"

Charmy soon realized that he'd found out for himself how generous the king and queen of the Golden Hive Colony would be feeling for a huge bee that sported combat armour suddenly soared down towards the Royal Fighters and landed down before them. His armour looked ridiculous, the colours being a garish mixture of orange and yellow that clashed violently together. It did look well armoured though with a thick bodysuit, thick shoulder pads and heavy boots that were fit for a bee of its size. The bee also wore a helmet that had a hexagonal pattern around it. The bee looked firm but he showed no signs of hostility. He relaxed his composure and adopted a more friendly posture. The Royal Fighters waited to see what the bee was going to say whereas Charmy hid behind Vector in fear.

"Good day visitors, welcome to the Golden Hive Colony." he said in his most polite voice he could possibly manage "My name's Hugo Beeving and I'm one of the king's royal guards. Who are you and what is your business here?"

"We're Royal Fighters." explained Knuckles "I assume you've heard of us?"

"We bees are big admirers of your work Royal Fighter sir." said Hugo with a brash smile on his chunky face "We are very grateful to the hard work you honourable heroes have put into saving the world from any evil that threatens our peace and tranquillity. The king and queen have dreamed about meeting at least one Royal Fighter so this is quite a pleasant surprise."

"That's good." said Knuckles, smiling back "I'm Knuckles, this is my girl Shade and these two are Vector and Espio." he introduced "And we also have another one with us. Please don't get mad when you see who it is though."

"OK um, why would I be mad?" asked Hugo unsurely.

"Because it's Charmy Bee." said Knuckles, pulling Charmy out from behind Vector and showing him to Hugo "But he's a Royal Fighter now, surely he'll be welcome too?"

Hugo stared at Charmy as if he'd just witnessed somebody dying from a deadly plague. He didn't think he'd ever see Charmy again and yet he was staring straight at him. Charmy just waved nervously at Hugo and tried to look sweet.

"Uh…long time n-no s-see hey H-Hugo?" gibbered Charmy nervously.

"Huh, who'd have thought the irresponsible klutz of the colony would end up becoming a Royal Fighter?" mused Hugo "Well that already redeems Charmy in my books. Let's hope their royal highnesses are anymore welcoming than I…ahem, so what have you decided to visit the Golden Hive Colony for then?"

"We wish to meet the king and queen." explained Vector "We're here to sort something out for the colony and we want to let them know that we're here to help them."

"I wonder if it's something to do about that hideous building that Dr. Eggman monster built here the other day…" Hugo thought out loud to himself more than anybody. He then said to the Royal Fighters themselves "Very good. I shall escort you to the Golden Hive Palace immediately."

With that said, Hugo buzzed off and the Royal Fighters followed him as he escorted them to the Golden Hive Palace. The bees in the street watched as Hugo escorted what were clearly strangers to them towards the Golden Hive Palace. They guessed they were important people if they were being escorted by a Royal Guard to the palace itself. They would definitely have to learn more about these people later on. Knuckles, Shade, Vector and Espio were pleased that things were going rather well so far for them whereas Charmy could feel his heartbeat increasing as he reluctantly followed Hugo to the palace. He was not looking forward to meeting the king and queen again and he had a feeling they would not be very lenient on him at all. This was going to be a very tense moment between now and when the meeting began…

The Golden Hive Palace was truly a building of pure majesty and opulence. It was a very grandiose structure that made it very clear that it was a palace the moment the occasional onlooker glanced in its direction. It looked like a beehive just like all the other buildings in the Golden Hive Colony but this building had features that helped it look like a palace too. It had stained glass windows all around the midsection of the building that were a mixture of many colours just like how a church's stained glass windows would be. There was a huge, green, hexagon shaped gem protruding from the middle of the palace from the front side. The building was red mixed with orange and with trims of yellow in places. There were large doors that had a golden sculpture around the edges to make the doors look more impressive than they already did and there was a flag waving atop the palace. The flag had an image of a bee wearing a crown. If people couldn't tell this was where the king and queen lived then the flag would most certainly confirm it to them that the royals lived here. The GoldenHivePalace was easily the most conspicuous building in the colony but also the most important and admired building amongst the citizens. Anyone who visited the Golden Hive Colony was instantly entranced in how impressive the palace looked. Inside, the palace looked equally as impressive. The throne room was the living depiction of the most generic of throne rooms with a ludicrously high ceiling that had marble sculptures of bees carrying honey protruding from just a few inches under the ceiling as if the sculptures were trying to fly up through the ceiling and escape. It appears the people who sculpted them didn't want it to look that way so they had sculpted them lower down. The ceiling itself was a huge hexagon shaped window that let in the sunlight and made the room sparkle like diamonds. Most of the room was made of marble and had a very old fashioned architecture to it. There were pillars supporting the ceiling all around with gold trimming around the bases and there was a huge painting of a colony of bees buzzing through the skies and carrying as much honey as possible to the honey factories that the Golden Hive Colony was famous for. The throne was enormous, big enough to sit two people on it and there were two red cushions for the royals to sit upon. Like most of the throne room, the throne was made of marble. But nobody was sitting on it at this moment.

The king and queen were staring up at the hexagon window as if they'd never seen it before and were wondering what it was. The king stopped staring at the window and started to pace around the room worriedly. The king was a rather scrawny looking bee who wore a ridiculously long red capethat trailed behind him as he paced around. He had a goatee that just made him look even more ridiculous and he wore a large crown that looked about a size too small for him. One had the impression that he'd once been large and for some reason at some point in his life, he'd begun shrinking down and was now too small for his clothes. The queen was equally as scrawny as the king was. She had an attractive face and a slender build to match. Her outfit consisted of a purple dress with white trimming around the hem and she wore a crown that had been specially built to match her small head. She did have a bigger crown once but it kept falling off and she didn't think it was a good image for a queen bee to have. The king had kept his crown for he considered it dishonourable to not wear the actual crown and instead wear a smaller make just so it would fit his head. Thus on many occasions, the king's crown slipped down over his eyes and he would have to raise it back up. The king's crowed fell down over his eyes as he paced and he paused to lift it back up.

"Oh what to do…what to do?!" he whined for the millionth time, nearly tripping over his long train of a cape as he turned around and paced back towards his wife "It's been an hour since Nekronopolis's Royal Fighters went out to deal with that ugly station Dr. Eggman built on our property! Why haven't they reported yet?"

"At ease Stinger, give them time." said the queen softly "Maybe they're planning on how to destroy the station and it's taking them a while to figure out how to do it?"

"One would think they'd have given us a message by now Bessie!" shrieked Stinger, his crown leaping about a foot off of his head as if trying to escape from him as he shrieked "We've received nothing since they went out to destroy the station! They promised to keep us informed and yet we've not been informed! What's keeping them?!"

"Maybe they haven't had time yet dear?" asked Bessie with a shrug.

"Oh, you and your bloomin' "maybes"! You're not all that helpful are you Bessie?!" sighed Stinger loudly.

"Well what else can I say Stinger my love? I'm only suggesting what I'm thinking at this point in time." replied Bessie, surprisingly keeping her voice level despite Stinger yelling at him.

Bessie was used to Stinger being a bit overbearing and impolite and she knew better than to raise her voice back at him. All it did was make the situation worse. Best to keep calm when Stinger's in a bit of a jumpy mood. Stinger sighed and he hugged Bessie warmly.

"Oh sorry Bessie my dear, I didn't mean to raise my voice again."

said Stinger "You know how edgy I can be when the Golden Hive Colony has a problem that needs dealing with."

"Your love for this kingdom is what makes you so beloved Stinger and we admire how much you care for us all." said Bessie softly, touching Stinger's cheek tenderly "It's perfectly understandable why you get jumpy when something out of the blue happens to the colony. I just hope that station isn't some kind of robot production factory and it's going to overrun the colony with robots."

"That's the least we deserve!" squealed Stinger "Oh I hope the Nekronopolis Royal Fighters destroy that thing eventually…"

His voice died in his throat as a knock on the door stopped him dead in his tracks. Jumping in alarm, Stinger leapt onto his throne as if somebody had just kicked him onto it and he sat neatly upon the throne as if he wasn't anxious anymore. Bessie sat down neatly beside him and clasped her hands together. Stinger was about to speak but his crown fell over his eyes once again. Sighing, he decided to speak anyway.

"Come in!" he hollered, raising the crown back up so he could see properly.

The grand-looking marble door opened up and in walked Hugo Beeving with the Royal Fighters. He walked up to the throne and he bowed down before Stinger and Bessie honourably. The Royal Fighters stood behind him, waiting for Hugo to allow them to come forward. Charmy hid behind Vector again, praying that Stinger and Bessie hadn't seen him. They didn't say anything so it seemed they hadn't spotted him.

"Your majesties, it gives me great pleasure to announce that we have some Royal Fighters visiting us today." he said "If you'd like to come forward guys." he said with a glance over to the Royal Fighters.

Knuckles and Shade came forward first and they both bowed down to Stinger and Bessie. Stinger appreciated this ounce of politeness from the two echidnas and he had a feeling he was going to like them already.

"Well, more Royal Fighters? How drool!" he said happily "I didn't think I'd get the pleasure of seeing more Royal Fighters come here to meet me today!"

"More?" questioned Shade "You mean, there's more Royal Fighters already here?"

"A team of fighters who call themselves "Team Nekronopolis" came here about an hour ago and offered to destroy an Eggman building that he had built in our great kingdom without our permission." explained Bessie "They haven't updated us for an hour though so we're wondering if they've succeeded yet or not."

"Well, this place IS in Nekronopolis so of course Miranda's team would already be on the case." said Vector with a shrug.

"Never hurts to throw our hand in and see how we could help in anyway." said Espio "We're part of the New Mobotropolis group. I'm Espio the Chameleon and this is Vector the Crocodile. The two echidnas are Knuckles and Shade the Echidnas, Guardians of Angel Island."

"Guardians eh? Fascinating…" said Stinger with great interest "Well then, it's nice to meet you all. I'm King Stinger and this is my lovely wife, Queen Bessie." he introduced.

"We're honoured to meet you all." said Bessie kindly.

"We have one more although he seems a bit shy at the moment." said Vector with a wide smile on his face that looked a little put on given how uneasy he was beginning to feel "Charmy, you can come out now."

Charmy refused to budge so Vector had to shove him out from behind him. Charmy found himself staring directly at Stinger and Bessie and he could feel himself sweating with fear. Stinger and Bessie stared at him incredulously as if a ghost had just come back from the past to haunt them for reasons they didn't understand. Stinger looked like he couldn't mover for a second whereas Bessie was trying her best to think of the politest way to handle this. Charmy positioned his feet inwards and he put his hands behind his back. His heart was beating as fast as his wings could flap when he buzzed through the air. He smiled nervously at the king and queen.

"Uh…hi your majesty?" squeaked Charmy "It's uh…nice to meet you again?"

"What is HE doing here?!" shouted Stinger frantically, bouncing up and down in an almost comical manner on his seat. Maybe the cushion was very springy and that's why he was bouncing. "I thought I banished this charlatan two years ago! Escort him out of here at once!"

Charmy was not surprised whatsoever. He knew this would happen to him. He was already waiting for Hugo's hands to grab him and take him out of the palace but Vector butt in before anything could happen.

"No wait your Excellency please!" cried Vector frantically "We can vouch for Charmy here! He's a Royal Fighter now! We assure you, he won't disappoint you again!"

"A Royal Fighter?!" blurted Stinger with a mocking laugh "Oh the very idea! Ha, ha! This klutz of a bee couldn't even carry a honey basket without making a disaster of the operation! You seriously expect me to believe this disaster waiting to happen is a Royal Fighter? You're pulling my leg you are! Why don't you pull my arm instead? It's got fairy lights on it."

He stretched out an arm and wriggled his fingers as if actually inviting for one of the Royal Fighters to pull on his arm. Vector was very nearly tempted to grab his arm and yank it clean out of its socket. He restrained himself just in time before the temptation could get to him.

"We're not joking, we're being deathly serious your honour." said Espio "Charmy is a member of our team. Me, him and Vector form Team Chaotix and Charmy has been of great help to us in our missions. He's quite the fighter when he needs to be. We ask you nicely that you give him a chance to prove himself to you. He won't disappoint you."

"Well I was always a believer in second chances so I'm willing to give the little boy a chance." said Bessie "I will admit, we were a little callous to him back then…"

"I'm not convinced but I'm not going to be the first bee in this colony to reject a perfectly reasonable offer." cut in Stinger "I shall not dishonour my ancestors by being so needlessly callous. "Never reject a reasonable offer" that's the colony's motto. Charmy may stay and aid you in your mission BUT if he makes a fool of himself again…he leaves this place and this time, he STAYS away from it for good. Do you understand?" he asked firmly.

"Perfectly." said Knuckles "Now then, where's this Eggman station and what does it look like?"

"It's just near the Hexagon Village." explained Stinger "Hugo will lead you there. It's a huge building that looks like a launch pad for some kind of rocket only there's no rocket around."

"Thank you." said Shade politely "That station is a refuelling station for Eggman's upcoming vessel known as "The Death Egg". We gravely fear that it's going to cause the end of the world thanks to information give to us by some…very talented people. We're hoping that destroying the stations will hinder the vessel and in someway, maybe lead us to its location."

"Well I bloomin' well hope you DO destroy that hideous building then!" piped Stinger "No way is my colony going to be a refuelling station for a ship that belongs to Eggman! Ugh, what a ghastly thought! Good luck my Royal Fighters and…even you Charmy." he said "May you be successful in your mission."

"Thank you very much King Stinger." said Knuckles "We'll report back once the station's destroyed. And maybe we'll see what's going on with Team Nekronopolis too."

"That'll be nice." said Bessie "I'm kinda worried about those four myself…"

The Royal Fighters bowed respectfully to the royals and then they turned to leave the throne room with Hugo leading them out. Stinger and Bessie watched the Royal Fighters leave, hoping dearly that this wouldn't be the last they'd ever see of them and that they would return with good news to deliver to them…

Over onto Angel Island, the home of Knuckles and Shade, a warp ring appeared just above the Master Emerald shrine and a leg with warp rings all around the calf section and a bandaged up foot stepped out of the warp ring. The rest of the body followed the leg out of the warp ring. It was Dr. Finitevus. After performing surgery on Roxy the Raccoon and planting a bomb in her head, Finitevus had decided to pay a visit to Angel Island so he could fulfil another end of his bargain with Team Diamond. He had promised to reward their joining with the Dark Armada with the other seven Chaos Emeralds and the Master Emerald so he was here to do just that. Dr. Finitevus observed his surroundings to make sure that the coast was clear. He could see nothing in sight for the moment so he hopped down off the shrine and onto the ground below. He glanced over his shoulder and spoke to the still open warp ring.

"Team Diamond, you are free to proceed." he said.

Out of the warp ring emerged Lennox Meers, Owen Pounder and Alistair Drakken. Lennox's knee, which had been damaged after Roxy had shot him in it earlier, had been fixed by Finitevus just moments before they left. He had given him a steel-kneecap that substituted for his shattered kneecap perfectly. Lennox was still in pain but at least he could walk properly again. Alistair's visor had also been fixed so his eyes were no longer a weakness, fortunately enough for the mask-wearing bat. They hopped onto the Master Emerald as the warp ring vanished behind them. They glanced down at the Master Emerald in surprise, amazed at how big it was. All three of them could stand on it without a problem. Owen and Alistair looked like they were about to start fawning over the emerald whereas Lennox wasn't sure how to react to the sheer size of it.

"Wow…I guess this is the Master Emerald is it not?" he murmured "It's huge! It's the biggest emerald I've ever seen in my life and that's saying a lot since I have seen quite a lot of big treasures in my life!"

"I think this thing is all we need to reform H.U.N.T.!" cried Owen excitedly "Treasure-hunters the world over will be killing themselves to get their hands on this!"

"You certainly know how to impress Finitevus…we're even more glad we made this alliance with you." purred Alistair delightedly "You have given us the best treasures one could ask for."

"You're very welcome my treasure-hunting terrors." said Finitevus with an evil smile on his face "Now then, keep an eye on the Master Emerald while I go and find the other seven Chaos Emeralds."

"Why don't we just steal the Master Emerald now?" asked Lennox.

"Because it is keeping this island afloat." explained Finitevus "Remove it and the island will fall. It is not to be removed UNTIL I've found the Chaos Emeralds."

"Dear god, we wouldn't want the island to fall while we're on it would we?" blurted Lennox "I guess that's why they call it the "Master Emerald" if it's the reason this island's floating.

"We shall make sure it doesn't move out of its place at all." said Owen "We'll guard it with our lives if we have to. No way are we losing by far the biggest treasure we'll ever own."

"Very good." said Finitevus "Do not let me return only to find the Master Emerald's been stolen." he warned sternly.

"It shan't come to that." promised Alistair.

Finitevus gave Alistair a look that suggested "It better not for your sake" and he spun around on his heel, his cape billowing out behind him in the breeze as he walked off into the jungle. He had the green Chaos Emerald with him and he was going to use that to sense where the Chaos Emeralds were. When it came to looking for a Chaos Emerald, the best way of finding one is to use another Chaos Emerald. They glowed brighter when they were near another Chaos Emerald. Finitevus followed the Chaos Emerald's directions as it led him into the jungle. It was telling him to go forward and so far, that was all it was telling him. Finitevus would follow the directions until the Chaos Emerald told him otherwise. It helped to have a strong connection to the Chaos Force so that it was easier to follow a Chaos Emerald's directions and Finitevus had a very strong connection to the Chaos Force. He had Chaos Energy in his veins and that was what gave him his abnormal fighting prowess. The Chaos Emeralds were as good as found with Finitevus looking for them. As he left, Team Diamond stood around the Master Emerald and wondered how long it would take for Finitevus to return.

"Do you think he'll be long?" asked Owen.

"He says that Chaos Emerald of ours can be used to track the others." said Lennox "It's safe to assume he won't be too long. I hope so too. I just want to make off with the Master Emerald already."

"I can see why." said Alistair, putting his hands on the Master Emerald and feeling the Chaos Energy pulsing through the emerald "It's a grand treasure and its size and feel just seem to emote power of a grand kind. Just owning this emerald is enough to make us feel like very powerful treasure hunters!"

"Indeed so." said Owen "I hope Finitevus doesn't try to keep it for himself."

"It doesn't matter if he does." said Lennox "Think of him as like our new H.U.N.T. boss if you will. We had to share our profits with him so if Finitevus wants shares from us, we give him some. Though I myself hope he lets us keep the Master Emerald. I would really like to own that emerald."

He glanced over his shoulder to admire the Master Emerald. So glorious and sparkling it was to him. Never in his life would he ever see a gem as glorious as this again. He so dearly hoped that Dr. Finitevus would let him keep the Master Emerald once they swiped it and took it back to the laboratory with them. Lennox stopped looking at the Master Emerald and he turned his attention to making sure that the coast was still clear and that nobody was going to try and steal the Master Emerald from them. So far, everything seemed clear. Nothing around whatsoever. It seemed like things would be going their way, fortuitously enough for them. Lennox leaned back against the Master Emerald, being careful not to knock it over by accident. It maybe a big emerald but it was quite stable. Leaning against it wasn't going to knock it over which was fortunate enough for Lennox.

"So once we get revenge on Sonic and friends, what do you think we'll do next?" asked Owen "Do you think Finitevus will help us revive H.U.N.T?"

"In my eyes, he already has." said Lennox "Getting us the Chaos Emeralds and the Master Emerald like this. Once we put down the Royal Fighters, I'll drop a suggestion to Finitevus and see if he approves of a new H.U.N.T. for us."

"And if he refuses?" asked Alistair with a tone of concern in his voice.

"Then we do it without him." said Lennox "After all, we're only using him for our own personal needs. We just wanted Roxy back and now she's back with us, we just need him to help us get rid of the Royal Figthers and then we can revive H.U.N.T. without any hindrances."

"Oh yeah!" cackled Owen "With the Royal Fighters gone, H.U.N.T. will be able to reform and no pesky heroes will get in our way!"

Exactly." said Lennox with a smile drier than the Sahara Desert "And Finitevus has given us the kind of treasure that will more than likely get any potential treasure hunters to join us in our cause. The Master Emerald will get anyone begging for it..."

He suddenly cut himself off mid-setence as he heard a sound coming from a distance away. He leaped a top of the Master Emerald and stood up high on tip-toe like a natural meerkat on the lookout for danger. He could see something coming towards the island. Something that he hadn't seen before. There was a huge looking robot rocketing towards Angel Island. Lennox immediately guessed it was one of Eggman's creations since he was renowned for his obsession with robots. He'd never seen an Eggman robot before but he had heard enough about Eggman to know that Eggman made robots and any robot you saw was likely one he made. Owen and Alistair climbed onto the Master Emerald to see what Lennox had spotted.

"What is it boss?" asked Owen.

"Danger?" asked Alistair, trying to see what Lennox had seen.

"There's a robot coming towards the island." explained Lennox "I think Dr. Eggman's sent one to steal the Master Emerald."

"Well in that case, we'll destroy it!" declared Owen, punching his fists together "We were told to defend the Master Emerald until Finitevus got back so let's defend it!"

"Despite my repaired knee, it would be best I don't use my limbs in this battle." murmured Lennox, looking down at his repaired knee, which was noticeably bulkier than his other knee and had a stitched up scar where the operation had taken place "I don't want to damage my knee again. I'll just rely on the laser pistols Finitevus supplied me with."

He whipped out a pair of hi-tech pistols from the holsters on his belt and he primed them for activation. Twirling them around, he pointed them at the approaching robot and waited until it was in range before he could fire at it. The robot was just a few yards away from the island before Lennox started shooting at it. The shots hurled through the air and punched into the robot. It didn't bring the robot down but it did throw off its flight path a little. The robot dived down and flew towards Angel Island lower down. Lennox aimed down and began shooting at the robot but he couldn't quite hit it. The robot flew straight up towards the island and loomed before Team Diamond. The robot was none other than Dr. Eggman, cackling maniacally and aiming the weapons of his life-support mech at Team Diamond. Lennox didn't flinch, he just kept his guns pointed at Eggman.

"Alright Eggman robot, you can back off now or suffer the consequences!" growled Lennox "The Master Emerald is ours for the taking and we will not allow you to steal it from us!"

"Oh fie, I'm not an Eggman robot you moronic car insurance mascot,

I AM Dr. Eggman himself!" cackled Eggman from inside the mech "Although I'm not exactly in the flesh given...unfortunate circumstances to which I was nearly killed in."

"So now you're just a guy in a robot suit?" asked Owen "Bet that sucks for you Egg-head."

"Oh no, I actually LOVE it in here!" crowed Eggman delightedly "I'm stronger, faster and much more heavily armed than before and I can actually join in the fight myself! Ho, ho, ho! Now I don't know who you three morons are but you can either surrender the Master Emerald now or you'll be blown to smithereens! The choice is yours! I wish to have the Master Emerald for needs you cannot possibly understand and I sincerely doubt you three want it for a more important cause so back off and let me take it!"

"We were given strict orders to prevent the Master Emerald from falling out of our hands." said Lennox coldly "Our boss wants the emerald and he does not want to share it with heathens like you!"

"Boss? Who might he be then?" asked Eggman.

"Find out yourself!" snapped Alistair "We're not revealing his name!"

"Team Diamond! ATTACK!" bellowed Lennox.

Owen and Alistair leapt into the air like tigers pouncing on a deer as Dr. Eggman retracted his weapons and prepared to claw at them. The fight was on and it was going to be a very serious battle indeed, especially when the prize was such a big emerald with such amazing power and value that was keeping an entire island afloat...

"Well Charmy, the king didn't seem as bad as you were making him out to be." said Vector as Hugo led the Royal Fighters towards the Death Egg refuelling station "I mean he's willing to give you a second chance! You sure you didn't exaggerate on his behaviour just to make him look bad?"

The Royal Fighters were still following Hugo Beeving through the streets of the colony as he led them towards the Death Egg refuelling station. In order to pass the time, Vector had decided to strike up a conversation. Charmy was walking ahead of Vector with a rather grim expression on his face.

"Oh believe me Vector, he wasn't like that when I was in the colony." muttered Charmy "I think he just put on an act just because you're all Royal Fighters. If it was me alone, he wouldn't have been so nice to me."

"Well just be grateful he hasn't kicked you out again." said Knuckles "So Hugo, how did Eggman manage to build his station in the Golden Hive Colony? Surely you would have tried to stop him."

"Oh we did, but we were helpless against Eggman." explained Hugo sadly "You see, we're not really warriors. We just make honey and live like bees. We tried to stop Eggman's forces from building the station but they just shrugged us off as if we were nothing."

"Then why didn't you call for help?" asked Shade "We would have been on the case in no time."

"We don't have the kind of technology for that." said Hugo, looking rather embarrassed to admit this "We physically couldn't call for help so we just had to wait and see if anybody would come and sort the problem out for us. And now here you all are. It's like our prayers were answered."

"After this is done, the R.F.S. would be happy to install any communications equipment for the colony so that you'll be able to call us for help next time you need it." Shade offered "You may well need it since there will be a time you'll REALLY need us and we won't know about it."

"That sounds like a good idea, I just hope King Stinger approves." murmured Hugo doubtfully "Although he really loves his colony and will do anything to ensure its well being. He'll agree to that no doubt."

"Looks like you bees are good at making smart choices." said Espio approvingly "I admire that. Not all people are so willing to make a change, even if it is for the greater good..."

"Yeah, some people just worship the status quo for some reason." sighed Hugo "Status quo's boring. There's nothing wrong with a bit of change is there?"

"Depends on what the change is." said Vector, shrugging "For starters, I was all too happy to change my lifestyle from political hating reptile to a detective who only has the people's needs on his mind. I wouldn't swap my current life for anything else."

"Sounds nice." said Hugo brightly "Anyway, here we are Royal Fighters. This is your target."

He stopped marching and he pointed ahead of him. The Royal Fighters looked ahead and saw that they were standing on the outskirts of Hexagon Village. It was called Hexagon Village for a very literal reason. The houses all had a hexagon pattern on them and a couple of houses were even SHAPED like hexagons. In the middle of the village was the Death Egg Refuelling Station. It was just as King Stinger had described. It looked more like the launching platform that a rocket at Cape Canaveral would use. NASA would certainly like to use the station to launch off their own rockets into space. It had the usual Eggman colour scheme and a huge fuel tank standing beside the launch pad. The Royal Fighters had no problems guessing that this was a refuelling station and the huge Eggman logo on the fuel tank pretty screamed at them "I am an Eggman station. Please attack me!". Knuckles bashed his fists together.

"There's our target. Don't worry Hugo, we'll take that station down!" Knuckles declared "Come on Royal Fighters, let's take it down!"

The Royal Fighters all ran forward towards the refuelling station, eager to destroy it and eliminate another stain that Eggman had left on Mobius. But as they ran towards the station, Hugo stood where he was and looked around to see if he was alone. There was nobody else around. He reached into his pocket and he whipped out a communications device he had stored in his pocket. If anyone was around, they would notice that the device was red in colour and had the Eggman Empire logo on it! He put the communicator to his ear and spoke into it.

"Krudzu, spring the trap." he commanded and then put the device back into his pocket.

He smiled to himself as he pictured the Royal Fighters getting caught in the trap he'd just led them into. It was so easy playing the friendly guard. The act fooled everybody who was unforunate enough to meet him. Not even members of the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters had managed to work out that he was playing them on. And that would cost them their lives...

The Royal Fighters arrived at the station and upon arrival, they instantly noticed something that wasn't very clear from a distance. They were not the only Royal Fighters here. Team Nekronopolis was here too only to their surprise, the team was a little tied up at the moment. Miranda Mongoose, Kari the Rat and the chipmunk brothers Thunder and Bolt were all tied up in green, thorny vines that snaked around the bottom of the fuel tank. There were vines wrapped around their mouths, gagging them, and there were vines wrapped around their ankles. Their hands were tied behind their backs and vines were wrapped around their bodies, firmly holding them to the fuel tank. They had tried as hard as they possibly could to break free but they had been very unsuccessful. They were pleased to see that help was on the way and Miranda began screaming, trying as hard as she could to be understood from behind her gag.

"Mmmyal Mmmightmmmrs! Mmmmlp mmmmus!" she cried as best as she could.

"It's Team Nekronopolis!" cried Knuckles "They're still here! So that's why they haven't reported back to the king already! They're bound up in vines!"

"Why didn't Hugo tell us about this?" asked Shade "Surely he led Miranda and her team here too? He must have known that this happened!"

"We'll have to ask him about that later, let's get the team outta those vines." said Knuckles, stepping forward to help the captured team.

"Wait a minute! Green thorny vines binding them up...why does this sound familiar?" asked Vector "I feel like...that happened to us once. Did it?"

"I believe so..." mused Espio "Eggman had a kind of robotical plant that could manipulate machinery and had thorny vines as weapons. What was it called again?"

"Wasn't it the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra or something like that?" suggested Charmy "It was something silly sounding, that much I remember."

"Yeah...it was!" cried Knuckles "That thing captured us once before Shadow brought Sonic home from Mobius Nega And if Miranda's team are bound in vines..."

The ground suddenly erupted into a show of rubble and gravel that showered all over the place and the Royal Fighters leapt up about a foot in the air in horror. Team Nekronopolis emitted muffled gasps of horror behind their gags as a huge, green creature began to rise up from the ground, growling fiercely like a wild dog. The creature had five heads, a long thorny tail, two legs and a multiple amount of vines in place of arms. The main head was a huge set of jaws with a maw of sharp teeth and the other four heads were heads of old robot models that Eggman no longer had use for. The Royal Fighters stepped back in horror as the creature bore over them.

"It's the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra!" cried Knuckles "But I thought that thing was destroyed when the Egg-Carrier crashed!"

"You're such an idiot Knuckles." sighed Charmy "He obviously rebuilt it you dummy! Duh! How do you explain all of Eggman's other robots coming back from the dead?"

"Well this is one robot I'd be happy to send back to its grave!" growled Vector "That crummy Krudzu's not catching us! Everybody, let's attack it and bring it down!"

"Shade, cut Miranda and her team loose while we fight this monster!" ordered Knuckles.

Shade drew out her blades and ran off to carry out her order but the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra reached out with its vines and grabbed her by her ankles. It tripped her up and held her upside down in the air like a fish caught on a hook.

"Heeeeeey! Put me down!" yelled Shade as the Krudzu began to swing her around "Put me down right nooooooooow!"

The Krudzu ignored Shade and reached out for the other Royal Fighters with its deadly vines. The vines ensnared the Mobians and they lifted them up off the ground. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra had caught the Royal Fighters and now it was free to do what it pleased with them, just like it had done to the Nekronopolis Royal Fighters...

Footnotes:

 See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales From Mobius Arc 7: Rebellious Reptiles

 See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 25: Raccoon on the Run

Well this is one heck of a crummy situation isn't it?! The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra has the Royal Fighters and two villains are fighting over the Master Emerald! How will this epic tale end? Find out next time in Part 2...

In the meantime, get ready to do your best Tarzan yells for we're going to the jungle with Sally Acorn in* Tales from Mobius *. You'd be bananas to miss it!

For the Colony Part 2

Story 191: For the Colony Part 2

Countdown to Death Egg: 4

The Golden Hive Colony, a wondrous civilization that was home to the thousands of bees that flew around its streets and buildings, doing whatever they pleased and making as much honey as possible was receiving some aid from the notorious Royal Fighters Service. Knuckles the Echidna, his girlfriend Shade the Echidna and Team Chaotix (Espio the Chameleon, Vector the Crocodile and the colony exile Charmy Bee) had come to the colony to get rid of a Death Egg refuelling station that had been built there. The bees didn't like the station at all, they thought it sullied the appearance of the colony most horribly and they feared that Eggman robots could storm the colony any moment now. Worse still, it was used as a port for the upcoming ship known as the Death Egg. The bees would be in a right panic if that ship ever came to their colony. So Knuckles and his team were here to destroy the refuelling station. The task seemed easy enough given how they'd had plenty of experience destroying Eggman's property in the past.

There was just one problem…the station had a guard and it was by far the worst kind of guard that they could possibly be up against. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra was a menacing plant like machine that could manipulate machinery and make itself bigger and stronger and it also had snaking vines and five heads that it could use to attack with. The Hydra had currently ensnared Team Nekronopolis and had them tied to the station's fuel tank and now it had caught all of Knuckles's team! The Hydra shook the five Mobians around gleefully as if they were toys for it to play with. It had had fun ensnaring Miranda Mongoose and her team and it was certainly going to enjoy playing with Knuckles and his team. It had captured them, along with many other Royal Fighters, before so it felt quite pleased to do it again. The five Mobians cried out as they were swung around aimlessly by the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra. Knuckles winced as he was suddenly slammed down onto the ground by the Hydra. If the Hydra carried on doing this, Knuckles wouldn't be able to hold on. He'd be smashed to pieces. The Hydra lifted him up and then slammed him and Shade together. Shade yelped in pain as she was slammed against Knuckles. The Hydra then held Shade above its main head and it opened its jaws wide, showing off a hideous maw of sharp teeth that were itching to bite down on the Mobians. The Hydra lowered Shade down towards its mouth, ready to swallow her whole. But Shade wasn't going down that easily. Even though she'd dropped her blades after the Hydra had tripped her up, she still wasn't going to let it beat her. As the Hydra lowered Shade into its jaws, Shade punched it in the roof of its mouth. The Hydra flinched and threw Shade away from its mouth. Not a wise thing to do at all for Shade landed down directly beside her dropped blades. She picked them up and Blade-Rushed the Hydra. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra roared fiercely as it was pummelled by a pink energy wave and it was forced to drop all the Mobians in order to block another energy wave that came towards it. Now Knuckles, Espio, Vector and Charmy were free, they charged towards the Hydra and did what they could to it. Knuckles leaped into the air and socked the Hydra in the throat. That made the Hydra's jaws snap open and it made a strange, gurgling noise as if it was being strangled. Being punched in the throat by Knuckles was probably worse than being strangled given how hard he could punch. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra began to make a loud hacking noise as it tried to shake off the punch in the throat it had received. This gave Vector the perfect opportunity to run towards the Hydra and grab it by its vines. He yanked on the vines and pulled the Hydra down onto its stomach. Espio and Charmy jumped onto the Hydra's back and started pummelling it as hard as they could. They Hydra stood back up but Espio held on tightly to the Hydra's back as it stood up. He drew out a kunai and he stabbed the Hydra in the back with it. The Hydra screeched in pain but the screech was silenced by Charmy kick-slamming the Hydra on top of its head. The Hydra reached behind with its tail and it wrapped around Espio's ankle. He lifted the chameleon off of its back and threw him straight into Vector. Charmy gritted his teeth and shook his fists.

"Hey! Nobody hurts my pals like this!" he cried.

He whizzed towards the Hydra but he found himself getting whipped in the face by a bunch of vines. Charmy hurtled down into the ground and groaned as pain swept over his small body. The Hydra was about to grab him again but Knuckles punched the ground and tore up a chunk of rock. He hoisted the rock above his head and threw it directly at the Hydra. The rock hit the Hydra's main head and made it back away. But it would take more than a rock to stop the Hydra. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra screeched furiously and it lunged forward with all five heads. Knuckles just punched them one at a time as they came at him.

"They may say that two heads are better than one but are five heads better than one?" sneered Knuckles as he socked the Hydra's fifth head.

The Hydra growled and he whipped Knuckles with a long sharp vine that made Knuckles wince as the thorns cut him. It didn't bother him too much though, he'd been hurt much worse than this before. Knuckles picked himself up and he charged back into battle.

Meanwhile, Shade had run over to the station's fuel tank and she cut Team Nekronopolis free with a single slash of her blades. The vines fell away and the team pulled the vines from around their mouths off. Miranda brushed herself off, getting out any bits of vine that had gotten into her fur.

"Thank you for your help Shade." said Miranda.

"Any time Miranda." replied Shade "You four were here to destroy this refuelling station weren't you?"

"We were." replied Kari the Rat "We'd heard that there was trouble in the Golden Hive Colony so we, being local to them and all, sprang into action and answered their call."

"We would have bloomin' well destroyed the station if the walking garden patch over there didn't capture us." muttered Thunder the Chipmunk "But we got captured and now here we are being freed by you."

"I wonder why Hugo didn't warn me and Knuckles about the Hydra?" mused Shade "It's almost like he purposefully left that fact out. Did he bring you to the station?"

"Oh yes, Hugo Beeving led us here." said Bolt the Chipmunk with a nod "He led all four of us here and watched as we were captured. The big sod didn't bother helping us though, he just left us behind while the Hydra captured us! We were stuck here for a whole flippin' hour!"

"And Hugo didn't think to call anybody for help…" murmured Shade "And he didn't warn us about the Hydra, nor did he mention that you were captured. Just that you hadn't reported back yet…"

Shade suddenly realized something. Her brain managed to slot all the pieces together to form the terrible truth about Hugo.

"Hugo's a traitor!" she gasped "He's on Eggman's side! He didn't warn us on purpose! He set my team up for capture!"

"I bet King Stinger won't be too happy to hear about that." sighed Miranda with a shake of her head "We'll have to bring him to the king and let him decide his fate."

"I hope he punishes him most appropriately…" growled Shade, deploying her helmet "We'll deal with him later. We have to stop the Hydra and destroy this station!"

"Right behind you!" Kari cried enthusiastically.

Shade and Team Nekronopolis charged towards the Hydra as Knuckles and Team Chaotix attacked it again. As the fight raged on, Hugo Beeving stood and watched, pleased with himself for leading Knuckles's team into this trap. And since he was watching the fight rage on, he could help the Hydra in any means necessary. He had a pistol waiting to be used and he wouldn't hesitate to use it if he had to. He smiled wickedly as the Hydra lashed out with its vines again. He was going to enjoy this fight and it would go completely in the Hydra's favour…

"Ho, ho, ho, ho! Do you seriously believe you three puny Mobians can stop ME?!" cackled Dr. Eggman maniacally as he fisted Alistair Drakken the Bat out of the sky and down onto the ground.

"We together can give Sonic the Hedgehog a tough time!" barked Lennox Meers the Meerkat, his laser pistols aimed at Eggman and firing wildly at him "We'll take you down no sweat!"

Dr. Eggman weaved around the laser blasts effortlessly with his rocket jets. The blasts missed him completely and Eggman returned fire, forcing Lennox to run away before he could get shot.

Team Diamond had been brought to Angel Island by Dr. Finitevus and they were here to steal the Master Emerald and the eight Chaos Emeralds. Finitevus was currently in the jungle looking for the Chaos Emeralds while Team Diamond had been assigned with keeping the Master Emerald safe from anybody who would probably try to steal the Master Emerald such as Dr. Eggman himself. Eggman was here now and Team Diamond were trying their best to keep him from stealing the Master Emerald. Both sides wanted it for their own personal use so this was a battle that would take no prisoners. Eggman certainly didn't seem very lenient at the moment. He was throwing as many lasers and rockets as he possibly could at Team Diamond. So many that it was a miracle they hadn't been hit yet! Lennox took shelter behind the Master Emerald shrine, a smart move since Eggman wouldn't dare risk destroying the Master Emerald just to hit Lennox. Eggman held back and he retracted his weapons as Lennox ran around behind the shrine and took cover. Lennox took advantage of Eggman's hesitation and he zapped him directly in the shoulder with his laser pistol. He felt much more deadly with a laser pistol than his traditional revovlers. Lasers were much stronger than bullets. Dr. Eggman reeled back as he was hit but he felt no pain since he was merely a pilot inside his life support mech. In order to feel pain, somebody would have to attack him when he was exposed. Eggman growled at Lennox and he flew around behind the Master Emerald shrine to catch him. But Lennox had moved around to the other side of the shrine so Eggman still had to hold his fire to avoid damaging the emerald. Lennox leaned out from the side and zapped him in the other shoulder. Lennox wondered if he would take the mech's arms off if he kept shooting it in the shoulders. He wouldn't get a chance to try that though for Eggman flew around and started spraying bullets at him. Lennox ran around the shrine but Eggman kept flying around after him, shooting at the ground and kicking up soil and grass behind Lennox's heels. Lennox aimed over his shoulder and fired at Eggman again but he missed as Eggman leaned to one side. Lennox then had an idea. He fired at Eggman's other side and Eggman leaned to the side to dodge the attack. That was when he realized he'd done something stupid. He leaned to the side, the side closest to the emerald shrine. Thus he ended up colliding with it and losing control. He spiralled down into the ground and groaned. He felt the head section of the mech and was relieved that he'd only gotten a slight dent on it. The damage could have been much worse. Now he was down on the ground, Lennox began shooting at his shoulders, hoping to break the arms off. But Eggman stood back up, taking the shots, and he shot Lennox in the torso with his own lasers. Lennox was thrown backwards and he nearly ended up falling off the island. He grabbed onto the grass and held on for dear life as half his body leaned over the side of the island. He prayed hard that he wouldn't fall and he scrambled furiously with his legs to get back on the island. Eggman deployed his Gatling gun and aimed directly at Lennox's head. One shot to the head from that gun and he would be finished. But Eggman never got the chance for Owen Pounder the Rabbit charged into the battle and he grabbed Eggman's arm. He aimed it directly up at the sky and left Eggman spraying bullets up into it, no targets in sight so the bullets caused no harm. Owen maneuvered himself around to the front and he uppercut Eggman in the head section of his mech. The mech hurled off of its feet, landed on its back and bounced up and over onto its front. Eggman skidded to a halt and he pushed himself up onto his feet. Owen stampeded towards Eggman like a wild bison and he linked hands with the powerful mech. Eggman pushed on Owen and Owen pushed back on Eggman. They both grunted as they tried to overpower one another. While this was happening, Lennox pulled himself back onto the island and he recollected his laser pistols. He watched as Owen and Eggman pushed on each other.

"Grrr...you...will not...win this battle!" grunted Owen, sweat pouring down his head as his muscles fought hard against Eggman's strength "We are treasure...hunters! And we will...walk home with this treasure! Nobody...stands in our...way!"

"Oh really bunny boy?" sneered Eggman "Then what am I doing right now? Standing in your way? I certainly think so! And you need to learn that nobody interferes with Dr. Eggman and his master plans!"

The arms of his mech suddenly raised and Owen found himself hoisted up into the air with complete ease. When it came to Owen, he weighed nothing to Eggman's life support mech. Eggman could lift all three members of Team Diamond together and still be able to add extra weight to the load. Owen could hardly believe how strong Eggman was but he reckoned that because Eggman was inside a robot mech suit, he shouldn't be all that surprised at his strength. Eggman began to spin the entire top section of his mech around while still holding on to Owen's hands. Owen cried out as he was swung around in a perfect 360 degree circle. It felt like being on a demented merry-go-round, a ride that no kid at a fairground would ever want to ride on. Eggman chortled as he spun Owen around. He was enjoying himself. He firmly believed that it never hurt to have fun with your enemies. It's what made his battles fun to him. Unfortunately for Lennox, he could shoot Eggman as he spun Owen around. He risked accidentally shooting him instead of Eggman. He kept swinging Owen around until he finally let him go and he tossed him straight into the emerald shrine. A very big mistake for the Master Emerald wobbled slightly and threatened to topple over under the impact of the crash. Alistair flew onto the shrine and supported the emerald before it could topple over. Pleased the emerald was saved, Eggman now took aim at Alistair. He sprayed a barrage of bullets at Alistair, hoping to tear the bat to pieces with his attack. Alistair flew out of the way and waved around the firing bullets. He swooped towards Eggman and dropkicked him directly in the face. Eggman nearly lost his balance but he used the rockets in his back to stabilize himself. Alistair however clung onto Eggman with his claws and started scratching at the head section of the mech. One fault of having his life support mask was that he couldn't use his teeth to go with his claws but he reckoned his teeth wouldn't be that useful anyway. Eggman growled for it was getting hard to see with Alistair clawing at him. He tried to whack Alistair off of himself but Alistair moved out of the way, causing Eggman to thump himself directly in the face and knock himself over. Eggman muttered unintelligible gibberish under his breath as he got back onto his feet. Just as he stood up though, Owen backhanded him and sent him hurling onto his side. Owen then ran over to Eggman and picked him up. He was tempted to throw him off the island but being the smart brute he was, he logically concluded that it wouldn't do any good. Eggman would just fly back up onto the island. Instead, he threw Eggman through the air and Eggman landed on the ground with a terrible clunk that made Eggman wonder if he'd broken anything. He lay down on his front and Lennoxhad the idea to take out his jets. He shot Eggman in the back and damaged the rockets in his back. Eggman growled crossly as the screen in front of him displayed the damages done to the mech. His jets were destroyed, he wouldn't be able to fly anymore. He best be careful now. If he fell off the island, that would be the end of him. Eggman forced himself back onto his feet and he prepared to do battle as Lennox, Owen and Alistair stood before him.

"You're certainly hardy fighters, I'll give you that." he crooned smoothly "If I didn't know any better, I'd say you were part of the Royal Fighters Service!"

"Oh we're not with those swine." muttered Lennox "We curse Sonic and the Royal Fighter name! We're going to use the Master Emerald to get rid of him and his friends once and for all!"

"Then why are we fighting over the Master Emerald?" cackled Eggman "We should be working together! We could take down Sonic if we joined forces! Let's stop this senseless fighting and make an alliance Team Diamond! Together, we could crush the Royal Fighters!"

"Yeah right, and then you'll double-cross us and turn us into robots!" growled Alistair malevolently "We've heard many terrible things about you Eggman and your affinity for betrayal does not settle well with us. Not to mention, there was that time where the entire world as roboticized, us included. Your doing obviously! We're not letting that happen again!"

"Besides, we only share treasures with our boss!" added Owen "We don't work for you so we won't share the Master Emerald with you! And don't try employing us because we refuse to work for you!"

"Then you'll be obliterated!" bellowed Dr. Eggman "You just made the biggest mistake of your lives you miserable Mobians!"

He deployed his rocket launchers and began launching rockets at Team Diamond. Lennox aimed at the oncoming rockets and he shot at them, destroying the rockets before they could hit their target. Team Diamond threw themselves down onto the ground to avoid the flying debris from the rockets. Unfortunately, the huge cloud of flames and smoke from the rockets had given Dr. Eggman the perfect opportunity to steal the Master Emerald. He turned around and he ran towards the emerald shrine, his feet making heavy clunking noises as he did so. The smoke cleared and Team Diamond could see that Dr. Eggman was running up to the Master Emerald shrine. Alistair took to the skies and flew towards Eggman faster than a whizzing arrow. He landed on Eggman's head and bounded off of him, his feet pushing Eggman backwards and causing him to topple over as he sprang away. Eggman fell back down to the bottom of the shrine just as Owen ran up to him. He picked up Eggman and he threw him towards the edge of the island. Eggman landed...just near the edge but he didn't go over it. He managed to steady himself and he picked himself up. Owen thundered towards Eggman like a bull charging at the matador. Eggman fired a laser at the ground just as Owen's feet pounded down on it. Owen was flung up into the air by the force of the shot. Alistair caught him with his feet and lowered him down safely to the ground. Eggman ran towards Owen and Alistair and he socked them both in the face with both fists. Owen and Alistair lay down on their backs, clutching their faces in pain and wondering what had just hit them. Lennox began shooting at Eggman's legs, figuring they would be a weak spot given how they were smaller than the rest of his body and because his jets were destroyed, he wouldn't be able to stand should the legs get destroyed. Eggman shielded his legs with his hands and he shot Lennox with his shoulder mounted laser cannons. Lennox yelped in pain as the lasers hit him and he collapsed onto the ground. Eggman ran over to Lennox and he picked the meerkat up. Alistair tried to attack Eggman from behind but Eggman swung around and swatted him down to the ground with Lennox. Then he threw Lennox onto the ground. Unfortunately for Lennox, he ended up banging his still recovering knee as he landed. Roxy had shot him in it earlier* and Finitevus had fixed it but it was still recovering from the surgery. The pain that flared up Lennox's knee was agonizing. The meerkat screamed as loud as his vocal chords would let him and he clutched his knee as if the pain was killing him. Eggman chortled at Lennox's misfortune.

"It appears you have a bum knee...how lucky for me." he cackled "You won't be so useful in this battle now..."

Owen and Alistair decided to protect Lennox from Dr. Eggman by running up towards him. Owen roundhouse punched Eggman in the head and then grabbed him around the midsection. He hoisted Eggman off his feet but Eggman slammed his leg against his stomach, making the rabbit drop him back down. Eggman grabbed Owen by the head and he threw him into the air. Alistair kicked Eggman in the optics but Eggman swatted him down onto the ground with a powerful smack of his metal hand. Now Team Diamond were down, Eggman ran off towards the Master Emerald shrine. Lennox grabbed his pistols and he shot at Eggman, desperately trying to tag him but he knew he couldn't do it with his knee hurting so badly. His aim was crooked and way off so he couldn't hit Eggman square on. He missed every shot and Eggman cackled as he ran up the stairs to the shrine. He grabbed the Master Emerald and he hoisted it effortlessly above his head. It seemed like he could lift anything if he wanted to. The Master Emerald didn't seem to weigh anything in his hands. Lennox, Owen and Alistair cried out in despair as Eggman triumphantly held the Master Emerald above his head.

"Bwah, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha! I win, I win!" he cried excitedly "Now I'll have the ultimate power source for my Death Egg! It was powerful enough on its own but with THIS, I'll be even MORE powerful! I can hardly wait to unleash Operation: Eggman Empire! It's going to be a blast indeed!"

He then proceeded to use a Chaos Control to warp himself and the Master Emerald away from Angel Island. Lennox, Owen and Alistair could only stare in horror at their failed task. Eggman had won. He'd gotten the Master Emerald and was now making his way back home to the Egg-Bunker with it. Lennox cursed violently at Eggman.

"DAMN HIM!" he bellowed "He beat us! We lost the bloody emerald!

Finitevus will NOT be happy about this at all!"

"Indeed I'm not Team Diamond." snarled a chilling, dark, malevolent voice that made Lennox's blood run cold.

He, Owen and Alistair turned around and saw a very angry looking Dr. Finitevus standing before them. His cloak had been taken off and was slung over his shoulder like a sack full of toys. All eight Chaos Emeralds were in that cloak. He'd found them all and had come back to see if Team Diamond had accomplished their task yet. He was very disappointed to see that the Master Emerald had been lost. Lennox looked very nervous, an emotion he rarely ever used and an emotion that felt weird to him when he did use it.

"Um...h-hello D-Dr. Finitevus..." he stammered worriedly "W-we're..."

"Do. NOT. Say. Anything." growled Finitevus "I know what's happened. You've lost the Master Emerald! How the hell did you lose the Master Emerald?!"

"Dr. Eggman just shouted the words "Chaos Control" and he vanished with the Master Emerald!" exclaimed Owen "We tried our best to defeat him! We fought hard but he was too strong for us! We're very sorry Finitevus..."

"Sorry? SORRY?! Sorry isn't good enough you incompetent cretins!" roared Finitevus, walloping Owen with the cloak full of Chaos Emeralds "I ordered you to make sure nobody tried to take the Master Emerald and you failed to do something so simple! You should have called ME for help! I would have defeated Eggman in a matter of seconds!"

"We didn't get the chance to do so!" protested Alistair "We were caught up in the battle and we simply didn't think to call for you!"

"Enough of your pathetic excuses!" snapped Finitevus "You disgrace the Dark Armada with your incompetence and you will be punished most horribly for this failure!"

"Oh yeah?" challenged Owen "You and what army?"

"Owen, don't provoke him!" exclaimed Lennox.

Too late. Finitevus was very much provoked right now. He summoned a warp ring from nowhere and he caused Owen to fall through it. Lennox and Alistair assumed that Finitevus wanted them to go through it too so they followed Owen through the warp ring. Finitevus jumped through after them, the warp ring vanishing behind him as he passed through it. As soon as Finitevus left...Angel Island began to tilt to the side and sink down to the ground. The Master Emerald was gone and the Chaos Emeralds weren't on the island anymore. There was nothing to keep the island afloat anymore. It started tilting and then...it fell. Fell straight out of the sky like a falling aeroplane. The entire island came crashing down onto the ground below, shattering to pieces like broken glass as it crashed down. The island was reduced to rubble, there was nothing left of it after the crash. Not even the Master Emerald shrine. The once beautiful floating island was now a sorry pile of rocks and rubble, no longer resembling an island anymore. Luckily, there was nothing on the ground so the island had been spared the misfortune of crushing something or someone underneath it. One thing was for sure, Knuckles would to berserk once he found out what had happened to Angel Island...

Over at the Golden Hive Colony though, AngelIsland was the last thing on Knuckles's mind. He leapfrogged over a thorny vine that tried to wallop him off his feet. The vine swept under his feet as Knuckles dodged the attack. The battle with the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra didn't seem any closer to ending at this moment. It was far from over more like. Even with Team Nekronopolis helping Knuckles at his team, the battle was still going on. It really didn't help that the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra was such a powerful opponent either. The Hydra had decided to resort to other weapons that its body contained. Being how it could manipulate machinery, it had more weapons on it than just vines. The Hydra extended out a vine that had a drill on the end of it and it lunged at Knuckles with the drill spinning dangerously and squealing ominously. Knuckles leaped out of the way as the drill attempted to skewer him. The drill ended up stabbing down into the ground just where Knuckles had been standing seconds before. Knuckles grabbed the vine, the drill still spinning, and he pointed the drill at the Hydra. But the Hydra swung his vine up and flicked Knuckles up into the air. Knuckles cried out as he found himself suddenly flung upwards like a baseball and he hurtled straight back down. The Hydra was holding its drill vine under where Knuckles was going to land. Knuckles yelled in horror. He was going to land on the drill and get skewered! Luckily for him, Shade saved his life by chopping the vine in two. Knuckles ended up having a much safer landing for Shade held her arms out and caught him just after cutting the vine in two.

"Whew! What a save!" he gasped "Thanks Shade!"

"You're welcome." said Shade "How will we stop that thing? It seems very endurable and it can regenerate its vines once they get severed. It seems like a no-win situation for us."

"We'll defeat it somehow, I just know it!" declared Knuckles "It must have a weak spot, everything does!"

"We just don't know what it is I'm afraid." said Shade grimly "We'll have to keep fighting. We'll find its weak spot eventually."

"I wonder if a good shock will do the trick." suggested Thunder "It's worth a shot."

"More like "Worth a shock "!" giggled Bolt.

Thunder chuckled at his brother's bad joke and the two held hands. They tensed up tightly and they fired a huge jolt of electricity at the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra. The shock seemed to work for the Hydra started screeching a blood curdling screech of pain as it was brutally electrocuted. Thunder and Bolt were pleased that their attack was working so they kept it up. Electricity coursed through the Hydra's body and the circuitry inside the machine couldn't seem to hold for very long for a few explosions went off inside the Hydra's body and the Hydra began to wail. It was short-circuiting from the attack. Thunder and Bolt stopped their electrical attack and watched with satisfaction as the Hydra began to sway, struggling to remain standing.

"It's weakened!" cheered Bolt "What a "shocker" that is!"

"Let's attack it while it's weak!" cried Thunder.

Miranda whipped out her electro-prod and she stabbed it into the side of the Hydra and gave it another electrical shock to keep it distracted while the other Royal Fighters came in for the kill. Knuckles and Shade both attacked the Hydra together with Knuckles punching and Shade slicing and Team Chaotix joined in their onslaught. Vector chomped on the Hydra's main neck and bit down as hard as he could, hoping to rip the Hydra's head off. Espio threw as much shurikens as he could at the Hydra and severed many of its vines. Charmy just did what he could, which wasn't really much but he reckoned it was better than nothing. Kari offered some additional support by smashing the four robot heads the Hydra had with her spanner. She may not like having to destroy things but in Eggman's case, she was all too happy to make an exception. The Royal Fighters combined strengths were too much for the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra and soon it found itself reduced to nothing more than a pile of vines and robot parts. The Royal Fighters cheered delightedly at their victory whereas Hugo, who had been watching the whole fight just stared grimly at the scene before them. He shook his head and smirked at the Royal Fighters as he whipped out a remote and pressed a button on it.

"Oh you haven't won this one yet Royal Fighters…" he said to himself.

The Royal Fighters soon found out for themselves why the fight wasn't over yet. The remote that Hugo had whipped out was a control remote for a feature for the Death Egg refuelling station. Given how the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra was guarding the station, a little contingency plan had been inserted in the station to ensure that the Hydra would win against any Royal Fighter it came up against. A huge hover bed crammed full of robot parts came out of an open compartment that opened up after Hugo had pressed the button on the remote. The hover bed sped over to the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra's remains and the Hydra reached up for the bed eagerly. It still had some life in it thanks to its regenerative abilities and it buried itself into the bed of robot parts like a child diving into a swimming pool. The Hydra began to absorb all of the robot parts on the bed and rebuild itself into a new image. The Royal Fighters watched helplessly as the Hydra regenerated into a huge bipedal shape that loomed above the Royal Fighters like a giant from a child's nightmare. It was now a mesh of vines and machinery with the head coming from the leftovers of Metal Knuckles and its hands being huge crab claws with spiked wrists. There was an array of guns al lover its body and goodness knows what else on that new body of the Hydra's. The Krudzu Hybrid Hydra roared menacingly and it raised its crab claws, ready to strike. The Royal Fighters gaped at the sight of this new Hydra and they stepped back.

"I think the previous Hydra looked less scary!" whimpered Thunder.

"How bloomin' unfortunate that those robot parts were on offer for it!" squeaked Bolt.

"I forgot, that thing can manipulate machinery." muttered Knuckles, remembering the time that the Hydra took over the body of Devion the Devatron Leader and used him against the Royal Fighters before causing the crash of the Egg-Carrier that resulted in Eggman being put on life support "Well next time we destroy it, we'll make sure it doesn't get its vines on anymore machinery. Let's take it down!"

"I hope we can take it down again…" said Miranda nervously.

The Hydra lashed out with his crab claws and nearly grabbed Vector and Espio but the two reptiles jumped out of the way just in time. Vector grabbed hold of one of the crab claws but the Hydra ended up throwing him up into the air and then catching him before he could drop down to the ground. It squeezed Vector as hard as it possibly could with its claw, the crocodile grunting as he felt the life being squeezed out of him. Charmy saved Vector by flying into the Hydra's face and kicking it in the optics. Hugo watched this with displeasure and he whipped out his pistol. He decided to give the Hydra a helping hand and he began shooting at Charmy, forcing the bee to fly away. Espio noticed that the shot was coming from the sidelines and not from the Hydra himself but he couldn't quite see who was doing it. He ran for cover as the shots were now targeted at him.

"Look out! Somebody's shooting at us!" he cried.

"The Hydra must have back up!" yelled Vector, leaping out of the way as a laser blast nearly hit him "Charmy, go distract the sniper while we take down the Hydra will ya?"

"Sure thing Vector!" cried Charmy happily.

He flew away from the battle and he buzzed towards the shooter. He weaved around the firing shots as they threatened to hit him and he rocketed down with his feet held in front. He kick-slammed Hugo directly in the face and knocked him down onto his back. Hugo dropped his pistol as he was hit and he found himself lying on his back staring directly up at Charmy. Charmy whooped happily and looked down to see who he'd hit. To his shock, he was standing directly on top of Hugo.

"Hugo?!" he blurted "Why the heck were you shooting at us?!"

"Why do you think I'm shooting at you Charmy?" snapped Hugo "I'm trying to help the Hydra defeat you all!"

"What?! Why are you doing that?!" exclaimed Charmy "We're trying to help the Golden Hive Colony by getting rid of that station! Why are you trying to help the Hydra beat us?!"

"Because I'm working with Eggman." explained Hugo "You see, it was MY idea for Eggman to build a station here in the first place. I made a deal with him and he built his station here. And why? Remember how I said earlier "status quo is boring"? I meant it. The Golden Hive Colony is nothing but a boring waste of life with bees buzzing around in their pointless lives doing the same damn thing over and over! It's time for a change and I think Eggman's the welcome change we need! We can have a different life now! Not everything has to stay the same! The Golden Hive Colony can be for much greater things than just making honey, honey and more honey! I happily welcome Eggman's idea for a new world for it'll give us something new to do for once! And I will not have a little brat like you trying to ruin it for me!"

"Wow, I always knew you were a jerk but this takes the honeypot!" said Charmy in disgust "You're working for Eggman just because you want the colony to change? Just wait till I tell King Stinger about what you've done! He'll be VERY angry about this!"

Hugo was not somebody who was interested in doing time for treason so he socked Charmy directly in the mouth and knocked him off. Charmy clutched his mouth in pain and winced, swearing that Hugo had knocked a tooth out even though he could still feel them all in his mouth. Hugo picked up his pistol but before he could shoot Charmy, the bee sprang up into the air and booted him in the face. Hugo swore violently at Charmy and threw a punch at him. Charmy dodged and he stuck his tongue out at Hugo. Hugo growled furiously at Charmy and he pointed the pistol at Charmy's face. Just as he pulled the trigger, Charmy leaned over backwards, causing the shot to miss and accidentally hit the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra in the face. The Krudzu snarled and eyed Hugo angrily. It did not appreciate the fact that Hugo, who was supposed to be on its side, had shot him and obviously concluded that he had shot him on purpose. So the Hydra abandoned the battle and he lumbered after Hugo. Hugo tried to fly away but the Hydra lashed out with his vines and ensnared Hugo. He dropped his pistol as he was grabbed and Charmy grabbed it, thinking it could come in useful. Hugo screamed in terror as the Hydra began swinging him around and squeezing him as hard as possible. Charmy saw his chance and he flew past the Hydra. The Hydra spotted him and it lumbered after Charmy, still holding Hugo. Charmy led the Hydra directly towards the Royal Fighters and just as it ran by, Miranda prodded it in the foot with her electric prod. The prod stung the Hydra's foot and made it wince in pain. It lost its balance and fell over onto its side. Now it was down, Charmy decided to deliver the news to his friends.

"Hey everybody! Hugo's double-crossed us!" cried Charmy "He's working for Eggman and is trying to help the Hydra kill us!"

"I know, I figured it out already." said Shade grimly "I was going to tell the others after the battle was over. Wonder why Hugo's working for Eggman."

"He thinks the colony's "boring" and it needs a makeover so he wants Eggman to take over the colony." said Charmy with a look of disgust on his face "Yeah, he's kinda crazy." he added whislt circling the air beside his head with his finger to emphasize his point.

"So Hugo set us all up to be captured like Team Nekronopolis were, that's why he didn't warn us about the Hydra." muttered Knuckles "Well after this is done, we'll see to it that the king hears about this. But how will we stop the Hydra?"

"If it helps, I have an idea." said Kari quietly "See that fuel tank over there?" she pointed at the huge fuel tank that provided all the fuel that the Death Egg would need "If we can get the Hydra near that tank and then cause the tank to explode, it should destroy the Hydra. And the station too."

"Brilliant idea!" said Miranda enthusiastically "We'll all trick the Hydra into getting near to the tank and then destroy the tank. But we risk going up with the tank too..." she murmured.

"I'll cut the tank open and leave an opening." suggested Shade "Then one of us gets the Hydra near the tank and Thunder and Bolt will electrocute it. That'll weaken it too much for it to get away. And then while Thunder and Bolt get out of the way, Charmy will shoot the fuel tank with that pistol he got from Hugo and set the whole thing to explode."

"Yay! I get to cause an explosion! AWESOME!" squealed Charmy excitedly.

"It's a good plan and it's worth a try." said Knuckles "Let's give it a shot. It's now or never."

The Royal Fighters agreed with Knuckles. They may as well give this plan a shot if they have any chance of winning and getting out of this battle alive. Before the Hydra could stand back up, Vector ran over to the still ensnared Hugo and he yanked him out of the Hydra's grasp. Hugo attempted to resist but Vector held him tightly so he couldn't get away.

"And you, you filthy traitor are going straight to the Golden Hive Palace." growled Vector "And I'll be happy to escort you there myself."

Vector carried Hugo away from the battle, leaving the other Royal Fighters to carry out Kari's plan. The Hydra picked itself up and it raised its claws menacingly. Knuckles and Espio just dared it to come to them and the Hydra happily obliged. It lunged out at Knuckles and Espio with its claws but the two jumped up out of the way, leaving the claws to embed themselves into the ground. They landed atop the Hyda's claws and they ran up the Hydra's arms up to its head. They both punched it in the face and Espio stabbed it in the optices with his kunai. The Hydra writhed around in pain, trying to fling Knuckles and Espio off of its head. While it was distracted, Shade ran up to the station's fuel tank and she carved a hole into the tank with her blades. Black liquid began to seep out of the hole Shade had made and spill onto the floor. Shade ran away from the expanding puddle and waited for Knuckles and Espio to lead the Hydra towards the fuel tank. Knuckles and Espio leaped off of the Hydra's head and ran over to the fuel tank. The Hydra followed, oblivious to the danger that waited for it. The moment the Hydra was near the fuel tank, Knuckles and Espio darted away and left Thunder and Bolt to electrocute the Hydra. They threw lightning bolts at the Hydra, the bolts zapping the Hydra and making it squeal loudly in pain. Thunder and Bolt kept it up until the Hydra was down onto his knees and now Charmy made his move. He waited until everybody was out of the way of the Hydra and far away from the refuelling station. He then took aim with Hugo's pistol and fired at the hole in the fuel tank. To his amazement, he hit exactly where he was aiming at. The moment the shot came into contact with the fuel, the fuel ignited and then erupted into a terrific explosion that could make any bomb expert proud. Charmy flew away before the explosion could catch up to him though it did come close. He could feel the heat of the explosion behind him as he left it behind. The explosion tore apart the Krudzu Hybrid Hydra, vaporizing every last vine on the Hydra's body. The Hydra didn't even have time to scream as the explosion swallowed it up. The station itself was reduced to smithereens too, the explosion tearing apart every last piece of the station. The Royal Fighters looked back and saw that what had once been a Death Egg refuelling station was now a smouldering wreck of fire, debris and smoke. They all whooped with joy. Mission accomplished. They'd have some good news to deliver to the rest of the Royal Fighters that's for sure. Charmy in particular seemed quite happy over the fact their mission was a success and he'd been the one to start the explosion that had completed the mission.

"Whoo hoo! We did it! Eggman's lost a refuelling station! We rock!" cried Charmy excitedly.

"It was certainly a tough battle but we succeeded." said Knuckles, wiping his forehead "Well done everybody."

"Yes, we all did brilliantly didn't we?" said Miranda modestly "Now then, what was that station meant to be used for?"

"It was a refuelling station for an upcoming ship Eggman's building." explained Knuckles "I'll explain everything else later, we've gotta get back to the Golden Hive Palace and let King Stinger know that the station's destroyed. I bet he's already dealing with Hugo since Vector took him away earlier."

"Indeed." said Espio "And I bet he'll be happy to hear that Charmy was the one who exposed him too. I wonder if that'll redeem Charmy in his eyes?"

"I hope so." said Charmy worriedly "I don't wanna be kicked out again. Let's go to the palace and see what the king says."

With that said, the Royal Fighters left the wreck that was the refuelling station behind and headed off back to the Golden Hive Palace. The king was in for one heck of a story to hear once they got back to the palace...

Later, the Royal Fighters joined Vector back at the Golden Hive Palace and had arrived at the throne room. They had told the king and queen bees everything that had happened and that Hugo was a traitor and had set the Royal Fighters up for a trap that had nearly cost them their lives. Charmy also told them exactly what Hugo had said to him about why he'd turned traitor and that it was his idea in the first place for Eggman to build a station in the colony. Needless to say, the two bees were not pleased at all to see that one of their guards had turned traitor and had been responsible for the station being built here.

"THIS IS OUTRAGEOUS!" shouted King Stinger angrily, bouncing up and down on his throne with his crown leaping on and off of his head "My most trusted guard is a traitor?! How dare you! Hugo, you shall be punished for this treason! I'll see to it that you are locked away in a cell and the key thrown away forever! What do you have to say for yourself?!"

"I have no regrets for my actions." said Hugo coldly, the bee's hands cuffed tightly behind his back and Vector holding him very tightly to prevent him from making a quick getaway "This colony is a festering ball of vapidity and a change in appearance and nature is what it needs. We're outdated now, it's time for a change."

"I'm appalled you can say those horrible words!" said Queen Bessie, scowling at Hugo with a look of utter contempt and disgust on her beautiful face "You shame the Golden Hive Colony Hugo! You are hereby stripped of your title and sentence to life in the dungeons. You will never taste freedom ever again."

Hugo said nothing as a pair of bee guards grabbed him by the arms and hauled him away. Stinger and Bessie watched with loathing as Hugo was taken out of the throne room as if this was the last they'd ever see of him. Good riddance to bad rubbish as some would say. The moment Hugo was taken away, Stinger addressed the Royal Fighters.

"I'm so terribly sorry for this outrage my friends, had I known Hugo was conspiring against the colony I never would have trusted him to take care of you." said Stinger, lifting his crown up from over his eyes once again "That whole mess with the Hydra thing was all my fault. I could have caused your deaths I could!"

"It's alright your majesty." said Knuckles politely "You didn't know Hugo was a traitor, this wasn't your fault at all."

"To make sure this disgusting turn of events never happens again, we'll keep a track record of every guard and make sure that any treachery is stopped dead in its tracks." declared Bessie "We will not allow anybody else to betray our colony like this. Treachery is one of the worst things that a colony can fall victim too."

"We understand." said Knuckles, thinking about how he himself had been betrayed by Dr. Finitevus "But it doesn't matter now. We destroyed the station and the colony no longer has to worry about it. No Death Egg will be landing here anytime soon."

"Thank goodness." sighed Stinger "Now then there's something I need to do. Charmy, please come here."

Charmy looked a little nervous. Was the king going to say something nice to him or not? He stepped forward and he bowed down to the king. He may not be in the colony anymore but he still respected King Stinger. He was relieved to see that Stinger was smiling at him. That meant there was good news to give.

"Charmy, you have exposed Hugo for the traitor he is and uncovered his evil plans, as well as helped most marvellously in destroying the station." said Stinger with a smile on his face "I think that's the most amazing thing a bee's ever done. You really are a Royal Fighter after all and you have my utmost apologies for doubting you."

"Aw shucks, I don't blame you." said Charmy modestly "I kinda doubted myself too until we did the actual mission. Thank you for being nice to me sir."

"Well you did something that deserves my kindness." said Stinger brightly "Charmy, I am allowing you to rejoin the Golden Hive Colony. But if you want to stay with the Royal Fighters, that's fine with me."

Charmy looked stunned to hear this. Stinger was going to let him back in the colony? Charmy was thrilled to hear this but deep in his heart, he knew where he truly belonged.

"Thanks for the offer King Stinger sir but I'm staying with the Royal Fighters." said Charmy "The colony's great and all but I think I was born to be a fighter, not a worker. Hope you don't mind."

"We're just glad you've found your place Charmy." said Bessie softly "You maybe staying with the Royal Fighters but as a reward for your heroism, you're free to visit the colony whenever you wish. Your exile is lifted and you're no longer forbidden to set foot in the colony again."

"Aw sweet! Thank you your majesties!" cried Charmy, shakign Stinger's hand so furiously he nearly wrenched it free from his wrist.

"Y-y-yes, y-y-you're welcome." stammered Stinger as Charmy stopped shaking his hand and he tried to regain himself "W-well Royal Fighters, I guess you'll b-be leaving now?"

"We have to find the location of the Death Egg and bring it down before it can launch." said Shade "We can't stay here any longer, we need to get going."

"The colony wishes you luck in your mission Royal Fighters and we're forever grateful for your selflessness today." said Bessie "Hope to see you again soon."

"See you around guys." said Knuckles with a wave "We'll stop Dr. Eggman once and for all, we promise."

Stinger and Bessie waved goodbye as the Royal Fighters turned and left the throne room. As they left the Golden Hive Palace behind, Vector smiled at Charmy.

"Well Charmy, you redeemed yourself in the colony's eyes." said Vector brightly "How's that for a good day?"

"It feels wonderful that my own colony doesn't hate me anymore." said Charmy with a happy smile on his face "Thank you for bringing me back here Vector, the chance to make the colony like me again was the nicest thing you've ever done for me."

He hugged Vector gratefully. Vector just chuckled modestly and patted Charmy on the back.

"Anytime little guy." said Vector "And just know that you're always a good bee in my books. I'm proud to have you in the Chaotix Detective Agency."

Charmy beamed. This day was going to be a day to remember for the bee that was for sure. And despite the fact he was from the Golden Hive Colony and was allowed to come back to them, he knew that he was already on his way home as the Royal Fighters boarded the hover saucer and headed off back to New Mobotropolis. The Royal Fighters were his colony and he wouldn't swap this colony for anything else in the world...

Footnotes:

See *Sonic the Hedgehog: Tales from Mobius Arc 25: Raccoon on the Run

---

Yay! Charmy's liked by the Golden Hive Colony again! Boo! Dr. Eggman's got the Master Emerald! What will happen next?

Tune in next time as Sonic, Silver and Blaze deal with some "Trouble in Chun-Nan"...

Trouble in Chun-Nan Part 1

Story 192: Trouble for Chun-Nan Part 1

Countdown to Death Egg: 3

"Silver, Blaze…welcome to Chun-Nan."

Sonic the Hedgehog stepped aside and enthusiastically allowed Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat to see the scene that befell them. The Royal Fighters were currently on a worldwide mission and had spread their forces the world over in order to ensure that the mission would be completed successfully. The Lost Jungle, Megapolis, Adabat and The Golden Hive Colony all had Royal Fighters in them to take care of something that needed to be dealt with immediately. Refuelling stations for the upcoming Eggman vessel, the Death Egg, had been built in various different parts of Mobius and thanks to Nicole, the Royal Fighters knew where to find them. They had split up and had travelled all over the world to deal with the refuelling stations. Sonic, Silver Blaze and the former Chun-Nan resident Ruben the Water Panther had chosen to come to Chun-Nan to destroy the refuelling station that had been built there. It had mostly been Ruben's suggestion since he was devoted to his country of origin and would do anything to ensure it was safe. The trip had been a breeze for Blaze merely used her Sol Emeralds to warp everybody over to Chun-Nan. Being how she was from Mobius's future, she knew where Chun-Nan was and thus, had no difficulty warping there. They had appeared just outside the local village in a spiral of flames and after settling down for a minute, Sonic showed Silver and Blaze exactly what they had arrived in. Silver and Blaze stared ahead and were instantly marvelled at what lay ahead of them. They walked towards the village so they could get a closer look at everything around them. Sonic and Ruben followed close behind. Upon entering the village, Silver and Blaze could hardly tear their eyes away from the vast amounts of market stalls, pagodas and huts that made the village of Chun-Nan. Everything looked simply amazing to them and they were keen to explore as much of the country as possible. They knew they couldn't though since they had an important job to do but they could still admire some of the scenery around them. Some of the local citizens glanced at Silver and Blaze in wonder as if marvelled at their appearances as much as they were marvelled at Chun-Nan itself before carrying on their merry way.

"It's…so beautiful…" whispered Blaze in amazement.

"How did a world with so much beauty like this end up becoming such a ruin?" asked Silver, thinking back to his and Blaze's timeline and how they live in a post apocalyptic world that's clinging onto life quite desperately.

"Well that is what you're trying to find out is it not?" noted Sonic "And we think we may have found the cause since it seems very likely that the Death Egg is what ends the world."

"I just hope me and Blaze are right at long last." muttered Silver "Otherwise I WILL lose my mind if we get it wrong yet again."

"Hey Silver, Blaze, what's Chun-Nan like in the future?" asked Ruben worriedly "Is it a wreck too?"

"Surprisingly enough Ruben, Chun-Nan is the most intact of any place on Mobius in the future." explained Blaze "It was spared much of the destruction that claimed the other countries. It's wrecked to some degree but compared to everywhere else, it's easily the most habitable place on Mobius in the future. Me and Silver kinda feel glad for the country although even Chun-Nan won't keep everybody alive forever."

"Well that's good to know, Chun-Nan is the most habitable place in Mobius's future." said Ruben "But I'd much rather that the world doesn't end in the first place. I'm as eager as you two are to prevent the end of the world."

"Glad to hear it little panther." said Blaze with a small smile on her face "Now then, any ideas where to find the station?"

"It doesn't look like it's in the village." said Silver, taking a look around "Nothing really stands out from this village and a refuelling station would be WAY too conspicuous to hide here. Everything's so vintage looking! It would stick out like a sore thumb if it was here."

"I bet Emperor Tai and Princess Matilda know where it is." suggested Sonic "They rule the country so they'd be the first to notice any changes to it. Let's go see them."

"I wonder if the Pagoda of Prosperity's been rebuilt yet." wondered Ruben aloud "It's been a while since we last met Matilda, I bet it's been rebuilt by now."

"I'm sure it is Ruben." said Sonic cheerfully "Come on Silver and Blaze. I bet you two will get on nicely with Matilda. She's quite a remarkable woman and she knows how to kick butt."

"Like Princess Elise does?" mused Silver "That does sound great. And Blaze will have something to relate to with Matilda. She's a princess too."

"Unlike me though, Matilda's still got her kingdom so her title is still meaningful. I on the other hand don't deserve my title since there's nothing to be a princess of for me." murmured Blaze.

"What happened to your kingdom?" asked Ruben.

"Please, I don't wanna talk about it. It brings back sad memories for me." said Blaze, a tear coming to her eye as memories of her deceased kingdom came back to her. She wiped the tear away.

"Oh, I'm sorry. I didn't mean to upset you." said Ruben worriedly "Please forgive me."

"It's quite alright." said Blaze gently "There was no harm in asking me. Anyway, where is the Pagoda of Prosperity? Or at least, where would it be?"

"We'll show you the way." said Sonic "If it's still not rebuilt yet then we'll take you to Bladefeather's pagoda. The Emperor and Matilda will likely be there."

"What's gotten you wondering about if the Pagoda of Prosperity's been rebuilt yet?" asked Silver "Was it destroyed or something?"

"Last month, the Region of Rebellious Reptiles blew up the pagoda, hoping to take Matilda and the Emperor with it." said Sonic "What made it worse was that that happened on Matilda's birthday and just after Bladefeather proposed marriage to her! How sick can some people get?!"

"That's dreadful!" gasped Silver "Nobody should have that happen to them on such a special day and especially after a marriage proposal!"

"I agree." said Ruben bitterly "Don't worry though, I'm sure the pagoda's been rebuilt now."

Ruben eagerly toddled off ahead of the Mobians and headed through the village. Sonic couldn't blame Ruben's enthusiasm since this was his country of origin and he was a very close friend of the royals despite no longer living in Chun-Nan. He, Silver and Blaze followed Ruben through the village and found themselves coming to the familiar sight of the Pagoda of Prosperity. Just as they'd hoped, the pagoda had indeed been rebuilt. A month and a couple of week's worth of rebuilding had resulted in the Pagoda of Prosperity being rebuilt and it looked as grand and majestic as ever. The pagoda was a gleaming mixture of white and gold with dragon pictures snaking around some of the supporting beams and stretching out across the tiled roof of the pagoda. Ruben darted up the hill as if the pagoda had a magnet like effect on him. Sonic just chuckled, humoured at Ruben's excitement upon seeing the rebuilt pagoda. He, Silver and Blaze followed Ruben up the hill and caught up to Ruben just as he approached the door and knocked on it excitedly. The door opened and the familiar aged but kind face of Emperor Dalon Tai peeked through the open door. His face brightened at the sight of Ruben.

"Why hello there Ruben. It's an honour to see you." said Tai "And you've brought Sonic and some new friends with you too." he added, taking note of Sonic, Silver and Blaze who were standing politely behind Ruben.

"I have indeed." said Ruben "I'm really happy to see your pagoda's been rebuilt by the way."

"Thank you." said Tai "It feels good to be home I say. So what have you all come to Chun-Nan for?"

"We'll explain in a minute." said Ruben "Where's Matilda? She'll want to hear about this too."

"She's in the garden training her friend Li Moon." answered Tai "Just go around to the back and you'll meet her there."

Ruben bowed as if to say "thank you" without saying the words themselves and he ran around to the back of the pagoda with Sonic, Silver and Blaze following him. Surely enough, just as Tai had said, Matilda was in the back garden and she was training her friend Li Moon the Fox in how to fight. Recently, Li Moon had decided she wanted to learn kung-fu too and knew full well who the best person to teach her was. Ruben held up a hand as if to say that the Royal Fighters should keep quiet until Matilda was finished. It was considered dishonourable to interrupt a training session and Ruben was not about to be the first person to do so. Silver and Blaze watched as Matilda stood before Li Moon in a battle-ready stance, the young vixen mimicking her pose and waiting for Matilda to make a move. Matilda breathed slowly, getting ready to make a move. Li Moon tried her best to keep her pose still and to not make any sudden moves. She wasn't meant to move until Matilda attacked. This step of the training was meant to teach defensive moves. Ruben could tell this since he himself had partaken in training like this as well during the days of his clan, days that he cherished dearly since the day of their demise. The water panther was quite eager to see how Li Moon would perform for he didn't know she was being trained in kung-fu and was instantly interested in watching this session. Matilda and Li Moon remained still for a moment before Matilda made a move so sudden that Ruben jumped in alarm. She lashed out and slugged Li Moon in the gut, bringing the vixen down onto her knees with her hands tightly clutching her stomach in pain. She coughed loudly as if trying to say something but not managing much more than a loud cough. Matilda shook her head sadly and she helped Li Moon up onto her feet, the vixen still clutching her gut in pain.

"This won't do at all Li Moon." said Matilda "Your reflexes are weak. You'll need to work on them a bit."

"You say that as if I was...cough, cough...meant to expect what you did." croaked Li Moon "You kept still for so long that I wasn't prepared for your surprise attack."

"Ah, that's one of the many subtle tricks of the kung-fu expert that Master Kai taught me when he was alive." said Matilda "Lure your opponent into a false sense of security and trick them. Lash out when they least expect it and you'll be able to bring your opponent down before they've realized what's happened."

"Like this?" asked Li Moon in a rather innocent, sweet sounding voice.

Then she attempted to drive her elbow into Matilda's gut but the princess had expected that move. Whenever she told anybody that tactic, the first thing they did was attempt to attack her because she hadn't expected it. Well now she expected it and Li Moon found herself with her elbow firmly grabbed by Matilda's arm.

"Nice try Li Moon but I've fallen for that trick once already and it wasn't funny the first time." crowed Matilda.

She took Li Moon's legs out from underneath her with a swift kick to the ankles. Li Moon cried out a pained cry as her back sharply hit the ground and before she could even think about getting back up, Matilda pinned her down with her foot place firmly over Li Moon's chest. The princess smiled pityingly at Li Moon as if mocking her. Li Moon wasn't offended, she knew Matilda was just messing with her for a bit of fun. It's what friends did after all.

"You have to be unpredictable." said Matilda sternly "Trying the oldest trick in the book will NOT get you anywhere. Unpredictability will save your life one of these days. Believe me, I've had plenty of those moments."

"Alright then Matilda, I'll remember that." said Li Moon.

Matilda smiled and she let Li Moon go. Li Moon stood back up and shook hands with Matilda.

"It's been a great session today. Thank you." said Li Moon brightly "I think you're a great teacher so far."

"Oh believe me, I've been tutored BY a great teacher myself so it's something you kinda inherit from your master." said Matilda modestly "I wouldn't be such a great teacher if Master Kai wasn't a great teacher himself."

Li Moon shook her head, agreeing with Matilda's statement. Before anything else could be said, Ruben decided to let Matilda know he was here. He ran out to meet her. Matilda wheeled around upon hearing the sound of Ruben's pounding feet on the grass of her garden and Li Moon leaned to one side to see past Matilda. Both girls were thrilled to see the little water panther again.

"Hi Matilda! Hi Li Moon!" Ruben cried excitedly.

"Why Ruben, it's so good to see you!" exclaimed Matilda happily, hugging the water panther "I really wasn't expecting you to come around anytime soon. You've certainly surprised me."

"Guess Ruben know how to "Be unpredictable"." giggled Li Moon jokingly "Good to see you Ruben. What brings you here then?"

"I think I'll let Sonic explain everything." said Ruben.

Sonic seemed to respond to what Ruben had said for he emerged from around the side of the pagoda and walked up towards Matilda with Silver and Blaze following him. He waved at Matilda and then shook hands with her.

"Hi princess, good to see you again and especially with your pagoda fully rebuilt." said Sonic brightly "It must be great to be in your old home again."

"Oh I can't tell you how happy I am the pagoda's been rebuilt." beamed Matilda "Daddy and I have been over the moon about it. Bladefeather's happy too since the pagoda will be his new home after we get married."

"I bet he'll like that." said Sonic with a wink "And if it interests you Tilly, I have two new friends I'd like you to meet. Their names are Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat and they're helping us Royal Fighters with something at the moment." he added, stepping aside so Matilda could see Silver and Blaze properly.

"Why hello there you two." said Matilda politely as she set her gaze upon Silver and Blaze "I don't believe we've ever met. My name's Dalon Matilda. Welcome to Chun-Nan Silver and Blaze."

"Thank you princess." said Silver, bowing down respectfully "It's quite nice to visit this lovely country. You must be very proud to rule over it."

"Proud doesn't begin to describe my love for my country." said Matilda with a happy smile on her face that seemed to stretch wider than what would be considered normal "So are you two new recruits for the R.F.S. then?"

"No, we're from the future." explained Blaze in a straight-to-the-point manner of speaking "Please do not dismiss us as crazy, we assure you that it's true. We've come back in time to help Sonic the Hedgehog prevent something terrible that will happen and end up dooming Mobius for years to come."

Matilda looked shocked to hear this. It was common knowledge how Matilda would get extremely anxious if she heard that something bad was going to happen to Chun-Nan but this was going to make her more anxious than ever before. Something dooms Mobius? That was worse than anything Matilda had ever heard in her life. The world ending was worse than anything that could happen to Chun-Nan. Li Moon caught the signs of Matilda's anxiety immediately and she put a hand on Matilda's arm to try and relax her. Blaze looked down at her feet in shame.

"I'm sorry…I didn't think that would disturb you so much." she said apologetically.

"Just remember that not everybody takes news like this as lightly as Sonic and friends." said Silver, shaking his head sadly "And Matilda seems to be one of those people."

"Something…happens…and…dooms…Mobius?!" shrieked Matilda. Her face was so pale that she looked like she had just risen from the dead "You mean...the world...ends?!" her body began to shake uncontrollably.

"According to Silver and Blaze, something happens and Mobius ends up being a wreck for over 200 years." explained Sonic "They've been desperately trying to find out what the cause of Mobius's end is and have gone back in time to try and help us prevent it. Some of their theories...have been inaccurate I'm sorry to say but they think they've got it this time. It's also related as to why we're here."

"Is it?" asked Li Moon "Please tell us everything."

"Me and Blaze think the thing that ends the world is caused by Dr. Eggman." Silver exposited "We read in a history book that a ship he builds called "The Death Egg" fires a beam at Mobius and probably destroys most of it. We're here to find the Death Egg and also get rid of any refuelling stations it has so that it'll have nowhere to run or hide from us. There's a station in Chun-Nan apparently and we're wondering if you know anything about it."

"Refuelling station...hmm...I know what you're talking about." murmured Matilda, her anxiety seemingly under control now "We saw a huge metal building standing in the middle of the Bamboo Forests and it has a logo baring Eggman's hideous face on it. Bladefeather went over to investigate it a couple of hours ago but he hasn't returned yet. I was thinking about going after him after Li Moon's training session."

"So Bladefeather's over at the refuelling station already?" asked Sonic "Cool. Is Mushu with him?"

"No. Bladefeather insisted he went alone." said Matilda gravely "Which explains why I, his fiancée, didn't go with him. He's been gone for too long now though so like it or not, I'm coming after him and Mushu's coming with me."

"Well we're here to destroy the refuelling station Matilda so we'd like to come with you too." said Ruben, tugging lightly on Matilda's dress "That station will be as good as destroyed with us helping you."

"It certainly will." said Matilda agreeably "I've seen enough of Sonic to know how well he can fight and I've heard many rumours on his destructive capabilities. And your water powers will be useful against a metal building Ruben. As for you two…what powers do you have?" she asked, addressing Silver and Blaze.

"I have psychokinesis and Blaze his pyrokinesis." explained Silver "Basically, I'm psychic and Blaze has fire powers. Believe me when I say they'll be very useful against our enemies."

"I look forward to seeing your powers in action." said Matilda gleefully "So, let's get Mushu and get going to the station."

"Hey, can I come too?" asked Li Moon eagerly "Get a chance to test out what I've learned so far?"

"I would have said no in any other circumstance Li Moon but because I have very reliable friends who I'm sure will take good care of you, I'm going to allow you to come." said Matilda kindly "It's not that I don't think you'll be very good on your own, it's just I don't think you're ready to handle things by yourself. Sonic and friends will keep an eye on you in case I'm unable to aid you in battle my friend."

"Oh, OK." said Li Moon, looking slightly disappointed but trying her best to remain polite about it "I hope that what I've learned so far will be enough."

"It'll depend on the opponent mostly but we'll see." said Matilda "Everybody, follow me. Once we pick up Mushu, we'll get going to the station. I know where it is."

"We'll follow your lead than Tilly, let's do it to it!" cried Sonic excitedly.

Glad to see that everybody was ripped and rearing to go, Matilda ran off around the pagoda and headed into the village to find Mushu with the Royal Fighters and Li Moon following her. One thought began to run through Matilda's mind as they were preparing for their mission. Hopefully what happened today would be enough to prevent the supposed apocalypse that was coming in the future…

Over in the Bamboo Forests, there were a horde of Egg-Pawns patrolling the area with shields and lances in their hands. They marched around in unison, keeping a close eye out for any signs of intruders who dared to wonder into their territory. And this was territory worth defending for this territory was home to the last and biggest of the Death Egg refuelling stations that had been built all over the world. This was meant to be the main Death Egg refuelling station. All the others were just pit-stops, this station was meant to be a pit-stop and more. The Chun-Nan Death Egg refuelling station dwarfed all the other stations, even the one in Adabat in height. It was a huge tower that stretched to be about twice the height of Eiffel Tower. What made it even larger was that the tower itself was standing proudly atop a huge rectangular base that housed the station's controls. A huge landing pad stood behind the station. The Death Egg would touch down on that pad and refuel and because of the tall tower, worker bots could perform maintenance checks and repairs on the upper parts of the Death Egg. The Royal Fighters could only imagine the size of the Death Egg once it reached completion and took to the skies at last and this station would clinch it for them how big the Death Egg really was. The station had the usual defensive measures such as gun turrets on the sides of the towers and around the base. They would shoot if somebody so much as stepped a toe into the station's territory. If the gun turrets didn't kill any intruders than the Egg-Pawns on guard most certainly will. They looked like they were ready to stab anybody with their lances if they so much as looked at them. This was the most important refuelling station of all the ones Eggman had built so the tight security was hardly unjustified. There was one guard that the Royal Fighters would fear more than the Egg-Pawns though. And that was Eggman's loyal servant bot Katherine. She had been troublesome for the Royal Fighters since the day she had been constructed and the main reason as to why Dr. Eggman keeps cheating death. She'd saved his life when it looked like the crash of the Egg-Carrier had finally finished him off and continued to remain loyal to Dr. Eggman. She was honoured to have been given the task of guarding the Chun-Nan Death Egg refuelling station and would guard the station with her very life. As of now, she was making a report to Dr. Eggman. She had some very exciting news to give him. She tapped some buttons on the computer monitor and waited for Dr. Eggman to respond to her call. The screen was blank for a few seconds before it finally lit up with the head section of Dr. Eggman's life support mech filling the space of the screen. Eggman greeted Katherine with a hearty chuckle as if the very sight of Katherine was enough to put him in a good mood.

"Ah, good afternoon Katherine!" chortled Eggman happily "And how's my lovely assistant today?"

"I am very good THANK YOU VERY MUCH Dr. Eggman. " Katherine pieced some clips of pre-recorded voices together to form the sentence "I come bearing very good news for you."

"If my lovely Katherine has good news for me, then it's going to be good news worth hearing about!" cackled Eggman excitedly "Go on then, let's hear it!"

Katherine displayed an image of an evil smile on her cactus-shaped visor as she delivered her news.

"I have MANAGED TO CAPTURE a kung-fu warrior. I believe he HAS TIES WITH THE Royal Fighters. " explained Katherine.

"Who is it?" asked Dr. Eggman.

"His name is Bladefeather ." replied Katherine.

"I remember him…we kidnapped him along with that princess and the emperor of Chun-Nan didn't we?" mused Dr. Eggman. Pleasant memories of the planning stage for Operation: Double Trouble came back to him "Yes…we strapped him along with Matilda and the emperor to a missile that we were planning on launching at New Mobotropolis! I should have expected resistance from Chun-Nan's local heroes given I've built a station in their territory. I'd like to see Bladefeather if you please Katherine."

Katherine nodded and she switched off the computer monitor. She left the room and headed upstairs to one of the upper floors of the station. The base had three floors and after the third floor, it was the tower from all the way up. The second floor housed a prison cell that was used to house any prisoners that the Eggman Empire could possibly have use for. Katherine pressed a button that opened up the prison door and she walked inside. The room was a huge room that had a very long drop. The only grounding in the room was a walkway bridge that led to a huge glass prison cell that stood on the edge of the bridge with a few supporting rods keeping it in place. Near the entrance to the prison room was a control panel that would open or close the cell. The cell itself was a capsule that had a metal top and metal bottom but a sheet of glass all around. It was Diamond Glass, the toughest glass on Mobius and the cell had one solitary prisoner. That prisoner was Bladefeather the Falcon, Matilda's betrothed and one of Chun-Nan's most loyal and fearsome warriors. His Thousand Daggers technique made him a force to be reckoned with but it seemed that not even his skills could save him from this one. He'd been captured while snooping around the station and was being held captive in the cell. He stood in the cell, scowling at Katherine as she approached him.

"What do you want you foul, repugnant female?" snarled Bladefeather.

"The maser wants to see you. " Katherine said with a montage of voice clips.

"Just my luck I guess, I now have to put up with the mad doctor's pontificating do I?" sighed Bladefeather "Well apprise your conniving, vexing master that I harbour no interest in meeting with him."

Katherine ignored him and she displayed Eggman's face on her visor. His face was bathed in a red glow due to being inside a red life support mech and somehow the red face looked more frightening than his normally coloured face.

"Hello Bladefeather, I think you've been a naughty boy since Katherine's put you in a cell." crowed Eggman "What have you done wrong then?"

"Dr. Eggman, I am not interested in exchanging discussions with a baneful fiend like you." snapped Bladefeather "Kindly leave me in peace and I won't have to put a dagger through your filthy robot's head."

"Oh, ho, ho, ho! Just try it feather brain and you'll regret it!" sneered Dr. Eggman "You're behind a thick sheet of Diamond Glass! You can't hurt Katherine!"

"My daggers can cut through Diamond Glass." gloated Bladefeather "Were it not for the inconvenient fact that if I so much as scratch the glass, the cell will collapse and take me with it onto a giant fan down below, I could cut my way out of this cell without a problem. Pity you've made such a simple escape attempt infinitely more onerous with that feature."

Dr. Eggman knew full well what the falcon was talking about. He'd installed that feature himself when the station was nearing completion. The idea was to make sure that escape was impossible and given how trying to escape a cell like this was pretty much a method of suicide, it seemed he'd succeeded. Bladefeather hadn't attempted to break out of the cell for he valued his life too much to just waste it to a giant fan at the bottom. As for the fan itself, it was a huge fan with six sharp blades and it was spinning menacingly down below and filling the room with an ominous whirr. To Bladefeather it was like being kept in a cage and dangled above a dangerous animal, said animal being a giant fan and probably more dangerous than any animal he could possibly name. Eggman cackled again at Bladefeather.

"Exactly! So I'm free to gloat to you as much as I want my prisoner!" gloated Eggman.

"Fine, then I shall just take it upon myself to ignore your mindless bragging." snorted Bladefeather, turning his back on Katherine and giving her the cold shoulder.

"I wouldn't do that if I were you." warned Eggman, a soft but menacing tone dominating his voice as he spoke "I might ask Katherine to carve your name on the glass. I don't think she'll even manage to write the first letter before it falls though!"

"Of all the...fine." sighed Bladefeather, turning back around to face Katherine "What do you want then?"

"Just to make fun of how helpless you are." sneered Eggman "And to let you know what this station's purpose is. I'm sure you're interested to know right?"

"The purpose of this station is not a question I am pursuing to find the answer to." grumbled Bladefeather "But knowing you, you'll tell me anyway you obnoxious, gluttonous waste of existence."

"I'll ignore that disgusting insult for it's not worth my anger at this time." said Dr. Eggman coldly "This station serves as a refuelling port for my upcoming vessel of destruction, the Death Egg."

"That has got to be the most childish name I've ever heard of for a ship." scoffed Bladefeather "It's no wonder we kung-fu warriors see you as nothing more than a joke."

"You'll change that attitude of yours once I tell you that the Death Egg will roboticize the entire world!" snapped Eggman "Once it takes off and enters space, I shall fire a world roboticizer and turn the entire world into a robot utopia just for me and me only to rule!"

"How predictable." sniffed Bladefeather "You already tried that pernicious scheme of yours last year and we were all restored by a fortuitous turn of events. It'll be stopped again."

"That's what YOU think!" gloated Eggman "Nobody knows where my Death Egg and by the time they find out, it'll be too late! The Royal Fighters will never see it coming and I shall be victorious!"

"You underestimate my allies." said Bladefeather coldly "How many times has the magnanimous Sonic the Hedgehog put an end to your insane plans of world domination? More times than numbers can possibly calculate. You will be stopped again Dr. Eggman."

"We'll see about that..." purred Eggman confidently "I'll leave Katherine on guard here and if anybody tries to rescue you...I'll see to it that she sends you to your grave."

